CONGRESS IS IN SESSION

CONVENED ON MONDAY

Representative Littleton Makes a Speech

DENOUNCING SEVERAL CHARGES

A Number of Bills Introduced Among Them a Resolution Concerning Russian Treaty and Passports. —Taft a Spectator.

The two houses of the Sixty-Second Congress convened promptly at noon on Monday in the first regular session.

The Senate adjourned after 17 minutes, a committee being appointed to notify the President that the national lawmaking body had begun its work.

In the House Representative Littleton caused a stir with his speech denouncing those who had charged that he was conspiring to choke off the Steel Trust investigation.

A number of bills, among them a resolution to repeal the Russian treaty of 1832 in regard to passports, another to repeal the Sherman Anti-Trust law, a measure to amend the Sherman act and one to put sugar on the free list were introduced.

Crowds surged through the capitol and every seat in the galleries was occupied.

President Taft looked down upon the House proceedings from the Executive gallery.

The prediction is made that the present session will continue until next November and that it will be one of the most important since the Civil War.

Practically all the members of both houses were in their places.

An investigation of the operation of the so-called American Anti-Trust League was demanded by Representative Leader Mann in the House after a remarkable speech by Representative Martin W. Littleton, of New York. Mr. Littleton charged Henry B. Martin, secretary of the league, with attempting to defame him and denounced the charge that he begged to be allowed to go on the committee as a sickening, stupid, silly lie. The dispute between Mr. Littleton and Chairman Stanley, of the House Steel Corporation investigating committee, over methods of procedure has been going since the filing of the Government's suit against the United States Steel Corporation.

Round after round of applause punctuated Mr. Littleton's 70-minute defense of his integrity, and Democrats and Republicans assured him of their confidence in him.

Meantime Mr. Martin had handed to Speaker Clark a memorial and petition asking that Mr. Littleton be impeached on the ground that he had "co-operated and conspired with heads of the trusts" to prevent a continuance of the steel inquiry. This memorial, however, was not presented to the House.

Mr. Littleton charged that Henry B. Martin, secretary of the Anti-Trust League, had circulated false accusations against him, and he accused Martin of consorting with David Lamar, a bear operator in Wall street, to aid in the depression of steel stock. He alleged that William Jennings Bryan had "gone off half-cocked" in the Commoner in his comment upon the steel investigation.

"The source of this article," declared Mr. Littleton, "is the lying scandals of this man Martin. I have always esteemed Mr. Bryan highly, personally, and I believe in return he has held me in goodly respect. We have visited together often, and while there have been differences of opinion, they have not been differences of opinion which created the slightest bitterness. But even he on the circulated falsehoods of this man Martin, goes off 'half-cocked' in the Commoner."

"Let me say here and now that if in my service upon a committee loyalty to my party requires me to do as I am bid, neither by the corrupt alliances of Henry B. Martin of the intolerant outside influences represented by William J. Bryan, or the combined influence of both, I shall refuse to obey the mandate of my party and shall prefer to subscribe myself to the obligations of my oath."

Greater Berlin's Population 4,000,000.

Berlin, the largest city in Germany, now includes all the suburban municipalities making it the third largest city in the world, ranking after London and New York. The city's population is about 4,000,000.

President Taft announced that he would participate in the John Wanamaker fiftieth anniversary celebration in Philadelphia on the afternoon of December 30.

BIG TROLLEY COMBINE

Frederick and Hagerstown Roads to Cooperate

EMMITSBURG MUCH INTERESTED

Either of Two Power Propositions Before Company Will Mean Cheap Light and Power for the Town.

Frequent overtures have been made to the present owners of the Hagerstown Railway Company by the Frederick Railroad Company for the consolidation of the two lines which join at Myersville. Last Friday it was reported that Mr. Coblenz and some Hagerstown financiers had secured control of the stock.

For the present, the two companies will work together under a co-operative arrangement. The interest in the Hagerstown company secured through this deal by parties interested in the Frederick Railroad Company is declared to be such that harmony in the management of the two systems is fully assured.

As both properties are badly off for power it seems certain that the union power plant plan spoken of some time ago, will be pushed forward and put in operation. In that case the electric light proposition for Emmitsburg will in all probability be carried out, saving Emmitsburg considerable capital.

In case the union power plant is abandoned it is planned to secure power from the big plant at Millville, on the Shenandoah River, which furnishes current for lighting and power throughout a large territory surrounding that point. Under an agreement with the company owning the Millville plant, current is to be delivered at Brunswick, in practically unlimited volume. From that point, it is proposed to transmit it to Frederick and Hagerstown. Besides using this current for operating all the trolley lines in Frederick and Washington counties, it is proposed to retail current for lighting and power purposes.

STEEL MEN RESPOND IN GOVERNMENT SUIT

Fifty-Three of Sixty Defendants Appear Morgan and Rockefeller Among Them.—Five Sets of Counsel.

Five sets of counsel appearing for various groups of individual and corporate defendants filed appearances in the United States Court at Trenton, on Monday, in answer to subpoenas in the Government's dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation. Fifty-three of the sixty defendants had put in legal appearances through counsel when the court opened. Four New Jersey corporations named as defendants in the suit are recorded as dead in the office of the Secretary of State, and the proceedings against them probably will be dropped.

The four defunct corporations are the Carnegie Steel Company of New Jersey, the American Steel Hoop Company, the National Steel Company, and the American Sheet Steel Company. The first three consolidated in 1903 as the National Steel Company. This, together with the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company changed in 1903 are named as defendants in the suit, and have filed appearances.

Andrew Carnegie put in separate legal appearance through James H. Reed of Pittsburgh. John D. Rockefeller and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., represented by Murray, Prentice & Howland of New York, sent a messenger down with their writ of appearance.

John D. Rockefeller Out.

John D. Rockefeller terminated his career as head of the Standard Oil Company Monday. With him there also retired most of the conspicuous figures of the early days of the Oil Trust. Not a Rockefeller remains among the officers and directors of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, chief of the oil corporations, which was the holding company up to the time of the recent dissolution of the great combine. John D. Archbold, one of the few members of the "old guard" to remain, became President of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey.

Hugh Jennings Hurt in Accident.

Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit baseball team and the Rev. Peter J. Lynott of Port Jervis, N. Y., were seriously injured Saturday in an automobile accident near Goldsborough, twenty miles southeast of Scranton. Both were taken to the State Hospital, but it is stated that they are not in immediate danger.

Germany's Aerial Cruiser.

The German military authorities are planning to build an aerial cruiser capable of carrying 300 persons and have a speed of 50 miles an hour.

PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATION ESTABLISHED 150 YEARS

REV. LEIGHTON BEAUMONT HENSLEY, PASTOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Presbyterian congregation in Emmitsburg celebrated the 150th anniversary of its organization in a series of services which began with the Union Thanksgiving service on Nov. 30th and closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. Taylor on Sunday evening. Throughout all these services the interest of the people was manifest in the large audiences. The church was most tastefully decorated with green plants and the special music of the choir was greatly appreciated.

Thanksgiving Sermon.

At the Thanksgiving service Rev. Mr. Gluck, of the Reformed Church, occupied the pulpit. He took as his text the first five verses of the one hundredth psalm and said in part:

I consider it a privilege, my christian brethren, to stand here to-day and preach the opening sermon in the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of this church. I consider it a privilege to occupy, if but for a brief period of time, the office which a long line of devoted ministers have occupied before me. And I consider it a privilege to give my commendations to the excellent work which has been done by this church during the long period of its existence.

Such an event as the one you are about to celebrate in this church has more than a congregational interest; it is an event in which the community is interested likewise. The community owes much to the church; more than most people realize. Indeed it is not too much to say that the community owes more to the church than to any other institutions in its midst. The church stands for law and order in the community. If it were not for the christian churches in this community within a period of three years it would be impossible for decent people to live here. The officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad declare that they do not give ministerial rates out of charity for the ministers; but they give them because they realize that without the church's influence for law and order it would be impossible for them to build and operate their lines.

Take the five christian churches out of this community and in a little while neither life nor property would be safe. Take the churches out of any community and immediately that community will begin to sink back to barbarism. And if the community cannot get along without the church, then all men ought to give the church their zealous support.

And this is not the only measure of the church's influence in the community. The church not only aids in the maintaining of law and order, but it stands also for the highest type of manhood and womanhood. Oh, I know there are many persons in the church who are not what they ought to be, but that is not the fault of the church; it is the fault of the persons themselves. And men have no right to judge the great majority of the church's members by the hypocrisy of the few. As a rule the members of the church are faithful and do try to live up to their vows, and all we ask is that the men judge the members of the church from the faithfulness of the many, instead of judging from the faithlessness of the few. The history of any congregation would show an ever ascending and ennobling life. During the century and a half of your church's existence it has held up the ideals of christian manhood and womanhood, and doubtless its work has not been in vain.

Furthermore, the church is the source of comfort to many. How many weakened lives have been strengthened, how many sorrowing hearts have been comforted, how many darkened minds have been enlightened by your church during its long period of life and service, no one can tell! Doubtless to-day we are surrounded by a great cloud of witnesses looking down upon us from the heavenly world who first tasted the good, the true and the beautiful in character at this life-giving fountain; in this, as in all other ways, your church, like the Lord and Master, has been a true christian servant of the people of this community for a long period of years, and as such to-day deserves the commendation of the people of this community.

