WORK DONE BY LEGISLATURE

CONSTRUCTIVE LAWS

Appropriation for School of Technology

WILSON BALLOT LAW REPEALED

Amendments in Corrupt Practices Act Reduces Amount of Money Candidates Can Expend at Primary or General Contests.

The Maryland Legislature for 1912 ended its sessions at 2.56 Tuesday morning. The closing scenes in the House are better unrecorded. Speaker Trippe was presented a silver service. In the Senate order prevailed. President Price was the recipient also of a similar service. The floor leader was given a watch and chain.

In the House over 50 measures were put through without any regard for their purport.

The most important political measures passed or amended were—

The Senatorial Primary law.

Amendments to the Corrupt Practices act.

A new measure to succeed the Wilson Ballot-law.

Amending the Primary Election law so as to provide for a complete preferential system of voting and for a recount of ballots without the furnishing of prima facie evidence of fraud and extension of the party affiliation system over the entire State.

The Presidential Primary law.

Employers' Liability act.

The Ten-Hour Working Day law for women.

The Compulsory Education law.

The Child Labor law.

Establishment of a school of technology in connection with Johns Hopkins University.

Purchase of land and the construction of a new State Normal School.

To provide for the care of all its indigent insane in the State.

For enlarging the Hospital for Consumptives at Sabillasville.

Providing for a continuation of road building by the State.

The State has provided a bond issue of $600,000 for the erection of new buildings for the Normal School, which will probably be built in the vicinity of Baltimore.

For a school of technology the State has authorized a bond issue of $600,000, to be used in establishing the institution, and also a continuing appropriation of $50,000 a year. It is generally believed that this movement on the part of the Legislature will do more toward the development of Maryland than anything that has been undertaken for years. The appropriation for care of the insane, amounting to $800,000 will be met by a bond issue. New buildings will be erected at the present State institutions, and a new institution will be established on the Eastern Shore. The bond issue for the consumptive hospital will be $100,000.

The Wilson Ballot law was repealed before the inauguration of Governor Goldsborough. The new law for the counties in which the Wilson law was effective provides for uniform ballots and the arrangement of the names of candidates in alphabetical order. Party designations are not to be printed after the names of the candidates and sample ballots are prohibited.

Amendments to the Corrupt Practices act greatly reduce the amounts of money that candidates can expend legally either in primary or general contests.

CONVINCED OF REELECTION TAFT ISSUES ORDERS

Approves Naval Fleet's Plans Which Extend Beyond His Present Term of Office to May 5, 1913.

President Taft is credited with having a firm and settled conviction that he is to be re-elected. Evidence of this was the general topic of comment in the Navy Department when the memorandum for the operations of the Atlantic fleet was discussed.

Plans for the work of the fleet are seldom made out for a longer period than three or four months at a time. The memorandum for the coming Summer's work was completed on Saturday.

Beginning with April 15 the fleet is to be sent to home yards for docking, which will occupy the time until May 1. Then the successive operations of the fleet are set forth, covering the time from May 1, 1912, until May 5, 1913, two months after the expiration of the present term of the President.

The first woman to cross the English Channel was Miss Trehawke Davis; in this case Seahawke Davis.

EASTER EGGS

The Feast of the Resurrection, the "Queen of Festivals," is remarkable for the almost universal practice of giving "Pace Eggs." As an Easter dish, Easter eggs are in point of antiquity deserving of first mention. Some antiquaries see in the Paschal egg a symbol of the Resurrection, and have constantly pronounced the custom to be of Christian origin; but it is far older than Christianity. Eggs were eaten (after having been colored) in the very remotest antiquity during the festival of the spring. To this day they are a prominent feature in the Feast of Noruz (or New Year) held throughout Central Asia about March 25. The custom is also common in Norse nations. In the old "Sagas" the earth was symbolized by an egg. The egg was the emblem of the world, and ancient temples in consequence sometimes received an oval form. This typification is found in almost every Oriental cosmogony. The egg is still a sacred symbol in the rites of the Beltein and plays a prominent part in the worship of Baal. Egyptians, Persians, Greeks and Romans, all shared in the symbolical use of eggs; and the Parsees even now distribute red eggs at their Festival of Spring. The word pays, pas, pace, pasche, pasche, etc., still used in the north of England, come from the Hebrew, through the Greek. The Danish Paaske-egg, and the Swedish Paskegg both likewise signify colored eggs. In England the old "Pace egg" were hard-boiled, and dyed with various colors. In fact "Pace-egg Day" was one of the names in England for Easter Day; "paste" being a natural enough corruption of "pach." It is curious to note that, though the word Easter is itself derived from the name of the Saxon deity "Eostre," this title has been preferred and preserved rather than the Biblical one of Pascha, or Passover, for the greatest of all Christian festivals, that which we celebrate this year on Sunday, April 7th.

