Government Charges Burr Brothers With Fraud

CONTINENTAL WIRELESS RAIDED

Postmaster General Hitchcock Personally Superintends the Seizures.—Officers to Keep Hot After the Swindlers.

In raids so important that Postmaster-General Hitchcock took charge in person, his inspectors fell on two concerns this week which they charge with swindling the public out of more than $40,000,000 by fraudulent use of the mails.

Sheldon H. Burr, president of Burr Bros.; Eugene H. Burr, secretary and treasurer of the firm, and Frank H. Tobey, its vice-president, were arrested in the first raid and held in $20,000 bail each. The Government charges that the firm sold between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of mining and oil stock worth little or nothing.

Charles L. Vaughan, a director of the Continental Wireless Telegraph and Telephone Company, incorporated in Arizona, was taken in the second raid and held in $10,000 bail. Inspectors say his company has sold stock to the amount of at least $1,000,000, which has brought no return to the investors. Vaughan is treasurer of the Columbia Finance Company, which acts as fiscal agents for the Continental Wireless Telegraph and Telephone Company, and had charge of the Continental offices in New York.

Both raids are further evidence that the Government in its warfare against alleged inter-State swindlers means business and no longer will be content with issuing fraud orders denying them the use of the mails, but will press for convictions on criminal charges. The present campaign began some months ago and has resulted in the arrest of Louis Cella and his associates, charged with operating a string of bucket shops; the officers of the United Wireless Company, the El Progreso Banana Company, the United Exchange of Chicago, the Steele-Miller cotton firm, of Sorint, Miss., and more than 60 other firms in all parts of the country.

Postmaster-General Hitchcock estimates that the public has been fleeced out of at least $100,000,000 by get-rich-quick concerns in the last five years, but says their heyday has gone. The Post-office Department, under the present administration, intends to keep after them every minute, and Postmaster-General Hitchcock said that other arrests, involving corporations that have sought the investors the length and breadth of the country, are expected shortly.

FOUR HUNDRED REBELS KILLED NEAR MEXICAN LINE

Severe Fighting Against Government Troops Results Disastrously to Revolutionary Forces.

Four hundred rebels were killed Saturday evening at Zacatecas in a pitched battle between the Mexican government and revolutionary forces, according to official advices which have been received across the border at Ciudad Porfiria Diaz.

The news comes direct from various sources on the Mexican side, but so well has the telegraph been censored that not a word leaked to the American side until railroad men brought information, and a demand on the Mexican officials caused confirmation.

Revolutionists following the plan adopted at Puebla last week, when 136 men and women were killed, arose and began a fusillade on the soldiers. The details of the engagement are lacking, but the positive fact remains that 400 rebels were killed.

American Consul Luther E. Ellsworth has received information concerning the battle, but the Mexican officials have minimized to him the loss of life. His report says that less than 100 were killed.

CENSUS WORKERS ARE GIVEN NO TIME OFF

Director Durand Wants to Have States Completed That Total Population Can Be Given Out By Dec. 10.

Director Durand of the Census Department announced this week that no leave is now being given to the clerks of the Census Bureau. The Director is endeavoring to get out the total population of the country before December 10 so as to have it in the hands of the committees on the census by that date for use in making the reapportionment.

President Taft visited Cuba on his return from Panama.

MARYLAND'S STATUS

Will Not Lose in Representation In House

ITS POPULATION SUFFICIENT

Growth Indicated By Baltimore Figures Returns Not Enough For a Gain Of a Congressman.

Maryland is not in the slightest danger of losing any of its representation in Congress through the readjustment of membership upon the showing of the census of 1910.

All six members will be retained, even if the ratio goes as high as one member for every 225,000 inhabitants. Calculations show that this could not occur, even if the State showed the gain of not a single inhabitant in the decade. But it is regarded as certain that a substantial increase in population will be shown.

The general impression all along has been that the ratio will be about 225,000. Indications are that it will not go much higher than 215,000, and it may be several thousand lower than this figure.

The population of Maryland in 1900 was 1,188,044. Baltimore in 1910 is given 558,485 inhabitants, a gain of 49,528 in the decade, or 9.7 per cent. The percentage of increase in the whole State will hardly be less than that of Baltimore, whose citizens believe the city's population has been underestimated. The Baltimore rate of increase would give Maryland a population of not less than 1,303,284.

If the ratio of representation should be 225,000, Maryland, in order to hold her own, would have to show a population of 1,237,500. This figure is only 49,456 greater than that of the State in 1900. The increase in Baltimore alone amounts to 49,528. In order to gain one seat in Congress, at the 225,000 rate, Maryland would have to show 1,462,500 population, a gain of 274,456.

Reasons are growing stronger daily for believing 223,000 is a higher ratio of representation than Congress will take, as under that ratio Maine, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri would lose one seat each, Oklahoma would gain two and Massachusetts and Alabama one. The first four States would be able to muster 44 votes against any such reapportionment in Congress.

If 220,000 is the ratio suggested, then Maryland would have to show a population of but 1,210,000—21,956 increase—in order to retain six members. To gain one member under a 220,000 ratio Maryland would have to show a population of 1,490,000—a gain of 241,957. Even the 220,000 ratio will be too high for Maine, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri.

These considerations may force the ratio down to a figure not greater than 215,000, under which Maryland would have to show but 1,182,500—8,000 less than its population in 1900—and would have to gain only 209,458, and with 1,397,500 population to gain one seat.

GOVERNOR-ELECT SUES

PRESBYTERIAN MINISTER

Charges Rev. W. K. Barrett With Libel for Saying Tener Was Drunk.—Placed Under $500 Bond.

The Rev. William L. Barrett, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Blairsville, Pa., was arrested on a charge of criminal libel at his home on information made by Walter H. Gaither, private secretary to Governor-elect John K. Tener. Mr. Barrett waived a hearing and was held in bonds of $500 furnished by himself for appearance at the December term of court.

The information charges that in a sermon "on or about October 24 said W. L. Barrett maliciously and negligently wrote and published and exhibited the following defamatory words referring to John K. Tener, and thereby exposed him to public hatred, contempt and ridicule:

"One of the most prominent ministers of the presbytery, a pastor of a church of nearly 600 members, saw this man assisted to his room in a hotel in a state of intoxication, and the next morning it took two men to assist him to the railroad."