And I can say this all the more freely because I am a firm believer in the doctrine of the Holy Catholic church. There is no confession which I make with more sincerity and whole-heartedness than that one in which I say that I believe in the Holy Catholic church, by which confession we mean the church of Christ universal, the church embracing all the christian denominations. And I do not say this because its suits my fancy to say so, but because my belief is based on Biblical foundations. The great Apostle Paul tells us that the church is an organism like the organism of the human body. And how is it with the human body! The human body is an organism made of a number of subordinate organisms, each one having its own particular function to perform. If the human body did not possess all of these subordinate organisms it would be a mere body or mass of dead inanimate matter. If all were the arm, where were the hearing; and if all were the hearing, where were the seeing; and if all were the head where the feet? So it is with the church of Christ. The church of Christ is an organism only when it is made of many minor organisms, the minor or subordinate organs are the different denominations of the church, and only thus can the church be truly alive and truly effective in the world. I believe it would be a sad day for the church were she to be under but one government, have one form of worship for all the congregations, and have but one system of doctrine for each and every believer. There is room for all the great historic denominations, and I believe that the church is better in this form, and can do more effective work so divided than if not so differentiated. We are one in spirit, but I do not believe that we should be one in outward form, but rather a high differentiation. It is only thus that there can be unity in the

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Summed Up It Can be Headed Taft on Trusts

HE DEFENDS THE SHERMAN LAW

Not the Purpose of Statute to Confiscate the Property and Capital of Offending Trusts.

The following are some of the striking points from the President's message to Congress delivered on Tuesday:

It has been said that the court, by introducing into the construction of the statute (Sherman law) common-law distinctions, has emasculated it. This is obviously untrue. By its judgment every contract and combination in restraint of inter-State trade made with the purpose or necessary effect of controlling prices by stifling competition, or of establishing in whole or in part a monopoly of such trade, is condemned by the statute.

It is not the purpose of the statute to confiscate the property and capital of the offending trust.

I renew the recommendation (made in a special message to Congress on January 7, 1910) of the enactment of a general law providing for the voluntary formation of corporations to engage in trade and commerce among the States and with foreign nations.

The Anti-Trust act is the expression of the effort of a freedom-loving people to preserve equality of opportunity. It is the result of the confident determination of such a people to maintain their future growth by preserving uncontrolled and unrestricted the enterprise of the individual, his industry, his ingenuity, his intelligence and his independent courage.

THURMONT BOY CARNEGIE HERO GETS $300 AND MEDAL

Thomas L. Walters Saved Train from Dashing Through Burning Trestle at Waynesboro a Year Ago.

Thomas L. Walters, near Midvale, Pa., formerly of Thurmont, has received a check for $300 from the Carnegie Hero fund Commission in recognition of his bravery in saving a Western Maryland passenger train loaded with excursionists, near Waynesboro, on May 28, 1910.

He also received notice that a Carnegie silver medal will be sent to him. The present was received through the Hon. B. F. Weity.

On May 28, 1910, Mr. Walters, while passing the Western Maryland Railroad trestle near Prides, noticed the wood-work had caught fire. Notwithstanding the fact that a special train was about due, Mr. Walters climbed to the top of the trestle and began fighting the blaze. He was able to make but little progress in extinguishing the fire and when the whistle of the special blew, part of the trestle had been burned away.

Quickly taking off his shirt, Walters ran across the trestle and succeeded in attracting the attention of the engineer, who brought the train to a stop. The train contained several hundred civil war veterans and other excursionists, who were bound for Gettysburg. They collected a purse and rewarded Walters for his services, after which a number of his friends, through Mr. Weity, succeeded in interesting the Carnegie Commission. The reward resulted.

France Honors John Wanamaker.

The announcement was made from the French Embassy that the French Government has made former Postmaster General John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, an officer of the Legion of Honor. This is in recognition of Mr. Wanamaker's work in relieving distress among the poor of Paris after the recent floods. Food and clothing in great quantities were contributed by the American merchant, and the French public as well as the Government has shown itself deeply grateful.

Four Hundred Horses Burned.

One man was killed, several firemen were injured, hundreds of families driven out into the snow and 400 horses burned to death by a fire which destroyed the building of the United States Express Company in Jersey City on Monday. The loss is in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

Turks Lose 1,200 Men.

Two battles were fought on Saturday in the suburbs of Bengazi and Derna. Both resulted in victories for the Italians. The total loss of Italians was 100 killed and wounded in both combats. At Bengazi the Turks and Arabs lost 100 killed, while at Derna they had 800 killed and wounded.

Samuel Gompers is under Government surveillance.

THE McNAMARA TRIAL OVER

CONFESSION OF GUILT

James Given Life Sentence, John Fifteen Years

"THEY HAD TO TELL OR DIE"

Prosecution Net Too Tight For Possible Escape.—Further Developments Expected From Federal Investigation.

The McNamara brothers, James and John, on trial at Los Angeles for blowing up the Times building, started the court on Friday by pleading guilty to the crime. As the district attorney says, they had to tell or die. "Because" he declared, "I knew I had the goods on these men and that I could convict both of them and they knew it, and they both knew that I knew it. Therefore their guesses were as good as mine—if either of the defendants wanted to save his neck, his only chance was in a plea of guilty. I steadfastly refused to consider any terms but my own, and when Darrow and Davis found that I would consider absolutely no other they took the only scheme they had—an unconditional plea of guilty on the part of both the defendants."

On Tuesday the court pronounced sentences. James McNamara was given a life term for wrecking the Times building in which 21 persons lost their lives; and his brother, John, was given 15 years for blowing up the Llewellyn Iron Works in which catastrophe no lives were lost.

The confession of James B. McNamara was given out late on Tuesday and it read as follows:

I, James B. McNamara, defendant in the case of the people, having heretofore pleaded guilty to the crime of murder, desire to make this statement, and this is the truth:

On the night of September 30, 1910, at 5.45, I placed in Ink alley, a portion of the Times Building, a suit case containing 16 sticks of 80 per cent. dynamite set to explode at 1 o'clock in the morning. It was my intention to injure the building and scare the owners. I did not intend to take the life of anyone.

I sincerely regret that these unfortunate men lost their lives. If the giving of my life would bring them back I would gladly give it. In fact, in pleading guilty to murder in the first degree I have placed my life in the hands of the State.

JAMES B. McNAMARA.

The developments in McNamara dynamiting case are that thirty may be indicted for dynamiting and that the grand juries both at Indianapolis and Los Angeles are expected to act. The information that comes from these two cities, substantiated in New York, is that the Federal authorities will not rest until the men back of the McNamara brothers are brought to Justice. It was said that the Federal grand jury at Indianapolis would indict from twenty to thirty union men, some of them leaders in the movement. The prosecutions will hinge largely on the transportation of dynamite in violation of the inter-State Commerce laws.

Following the pronouncement of the sentences it was stated that both brothers would be subpoenaed to appear before the Federal Grand Jury. It is the general belief that they will tell the whole story of the dynamiting conspiracy—not only of its destructive working there, but throughout the country—regardless of whom they may involve. Other indictments and arrests are looked for soon after the McNamaras are heard.

That the Federal Government is determined to make a sweeping inquiry into the conspiracy charges was made evident by the announcement that Attorney General Wickersham had appointed Oscar Lawler, a former Assistant Attorney General of the United States and one of District Attorney Fredericks' assistants in the McNamara case, a special deputy to take full charge of the prosecution of the persons who may be accused.

Plumbing Trust Ready to Yield.

An effort to bring about a voluntary dissolution of an alleged committee of dealers in hardware and plumbing supplies on the Pacific Coast, through a civil suit, and the terminating of the grand jury investigation of the matter at Los Angeles, was begun in Washington on Saturday.

It is understood that the hardware and plumbing supplies associations have agreed to submit to a suit of dissolution, declaring them in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, provided the government ends the grand jury inquiry.

proper meaning of that term. And it is because this is my faith that I can bring you my commendation to-day. I believe that the Presbyterian church has ministered to an element in this community to which no other denominations could effectively minister, just as the other denominations here are doing a work which you could not do. You have a work to do here, you have done that work in the past, and the effectiveness with which you have done it is cause for joy.

At the same time, the fact that the community is interested in this event means, too, that you have a duty to fulfill in this community. The church is to be the servant of the community, and this work of being a servant is shown in many ways. Jesus likened his disciples to light, to salt, to leaven placed in meal. All these figures of speech show that Jesus meant that his disciples were to exert an enlightening, a purifying, a sweetening or rather a life-giving influence in the world. This is the true mission of any body of Christians, of a church, of a congregation, if you please. You, my brethren of the Presbyterian faith, owe a duty to this community, and you cannot refuse to do that duty without endangering your own existence. And what is this duty? It is to make Christian men and women. It is to form and fashion Christian character. As it is to build men and women in Christ. It is not the duty of the church to go into business, or politics, or into society, but it is the duty of the church to so train men and women that whether they are in business, in office, in society, or in any other walk of life, they will be pure and honest, and good, and just, and righteous. This, I take it is the mission of your church, as it is of every other church, in this community. God grant that you may perform this service to the community in the future as well as you have performed it in the past.

Fellowship Supper.

The exercises proper began on Friday evening at a fellowship supper served by the ladies to the members of the church and congregation and clergymen assisting in the services. The ladies are to be complimented on the excellent meal. It was served in the lecture room of the church. Rev. Mr. Hensley, the pastor, had the seat of honor and Rev. Mr. Gluck, Rev. Dr. Reinewald and Rev. A. A. Boyle, of Hagerstown, responded to toasts. Letters of greeting were read from Rev. Mr. Craig, Rev. Dr. Riddle and Rev. Dr. Patterson, all former pastors.

A public service was held immediately after the supper. After the offering Mr. Annan Horner sang a solo in his usual pleasing manner.

Greetings From Other Churches.

The clergymen of Emmitsburg, those that could be present, and Rev. Mr. Boyle, of Hagerstown, brought fraternal greetings from their various congregations. Rev. Dr. Reinewald extended the greeting of his congregation and of the Lutheran Church. He called attention to the fact that the Lutheran Reformed and Presbyterian congregations were all established about the same time, and since that time have gone along on parallel lines until to-day. Dr. Reinewald had the privilege of knowing, during the nineteen years of his pastorate, a few of the Presbyterian ministers who have served this congregation and he spoke of his relations with the late lamented Rev. Dr. Simonton, of his strong personality, his work and influence and spoke of the last service Rev. Simonton held as pastor of the Emmitsburg church in which he, Dr. Reinewald, took part.

