

FOOD PRICES GO DOWN

CAUSED BY CORN CROP

Flour and Other Food Stuffs Show Declines

MEAT WILL DROP SEVERAL CENTS

Unusually Heavy Receipts of Cattle and Pork at Chicago Effect Prices All Over Country.—Reductions to Continue.

A bumper corn crop and unusually heavy receipts of cattle and pork at the stock yards are given by Chicago dealers as the causes of the general decline of foodstuffs over the country. A decline in prices at the stock yards was followed by a reduction of fresh meats and staples. Commission men in Chicago predict lower prices still on everything except eggs, which, they say, are high and going higher.

The decline since the 1st of October is from 30 to 75 cents on cattle in the bulk, and the market in general is 50 cents lower than it was a week ago. Hogs have dropped from $9.65 a hundredweight on October 18 to $7.82.

J. Ogden Armour, noted as a factor in the world of finance and as head of the firm of Armour & Co., declares that there had not only been a reduction in the prices of meat and other stockyard products, but that the prevailing tendency was toward a lower level. It is the belief of Armour that the descent will be gradual, and that the level will not be reached for several months at least.

Prior to the time Mr. Armour voiced his views on the subject of meat prices, a South Side meat dealer remarked:

"We welcome a lower price in the cost of meats, but the reduction is not the result of prosecution in the federal courts. It is the outcome of the law of supply and demand. Cattle are more plentiful, and therefore, meat is cheaper."

In discussing the subject of meat prices, Mr. Armour said:

"The packers' prices to the retailers are based entirely on what we have to pay for the live animals. Generally speaking, present prices are lower and, I believe, they are working toward a still lower level. The present situation is the result of an enormous corn crop and of previous high prices that stimulated everybody to raise livestock. The public is getting the benefit of present conditions and should get further benefits as the increased supply of live stock comes to the market."

GREATEST MISSISSIPPI BRIDGE IS DEDICATED

Three 500-Foot Spans 75 Feet Above High Water.—Designed by Son of Polish Actress Modjeska.

The new McKinley bridge spanning the Mississippi river at St. Louis, was formerly dedicated last week with imposing ceremonies. The new bridge was constructed at a cost of $3,000,000. It is one mile long and the largest on the Mississippi River, having a carrying capacity of 5,000 pounds to the foot, while that of its neighbor, the Merchants' Bridge, which is used by a number of steam railroad companies, is 3,800 pounds to the foot. There is a double railway track and a double wagon driveway on each side. It stands between the two old bridges, three-quarters of a mile south of the Merchants' Bridge.

The bridge proper consists of three 500-foot spans, 75 feet above high water, and the supports are 82 feet above the floor. The piers rest on bedrock 70 feet below the water.

The bridge was designed by Ralph Modjeska, who superintended its construction, beating all records. Modjeska is a son of the famous Polish actress, and designed the great bridge over the St. Lawrence at Quebec, which will cost $15,000,000.

LABOR UNIONS WONT VOTE ON NON-UNION BALLOTS

Resolutions Prepared That Union Men Will Not Cast Vote Unless Ballot Bears the Union Label.

Resolutions will be offered during the thirtieth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in session at St. Louis, the effect of which is that no union man will cast his vote at elections unless the ballots contain the union label.

It is understood that the miners are behind the move, and as they have the largest voting strength of any single organization in the convention, they are thought to be in position to have the resolution adopted.

Some opposition to Champ Clark for Speaker has developed on the ground that he is too much a "Bryan man."

STATUS OF TAP ROADS

To Be Fixed by Interstate Commerce Commission

MAY SETTLE FREIGHT REBATES

Investigation Will Determine If They Are Common Carriers.—Emmitsburg Railroad in Category.

The status of the hundreds of so-called tap lines, short railroads connecting with interstate common carriers, in all parts of the country, will be fixed as the result of a hearing which the Interstate Commerce Commission has arranged to be held at New Orleans December 8.

The reopening of the whole question of the relations of these small enterprises to the regularly recognized common carriers involves one of the most interesting investigations before the commission. The tap roads operate within a state, but participate in the interstate traffic with the larger roads. Some of the tap roads have as little trackage as five or ten miles, sometimes owned by one man, or one miller or other producing concern, and they frequently have primitive equipment and facilities.

The trunk lines and regular railways generally have had divisions of freight rates in force with these small enterprises. The commission condemned the division arrangement on the ground that the tap roads were not interstate common carriers, but merely commercial enterprises, allowances which enabled the maintenance of rebates. Many of the big roads cancelled these divisions, but on petition of a number of the tap roads the commission recently suspended these cancellations and ordered an investigation to determine whether the tap lines are common carriers.

About eighteen tap roads have asked to be heard and probably others will seek hearing when the inquiry begins.

The Emmitsburg Railroad is a tap road seven miles or so in length which connects with the Western Maryland, an interstate line doing business in three states, Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

ROOSEVELT NOT AFTER THE PRESIDENCY IN 1912

In a Letter to An English Editor a Few Days Before Last Election He Declared He Had No Intentions.

The news comes by way of England that Colonel Roosevelt will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1912. When the Colonel reached London on his return from South Africa he was entertained at the country home of Lord Northcliff, proprietor of the London Times. In the beginning of the New York campaign Lord Northcliff received a reply to a letter, in which Roosevelt wrote that he had no intention of being a candidate for the presidency in 1912 or ever again, and that this fact was well known to President Taft. Mr. Roosevelt added that the President had no more staunch or loyal friend than he, Roosevelt.

Lord Northcliff did not realize the effect that the publication of the contents of this letter might have had upon the election. Even if he had, he would probably not have made the contents public. But the election caused the English editor to see that a great issue had been made of the supposed aspirations of the ex-president and had a passing regret that the voters had not in their possession the plain statement of Roosevelt made in a purely personal autograph letter to Lord and Lady Northcliff, who had been his hosts in the early summer.

BRYAN MAY AGAIN HELP REPUBLICANS TO VICTORY

Peerless One Will Not Promise Not to Be a Candidate in 1912.—Thinks Well of Champ Clark as Speaker.

W. J. Bryan said at the Union Depot, Kansas City on Monday: "I would not promise not to be a candidate in 1912, but I expect not to be."

Mr. Bryan stopped at the Depot a short time on the way to his ranch in Texas.

"A Democratic victory or defeat in 1912 depends on Congress," Mr. Bryan said. "With Champ Clark as Speaker of the House I am hopeful all will go well. It is too early to speak of candidates. Folk of Missouri is one to be considered. But it is too early to decide on the question of availability."

State troops have been ordered out in Michigan to act as quarantine guard in the war on smallpox, which has attained the proportions of a scourge.

Wholesale and retail meat dealers of New York city have announced a reduction in the price of their commodity.

"A TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY"

DEMOCRATIC SLOGAN FOR FUTURE CAMPAIGNS

Marse Henry Watterson Asks For Revision and Tells Merchants to Be Patent and Accept Conditions

THE GOOD OF THE MANY OPPOSED TO THE GREED OF THE FEW

Manufacturer to Have Opportunity to Save Himself by Accepting Revision From Rotten, Trust-Breeding Protectionist System to Equitable Revenue System Instead of Clinging to a Barren Ideality.—Oligarchy and Corruption Plainly Seen.

Under the caption of "A Tariff for Revenue Only," Mr. Watterson says in the Courier-Journal:

At length the whirligig of time brings round yet once again the tariff as a question uppermost in the popular thought—actually and not artificially, the paramount issue before the country,—and in view of this the more inconsiderate and partisan of the Republican organs are seeking to muddle and confuse both the discussion and the situation.

"Now, as ever, we shall stand and fight for these declarations of principle, showing the manufacturers themselves that not only has the protectionist policy worked them injury in the long run, exposed them to blackmail right and left, lost them markets that geographically belong to them and that under a revenue policy may be recovered, built up an oligarchy of trustism on the one hand and of political corruption on the other, but that it cannot possibly endure; that it is assuredly doomed, as slavery was doomed, and that the only wise, sagacious thing for them to do is to consider whether they will have it readjusted carefully and scientifically by statesmen or leave it to be in some season of discontent suddenly demolished by the mob, precipitating ruin, such as came with the precipitous overthrow of slavery.

"The manufacturer will have under Democratic rule the opportunity to save himself by accepting such a revision of the tariff as will convert it from a rotten, trust-breeding protectionist system, to an equitable and lasting revenue system, instead of clinging, as the slave holder clung, to a barren ideality, to lose all in one flaming gulf of combustion and revolution.

"We believe that the Democratic party has had a new birth of enlightenment. We believe the country, sick with an overdose of alternate agitation and corruption, is ready to support a series of constructive policies which will improve its conditions and assure its future without wrenching its political fabric or further unsettling its business stability. To this end the Courier-Journal will labor unceasingly, as it always has labored, having now as ever only in its mind the good of the many now as ever opposed by the greed of the few."

Beside these duties as laid down by Mr. Watterson for the Democratic party, representatives-elect who are arriving in Washington seem bent on forcing an expression from Champ

New York Express Strike Over.

The strike of New York express drivers and helpers which has paralyzed express traffic for the past three weeks ended late Saturday afternoon, when at a meeting of the strikers in Jersey City, it was agreed to accept the offer of the companies. The men returned to work on Monday.

