Francisco Madero Has Issued Decree Declaring End of Guerrilla Warfare. - Fighting Continues.

A semi-official statement from Mexico City, while denying flatly that President Diaz will resign while the revolution continues, admits that peace once restored the aged President may seek retirement. At the same time the brother of Francisco I. Madero, the head of the insurrecto movement, asserted in an interview at San Antonio that peace would come in ninety days, as the result of negotiations initiated jointly by the Maderos and Senor Limantour while the latter was in New York. The change in the Mexican Cabinet was, Senor Madero said, the first step in the plan then agreed on. The subsequent steps, he said, would be the elimination of Senor Corral from the Vice Presidency and of Senor de la Barra from the Ministry of Foreign Relations, and the succession of Senor Limantour to both posts pending a new election. President Diaz would be allowed to retire "gracefully" under cover of his extreme old age, and his prompt collapse might be expected. Senor Madero added that no United States troops would be needed or permitted to enter Mexico to safeguard the election.

Francisco I. Madero has issued a decree declaring the end of guerrilla warfare and forming the insurrecto bands into seven corps. Meantime the fighting continues.

PEACE IN NINETY DAYS LOCUST ARMY COMING

WILL VISIT 21 STATES

Interesting Story of Their Seventeen-Year Life

FIRST ARRIVAL COMES IN JERSEY

Most of Maryland Will Be in the Territory Invaded.—They Do Little Damage and Alarm is Not Founded on Fact.

An outrider of the greatest insect army that has ever invaded this country since 1690 was captured in a greenhouse in Orange, N. J., last week. It was a locust, or cicada, of the seventeen-year variety. Such another invasion as is promised this summer will not visit this country until the year 2132. The Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has announced that this is the year when both the seventeen and thirteen year locusts will sweep over the land, a coincidence which takes place only every 221 years.

In twenty-one States, according to the Government entomologist, the locusts will swarm, their depredations covering 389 counties. All New Jersey will be affected, most of Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the District of Columbia. Indiana will suffer doubly, for in this State the seventeen- and thirteen-year broods will overlay. The thirteen-year locusts will be felt most in the Mississippi Valley, covering Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Missouri, Illinois, and Indiana.

"The name locust," says Richard B. Smith, of the Bureau of Entomology, 'is a misnomer. The insects are cicadas. Cicada septendecin, the seventeen-year species is called by the scientists. The only true locusts are the grasshoppers. The seventeen-year variety is the one we know in the North. Its thirteen-year cousin being indigenous to the Southern States. The reason for this difference is one of the puzzles that science has not solved, but it is believed to be a matter of climate, the warmer climate serving to shorten the period during which the insect remains under ground.

"The brood which is due to come forth this year was hatched from eggs deposited in 1894 and 1898, respectively. A few weeks after the eggs were laid the ground. At that time they were cicada buried himself in the ground.

"Then began the second period of the Three times more this change took place, in the fourth, eleventh, and fifteenth years, respectively. With his shorter lived cousin, the changes take place in the second, fourth, eighth and eleventh years.

"In either case, when the round nears completion, the insect becomes restive, and begins to burrow upward toward the surface. Should the weather be unpropitious, he starts building a little house of mud, like a tube above the surface of the earth, that he may not be exposed to the elements until all is readv.

Votes for Women.

Dr. Anna Shaw, a Unitarian woman preacher, delivered an address in Richmond, Virginia, November 17th on 'Woman's Suffrage.'' Of cynicism "Improvement's" letter stated that and satire there was plenty, and of an exclusive electric lighting franchise calm argument there was much worth was granted, which too was done in hot remembering. On changed conditions haste soon after the new Board came she said: "There was a time when into power, that a water contract was women did not need the ballot. They made, in which he credited the old worked nowhere but at home, regu-Board for its work in laying the founda- lated their own hours of labor, made tion of its terms, and then he called most of what they used. But men made attention to the continuance of some of machinery and forced women to give the evils the people had hoped by a up employment in the home," and now, she argued, "they need the ballot so "Fair Play," perhaps on inspiration that again they may have a voice in of the new Board, and perhaps by their hours of work and in the conditions surrounding them." There was no obframe up ordinances, replied at great jection to women working, she parenlength, but failed to answer any state- thetically remarked. When they get ment made therein. "Votes for women" has been tested. She had found four things in Colorado which pleased her. One of these was the absence of sex consciousness at the polls, and that voting made women courteous to men; another that better voting places had been provided; anto codify those now in force, this was other that women were independent in not done until the January following large part, and the fourth, that actual women voted in far larger proportion than did the worst. FEW INTERESTING HISTORICAL FACTS OF CARROLL COUNTY