† Good Friday †

O darkest woe!
Ye tears forth flow!
Has earth so sad a wonder!
That the Father's only Son
Now lies buried yonder!

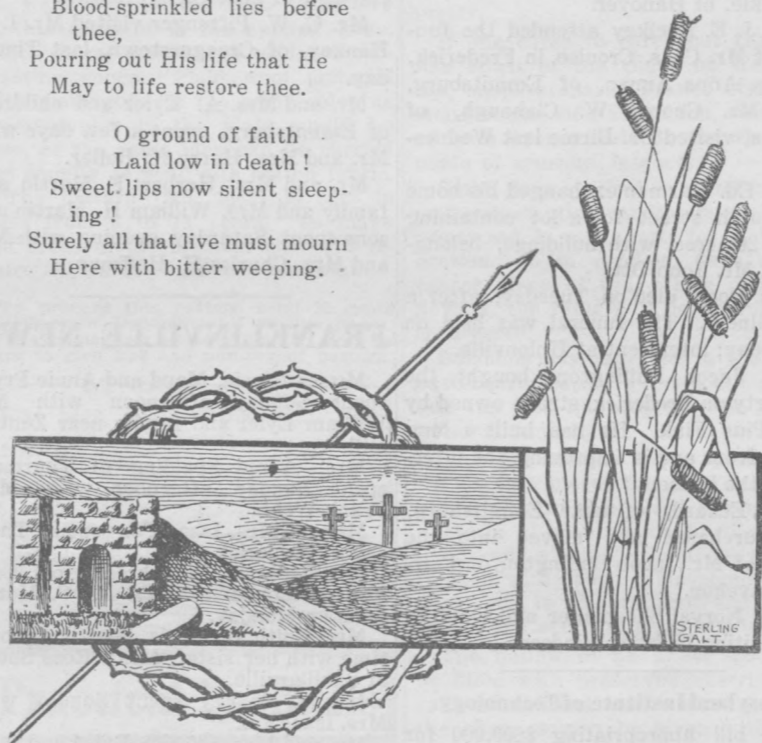

O son of man!
It was the ban
Of death on thee that bro't
Him
Down to suffer for thy sins,
And such woe hath wrought
Him.

Behold thy Lord,
The Lamb of God,
Blood-sprinkled lies before
thee,
Pouring out His life that He May to life restore thee.

O ground of faith
Laid low in death!
Sweet lips now silent sleeping!
Surely all that live must mourn
Here with bitter weeping.

Yea, blest is he Whose heart shall be Fixed here, and apprehendeth
Why the Lord of glory thus
To the grave descendeth.

O Jesu blest!
My help and rest!
With tears I pray—Lord
hear me;
Make me love Thee to the last,
In the grave be near me!

EASTER CAKES

The old English customs connected with Easter Day may be considered under the headings of dishes, decorations, donations (or presents), diversions, and a few other usages which do not readily fall into any of these classes.

Gammon—The custom of eating a gammon at Easter was, says Aubrey, founded on this, viz., to show abhorrence of Judaism—pork and ham being forbidden to the Jews—at the solemn commemoration of our Lord's Resurrection. This custom is I believe, still kept up in some parts of England, though doubtless its original meaning has been forgotten.

Easter Pudding—In Kent the natives still eat pudding-pies at Easter. They are a kind of flat "tart" with a raised crust to hold a small quantity of custard with currants sprinkled over its surface. Bands of young folk used to roam the country-side provided with this form of refreshment on the Monday and Tuesday in Easter week. A universal custom with the natives of Huntingdonshire is that of making an extra pudding at Christmas, which is carefully preserved and solemnly eaten at Easter.

