INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM

BENEFITS THE PEOPLE

Western Man Explains What Term Means

PREVENTS MISREPRESENTATION

Voters Would be Able Not Only to Stop Bad but to Secure Good Legislation. —Legislators Power to do as They Please Would be Gone.

Speaking of the benefits to the people of the initiative and referendum, a term much heard nowadays, a prominent Western man had this to say:

"The initiative is the proposal of a law by the people. The referendum is the submission of the law to the people at the polls for approval or rejection. By these means the people can start to stop legislation at will. By initiative petition they can bring a measure forward for discussion and decision. They can repeal an old law, amend it, or enact a new one, and progress is no longer barred by the interest or inertia of the legislators or councilmen, nor by the weight and wealth of corporate monopoly. Moreover, the people can prevent bad legislation as well as secure good legislation. If the legislature passes a law the people dislike they call for referendum and veto the measure at the polls before it goes into effect, whereas at present the law goes into effect whether the people like it or not, and they have to wait till they can elect a new legislature to repeal the obnoxious act, after the damage is largely done, perhaps.

"If said act is a franchise, very likely it cannot be revoked at all when once allowed to take effect, a franchise grant to a private company being a contract within the protection of the Federal constitution, a fact which makes it particularly necessary that the franchise grants should be submitted to the people.

"Does not the direct legislation amendment to the representative system solve the problem? Does not the guarded representative system retain the benefits of and eliminate the evils of the unguarded representative system? The city or State will have its body of legal experts, trained advisers, and experienced legislators as at present. They will continue to do most of the law-making as now, but their power to do as they please, in spite of the power to do as they please, in spite of the people, will be gone. The City and State will have the service of its legislators without being subject to their mastery. If the delegates act as people wish, their action will not be disturbed. If they act against the people's wish, the people will have a prompt and effective veto, by which they can stop a departure from their will before any damage is done. If the legislators do not act, the people can put the machinery in motion."

31,000 Miles of Type.

More than 3,000 tons of type metal were used in composition at the Government Printing office during the last year, according to the recent figures given out.

If the type used during the past year were laid end to end it would reach 31,000 miles. Composed into the regulation document page of ten-point type, it would be more than 980,000 pages. One hundred and two thirty-ton cars would be required to remove the year's supply of metal.

A Tremendous Ballot.

The voters of South Dakota at the election of November 8 will have submitted to them the longest ballot to be voted in any State in the Union. The ballot will measure more than seven feet, and will contain proposed laws which are to be submitted to the voters under the referendum amendment to the State constitution. It will be fourteen inches in width.

Reads Upside Down.

Charles W. Searles, Millbury, Mass. reads newspapers and magazines upside down from choice, because when he was a boy he learned to read them that way so that the other boys in school would not look over his shoulder and make him nervous.

Mr. Searles is nearly eighty, and he holds the paper or magazine upside down and reads aloud from it in a clear and rapid flow of words.

Claude Grahame-White, flying for the Royal Aero Club of the United Kingdom, lifted the Gordon Bennett international speed trophy for aviators from the custody of America, in the fastest time ever covered for the full distance of 100 kilometers—62.14 miles.

T. R. ON APPOINTMENTS

Disapproves of Senatorial Influence

POT CALLING THE KETTLE BLACK

More "Personal Pull" Necessary in the Service During the Rule of the Big Stick Than Ever Before.

Army officers will read with appreciation the evident reformation of Mr. Roosevelt, says the Army and Navy Register. In his recent political utterances nothing is more striking to those of the service than some casual, perhaps careless, remarks attributed to him on a public appearance at Nashua, N. H. He referred in characteristic terms of disapprobation to "a man who was made a general and showed his uniform only on Broadway and not in battle," and he went on to speak of men who were promoted because of senatorial influence. This is refreshing, coming from Mr. Roosevelt, during whose term as president there were more manifestations of the advantage of using personal "pull" than in almost any other administration. It became necessary, then, to get influence, regardless of service and seniority, and, in fact, as an aid to those qualifications, if any one in the military establishment expected to be recognized when there was a vacancy to be filled by appointment on the part of Mr. Roosevelt. Most people do not remember this situation, of which the newspapers had so much to say at the time, and those who hear Mr. Roosevelt's present assertions applaud them as indications of political virtue which would be a welcome change in the existing state of affairs. It does not necessarily follow that a President is bound to appoint, for instance, the senior colonel of the line to the grade of brigadier general, but there are assuredly enough colonels of infantry, cavalry, and artillery of the proper record to furnish a list of qualified candidates without any such abnormal jumping of juniors over seniors to which Mr. Roosevelt was addicted purely by the exercise of influence. If Mr. Roosevelt is to return to the White House, as some people think is possible—an event which with some will take on the aspect of a hope, while others will regard it with apprehension—it is a comfort to know that influence may be less potent.

CORNERSTONE OF CATHEDRAL

CHAPEL LAID AT CAPITAL

Memorial To The Late Bishop Henry Yates Satterlee, of Washington, Who Inaugurated The Cathedral.

Hundreds of Episcopal clergymen and lay representatives from every Episcopal church in the Diocese of Washington took part in the impressive services in connection with laying the cornerstone of Bethlehem Chapel at St. Albans, D. C., on Tuesday.

The services began with an imposing procession of over a hundred men in white vestments, consisting of clergymen and choristers, a cross-bearer leading the way and twenty members of the United States Marine Band, in vestments, playing the hymns, whose refrain was taken up by all the waiting spectators. Bishop Harding, of the Diocese of Washington, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim, led the services, which were short and adapted from the ritual in the prayer-book.

The cornerstone of the chapel was swung in its place by Henry Yates Satterlee, second, grandson of the first Episcopal Bishop of Washington, who laid the foundation-stone on the Feast of St. Michael and All Angels, A. D., 1906.

The sermon was preached by Rev. C. H. Brent, D. D., of the Philippine Islands.

Bishop Brent took for his text "A little child will lead them," in regard to the important event which had just transpired.

Bethlehem Chapel will be one of the handsomest places of worship in connection with the Cathedral, which will eventually crown St. Albans Heights. General Kasson's legacy will enable the Cathedral Chapter to organize the staff and actively to prosecute all the work of the Cathedral. The chapel will be a memorial to Bishop Satterlee.

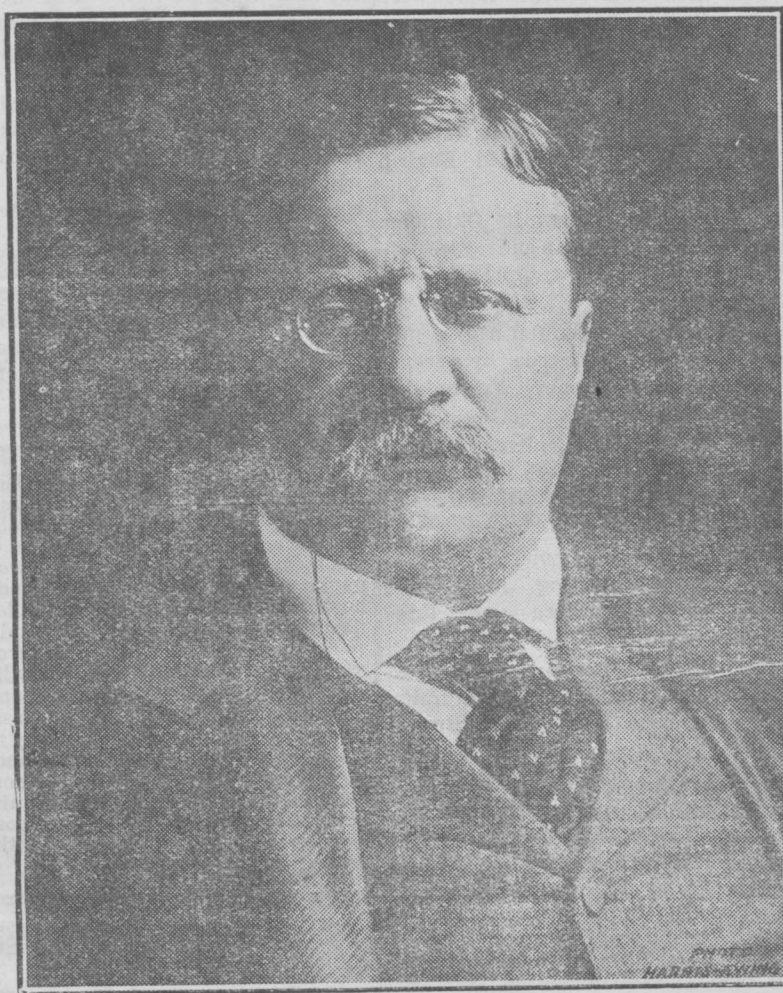

Bethlehem Chapel was intended by Bishop Satterlee to be the first part of its construction special attention at the time of his death.