Under the terms of the company's offer, secured through the co-operation of Mayor Gaynor, of New York; Mayor Wittmann, of Jersey City, and the officers of the Merchants' Association of New York, the company will employ all former drivers and helpers without regard to their previous connection with the unions.

Cut a Melon for $10,000,000.

A $10,000,000 "melon" was decided upon Saturday by the directors of Sears, Roebuck & Co., the stock of which is listed on the New York and Chicago exchanges. The directors voted to recommend a stock dividend of 33-1-3 per cent. on the common stock ($30,000,000) to holders of record April 1, 1911. Ratification of this dividend by the stockholders at their annual meeting, February 27, 1911, is regarded as a mere formality, the majority of the stock having been represented at the directors meeting.

Football Player Held For Murder.

Charging him with the wilful murder of Rudolph Munk, left halfback and captain of the West Virginia University football team, Coroner W. W. Rogers, of Wheeling, W. Va., has issued a warrant for Thomas McCoy, alias Gardner, left end of the Bethany College team. Since then the coroner declared that death was due to accident.

Clark, the leading candidate for Speaker, on the subject of the proposed committee on committees. Representatives Carlin, of Virginia, and Henry and Burgess, of Texas, favor taking the power to name committees away from the Speaker.

In discussing this subject Mr. Henry, who has been mentioned as a candidate for Speaker, intimated that if Mr. Clark failed to speak out on this question he would find himself in an embarrassing position. "The people have decreed that the House shall be made a deliberate body and Cannonism destroyed by a revision of the rules," said Mr. Henry. "It seems to me that in the face of the pledges we made in the recent campaign we are bound to the proposition that the House shall select its own committees.

"The country believed that we made the promise and clothed us with the power in that belief. We must not trifle with or deceive confiding powers. Common honesty demands that we fairly keep the faith inspired in the voters by our campaign pledges."

Representative Carlin said that Mr. Clark would fail of election as Speaker unless he pledged himself to the plan to create a committee on committees.

Politicians say that the record made by the minority on the rules in this and the preceding Congress is destined to plague the Democrats when they come into control of the House. Minority Leader Clarke has made it a practice to join with the Republican insurgents every time an onslaught was made on the Cannon organization, and it has been understood, although Mr. Clark now says that he has been misrepresented, that the Missourian believed in taking the power to name committees out of the hands of the Speaker.

Republicans say that as the time draws near for the election of a Democratic Speaker, Mr. Clark, who believes that he will be elected without a struggle, will be inclined to hysteria every time the subject is mentioned in his presence. Mr. Clark has served in the House a good many years. He knows that to take from the Speaker the privilege of naming committees would reduce the incumbent of the chair to a mere presiding officer. Critics of Mr. Clark say that he wants the Speakership and everything that pertains to the office at this painful moment.

"Let the caucus decide that question," is the only reply that Mr. Clark will vouchsafe to queries on the subject of the tariff or the rules.

You Are 13 Cents Richer.

If each person in the United States was to have his proportion of the money in circulation, he would be 13 cents richer this month than he was last. The circulation per capita is now $35.01, six cents better than at the same time last year. The amount of money in existence in this country is constantly on the increase, due largely to the production of gold, of which there is free and unlimited coinage. This year already shows an increase of more than $55,000,000 over last, of which more than $41,000,000 was in gold. Gold coin shows a decrease of more than $3,000,000 for the year. It probably was consumed in the arts.

Where "Dry's" Hold Balance of Power.

Many of the leading members of the Illinois General Assembly believe that the next House will be organized along "wet" and "dry" lines and that the "drys" will be in the majority. According to the latest election returns the Republicans will have 76 members, one short of a constitutional majority, while the Democrats will have 74 members. There will be two Prohibitionists and one Independent. The Independent member is a minister, thus giving the Prohibitionists the balance of power in the House.

New Record in Foreign Exports.

Another record has been established in the commerce of the United States. Exports of foreign merchandise from the United States for the fiscal year of 1910 were the largest on record. They were valued at $35,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 over 1909, and $7,000,000 over the previous high record mark established in 1903.

ARTIST LA FARGE DEAD

Alumnus of Mt. St. Mary's College, This Place

MOST FAMOUS AS DECORATOR

Invented Process for Coloring Art Glass and Created Some of the Handsomest Windows in America.

John La Farge, America's foremost artist, and an alumnus of Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, died at the Butler Hospital, Providence, R. I., on Monday night. His death was not unexpected for his illness which has lasted several months, was accompanied by a general breakdown that presaged the end.

The deceased artist was born in New York 75 years ago. In the fifties he attended Mount St. Mary's College at this place. His artistic education was begun in Paris. His interest was chiefly in decorative fields and he devoted himself very largely to the manufacture of cathedral glass. His judgment and taste commanded much attention and some of the finest windows in America are of his creation.

He invented a process of coloring glass which won for him a decoration by the French government. This discovery or invention was the incorporation of color in glass itself instead of putting it on in enamel, as had been done, and by sheer force of circumstances he was driven into the manufacture of the goods for whose invention he was responsible.

As a result of his efforts the stained glass made in the United States to-day surpasses the products of any other part of the world, although for centuries the product had been experimented with in Europe in a small way.

Mr. La Farge was an art critic and writer widely known. He had received a great number of decorations and honors.

He was a former president of the Society of American Artists and president of the Society of Mural Painters. He was married to Margaret Perry in Newport, R. I., where he had made his residence, and maintained his studio in New York.

DEMOCRATS MAY YET IMPEACH SEC. BALLINGER

Controversy With Pinchot Will Hold Legislative Boards at Coming Session of Congress.

That the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy will hold the legislative boards at the coming session of Congress, with a bare possibility that the Democrats may make an effort to institute impeachment proceedings in the House against Secretary Ballinger, is now assured.

The two principals have revived the quarrel, both issuing statements bearing on the legality of the Cunningham claims for coal lands in Alaska.

Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, chairman of the Congressional committee of inquiry, is expected in Washington early in December. Immediately upon his arrival he will call a meeting of the majority of the organization. If present plans are carried out the report of the majority will be submitted to the two Houses just before the Christmas recess.

While there is no official authority for the statement, it is the general understanding that the majority will sustain Secretary Ballinger. The Democratic report condemned Secretary Ballinger and recommended his dismissal from the Cabinet. This report is now in the hands of the Clerk of the House and the Secretary of the Senate.

The administration itself proposes to take action that will start things.

SOME MEXICANS EAGER TO BEGIN HOSTILITIES

Volunteers to Fight United States Want Another Chance to Repeat War of Seventy-Some Years Ago.

At a meeting of political clubs Tuesday night at Sayula, one of the principal towns in Jalisco, Mexico, those participating passed a resolution that they would be the first to offer their services for military operations in the event of a war between Mexico and the United States as a result of the lynching at Rock Springs, Texas, of a supposed Mexican.

A further resolution was adopted requesting the secretary of war to send instructions to all principal cities and towns in the republic to teach military tactics.

WOULD ENDOW RED CROSS

TWO MILLIONS WANTED

President Taft's Endorsement of Movement

PERMANENT, EFFICIENT BASIS

Residents of Larger Cities Will Be Asked for Ten-Cent Contributions.

—Campaign Inaugurated On Tuesday.

On Tuesday was inaugurated the National Red Cross movement to secure what has long been needed, a permanent endowment fund. Two million dollars is the mark set, and this seems a modest demand for so rich a country as the United States, when it is seen that our Red Cross work is far behind, so far as financial support goes, that of most European countries.

It is proposed to raise the $2,000,000 deemed necessary by contributions of 10 cents a head from the population of the larger cities. Of course, a large number of people in the cities will be unable or unwilling to contribute this sum, but each person who contributes $1 is counted as having paid for ten people in his city, and so on. It is proposed, in collecting this endowment fund, to ask the co-operation of the press of the United States, and in most of the newspapers of the country Tuesday morning the object and the needs of the Red Cross were set forth.

That the movement has the hearty support and indorsement of the administration is shown by the following letter addressed to the national endowment fund committee by President Taft:

"NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FUND COMMITTEE, Chairman, Hon. Franklin MacVeigh, Vice-Chairman, Hon. Charles D. Norton.

"To the Members of the Washington Endowment Fund Committee:

"Gentlemen: The time has come when the American Red Cross should be placed on a permanent and efficient basis by an endowment fund whose income will enable it to be prepared at all times to carry out the purposes for which it has been created. It is the authorized official organization of the United States for volunteer aid in time of war or great disaster.

"The funds for relief work received by the American Red Cross within the last five years amounts to over $5,000,000, and prove the confidence the public places in the society. Public confidence is the most important, but it is of equal

PANAMA CANAL TO BE FINISHED AHEAD OF TIME

Good News Told President Taft That Waterway Will Be Finished in 1913 Instead of 1915 as First Stated.

The Panama Canal will be completed December 1, 1913. This information was given to President Taft while he was inspecting the famous Gatun dam, on which he spent several hours. The officials date of the opening remains January 1, 1915. Lieutenant Colonel Goethals desiring one year in which to train the canal tenders and to get the machinery working smoothly. Ships in the meantime will be granted the privilege of the canal, but at their own risk of delays incident to inexperienced operation.