Easter Cakes—In some parts of Ireland, at Easter a cake (with a garland of meadow flowers) was elevated upon a circular board at the end of a pike, apples being stuck on pegs around the garland. Both men and women danced round the cake, and they who held out the longest won a prize. Plutarch mentions a trial for dancing, the prize being a cake. The Easter (or Paschal) Cake called Tansy Cake, is of pagan origin. Accompanying the dancing, which formed so prominent a feature in the festival of old time, were small cakes made for the refreshment of the dancers, which were generally seasoned with herbs; and so at Eastertide, in memory of the bitter herbs eaten with the Paschal lamb, the custom arose of eating "Tansy Cakes" (German: tanze—a dance).

PRIMARY BILL PROVISIONS

GIVES VOTERS A SAY

State Convention Elects National Delegates

THESE ARE PLEDGED BY PEOPLE

Senatorial Primary Bill, Restrictions and Regulations.—Vote for Senator Binds Citizen to Vote for Legislators of Same Party.

The provisions of the Presidential Primary Bill, passed by the Maryland Assembly, provides:

Any candidate for a Presidential nomination may have his name placed on the ballot by the payment to the Supervisors of Elections of $10 for each county and each legislative district of Baltimore city.

The names of candidates must be arranged in alphabetical order and, in addition, there must be a box in which a voter may vote for an unpledged delegate.

Contests will be made for delegates to the State convention, which, in turn, will choose the delegates to the National Convention. These latter delegates will be pledged in accordance with the vote of the people.

The county and legislative district unit is retained in the bill.

In order for a candidate for President to secure the 16 votes of Maryland in the National Convention he must carry enough counties and legislative districts to get control of the State convention, which will be composed of 129 members.

The convention will elect the four delegates-at-large, in addition to the delegates representing the Congressional districts.

If a candidate should secure control of the convention but lose a Congressional district, the delegates representing the district he lost would also be pledged to vote for him.

While the law is not all that might be desired, it is regarded as a distinct step forward. The first election under it will be held next May.

The Senatorial Primary bill provides that candidates for the Senatorship may have their names printed on the regular election ballot. Men who vote for a Senatorial candidate must vote the straight ticket of his party for members of the Legislature, otherwise his vote on the Senatorship will not be counted. He cannot vote for Republican members of the Legislature and a Democratic Senatorial candidate, or vice versa. The bill also provides that a ballot overmarked for United States Senatorial candidates shall not be rejected except for Senatorial candidates.

ARE WE TO TAKE PART IN MEXICO'S TROUBLES

Government Greatly Interested in Efficiency of National Guards and Condition of Equipment.

The War Department is taking measures to impress the National Guard into service, with a view of moving it into Mexico the moment intervention becomes necessary. This fact may be denied at the War Department, but it is absolutely true, says the New York Times.

Saturday high officers of the National Guard of eleven States arrived in Washington in obedience to summonses from Secretary Stimson. More are coming later. They were usually Adjutant Generals, but in some cases officers of lesser rank responded to the summons. One or two were commanding Generals.

These officers were summoned singly and came singly. There was no conference. Most of them came from the South, which is the region likely to be drawn upon first if intervention comes, but they came from as far north as Massachusetts.

Each of them was asked how soon and under what circumstances his State could furnish a certain quota of men to the Government for service in Mexico; what equipment and what supplies it had ready, and to what extent the War Department would have to be drawn upon for further equipment.

In several cases the officers interviewed made an immediate requisition upon the War Department for supplies, and the requisition was immediately started on its way through the usual channels.

Coal Strike Prospects.

Sentiment among the workers in the anthracite region seems to be crystallizing in favor of prolonging the layoff until the operators grant recognition to the union.

Taft is a Progressive. T. R. is a Progressive, yet Taft is not Roosevelt. How many will vote for LaFollette?

Now is Christ Risen From the Dead and Become the First Fruits of Them That Slept.

"Alleluia!"

Friday.

One thousand Krag-Jorgensen rifles and 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition have been sent to Mexico for the arming of American citizens in that country. They are to be distributed by the Ambassador in Mexico City.

Joseph Smith, who organized the re-organized Latter Day Saints Church and has been its President more than fifty years, to-day designated his son, Frederick M. Smith, as his successor.