After winning a fight for lower freight rates, by two years constant effort, Western shippers are to be pushed back to their starting point through action just taken by the railroads, as the limit of the Inter-State Commerce Commission's control on these rates is about to expire.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT SPEAKS

TALKS ON RELIGION EDUCATION AND POLITICS

Given a Warm Welcome in Baltimore Where He is Heard By Large Audiences.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was in Baltimore on Wednesday. He made two speeches, the first in the afternoon to Goucher College students and alumnae, and others in the First Methodist Episcopal Church. The former President of the United States spoke in part, as follows:

I have had more or less experience with academic education at home and abroad. I must confess that I have some trepidation in addressing such an audience as this. Now if you girls were boys I would know how to handle you. [Laughter.] In my family there are both boys and girls. The boys have been under my domain.

It is not necessary that I should tell you that I believe in the education of women to the highest degree, for I do. I believe in the same high standards in education and equal facilities in education for men and women. I cannot understand how parents can fail to see that a daughter ought to be educated up to the same high degree as a son.

I cannot imagine a man wholly happy unless he can find happiness in books, but a man who can find happiness in books only lacks two-thirds of the real enjoyment of life. Let every young man and every young woman remember that the college career is but the beginning of a complete education. The boy who comes out of college a dilettante, who shirks the duties which the world imposes is a failure and a disappointment to his family and friends. He is a positive damage to his family and to humanity. [Applause.]

Every woman has the same rights to higher education as the man, and for the same purposes in life. I want to see the college boy with the broad culture so essential to our nation, but culture must not be a substitute for manliness. I want to see the college boy so trained that he can go into the world and perform his duties in business, in politics, in public life, in whatever sphere he may choose. I want that training to be such that he will be a better husband, a better father. I don't want his college training to be a substitute for home making and home training. The same is true of the college girl. If you understand and use aright your advantages, yours will be the power to do great good in the world.

I have frank contempt for the woman who, though cultivated, is not a good housekeeper, a good wife and good mother. Properly cultivated and educated women do the most for their husbands and their children. Where could you find a better example of this kind of cultivated woman than in Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who recently died. She wrote the most beautiful short poem that was ever penned in the English language. She was a leader in every uplifting movement. She was a leading citizen. She was a model housekeeper, wife and mother. Her husband and children arose and called her blessed. I believe in the force of example. Our girls may not be able to attain all the perfections of Mrs. Howe, but they might try.

I want you girls to be so trained that you will not lose your gentleness. Be alive to your rights. Be more alive to your duties. If I could preach a moral I would say attend to your duties. I want men to think of the rights of women. If you attend to your duties you will be pretty apt to get your rights.

In the evening Mr. Roosevelt was the principal speaker at a meeting held at the Lyric under the auspices of the Missionary Society of the Methodist

BALTIMORE'S AVIATION MEET

Thousands of People, Including Many Prominent Ones, Witness Very Thrilling Flights.

Wednesday the big Aviation Meet, so long ago heralded and for which great preparations were made, began at Baltimore under the most favorable auspices. The weather was right, the arrangements perfect and the sport all that could have been asked for.

Society turned out in full force and in full regalia. All of Baltimore's Smart Set were in evidence and from Washington and other cities came train loads of enthusiasts—all bent on seeing the extraordinary flights of the wonderfully daring "Bird men" who were to astonish and interest ten thousand people with their flights.

Among the distinguished visitors on the field were Governor Crothers and his staff, Attorney-General Straus, Mayor and Mrs. Mahool, President Numsen, of the Second Branch City Council, City Register J. Sewell Thomas and many officers of the Fourth and Fifth Maryland Regiments. One of the most interested spectators was Cardinal

Gibbons who arrived shortly after the Governor, accompanied by Rev. Louis O'Donovan and Mr. J. Albert Hughes. Owing to the delay in the arrival of some of the scheduled aviators the first day's programme was considerably changed, but the splendid exhibition resulting from this new arrangement afforded the anxious and eager crowd all the excitement they wanted and turned the exhibition into a test of two makes of machines, Charles F. Willard and Eugene Ely navigating Curtiss biplanes, and J. Armstrong Drexel and James Radley operating Blériot monoplanes.

Some idea of the speed and height attained by these conquerors of the air may be gleaned from the following card:

2.20 P. M.—Charles F. Willard makes altitude and duration flight, covering 60 miles an hour for 8 laps at an altitude of 2,500 feet.
2.25 P. M.—Eugene Ely makes dis-

POINTS BROUGHT OUT

Cost of High Living As Told By Beefsteak.

ON WHOM THE EXPENSE FALLS

Everything Used in Cooking, Seasoning, Serving and Eating, This Meat Contributes to Special Interests.

An epicurean reader of the New York World, according to the Richmond Times Dispatch, has been estimating the effect of the tariff on the history of beefsteak, and his findings are most interesting.

The tariff on beefsteak alone is 12 cents the pound. That is not so bad. Yet there are other things to be considered, Mr. Consumer. The butcher sliced up that steak with a knife that is taxed 40 per cent, and chopped it with a cleaver that is taxed as much. The wooden chopping block is taxed 35 per cent. The scales on which the steak is weighed are taxed 45 per cent, and the paper in which it is wrapped is taxed 35 per cent.

The kitchen period of the career of the steak comes next. It is cooked on a stove taxed 45 per cent. It is trimmed with a knife taxed 40 per cent or more. It is broiled on utensils taxed 40 per cent. It lies on a platter taxed 55 per cent, and a plate taxed 50 per cent. The knife and fork are taxed at least 40 per cent, if not more. The pat of butter is taxed 6 cents the pound. The pepper is taxed a fifth of a cent, an ounce. The Worcestershire sauce is taxed 40 per cent. The prepared mustard is taxed five-eighths of a cent an ounce. The celery is taxed 40 per cent. The salt is taxed one-tenth of a cent the pound. The pickles are taxed 40 per cent, the apple sauce, 35 per cent.

That is putting an average duty of 40 per cent, upward on the table, but what are we going to do about it? Some of us would be fully satisfied if we could just get the steak without the "trimmings," leaving off the tax—but we all have to pay together. The chronicle of beefsteak, however, is pretty good evidence as to the cause of the high cost of living.

The Duke of Veragua is dead. He represented Spain in 1782 at the American celebration in honor of Columbus, whose last descendant he was said to be.

HEBREW PROMOTED THE FIRST VOYAGE OF COLUMBUS.

Five Jews Were With The Discoverer In Nine of Thirteen Original Colonies Jewish Settlers Were Found

In a paper on "Early American Jewish History" read before the New England Historic-Genaeological Society in Boston Mr. Lee M. Friedman quoted the following as the beginning of Columbus, journal:

"After the Spanish monarchs had expelled the Jews from their kingdoms and lands in January, in that same month they commissioned me to undertake the voyage to India with a properly equipped fleet."

He said that with Columbus on his first voyage there were at least five Jews, among them being Luis de Torres, who acted as interpreter, and Maeshe Bernal Marco, ship's physician. Luis de Santangel, chancellor of the royal house of Aragon, paid the 17,000 ducats (without interest) that aided Columbus to sail to America. It was to him that Columbus sent his first message that he had discovered a new country.

Mr. Friedman said that in nine of the thirteen original colonies Jewish settlers were to be found. In 1654 the first Jews settled in New York. One Hayman Levy taught the fur business to John Jacob Astor. The first Jewish settlers in Rhode Island came in 1657, but Massachusetts had Jews as early as 1640. In 1634 Mr. and Miss Isaacs settled in Cambridge, and in 1638 Mr. Isaacs held a town position there. Judah Monis was the first professor of Hebrew at Harvard. He received a master's degree as early as 1700. Mr. Friedman spoke of Hayman Solomon, who loaned the Continental Congress $600,000 to aid Washington while at Valley Forge. He said the interest and sum itself has never been paid by the government.