For many years before its formation, there was a strong feeling on the part of the citizens of this section, of what was then Frederick county, for the establishment of a new county.

Frederick city was then, as now, the county seat of Frederick county and was so remote that our people found it inconvenient and expensive to make trips which were necessary for the transaction of their business, which took them two days with the addition of hotel expenses. So that, in the early thirties of the last century, a movement was set on foot, to have a new county formed, with Westminster as the county seat.

A bill was introduced in the legislature, for this purpose, in 1833 by William Cost Johnson, who was at that time a delegate from Frederick county. The bill provided that a section of the north-western part of Baltimore county, and a section of the south-eastern part of Frederick county, should be united to form the new county, which was known as Carroll, in honor of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, one of the Maryland signers of the Declaration of Independence. The bill also provided that the people of each section of the two counties interested should vote upon the question of this new county's formation.

This referendum feature of the bill delayed the full consummation of the project until 1837, at which time the county of Carroll was legally installed as one of the counties of the State. The territory set over to Carroll county embraced about 426 square miles.

We are told there was great rejoicing at the time, by the people whose conveniences were to be served, and the whole machinery of the new order of things, was at once put into operation. The people who were now separated from the two old counties had little difficulty in organizing orderly county tomed to this, and consequently Carroll soon became one of the well governed counties of our state.

The first session of our Circuit Court, and of the Orphans' Court, and the County Commissioners, was held on the first Monday of April, 1837. The court met in the building now owned and occupied by Mr. Charles E. Fink, with Judges Dorsey and Kilgour on the bench, and Dr. Wm. Willis as clerk.

The Orphans' Court held its first session in the building known as the Wampler home, now the Home of the Aged of the Methodist Protestant Church and the County Commissioners occupied quarters in the Wampler tavern, now the Eastern Hotel.

Business Men In Apple Business. Messrs. Daniel Baker, Joseph D. Baker and Holmes D. Baker have purchased a farm along the Baltimore pike, about three miles from Frederick, and Wednesday morning began the planting of 100 acres in apples. Before determining to plant apples, they sought expert advice as to the adaptability of the soil of Frederick county for apples. Acting upon the advice of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was recommended as being one of the best authorities on apple culture in the East. Mr. Fulton visited Frederick county and inspected the land in a number of different localities. He gave it as his opinion that most any of the land that is elevated and well drained is suitable for apple grow-

BROOM FACTORY TOTALLY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Firemen Succeed In Confining Flames To Single Buildings NotWithstanding the High Wind.

On Monday night fire totally destroyed the Emmitsburg Broom factory on Frederick street. The alarm was given by Rural Carrier Lantz, who was delayed on his route, and noticed the fire as he passed the building on his re-

The firemen responded promptly to the alarm and two heavy streams of water were turned on the buildings near about which were covered by a shower of sparks carried by the high wind Creamery, Boyle Brothers hay sheds and the dwelling of Mr. Felix were the buildings threatened.

The loss to to the Emmitsburg Broom Company is in the neighborhood of $5000 which is only partially covered by insurance.

At a meeting of the directors of the company held on Tuesday evening plans for the future were considered. It is their desire to start up in the near future but nothing definite has been decided upon.

The cause of the fire is not known but by some it is thought to have started in the bleaching room.

In the last few weeks the factory has been hard at work on many large orders some of which it filled before the fire, but a number of others were not completed and since the fire still others have come in.