Pending negotiations between miners and operators in the anthracite fields, President White of the Miners' Union to-day called a strike, to become effective April 1. The miners, 170,000, will quit work, and will take a referendum vote on a general strike, while the union officials and operators enter into negotiations.

Spanish shipping agents have made docking arrangements at San Francisco pending the opening of the Panama Canal.

Saturday.

Young's Pier at Atlantic City was destroyed by fire.

Judge Swearinger, of the Pittsburgh Court of Common Pleas, has ordered an audit of the books of the American Window Glass Company, it being alleged that the entire indebtedness of the corporation is not bona-fide.

Cotton mill owners in New England have decided to advance wages 10 per cent., and there is a plan on foot for a complete readjustment of the wage scale, which will bring to all operatives equal wages everywhere.

The United States government has filed suit in New York, under the Sherman Anti-trust law, against several steamship companies, charging conspiracy to monopolize the freight traffic between New York and the Far East.

A favorable report was made to the House on the bill authorizing the Interstate commission to make a physical valuation on railroads.

It is reported that President Yuan Shi Kai, of China, will shortly resign and ask the foreign powers to undertake to protect him.

The German wireless skeleton tower, 656 feet high, at Nauen, Germany, collapsed in a windstorm.

Sheriff J. Myron Miller, of Cecil county, was shot and killed in the jail yard by Tony Duke, a demented trusty.

Sunday.

News was received to-day of the Scott expedition in the Antarctic regions. The English explorer failed to reach the pole by 150 miles and will remain another winter in the South.

Senator Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee, died in the Providence Hospital, Washington, following a protracted illness and surgical operation.

The English miners are returning to work without waiting for the vote of unions to be taken on acceptance of the minimum wage bill passed by Parliament.

Eight passengers, nearly 50 soldiers and a Mexican engineer were killed when a band of Zapatistas attacked a passenger train en route to Mexico City.

That William J. Bryan will bolt unless both Presidential candidates and platform are to his liking is the information received to-night by several Western Senators and representatives high in the councils of the Democratic party.

Monday.

The Legislature of Maryland for 1812 passed into history to-night at 12 o'clock.

The floods along the Mississippi have now reached a stage beyond any on record.

Governor Goldsborough signed to-night the deficiency bill, which carries an appropriation of $50,000. The Governor has had the bill under consideration for several days and after making a full investigation of the expenses of the Legislature decided to sign it. With this bill the total appropriation for expenses for the session is $200,000.

With only one or two exceptions, the suspension in the coal mining industry of the country, which went into effect at midnight last night, was general to-day and approximately 400,000 miners are out of work.

Fourteen thousand carpenters in Chicago and its environs went on strike today for more wages.

Senators-elect Catron and Fall, of New Mexico, and Smith and Ashurst, of Arizona, were sworn into office to-day.

Four men were indicted by the Federal Grand Jury as a result of the Florida Everglades investigation.

A Catholic priest, Fr. Dunnigan, was elected mayor of Lapeer, Michigan.

Tuesday.

Two women were fatally injured, scores of houses were unroofed and more than 25 were completely demolished by a windstorm of cyclonic velocity which passed over a portion of Camden and down the Delaware river doing thousands of dollars' worth of property damage.

The Socialist ticket lost in the municipal election in Milwaukee.

Wilson and LaFollete won in the Wisconsin primary.

That John Arbuckle, the sugar refiner and philanthropist, who died at his home in Brooklyn about a week ago, left no will disposing of his estate, estimated at between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000, was announced to-day by William N. Cykman, counsel for the Arbuckle firm.

President Taft sent a message to Congress urging an appropriation of $500,000 to strengthen the Mississippi river levees.

Nellie Bly will have to go to jail for contempt of court by a decision of Judge Hough in the United States District Court.

Representative Gardner of Massachusetts insisted before the Steel Committee that Chairman Stanley is a liar.

Wednesday.

Former Governor Austin L. Crothers, whose health has been poor since he retired from public office in January, was taken suddenly ill last night at his home in Elkton, and Dr. William D. Cawley, the family physician, was hurriedly summoned to the house and spent several hours with Mr. Crothers, who is still confined to his bed today.

Calbraith P. Rodgers, the first man to cross the American continent in an aeroplane, was killed at Los Angeles almost instantly late today, when his biplane, in which he had been soaring over the ocean, fell from a height of 200 feet and buried him in the wreck.