Exclusive of the Panama Canal charges the government receipts for the month were $55,266,441 and the expenditures were $58,560,323, which left a deficit in ordinary operations of $3,293,882. Add to that sum the month's cost of the work on the canal and $5,295,083 stands on the wrong side of the ledger. The close of September has shown a total surplus of more than $1,400,000 and it was the first time in the present fiscal year that the Government took in more than it paid out.

GREAT FUTURE OF THE SOUTH

ITS BIG DEVELOPMENT

Report of the Southern Commercial Congress.

STATE OF MARYLAND INCLUDED

Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, and other States to be Advertised.

The Southern Commercial Congress, inaugurated in Washington two years ago, is planning to develop the South by a campaign of systematic advertising exploiting the opportunities of that vast territory of resource below the Mason-Dixon line. The scope of the plan is shown by the Washington Herald which says:

It is very evidently an awakened South that attracts the attention of the country to-day—a South that has become aware of its own capabilities, that recognizes the neglect of its opportunities of the past; a South determined to take its rightful place in the march of progress. Atlanta, Ga., saw a conference of Southern business men last month; a conference held under the auspices of the Southern Commercial Congress; itself a comparatively new organization, looking to the development of the Southern States. In the report of that conference it was stated:

"The people of the South have realized for some time that, while the ultimate development of their section is certain, the speed of that development and their own share of credits and profits thereof depend largely on their own efforts. The purpose of the Congress has been to quicken and co-ordinate the Southern efforts in that direction."

This movement toward the development of the South is of comparatively recent birth. It began with a meeting of Southern business men in this city in December, 1908. As a result of that meeting an office was opened in Washington from which could be sent out public statements as to the advantages and opportunities and resources of the South. The second convention was held in Washington in December, 1909; the next convention will be held in Atlanta in March, 1911.

It is largely publicity that the South wants, and it is to furnish this that the Washington office is maintained. It is, as a matter of fact, the same line of procedure as that adopted by the successful merchant who, having a good thing to sell, advertises it. What the South has needed and is now getting is advertising. Through its publicity office in this city, the South has expended in the three years since the establishment of that office only $20,843.20. Now it proposes to spend more money and to get larger successes, for, as one of the speakers at Atlanta said:

"Even if we are spent $50,000 a year (Continued on page 2.)"

Bread Gets Lower Rate.

A railroad "may properly apply a somewhat lower rate on bread than on cake," according to a decision made public yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This opinion was handed down by the commission in the case of a complaint brought by a Boston creamery concern against the Adams Express Company and other carriers. The carriers had imposed a certain rate on mixed shipments of bread and cake, which was lower than the rate on straight shipments of cake.

To Save Mammoth Cave.

Representative John W. Boehne, Indiana, and Representative Robert Thomas, of Central City, Ky., will undertake to induce the Federal government to buy Mammoth Cave, in Central Kentucky, in order to save it from the grasp of the railroad companies, which, it is said, have bought land all around the cave and expect to exploit it as a private monopoly.

Beall's Descendants Dispute Title.

Descendants of Col. Ninian Beall, founder of the "Rock of Dumbarton," the original site of Georgetown, D. C., have raised the question of validity of the title of the Federal Government to lands in the District of Columbia. Col. Beall and Archibald Thomas Edmonston originally owned most of the lands upon which Washington and Georgetown stand. Col. Beall was a distinguished figure in Maryland Colonial history.

Garnments which are being washed in flour must be treated exactly as if they were in the wash tub. They must be lifted out with as much flour in the folds as possible and rolled in a clean towel for a day. A good shaking and ironing will restore them.

Wash-leather gloves require yellow soap and lukewarm water—not hot. They should be dried on the hands or on wooden trees if possible, or in the sun or close to a fire. Like flannels the quicker they dry the better.

The People In Politics.

Convincing evidence of the strength and formidability of the insurgent movement in politics is at hand.

Progressive Republicanism prevails. Vermont, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, and Michigan furnish the evidence anew.

The revolt against old party leadership is not confined to spots—not local, but general—and the elections in November will undoubtedly produce a political upheaval such as the country has not known in years.

It is a day of independent thinking, of machine smashing, and of intolerance of the established order of things political. With independent thinking has come freedom of action and a breaking away from partisan tradition and conduct. The unrest throughout the land which we have been hearing about these many days is manifesting itself through the ballot, and manifesting itself decisively.

Whatever the partisan complexion of the next House of Representatives, it is clear now, clear as the day, that it will be a progressive body; and it is clear, too, that a marked change will be felt in the Senate.

Of the ultimate results, nobody can tell; but certainly there is a hopeful sign in the growing independence of the people and their determination to take a hand in the management of affairs.—Washington Herald.

Nothing Like Being Obliging.

A dry goods merchant advertises in the Great Bend, Kan., Tribune as follows: "If the woman who called at my store Saturday and told the clerk the story of her life, including two engagements, seven proposals, and two husbands, throwing in all the details about babies' whooping cough and how to make sponge cake, with the purchase of 10 cents' worth of buttons, will return to buy the dress to sew them on, a special clerk will be engaged to sell it to her, and hear the rest of her life's story. We cater to the trade, and not only keep in stock all that women of good taste could desire, but we aim to hire clerks for the special purpose of hearing a life story thrown in with every five-cent purchase."

Renovating.

Wash black stockings in weak suds to which has been added one tablespoonful of ox-gall; rinse until no color runs and iron on the wrong side.

Silk handkerchiefs should be washed in salt water and ironed while wet, to make them look well; ribbons can be treated in the same way.

A heaped-up teaspoonful of chloride of lime dissolved in one quart of water will remove the stains of mildew; the cotton should be rinsed in clear water as soon as all the stains have disappeared.

Black serge and cashmere dresses are improved and cleaned by being sponged with this mixture: A tablespoonful of ammonia and one of spirits of wine to three tablespoonfuls of boiling water.

Black silks are much improved in looks by having the dust removed by rubbing with a clean towel, then sponged on the wrong side with the following mixture: A teaspoonful of soft water and eight drops of liquid ammonia.

Instead of tossing a veil into a crowded drawer to lie in a tumbled heap until wanted, stretch it carefully over a bit of card-board or other stiff material, like it is kept in stores.

To clean a mackintosh cloak, lay it flat on a board or table, take a brush such as we use for scrubbing clothes, some lukewarm water in a basin and some plain yellow soap. Thoroughly brush the cloak both right and wrong sides until all dirty marks disappear, then rinse thoroughly in two or three cold waters and hang up to dry. Must not hang near a fire, or where it will freeze.

GREAT FUTURE OF THE SOUTH.

that figure would be a trifle; it does not mean much more than $20 out of each county. Suppose we increase the value of the South by such means just 1 cent an acre, we increase the value of the South $6,000,000, and you know just as well as I that the creation of demand for Southern opportunity will increase the value of Southern lands on an average of $10 an acre, or $6,000,000,000 at the very least."

And so the Southern Commercial Congress has come into being, and as a result the opportunities and advantages offered by Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia will be advertised broadcast to the world.

But more than that, this organization of wide-awake Southern business men proposes to work for the betterment of country roads, to invite railroad construction, to encourage and foster patriotic and national sentiment so as to do away with last feeble traces of sectionalism; to promote the improvement of educational and other conditions that make for material happiness and welfare and to invite immigration, so that there may be an abundant supply of labor.

With such forces at work, the development of the Southern States cannot be much longer delayed. The South has vast forest reserves untouched; millions of acres of fertile land uncultivated; enormous water-power unutilized. Her potential wealth is tremendous, and all that it needs is men and brains, hard work and real endeavor, to make the South the garden spot nature intended it to be.

tion and bring the matter to a decision. When the legislators truly represent the people, their action will stand; when they fail to represent the people, their decision will be subject to prompt revision.

"To-day their acts that do not represent the people's will stand as firm during their term of office as the acts that do represent the popular will. Is this right? Is it right that the people's delegates should be able to impose their will upon the people for one, two, four, or six years? Is it right that the acts of delegates contrary to the will of the people should stand in spite of the people? Is such a delegate system really worthy to be called a 'representative system? Is a system properly termed representative which may misrepresent as much or more than it represents, and in which there is no adequate means of determining whether its action is representative or not? Is not the right to a referendum, the right of the people to prevent the delegates from misrepresenting them, absolutely necessary to entitle the delegate system to the name 'representative?'"