In addition, it was announced by Lieutenant Colonel Goethals that the report that President Taft's visit was the forerunner of a request for another $100,000,000 from Congress was unfounded. The canal will be completed in 1913, he said, within the $375,000,000 authorized.

The president was tremendously pleased at the outlook for the early completion of the great work and congratulated Colonel Goethals. He expressed amazement at the amount of work accomplished since his visit to the Isthmus in February, 1909.

Eugene Ely First Man to Do Trick Lands Safely on Beach.—Conditions Not Favorable For Trial.

Under the most unfavorable circumstances, with wind, rain, fog and spray against him, Eugene B. Ely in a Curtiss biplane arose from the scout cruiser Birmingham and safely reached shore 4 1/2 miles away.

After leaving the ship his aeroplane descended until its propellers touched the water and the spray blinded the navigator and injured his machine. Despite this handicap he kept on and reached the beach near the Hampton Roads Yacht Club.

importance that the society should be able to maintain an organization which is capable of administering such large funds to the greatest advantage. The experience in relief matters gained by permanent organization insures a far abler and wiser expenditure of relief funds than can be secured by temporary and suddenly created committees. The accounts of the Red Cross are required by law to be audited by the War Department. The officers of the society, with the exception of the national director and secretary, serve without compensation, some of them devoting the greater part of their time to its work. By its methods the co-operation of such organizations as can be utilized for active relief work is being secured, thus assuring trained service without the necessity of maintaining a corps of its workers.

"Experience has shown that in cases of great disasters, such as occurred at San Francisco and in Italy, large contributions are received by the Red Cross but in the constantly recurring disasters where smaller communities are stricken and should receive a certain assistance, the contributions are far too small to meet the need. Moreover, in the case of great disasters, the Red Cross should have such a balance in hand as to enable it to take immediate action without being forced to wait until contributions are received. To provide this first prompt assistance at times of disasters of great magnitude and to render the necessary aid in cases of calamities, without too frequent public appeals, the American Red Cross should be assured of an adequate income. By enabling the society to continue and extend its system of first-aid instruction under the first-aid department and its courses in simple home nursing of the sick for women under its nursing department, a personnel valuable in time of disaster will not only be secured, but instruction of constant and continuing usefulness will be provided.

"Though willing to contribute generously for relief after great disasters, it is difficult to obtain in this country a large membership contributing small annual dues. The American Red Cross received in 1910 from the 50 per cent. of annual dues paid into the national treasury less than $8,000. The Japanese Red Cross in 1908 received from the annual dues of its 1,440,000 members over $1,000,000.

"The brief statement in regard to the endowment fund of the American Red Cross compared with those of the societies of several other nations shows how far this country is behind in this respect.

"An endowment fund for the central office of the Red Cross, far from becoming a stagnating influence as in cases where endowments are for local purposes, will provide the means of continued stimulation to the State boards and chapters scattered over the United States and its dependent possessions.

"The standing of this remarkable organization throughout the world, its importance to our own country, and its beneficent influence for peace and good will in international relief work commend it to the public-spirited men and women of the United States. I believe, gentlemen, you cannot appeal to them in vain to aid in providing the American Red Cross with an endowment fund of $2,000,000, less than the funds of the societies of the other first powers, so that our national society may take its proper place in this great international institution. Yours sincerely,
"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

The Rod and The Child.

I do not believe in the government of the lash. If any one of you ever expects to whip your children again I want you to have a photograph taken of yourself when you are in the act, with your face red with vulgar anger and the face of the little child, with eyes swimming in tears and the little chin dimpled with fear, like a piece of water struck by a sudden cold wind. Have the picture taken. If that little child should die I cannot think of a sweeter way to spend an autumn afternoon than to go out to the cemetery when the maples are clad in tender gold and little scarlet runners are coming, like poems of regret, from the sad heart of the earth and sit down upon the grave and look at that photograph and think of the flesh, now dust, that you beat. I tell you it is wrong; it is no way to raise children. Make your home happy. Be honest with them. Divide fairly with them in everything.

Sold.

A well-known German, who is something of a wag, walked into one of the public offices in Cincinnati the other day, and from the noise it was plain that he was wearing a pair of new shoes, or ones that had recently been repaired.

One of the clerks remarked about the shoes and the German said: "I comes pretty" near selling dese shoes the other day."
"How is that?" asked the clerk.
"I had 'em half sold," said the German, as he walked out of the office.
A deep groan was heard as he slipped through the door.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

MISSIONARY MISTREATED IN MACEDONIA BY TURKS

Rev. Charles Erickson Beaten and Arrested in Monastir Without There Being Any Charge Against Him.

A dispatch received by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions says that one of its missionaries, Rev. Charles Telford Erickson, has been beaten and arrested at Monastir, Macedonia, Turkey. The report states that after an hour or so of detention he was released upon the demand of the Austrian consul, who is acting for the United States in Macedonia in that capacity. No charges were made against Mr. Erickson.

Secretary Barton attributes his arrest to a desire of the Turkish government to stifle the ambitions of the Albanians for modern education. The Erickson case has been placed in the hands of the American Embassy at Constantinople for adjustment.

Stir into a cup of mashed potatoes a tablespoonful of butter (heaping), a beaten egg, 2 tablespoonfuls of milk, salt and a tablespoonful of prepared flour; roll out half an inch thick, cut round or square, prick with a fork and bake to a nice brown. Eat hot.

Molasses Sauce.

Add 3 tablespoonfuls flour to 1 cup molasses, blend well, add ½ cup water, 2 tablespoonfuls butter and a few grains salt; boil five minutes and serve hot.

Celery Salad.

Two bunches of celery, 1 tablespoonful of salad oil, 4 of vinegar, 1 small teaspoonful of fine sugar, pepper and salt to taste; wash and scrape the celery, lay in ice-cold water until luncheon time. Take 1 head of the broad leaved variety of lettuce, wash, arrange them neatly around the sides of a salad bowl, place the celery cut in bits half inch long in the center and pour on dressing the last thing. Serve at once before the vinegar injures the crispness of the vegetables.

Cannelon of Beef.

Chop the remains of yesterday's beef, mix with ½ of a pound of minced ham, seasoned with pepper, salt, grated lemon peel and a little onion; moisten with yesterday's gravy with a little flour stirred in and bind with a beaten egg or two; make some pie paste or such as you would use for dumplings, roll into an oblong sheet, put the beef mince in the middle and make the pastry into a long roll, inclosing the meat; close at ends with round caps of pastry, the edges pinch well together; lay in a dripping pan, the joined side of the roll downward and bake to a good brown.

Browned Sweet Potatoes.

Boil and peel neatly, lay in a dripping pan and baste often with good dripping or butter until glossy and delicately browned.

Cauliflower.

Boil a fine cauliflower in hot salted water, drain, and put in a deep dish, blossom upward, and pour over it a cup of rich brown butter, with the juice of ½ a lemon stirred in.

Squash Pie.

A pint of steamed, mashed and strained squash, two cups of milk, one cup of sugar, two eggs beaten light, half a teaspoon of ginger, one teaspoonful mixed mace and cinnamon. Beat all well together and bake with under crust only.

Swiss Soup.

Five gallons of water, 6 potatoes and 3 turnips, sliced, a small piece of salt pork, boil 5 hours until perfectly dissolved and the consistency of pea soup, filling up as it boils away. Instead of the pork, you can add butter the size of an egg. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

LATHAM DELUGED WITH MATRIMONIAL PROPOSALS

Requests and Love Notes from Baltimore Girls Received by Celebrated Aviator.—Nothing Doing.

Following his now world-famous flight over the city of Baltimore, Hubert Latham, the noted aviator, received hundreds of letters from persons in all walks of life. Some of the letters were proposals of marriage from young women of Baltimore, Washington and other parts of the country. Other letters were received by Mr. Latham from children, clergymen, and inmates of institutions.

More than forty of the letters were from girls. They all said they were lonely, and that they wanted to get married. One letter was very affectionate. It began "My dear Herbert" and ended "From one who will always love you."

New Statue for Washington.

Arrangements have been made for fitting out Lafayette Square, in Washington, with the statue, which it lacked to complete the monumental symmetry of that reservation says the Army and Navy Register. The formal dedication of the statue of Baron von Steuben will occur on December 12. There will be the usual military demonstration, and there will be suitable exercises, with the secretary of war as presiding officer and with President Taft as the principal speaker. This will make the fifth statue adorning Lafayette Square. It is a rare combination of sculpture and ought to go far toward creating the impression that the government is maintaining a sample stock of monuments for the convenience of possible purchasers. There are better places within the precincts of the national capital where monuments could be placed than the public squares, from which it is necessary to remove the fine old trees to make room for these structures in stone and metal. There are several places in Lafayette Square which might be further embellished now that that particular reservation has been devoted so generously to these costly testimonials.

Remarkable Airship Trip.