The speaker also referred in a complimentary way to Rev. Dr. Riddle, and Rev. Mr. Craig with whom he was also intimate, and of the present pastor. After congratulating the congregation on their past and expressing his best wishes for the future he concluded by stating that he assured them that in the work of the church they would find his congregation standing shoulder to shoulder with them. Placing a programme of the centennial celebration of his church within the programme of these exercises he handed it to Rev. Mr. Hensley, signifying the unity of the two denominations in the work of the Lord.

Rev. Mr. Gluck brought the greetings of the Reformed congregation and the church which he represents. He spoke of the hard conditions under which the local congregation began its life. Churches and homes arose together, with the first log cabins was reared the first log church. Calling attention to the self-denial of these forefathers necessary to the building up of these institutions he, in a few words, told of the place of the individual congregation in the church at large. He called it the "unit of Christendom." In them the work of the church is done; the youth are prepared for church membership; from them come the funds to carry on the church's work in the world and they furnish the men for the ministry.

One best serves the church at large, he said, when he is a zealous supporter of his own congregation. He extended his congratulations on the achievements of the past and his sincere wishes for continued growth and influence in the future.

The good wishes and greeting from the Presbyterians of Hagerstown were given by Rev. Mr. Boyle. He spoke of the relations existing between his congregation and the one in Emmitsburg, extending far back into the past. Some of his members to-day are descendants of the founders of this congregation. The congregation here is known everywhere for its strength in Presbyterian faith and purity and Mr. Boyle said that he believed much of their strength was due to good blood—many came from Ireland, the Isle of Saints. Mr. Boyle, it is hardly necessary to say, is an Irishman.

The power of an old congregation such as this one, he remarked, one whose faith had been tried and put to severe tests, is remarkable. He declared he would much rather serve an old congregation whose faith had been proven by such tests, even though it were small and rural, than to work in a new congregation with its enthusiasm, whose faith was yet to be tried and its life yet to be lived.

Considering the difficulties this congregation has surmounted in the past and the uninviting condition under which it had labored, its existence today proves it to be a church of the word of God. With his best wishes for the future he concluded by saying that God's promises have proven effective in the past and they will be so in the future.

Rev. Mr. Hensley responded in a gracious manner to these greetings with a few brief and fitting remarks.

Saturday Afternoon Service.

The second service was held on Saturday afternoon and Rev. R. Alexander Boyle, of Hagerstown, delivered the sermon. Rev. Mr. Boyle took as the subject of his remarks John Calvin, the reformer. He told how the misinformed the unread and the ignorant remember only the "faults so called and not the virtues of this great man who, to the man of vision and understanding, stands out clear cut and unique in personal significance in the history of the world."

After speaking of the influence Calvin's work has had on the world Rev. Boyle said of Calvinism:

"Calvinism gives a high place to the rights and liberties of the individual. According to Calvin religion must be first of all a matter of heart and life in the individual. * * * The result is the production of men who fear God and fear to offend him. Men who fear God and naught else. * * * If men were trained in, and were true to this system of doctrine and life they could be neither slaves nor tyrants. They would have too high an idea of the rights of the individual as a freeman in Christ to be slaves and too much regard for the rights of others to be tyrants. * * * We thank God to-day for the ethical virility of Calvinism, for Calvin as a moral force in the world."

Appreciation of Dr. Simonton.

A praise service was held on Saturday evening. Miss Beam sang a solo. This was the leading feature in the musical part of the programme. Rev. Henry Branch, D. D., stated clerk of the Baltimore Presbytery, made the address. Dr. Branch spoke at some length of his memories of Rev. Dr. Simonton. He said he was a most conscientious man and none have measured up to him in accuracy and thoroughness. He is one of the great men of the Baltimore Presbytery. Under his guidance and teaching the Emmitsburg congregation ranked first in its gifts to the various interests of the church, especially to the cause of missions. The speaker seemed impressed with the fact that this generation is not measuring up to the standards maintained in years past. He noted among other things that the children are not brought to church as they were in his childhood days. Again referring to Dr. Simonton he closed his remarks by calling him a true man of God.

Rev. Mr. Hensley then thanked Dr. Branch for his words and made mention of the magnificent work done here during the long pastorate of Rev. Mr. Grier.

On Sunday morning the sacrament of the Holy Communion was served. On this occasion Rev. Dr. Branch delivered the sermon appropriate to such an occasion. He spoke of the memorial character of the sacrament and of the communion or fellowship that exists around the Lord's table. No matter what differences may exist outside, in the church all are on the level, and differences are forgotten. In speaking of the tithing system he made plain that it did not consist only in giving a tenth of money, but a tenth of time and influence to the work of God.

Rev. Hensley's Address.

The Sabbath School anniversary was held on Sunday afternoon. One of the most pleasing numbers on the programme was a solo by Miss Ethel Annan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Annan.

At these exercises Rev. Mr. Hensley delivered an historical address, "Our Heritage" which was as follows:

"No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord,"—Isaiah 54:17

"The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage,"—Psa. 16:16.

The Israelitish nation had a wonderful inheritance and as Isaiah, their greatest prophet tells them of it, he also proclaims the glory of their heritage. Back of this heritage is a mighty history, but a history scarred by the red hand of carnage. In it is the story of conflict and suffering, and at the same time, of flaming testimony and dauntless heroism, of high and holy adherence to truth. They had their enemies to deal with. Weapons have been forged against them, and tongues have risen in judgment to condemn them, but they have also had a God. His right arm has been their glorious defense, and by His matchless strength they have fought down all their foes.

But there heritage was safe notwithstanding their enemies and the devastating tides of war and the floods of blasphemy which surged around their altars. And as they thought of it the names of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, of Moses, Joshua, Samuel and David, of Elijah and Elisha flashed into consciousness. They thought of their altars and their sires, of the ordinances and promises and of the Presence that dwelt in the bush. Their heritage! It had come down to them through fire and flood, through war and famine, but it was undimmed and undiminished. It was glorious and divine. It was the favor of their God. As they thought of it, you can fancy them chanting some of the ancient hymns of their faith, like "The lines have fallen unto me in pleasant places, yea, I have a goodly heritage," or "Thou hast given me the heritage of those that fear Thy name," or "He hath showed His people the power of His works that he may give them the heritage of the heathen."

As they took that line upon their lips, they began to think, not so much of their past as of their future, not so much of the wars in which they had suffered, but of the struggles in which they were to achieve, not so much of their history as their destiny, not so much of what they had been but of what they were to be, not so much of what they had done as of what they were to do. They faced the morning, and thought of their heritage, not as a memory, but a glorious hope, a sublime inspiration, and for the work of the future they began to shout the prophet's message, "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper, and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of Me, saith the Lord." And also, "The lines have fallen unto me in pleasant places, yea, I have a goodly heritage."

Our own church heritage. We are met to-day, beloved brethren, to hallow our heritage, to nurse in our hearts' affection the story of our beloved Zion here (and not of our beloved Zion in general throughout, which was through sword and fagot,) to celebrate the sesquicentennial, the one hundred and fiftieth year of the existence of this Presbyterian church.

This church has a glorious heritage, and I am here to-day as your prophet or servant to proclaim to you the glory of your inheritance. Back of this heritage you have a mighty history, a history that you might well be proud of. In this history is woven the story of conflict and suffering, of flaming testimony and dauntless heroism, of high and holy adherence to truth, at the bare mention of which your pulses quicken.

Your history has been somewhat scarred. You have had your enemies, and over your fair land have rolled the devastating tides of war. Weapons have been forged against you and tongues have risen in judgment to condemn you, but you have also had a God whose right arm has been your glorious defense and by His matchless strength you have been enabled and are still enabled to fight down all foes.

One hundred and fifty years ago came the settlers by whom this church was founded who hailed from Scotland and the North of Ireland, and are frequently designated Scotch-Irish. They brought with them the characteristics of their native country. Among these were courage, determination, and an exalted spirit of patriotism, lovers of liberty and independence, and were pronounced in their opposition to all political tyranny. They were frugal, industrious and moral. They were true types of true blue Presbyterians and brought with them the ingredients that go to make up true Presbyterians and Presbyterian churches, namely, the Bible, the Confession of Faith, and the Catechism.

Being so ardently attached to the doctrines and worship of their forefathers, they reared for themselves a sanctuary in their new homes in the wilderness, as soon as circumstances would permit. As good as these men were, and as careful as they were to provide themselves and their families with the means of instruction, secular and religious, they appear to be guilty of one sin—a sin of omission—the lack of forethought and indifference to the preservation of the memorials of their own lives and labors. But the Rev. Dr. Simonton, as good natured and lovely as he was, would excuse them for this apparent lack of forethought, for says he, in his history of the "Emmitsburg and Piney Creek Churches" (page 6) "We must not, however, judge them harshly for this apparent lack of forethought. Their circumstances were different from ours. They had their houses to build, their lands to clear and fence, and their roads to lay out and construct, without a tithe of the facilities for conducting these operations now universally provided. Writing materials and convenient blank books of record were not so cheap and accessible, as in these days of labor-saving and labor-multiplying machinery, in every line of business and calling of life."

The first notice of preaching in this locality was when the Rev. Mr. Robert McMordie was appointed to supply at "Monokasy," on the second Sabbath of September 1760, taken from the Minutes of the Presbytery of Donegal which was created in 1732, and in 1786 the name Donegal was dropped and the body divided into two Presbyteries, Carlisle and Baltimore. This data is not certain because the precise locality indicated by the name "Monokasy" has never been definitely decided. So it still remains a disputed point whether these services were held in the bounds of this church or her sister church, Piney Creek. But we have specific data for the year 1761. Upon examination of records it is clearly shown that the Presbytery was in session April 27, 1761, at a place in Carlisle, Pa., called "Mr. Duffield's Meeting-house." At this time Tom's Creek Church knocked at the door of Presbytery and asked for supplies, but their request does not seem to have been granted. Either there were no preachers to be had or the request was granted and not recorded. A second request for supplies went up to the Presbytery from Tom's Creek on the 24th of June, 1761, with a like request from Piney Creek, afterwards Piney Creek. Presbytery then responded and appointed the Rev. John Beard to supply Piney Creek on the fourth Sabbath of September, and at Tom's Creek on the first Sabbath of October. Dr. Simonton says, "the service held at Tom's Creek early in October, 1761, was most probably the first within the bounds of the congregation."