In the longest mail train ever operated in the United States, 350 tons of matter left Omaha last night for the Pacific Coast on a seventeen-car special over the Union Pacific Road. The mail had been accumulating in Omaha since last Friday, when the transcontinental lines became blocked by floods in the Platte River. Thirty-four mail clerks were in charge of the shipment.

Thursday.

The city of Cairo, Ill., is surrounded by water. A levee broke, allowing the Mississippi to inundate the surrounding country.

The police of San Diego, Cal., aided by volunteers, are expelling the Industrial Workers of the World from that city.

In the presence of a good-sized crowd Governor Goldsborough today signed 53 bills, among the number being the one providing for an appropriation of $600,000 for a technological school at the Johns Hopkins University and the Harper Presidential primary bill.

POEMS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The following poems have been prepared for use in the first three grades of the public schools of the county, by Miss Ella V. Kreig, primary supervisor:

April.

Robins call robins in tops of trees; Doves follow doves with scarlet feet; Frolicking babies, sweeter than these, Crowd green corners where highways meet.

Violets stir and arbutus wakes, Claytonia's rosy bells unfold; Dandelion through the meadow makes A royal road, with seals of gold.

Golden and snowy and red the flowers, Golden, snowy and red in vain; Robins call robins through sad showers, The white dove's feet are wet with rain.

For April sobs while these are so glad, April weeps while these are so gay— Weeps like a tired child who had, Playing with flowers, lost its way.

—HELEN HUNT JACKSON.

In April.

The air is soft and balmy, The grass is growing green, The maple buds are swelling, Till their slender threads are seen. The brown brook chatters gayly Its rippling course along, And hark! from distant tree-top I hear the bluebird's song.

O joyous, glad some carol, Exultant, fearless, true! There is hidden a heavenly message Neath that coat of heavenly blue. My heart thrills as I listen; God's love is sure and strong. Thank him for life's awakening! Praise him for the bluebird's song!

After the winter, springtime, The sunshine follows rain; Tho' grief and sorrow chill us, The heart grows warm again, From earth to His glad heaven God will his loved ones bring; Still, after frosts and snowdrifts, We hear the bluebirds sing.

EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

are presented in the present low prices on high-grade well-secured investment bonds. Many gilt-edge securities are now selling on a 5 per cent. to 6 per cent. basis; this opportunity should be taken while it is here.

Underlying conditions are improving and it is to be expected that the low prices now prevailing will not hold much longer. Bond prices by the middle of the year should be materially higher than they are at present, and already the investment market is strengthening up.

Make your investment purchases now, through us. Our facilities for the purchase and sale of securities are equal to those of larger city firms and more convenient to you.

GIRL'S DRESS.

15668

The dainty little dress here pictured is made in the popular Gibson style which is always a favorite one for the small girl. The shoulder plaits extend to the waist line, front and back. The plain skirt is attached to the waist by a narrow belt. A feature of this garment is the applied yoke, which to me effective, is made of contrasting goods. Plaid wool material with plain yoke of the same color as predominates in the plaid would be nice, or the same idea can be carried out equally as well with cotton fabric.

The pattern (No. 5668) is cut in sizes from 6 to 12 years. To make the dress in the medium size will require 3 3/4 yards of 36 inch material.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

"Pound-Foolish."

"No safety-deposit-vault red tape for me!" declared the woman who cannot help being the wife of a very rich man. "I keep my jewels in a shabby old trunk in my own room. There isn't even a lock on it. I had to force it off one time."

"Evidently you don't encourage enterprise in burglars," observed one of her hearers. "All a man would have to do would be to raise the lid. You might at least make him a little trouble."

"He'd have trouble enough," said the woman, mysteriously. "Our coachman's brother is an old sailor—a perfect artist in knots!—and he showed me how to bind up the trunk in the most complicated way, and no burglar could possibly untie it."

The only man in the group grinned. "Of course," he murmured, reflectively, "no mere second-story man would ever dream of cutting those knots."

IT IS the fault of all of us till we have duly practiced our minds, to be unreal in our sentiments and crude in our judgments and to be carried off by fancies instead of being at the trouble of acquiring sound knowledge.

WASHINGTON BIRTHDAY ENTERTAINMENTS.