M. Legagneux, the French aviator, with a passenger, made a most remarkable flight Sunday from Paris to Brussels in competition for the $30,000 prize offered by the automobile club. Legagneux was favored by a south wind and covered the 275 kilometers (170 miles) at an average speed of more than 105 kilometers (65 miles) an hour. His total time for the distance was 3 hours and 16 minutes, including two 20-minute stops for gasoline at Compiègne and Bavy.

FARMERS' OBJECT LESSON.

Increased Yield Per Acre Should Be Their Objective Point.

If the man who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before is a public benefactor, as the philosopher said, the Hon. Martin V. Calvin, secretary of the Georgia State Agricultural society, is entitled to still higher praise. Since he began to farm in 1878 he has been working to induce southern farmers to center their thoughts and energies on "a larger yield per acre at smaller cost of production."

In a recently issued booklet, from which the accompanying picture is taken, Mr. Calvin said:

"A year ago I instituted a comparison between the corn production of the nine cotton states and nine eastern and western states. The figures used related to the gross production of corn in those states. It was shown that the nine cotton states produced millions of bushels more corn than the great eastern and western states mentioned. It seemed to be absolutely incredible, but there were the official figures.

"The nine cotton states, in addition to producing 9,646,780 bales of cotton, weighing 500 pounds each, 2,500,000 tons of prime hay and many other crops of value, made and gathered into spacious barns over 97,000,000 bushels of corn more than the eastern and western states.

"That is a very gratifying fact, BUT the general average yield per acre of those states was 30.3 bushels, while the general average yield of the nine cotton states was only 16.4 bushels.

"Mark that fact. It locates the weak spot in our armor. It tells us that we need not increase our corn acreage one inch. What we need to do, what we must and can do, is to INCREASE OUR AVERAGE YIELD PER ACRE."

Don't grow common fruit—that is, common, ordinary grade. There is always a demand for fine varieties in the markets.

Poultry Pointers.

Give geese a good pasture and pond and they will take care of themselves with little feeding.

Provide convenient nests and keep them clean. Soiled eggs usually find an unsatisfactory market.

Hens that lay soft shelled eggs may be helped by a little more vegetables or green food and oyster shell.

Young ducks should be ready for market at ten weeks old. There is no profit in feeding them after that.

Never change to a new breed simply because extravagant claims are given. It is better to try to improve the old ones.

Do not forget that the hens will need plenty of grit to help grind up the food. If plenty of grit is not available provide it for them.

Treatment for roup: One ounce permanganate of potash to three pints of water for submerging the head. For drinking purposes dilute one pint of the above mixture in three or four pints of water.

The dust bath is one of the most necessary things that go to make up a fowl's life to rid it of lice. If the hens get the dust bath outdoors in the summer and it is good for them, then we must provide it indoors in the winter.

Lucky He Stuck to His Opinion.

Pride of opinion is perhaps the most common fault of us fairly educated and intelligent moderns. We form our judgments and then, as it were, defy any one to change them. It is said that no one has ever been convicted by abstract argument.

At the time of the great disaster in Martinique the Italian bark Sorsolma was taking on a cargo of sugar there. Her captain was accustomed to volcanoes, and he did not like the appearance of Mont Pelee. Not half his cargo was on board, but he decided to sail for home.

"The volcano is all right," argued the shippers. "Finish your loading."

"I don't know anything about Mont Pelee," said the captain, "but if Vesuvius looked that way I'd get out of Naples, and I'm going to get right out of here."

The shippers threatened him with arrest. They sent customs officers to detain him, but the captain persisted in leaving. Twenty-four hours later the shippers and the customs officers lay dead in the ruins of St. Pierre.—Christian Herald.

A Miser's Luxury.

There was a Middlesex couple one who lived on a sum to shock the most reckless of our correspondents. Daniel Dancer was the man. He looked on saving as an art and saved for art's sake. His father left him a farm and eighty acres, and his sister helped him carry out his scheme of life. He let the land lie fallow, says the London Gest. It costs money to cultivate land. For food the couple believed in one day, one meal. The batch of dumplings baked on a Saturday lasted out the week. For clothing he depended on bay bands "swathed round his feet for boots and round his body for a coat." But Daniel had a weakness. He would buy a clean shirt each year. And out of this arose the tragedy of his life—a lost lawsuit over three-pence which, in Daniel's judgment, the shirt seller had wrongfully pocketed. He died in 1724 worth £3,000 a year.

Gypsy Wordless Language.

To communicate with one another gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "patteran," tracing the footsteps or wagon tracks of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gypsy does a roadside signboard. But the patteran can be read by the gypsy only—it is hidden and secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The patteran may be formed of sticks or stones or grass placed cross fashion at the parting of roads in such manner that only a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much—first of all, the direction taken by Romany predecessors.—Century Magazine.

The Hungarian Crown.

The Hungarian crown worn at their accession by the emperors of Austria as kings of Hungary is the identical one made for Stephen and used at his coronation over 800 years ago. The whole is of pure gold, except the settings, and weighs almost exactly fourteen pounds. The settings above alluded to consist of fifty-three sapphires, fifty rubies, one emerald and 338 pearls. It will be noticed that there are no diamonds among these precious adornments. This is accounted for by the oft quoted story of Stephen's aversion to such gems because he considered them "unlucky."

Battle of the Herrings.

The battle of the herrings was the comical name given to a fight between an English force and a French detachment not far from Orleans in 1429. The English were conveying a large quantity of supplies, mainly herrings, for it was Lent, to the army that was besieging Orleans. The English had 1,000 men, the French 6,000. The former repulsed the assaults and saved the herrings, so the battle was named in honor of the supplies.

Willing to Take Them Back.

A letter came from the clothing firm saying that the cloth that had been sent them was full of moths. Was the wholesale house taken aback? Not it. By return post went a missive to this effect:

"On looking over your order we find that you did not order any moths. It was our error, and you will please return them at once at our expense."—Argonaut.

Couldn't Help Himself.

"He lived next door to a man for ten years without even learning his neighbor's name."

"Can you imagine anybody being so unsociable?"

"Oh, yes. You see, the warden wouldn't let them talk."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

One Consolation.

"My wife is suing me for divorce," sighed the man. "I wish I were dead."

"Cheer up, old boy. It's a whole lot better to have your wife spending all-much than life insurance."—Detroit Free Press.

Close Mouthed.

Caller—So your sister and her fiancé are very close mouthed over their engagement? Little Ethel—Close mouthed! You ought to see them together! —Auckland News.

His Love.

"A case of love at first sight, eh?"

"No, second sight. The first time he saw her he didn't know she was in hellish."

IT HAD TO COME.

Where to-day is there an erstwhile worshipper at Colonel Roosevelt's shrine who does not wish that this quondam hero had retired to "dignified quietude" and had rested on his laurels while they were fresh and hosts of fanatic admirers were mentally throwing their hats in the air, still madly rushing forth with scoop shovels to catch some vestige of his latest verbal pyrotechnics? Where is there a person at one time infatuated with everything Rooseveltian, who does not now regret that this much revered human idol did not, upon his triumphant return from the jungles place himself in some niche at Oyster Bay, there to be worshipped and adored as of yore? Men and women by the thousands, awakening from inebriety occasioned by over indulgence in enthusiasm are thinking this right now, and as they think, they see their man ideal as he is—"beaten to a frazzle" with his own hands.

They tell us that cults and fads and fashions move in cycles; that each era craves a change and gets it; that people have to worship something outside of their religion; that if heroes are not right at hand they are forthwith created and adored; above all, that the world must be amused. Records prove this, and history has woven many a story, full of pathetic interest around characters that flourished till their death or faded and fell before, either by their own acts or by the volatile will of a capricious people.

Not many years ago the time was ripe for a popular idol. Things were too conservative and precise. A stage war came, with all its spectacular hippodrome features, and out of it emerged the Rough Rider. The sobering pall of a national calamity followed and almost in an instant there stalked upon the world's stage this same Rough Rider, transformed into war lord and emperor. Another metamorphosis and the dictator and director of all things terrestrial loomed up (application for prior claim on matters celestial on file) and a congressional, diplomatic, judiciary, ecclesiastical, mercantile and political spasm of five years' duration ensued. The associated press worked over time, cable dividends increased, there was a steady demand for more reporters and interviewers, (permanent jobs guaranteed) and in the world's big amusement palace the "standing room only" sign was in evidence everywhere.

The world was being amused, carried off its feet by an actor who essayed every role that had ever been played before and who created new parts every twenty-four hours to come. The circuit included all countries on the globe, the engagement was unlimited as long as the star made good, with a benefit performance and farewell tour of America thrown in.

But like many another thespian this star stayed upon the boards too long. There was nothing new for him to portray, and as interest waned he began his repertoire all over again in a whirlwind itinerary of one night stands. This was enough. The frost came—it had to come sometime—and T. R. was in it when it came.

WHAT IS IT NOT ON?