Money Saving Possibilities on Seasonable Goods

DRESS SILKS

If you want to get away from the bug-a-boo of the high cost of living—buy Silks from this great Silk stock of ours. Never in the past twenty years have we been able to give the values in Staple Dress silks that we can at this time—for instance for

A Good Black Crispy Petticoat Taf-feta, 32 inches at 75 cts.

Black and Colored Taffetas, 35 inches wide at $1.00

Black 35 inch Taffetas $1.25 & $1.50 at.....

There is a quality value on these Silks of at least 25 cents per yard as compared with a little while ago.

Persian Silks and Persian Printed Satins

The scarcity of these goods in the primary market is such that we cannot count on duplicating any of our present stock—several New Satin Prints just now in.

26 inch wide - - - - - $1.25

26 " Printed Warp - - - - - $1.25

19 " " Cotton Black Satin .50

THE SATIN FAMILY

is fully represented in our stock, with the same price advantage right through—

Messalines, Poie de Soies, Satin Duchess, Cashmere de Soies, &c.

For instance 36 inch wide Black Messaline $1.12 1-2

was very recently $1.25—beautifully finished—altogether away from the shoe shine effect often found in Messalines. This grade of Messaline wears well and looks right.

19 inch All Silk Plaids 50 Cents Special Values

ANOTHER SAVING

36 inch wide Cashmere de Soie, Black and Colors $1.25

Sold freely at $1.50 per yard out of our stock as late as October 15th, and is sold at that price now elsewhere. Cashmere de Soie is a Twill Black with a rich satin finish—not too bright—very soft and yet heavier than Messaline.

Colored Messaline, and this is an Exceptional wearing silk.

Silk Satin Duchess, 26 inches 90 & $1.00 wide.....

All the wanted colors for day and evening gowns.

A Dream and Its Sequel.

"In one of the East Indian border wars there was engaged an officer of high reputation, the member of an ancient county family," says Mrs. Mayo in "Recollections of Fifty Years." One night the laird, its head, started from his sleep, exclaiming:

"There's the shot that has killed my brother!"

"His wife told him it was but a dream. He must have given an anxious thought to his brothers before going to sleep. Next day the pair were in the garden directing their gardeners when the laird suddenly exclaimed:

"Do you hear the bagpipes?"

"No," answered the lady. "I can hear nothing. I am sure there is no sound."

"Strange," said the laird, "for I can even hear what is played. It is 'The Flowers of the Forest Are A' Wee Away.'"

"A few hours later came the telegram reporting that the brother had been shot down by some border warrior and over his lonely grave the men of his regiment had played the pathetic air whose mysterious echo seemed to have reached the laird."

Shakespeare's Definition of Poetry.

What a pity it is that Shakespeare ever used that phrase "fine frenzy!" It has become a fuddlesome factor in the framing of foolish fancies. It is to the honor of Shakespeare, however, that he came nearer to giving the world the true definition of poetry than has any other man, for he did explain what constitutes the true art of poetry making, and from this we are enabled to know what Shakespeare considered poetry. Curiously enough, it is in the very passage where Shakespeare uses that unfortunate phrase "fine frenzy." Let us quote:

The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown the poet's pen

Turns them to shapes and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

—Hudson Maxim's "Science of Poetry and Philosophy of Language."

Hard to Understand.

Supposing some one should spring this on you rapidly and ask you what it meant: "Mare zeat-toats-deer-zeat-toats-lam-sleat-ivy-lit-tie-kid-slea-ivy-too."

You would never think it was plain English, but it is. It is simply: "Mares eat oats; deers eat oats; lambs 'll eat ivy; little kids 'll eat ivy too."

You should say this over many times to yourself until you can roll it off very quickly, run the words together, and then when you try it on your friends they will have to confess that they can't understand it. They will feel quite foolish when you show them that it is common English and that it sounds odd only because the words are spoken fast and run in together. It is this running of the words in together which makes it hard for a foreigner to understand our language or us theirs.—Omaha World-Herald.

England's Greatest Mine Fire.

The most serious colliery fire ever known in Britain was undoubtedly that which broke out at the Tawd valley mine, near Preston, in 1872. Thousands of pounds were spent in trying to get the flames under control, but they overcame everything and consumed some millions of tons of coal. A wall ten feet in thickness was built round the affected parts, but the heat cracked the masonry and brought it down as fast as it was rebuilt. However, in 1897 the river Tawd overflowed its banks and went pouring down into the mine. No fire could withstand such an immense volume of water hurled upon it, and although the flames extended for 500 yards, they were quenched after having raged for a quarter of a century.—London Tit-Bits.

Preaching Monkeys.

The author of "The History of Brazil" tells of a species of monkey called "preachers." Every morning and evening these monkeys assemble in the woods. One takes a higher position than the rest and makes a signal with his fore paw. At this signal the others sit around him and listen. When they are all seated he begins to utter a series of sounds. When he stops these cries he makes another signal with his paw, and the others cry out until he makes a third signal, upon which they become silent again. This author, Mr. Maregrose, asserts that he was a witness to these preachings.

A Use For Him.

"That horse of yours looks terribly run down."

"Yes," replied Uncle Si Simlin.

"Why do you keep him?"

"Well, it's a kind of comfort to have him around. As long as I've got him I feel that there ain't much danger of my bein' cheated in a hoss trade."—Washington Star.

Not a Good Son.

Necessity turned sharply to invention.

"If I'm your mother," she said, "it's your duty to support me in comfort."

But invention, as we all know, usually dodges his duty.—Chicago Tribune.

[Editorial from The Chronicle, June 8, 1906.]

1910 NOVEMBER 1910 calendar table with days of the week and dates.

Communications intended for publication in this paper, letters of a business nature in relation to the Chronicle, and all orders for Job Printing to be done at this office should be addressed to THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE.

IN RE THE EXAMINER.

The Editor of THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE begs to present his compliments to the urbane, versatile and highly esteemed Editor of the Frederick Examiner and to express his very keen appreciation of the unusual compliment paid THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE and its owner last week in the columns of Frederick's estimable and widely distributed political organ.

The Editor of THE CHRONICLE is deeply impressed by this action of the Examiner's chief, in that that action is an avowed admission that the work of THE CHRONICLE in advocating the election of an out-and-out Marylander to represent this district—a policy unhappily not in accord with that of the Examiner—has been keenly felt throughout the county.

assume that in this very instance the highly esteemed Editor of The Examiner was placed in just such a position last week, for the Editor of THE CHRONICLE cannot conceive of the intelligence of the Editor of the Examiner being so unfaithful to him as to cause him to misconstrue any editorial appearing in THE CHRONICLE in reference to the present campaign.

What the Editor of THE CHRONICLE has repeatedly asserted during this campaign, and what he emphatically asserts now is that Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., has no claim whatever on the people of the Sixth District.

As far as the registration of Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., is concerned the Editor of THE CHRONICLE does not doubt for one instant that the name of the District of Columbia candidate is on the books of Montgomery county, but the Editor of THE CHRONICLE would ask the Editor of the Examiner how it got there.

The Editor of THE CHRONICLE takes great pleasure and pride in the fact that he did support Mr. Gist Blair in the primary, and he begs to assure the Editor of the Examiner that while it was a source of deep regret to him that Mr. Gist Blair failed to get the nomination, it was nevertheless a matter of great gratification to the Editor of THE CHRONICLE that he assisted in some slight degree in carrying Emmitsburg district for his personal friend, Mr. Blair, a gentleman and a scholar, and one who would have done honor to the Sixth District—a man of whom it has been said by some of the biggest men in the Republican Organization he was "far and away the best candidate of them all."

The Editor of the Examiner is quite correct in his assertion that the Editor of THE CHRONICLE is "body, boots and all" for Lewis. He is very much mistaken, however, in describing the action of the Editor of THE CHRONICLE as a "flop."

needs, the Editor of THE CHRONICLE very naturally (after the elimination of Mr. Blair and Mr. Hagner) supported, and continues to support, and advises others to support Mr. Lewis, the man of the people—the candidate chosen by the voters of four counties and not by one.

The Editor of THE CHRONICLE begs to call the attention of the Editor of the Examiner to the fact that all of the news articles appearing in THE CHRONICLE in opposition to Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., were reprints from other newspapers and duly credited to them, most of them being from the Republican organ of Montgomery county, where it would naturally be supposed Mr. Warner was best known.