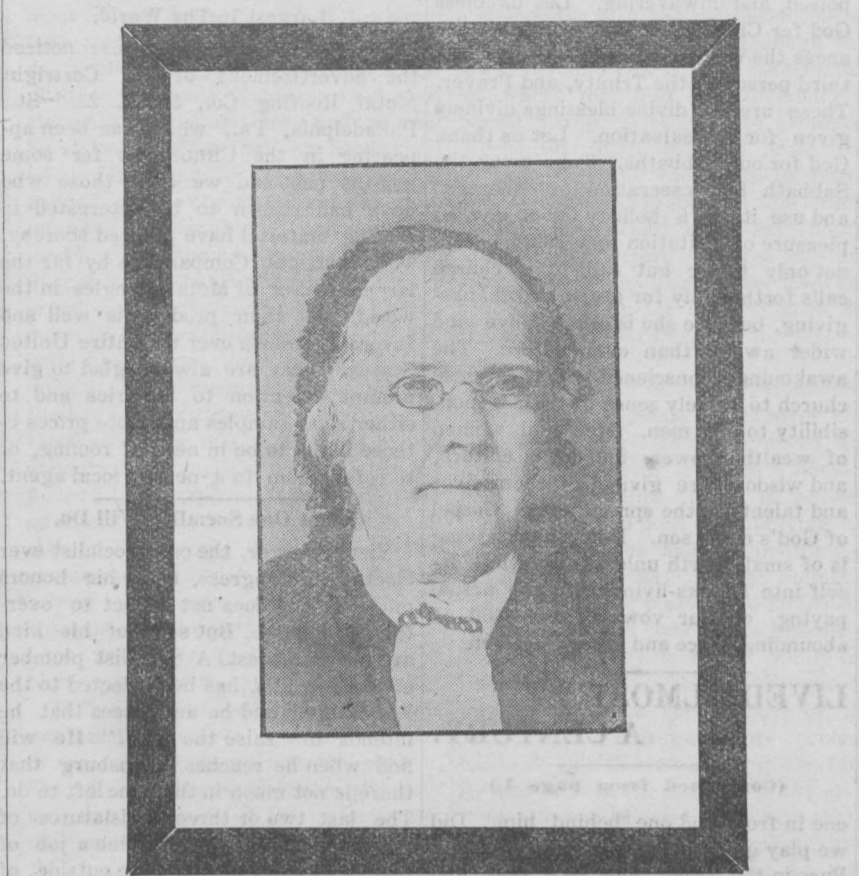

The Blairville Courier, which published the statement, withdrew with an explanation that the statement was false, but the minister declined to retract.

885-Foot Liner Planned.

Specifications issued for the new Cunard Line steamship call for a vessel two and one-half feet longer than the White Star liner Olympic, at present the largest vessel in the world, but of slightly smaller displacement. The new Cunarder will be 885 feet long, with a total displacement of 50,000 tons.

SHE LIVED ALMOST A CENTURY

Mrs. Esther Barry's Death Removes State's Oldest Inhabitant.

On Tuesday evening she died in Emmitsburg probably the oldest citizen of this state, Mrs. Esther Barry, aged 99 years, 4 months and 20 days. For several years Mrs. Barry has resided at the home of Mrs. J. M. Adelsberger, and it was there that she breathed her last.

On the occasion of her 99th birthday anniversary, July 2, 1910, she received a representative of THE CHRONICLE, among others who called to congratulate her. At that time although confined to her bed she seemed in splendid health, cheerful and eager to talk to her callers. Since then her decline has been gradual until she went to sleep for the last time on Tuesday.

Mrs. Barry was born in County Kildare, Ireland, on July 2nd, 1811 and is, therefore, in the 100th year of her age. When she was a few months old her parents emigrated to America and finally settled at Lewistown in Frederick county where her father operated one of the first woolen mills in this section of the country.

Sometime ago THE CHRONICLE published a series of articles furnished by our oldest citizens. Among these, of course, was one from Mrs. Barry telling of her early life. In speaking of those days she said:

"Ah, that was a long time ago but some of the things that happened then I remember as if it were yesterday. I learned my prayers on my father's knee and he taught me the catechism—I can say the first chapter of it now, word for word.

"I can remember my childhood days so much better than I can my later life. My memory is very poor for recent events but the further I go back into the past the clearer it becomes. Yes, I remember Mother Seton perfectly. When I was about six years old my father carried me to Mother Seton to see about my going to school at the convent. She took me on her lap and said:

CHARLES COUNTY BALLOT AND ELECTION FRAUDS

Two Supervisors and a Printer Are Involved.—Investigation Being Made and Warrants Issued.

Warrants were issued Monday by United States Commissioner Bond for the arrest of Supervisors of Election John E. Stone and John M. Miller, Democrats, of Charles county, Md., and John M. Dulaney, of Baltimore.

The arrests were ordered by United States District Attorney John Philip Hill after an investigation covering several days. The supervisors are charged with a fraudulent arrangement and manipulation of the ballot in the recent election. Dulaney printed the ballots.

It is charged that the alleged manipulation of the ballot was for the sole purpose of aiding the Democrats.

Mayor Hill said that Republican supervisor of elections Wilmer had warned the printer that if ballots were printed which in any way violated the penal code he would prosecute.

Supervisor Wilmer told the printer both sections of the code, but, notwithstanding this, they went ahead and printed the ballots. The maximum penalty for conviction under this offense is a fine of $1,000 or one year imprisonment or both.

THE WOOLEN GRAFTERS

Supposed to Have Robbed Government of $10,000,000

THEY WORKED LIKE SUGAR TRUST

Undervaluations of Thirty Firms Involved in Customs Frauds.—Money of One Concern Tied Up.

United States District Attorney Wise is determined to recover for the government all the money it is claimed to have been defrauded out of during the past five years by means of alleged false invoices for importations made by Joseph Brooke & Co., manufacturers of woolens, worsteds and linings, of Bradford, England, and New York. Assistant District Attorney Whitney, who has direct charge of the case says:

"This is the biggest case of its kind the government has ever had. The frauds involve nearly every woolen manufacturing firm in England. The total amount of the duties which the government has lost through these importation frauds is much greater than in the sugar underweighing cases."

Mr. Whitney, continuing, said the Brooke case was the initial one of a series of cases which the government expects to conduct against other importers. These new cases, said the Federal officer, will involve claims against importers amounting to upwards of $10,000,000. Thirty firms are now said to be involved.

The United States District Attorney says that the method employed to cheat the government was through false invoices. The parent firm at Bradford consigned woolens to its New York agency and the consular invoice, it is charged, was made out at from ten to twelve per cent below the actual value. It is said that it is practically an impossibility for appraisers to detect this percentage of shrinkage in valuation.

Twenty-six more writs of attachment were issued by Judge Hazel of the United States District Court in the Government's $200,000 suit against the Brooke concern. The suit is brought by the government for alleged undervaluations of importations of woollens from England for the past five years.

The additional writs, secured by Assistant United States Attorney Whitney were served by Marshal Henkel on a bank and twenty-five mercantile concerns which had accounts with Joseph Brooke & Co.