There is tariff on the beefsteak, there is tariff on the fork, there's tariff on the carving knife and tariff upon pork. There's tariff upon paper and there's tariff upon books, and on those rare cosmetics that make up fair women's looks. There's tariff on plain water that is brought from o'er the pond, there's tariff on the mixture that turns brunette into blonde. There's tariff on suspenders, there's tariff upon cheese, there's tariff on the medicine that's meant to stop a sneeze. There's tariff on silk stockings and upon common hose, there's tariff on the handkerchief with which you blow your nose. There is tariff on the highball, and on the moth ball too, and tariff on the substance that sends heat up through the flue. There's tariff on the hobble skirt and on men's overalls, and tariff on the photographs of old Niagara Falls. There's tariff upon products that are made of common milk, there's tariff upon calico and tariff upon silk. There's tariff upon reapers, harrows, planters, drills and plows, and on the very webbing in the halters for your cows. There's tariff upon Chinaware and brass and even tin, there's tariff on the razor blade with which you shave your chin. There's tariff on the spoon from which you serve the morning mush, there's tariff on the shovel used to free the streets from slush. There's tariff on most everything that's made to eat and wear, and wonder is that tariff rates have not applied to air.

THE PEOPLE MUST BE CONSULTED

J. Hampton Moore, Congressman from Pennsylvania, made a statement the other day that is as applicable to the Sixth district as it is to the Keystone State—it is this:

The time has come when the leaders of the country find that they must consult the people before making nominations. The election has demonstrated that right here.

If we mistake not, the election also demonstrated it in five counties of Western Maryland where the sentiment of the people was ignored in the primaries.

The lesson is very obvious. The bosses and the whippers-in may disregard the people for a time, but in the end the people propose to be listened to. And in the future it will be found that the independent spirit in politics has become such a power that partisan pre-election forecasts will amount to naught. A pretty fair bit of evidence as to the truth of this statement was exhibited in this Sixth district on the eighth instant.

JUST as the election of Mr. Taft was brought about, not by an overwhelming Republican majority but by a solid Republican vote plus the votes of an awakened Democracy, so the recent landslide was not occasioned by an overwhelming Democratic majority alone, but by a solid Democratic vote aided by an awakened Republican party that was sick and tired of bosses and dictators and a smug compliance with the acts of a few boss-chosen special interests. This means that there is a grave responsibility resting upon the victors. Let them see to it that they do their part—their full duty.

FOR the "good of the service" let us hope that Mr. Ballinger's name will not appear on the cabinet list after the reported shake up in the presidential official family occurs.

THE Arkansas Gazette likens the ex-President to a prize fighter, which naturally suggests that query about the "come back."

OH what a tumble, what a sickening thud—that fall from the band wagon into the mud.

POEMS FOR NOVEMBER

Selections for Use in Public Schools of The County.

The following poems have been prepared for use in the first three grades of public schools of the county, for the month of November, by Miss Ella V. Kreig, primary supervisor:

Morning Poem.

For this new morning with its light;
For rest and shelter of the night;
For health and food, for love and friends;
For everything thy goodness sends,
We thank Thee, Heavenly Father.

For flowers that bloom about our feet;
For tender grass, so fresh and sweet;
For song of bird and hum of bee;
For all things fair we hear or see,
We thank Thee, Heavenly Father.

For blue of stream, and blue of sky;
For pleasant shade of branches high;
For fragrant air and cooling breeze;
For beauty of the blooming trees,
We thank Thee, Heavenly Father.

—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Thank You, Pretty Cow.

Thank you, pretty cow, that made Pleasant milk to soak my bread,
Every day and every night,
Warm, and fresh, and sweet, and white.

Do not chew the hemlock rank,
Growing on the weedy bank;
But the yellow cowslips eat,
That will make it very sweet.

Where the purple violet grows,
Where the bubbling water flows,
Where the grass is fresh and fine,
Pretty cow, go there and dine.

—JANE TAYLOR.

Count Thrashed by Father-in-Law.

Mr. M. H. Kilgallen, of Chicago, whose daughter is the wife of Count de Beaufort, has thrashed his son-in-law three times.

He got two lickings in one day, the day his wife "fell over the banisters, on October 20, breaking an arm, a leg and sustained other injuries. The first was administered in the Kilgallen residence, the second in St. Luke's Hospital, where the Count's wife had been taken. The third time, a few days later, the Count says, he was lured into a downtown office, where Kilgallen said he was prepared to make a "settlement" on him. The papa-in-law had a husky chauffeur with him and they made the "settlement." The Count was thumped and belted about the room until the pair grew exhausted. In a dazed condition he was tossed out of the office and told to keep away from his wife and her family.

Story of Mason and Dixon Line.

One hundred and fifty-seven years ago on Tuesday, Nov. 15, 1763, Mason and Dixon began the survey of the boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania.

The King of England was indebted to Admiral Penn to the sum of $80,000, and William Penn, on the death of his father, inherited the claim. At Penn's request King Charles granted him, in payment of his claim, a tract of 40,000 square miles in America. In the petition to the King, dated June, 1680, Penn asked for the territory west of the Delaware River and from the northern boundary of Maryland to the north "as far as plantable." It was the largest grant ever made to one man in America.

The boundary of the colony, as given in the charter, became the subject of the most serious dispute, and the matter was not fully settled for a hundred years.

The first survey to establish the boundary and settle the dispute was made by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, two English surveyors, who were brought to this country by the heirs of both parties for that purpose. They arrived in America on November 15, 1763, and began that year the survey, completing it in 1767.

Lord Baltimore had claimed that the fortieth degree fell north of Philadelphia, whereas the King in granting it supposed it would fall at the head of Delaware Bay. Penn insisted that the line be fixed where it was supposed to be.

The charter says that the province granted to Penn was to extend five degrees westward from the Delaware River, and "the said lands to be bounded on the north by the beginning of the third and fourth degrees of northern latitude, and on the south by a circle drawn at twelve miles distance from New Castle northward and westward unto the beginning of northern latitude.

Just what the "beginning of the third and fourth" and the "beginning of the fourth" degree meant was not clear. Penn finding that the fortieth degree fell too far north, to give him a harbor on the Chesapeake, contended that the "beginning" of the fortieth degree did not mean the fortieth degree, and he won in part; but it cost him dearly, for although the charter set the boundary at the "beginning of the forty-third degree," which would have thrown it north of Buffalo, it was finally fixed at the forty-second degree.

In 1732 the heirs of Penn and Baltimore signed an agreement that the line between Pennsylvania and Maryland be run due west from the tangent of the western boundary of Delaware with the arc twelve miles from New Castle. Mason and Dixon surveyed it west for 244 miles, and at the intervals of a mile small cut stones were set in the ground; each stone had a large P cut on the north side, and a B on the south side. Every five miles was placed a larger stone bearing the Pennsylvania coat of arms on one side and that of Lord Baltimore on the other. These stones were cut in England and afterward brought to the colonies.

A few of these stones still stand, but time has crumpled many of them; others have been carried away piecemeal by relic hunters, and a few are doing service as steps before the doors of farmhouses along the route. The first revision of the survey was made in 1849, when it was found the original survey was substantially correct, and within a few years the route has been gone over and many of the former historic monuments were recovered and put in their proper places.—Washington Herald.

Big Department Stores Combine.

A combination of the department stores of Siegel Cooper Company and Greenhut & Co., of New York, has been effected and the new corporation will be known as the Greenhut, Siegel Cooper Company. The business of the two stores will be conducted for the present along the same lines as heretofore. The new company has a capital stock of $6,000,000.

Outlook's Explanation.

Dr. Lyman Abbott says this in explanation of the recent election:

"Popular dissatisfaction with present conditions, especially with the high prices; indignation at the manifest control of the special interests of the tariff revision, and still more at the defenses and eulogies of the tariff bill; wrath at the corruption and the hypocritical pretenses disclosed in certain influential Republican circles, coupled with the forgetfulness of the fact that the exposure and the publication were furnished by Republicans; a growing conviction that there was an alliance between the special interests and the Republican oligarchy, with the belief that the easiest way to hit it was by voting with the opposition; indifference in an election which to many voters appeared to be a contest rather between persons than between principles—an impression which a too personal campaign tended to increase; a general inclination in America to make a change in political control from time to time, an inclination which the political conditions that prevailed in solid States does much to justify; some fears in certain quarters, not less politically effective because wholly undefined, lest the specter of radicalism should work havoc to business interests; the fact that the Republican party was divided between the insurgents and the regulars, while the Democratic party, freed from the traditions of Cleveland, the personality of Bryan was for the first time in years united. All these causes combined to bring about political revolution.

"But I do not believe the election indicates a reaction and revolution. Nor do I think that the Jack-o-lantern bugaboo of Mr. Roosevelt's imagined monarchial ambitions cut any considerable figure in the election. The fact that the greatest falling off in the Republican vote was in the State of Pennsylvania, where his voice was not once heard in the campaign is significant if not conclusive on the point."

Chance For Republicans.

The worst thing the Republican party could do is to do nothing at all—to "stand pat" on everything, and await the moves of the Democratic Congress which will convene thirteen months hence. Thirteen months, when the high cost of living is a question of this and each succeeding hour, and certain parts of the tariff bill are under present condemnation!

From December 6 to March 4 next the Republican party will have undivided control of the executive, the Senate, and the House. For the sake of the welfare and for its own sake in 1912 the party should crowd the sessions with accomplishment.—New York Mail.

hoodlums and flags.