With regard to any expression used in the editorial columns of THE CHRONICLE in connection with the organization of Frederick county being "unkind and ungentlemanly," the Editor of THE CHRONICLE prefers to leave the construing of his utterances to those better qualified to judge of their meaning and import than the Editor of the Examiner.

The Editor of THE CHRONICLE realizes full well that in the sense of actual and continued residence he is a "new comer" to Frederick county, having resided here a little less than five years. He would suggest to the Editor of the Examiner, however, that it very frequently happens that newcomers are able to more accurately perceive situations as they may exist than those who have been blindly following in partisan grooves for a much longer time.

In the matter of political jobs, about which the Editor of the Examiner seems so much concerned, the Editor of THE CHRONICLE hereby promises the Editor of the Examiner that in the event of Mr. Lewis' election, no political job will be applied for or accepted by the Editor of THE CHRONICLE that does not carry with it a salary every bit as large as that accruing from the "political job" he now holds.

It gives the Editor of THE CHRONICLE great pleasure to go on record as ascribing to Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., all those qualities with which the Editor of the Examiner has endowed him. The Editor of THE CHRONICLE is in no sense of the word hostile to Mr. Warner as a man, or to any member of the Frederick county organization as a man.

THE CHRONICLE has said at any time in respect of either.

The question at issue, in the very humble opinion of the Editor of THE CHRONICLE, is not how good, how clean, or how winning a man Mr. Warner is, not how astute or how estimable the organization is, but whether it is desirable to have as a Representative from the Sixth Congressional district, embracing five counties, a candidate unidentified with its traditions and its people—a candidate conceded by the organization itself to have been made by one man and one county as an alleged rebuff, as an alleged defi to one man's political enemy.

The residence of Col. C. Baker Clotworthy, member of the police board and commander of the Fifth Regiment, at Chattolane, in the Green Spring Valley, known as "The Briers," was destroyed by fire about daybreak Tuesday and but for the loud and insistent barking of a dog the occupants of the house might have lost their lives.

Mrs. Carrie Nation started a crusade against the pool rooms of Salisbury on Tuesday. Mrs. Nation said the greatest moral menace she had found upon the Eastern Shore was the poolrooms and billiard parlors, where young men congregate.

Col. James Howard, 78 years old, grandson of Gen. John Eager Howard, of Revolutionary fame, died at his home, 6 West Read street, Baltimore, after an illness of about a week of pneumonia. Colonel Howard was a veteran of the Civil War having served on the General Staff in the Confederate Army.

A decree has been signed by Judges Henderson and Motter in the Circuit Court appointing Percival M. Brown, Moses R. Walker and William L. Rawls receivers for the Metropolitan Investment and Building Company of Montgomery county. The bond was $20,000.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, following the survey for the low-grade line, which means the elimination of the Sand Patch tunnel for another, which permits the low grade, has right of way men on the ground ascertaining the measures and ownership of property. The proposed tunnel, which will be over two miles in length, will enter the mountain near what is known as Glade City, two miles east of Meyersdale.

The names of two young men of Relay, Md., are included in the list of 58 names added to the Carnegie hero list in the United States by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission at its Fall meeting. Thomas R. Dobson, aged 17 years, a patternmaker's apprentice, of Relay, Md., saved Laura A. Alberts and Josephine M. Herold, aged 16 and 14, respectively, from drowning at Baltimore, Md., September 19, 1908.

The Maryland Esperanto Association held its first annual election of officers last Sunday in the Union Trust Building, Baltimore. The following were elected for the ensuing year; William M. Keener, president; Miss E. W. Weems, Secretary, W. H. Wilhelm, treasurer, and Mrs. George W. Moss and Rev. James L. Smiley, of Annapolis, and Rev. Paul F. Hoffman and Mr. William S. Hamburger, members of the executive committee.

TO love justice, to long for the right, to love mercy, to pity the suffering, to assist the weak, to forget wrongs and remember benefits, to love the truth, to be sincere, to utter honest words, to love liberty, to wage relentless war against slavery in all its form, to love wife and child and friend, to make a happy home, to love the beautiful in art, in nature, to cultivate the mind, to be familiar with the mighty thoughts that genius has expressed, the noble deeds of all the world, to cultivate courage and cheerfulness, to make others happy, to fill life with the splendor of generous acts, the warmth of loving words, to discard error, to destroy prejudice, to receive new truths with gladness, to cultivate hope, to see the calm beyond the storm, the dawn beyond the night, to do the best that can be done and then be resigned—this is the religion of reason, the creed of science. This satisfies the brain and the heart—The Foundations of Faith.

Too Much Presidential Power.
If our Presidents, one after the other, shall, in order to win popular approval, resort to practices that will satisfy clamor, if they use the tremendous prestige of their office to coerce Congress, if members opposing the Presidential will shall be belittled and degraded before their constituents as unfaithful to their trust, if by such tactics Congress shall again and again be beaten into submission, will it not follow, in due course, that, having lost its power to resist the Executive department armed with the approval of a majority of the people, it will sink into a condition of helpless subservency.—North American Review.

Infantile Paralysis Increasing.
Reports on infantile paralysis from seventeen States, in response to requests of the Marine Hospital and Public Health Service, show that the disease is generally prevalent over the whole country.

In Iowa and Nebraska epidemics of the disease have caused great alarm, but they are now under control. In Massachusetts there were 118 cases in August and 114 in September.

The September Report of the District is not included in the bulletin. There were Ninety-three cases in the District in August, with eleven deaths.

Judge Baldwin, Democratic nominee for governor of Connecticut, has written a second letter to former President Roosevelt insisting on a retraction of certain statements against the courts.

Against Comic Supplements.
Instead of cultivating admirable traits in the child's character, the up-to-date pictures, said a teacher lately, taught the young that "it is cunning to throw water from an upper window upon and old person and to outwit an infirm old man." She said also: "Humor has its place in the literature of childhood, and it would be well if gifted writers for children could be found capable of substituting genuine fun for the coarse, vulgar type now so prominent. It is of the utmost importance that the picture or story for children shall have at its heart a spiritual truth, or, in other words, that it shall have a right motive. This truth may be any one of the many virtues, such as generosity, kindness, hospitality, courage, heroism, chivalry, etc. It should be worked out in terms of cause and effect, according to the immutable law of literature, the law of compensation, which rewards the good, and of retributive justice, which punishes the bad."

Moisant's Swift Flight.
On Sunday John B. Moisant, an American aviator, made the swiftest of three flights from Belmont Park, on Long Island, around the Statue of Liberty and back doing the distance in a little over 34 minutes. The course was 36 miles.

Former Consul General Robert J. Wynne declares English investors are fighting shy of American securities until after the elections.

PERSONALS

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them...

Mrs. Harry Hardman spent Wednesday with Mrs. Mary Hardman. Miss Mary Stambaugh and sister spent Wednesday at Loys. Mr. Norbert Mullen, who visited his parents in this place has returned to Cape Charles, Va.

JUST A REMINDER

Subscribers for THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE are as a rule—and it is a pleasure to state the fact—very punctual in paying their subscription bills.

Many pay them in advance; others remit the very day their subscriptions fall due. It happens every now and then, however, that some overlook the matter—not intentionally, and not from indifference. They simply forget it.

To the latter this notice is intended to appeal. It is not a dun, simply a reminder made necessary by the ruling of the Post Office Department.

The reason for it has been fully explained and it is taken for granted that all who are still in arrears will be courteous enough to settle promptly.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Speed, W. G. Speed, Jr., C. McNair Speed, Mrs. J. Arthur Nelson and Boyd Nelson spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Annan.

Dr. C. R. Foutz and Mrs. Foutz, Mr. and Mrs. G. Moritz Zepp and Mrs. Brown spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Annan.

Mrs. William Stahley and daughter, Frances left on Thursday for Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. John O'Connell, wife and children, and Mrs. O'Connell, of Montgomery, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson, of Hagerstown, spent several days with Mrs. Margaret Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Felix, of New York City, and Mrs. Reisman, of Waynesboro, are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Felix.

Miss Stella McBride, who has been visiting in Baltimore for some time, returned home on Monday.

Mr. John Gelwicks was in Frederick on Monday.

The Misses Ora and Lillie Brown and Messrs. Robert Burdner and William Seltzer spent Tuesday in Gettysburg.