The action of the District Attorney's office effectually ties up the bank deposits of Joseph Brooke & Co., and prevents the latter from collecting its receivable accounts.

The frauds were first discovered through a tip to the customs officials from a discharged employ named Redling. Nicholas C. Brooks, a special customs agent, was assigned to investigate the clerk's story.

The Kaiser in opening the new naval academy at Flemsburg, Prussia, urged total abstinence of the cadets.

CENTRAL PURCHASING AGENCY FOR STATE

Committee From Hospitals For Insane Will Consider Proposition.—To Save State Much Expense.

A committee composed of the superintendents of hospitals for the insane and the chairman of the purchasing committees of each was authorized Monday at the joint meeting of the State Lunacy Commission and the boards of managers of the State asylums in Baltimore. The object of it is to co-operate with the commission already appointed by Governor Crothers to consider the advisability of a central purchasing agency for all State institutions.

Dr. Hugh H. Young, president of the State Lunacy Commission, made the motion authorizing the committee. He was supported by Dr. J. Clement Clark, of Springfield, and Dr. J. Percy Wade, of Spring Grove. It is believed a saving will be made by purchasing supplies in large quantities.

The Governor also pointed out the desirability of having an exchange of products, by which the cost of maintaining the asylums would be reduced. By this the inmates of each institution will devote their time to some one line of work and the surplus production exchanged with other institutions for theirs.

Another Airship Victim.

Ralph Johnston, formerly a trick bicycle rider and more recently a daring aeronaut, was instantly killed at Denver, Col., when his airship fell a distance of 500 feet. Every bone in the man's body was broken.

A case of cholera was officially declared to have been brought to Quebec on the steamer Royal George.

THANKSGIVING IN TOWN

UNION CHURCH SERVICE

Rev. Mr. Hensley's Eloquent and Forceful Sermon

SUBSTANTIAL OFFERING LIFTED

Thankfulness The Theme of Angels.—Retrospect of Past, Survey of Present Should Put Iron Into Languid Spirits.

The Protestant churches, as is their custom, united in an annual thanksgiving service on Thursday morning. The Lutheran Church was crowded with members of all the denominations and the offering, which is to be devoted to our worthy poor, was quite substantial. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Hensley of the Presbyterian Church. Mr. Hensley took as his text the first and second verses of the 103rd Psalm. He said:

The Psalm which these verses begin is one strikingly beautiful and interesting. As a literary composition it is possessed of distinguishing excellencies; but, considered as a sacred and pious composition, it has a claim upon our highest and most grateful attention. David evidently excelled in these holy exercises. He breathed a high and heavenly atmosphere, and seemed to have a kindredness of spirit with those who constantly stand before the throne of God, and praise him incessantly in his temple little as is thought of it, our national, annual Thanksgiving day is one of the most important dates on our calendar. "Blessed is that nation whose God is Jehovah." We need to be kept in mind of the greatness of God, our relation to Him, and dependence upon Him. Thanksgiving will employ considerable of our time in Heaven. Spencer says, "Thankfulness is the theme of Angels." Gratitude and courtesy are kindred virtues. Thankfulness is proper courtesy toward God. This psalm is one truly of thanksgiving. In these two verses selected for our text two distinctive facts stand out prominently, viz., the object and purpose of the Psalmist.

1. David recognizes Jehovah as the proper object of his thanksgiving. He blesses God as creator, preserver, benefactor, and redeemer. He knows that it is God that made him and not he himself; and that in him he lives and moves and has his being; and from him he receives all needed good; yea, that it is He who saves his soul from death and destruction. He extols and celebrates his goodness, and rehearses the acts of his mercies. He does this with all his soul. His soul enjoyed and appreciated the goodness of God; his

WHAT CROKER THINKS OF REPUBLICAN DEFEAT

Former New York Boss Says the Tariff is Not Responsible For High Prices.—Home Rule For Ireland.

Richard Croker, the old Tammany leader, landed at New York from Ireland Sunday for his annual visit to Palm Beach. He spent but a few days in New York but he was less taciturn than usual and vouchsafed a few comments on the election results.

"Roosevelt cost the Republican party votes," he said, "but I don't think a Republican tariff is responsible for the high cost of living. The people have more to-day of everything that makes for comfort. They have rapid transit, schools, telephones, gas and electricity, automobiles, what not. Well, who's going to pay for it? The people themselves, I say.

"Home rule for Ireland? The people are confident they'll get it, and I think with reason. I'm not in politics myself, but I have seven race horses in training now and I expect to have a dozen next season. One of them is sired by Orby and promises well. I'll be back there to look after him in April. For the winter I'm going where it's warm.

WASHINGTON MEMORIAL FOR WASHINGTON CITY

Chamber of Commerce and Business Men's Committee Indorse the Hall Project.—Will Cost $2,500,000.

At a meeting of the convention committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce that body voted to support the George Washington Memorial Hall project, as advanced by Mrs. Henry Dimock, of New York, and several business men. The hall is to be erected as a memorial to George Washington, and is to cost about $2,500,000.

heart was deeply affected. Not only does he throw his whole soul into this exercise, but he calls upon everything within him—his whole makeup to join in the work of praise.

2. The purpose. His purpose is to remember God's goodness. "And forget not all his benefits."

The Psalmist was not the only one who could enumerate benefits. We have them too.

1. National. The sources of American national life call for gratitude. Irresistible religious convictions marked its beginnings.

They founded the colony for the glory of God, and the advancement of the Christian faith. The historian Bancroft says: "Every enterprise of the Puritans began from God."

Work is a peculiar sweet and blessing in disguise for it is by work we obtain many other blessings. Thank God for your work because many are unable to work for one reason and another and are dependent upon charity.

of our own country when that history shall have been written in full. Champion of religious and political liberty, it has compelled the rest of the world to recognize mutual obligations and has proved itself the friend and deliverer of the oppressed.

2. Personal. Under this head, too, the benefits are simply numerous. It would take a life-time to enumerate them and we will be still counting them in eternity.

The next greatest blessing to life is health, for we cannot well enjoy life without health. Still life is the greatest for there must be life and then health.

Food and raiment call for blessing, too. We ought to bless God for every mouthful we eat. But sad to say the good old custom of saying grace at the table is out of date with some who even bear the name of Christians or who do not appreciate enough such gifts.

Work is a peculiar sweet and blessing in disguise for it is by work we obtain many other blessings. Thank God for your work because many are unable to work for one reason and another and are dependent upon charity.

A friend in need is a friend indeed. Therefore if you are fortunate enough to have friends thank God for them and not yourself. Among our grounds for thanksgiving let us include books.

The funeral services took place this morning at 9 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Rev. J. O. Hayden, officiating. The interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

does it distill into us its evil suggestions and infection. Get good books and great books and hug them to the soul until they soak into brain and heart.