The friendly republic of Mexico is no more responsible for the attack of Mexican hoodlums upon the United flag than was this friendly republic of the United States to blame for the attacks of San Francisco mobs upon Japanese citizens and for the threats of the rioters against the Japanese consul. Mexico will disavow an insult, as the United States informed the Mikado's government of its friendly esteem. Incidentally, the type of patriotism which is tremendously sensitive to such flag incidents has never been worth two cents to any country.—Kansas City Times.

Making Pulp of $20 Greenbacks.

Greenbacks of denominations of $20 or more are being fed daily into the macerating pot in the Treasury under Secretary MacVeagh's decision to supplant them with dollar bills of the same variety. The change is being made at about the rate of $1,000,000 a day, and the small bills are being sent to the sub-treasuries to meet the demand of the banks all over the country for bills of small denominations.

It appears that the idea for another general parliamentary election in England is unpopular with the people and may react to the government's disadvantage. Both the English parties resent Irish domination of the situation.

The Washington county commissioners have made appropriations for the next two years for the 350-odd outdoor pensioners maintained by the county. Committees, which have charge of the money appropriated, were appointed for the pensioners. The county annually expends about $3,400 in this cause.

The Cumberland City Council at its next meeting proposes to pass an ordinance requiring all dealers in milk to register with the city clerk, likewise all dealers in water, and the secretary of the Board of Health is required to make tests of the milk and water at frequent intervals, with power to condemn and destroy milk or water that does not measure up to the standard.

A section of pike has just been completed between Beallsville and Poolesville, Montgomery county, at a cost of $4,940 per mile, which, it is claimed, is the equal of any road in Montgomery county, not excepting the Shoemaker roads, which cost many hundreds of dollars more per mile. The road was constructed according to the ideas of M. Donaldson Knight, road engineer for Montgomery county.

Carelessness of a plumber caused an explosion of gas in a dwelling house in Cumberland which injured seven persons and damaged much property. A plumber in making connections with natural-gas had left a pipe open, filling the house with the explosive. The explosion came from a lighted lamp. Both sides and the front of the house were torn out and the floors dropped from the middle partition on each side as if on hinges.

John P. Lawrence and James Stevenson, Western Maryland Railway brakemen, were badly hurt at Hagerstown by an explosion of dynamite that was being used to blow some old car wheels and heavy castings into junk. One of the fragments of steel was hurled nearly a half mile and crashed through the window of a small building near the roundhouse in the Western Maryland yards, where the men were working.

Mr. Nathaniel Eitner, manager for the Eagle Lumber Company, of Pennsylvania, which operates its saw mills about five miles from Ellipton City, was murderously assaulted Saturday night at his home, by Robert White, a colored man who worked at the mill. Mr. Eitner stated that White came to his house near midnight and demanded that he pay him some money the company owed him which, he said, did not come due until next Friday. Mr. Eitner said he told White that he could not pay him until his week was up, as it was against the rules of the company. After a few words White drew a pistol from his pocket and snapped it in Eitner's face several times. As Eitner went to grab hold of White's hand, the weapon failing to go off, White dealt him a severe blow over the right temple, knocking him senseless.

Democratic Presidential Possibility.

There is a Democratic Presidential possibility that has been overlooked by the ticket-makers of the East—that is the governor of North Dakota, John Burke, who has just been elected for a third time in that stalwart Republican State. Voting for John Burke has become a sort of mania for the Republicans of North Dakota, and no matter how good a candidate the Republicans put up against Burke the latter is always sure to win. This time they thought they had made sure, but in spite of the fact that the Republicans nominated a Scandinavian the Scandinavians seem to have voted for the Irishman, showing a commendable lack of racial bias not as common as it ought to be.—Boston Transcript.

Candidate 87 Years Old.

The overthrow by which the West Virginia legislature becomes Democratic has led to speculation as to candidates to succeed United States Senator N. B. Scott, Republican. It led today to the announcement that Henry Gassaway Davis, who is eighty-seven years old, Democratic candidate for Vice President in 1904, has entered the contest.

"THE WORLD IS TOO MUCH WITH US."

HE world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
This Sea that bares her bosom to the moon;

The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;
It moves us not—Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,
Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

MANY people have things that they no longer have use for, but keep them in the house taking up room and doing no one any good.

Better sell or trade off things you don't want. Advertise them and you will find that there are people ready to take them and pay cash, or trade for them. You will find it easy through the Columns of

THE CHRONICLE

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Messrs. Robert Kerrigan and Joseph Topper were in Thurmont this week.

Miss Nellie Rowe has returned from a visit in Baltimore and Washington. Misses Gertrude and Alice Annan spent several days in Baltimore.

Miss Edythe Nunemaker left for Lancaster on Wednesday morning.

Mr. Guy Nunemaker, who left for Mexico some weeks ago, is now stationed at Necaxa, state of Puebla.

Mrs. Mahlon Stonesifer and son and Mrs. Louisa Fuss spent several days in Frederick this week.

JUST A REMINDER.

Subscribers for THE WEEKLY CHRONICLE are as a rule—and it is a pleasure to state the fact—very punctual in paying their subscription bills.

Many pay them in advance; others remit the very day their subscriptions fall due. It happens every now and then, however, that some overlook the matter—not intentionally, and not from indifference. They simply forget it.

To the latter this notice is intended to appeal. It is not a dun, simply a reminder made necessary by the ruling of the Post Office Department.

The reason for it has been fully explained and it is taken for granted that all who are still in arrears will be courteous enough to settle promptly.

Miss Georgina Kreitz spent last Sunday with Miss Carrie Sanders.

Mrs. Frances Cook is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Robert Kreitz.

Mrs. Grace Sheeler and two children spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown.

Mrs. Frances Cook spent Sunday last with Mrs. F. E. Kreitz.

Official Vote Announced.

The Frederick county election supervisors, constituting a board of canvassers, canvassed the official vote at the courthouse last week. Very little change was found in the figures. The vote is—Warner, 5,505; Lewis, 4,768; Henderson, 187; Weber, 176. Warner's majority, 737.

The official count of the vote in Montgomery county, showed that the majority of David J. Lewis, Democratic candidate for Congress, over Brainard H. Warner, Jr., Republican, was 643. The total vote was—Lewis, 3,165; Warner, 2,522. The vote of Finley C. Hendrickson, Prohibitionist, and Paul Oswald Weber, Socialist, was 130 and 34, respectively.

BRUNSWICK BANK CLOSED

Receivers Asked For.—Books in Bad Condition and State Orders Doors Shut.

The Brunswick Savings Bank, at Brunswick, was closed Monday morning by Deputy State Bank Examiner John C. Motter, pending an investigation.

The closing came as a surprise and was the result of a recent examination by Mr. Motter, when complications were discovered in the accounts. It was thought at first that the complications could be rectified and the business of the bank was continued. Monday morning, however, the doors were closed and the affairs of the institution are being investigated.

The bank was organized in 1892 with nine directors. Although no statement has ever been issued, it has always been thought the bank was accumulating a surplus along with an increase of depositors. The present directors are Dr. Arlington G. Herine, Mayor of Brunswick; F. E. Alder and William Schnauffer, all of whom are well-known citizens. The closing is due to the new banking law requiring the examination of State banks the same as national banks. This law was not in effect when it was organized, and there were no stockholders of weekly deposits. Mr. Schnauffer, who is one of the best-known citizens of the county, was treasurer.

Application was made to Judge John C. Motter, of Frederick county, for the appointment of receivers and John C. Motter, of I., assistant State bank examiner, and John S. Newman, a member of the Frederick bar, were appointed.

FIRES IN FREDERICK COUNTY CAUSE BIG LIVE STOCK LOSS

Two Barns Destroyed and Over a Hundred Fine Horses and Cattle Burned.—Wheat and Corn Also Lost.

Over 100 head of live stock, including 23 horses were destroyed in two fires Saturday night which burned two fine barns on the Maryland tract, in the southern part of Frederick county. The fire started on the farm of Dr. Samuel Claggett, near Petersville, and destroyed a large bank barn, a combination wagon shed and cornhouse and a sheep pen. Twelve horses, four head of cattle and four or five hogs were burned. The flock of sheep and 26 head of cattle were saved. About 900 bushels of wheat, 125 barrels of corn, a quantity of hay and most of the farming utensils were burned.

A high wind was blowing and carried sparks far across the country. In this way the barn of the Mt. O'Donnell Stock Farm, owned by Charles Wertheimer, a prominent business man of Frederick, and situated about a mile from the Claggett farm, was ignited. The tenant's family were asleep and the fire was not discovered until it had made such headway that it was impossible to save most of the live stock, which included a lot of fine horses and an exceptionally fine herd of dairy cattle, many of them being thoroughbred Holstein-Friesians. Eleven horses, 39 cows and 35 sheep were destroyed. Three horses and two cows were saved, though the cows were badly burned. A silo, nearly filled with ensilage; a cornhouse and two large straw stacks were burned. The contents of the barn, which were destroyed, included between 1,100 and 1,200 bushels of wheat. The loss in both cases is fairly well covered with insurance.

CONFERENCE AT FREDERICK

State Convention of Charities and Correction Attended by Many Delegates.—Programme.

The sixth annual Maryland State Conference of Charities and Correction began its sessions in Frederick yesterday.