FIRE AT BRADDOCK HEIGHTS

A fire of unknown origin broke out at Camp Schley Inn, Braddock Heights, on Tuesday and but for the heroic action of a number of brave women would have completely destroyed the property. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time and it looked as though serious results would follow.

Long Delayed Honor

The Polly a 60 ft. two masted schooner over a hundred years old, was honored by the Society of the U. S. Daughter of the War of 1812 who unveiled a bronze tablet in the cabin of the little vessel commemorating eleven prizes of war taken by the Polly. This little craft is still engaged in coastwise trade and is owned by Capt. J. H. Weldon. The Polly has girdled the world twice.

ELECTION DAY, TUESDAY

Few Instructions Relative to The Proper Casting of Ballot.

Next Tuesday is election day and every qualified voter should cast his ballot and in the proper manner so that he may be sure it will be counted. The following instructions may be of use: Polls open from 8 A. M. to 6 P. M.

See that the ballot given you is properly endorsed with the initials of the judge from whom you receive it. When the ballot is handed you your name should be called out distinctly.

Vote the ticket after you have retired to the private booth by making a cross (X) mark in the space provided to the right of the name of candidate for whom you desire to vote.

Make the mark entirely within the square provided for the purpose, if the cross mark extends beyond the square your ballot is worthless.

Do not make any other mark whatever on the ballot; if you do your ballot will not be counted.

Any mark whatever on the ballot except the cross mark (X), whether in the square or out it, will cause the ballot to be rejected.

Do not make a dot or circle or any other mark but cross (X) mark in the square.

If you mark any square on your ballot with any kind of mark other than the cross (X) mark entirely within the square, your ballot will not be counted.

Be sure not to deface or tear your ballot in any way.

If you make a mistake in marking it, do not attempt to make a correction; return it to the Judge and get another. You are entitled to a third ballot if the first two have been spoiled and returned, but you must not consume more than seven minutes in marking it.

Mark your ballot with indelible pencil which you will find in the election booth.

After marking your ballot, fold it exactly as it was folded when handed to you by the Judge, and give it to the ballot Judge without permitting anyone to see how you have marked it.

See that the Judge tears off the coupon and deposits the ballot in the ballot box before you leave the room.

Program of Literary Society

The Literary Society of the Emmitsburg High School met last Friday. The following program was rendered:

The meeting was opened by singing "Softly now the light of day." Clarence Seabrook was then appointed critic and Hazel Boller, Delbert Hospelhorn, and Samuel Keilholtz judges for the debate which was:

Resolved, That country life is more desirable than city life. The affirmative speakers were Charles Eichelberger, Emma Long and Elizabeth Rowe; the negative Robert Cook, Ruth Stull and Louise Beam. The debate was decided in favor of the negative and by the school in favor of the affirmative.

Recitations followed: "Sing Fan," Mary Ellen Eyster; "April Fool," Eva Gosnell; "Reveries in Church," Edith Ohler; "Some Little Drops of Water," Ruth Linn; "The Busy World," Mae Seiss; "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," Ned Annan; "The Rainy Day," Charles Fuss; "Mortality," Donald Agnew.

Select Readings: "He didn't mean it in that way," Wm. Frailey; "Little Faults," Jones Baker; "The Chicago Man," Lester Topper; "Absent Minded Bill," Flora Welty; "Five Minutes with Mr. Harrison," Frank Weant; "Hard to Please," Frank Topper; "A Selection," Eston White.

Compositions: "Our Associates," Hazel Boller; "Football Game," Rosanna Ohler; "Domestic Animals," Delbert Hospelhorn; "History," Clarence Seabrook; "Drink," Samuel Keilholtz.

Extemporaneous speeches were made as follows: "Manliness," Lawrence Mondorf; "Warrior vs. Statesman," Wm. Morrison; "High School This Year and Last," Bessie Dorsey.

Those on the Reading Circle were: Frank Shuff, Life of Poet; Mary Weant, Reading of Poem; Naomi Harbaugh, Discussion of Poem. James Russel Lowell was selected as the poet and "The First Snow Fall," the poem.

The meeting was followed by a reorganization of the society's office holders, the following were elected: Louise Beam was elected president; Lawrence Mondorf, vice-president and Delbert Hospelhorn secretary, and Naomi Harbaugh was elected critic for the following month.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Readings from THE CHRONICLE Standard Thermometer for week ending November 4.

Table with 4 columns: Day, 8 A. M., 12 M., 4 P. M. Rows include Friday, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday.

The Novelty Club was most delightfully entertained this week at the home of the Misses Louise and Vincenia Sebold. At this meeting officers of the Club were elected.

Quine a number of people in this locality are harvesting their second crop of strawberries. Among others is Mrs. James Hospelhorn who sent to this office a bunch of fully matured berries of large size.

Mr. John Saffer is having his house repainted. Painters have also been at work on Mrs. J. M. Adelsberger's home on W. Main St.

A new tin roof has been put on the house occupied by Mr. C. Zacharias on West Main Street.

Hallowe'en in Emmitsburg was, as usual, the small boys' jollification night. Crowds of merry-makers were on the streets indulging in all sorts of innocent pranks.

The hunting season opened Tuesday and quite a number of local sportsmen were in the field bright and early. Rabbits are reported to be plentiful and very few gunners have returned home with empty game bags.

Although a few flakes fell several days before, the first real snow flurry of the season occurred Saturday afternoon.

The Misses Annan entertained at cards on Tuesday and Thursday.

The collapsion of two wheels of a buggy caused a runaway on Sunday afternoon. The accident took place on the pike near the College. The occupants of the carriage jumped and escaped injury.

The frightened animal ran off and narrowly escaped a head-on collision with another vehicle containing two young ladies as it rushed through the toll gate. The demolished rig belonged to a Thurmont livery. Mr. Clay Shuff stopped runaway horse at the race bridge.

"A SON OF A VETERAN."

The following is from the Montgomery Press, the Republican organ of Montgomery county, published at Kensington the technically legal residence of Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., candidate for Congress from the Sixth district:

At a recent meeting of the Grand Army Club of Maryland, the following preamble and resolution was adopted:

"Whereas the candidate for Congress in the Sixth district of Maryland is a son of a veteran and, as well as his father, is a member of this club, and

"Whereas, this club is organized for the purpose of looking after the interests of the old soldiers and of taking such part in political matters as will forward such interests, therefore,

Resolved, That the Grand Army Club of Maryland indorse the candidacy of Mr. Brainard H. Warner, Jr. for member of the House of Representatives from the Sixth district of Maryland and appeal to all the members of this club especially and to all old soldiers and sons of veterans residing in that district to earnestly support Mr. Warner and work heartily to forward his election."

The force of the resolution adopted, as above stated, is in the reference to the candidate as a "Son of a Veteran," and the action of the Grand Army Club has been published throughout Western Maryland in the interest of Mr. Warner, Jr.

We think of veterans as men who have braved dangers for their country. Webster's dictionary defines veteran as "one who has been long exercised in any service or art, particularly in war: one who has grown old in service."

The official records of the War Department at Washington show that Brainard H. Warner was enlisted August 19, 1863, at Washington, D. C., for general service, office of the adjutant general of the army, and that he was employed as a clerk in that office until March 31, 1864, when he was discharged as sergeant, general service, to enable him to accept a civil appointment.

This looks more like office-holding than military service. It is an artful fabric upon which to build a claim for the votes of men who have felt the shock of battle.

MEMORIAL TO DOCTOR INGLE

Beautiful Window Dedicated on All Saints Day at Episcopal Church, Frederick.

All Saints Church was filled on Tuesday, both by Episcopalians and those from other denominations, the occasion being the dedicatory services in connection with the beautiful memorials to the memory of Dr. Osborne Ingle, pastor of that church for forty-three years.

The window, which was erected by the congregation, was unveiled by Dr. Ingle's grandson, James Addison Ingle, son of the late Bishop Addison Ingle, of Hankow, China. The memorial was dedicated by Bishop Murray, and an address on the life of Dr. Ingle was delivered by Rev. E. L. Helfenstein, of Ellicott City, Md. Rev. G. F. Mosher, of Wushih, China, delivered an address on the missionary work of Bishop Ingle in that country.

Other clergymen present at the dedication were: Rev. Douglass Hooff, rector of All Saints; Rev. Edward Ingle, Washington; Rev. E. B. Niver, Baltimore; Rev. Edward Wall, Berryville, Va.; Rev. John I. Yellott Belair, Md.; Rev. George F. Thomas, Adamstown; Rev. W. Saunders, New Market. Rev. Charles Atwater, Brunswick. Bishop Paret was unable to be present on account of the illness of his wife.