3. Spiritual. These are even greater than either national or personal benefits. So many and great are they that it will take eternity to enumerate them or finishing thanking God for them and then only a little past starting so let us start now.

THE MEANING OF THE STATE CONFER- ENCE OF CHARITIES AND CORRECTION

The sixth annual Maryland State Conference on Charities and Correction held its sessions in Frederick, Md., on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week.

This is an organization having for its end and aim the conservation or saving of the life of the entire state. We hear much in these days of conservation. Applied to forestry it means the saving of our forests from needless waste, putting them under the care of trained foresters who will promote their growth, and the planting of new timber in order that the supply might not be lessened.

In a word, conservation applied to our forests means that they shall be so treated and cared for that they will meet all our demands and at the same time meet the demands of our descendants when they pass on to them.

Applied to minerals it means that such elements as coal and iron and oil shall be so looked after that our needs shall be supplied, and, at the same time, be handed down to our descendants as little impaired as possible.

Applied to the treatment of the land in such a way that it will produce larger crops, and, at the same time, be passed down to our descendants richer than it was when we received it.

Applied to human life it means the enriching of the life of our citizens and the saving of those elements of our life that are in danger of destruction. This last is the field of the Maryland State Conference on Charities and Corrections. It is the aim of the people in charge of this movement to enrich and build up the life of our people, and, at the same time, save those elements of our population in danger of going to waste and being a burden to the Commonwealth.

The persons who are members of this organization believe that the welfare of our country hinges on social service. They believe that legislation, city government, the care of the unfortunate, the cure of the sick, the education of the children, the work of men and the homes of women must come up to such a standard as to mean the highest good and welfare of all the members of the community. They believe that if one member of the social body suffers all the other members suffer with it, and that if one member of the social body is living un-er proper and wholesome conditions all the other members are just as much the better for it.

The organization examines conditions of life and labor, and points where they fail, the hours of labor whether long, the pay too little, unsanitary housing, disease, intemperance, indiscriminate charity, lack of recreation, break down of character and efficiency, heredity, environment and all those different menaces to the best and highest welfare of the people. It examines immigration, industry, congestion in work shops, unemployment, vagrancy and crime. It examines all those realms where human life is being wasted in order to furnish a basis of fact for intelligent and permanent betterment. Indiscriminate charity is a curse to men; the only right charity is organized charity; the only charity that has a right to be called charity is charity that helps men to help themselves, and this is the great aim of the movement.

The program or system of methods by which the organization aims to help men and save men is by the principle of prevention. It aims to prevent poverty through wider opportunity and adequate and intelligent help; to prevent disease through long-range systems of sanitation, of hospitals and sanitariums, of good homes, pure food and water, and a chance for play and recreation out of doors; to prevent crime through fair laws, juvenile courts, real reformatories where men may be helped back to honest living, indeterminate sentence, segregation, discipline and probation; to prevent inefficiency both industrial and civic through practice in democracy, restriction of child labor, fair hours, fair wages, leisure for reading and recreation, compulsory school laws and schools that fit for life and labor, for the earning of income and for rational spending.

One great field of the organization's activity is the home. Wherever possible the home is to be preserved and conserved however ordinary a home it may be. Families living in poverty should be helped both by supplying absolute necessities and by instilling in the breasts of the different members the ambition to master the difficulties of life. In cases where the breadwinner is removed by death the family can be saved by giving help to the one or ones upon whom the support of the family falls. It is much more economical to do this than to break up the family and remove the children to the state institutions and care for them there.

Whenever possible parents and children, mother and child should be kept together. Another field of the organization's activity is the neighborhood, or the local community. In every community there are elements of life that need help if they are to be saved. Every community has its poor, its insane, its dependent, its defective, its delinquent, its ignorant, its vicious, its unfortunate in many ways. The welfare of the community at large demands that these elements of our population be dealt with and dealt with intelligently.

And then there is the child which is the most important of all. The way to remove from the state the defective is to look after the life of the child in such a way that it never will come to be defective or dependent or delinquent. The saving of the child means the saving of the state, the community, the race. Surely this movement deserves the support of every one who cares for the state, the community, the world.

Why The "Court of St. James's." The phrase "The Court of St. James's" owes its origin to the fact that the Palace of St. James's was once, from 1697 in Queen Victoria's time, the regular London residence of the British sovereigns.

And St. James's Palace, in its turn, owes its name to a hospital erected on the same site in the fifteenth century and dedicated to St. James. Henry VIII reconstructed the hospital, changed it into a manor, and later on enclosed the part, which had until then been a marsh, and laid it out in walks.

Queen Mary died there in 1558; Charles I slept there the night preceding his execution; Charles II improved it considerably, employing the famous Le Notre to lay out the "Mall," to enable him to play his favorite game with a ball called a mall (whence "Pall Mall"); and when, in 1697, Whitehall, the neighboring mansion, which was the residence of the court, was almost entirely destroyed by an accidental fire, St. James's palace succeeded to its high honors and held them until 1837, as stated above, when the royal household was transferred to Buckingham Palace.

And, by the way, it is a matter of some regret, at the heedless manner in which the above Court and Palace are so frequently referred to in American print as "St. James's Court" and "St. James's Palace." It can hardly be denied that we Americans have a right to make such rules as we choose for the language that we use; and that, if our British cousins see fit to speak (as they always do) of "Bass's ale" and "Jones's house," we are equally at liberty to curtail such phrases to "Bass's ale," "Jones's house," etc. But when it comes to quoting historical or commercial titles, whether they be of the "Court of St. James's class or of the "Chambers's Encyclopedia" kind, more regard for established usage would redound to our credit as an educated people, and would save us from much unpleasant criticism at the hands of our "cousins" aforesaid.

Announcement has been made that the Cumberland Valley Railroad Company will install the block system from Harrisburg through to Hagerstown, placing blocks every 6,000 feet on both tracks. The order for the automatic signals has been placed and the work of installation will begin at an early date.

Anti-Typhoid Vaccination. The surgeon general of the Army has this week renewed his previous recommendation for universal vaccination in the Army against typhoid fever. The suggestion to this same effect hitherto made did not receive departmental approval. It is now pointed out by General Torney that the medical officers have accomplished all that is practicable in the way of voluntary vaccination against typhoid fever, and that the innocuousness of this procedure has been entirely demonstrated. Its protective value is now believed to be as perfectly demonstrated as any fact in medicine, and, if it is desired by the War Department that the Army have the benefit of the protection, the time has come to require it as a routine procedure throughout the Army. Although no age is entirely exempt from typhoid fever, it is essentially a disease of adolescence. Individuals who have reached middle age have usually been exposed to the infection and are either immune because of a previous attack or because of natural immunity. It is believed to be reasonable to except from the universal vaccination of the Army all persons over 35 years of age and all who give a reasonable history of having had an attack of the disease. Surgeons should also be authorized to excuse any person for reasons of health, provided the exception is approved by the chief surgeon of the department. Recruits should, of course, be vaccinated immediately after enlistment, but revaccination upon reenlistment should not be required, according to the proposition of General Torney.

