Investigating Committee's Report Challenged

OTHERS ALSO STUDYING RECORD

Resolutions Promised Will Precipitate the Bitterest Kind of a Struggle. -Senate Inquisitors in Peculiar Position.

Senator William Lorimer of Illinois will have to fight to hold his seat in the Senate. For many weeks it has been known that Senator Beveridge of Indiana, a retiring insurgent and a member of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, has carefully and with doubtful approval been scrutinizing Mr. Lorimer's right to his seat. It now devolves that if Mr. Beveridge as a committee member does not bring in a minority report declaring against the whitewash given Mr. Lorimer, Senator Borah of Idaho, will bring in a resolution declar ing the seat vacant. In this Mr. Borah will receive support from many quarters. It is intimately though unofficially stated that Senator Root is also studying the testimony as Mr. Borah has done.

Mr. Borah has reached the conclusion that there is no warrant for the findings of the sub-committee that the title of Senator Lorimer "has not been shown to be invalid by the employment of corrupt methods or practices." He has determined that if no minority report is made he will introduce such a resolution himself and head the fight against Lorimer on the floor of the Senate. The resolution will precipitate the bitterest kind of a struggle, and will make a division in the Senate that will follow no political lines or leaders.

The statement by Senator Borah, who is perhaps as good a lawyer as can be found in the Senate, that the report of the committee is not borne out by Rebecca Harding Davis and "Myra the testimony which the committee is presumed to have read, places the Senate's inquisitors in a somewhat uncomfortable position. Senator Beveridge liam James and J. V. Shoemaker. In declared in the Senate that although a member of the committee, he had been Clay, Daniel, Dolliver and McEnery, given less than two days to read the ex-Senator Platt, ex-Secretary of the testimony, which he had found an impossible task. The testimony covers 748 pages, and the other members of it than had Mr. Beveridge. If they Chipman, Magn read it at all they will still have the task of defending their report against Borah and the other insurgent or Democratic lawyers of the Senate.

Senator Borah spent a week on the testimony, working every day, and ences with several other senators, who have been similarly employed during the holidays. Following are extracts from a brief concerning the Cunningham coal claims ın Alaska, submitted to the President by Gifford Pinchot and Amos Pinchot. The charge against the Cunningham entries is that they were made in pursuance of a fraudulent plan to acquire for a single association public coal lands in Alaska greatly in excess of the amount allowed by law. The law allowed an individual to take not more than 100 acres and an association not

The area embraced by the Cunningham claims is approximately 5,280 acres. The device employed was to have each member of the association enter a claim in his own name, and make oath that were acting under an agreement that when titles were secured the claims should be consolidated into one property and operated for the joint benefit of all in equal shares.

The evidence in this case goes much farther than to establish the fraud of attempting by subterfuge to acquire from the government more coal land than the law allows. It shows that from the beginning the claimants acted with the definite and sustained intention of defeating the primary purpose and essential spirit of the law-the spirit secure competitive development of the nation's resources.

At the outset ten men purchased jointly twenty-two locations.

Early in 1903 ten of the claimants joined in the purchase of twenty-two claims, of 100 acres each, which had been staked out by squatters. Each of the ten by his equal contribution to the joint fund thus expended acquired a onetenth interest in the twenty-two claims.

These claims were recorded in the local land office, ten in the names of the subscribers and twelve in the names of The President at his annual New "dummies." During the next year gress confers pensions. Of these last culated as a congressional document, Year reception at the White House the number of associates was gradually increased to twenty-seven. Each new subscriber paid into the joint fund an initial fee slightly in excess of the total payments of each old subscriber. Until after the passage of the act of April 28, 1904, providing a new method of recording locations in Alaska, that twentyseven "associates," as they were called by Cunningham, owned in common only

> Early in 1907 the Cunningham claimants decided to make final entry or "prove up" their claims; that is to say, to pay their $10 an acre to the government and obtain their final certificates, which would give them a sufficient title to the claims to make it legal (Continued on page 2.)

When Women Have a Vote.

When the women get in office, And the men are ousted out, We'll have a dickens of a time To get around about.

There'll be women cops upon the beat, And women firemen too. And women legislators, Who'll say what we must do.

Talking race track news or such, A female cop will chase you off; "Well, don't that beat the Dutch."

At night you'll have to stay at home, So says the suffragette, While wife goes out to speechify, And try new votes to get.

Right here man should assert himself, And strike this vital blow. If wifey wants to run the ranch, Make her put up the "dough."

ADAMS COUNTY, OHIO, SHORT OF MEN FOR JURY DUTY

Almost All are Under Indictment.-Some 1400 Have Been Fined and Disfranchised for Bribery.

The work of cleaning up Adams county, Ohio, of vote buyers continues and beside the 300 men who have disappeared since Judge Blair started the trouble some 1400 have plead guilty to the charge of accepting or giving money

The court is confronted with many problems, principal among which is the derth of men to serve on the juries in Adams county. Judge Blair says that almost all of the men in the county who would be qualified to serve as jurors have either been disfranchised, or are under indictment and probably will be disfranchised.

Insects Cost Us Over $150,000,000.