In addition to erecting the window the congregation of All Saints' as a further memorial to Dr. Ingle, has founded a perpetual scholarship in Boone University, at Wuchang, China, at a cost of $2,000. The same night Bishop Murray confirmed a class at All Saints.

CHANGE IN REGULATIONS OF REGISTERED MAIL

Postmaster Hitchcock's Amendments Governing Forwarding and Delivery Go Into Effect at Once.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has just amended the regulations governing the forwarding and delivery of registered mail, indicating definitely the circumstances under which registered letters or packages may be delivered to others than the parties to whom they are addressed.

At present registered mail may be delivered to any person authorized in writing to receive it by the person to whom it is addressed; to such person as the sender, after mailing, in a written order verified by the mailing postmaster; any reasonable person to whom the addressee's mail is customarily delivered, and may be delivered to the person, firm, corporation or association in whose care it is addressed. Identification must always be required if the applicant for registered mail is unknown.

Senders of registered mail may restrict its delivery by indorsement. Mail indorsed "Deliver to addressee or order" cannot be delivered except to the addressee or on his written order. Mail indorsed "Deliver to addressee only" cannot be delivered to any person except the addressee, not even on his written order.

The addressee of registered mail may restrict the delivery by filing at the postoffice of address directions, in writing stating to whom delivery may be made. If the addressee is dead or insane, the registered mail may be delivered to his legal representative.

Registered mail addressed to a minor living with his parents or under the control of a guardian is subject to a parent's or guardian's control, unless it be indorsed for personal delivery. Mail that is registered, not obviously of a personal nature, addressed to a former public officer, partner or employee of a firm, should be delivered to the person holding the title or performing the duties of the office.

The Postoffice Department will, in the absence of all knowledge to the contrary, regard as responsible persons, in the meaning of the new regulations, adult members of the addressee's family, his employees in a clerical or supervisory capacity and the proprietor or manager of a private lodging-house in which he resides. Those not regarded as responsible are minors, janitors, laborers, messengers, elevator boys and house servants. The new regulations go into effect at once.

Everybody is equal on Election day.

GRANDFATHER CLAUSE UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Decision of Judge Morris in Annapolis Election Law.—Frederick Election Law Also Effectuated.

Judge Thomas J. Morris in the United States Circuit Court has decided that the "grandfather clause" in the Annapolis election law is unconstitutional. This ruling is applicable to the Frederick law under which elections have been held since 1904. The section of this law governing election in Frederick that contains the objectionable clause reads as follows:

A person to be entitled to be registered and vote at municipal elections in Frederick must possess one of these qualifications: First, if he is the bonafide actual owner of real or personal property of the value of $500 or upward, for which he has been duly and lawfully assessed on the assessment books of said city; or secondly, if prior to January 1, 1869, he was entitled to vote in the State of Maryland or elsewhere in the United States at a state election; or, thirdly, if he is the male lineal descendant of any person who prior to January 1, 1869, was entitled to vote in the State at a state election.

POST YOUR LAND.

"A Letter From A Pearre Republican"

The following appeared in the Montgomery Advocate on Oct. 28th. Mr. Editor:—Mr. B. H. Warner, Jr., Republican candidate for Congress in the Sixth District of Maryland, is claiming the votes of Republicans in the District presumably because he claims to be a Republican. It is generally conceded that a candidate on a party ticket must have a clear record of party loyalty before he has a right to claim undivided party support.

The Warners, father and son, first became most prominent in the politics of the Sixth Congressional District in the year 1908 when B. H. Warner, Sr., (the father) was a candidate for Congress in the district. He and his son claimed to reside and have their political influence in Montgomery county. In 1908 Colonel Pearre defeated B. H. Warner, Sr., (the father) for the Congressional nomination. Both father and son pledged themselves to vote and work for the Republican ticket, B. H. Warner, Sr., going to the length of making appointments with the County Committee of Montgomery county to make speeches in behalf of Colonel Pearre, the Republican candidate, in the county. When the meetings, at which he promised to speak and for which he had been advertised to speak, were held he did not put in an appearance, but was found making speeches at some small meetings in Baltimore and through Southern Maryland, and when inquiry was made of him as to why he was not keeping his appointments in Montgomery county, he declared that Pearre would be defeated that he would not speak in his behalf and would shed no tears if he were defeated.

The political activity of father and son, as far as the Republican party was concerned ceased immediately after the nomination was made in 1908. Montgomery county, in which they claim to reside and have their influence gave a Democratic majority of 873 for the Democratic nominee for Congress and a majority of 541 for the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, Mr. Bryan. Two years before that, in 1906, Colonel Pearre, the Republican nominee for Congress in that year, when neither of the Warners were specially active, carried the Democratic county of Montgomery over Mr. Spessard by 191 majority, having also carried it when he first ran in 1898 by 171 majority. It will thus appear that the Warners (father and son) were not effective in the campaign two years ago when Colonel Pearre was a candidate, because the county changed from 191 majority for Pearre in 1906 to 873 against him in 1908. Moreover, it has been stated without contradiction, and can be proved if necessary, that the Warners solicited votes against Colonel Pearre in Montgomery county in the Congressional election of 1908, and it can be further proven that in the early part of the recent Republican primary campaign B. H. Warner, Sr., declared in the presence of a number of people at Gaithersburg, in Montgomery county and elsewhere, that if either Pearre or Blair were nominated for Congress he would endeavor to secure their defeat at the election and had already gained pledges of a large number of Republicans in Montgomery county to vote against either of them at the election.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT SPEAKS.

(Continued from page 1.) Episcopal Church. The audience which greeted him was the largest assembled in the building for years. The Colonel praised the African Mission work, confining his speech to his observations of the work of Christian missionaries in East Africa and Egypt, gained during his late hunting trip. He cited instances of marked improvement in natives of East Africa, who had been under missionary control. Speaking particularly of Uganda, Colonel Roosevelt said the people had developed a semi-civilization, or advanced barbarism, of their own. He spoke of how the Mohammedans and the Christians had banded together to prevent a pagan revolt, and then told how the Christians finally got the upper hand and saved the country. The colonel spoke of a large and handsome Episcopal Cathedral and other church buildings erected by the natives, who in many cases had natives as their pastors. He said the progress of the mission in Uganda has been literally astounding.

THE LEAFLESS OAK.

BY JAMES BUCKHAM.

Afar, through shifting mist and rain, I see an oak tree toss its boughs; Sole tenant of the wintry plain, Erst dappled thick with sheep and cows.

The frost is whispering at its heart, The storm-wind swirls about its feet, And, like a shower of arrows, dart The rustling crystals of the sleet.

Yet brave and strong the oak tree stands; It shouts against the bleak north blast, And, like a giant, spreads its hands To grip its foe man hard and fast!

FOR FORAGE OR ENSILAGE.

Canadian Experience With Corn Also Applicable to the United States.
Corn for forage or ensilage can be grown to advantage in almost all parts of Canada at present occupied by farmers or stockmen. Results have not been satisfactory in every case where efforts have been made to grow it, but this has very often been due to wrong cultural methods practiced or unsuitable varieties grown rather than to adverse climatic peculiarities, according to a bulletin issued by the Canadian department of agriculture. The reasons for growing or making an attempt to grow this forage crop wherever live stock are kept in any numbers are numerous and cogent. A few of them follow:

VARIETIES OF CORN SUITABLE FOR ENSILAGE
Flint varieties: North Dakota White (white), Compton's Early Selected (yellow).
Dent varieties: White Cap Yellow (white), Dent (white), Compton's Early Selected Leaming (yellow).

As a plant capable of yielding a large amount of valuable forage under a great variety of soil and climatic conditions corn is without an equal.
When properly preserved, whether as ensilage or dried, it can be used as material to render other less palatable roughage more acceptable to farm animals.