The meeting began in the Young Men's Christian Association building when an address was delivered by William H. Maltbie, of Baltimore, on "State Philanthropies." A supper was tendered the delegates in the evening in the Masonic Temple.

The general session began to-day with a meeting in charge of the committee on children, of which Mr. George L. Jones, secretary of the Henry Watson Children's Aid Society, of Baltimore, is chairman. This will be one of the features of the conference. Mrs. Edith Jones Kerne, of Golden Hill, Talbot county, will deliver an address on "When Should the Custody of the Child be Transferred from his Parents and by Whom?" Discussions by Chief Judge Hammond Urner, State's Attorney Arthur D. Willard, H. Wirt Steele, of Baltimore, and others will follow. In the afternoon "Inter-Relation of Child Labor, Compulsory Education and Industrial Training" will be taken up by Miss Anna Herkner, of Baltimore, and discussions will follow by William Mueller, of the Juvenile Court, and Miss Lettie L. Johnson, of Baltimore.

At the same time a meeting in charge of the committee on families and neighborhoods will be held, at which an address will be delivered by Frances H. McLean, field secretary of the charity organization department of the Russel Sage Foundation, of New York. Rev. T. Freeman Dixon, president of the Frederick charity organization, will follow with a discussion.

Mr. Wines is a son of the late Dr. E. C. Wines, one of the followers of John Howard in America, and who devoted his life to the reformation of the American prison system. Of special interest will be the discussion of the Annapolis Jail, in charge of Warden George L. Warfield. It is located in Annapolis in the section occupied by the Negro element, and has been used as a jail since prior to the Revolutionary War. The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE. No attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

The Writing on the Wall.

Mr. Editor:

In the recent election through the country the importance of the victory of Sanity and Conservatism over political Insanity and Radicalism can hardly be made too emphatic or even be exaggerated. It is indeed the victory of the genuine Nationalism of our Fathers over the insidious new Nationalism of a strenuous self-appointed leader, who draws inspiration for his political vagaries from the delusions of a monstrous Frankenstein which is destined to devour its own Fashioner. Who can doubt that in the late verdict of the people—let us say particularly of the people of New York State—in the defeat and humiliation of the G. O. P. the blow was aimed not at the Republicans so much as at Roosevelt the strenuous? Figures never lie, we are told. If my memory serves me right, the Republican plurality in 1908 was in New York over 68,000; in 1910 Dix's majority is put down at 67,000. If this means anything as being indicative of the will of the people of New York, it can only mean that they are opposed to any change in our form of Government, or that they are determined that no new Nationalism shall prevail over the old Nationalism and the Constitution. And the fiat has been spoken throughout Connecticut, Ohio, New Jersey, Dakota, Indiana and even West Virginia. This vote means that the principles of our dual form of Government, the reserved Rights of the States and the Limitations of the Federal Government shall not be altered; and at least four of the men selected as Representative of that principle—Dix of New York, Wilson of New Jersey, Harmon of Ohio and Baldwin of Connecticut, seem to have been chosen on account of their dignity and respectability, the gravity and sterling worth of their character and their great power as reasoners and champions of the cause of the reserved Rights of the States on the one hand and the delegated powers of the General Government on the other.

How shall we gather the fruitage of this bounteous harvest of the good will of the people, how shall we perpetuate this unmistakable decision against the thrasical assumptions of Executive supremacy, how, in a word shall we thrash forever the lurkings of the Hector of Oyster Bay to Mexicanize the Presidential office? I am no friend of amendments to our constitution, but if it is not possible to obtain the desired result by any other means, let us have the Constitution so amended as to prohibit the re-election of a President for a second or subsequent term.

GETTYSBURG

A surprise was sprung on residents of this place Thursday morning of last week when it was announced that Dr. Stevenson and Miss Rose Pitzer had been quietly married by Rev. Joseph B. Baker at St. James' parsonage the evening before. Dr. Stevenson has been making his home at the Pitzer house for the past fifteen years, has been a regular attendant at St. James' Church nothing out of the ordinary was expected when they expressed their intention of attending the mid-week prayer service. They carried out their plan, but before doing so were made man and wife. Early Thursday morning Mrs. Stevenson informed her parents what had taken place. They left for Easton, Pa., the former home of the groom, where they will spend some time.

The annual game of football between Dickinson and Pennsylvania colleges being played here on Saturday, the day proved a gala one for Gettysburg.

The town was decorated with red and white and orange and blue pennants, demonstrating the fact that the town-folk took an interest in the doings at college.

About ten o'clock a special train arrived from Carlisle, bearing the team, a student band and a large number of students and rooters, about 350 in all. They paraded the principal streets of town, cheering vociferously wherever their college colors were displayed. At one o'clock Pennsylvania college turned out en masse. Headed by the Citizens Band, augmented by a number of members of the college band and a number of ex-players, some of whom are now in seminary. After coming down Baltimore street the Gettysburg boys were met in the Square by the Carlisle contingent, and each gave a yell for the other, when they proceeded by different routes to Nixon Field.

The game was witnessed by a crowd estimated at one thousand and was a grand exhibition. Each college and its coterie added to the beauty, pennants flying, bands playing and the usual cheering attendant to such occasions, making one forget the cold in his interest in the game.

The early part of the game looked rather blue for Gettysburg, Dickinson scoring three points. In the next two periods neither side scored. By this time enthusiasm began to wane on the part of the Gettysburgians, but in the last quarter her defenders came back to their old form, scoring ten points, making the final score ten to three.

It was conceded to have been the best game ever played on Nixon Field and caused much rejoicing, although no demonstration was held.

Efficient Rat Killer.

An efficient rat-killing device for use on board ship was made and successfully operated on the Monterey by Machinist G. L. Russel, U. S. Navy. The apparatus consists of a piece of dry wood one-half inch thick, two inches wide, and long enough to extend the width of a door, resting on the sill. Upon this piece of wood is screwed to pieces of three-eighth-inch copper, spaced one inch apart, each strip being connected, respectively, to the positive and negative electric light wires by means of the ordinary attachment plug. The rat on entering the room must, naturally, step from one copper strip to the other, causing a short circuit through its body, which instantly kills it. A voltage of 110 is necessary for the successful working of this rat killer.

Blankets, Cotton and Wool, Fleece Comforts
UNDER PRICE

In a way we did a stroke of bad business two years ago in buying twice as many blankets as we could sell in one season, we bought them in such quantities because we got them under price at the time. Since then Blankets have been very much advanced in price, both Cotton and Wool, Cotton especially, but we are selling them priced on the basis of their cost in June 1909, in other words, the same old price of last year.

We Only Name a Few Here, Judge the Stock by These Prices.

1 Lot ¼, Heavy White Blankets Full Size and very Heavy $2.50 | 1 Lot ¼, Heavy Grey Cotton, Full Size, $1.00

These are Larger and better than we were able to sell at this price when Cotton was 10 cts. per pound.

1 Lot ¼, White and Grey, 100 per cent. Wool. This is a hammer at $5.00

Our Price on These Goods was Higher Last Year.

PREVENTING MILLET SMUT.

Soaking Seed In Solution of Formalin Prevents the Disease.

During the past year a fungous disease of millet appeared at various places in Iowa. The botanical section of the Iowa experiment station found upon investigation that the disease was millet smut, a trouble very common in the millet growing sections of Europe. It was probably imported to this country in seed brought from Germany.

Professor Pammel finds that the disease can be prevented by soaking the seed for two hours in a solution of one pound of formalin to forty-five gallons of water.

The claims of millet as an important soiling food rest upon the fact that it is a good milk producing food, that it yields well on good land, that it may be grown as a catch crop and in hot weather in some instances after another crop has been harvested.

Its weak point as a soiling crop is the short season during which it can be fed.

When it comes to a choice between buying some new tool you need on the farm and putting the money in the bank, better buy the tool. It will help you gain the money back and save toil into the bargain.

Sorghum For Hogs.

The Alabama experiment station finds that sorghum pasture for fattening hogs has very little to recommend it. When used with corn it gave better gains than corn alone, but the gains were not profitable when the sorghum was cut and carried to the hogs. They made better gains when allowed to graze it. Excellent gains were made when the juice was extracted and fed, but for this purpose the price was worth but 1.8 cents a gallon. The expense of extracting the juice prohibits its use. In every case sorghum was much inferior to the legumes, and since it left the land poorer its use for hogs was discouraged where legumes could be grown.

Use of the Weeder.

The weeder is a very useful tool in the cultivation of potatoes when properly used. It should be run crosswise of the rows after each cultivation as long as the size of the plants will permit. It helps to pulverize the surface and destroys many of the weeds in the rows where they cannot be reached with the cultivator, thus making hand hoeing less necessary. Some growers continue to use the weeder lengthwise of the rows after the plants are too large to permit running it crosswise by removing some of the teeth from directly over the row.—American Cultivator.

Providing Early Greens.

Turnips if left in the ground will produce early greens in spring, and so will the stalks of cabbage if they are left with the roots in the ground.

Live Stock Notes.

Protection from stormy and inclement weather will make feed go further. Clover and skim milk are almost indispensable in the ration of the growing pig.