La Follette Smiles Last. Senator La Follette was variously regarded as an extremist, and an imprudent and an unstable man. He made a notable speech in the Senate on the Aldrich tariff measure in which he said: "I warn you that if you refuse to consider every proposition advanced in behalf of the public, and carry out your determination to make this tariff legislation but an instrument by which special interests may enrich themselves, the public will hold you responsible, and prove its resentment as certainly as elections are held."

Nine of the Senators who laughed at the La Follette "demagoguery" were re-elected November 8, and in seven of the States so represented Democratic legislatures were elected.—Detroit News.

AN AWAKENING.

Usually after an election everything political dies down. Campaign issues are forgotten or laid aside and the means by which any particular subsequent result was brought about are soon covered over with the moss of indifference. People accept the verdict as inevitable and go about their work as though nothing unusual had happened. This cannot be said, however, about the election just past. There was something big at stake—something that was of vital concern to the voters of many states.

The issue was a composite one. It embraced tariff revision in a general way, opposition to special interests in a specific way, and a breaking from the fetters of bossism in a singularly and pronounced way. In a word it was the people versus powerful political machines built up, maintained, kept together and operated by a self-chosen few at the expense of the people.

It was a desperate contest between corporate capital and over protected interests allied to a certain percentage of strongly entrenched and blindly partisan feeling, and plain fact and business sense honestly set forth by the intelligent determination of fearless and independent men with no motive but that arising from a desire to accomplish something for the common weal.

Little wonder, then, that both those who aided in bringing about the change as well as those who followed their political dictators to defeat are still thinking of how it all came about and what it means.

As stated on previous occasions, it was not a purely partisan victory—the people in the long run are not blind enough to assume that everything good is in one party—but rather a victory brought about by the awakened intelligence and serious deliberation of the masses.

It took a long time to arouse them—so apathetic and complacent does the body politic become after getting used to running in the groove marked out by so-called "leaders"—but at last, in addition to listening to common sense, they felt more than ever the pinch at the pocket and the gall of the yoke and they rebelled and overthrew.

Says the Washington Herald on this handing over of the people's rights:

Bit by bit in this country we have, as a people, been foolish enough to surrender this power into the hands of the professional politicians, the "bosses" and our public servants. There must be public servants whose duty it is to make laws, interpret them, and enforce them, but we have been in danger of forgetting that the specialists whom we select are indeed our servants and not our masters. We have not remembered that, after all, the only power these officials are clothed with is the power delegated to them by the people they are supposed to serve.

It is largely because of the growth of the boss system, with its revelations of power misused; of graft, of a people betrayed, that within very recent times there has awakened a public spirit which demands that the power of the people shall be felt. Dissatisfied with the work of legislatures, of common councils, and other governmental machinery, both State and municipal, the people have been coming to feel that they have been giving too much authority to their representatives and that it would be wise to retain in their own hands the ability to originate legislation, the power to check and correct legislation originated by their representatives, and the power to dismiss—as any other employer may dismiss—a servant who proves recreant to his trust.

That the people have begun to take back to themselves the power which they, through heedlessness, delegated to others is quite apparent. That they are beginning to free themselves from bossism is equally apparent. They are tired of sinking their manhood and independence and of being tagged and counted like dumb brutes. They realize that they have minds and they propose to use them. They are using them now and it is to be hoped that they will continue to use them at every election that is to follow.

Too much credit cannot be given to the person who, single-handed and against odds, is making a successful uphill fight, whether in a personal cause or in one that means more to others than to self. Little does the world know—and unfortunately little does it seem to care—how hard the struggle is. It looks only for results. Many a man at this moment is fighting to overcome a habit, to accomplish something that means a great deal to another, to fulfill an obligation voluntarily assumed, and the passerby little knows of the hard work and determination it takes. But there is this satisfaction: When the undertaking is accomplished, when the goal is reached, there is a consciousness of duty honorably performed alone and a feeling of justifiable pride in having come into the port of self-respect and attainment through the channel of self-reliance and honest effort.

DURING the encampment at Gettysburg last Summer the War Department severely criticized the authorities of that town because some of the government troopers contracted typhoid fever. Who is to be criticized for the typhoid epidemic at the Naval Academy? a government reservation entirely under government control.

ANOTHER chance for Colonel Roosevelt. Why don't he go to Mexico and turn a few verbal handsprings, fire a volley or two of bombastic preachments and then beat the rebels to a frazzle—just like he did in New York. Peace will follow, surely.

THAT jealousy of the smallest kind exists in the "Service" is well known to every one who has ever come in contact with any of Uncle Sam's brass button contingent—either in the Army or Navy. But the limit of this petty and contemptible feeling was reached the other day when a marine was arrested for applauding the good plays of a football eleven that was opposing the Navy team on home grounds. A fine spirit, certainly, to force upon men who are supposed to be taught to admire fair play and to respect the valor of a brave enemy. This is truly esprit de corps with a vengeance.

THE Roycroft annual catalogue is out and there are many interesting bits of information therein contained. For instance, you can have a motto carved on the half of an oak log for $10.50. Down this way you can get two cords of wood for that price, split and put away and with a dozen or so terse mottos from the splitter thrown in. Of course we realize that the "bong swong" touch of the Roycrafters counts for a heap. But so does a cord of wood without the "swong." It burns just as well anyway.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S has a right to feel proud of its football record for 1910. This year's eleven was full of snap and ginger and the team work excellent. No little share of the season's victories is due to Coach Topper who in a remarkably short time developed a squad that was hard to beat.

THE past few months have been busy ones for Emmitsburg. Building and improvement has been steadily going on, the various industries of the place have been thriving and, from correct reports, next spring will witness even greater progress in the town.

SUCCESS—and this is no fairy tale—does not consist in a righteous bawl, about the fact that you never fail, but in rising after your fall.

California Primaries.

In all the recent rage for primary reform California leads. Her latest law adopted at the last week's election by popular vote, is the extreme limit. Hereafter there are to be no parties recognized at the primaries. Names only are to be printed on tickets, and any voter may mark the name of one for each office, and his politics are not asked. The highest two names for each office are then placed on the ticket to be voted at the regular election, and no others. But there is one important provision: If any candidate gets an actual majority of all the votes cast for the nomination, he is then declared elected and no regular election is held for that office.