Insects alone are responsible for very great losses annually. In individual States the damage to the wheat crop in some years reaches $10,000,000, and to corn an equal amount. The boll weevil caused a loss to Texas cotton growers of $20,000,000 while the annual loss of cattle in that State from the tick that causes Texas fever has reached to $100,000,000. The fruit trees are also subject to attacks of insects that causes heavy damages.

The late Prof. Slingerland, Entomologist of Cornell, estimated the loss to the apple growers of New York State from the coddling moth, which causes wormy apples, at $2,500,000 annually, while the late Dr. Luntner, State Entomologist, estimated the loss from all insect causes for the State annually to $26,000,000. The annual loss to the agriculture of the United States from insects is estimated by economic entomologists to be $700,000,000.

Letters To The Editor.

[The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.]

¶ No attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

Editor of The Weekly Chronicle:

In your last issue you stated facts community have of sending away to cash houses for their goods. It was a mas ter stroke of yours, when you so logically set before your readers the evil of making purchases away from home of cerests of his community at heart.

When Bismark, through his diplomacies, checkmated moves made by other European governments and achieved a victory for Germany, the people gave him credit for his astuteness, and acted with him in achieving it, and they gave him the praise justly due him in a commercial way.

You have set the people thinking who are interested in the welfare of a enough to attack, and that to your eration, will be taken up for the second logical and straightforward utterances, a response shall be given.

The ignorance of so many is their persons know a dollar will only buy a the Payne-Aldrich tariff act. thing anywhere, but what of the busi- federal government over corporations. cash elsewhere. They take their cash ness to be carried on. to a man who will not credit them for one cent, forgetting their dependence in the past and maybe in the future, upon just such a man again. Fie on such a spirit of reciprocity. They pay as much to the cash man as to the credit man, the articles being of equal quality. Do you see it? Usually the underselling houses buy seconds that look like firsts and thus deceive the people.

Then another view is presentable. Some are indebted to the credit man and send away for goods. Why not pay up at home like a man? Then try to buy from the cash man on the same time the credit man has given you. Try that game.

Is this an honorable deal toward your friend? Has the credit man been appreciated? It does not look that way. Every business man can tell of men they befriended, who carry their cash elsewhere. When in need again they have called for credit and thought it strange they were refused. If they had remembered the kindness of the credit man who, when they were out of work, supplied them with flour, groceries and what not, surely they would not spend their cash elsewhere. Again, the smallest and most displeasing treatment is when a customer is short 25 or 50 cents in the amount of a purchase and he forgets to pay it and stays away from that merchant. Too small an amount to be dishonest on. This shows how small an amount it takes to keep a man away. They will walk on the other side of the street to avoid meeting the man they owe. The friend the man in need has is the credit man. Cash is desirable. All men have not always got cash. Credit is as good as cash, do not forget that, and the goods as cheap. Therefore, deal where you get the best for your money, and consider past favors as part of your investment. Hoping good results will accrue from your article, Mr. Editor, I wish you a happy New Year.

FIFTY WITNESSES SUMMONED

All Frederick Physicians and Many Prominent Citizens Have Been Seen By the Sheriff.

About 50 witnesses, including nearly all of Frederick's physicians and many prominent citizens, have been summoned by the Sheriff to testify in a suit for $10,000 damages instituted by Isaac M. Rager against the Frederick City Hospital.

The plaintiff alleges that while a patient at the institution he was ordered to leave at night about 24 hours after undergoing an operation. He charges was here on Friday visiting Messrs. that his nurse hurled his clothing at him when he was in a semi-conscious condition and commanded him to go.

At a meeting of representatives of the Frederick and Montgomery Bar Associations it was decided that a silver Wednesday Prayer Meeting 7:30 p.m. service, suitably inscribed, would be an appropriate expression of the esteem in which Judge Henderson is held by the lawyers of the circuit, and Messrs. Edward S. Eichelberger, John S. Newman and Emory L. Coblentz, of the Frederick bar, and Hattersly W. Talbott, Thomas Dawson, William H. Talbott and Albert M. Bouie, of the Montgomery bar, were named as a committee to select the present.

The service is of six pieces, Puritan in style.

MR. N. C. STANSBURY.

The suddden death of Mr. N. C. Stansbury who has been long and favorably known in this community was a shock to his many friends. Saturday, Dec. 31, 1910, the last day of the year was also the last day of life for Cronin Stansbury. He attended a family reunion at the home of his sister Mrs. John R. Stoner near Thurmont. At dinner before he had partaken of a mouthful of food Mr. Stansbury excused himself as feeling unwell, leaving the table and going upstairs followed by his modern dwelling in fine repair-good sister Miss Anne, who showed him into a warm room. As a nation we spend annually for churches and church work $175,000,000, for education $325,000,000, for boots and shoes $450,000,000, for flour $455,-000,000, for potatoes $210,000,000, for meat $1,155,000,000, and for intoxicating liquors $1,675,000,000. Could saloons be turned into social clubs and the money spent for drink and that required for paying for its after effects turned into the channels of the needed supplies of families, every factory in the country would have to run its machinery day and night, and every farm would be called on to double its productions to ville. meet the increased demand that would follow from such a vast amount of money turned into productive channels for their output.