When properly grown and well preserved as ensilage it is the equal of or superior to roots in feeding value and palatability. It can, however, generally speaking, be more cheaply grown and more easily preserved than roots.
The labor of growing an acre of corn is of a character much more agreeable to perform and much less arduous than that of growing an acre of roots of any description.
Corn, being a cultivated or hoed crop, serves well to clean the land—that is, free it from weeds, so fitting it for grain growing and putting it into shape to seed down to grass or hay.
Corn is a gross feeder and may be depended upon to make good use of a never so abundant supply of plant food. It is for this reason particularly well adapted to occupy that place in the rotation where humifying vegetable matter and a fairly liberal supply of barnyard manure unite to supply large quantities of plant food suitable for root, leaf and stem growth rather than for seed production.
The growing of corn on a fair proportion of the arable land on the farm will permit of keeping more cattle and so increase the revenue as well as augment the manure supply so essential to the maintenance of soil fertility.
Corn when preserved as ensilage can be stored much more cheaply in much less space than any other roughage. In addition, stored in this way it will keep indefinitely and is always ready to feed.

Drain off the stagnant water and fill in the filthy places to avoid disease.

Wealthy Farmers of United States.
The United States farmer is, collectively, the most wealthy capitalist the world has ever known. By the 1900 census the farmers had invested in agriculture in the United States $20,000,000,000, which last year produced $7,000,000,000. Such a yearly income means $50,000,000 a month or $1,900,000 a day.

Live Stock Notes.

Horses that are used exclusively on the farm and do no road work should go unshod.
A fattening animal should never have more food placed before it than it will eat up eagerly.
If you keep your hogs in a pen all the time don't expect to make any world astonishing profits. The hog is a natural grazer.
If dusty hay is fed sprinkle with water and it will save the horse much annoyance. Better still, don't feed it at all if you can help it.
If corn is scarce sheep will beat hogs on pasture, provided they get plenty of corn, but when the hogs get plenty of corn they will range pretty well with sheep.
Experiments show that many tons of valuable hog do with the peanut crop and that after the peanuts have been gathered hogs can be turned in on the ground and fattened for market on what is left of the crop without other food.
How fond hogs are of milo maize is demonstrated by the fact that if a drove of hogs is turned on a field planted in Indian corn, Kafir corn and milo they will devour the entire milo crop before touching either of the other grains.

Old Enough to Be Good.

He was a liquid eyed Spaniard en tour through Italy. She was a New England maiden lady doing Florence. They met first at the pension table of the 'bote and next in the Uffizzi gallery. "The madonna of which you spoke," said the liquid eyed Spaniard, "is across the hall and down to the right two doors. It hangs in gallery 3." "According to my Baedeker," protested the New England maiden lady, "it hangs in gallery 5." "Pardon. It is impossible," protested the Spaniard. "It stands here in my Baedeker that it is to be found in gallery 3." "Perhaps," said the New England maiden, "your book is out of date. But it is easy to assure ourselves who is right. Let us go to gallery 3 or to gallery 5 and see."
"Madame," said the Spaniard, with some emotion, "it is not necessary to exert ourselves. This book, madame, is perfectly reliable. My grandfather himself assured me so. It is the very volume that he used when he himself toured Italy at my age."—Detroit Free Press.

A Breach of Good Form.

There is a little east end girl, still under six, who reaches the limit in the matter of sensitiveness. Likewise she has her points in respect to dead game-ness. She was taken about a week ago to spend a few days with her aunt. The little miss played around in front of her aunt's place for awhile. Then her aunt let a playful young terrier into the yard, saying to the child:
"This is your little four footed cousin."
Five minutes later the aunt returned to the front yard to call the kid into the house, but she wasn't anywhere to be seen. The fox terrier was playing alone. There was a scrambling hunt for the child and all kinds of alarm, but the little girl didn't turn up. The aunt hustled into town. The little girl was home with her mother.
She had walked right to the car for town as soon as the fox terrier pup was presented to her.
"Why didn't you stay at aunty's?" her mother asked her in surprise.
"She introduced me to a dog!" replied the naughty young person.—Cincinnati Post.

"The Soul of Golf."

One who knew the soul of golf saw it and described it. It was a tricky green, with a drop of twenty feet behind it. To have overrun it would have been fatal. There was a stiff head wind. The player would not risk running up. He cut well in under the ball to get all the back spin he could. He pitched the ball well up against the wind, which caught it and, on account of the spin, threw it up and up until it soared almost over the hole. Then it dropped like a shot bird about a yard from the hole, and the back spin gripped the turf and held the ball within a foot of where it fell. It was obvious to one man that it was a crude shot. It was equally obvious to another, who knew the intricacies of the game, that it was a brilliantly conceived and beautifully executed stroke. One man saw nothing but the soul of the stroke. He saw the hunk and the other took it for granted. P. B. Valle in North America Magazine.

Corrected His Error.

With the Germans the associated college professor is a stock source of witticisms.
One of these deeply absorbed gent men, sitting on a rear seat, thought he knew a person sitting in front and was about to speak to him when, the stranger by chance turning a little, the professor saw that he was mistaken.
Nevertheless, touching him on the shoulder, he remarked politely:
"You will excuse me, but you are not the person I thought you were."

An Unusual Opportunity.

The young clergyman had been urged by his bishop to raise in his small parish as large a sum as possible to swell the fund for the people of a far off isle. The rector had put the need before his people as graphically as he was able, but he was not gifted with eloquence and felt that his appeal had not struck home to the hearts of his listeners. He made a last attempt to rouse their enthusiasm for the worthy cause.
"Think of them, so far away," he said earnestly. "Think of 20,000 persons living without the privileges of Christian burial, while any of you here in this little town may have the advantages of four handsome cemeteries, and give of your abundance, my brethren, to those who have nothing."—Youth's Companion.

Reassured the Judge.

A wife, joining her husband in a conveyance of real estate, was asked by the judge, who examined her in private, according to the act of the assembly, whether she acted without compulsion on the part of her husband. She stuck her arms akimbo and replied: "He compel me! No, nor twenty like him!"—Argonaut.

How He Took it.

"In training," said an instructor in athletics, "the strictest obedience is required. Whenever I think of the theory of training I think of Dash, who, after eighteen years of married life, is one of the best and happiest husbands in the world."
"Dash, I once said to him, 'well, Dash, old man, how do you take married life?'"
"According to directions," he replied.

The Sixth Sense.

In a primary school examination over which I once had the pleasure to preside one of the questions was with regard to the five senses. One of the bright pupils handled the subject thus:
"The five senses are sneezing, sobbing, crying, yawning and coughing. By the sixth sense is meant an extra one which some folks have. This is snoring."—Woman's Home Companion.

Merely a Question of Comfort.

"Now, doctor," complained a bilious patient, "my great trouble is elephants—ink ones. Not that I object to elephants, you understand. I like them, but they do crowd one so."—Success Magazine.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—How the Elf Was Fooled

"In the olden times in a certain town in England," said daddy one evening in beginning his bedtime story for Jack and Evelyn, "there lived an elf who was very mischievous. Indeed, some of the tricks which he played on the people were worse than mischievous, for they did considerable harm.
"So one day they held a meeting to consider what should be done about it. The elf lived in an old deserted house at the very end of the town.
"Well, at the meeting several plans for trapping the elf were spoken of, but none seemed to the people to be a good one. Finally some one said:
"Let's ask Daft Tom to catch the elf. He'll do it if any one can.' Daft Tom was a queer old man who lived in the town and who was believed to be able to talk with fairies and elves and such creatures. So they sent for Daft Tom and offered him ten gold pieces if he would rid the town of the elf. 'I'll try,' said Tom, 'but you must give me a big candle and an empty bottle with a cork for it.'
"When he got the candle and the bottle and cork Daft Tom went at night to the elf's house, sat down at the table of the biggest room, lit his candle and waited.
"Just exactly at 12 o'clock he looked up, and there, sitting in front of him, was the elf. 'Hello,' said the mischievous creature. 'How did you get in?'
"Through the chimney,' said Daft Tom. 'And how did you get in yourself?'
"I don't think that is your business,' said the elf, 'especially as this is my house and you have no right here.'
"Well,' said Tom, 'it's easy enough for any one to get in through the doorway.'
"But I didn't get in through the doorway,' said the elf. 'I came in through the keyhole.'
"I don't believe it,' said Tom, 'for if you got in through the keyhole you could get into this bottle here.' And he pointed at the bottle, from which he had drawn the cork before the elf appeared.
"Humph!' replied the elf. 'That's easy. Just watch me.' And with that he sprang up and jumped right into the bottle. 'There! I told you so,' he said, but before he could jump out again Tom pushed the cork tight into the neck of the bottle, and the elf was caught. Then he took the bottle with the bad elf in it and threw it into the river."