We submit that this is "reform" gone mad. It is simply making the primary take the place of the general election. It is flying in the face of all history in eliminating party spirit. The human race is gregarious, it naturally flocks around leadership and practically all political advancement has come through parties. It is quite true that partisanship has often been evil in some of its aspects, but that does not dispose of the fact that in almost every human endeavor organization and discipline have been essential factors.

We have had all sorts of experiments with primaries. As yet the political millennium has not arrived, but many strange things have taken place, such as electing Republican Senators from Democratic States and vice versa, such as nominating people for high office who have had no experience, etc. If it is possible to reform politics by such methods, by all means let it be done, but it would be interesting to know what is the proper way. Bossism thrives under primaries as easily as under former conditions. The real reform will come only from the higher ideals on the part of individual voters.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"Gee, Si, but I wuz homesick when I went ter th' city!" "Gose! Was yer? How homesick?" "Well, I stood on th' corner till I seen a car marked 'to the Barn' an', by gum, I took it!"—Cleveland Leader.

DISCOVERY OF SOURCE OF TYPHOID AT ANNAPOLIS

Government Medical Men Declare There Will Be No More Cases at Naval Academy.—No Fatalities.

The medical reports from the Naval Academy received by the surgeon general of the Navy states that there were 16 cases of typhoid among the midshipmen and three "suspects." There was an additional case, that of a seaman from a submarine, and one case among the civilian instructors, the latter probably not typhoid, however. The outbreak is confined to the midshipmen body and appears to be limited to Bancroft Hall. The source lies between an additional supply of milk which it was necessary to obtain from a distant city and the possibility of there being a typhoid "carrier" among the messmen branch. Precautions against the spread of the disease have been promptly taken by the bureau of medicine and surgery. Through the courtesy of the surgeon general of the Army, it has been possible to obtain a sufficient quantity of anti-typhoid vaccine, which will be extensively employed. The bureau of medicine and surgery has sent to Annapolis additional female nurses and a number of hospital corps men. Surgeon Charles St. J. Butler, U. S. Navy, bacteriologist of the naval medical school and an expert in these matters, has gone to Annapolis to supplement the efforts of the medical officers in that place. The Navy medical officers believe that they have the situation well in hand, and that there will be few, if any, more cases.

KAISER WILHELM III RUSHES UP A CHURCH

Builds One in An Hour That He May Keep the Sabbath Holy.—Must Attend Church once Every Sunday.

Emperor William is a strict observer of the Sabbath and a regular attendant upon church.

During his recent visit to Budapest as the guest of Archduke Frederick, he was much put out one Sunday morning on finding that no step had been taken to keep the day holy at the little shooting box where he was staying with the Catholic Hapsburg prince. He learned this at 8 o'clock in the morning. An hour later he might have been seen following the Protestant ritual in a wooden hut which he had specially built and suitably fitted out at a moment's notice.

One of the imperial automobiles had previously been sent a distance of many miles to fetch the only Protestant clergyman of the countryside. After the service, the Order of the Red Eagle was bestowed upon the parson by the grateful Emperor.

COUNT LYOF TOLSTOI SUCCUMBS AT LAST

Celebrated Russian Author, Philosopher and Philanthropist Dies Surrounded by Family.

Count Lyof Nicolailvitch Tolstoi died at Astopova, Russia, on Sunday, after surviving a number of attacks all of which were thought, at the time, to be fatal. Just before he died, while being ministered to by physicians and his family, he said: "There are millions of people and many sufferers in the world. Why always anxious about me?" A week ago Count Tolstoi left home that he might spend his last days in seclusion. His movements were only hidden for a day and since then the world has been apprised of his trip. On the 9th of September he was 82 years old. Several of his books are in the Emmitsburg Public Library.

Capt. George L. Fisher, veteran of the Civil and Spanish-American wars, who has been commander of Company B, First Maryland Regiment, since its organization, has reached the age limit and will retire from military duty. In appreciation of the services he has rendered his country, as well as the militia of Maryland, Captain Fisher was tendered an informal reception at the armory in Hagerstown. Captain Fisher has the record of having seen 48 years of military service. He served throughout the Civil War and he spent 15 years in the regular army.

A number of witnesses were summoned before the Washington county grand jury to give testimony as to whether intoxicating liquors were sold by several social clubs and lodges in Hagerstown. The testimony showed that drinks were served to members only through the check system. Since Judge Keedy's charge to the grand jury on the subject of the clubs and lodges selling without license the Conococheague and Maryland Clubs and the Elks, Owls, Moose and Eagles have taken out oyster house licenses, under which a club is permitted to sell liquor in quantities less than a pint.

Thirteen thousand five hundred dollars was the amount of the verdict returned by the jury Friday evening in the damage suit of Frank L. Bennings against the Pennsylvania Steel Company at Hagerstown. Bennings, who was one of the workmen employed on the Williamsport bridge across the Potomac River when it collapsed, had sued for $20,000. He sustained a crushed jaw and other injuries of a permanent character. In the Nace case the Court of Appeals affirmed the lower court, which had given Nace, one of the injured workmen, $5,000 damages. It is said the Bennings case will likely be taken to the Court of Appeals.

Expel Agitators From Nicaragua.

The liberal leaders alleged to be responsible for the anti-American riots at Leon, Nicaragua, were expelled from that country by President Estrada, according to a telegram received by the State Department from Thomas B. Moffat, United States consul at Bluefields.

BETTER ROADS ITS AIM

Beginning on Tuesday of National Association

TO ESTABLISH HARMONY IN WORK

Prominent Men of Country Lend Their Aid in Great Movement and Many Attend Initial Meeting.

Probably the most important meeting ever held in the interest of road improvement in this county took place at the Cosmos Club Washington on Tuesday.

The purpose is to harmonize and turn to practical account all of the efforts that are being made to further the work of road improvement in the country. Many of the most distinguished and successful men of the nation are identified with this great movement, most of whom were at the meeting.

It is expected that an organization, national in its scope, will be launched which will make its influence felt everywhere, and which will co-operate with other organizations having for their object the welfare of the rural population particularly great associations of farmers, such as the National Grange and Farmer's Union.

Permanent official headquarters will be maintained in Washington. The work of the association will be energetic and continuous, and the holding of good road conventions will be an incident to the general plan. It is the hope of the founders of this movement that the headquarters, of the association will be a sort of clearing house where every legitimate and helpful undertaking looking to betterment of the public roads will find sympathetic hearing and helpful co-operation.

Under conditions as they exist today enormous amounts of time, energy, and money are wasted because there are so many little movements, unable to accomplish great results singly and on working at counter purposes with each other. That a strong national organization will economically accomplish infinitely greater results by harmonizing and crystallizing these movements is self-evident proposition.

The meeting was called to order by Secretary Wilson, of the Agricultural Department, who yielded the chair to the temporary chairman for the carrying out of all the steps necessary to perfecting the organization and launching the movement.