How the hearts of those first worshippers must have leaped for joy at the sound again of that dear old Gospel that they so devoutly loved! What a grand occasion it must have been! And how deep the interest! But their names, numbers, circumstances, and sacrifices, who knows? Though their names, etc., are not recorded for our memories, yet the gracious God and Father of us all is not unmindful of their names and deeds but has written them safely in the tablets of the skies and we shall know them hereafter.

Though we do not know their names, yet their works of labor and love do follow them and we have entered into their labors. They knew nothing of ease but much of toil and hard labor. They knew nothing of the comforts of life but much of sacrifice. They walked to church or rode on horseback. This they did and were willing to do for the sake of the religion they professed and that they might lay the foundations for others to build upon. This in part is the picture of the life and circumstances at Tom's Creek one hundred and fifty years ago which made these services and this church possible to-day.

For four years the church had no settled pastor but depended upon Presbytery for supplies. The names of all supplies together with the dates and other data can be had more fully and in detail from Dr. Simonton's history of the Emmitsburg and Piney Creek Churches, and also from Mr. James A. Helman's history of Emmitsburg.

In the year 1775 this church for the first time enjoyed the privilege of a settled pastor. The Rev. Hezekiah Balch, D. D., was the first pastor of this church and he labored with the church for four years. Again they were dependent upon supplies for religious instruction and administration of the ordinances. This lasted for two years. Then they had the privilege of a second pastor—the Rev. John McKnight, D. D., who remained from 1783 to 1789 and labored with eminent success, and who received as part payment of his salary the promise of fifty bushels of wheat from each of his congregations—Tom's Creek and Lower Marsh Creek, which was then in the same pastoral charge, which relation existed and extended from October 1780 to October 1796.

Then again supplies for a year or two until the services of William Paxton, D. D., were secured, when he was installed pastor and remained for four years, serving the united churches of Tom's Creek and Lower Marsh Creek with great usefulness and acceptance. Lower Marsh Creek at this time desiring to become independent made application to Presbytery to dissolve the relation to Tom's Creek and secure the entire services of Dr. Paxton. Presbytery acceded to their request regretfully and dissolved the relation which brought to a close the useful and happy labors of Dr. Paxton at Tom's Creek.

From 1796 to 1800, Tom's Creek was without a pastor but was enabled again to secure supplies, among whom were men of note and pulpit ability. This state of affairs did not last long. Being filled with zeal and an earnest desire to have a pastor they then called the Rev. Patrick Davidson, Piney Creek at this time was vacant, and also wanting a shepherd, sent a call up to Presbytery for his services also. Presbytery finding that it was agreeable to both congregations presented the call to Mr. Davidson. Tom's Creek and Piney Creek were now for the first time in a period of forty years united under the same pastor, which lasted through successive pastorates for three-quarters of a century. This pastorate lasted ten years, which was the longest so far, and then came the interruption which lasted for a period of four years. They were again thrown upon the mercy of the Presbytery for supplies. Long was the wait, far and wide was the look, and I presume, took a deep breath before they entered into another call for a pastor. Feeling themselves now ready, and being filled no doubt with new life, and spirit and zeal, for a new pastor and pastoral relation, they now entered into that one which was the longest in the annals of the churches, extending over a period of nearly fifty-two years. This time they called the Rev. Robert S. Grier, who came as a licentiate from the Presbytery of New Castle. On April 12th, 1814 he was received under the care of Presbytery and the same day he accepted the call to Tom's Creek and Piney Creek and was duly installed.

It was an unusually prolonged and harmonious pastoral relation. Few pastorates last so long. All of the other relations prior to this were dissolved by the Act of Presbytery; this one by God himself. Mr. Grier was an earnest, clear, instructive, and very energetic preacher. He knew the Word and knew how to preach it. He was plain and direct in his preaching. He was an honest man, a sincere friend, and an upright citizen. He remained so long with his people that they felt as if they belonged to him and he to them. Some even called themselves "Grier-ites," feeling themselves highly honored to be called after such a strong man of God. There are some in our midst still who were received into the church when he was pastor and were baptized by him. They delight to speak of it and feel highly honored because they were brought to their Lord and Redeemer by such a good man. His words were a power in this community and surrounding country for good, but his actions speak even louder for good.

From the time of Mr. Grier to the present the church has never been thrown upon the mercy of Presbytery for supplies. And so it was but a few months after this long pastorate that the Rev. Dr. Isaac M. Patterson was called to be pastor, whose diligent and efficient ministry lasted seven years. During his ministry much good was accomplished, both in a material and spiritual way. Both houses of worship were remodeled and refurnished, and also a parsonage property was purchased, enlarged and improved at an extra expense of several thousand dollars. This emergency required judgment, tact and prudence. The cause of benevolent contributions was increased; a Bible class was organized; the weekly prayer meeting and lecture was established; the training of the children in the Sabbath school, and other things equally important were the labors and efforts of Dr. Patterson's faithful ministry. This honored servant of the Lord is still living and has reached the age of 79 years.

Following Dr. Patterson came the Rev. Dr. Wm. Simonton whose earnest zealous and faithful ministry lasted for a quarter of a century. His biography has not been sketched for us. His life is still fresh in our minds and hearts, his life of deep genuine piety and faith, of living deeds of love and kindness. He was known and loved by every one. "He being dead, yet speaketh." The remaining pastors were Rev. Dr. David H. Riddle who served this church faithfully for nearly eight years, and Rev. Mr. K. M. Craig for nearly four years. Dr. Riddle resides at Falls Church, Va., and Mr. Craig at Brooklyn, Md.

It is not our aim at this writing to attempt anything like a complete history of the church. We desire only to show that the fathers in the earliest years of this church remembered the house of the Lord, and began to unite in his holy service. They were consecrated, self-denying men and women. We cannot now speak of the many noble men and holy women whose consecrated lives and self-sacrificing generosity have made the church a power in the world. We cannot, if we would, enumerate the many trials and heavy burdens that they have borne, their joys and sorrows, their successes and mistakes and their victories over sin in all these intervening years. All this is recorded in heaven. It is enough to know their lives were a great success. We now enjoy the rich fruits of their devoted lives, and how can we prove ourselves to be worthy successors of those who have established and so long maintained the good work here. How can we keep alive and develop the noble spirit and holy zeal of their consecrated lives? We can show our appreciation of their faith and fidelity by adhering to the principles that made them good and great, and by devoting our lives to their Saviour and ours.

Our heritage is not simply a legacy but a summons. We should be sobered by the contemplation of present duties and not intoxicated by the memory of past blessings. This is no time to swoon in bliss over our glorious history, but be up and doing. Is not the principle of the spiritual mission of the church a present day issue? Is there no need today to champion the contention that the church is not a political or social, but a spiritual organization? When the church turns from its spiritual mission and is content to substitute the discussion of current events for the proclamation of the gospel and become the tail to some political kite, or an annex to some political scheme of civic reform or social purity, it cheapens religion. We must stand for the truth that gave us being. The great business of the church is not to found States and elect public officials, but to make men who do all that needs to be done in the fear of God. It is not enough to contend for principle. We must solve present-day problems and meet attacks. Our horizon must be wider than mere self-preservation. Our heritage must speak of Missions, and it is the lasting credit of this church that from the beginning she has been a missionary church. A church that is needed for these things must be a great church. A cheap church will not do. It must have a great Bible, a great gospel, and a great Christ, and work with great enthusiasm. It must be a church that lives in fellowship with Christ Himself, the Bible, and the Holy Spirit. Yea, in fellowship with all the churches of Christendom. What the church most needs is a mighty spiritual baptism, and when she receives this she can fight down all foes and meet every attack and solve every problem great and small and shout, if God be for us who can be against us in the establishing of His Kingdom, for it is God's own word which says: "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord."

Closing Service.
 The last of the services was held on Sunday evening before a large and representative audience. A solo by Mr. Annan Horner preceded the sermon which was delivered by Rev. F. E. Taylor, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Gettysburg. He took as his text the last verse of the last chapter of the Gospel according to St. Matthew—"Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."
 No one can reckon the influence of this church during the last 150 years, he said. God only knows what you have done as a church organization. The speaker showed how Christ was working in this world through his servants. He told of the great missionary to the Chinese, Rev. Taylor, who heard a voice saying "I am about to Christianize the Chinese Empire; if you will let me I will do it through you." This same Spirit makes a similar address to each member of his church: "I have a work to do; if you will let me I will do it through you."
 The sesquicentennial celebration was brought to a close by Rev. Mr. Hensley in a few remarks, and the benediction, which was pronounced by Rev. Taylor.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

PRESBYTERIANISM IN EMMITSBURG.

For one hundred and fifty years the Presbyterian congregation has maintained its existence in this community. In a new land, to go back a century and a half brings one almost to the beginning of things.

Only a short distance from town, in a field thickly dotted with tombs that mark the last resting place of many members of this congregation, can be read the names of those high on our roll of honor.

Nor is Presbyterian glory a thing of the dead past. When the 200th anniversary of this congregation is celebrated there will be more and better things to be said of its history than could have been told the other day.

RED CROSS SEALS.

Once more a very practical means of helping to eradicate tuberculosis—that dreaded and insidious depopulator of our country—is within reach of all.

Presbyterianism here, though 150 years old, is still in its youth.