Provide a clean, dry bed and never allow a horse to lie on bare boards or stand in wet manure.

Save all of the garden beets that are not needed for the table and for canning to feed your pigs and dairy cows. The ideal sheep pasture is blue grass and white clover. It makes the driest, closest sod, and dry land is best for sheep.

It never pays to starve a colt. Thirty bushels of oats will cost about $10 and be worth twice that much to any well bred colt in the winter.

Sows that come from prolific families are more certain to inherit those qualities and become good mothers than those that descend from families that are less prolific.

Here is an excellent recipe for a thoroughly good disinfectant white wash for the stable: Crude carbolic acid in the proportion of one pound to five gallons of fresh water slaked lime wash. If possible apply with a spraying apparatus mistaken Modesty.

The lesson and significance of an experience incorporated by Mr. Maurice Baring in his book, "Russian Essays and Stories," are undoubtedly the mistake of underrating one's wares. One is likely to be taken at one's word. Once when Mr. Baring was competing in a civil service examination and appeared as a candidate in the German viva voce the German examiner asked him if he could speak German.

"Yes, a little," he answered modestly.

"Oh," said the examiner, "I will then wish you good morning. I will no doubt have the pleasure of seeing you again the next time there is an examination."

The next time there was an examination Mr. Baring presented himself again. The German examiner, who happened to be a different man, asked Mr. Baring if he could speak German. He replied:

"Yes, I speak it as well as Bismarck spoke it, and my written style combines the solidity of Lessing's, the limpidity of Goethe's and the lightness of touch of Heine's, as you have no doubt observed from my written papers."

"Then I need not trouble you any further," said the examiner.

That time Mr. Baring got full marks.

A Camel's Stomach.

The stomach of a camel is divided into four compartments, and the walls of one of these are lined with large cells, every one of which can be opened and closed at will by means of powerful muscles. When a camel drinks it drinks a very great deal. Indeed, it goes drinking on for such a very long time that really you would think that it never meant to leave off. But the fact is that it is not only satisfying its thirst, but is filling up its cistern as well. One after another the cells in its stomach are filled with the water, and as soon as each is quite full it is tightly closed. Then when the animal becomes thirsty a few hours later all that it has to do is to open one of the cells and allow the water to flow out. Next day it opens one or two more cells, and so it goes on day after day until the whole supply is exhausted. In this curious way a camel can live five or even six days without drinking at all and so is able to travel quite easily through the desert, where the wells are often hundreds of miles apart.

A Bit Too Clever.

Holman Hunt used to tell how a carpenter saved one of his best known pictures from a serious error. The man was doing some odd jobs about the house and was found frowning at "The Shadow of the Cross" in the studio—the picture in which Christ, who has been sawing a plank in the workshop, rises to his full height and stretches, his shadow forming a crucifix.

"Well?" asked the artist interrogatively.

"Don't think much of it, mister," was the blunt comment.

"Why?" demanded Hunt, amused, but a trifle nettled.

"Any one that can saw wood without making any sawdust is a sight cleverer any I ever seed," was the answer.

It was true—the floor was clean beneath the bench!

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Good Fairy and the Bad Witch

"WELL, lambskins, I am going to tell you a fairy story tonight," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn climbed to their accustomed places on his lap to hear their bedtime tale.

"Oh, goody, goody!" they cried, and daddy began:

"Once upon a time in a pretty village in Germany there lived a fairy who was very, very good and an old witch who was very, very bad. Now, it kept the good fairy so busy watching the witch and undoing all the harm she did that she was all tired out and badly in need of a vacation."

"What would the witch do, daddy?" asked Jack.

"Well, if the children of the village were to have a party she would put an evil spell on the ice cream and poison it, but the good fairy would wave her wand and charm all the evil away, and the children could eat the cream and not suffer, so, you see, a bad witch could do lots of harm, and it needed a good fairy around all the time. As I said, however, she needed a vacation and thought she might go away for one day at least. Her plan was to slip off when it was dark, so that the other would not know, but the witch found it out, and she laughed and was soon up to her evil tricks.

"She turned all the milk in the village sour, got all the dogs barking so that the people could not sleep a wink, frightened the horses and the cows and made lots of trouble like that. Then as she was flying around on her broomstick she espied a lake, and she said:

"Ah, this is where the boys swim. I'll fix them!" And she ordered all the frogs in the lake to dig a deep hole under the water so that the children would be drowned.

"But just then the good fairy came flying back, for she felt sure some mischief was on foot, and it wasn't long before she found out just what was going on. It made her very, very angry. She did not let the witch see her, but called all the spiders together and told them to spin a monstrous web all around the lake and to make it very strong, for she wanted it to catch the wicked old woman when she came up from the water and started to fly home. The spiders spun and spun and made the biggest web anybody ever saw, and when the witch came out of the deep hole she flew right into the web and was gobbled up by the spiders.

"Then the good fairy made the frogs fill up the dangerous hole, and after that was done she went for a long vacation and had a grand time. She got so fat from drinking milk, however, that her wings would not carry her any more, but the villagers, who knew all she had done for them, built her a fine home, and she lived there happily ever afterward."

Murder Revealed by a Dream.

Perhaps the most amazing crime mystery ever solved by a dream was that revealed by a murder trial a couple of generations ago. The dead body of Mr. Norway, an inoffensive Cornish gentleman, had been found by the roadside between Wadebridge and Bodmin, brutally murdered. No trace of the murderer could be found, and the mystery of the crime seemed beyond all solution, when Mr. Norway's brother, a naval officer, arrived in England and told the following singular story:

On the very night of his brother's murder, when he was on his ship in the West Indies, he saw him in a dream walking along the Bodmin road, when from a dark recess in the hedge two ruffians sprang out, slew and robbed him and then made their way to a house in Wadebridge, which he saw vividly in his dream. To this house he conducted the police officers, and there he found the very two men whom in his vision he had seen commit the murder. They confessed and suffered the extreme penalty of the law.—Pearson's Weekly.

Horse Dentists.

In every large city there are now dentists who devote their entire attention to horses, and they are kept surprisingly busy the year round. The equine dentist is of course provided with special instruments for the extraction and filling of the teeth of animals needing attention. It is rather interesting to observe an operation in horse dentistry. One of the instruments, called a speculum, presents the appearance of an ivory handle and four small bars of nickel working on a ratchet and crossing one another in such a manner as to form a hollow square that can be made large or small by the turning of a screw. Setting this device to the proper size, the horse dentist will slip it gently into the suffering animal's mouth, which, during the operation, is kept partly open by a groom, and when the instrument is fitted upon, say, one of the back teeth the beast's mouth is kept open as wide as possible.—Harper's Weekly.

The Parson Bird.

Among the feathered inhabitants of New Zealand there is a bird called the parson bird, or tui. It is about the size and shape of a blackbird, but has a pair of delicate white tufts at its throat and is a glossy dark green otherwise, which looks black in the sunshine. It can be taught to crow, to speak, to whistle tunes, and, besides these tricks, it has a repertory which is not often equaled by any other feathered songster. At vespers it has a note like the toll of a bell or the clear, high note of an organ. It can mimic every bird in the bush to perfection. It will break off in the middle of an exquisite melody and indulge in a strange melody of sounds which are impossible to describe, but if you can imagine "the combination of a cough, a laugh, a sneeze, with the smashing of a pane of glass," it will be some approach to the idea.

It Often Is.

WINTER SHOE STYLES.

If Your Footgear Is Smart It Must Conform to These Rules.

The styles for winter shoes are in. Pay attention to them when buying your new shoes, so that you are not fooled into purchasing an old fashioned pair.

The most prominent leathers are dull calf and Russian as well as patent leather in combination with cloth or kid tops.

For dress, patent kid vamps with velvet and satin toppings, black of course. Some corded and self-colored figured silks are used.

Black suede toppings are also seen, and a few browns and quiet purples. These, too, have patent leather vamps. Heels are not so high as recently. One and seven-eighths inches is the highest for day wear.

Vamps are nearly all short. If you get a longer vamp you must get a lower heel.

Toes are either round or long. The latter are Frenchier and more favored.

Tops are rather high and slanting, being longer in front than in back.

Long coats that cover the dresses worn beneath them are extensively

THE MILLINERY WORLD.

Willow Plumes of Vegetable Origin. Charming Wing Colorings.

One of the new hats are seen willow plumes that are of vegetable origin. They resemble ostrich and are crinkly and fluffy, but they are made of fine French grass similar to that which was used on summer hats in the form of pompons.

A broad and graceful shaped black velvet hat which turns up slightly in the center front has for its only trimming a double wing effect made of fluffy white egret feathers extending well toward the back.

Wings for millinery purposes never were larger and never more brilliant in coloring. If extended to their full width many of them would measure four feet or more from tip to tip, and they are deep in proportion. Usually they are folded in somewhat and laid flat, covering the entire top of one of the big fabric hats. It is not unusual to see red, blue, yellow and some other vivid shade on one pair of wings.

Bloomers are favorite garments for cool weather wear. In many instances they take the place of petticoats. They are used for exercise suits and are altogether desirable. Serge, flannel and mohair are the materials from which they are developed. JUDIC CHOLLET.