PITTSBURGH'S JAIL COLONY GROWS LARGER ALL THE TIME

Two More Bribe Takers Playing Checkers With Their Noses In the Pen.—Sentences Affirmed.

Two former Councilmen of Pittsburgh by a decision of the State Superior Court in Philadelphia, must go to jail for accepting bribes to influence their votes as Councilmen.

The court sustained the convictions against M. F. Swift, Jr., and A. W. Simon, in the Allegheny county court, the former for receiving $81.10 for his vote in favor of vacating a city street and the latter for accepting a like bribe for his vote on the street ordinance and $100 for his vote on a measure designating certain banks as depositories for city funds.

Simon was also convicted of receiving $325 for his vote on the bank ordinance, but the conviction was set aside by the Superior Court. The reversal on this indictment, however, will not benefit Simon, as he was given one sentence on the two indictments by the lower court.

POLITICAL COMMITTEES MUST HAND IN ACCOUNTS

Congressional Campaign Expenses Will Be Handed In at Opening of Coming Session of Congress.

Just how much was contributed and spent in the recent Congressional campaign by the party committees will be revealed the first week of the coming session of Congress.

The officers of committees, as well as of minor organizations, wherever their collections or expenditures involved two or more States, must file their accounts with Clerk Alexander McDowell, of the House, not later than December 8. This is required by the new so-called Publicity act, which became a law June 25 last and is now operative. It will be the first time in the history of the country that the cash books of the parties have been opened by requirement of statutory enactment.

Hardware Men Combine.

Hardware dealers from New York, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and a few scattering states, have announced that they have formed of themselves an association whereby they might buy on a large scale and in selling combat the low prices of the Western catalogue houses and the five and ten cent stores. They organized as the American Hardware and Supply Company, with an intended capital of $500,000, and an increase later to $1,000,000. About 150,000 dealers are included in the movement and headquarters will be established in Pittsburgh.

"Smile upon your troubles but don't get too chummy with them."

"Never trouble trouble till trouble troubles you."

MORNING PRAYER.

LET me today do something that shall take
A little sadness from the world's vast store,
And may I be so favored as to make
Of joy's too scanty sum a little more.
Let me not hurt, by any selfish deed
Or thoughtless word, the heart of foe or friend;
Nor would I pass, unseeing, worthy need,
Or sin by silence when I should defend.
However meagre be my worldly wealth,
Let me give something that shall aid my kind,
A word of courage, or a thought of health,
Dropped as I pass for troubled hearts to find.
Let me tonight look back across the sea
"Twixt dawn and dark, and to my conscience say—
Because of some good act to beast or man—
"The world is better that I lived today."

HANDY LIFTING JACK.

Easily Made Farm Device For Weighing Heavy Articles.

Herewith is given an illustration of a device for weighing cotton, beef, hogs and any other heavy article that the farmer may want to weigh. This was suggested to Farm and Ranch by a man who finds it very handy on the farm since one man can lift with it about as much as five men without it and with greater ease. It is made as follows:

The timber used is 1 by 4, but for articles weighing more than 400 pounds it will require stouter material. For the legs take one piece sixteen feet long and cut in three pieces—five, five and six feet respectively. The lever is ten feet long and has a hole bored one-fourth of its length from one end, or two and one-half feet from the end. In the shorter end is another hole in which to fasten a hook for the scales. Put together with a large bolt, first putting on the five foot leg, then the lever, the six foot leg and last the other five foot leg. The holes in the outside legs should be one size larger than those in the lever and longer leg in order that they may be spread apart at the bottom, so that they will not stand vertical.

When it is desired to weigh or lift an object pull the lever A-B to the position of C-D, fasten the article on the hook and with a rope fastened to the long end of the lever pull it down and hook under the stob, as shown in the illustration.

Many farmers are so intent on making money for the money's sake that they take no thought of the great possibilities of perfect living in the country.

MONEY IN SEED GROWING.

Enormous Increase in Quantity Produced For Commercial Purposes.

According to Joseph A. Arnold of the United States department of agriculture, there is profit in raising high grade seed. Seed crops of sweet corn, garden peas and beans of good quality are in ever increasing demand, and the quantity needed yearly has become so large that the seedsmen are obliged to have the major portion of his stock grown for him by others. Within the past few years there has been an enormous increase in the quantity of seeds produced for commercial purposes. This has been due in large measure to the development of seed growing and handling as a business. There are now nearly a thousand seed firms doing business in the United States. One of the largest of these uses buildings with an aggregate floor space of more than sixteen acres. This space is much larger than was occupied by the entire seed trade of the country only fifty years ago. The quality also has vastly improved.

One of the most encouraging developments in the growing of garden vegetables is the increasing recognition of the practical importance of using pure and uniform stocks of seed whose varietal characteristics adapt them to distinct local conditions and market requirements. Another consideration is the fact that the growing of seed crops of these vegetables can be undertaken without any radical change in farm practice or material increase in farm equipment. These conditions make this industry well worth the attention of farmers who are located where soil and climatic conditions are favorable for the best development of such seeds.

However, the raising of these vegetables for seed crops is not recommended for all circumstances even when soil and climate are suitable. The farmer who contemplates undertaking seed crop farming will do well to consider thoroughly the many elements which enter into profits. Seedsmen are often able to place contracts for growing seed at very low prices, even lower than that at which grain of the species can be sold on the market. Such a condition might be due to any of several causes, but usually rests on an oversupply or a demand for an inferior product. The general tendency now, however, is decidedly in the other direction, and both seed dealers and seed growers can do much by co-operation to further this tendency.

Pleasant surroundings and modern conveniences, easily obtainable, will go a long way in keeping the boys and girls on the farm.

Keep Dust Out of the Wheels.

To keep the dust out of the wheels of your wagon cover the inside of the hub and the connection with the axle with leather or linoleum. Dirt causes much friction upon the axle and soon wears it out.

Two Seats.

A large and pompous person, wearing a high hat, a long coat, yellow spats and a congenial sneer, for several days made himself obnoxious around a Washington hotel a bit ago.

He announced he was from New York, ragged the bellboys, jawed the clerks, cussed the service, roared at the food, complained about his room and the elevator and the telephones and the bar and everything else.

One afternoon he walked over to the porter and said: "Here, you; I'm going to quit this town and go back to New York, where I can get some decent service. I want you to buy me two seats in a parlor car on the 4 o'clock New York train. Get me two seats, now, and meet me at the station with the tickets. I want one chair to sit in and one to put my feet in."

The seats were delivered at the train just before it pulled out. One of the seats was in car No. 3 and the other was located in car No. 4.—Saturday Evening Post.

Solon's Answer.