When the fire was discovered the building was doomed. Its inflamable contents burned so rapidly and the fire was so hot that the firemen wisely devoted their attention to other buildings. Everything in the factory was destroy-

Good Prices at Stansbury Sale.

The sale on March 23 at the residence of the late Mr. N. C. Stansbury was unusually large and the prices were very gratifying. Quite a few dollars were spent in advertising this sale through bills, and cards, etc., furnished by the CHRONICLE Press and those having the sale in charge say that they attributed the success of the sale to the proper advertising they received at this office. "It was a good sale and advertising did it," said Mr. Stansbury.

Four mares and a colt brought in all $998. Two of these mares were sold each for $266. Mr. B. P. Ogle, who auctioneered the sale, added not a little to the success.

SCHOOL BUILDING PLANS

> Baltimore Architects Win in Competition With Forty Others. -Ten-Room

Building to Cost $55,000. The firm of Parker, Thomas & Rice, architects of Baltimore, have been announced winners in competition of plans submitted for a high school building for Fredeeick. There were 41 plans submitted by architects from the surrounding states. All plans were gone over by Prof. W. P. Laird, dean of the architectural department of the University of Pennsylvania, and the decision as to the winner was made by him and approved by the School Board. The next best designs in order were from J. Henri Deseborn, of Washington; Hamm & Leber, of York, Pa., and Alfred Cookman Leach, of Baltimore. These architects will receive $200 each.

The plans selected call for a 10-room building to cost about $55,000, and will house the male high school and a few of the higher grades. The building will be erected on ground recently acquired in the northern section of Frederick. It is the intention of the School Board to have the new building ready for occupancy at the opening of the school Uncle Jere Overholtzer, of Freedom township, sent to this office an ostrich egg laid by one of his chickens. ### DIRECTIONS FOR SPRAYING.

Suggestions For Getting Best Results Offered by Wisconsin Authority.

To spray home orchards and get the hest results the following suggestions are offered by the horticultural department of the agricultural experiment station of the University & Wisconsin:

work upon trees at the same time; therefore use a spray of bordeaux mixture to which some arsenical poison has been added. Ten ounces of Paris green or three pounds of arsenate of lead added to fifty gallons of bordeaux mixture will control the codling moth or apple worm and apple scab.

Most fruit growers will find it more advisable to purchase arsenicals in the prepared form than to mix them at home, which involves much labor and Bordeaux mixture, which is used for spraying to prevent fungous diseases, should be prepared at home. To get the best results a strong pressure pump with good nozzles that will throw a fine mist spray should be

Growers should watch the development of the trees closely at blossoming time and make a thorough appli cation before the calyx of the apple closes. The leaves and stems of branches not fruiting should be covered with spray up to the top of the tree. The spray should be thrown from many directions so as to cover both sides of the leaves thoroughly.

As a general rule the first spraying should be made just before the buds open, with 200 gallons of bordeaux mixture, including poison for each 200 The second application should be made just after the blossoms fall, with 350 gallons; the third application ten days later, the fourth two weeks after the third, and the fifth three weeks after the fourth. The last three sprayings should be made with 400 gallons of bordeaux mixture and

Orchard and Garden.

Plan for a variety of vegetables. Try Swiss chard, kale, endive, Brussels sprouts and others not usually found in the home gardens. Vegetables which are liked the best by your family should be planted in succession. Such crops as peas, bush beans, sweet corn, beets and radishes should be planted at intervals of ten days or two weeks to supply a succession.

There is too much handwork in most home gardens. So much is unnecessary. A seed drill will sow in a few minutes as much as can be planted by hand in one hour. Many farmers who do not have seed drills could easily afford them. They sow more regularly and at a more uniform depth than is possible by hand.

Do not plant lima beans in the open until the ground is quite warm. The bush limas are becoming more popular and are planted at same distances as ordinary bush beans.

Take chances in planting some sweet corn ten days or two weeks earlier than usual. If it fails the loss will be slight, and if there is no mishap the gain may be great.