THE McNAMARA CASE.

Life imprisonment seems little enough punishment for the outrageous crime of which the principals in the San Francisco tragedy are guilty.

There have been crimes innumerable committed by fanatics in the name and in the alleged cause of Labor. Socialistic extremists and men with anarchistic tendencies draw inspiration from unpunished crimes.

It is devoutly to be wished—in the name of humanity—that every accomplice and every person directly, indirectly or remotely connected with the McNamara plots be also speedily brought to trial.

THE MESSAGE.

The message sent to Congress by the President is through and through a Taft document. It has the distinctive imprint of one whose legal mind has weighed the pros and cons and arrived at a logical conclusion.

Mr. Taft is happier in his executive utterances and also more convincing when he excuses himself to his ill-chosen official family and goes into a corner by himself, as it were, and prepares his own "say so."

To take the regulation of commercial combinations out of politics and to have that regulation supervised at least by a commission composed of men with broad business experience is sensible and feasible and to amend the present law so that this may be brought about is the evident aim of the President.

HERE'S NICETY OF DISTINCTION FOR YOU.

A young girl who christened a U. S. collier is not found eligible to that exclusive and exalted society of Sponsors—all ladies, of course—which numbers among its members those who have had the honor of christening U. S. battleships.

REPRESENTATIVE HAMLIN.

Chairman of the House committee on expenditures of the State Department, is strenuously keeping up the reputation of the people of his commonwealth.

If business keeps up there will be little necessity for further "trust busting." A pretty wide seam has already been opened in that part of the anatomy of trust industries that shows the "works" and directorates are disintegrating so rapidly that the Saturday Evening Post will shortly find it advisable to add a few extra pages to its "Who's Who" department.

GOVERNOR CROTHERS' RECOMMENDATIONS.

Relative to greater economy in State administration and the merging of certain departments will undoubtedly appeal to Mr. Goldsborough as they do to the taxpayers of Maryland.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S DECLINATION.

Of another term has a little of the Richard III tinge about it some folks think, and not without reason, judging from appearances.

Striving Must Prevail.

Did you ever hear of a man who had striven all his life faithfully and singly toward an object and in no measure obtained it?

All Have Their Opinion.

As yet it is undetermined which is the worse: "The man who can sing and won't, or the man who can't sing and will."

Duty Not to Be Delayed.

He was a railroad man and spoke mostly in railroad terms. He was the father of two boys. One day he invited the minister home to dinner.

Sword in Heart of a Tree.

Embedded in the heart of a plank of wood taken from a railway station platform at Oakley, Fifeshire, Scotland, there has been found a sword measuring over two feet long.

The Tipping Evil.

When Toole, the famous actor, was playing an exceptionally fine engagement with a company in London, he said to the manager laughingly:

Love Souls.

Deep hearts, sage minds, take life as God has made it; it is a long trial, an incomprehensible preparation for an unknown destiny.

Never Changed in Nature.

The bees which may have lived longest in the woods undisturbed by man would if transferred from their wild abode to a hive and brought out to a modern apiary be as much at home and as tractable to man and his methods as any bees in the yard.

To Clean the Coffee Pot.

Never wash the inside of tea or coffee pots with soapsuds. If they be of granite or agate ware, and become discolored, nearly fill the pot with cold water, add one teaspoonful of borax and heat gradually until the water reaches the boiling point.

Moles as Things of Beauty.

With Turkish ladies moles on the face are considered a great beauty, the pretty theory being that love has kissed and left a spot, or that spirits whispering in the ear have left their light touch on the cheek.

Cain the Jester.

Cain had returned from the fields alone. "Where is your brother Abel?" asked Adam. "Oh," replied Cain, carelessly, "Abel has become a charter member of the Can't Come Back club."

His Scholastic Progress.

"Yes, Johnny's doing nicely at school," Mrs. Lapsling said; "and he remembers everything he learns, especially in history. He told me the story the other day about Alexander cutting the accordion knot."

Good News for Mamma.

Lisa (writing to mamma)—I miss you very much. Fortunately papa is very happy, probably to cheer me up; kind papa!—Fliegende Blatter.

Bachelor's Idea.

Mrs. Benham—"What is the meanest thing a woman can say to a man?" Benham—"Yes"—when he is fool enough to propose.—Town Topics.

London's Many Bridges.

In the city of London there are 19 railway bridges, three bridges across roads and 62 across public ways connecting private premises.

Daily Thought.

There is no greater philanthropist in the country than the working man who shares his loaf of bread with his neighborhood.—Mr. Will Crooks.

Good and Bad Critics.

The great difference between good critics and bad is that the good ones are always learning and the bad ones are always teaching.

Foundations of Empire.

The foundations of the British empire are laid in the cottages and kitchens of the people of England.—London Daily Mail.

Tourists in Switzerland.

Travelers in Switzerland average about 500,000 a year, of which number about six per cent. are Americans.

Not Always.

Opportunity doesn't always present an engraved calling card.

CARVING THE TURKEY

SHARP KNIFE NECESSARY TO SKILLFUL PERFORMANCE.

Then If You Have a Large Platter and Follow These Instructions the Bird Will Be Neatly Separated.

Some are born carvers, some—after painful effort—achieve carving, and some—unfortunate few—have carving thrust upon them.

Daniel Webster, so the story goes, once undertook to carve the turkey at an old-fashioned New England Thanksgiving dinner.

The turkey should always be served on a platter large enough to hold the different joints as they are carved.

Before carving more from the turkey it is well to separate the leg and cut it into two pieces. After this the breast of the turkey can be carved in thin, delicate slices.

Deviled Eggs l'Anglaise. Six eggs, half a cupful of cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, the yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of mustard, one teaspoonful of chutney or tomato catsup, a tablespoonful of minced ham and two teaspoonfuls of chopped pickle.

Bread Fritters. Cut some stale bread into slices one-quarter of an inch thick. Shape into squares about one and one-half inches. Beat the yolks of two eggs in a basin; add half pint of milk and an ounce of sugar.

Cover Jams and Jellies. One of the best ways of covering jams and jellies so that they will keep well is to cover the jars as soon as they are filled.

Raisin Puffs. Two eggs, one-half cup of butter or part lard or drippings, one tablespoon of sugar, one cup milk, one cup raisins chopped, two cups of flour, two teaspoons of cream of tartar and one teaspoon of soda.

Veal Cutlets. Fry brown eight slices of pork. Take up, add two spoonfuls of lard. Have ready thin slices of veal, dip them in egg and then in cracker crumbs and fry nice brown, season before dipping with pepper and salt.

Drop Cookies. One cup of sugar, half cup of butter, three eggs, not beaten; add the eggs one at a time; one teaspoon of vanilla, one cup of walnuts, one cup of raisins, chopped together; one teaspoon of cinnamon, a pinch of cloves and allspice, one teaspoon of soda dissolved in hot water, and enough flour to make stiff batter.

Honey Recipe. Four pounds of granulated sugar, two teaspoonfuls alcohol, one drop rose oil, one-half teaspoonful alum. Mix this thoroughly. Then pour in one and one-half quarts of boiling water and boil just five minutes and no longer.

A Cake Hint. If after a cake has been baked it persists in sticking to the bottom of the pan, turn the pan upside down and press close to it a very wet cloth. This will bring the cake out quickly.

SANITARY WAY OF SWEEPING

Various Methods of Keeping Down the Dust When the Vacuum Cleaner Is Unavailable.

Recently there has been developed a great improvement in housekeeping appliances—the vacuum cleaner. It is not yet perfect, but it contains great promise.

Whenever these more effective methods of removing dirt are, for any reason, temporarily impossible, always remember that moisture makes dust not only less harmful, but more manageable.

The following are some of Dr. Kitchener's butter recipes. Clarified Butter.—Put the butter in a nice clean stewpan, over a very clear slow fire, watch it and when it melts carefully skim off the buttermilk, etc., which will swim on the top.

Burnt Butter.—Put two ounces of fresh butter into a small frying pan. When it becomes a dark brown color add to it a tablespoonful and a half of good vinegar and a little pepper and salt.

Oiled Butter.—Put two ounces of fresh butter into a saucepan, set it at a distance from a fire so that it may melt gradually till it comes to an oil and pour it quietly from the dregs.

Ingredients required: One peck of good tomatoes, firm and ripe. Peel them cold without scalding. Chop fine in chopping bowl and strain off all the juice. This is imperative, for if juice is not all strained off the chopped tomatoes the catsup will not keep.

Boiled Dressing. Four eggs well beaten, half teaspoon dry mustard, one teaspoon salt, half teaspoon pepper, one tablespoon sugar, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one cup rich milk, half cup vinegar; cook in a double boiler and beat with an egg beater continually until thick enough.

His Mother-in-Law

By CLAUDINE SISSON

At the age of twenty-three, when Moses Smith was married, he was spoken of as a hustler. As a carpenter by trade, he was at work early and late. Two years later he fell off a scaffold and hurt his back. He was pitted and sympathized with, and, although after six weeks of loafing, the doctor pronounced Moses as good as new, the carpenter had lost his hustle. His wife dreaded that he might injure himself by going to work too soon and she started dressmaking to support them while he loafed.

Moses Smith's mother-in-law lived in another state. She heard how things were going, but it was a year before she came on. She found Moses growing fat and his wife growing lean. It didn't take the old lady over a week to size things up. In her time she had known of several lame-backed men and foolish wives. With the doctor to back her, she announced that her daughter must go away and nest for a month to prevent a nervous breakdown. She would remain to keep house for Moses.

The lame-backed man didn't like it at all. It meant an overturning of his pleasant program. He doubted if there would be any more tea and toast and "poor Moses!" for him. He was overruled, however, and the morning his wife started away he went down to the village postoffice and took his old seat on the veranda and hoped for the best. At noon he returned home to meet with a surprise. No fire—no dinner. In reply to his look of bewilderment the lady with the iron jaw replied:

"You didn't cut any wood, and so there's no dinner."