"What is the most perfect form of government?" was once propounded at the court of Perikander, king of Corinth, one of the seven wise men of Greece. His six fellows were present, and of them Bias answered first, giving as his opinion, "Where the laws have no superior." Thales of Miletus, the great astronomer, declared, "Where the people are neither too rich nor too poor." In his turn said Anacharsis, the Scythian, "Where virtue is honored and vice detested." Said Pittacus of Mitylene, "Where dignities are always conferred upon the virtuous and never upon the base." Said Cleobulus, "Where the citizens fear blame more than punishment." Said Chilo, the Spartan, "Where the laws are more regarded than the orators."

The last to reply was the youngest but wisest of them all, Solon of Athens, who said, "Where an injury done to the meanest subject is an insult to the whole community."

Its Purpose.

They stood in front of one of Washington's leading furniture stores. The windows were full of beautifully inlaid pieces of furniture, such things as are only within the reach of the rich and are meant to lend an additional touch to the already perfectly appointed home. Among them was an afternoon tea table. It was a frail, delicately constructed piece on rollers and brought to mind an artistically gowned hostess serving tea to a select coterie, while the conversation dealt with nothing more heavy than the latest fiction and comic operas. With a long drawn out sigh the woman contemplated it. The man, following her gaze, saw it and was unimpressed. She hastened to explain.

"That there is a tea table. It's just grand to use when you ain't got no cook in the house and have folks in."—Washington Star.

Starting a Family Jar.

"No man ever obtained anything worth having without working hard for it," said Mrs. Bickers to her husband, who was in a discouraged mood.

"Quite true," replied Mr. Bickers, reflectively. "I remember that I obtained you without the slightest difficulty."—Liverpool Mercury.

Some Nautical Facts.

A knot is 6,080 feet long. The distance from New York to Liverpool is 3,064 nautical miles by the northern track and 3,139 by the southern track. The former course is taken by vessels bound for New York, the latter by vessels bound for Liverpool. From Liverpool to New York the distances are respectively 3,039 and 3,109 miles.

In estimating records the points taken on either side are Sandy Hook and Daunt's rock, Queenstown harbor. The first light sighted on the British coast is the Bull, Cow and Calif, Ireland, and on the American coast either Nantucket or Fire island.

He Was Cautious.

Frederick the Great was always fond of disputations, but as he generally terminated the discussion by collaring his antagonist and kicking his shins few of his guests were disposed for an argument. He asked one of his suit why he did not venture to give his opinion on some particular question. "It is impossible, your majesty," was the reply, "to express an opinion before a sovereign who has such convictions and wears such very thick boots!"

Live Table Talk.

"I hope you will be interested in yonder gentleman," said the hostess. "I have assigned him to take you out to dinner."

"I shall be," responded the lady addressed. "That gentleman was formerly my husband, and he's behind with his alimony."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Feminine Resource.

Mr. D. went to the club, leaving Mrs. D. with a lady friend whose abilities as a scandalmonger and mischief maker were preeminent. When he returned the just poked his head into the drawing room and said, with a sigh of relief, "That old cat's gone, I suppose?"

For an instant there was a profound silence, for as he uttered the last word, he encountered the stony stare of the lady who had been in his mind. Then his wife came to the rescue.

"Oh, yes, dear," she said. "I sent it to the cats' home in a basket this morning."

Poison In War.

When the French beat the Formosans along the coast in 1881 the latter retired to the interior. When the French pursued them they found a queer line of defense, beyond which they could make no progress and in storming which many died. The Formosans had poisoned the springs, water courses, etc., as they retreated, and the campaigns of the French against them never got farther than the poison line. The poison was a native one, as deadly as arsenic or strychnine.

Argus Eyed and Hydra Headed.

The term "Argus eyed" means watchful. According to the Grecian fable, Argus had 100 eyes, and Juno set him to watch all of whom she was jealous. When Argus was slain she transplanted his eyes into the tail of the peacock. "Hydra headed" is a term derived from the fable of Hercules and the hydra. The hydra had nine heads, and Hercules was sent to kill it. As soon as he struck off one of its heads two shot up in its place.

No Fire Within.

Times have changed. Our fathers for some strange reason preferred a cold meeting house to one which was warmed by artificial heat. When a stove was put into the Old South church, Boston, in 1783 a newspaper of contemporary date contained this significant lament:

Extinct the sacred fire of love,
Our zeal grown cold and dead,
In the house of God we fixed a stove
To warm us in their stead.

Velvet is an old story, but there are a few new chapters this season. The changeable velvet is the latest. It is colorful and twice as effective as a one toned fabric and gives double opportunity for color-alliance. There are also checked velvets and moire velvets, each name explaining to you the general character of the cloth.

"Three Times You Have Cheated Me of My Drink"

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The King and the Hawk

"A LONG, long time ago," said daddy one evening to Jack and Evelyn after the lamps had been lit and all was quite cozy for the children's bedtime story, "there was a king in Persia named Genghis Khan. He was a great king and a very proud man, who wanted to have his own way always. He was very fond of hunting, and one of the ways in which he hunted was with a hawk."

"How was that, daddy?" asked Jack.
"In the olden days," said daddy, "people trained hawks to hunt for them. The bird would fly high in the air, and if it saw any small animal in the grass it would swoop down and thus show the hunter where the animal lay. Genghis Khan had one hawk of which he was very fond, and he took the bird with him one day when he went hunting."

"Returning from the hunt, with the hawk sitting on his wrist, the king found himself very thirsty. He had become separated from his companions, so he had no one around him to send for a drink. 'I have my silver cup in my pocket,' said the king to himself, 'and I shall go to the spring which is near the place where I am now and have a nice drink of cool, fresh water.'"

"Soon the king arrived at the place where the water was trickling down between two rocks, drop by drop. As he bent over to fill his cup the hawk flew into the air, but when the cup was filled and the king lifted it to his lips the bird flew down and knocked the cup out of the king's hand. That made the king angry, for he was very thirsty, but he bent over and filled the cup again. This happened three times."

"Why did the bird do that, daddy?" was Evelyn's question.
"Listen, child, and you shall hear," said daddy. "When the bird knocked the cup out of the king's hand the third time he lost his temper. 'Three times you have cheated me of my drink,' said he. 'If you do it again I shall cut off your head.' And with one hand he held his drawn sword while with the other he held the cup to be filled. Again the bird flew down and knocked the cup out of the king's hand. This time it fell between two stones, where the king could not get it. But as the hawk struck the cup Genghis Khan swept around his sword and cut off the bird's head."

"But the king was still thirsty, so he climbed the rock to the pool from which the water flowed, and there lying in the water he saw a dead snake of the most poisonous kind. The poor hawk had tried to warn the king of the danger of drinking the water, and when he saw the dead snake he understood the bird's action. 'I will never again do anything in anger,' said the king."