If some cucumbers have been started under glass a planting of seed should also be made in the open to insure a crop late in the summer and during the early fall. Hubbard squash should be more generally grown and used on town and country tables. When properly cooked and seasoned it is a delicious vegetable and is available for use from October until June. The hills should be 8 by 8 feet apart and enriched with rotten manure unless the land is quite fertile. They may also be grown in rows eight feet apart, drilling the seed and thinning plants to about two feet .- National Stockman and Farmer.

Not the Answer He Expected.

Whitefield, whose dramatic appeals to his listeners were always a note- that is respected and feared throughworthy part of his sermons, once out south Germany. It belongs to the preached to a body of seamen in New raven tribe and is about the size of a York. In the course of his sermon he dove, with black and white feathers introduced the following words:

"Well, my boys, we have a clear sky nest in orchards, and its life is sacred. and are making fine headway over a If it is seen three times in succession smooth sea before a light breeze, and on the same housetop in a place rewe shall soon lose sight of land. Tramps and Cuff Muzzlers. The most curious article in the tramp's outfit bears an appropriately odd name-the "cuff muzzler." It consists of the leg of an old stocking cut up into short lengths and worn over the wrist like a thick mitten, and its object is to increase the circumference to call somebody down the Korean of the wrist to such an extent that a constable cannot easily slip a handcuff

Women, it is generally admitted, write much better letters than men. M. Marcel Prevost discovered the reason for this superiority. Cursing In Korea. A strange way of cursing is that of the Korean. His ordinary swear word is "Oenuma," or "You brute." The Japanese have the same partiality for this term of endearment. But according to the Oriental Economic Review the Korean considers himself especially abusive when he calls a person his child or grandchild. When he wants demands hotly, "Are you not my child?" And the angry retort is: "What! I your child? You are my grandchild." Then the first goes a step further and cries, "You are a grandchild of my grandchild!" to which the rejoinder is: "You conceited fellow! Have you forgotten that you are a grandchild of a grandchild of my grandchild?" # Daddy's Bedtime

"I Hardly Slept a Wink"

NCE upon a time a long time ago there lived a prince who wanted to marry a princess, but he wanted to be sure that she was a real princess," began daddy in telling his usual bedtime story for Evelyn and Jack. "So he traveled through the whole world looking for his princess. Many times he felt sure that he had found one, but always there was something against each of them. He found plenty of princesses willing to marry him, for he was a handsome, rich young man and the heir leather which in appearance much reto a great kingdom, but in every case there was something which showed that sembles seal. The brim is of brown the young lady was not a real princess. So he ent back home to his own suede, with on either side a spray of country feeling very sad.

"One night there was a dreadful storm. It lightened and thundered, and suede applied to it. Brown satin ribthe rain fell in torrents. Just as the storm was at its height there was a knock heard at the door of the palace in which this prince lived with his ishing touch. Another leather bonnet parents, the king and the queen. All of the servants were asleep, for it was late at night, so the old king went to the door himself.

"There stood a princess outside the gate seeking shelter. She had lost her way in the storm, she said, and had become separated from her companions. She said she was a real princess, although she did not look like one, with the water running down her hair and gown and filling her shoes.

"'We shall soon see whether she is a real princess or not,' said the old queen to herself after she had let the young woman in. While she was drying her clothes the queen prepared her bed for her. She went into the sleeping room, took off all the bedclothes from the guest bed and laid a single green pea on the bottom of the bed. Then on top of the pea she put twenty mattresses and twenty quilts on top of the mattresses. And this was the bed on which the princess slept that night.

"The next morning bright and early the old queen entered the room of the princess to ask her how she had slept. Although the sun had hardly risen she found the princess wide awake and tossing about in bed. 'Good morn- small women and young girls. ing,' said the queen. 'I should like to ask you how you have slept.'

"'Oh, very badly,' said the princess. 'I hardly slept a wink the whole night through, although I was very tired when I went to bed. I am sure I cannot guess what was in the bed, for it seemed very soft when I first lay down to rest. But there must be something hard in it, for my whole body is black and blue. It is really dreadful!"

"Then the old queen knew that she must be a real princess, for any one but a real princess would have slept comfortable."