"But I can't raise the ax with this lame back."

"Then you won't have to raise knife or fork!"

Moses went back to the grocery and filled up on a raw turnip. He went home to supper, but there was no supper. No wood—no supper. He went out and sat down under a lilac bush, and his eyes filled with tears. He was in the habit of going to bed at 9 and getting up at the same hour next morning. His going to bed on this occasion was according to program, but he was aroused at 8 o'clock by a dash of water in his face. He had been called twice in vain.

"Moses, the ax and the woodpile!" said the mother-in-law as he came down stairs with a scowl on his brow. "You know I'm a cripple," he answered.

"No wood—no breakfast!" He went slowly out and bent to pick up the ax and straightened up with a groan and his hand to his back.

"It's a crik in the back," said the woman. "I'm glad to find it out. I've tackled fourteen different criks and cured each and every one. If I can cure you then Nelly will be very happy when she returns. Come along out to the smokehouse."

"But what's the smokehouse going to do for a man whose spinal cord is all knotted up?"

"Treatment, Moses—treatment. Just step inside."

He stepped, and the door was closed on him and locked. He found a cot, a jug of water and a loaf of bread. He kicked on the door and called out to know what it all meant, and was told to cuddle down and take treatment for the cure of general laziness, drink a crik in the back and lying abed in the morning. He was warned that any extra emotion on his part would make the crik worse, and told that there was no objection to his sleeping all day. Moses was foolish enough to kick and shout until a score of villagers came running to see what the matter was. To one and all the mother-in-law answered:

"Moses has had a crik in the back for a year past, and I've set out to cure it. I hope to meet with great success. In fact, I don't think his wife will have to do dressmaking when she comes back. Thanks for calling. Come again."

During the first day Moses thought and slept by turns, and now and then shed tears. In a few hours his life had changed over and his peace and comfort had departed.

At sundown more bread and water. He yelled and kicked and again he was warned to suppress his emotions. He demanded better fare, but was answered that until his crik got so that he could use the ax there would be no cooking. On the second night he seriously thought of suicide, and he smiled joyously as he conjured up a mental picture of the mother-in-law opened the door in the morning and finding him stark and stiff in death. But successfully to commit suicide one must have something more than a jug of water and a loaf of bread at hand. Moses couldn't choke himself with ether.

Breakfast was the same old bill of fare, and the woman still had her iron jaw. There was no conversation. Moses nibbled and sipped and thought. An hour before noon he called out and when asked what he wanted he very humbly replied:

"Mother, I believe that crik is better."

"It's too soon, Moses—it's too soon."

"Maybe, if I was very careful, I could split a few ticks of wood to get dinner with."

"I wouldn't have you try it for the world, my dear son-in-law. You have been in dreadful bad shape for a year. Any undue exertion might finish you. You shall have a raw tomato to help out your dinner, as that goes with the treatment. If it wasn't half a mile to the nearest saloon I'd ask you to have a drink with me."

Moses didn't have such a lame back that he couldn't understand sarcasm, and he raised another row. Again the neighbors came, but when he appealed to them for help they looked at the mother-in-law. She asked them not to interfere with her treatment. She had set out to cure his crik, and they could all notice that his voice was growing stronger. That smokehouse door was the first thing he had raised his foot to kick a whole year.

Bread and water again for supper, and another long night. Not a look of pity—not a "poor Moses!" Truly, things had changed. At midnight Moses sat up on his cot to decide two questions. Was his crik really better? Was his mother-in-law's fifteenth cure? Should he go to work? After an hour he decided both cases in the affirmative, and in the morning he was ready to say:

"Mother, I've been doing some serious thinking since you were here last."

"I warned you not to strain your mind. You must be very, very quiet."

"I—I ought to have been at work for months past."

"But the lame back, you know?"

"I shouldn't have gone to drinking."

"But you had to, poor man."

"If you'll let me out now I'll have a job before night."

"I couldn't, Moses—I couldn't. It's altogether too sudden. If you went to work now it might be the last of you, and I don't want my daughter a widow. Let's do a good job and not hurry about it."

It was on the morning of the tenth day, and after two ministers and a score of lawmen had pleaded for Moses, that the door was unlocked and an ax put into his hands. He walked straight to the woodpile and made the chips fly. When he had worked for two hours he put on his coat and started to look for a job, and when his wife came home he was at work on a new barn. There was astonishment at his cure, and surprise that he wouldn't tell how it had been brought about. All the explanation he made was that he suddenly felt something give way. The mother was a little clearer as she said:

"Nelly, all men want a mother-in-law around the house, but some want them more than others. If I were you I'd let it kind o' leak out around the village that you ain't going to do any more dressmaking, and that Moses is going to give up sitting on the post-office steps and put in ten hours' work for eight hours' pay."

DATE FROM FIFTH CENTURY

Invention of Large Church Bells
Ascribed to Paulinus, Bishop of Nola.

In the twenty-eighth chapter of Exodus, verses 34 and 35, occurs the first mention of bells, and their use is practically the same as that to which modern church bells are put, namely, to give notice of the time for public worship.

The uses of bells as summons to prayer are not derived directly from this source as they have been used in all ages for secular as well as religious purposes.

In the Grecian army the officer of the guard visited the sentries at night with a bell as a signal of watchfulness, and the Romans used small ones in their baths and places of business.

The honor of inventing the large church bells, however, is ascribed to Paulinus, Bishop of Nola, a city of Campania, who flourished in the fifth century of the Christian era. Not long after they were introduced into Britain.

St. Dunstan presented several to Malmesbury Abbey, and the abbot of England, in King Edward's time, made six bells, which were named after distinguished personages, and, says the historian, such a concert was never heard in the land before.

The custom of ringing upon occasions of public rejoicings is derived from an early usage of the Catholics, who in this manner gave notice of the arrival of a church dignitary within their jurisdiction, and it was regarded as a high offense if the bells were not rung.

Publicity an Essential.

James Hamilton Lewis, once a member of congress and now an attorney in Chicago, was on one occasion candidate for an elective position in the northwest. At that time Lewis was famous for "his pink whiskers," of which he had a roseate and flaming abundance. One day an acquaintance of Lewis' dropped into a hotel and asked the clerk:

"Isn't that Jim Ham Lewis over there reading that newspaper?"

"No," explained the clerk, "that's a fellow who looks so extraordinarily like him that Lewis' opponents have hired him to sit around in hotel lobbies and create the impression that he is Lewis."

Lewis coined the famous idea: "If you can't praise me in the newspapers, please roast me; but never leave my name out altogether."—The Sunday Magazine.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Rev. Mr. Bausman, of Enola, Pa., spent Wednesday and Thursday here.

Mrs. Hessie McN. Annan and Misses Amelia and Elizabeth Annan, of Taneytown, spent several days here.

Mrs. Emma Clark is spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Kreitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bentz and Mr. John Kelley and Mrs. Bernard White and Mrs. White spent Tuesday at Kreitz's.

Miss Fannie Hoke is visiting in Baltimore.

Mr. E. F. Ohler, of Pittsburgh, is here on a visit.

Mrs. M. A. Burns and Miss Eva McCubbin, who have been visiting Mrs. Clarke Schaffer, have returned to their home in Washington, D. C.

Miss Rosella Adams spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Adams.

Miss Annie Adams spent Tuesday of last week at the home of Mr. Augustus Kreitz.

Mr. J. Henry Stokes spent several days in Baltimore.

Mr. Cromer formerly of Hotel Slagle, now of Hotel Albaugh, Hanover, spent Tuesday here.

Miss Helen Knobe leaves Friday for Buck Lodge near Washington where she will spend a few weeks.

Rev. Father Tracy, of Niagara University, N. Y., well known to many of the members of St. Joseph's parish having given a retreat here two years ago to the Holy Name Society, is a guest at St. Vincent's House.

Mrs. M. C. Welch, who visited her daughter, Mrs. Harry Boyle, has returned to Libertytown.

Misses Mary and Mabel Whitmore, of Baltimore, spent Sunday with their parents in this place.

Miss Emma Koontz, of Bridgeport, Conn., spent a week with Miss Mary Miller.

Mr. Lewis Krug entertained on Thanksgiving Day Dr. and Mrs. Merriam, of Baltimore, Misses Mary Barry, Catherine Seltzer, and Messrs. Henry Cool and Michael Bowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Ohler Surprised. A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Ohler on Thanksgiving Day by a number of friends. In a few weeks Mr. and Mrs. Ohler will celebrate the twenty fifth anniversary of their marriage, and this surprise, although it came a little early, was nevertheless one of congratulations for the couple.

Refreshments in abundance were served the twenty-six guests, who were also entertained with music and games. All were delighted and stayed until late in the afternoon.

His condition is critical but he has improved very much since he was operated on for general peritonitis.

Is College to Lose Athlete?

Joe Engel will enter Georgetown University after the Christmas holidays, say the Washington papers. The Herald says for the past three years Joe has been a student at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., where he has made an enviable record in all branches of sport. In baseball he led the team to many victories through his air-tight twirling, and on the football field filled the position of full back to the entire satisfaction of Coach Mike Thompson.

Over six feet tall, this eighteen-year-old youngster, product of the local sand lots, where he started his baseball career, has the build and nerve to make Georgetown a most valuable representative in many branches of sport.

While at Mount St. Mary's, in addition to being a member of the baseball and football squads, he was also a shining light on the basketball five and a member of the track team.

According to Mr. Thompson, director of Athletics and head coach of the football team, Mr. Engle will not go to Georgetown.

Frederick Officers Sworn In.

The New Judges of the Orphans' Court, John C. Castle, Middletown; Albert S. Ecker, Woodsboro and John W. Mumford, Braddock, took the oath of office Monday morning. Governor Crothers designated Mr. Castle Chief Judge. All are Republicans.

J. Stewart Annan, Republican, of Emmitsburg, and John W. Holter, Democrat, of Middletown, County Commissioners were sworn also. The board organized by electing L. G. DEMOCRATS AND GORMAN DIFFER AS TO POLICY

Rumored Attempt to Throttle the Governor Elect Does Not Meet With Senator's Approval.

There were rumors current early this week that the Democratic State organization was going to enact laws that would strip Governor Elect Goldsborough of all most all his appointing power. This caused a great deal of comment, that from Senator Gorman being most to the point. Senator Gorman said:

"I am strongly opposed to any plan to strip the incoming Governor of his power to make appointments. I have been of this opinion since the proposition was first discussed, shortly after the election, and the more I study it the more firmly I am convinced that it would be a vital mistake from the view point of the Democratic party.

"The voters of the State have elected Mr. Goldsborough Governor and he is entitled to make all appointments that are conferred upon him by the Constitution and the laws of the State. I am opposed to any measure or measures, either in an extra session or the regular session, which aim to strip or restrict the powers of the incoming Governor."

A Presbyterian Jubilee.

As an observer I wish to record impressions made at the 150th celebration of the founding of the Presbyterian church in Emmitsburg, Maryland. It was an historic event long to be remembered, the union sentiment of the congregation was very manifest, the ladies in committee, met with a cordial reception in providing the viands for the supper, which was free, at this supper they gave all a hearty welcome. Such greetings, and such a supper! their happy faces betoken our welcome, the lecture room was gorgeously decorated, as were the long tables, on which an abundance of provisions were tastefully arranged, the room brilliant, the scene festive. Yes, when the company was seated it presented a scene pleasing to behold, the happy face and cordial intermingling compelled us to say it is good to be here.

It was a golden idea that conceived the plan, it savored of reminiscences in which historic lore perfumed the atmosphere, and made fragrant the hours so pleasantly spent together, it was worthy the confidence the members had in joining hands so cheerfully with the pastor who first conceived the thought. No objection, all unanimous in response exclaiming, just the thing, and at it they went as one man, bringing it to a successful end, fully repaid by the pleasure each had assembling together. Speeches were made by Revs. Hensley, Reinwald, Gluck and Boyle. The reference to the original founders of the church, their deprivations, their hardships, their zeal, compared to the present situation and surroundings gave ample scope for thought, the earnestness of the organization from its start, its long history, its generous gifts all of which the members have cause to rejoice over. Seeing the harmony prevailing amongst people, a halo still lingers around the scene, when young and old mingled together, cementing by their smiles and courteous manners a heartfelt interest in each other. It was a fulfillment of brethren dwelling together in peace.

It will long be remembered as a social feature. It so impressed the writer he would suggest a repetition of the same yearly. The services held from day to day closing with Sunday night, gave the people of Emmitsburg an uplift for a time. These were attended by other than Presbyterians. It was a rally, the summing up of a century and a half which proved to the good of many, no criticisms were heard, all was praise, justly due the occasion.

The committee, who put in execution the plans, deserve the thanks of all. Long may the fraternal feeling prevail.

Row in Spanish Royal Family.

Infanta Eulalie of Spain, the lady who was entertained by this country during the big Chicago fair, has written a book. Her nephew, King Alfonso, has ordered her to suppress the book until he has read and approved it. The Infanta answered the King's message in this way: "I am greatly astonished that my book should be judged without being read. It is a thing that could only happen in Spain. Never having any liking for Court life, from which I have always held myself aloof, I take this opportunity to send you my adieux. For after this proceeding, which is worthy of the Inquisition, I consider myself, so far as my private life is concerned, free to act as I deem fit."

The regular meeting of the Equal Franchise League of Emmitsburg will be held at the home of Miss Eva Rowe, Friday evening, Dec. 8, at 8 o'clock.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Frederick county, sitting as a Court of Equity, passed in No. 8756 Equity in said Court, the undersigned, trustee, will sell at public sale, on the premises, on Saturday, the 30th day of Dec., 1911, at 1 o'clock, P. M., all that valuable Real Estate of which Nicholas C. Stansbury died, seized and possessed, consisting of a farm containing 112 ACRES OF LAND, more or less, situated in the 5th election district of Frederick county and State of Maryland, along and near the public road leading from Howard K. Martin's Mill to Motters Station on the Emmitsburg Railroad, about four miles south of the town of Emmitsburg and about one mile east of the said Railroad, adjoining lands of Thomas H. Groshon, Louisa Fuss, Robert L. Troxell and others, conveyed to the said Nicholas C. Stansbury, deceased, by Abraham Lohr, trustee, by his deed dated the 3rd day of January, in the year 1889, and recorded in Liber W. L. P. No. 9, folio 194, one of the Land Records of said Frederick county. Improved by a large BRICK DWELLING HOUSE, bank barn, carriage shed, wash house and other outbuildings all in good condition. There are also two apple orchards and two never failing wells of water on said farm, which is under good fencing and one of the most desirable in the neighborhood.

TERMS OF SALE prescribed by the Court:—One-third of the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale, or on the ratification thereof by the Court, the residue in six and twelve months, the purchaser giving his, her or their notes with approved security and bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers.

When all the purchase money has been paid the deed will be executed but all the expenses of conveying to be borne by the purchaser or purchasers. The present growing crops of grain are reserved, with the right to cut, gather and thresh the same when matured. The said farm will be sold subject to the dower right and estate therein of Mrs. Mary A. Stansbury, widow of the said deceased. A deposit of $500.00 will be required from the purchaser or purchasers at the time of the sale.

MIDDLEBURG.

Last Saturday the people at E. O. Clark's warehouse were astonished to see a large deer walking around. It finally disappeared in the woods and was last seen near Good Intent.

Last Friday afternoon as Mr. Ed. Angel was returning with the mail from the 3.40 train he was surprised to find Mrs. Samuel Minnick lying unconscious on the walk about 100 yards from the depot.

Revival services still continue in the M. E. Church. Rev. Prettyman of Red Lion, Del., is assisting the pastor. Holy Communion was administered this Thursday evening.

Mr. E. O. Cash killed his five porkers last week the 5 weighing 2,800, the largest weighed over 500.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized Wednesday Dec. 6th. The contracting parties were Miss Ella M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devilliss, and Mr. Charles L. Angel, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Angell, of Rocky Ridge.

Immediately after the ceremony a sumptuous dinner was served. The happy couple left on the 3.40 train for a trip to Baltimore and New York.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angel, Rev. E. O. Bregenzler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Devilliss, Mr. and Mrs. James Angell, Mrs. Louisa Buffington, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Sharret, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Devilliss, Mrs. Oliver Groosnickle, Mrs. Minnie Rinehart, Mr. and Mrs. John Buffington, Mr. and Mrs. D. THE TEETH AND ORAL HYGIENE.

Perhaps a better time than now could not be found to take up the subject, "Care of the Infant's Mouth," which after all is the beginning of the study of the whole subject.

As I am not a physician and do not treat conditions described herein my advice is to consult your family physician and get such suggestions as he may make.

The following words are likely to come under your observation in these papers and I give them here with definitions for your benefit.

Cusp: a point or prominence. Cuspid tooth: Third tooth on either side of the middle line, commonly called "eye" tooth in the upper set and "stomach" tooth in the lower set.

Deciduous teeth: The first set of teeth, those we shed, of which there are ten in each jaw. Eruption: In dentistry, the crown of the tooth coming through the mucous membrane from the jaw bone, the mucous membrane is the lining membrane of the mouth and jaws.

The Peace Movement.

One of the discouraging features connected with this universal peace movement is the apparent avidity of the average citizen to behold a scrap.

Advertising Talks

SAYS NEWSPAPERS PAID BEST

Prominent Railroad Man Tells of Spending Million and a Quarter Dollars in Advertising.

The daily newspapers produce the greatest results from advertising, according to Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Harriman railway system, who supervised the handling of the record advertising appropriation of $1,250,000 provided by his corporation last year to be used in advertising within twelve months. "The daily newspapers reach the people and stimulate correspondence and desire for further knowledge," he says. "Follow-up literature then closed the deal and made a prospective settler of the newspaper reader."

Fort says that in his advertising campaigns he has used all kinds of mediums from daily newspapers to magazines, booklets, pictures, pamphlets, billboards and lecturers.

"We appeal to the people in our advertisements. We sometimes shot in the air, but I am convinced that enough of the shot scattered by the daily newspapers hit the mark to make the entire campaign pay."

"Railroads must be developers. They must develop the country through which the tracks run. The only way that I know of to develop a country is to let the people know what you have to offer."

Fort conducts an advertising campaign as he would build a railroad. An executive committee meets with him and plans a method of spending the appropriation for the year. When all is ready the publicity men are as progressive as railroad builders, who begin to grade for railroad tracks after surveyors and engineers have laid out the route to be followed.

"The actual result of the advertising is difficult to estimate accurately," he said. "We authorize the expenditure and then begin to trace the results. In many instances we run against a stone wall before we get to the actual facts, but we find enough good done to know that advertising pays."

"A conspicuous example occurred last year. Three years ago the Union Pacific opened a direct line to Yellowstone Park. Before that time the park could be reached only by a tiresome stage journey. The first and second year we advertised the new line only slightly and let it take care of itself. The travel increased but slightly."

"Last year we advertised the direct route to the park extensively. The result was that we more than doubled the number of passengers carried in the other years. All of these passengers had to ride over various parts of our road to reach the connecting line."

"That is what I call producing direct results. It is emphasized by the fact that a competitor who also touches that locality, made only a normal increase in business, while ours more than doubled."

Meaning of Advertising.

The primary object of the merchant who advertises in today's newspaper, says the Philadelphia Record, is to sell the goods that are now on his shelves and counters. The secondary object is to sell the goods that will come into his store next week, next month, next year.

The merchant should never lose sight of the secondary object of his advertising. Each day's ad must be a substantial addition to the foundation of his store's reputation. The cumulative effect of daily advertising is to make such an impression upon every newspaper reader that if he does not want any of the advertised articles immediately, he will eventually be made to want them, and will have his mind made up in advance as to where he had better buy them.

Frame your advertising with a view to instant results, but count confidently on an extra dividend in the shape of future results.

When you prepare your copy if you can get four lines in it that will make your reader think four lines more you get so much space free. Don't crowd too much matter into little space. It is not understandable to the layman, and he doesn't take the time, anyway, to go through the thing verbatim.—Arthur Brisbane.

Catchy Advertising.

A Dutchman had a cart from which he peddled wienerwurst sausage. One day he saw on a bake wagon: "You need a biscuit." It struck him as a good advertisement, so he painted on his cart: "You need a biscuit, but you need a wiener wurst."

When Care is Advisable.

"It took Branscomb six months to make up his mind concerning the kind of an automobile he would buy."

"Yes, and I understand that he had known his wife only two weeks before they were married."

"Well, buying an automobile is a serious thing."

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

Ornamental Hand Bags Supplant the Leather Variety.

The plain sturdy variety is entirely out of it this fall, as far as fashion is concerned. Most bags are frivolous affairs that look as if they were designed for ornament and not use, but there is really a great deal of room inside of these graceful bags. The long cord handles, which may be hung from the shoulders, are a favorite sort, but for shopping the leather handles are best.

Every little while there is a revival of some old fashion gem, and now it is garnets. Many forms they take. One may have them in rings, pendants or wear them in brooches.

Have you seen the new hack coats for winter, made of polo cloth? One tan colored model has a small sailor collar and cuffs of hunter's green, all of the same material. Black, with white collar and cuffs; oxford gray, with purple or scarlet; tan, with white and brown, and navy, with red, are the popular combinations.

The blouse pictured is suggestive of the sailor style with its laced opening. College girls like such waists at all seasons of the year, especially for sports. JUDIC CHOLLET.

HINTS ON DRESS.

The Little Things That Count in Woman's Appearance.

Just because you wear a silly little bonnet or a huge chiffon veil don't think that you cheat people into believing that you own a motor car.

Don't imagine that you look younger because you wear a short skirt; generally speaking, you only succeed in making yourself appear ridiculous.

Don't buy a silk or satin raincoat and then use it for general utility purposes if you would be well dressed. A raincoat, as its name signifies, is to be worn in rainy or stormy weather and is entirely out of place on a sunny day or as an evening wrap.

Don't choose clothes made on very extreme lines unless you can afford to follow every whim of fashion. Remember the well dressed, well bred girl is never conspicuous and her clothes never attract attention.

The single breasted coat with a big collar is the latest and nattiest. This one is an excellent model. The three-quarter bell sleeves are very good style for early fall wear. JUDIC CHOLLET.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes from 24 to 44 inches bust measure. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 713, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage, which insures more prompt delivery.

OLD FAVORITES.

SIGH ON, SAD HEART.

SIGH on, sad heart, for love's eclipse
And beauty's fairest queen,
Though 'tis not for my peasant lips
To sell her name between.
A king might wear his scepter down,
But I am poor and naught.
The brow should wear a golden crown
That wears her in its thought.

The diamonds glancing in her hair,
Whose sudden beams surprise,
Might bid such humble hopes beware
The glancing of her eyes.
Yet, looking once, I looked too long,
And if my love is sin,
Death follows on the heels of wrong
And kills the crime within.

Her dress seemed wove of lily leaves,
It was so pure and fine;
Oh, lofty weaves and lowly weaves,
But hoddan gray is mine.
And homely hose must step apart
Where gartered princes stand,
But may he wear my love at heart
That wins her lily hand!

'Tis vain to weep, 'tis vain to sigh,
'Tis vain this idle speech,
For where her happy pearls do lie
My tears may never reach.
Yet when I'm gone 'e'en lofty pride
May say of what has been,
'His love was nobly born and died,
'Though all the rest was mean.'

My speech is rude, but speech is weak
Such love as mine is to tell
Yet had I words I dare not speak,
So, lady, fare thee well!
I will not wish thy better state
Was one of low degree.
But I must weep that partial fate
Made such a churl of me.
—Thomas Hood.

HIS NAME WAS CARE.

Pride was his garment and to rags all rent,
No better had he nor for better cared.

With blistered hands among the cinders bent,
With fingers filthy, with long nails unpare'd,
Right fit to rend the food on which he fared.

His name was Care, a blacksmith by his trade,
That neither day nor night from working spared,
But to small purpose yron wedges made.
Those be unquiet thoughts that careful minds invade.
—Spenser.

PILOTS OF LIBERTY.

FLAWLESS his heart and tempered to the core
Who, beckoned by the forward leaning wave,
First left behind him the firm footed shore.

And, urged by every nerve of sail and oar,
Steered for the unknown which gods to mortals gave—
High hearted surely he—
But bolder they who first off cast
Their moorings from the habitable past
And ventured chartless on the sea
Of storm engendering liberty.
For all earth's width of waters is a span
And their convulsed existence mere repose
Matched with the unstable heart of man,
Shoreless in wants, mist girt in all it knows.
Open to every wind of sect or clan
And sudden passionate in ebbs and flows.
—James Russell Lowell.

About the only service we ever heard of the English sparrow performing a friend related to us the other day. A nearby willow hedge had been well nigh defoliated by myriads of fat, juicy willow worms. One morning just at daybreak a cloud of sparrows, evidently summoned from miles around, lit down on these willows, and in less time than it takes to tell had devoured the last worm. This was a spasm of usefulness that it is a pity the sparrow tribe is not oftener seized with.

How the Children Trapped the Mad Dog In a Closet

Daddy's Bedtime

American Children Story— Just as Brave As French Ones

"Do you remember me telling you folks," began daddy, "about the pluck of a little French boy and girl who kept the lamps in the lighthouse going while daddy lay dead downstairs?"

"Why, I should say so!" replied Evelyn. "I'll never forget it."
"Me neither," replied slangy Jack.

"Well, only the other day we found just as plucky a pair of American babies," said daddy. "Lord love 'em. I guess good little folks are the same the whole world over."

"This happened in New York city a few days ago, and the hero and heroine are babies compared to you two, James being only seven years old and his sister Annie only five. Their father, Mr. Rudolph, was talking on the front stoop of their house to a neighbor when around the corner came a Great Dane dog, almost as big as me, frothing at the mouth and snapping and snarling."

"Everybody ran but Mr. Rudolph and his friend, who were too busy talking to notice the animal until it sprang up the steps and bit the friend on the hand, nearly taking off his finger."

"Then the brute darted through the opened doors and up the stairs to where the babies were. Mr. Rudolph almost fainted, but started after just in time to hear a door slam and the voice of James calling: 'All right, pop. Come on up. We got 'im.'"

"And what do you think those tots had done? They had seen the excitement in the street and started for their father when they saw the big dog leaping upstairs. Quick as a wink James opened the door of a linen closet that stood at the head of the staircase, and the excited animal plunged straight in. Then came the slam of the door, and when pop, almost exhausted with terror, reached the spot there were his two youngsters hanging on to the knob like grim death and telling him not to be afraid."

"In a few moments a policeman was on hand and shot the dog, and then the neighborhood went wild over James and Annie. If they had eaten one-tenth of the fruit and candy and ice cream sodas that were pressed on them I'm afraid that all the doctors in the neighborhood would have been called in, but they were very moderate and, in fact, seemed more frightened at the attentions showered on them than they were of the great dog that could easily have killed them."

"I think they each ought to have a Carnegie medal," said Evelyn.
"I shall be very much disappointed if they don't," said daddy.

FARM+SCIENCE=WALTH.

Dr. Hopkins, Illinois soil expert, has hammered home the theory that you cannot keep taking everything out of the soil without putting something back. His dictum has been justified by recent experiments conducted by the University of Illinois, which show that with the use of phosphorus crops have been doubled.

On the same farm the wheat yield where phosphorus was not used was twenty-four bushels an acre; with the phosphorus the yield jumped to an average of fifty-eight and a half bushels.

Farming is being rapidly recognized to be as much of a science as the most intricate manufacturing business. The scientific farmer is the one who will make a fortune where his ancestors made a bare living.

Phosphorus For Wheat.

Experiments in soil treatment have been made on the University of Illinois experiment plots on the S. Noble King farm in McLean county, and by the use of phosphorus fertilizer the wheat yield was more than doubled. The average yield on all plots which were not treated with phosphorus was twenty-four bushels an acre. The average yield on the fertilized plots was fifty-eight and one-half bushels an acre.

This is the climax of the results that have been obtained on the experiment plot year after year and more than bears out the propaganda of Dr. C. G. Hopkins, the university soil expert, who holds that crops may be doubled with intelligent treatment.

Sunflowers Useful.

Sunflowers are attractive, and a place is always more homelike when they are planted in abundance near it. Sunflowers give dignity and charm to the farmstead, and their presence denote taste and culture of the homemaker. The seed makes good poultry feed.

There are few, if any, weeds that have a more generous capacity for seed production than the purple plant, which has a spread of three feet. Myriads of seed capsules are matured, and each of these is chock full of seed.

While the rank of the two breeds is about the same from the standpoint of pork production, the Duroc-Jersey has this point in its favor as compared with the Poland China—that the litters which the sows farrow contain about 25 per cent more pigs.

With spring chickens running all over the place and fetching only 9 or 10 cents, there is mighty little profit in the farmer selling them and buying beef at 15 cents and bacon at 20 to 25 cents.

The items you now and then run across about making ice cream out of halistones are interesting in a way, but it is a distinction a fellow usually likes to have claimed by some one over in the next county.

Considering the money invested and cost of keep, there is no product sold from the farm that represents so large a measure of profit as that from the poultry yard. And these profits could be increased greatly were more pains taken.

Sunday Elections.

In several European countries, including France and Belgium, elections are always held on Sundays.