The colors to be used for this day's celebration are the national ones, of course.

For place cards one might use small hatchets cut from card board, and for decoration a small head of Washington under two crossed flags for the ladies, and Martha Washington's head with same setting for the men.

One can buy the penny pictures of any celebrity and do the decoration one's self. It is always so much more appreciated and gives a touch of originality to any entertainment to have these little favors made at home.

A very pretty decoration for the candle shades, simple, too, is to cut the shades out of cardboard, small holes the size of cherries, and a leaf or two in good arrangement, then paste back of the perforations red paper behind the cherries, and green behind the leaves. When the candles are lighted the design is strikingly pretty.

If one cares to carry out the war-like spirit of the times of Washington, chops prepared French style and stood on the side as cannon, surrounded with cannon balls in orderly piles made of sausage, is good.

Small flags stacked to stand upright and striped stick candles made in the pretty red, is very pretty for table decoration. With candles, flags and a center piece of red, white and blue flowers, the table will be appropriately dressed.

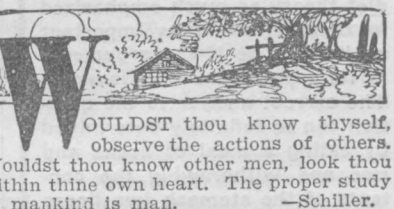

Bon-bons may be served in the small pasteboard caps, in colonial shape, and the ices likewise may be served in some such form.

Creamed Chicken With Mushrooms.—Pick into pieces the meat from two boiled chickens; boil for five minutes a bottle of mushrooms in their own liquor, add a cup of cream; season and thicken with two tablespoonfuls of flour, stir in the chicken and mushrooms and serve in patty shells.

The hollow of an angel food may be filled with preserved cherries, the cake frosted and when served a few of the cherries may be given with each helping.

THE VALUE OF DATES AS FOOD.

If children could be given dates, raisins and figs for sweets more often than candy, they would be much better in disposition and health.

Hutchenson says that a half pound of dates and a pint of milk makes a meal sufficiently nourishing for a person engaged in sedentary labor.

As a confection there is nothing more delicious than dates stuffed with nuts of any kind. A few dates added to the apple salad improves it very much.

A date put into a small ball of doughnut dough and fried is a pleasant change from the everyday doughnuts.

Dates added to the breakfast cereal is not new, but it is a decided improvement on the plain cereal.

The Arab can walk long distances and display the most wonderful endurance with a handful of dates and a piece of black bread for food.

For cake filling dates are exceptionally good. Take a half pound of dates, remove the stones and cut fine with a knife; add a third of a cup of boiling water and sugar to sweeten to taste, a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Cook in a double boiler until a smooth paste. Spread on layer cake and frost with orange icing.

A few dates put into cored apples and baked makes a common dish a creation. Lemon jelly molded, with dates and served on lettuce as a salad is a new and delightful combination for a salad.

Dates are added to cakes for the fruit, to bread of all kinds, and a pie made of dates is hard to equal.

A plain baking powder biscuit dough rolled rather thin and spread with butter, and a generous layer of chopped dates mixed with nuts, then rolled and baked will be either a hot cake to serve for tea or with a sauce. Will make a toothsome dessert.

A steamed suet or bread pudding with dates instead of raisins, or part of each will be a pleasant change.

NEW YORK SOLID FOR UNDERWOOD

Varner Says Northern Democrats Want Him For President.

BEST QUALIFIED CANDIDATE.

No Prejudice In the North Against the Nomination of a Southerner, as Shown by Justice White's Elevation to the Supreme Court of the United States.

"New York is practically solid for Representative Underwood for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, and if the south will show the north that a southern man should be nominated there is little doubt to my mind that the Empire State will send an Underwood delegation to Baltimore," said H. B. Varner of Lexington, N. C. at the Raleigh yesterday.

Mr. Varner has just returned from a business trip to New York, where he talked with a number of prominent people who are in a position to know the sentiment in that section of the country.

"While in the north I talked with men from New York, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire," said Mr. Varner. "Underwood is conceded by all to be the best qualified man of any of the candidates so far mentioned. Northern men do not raise the question that a southern man cannot be nominated and elected to the presidency. Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court is not only a southern man, but served as a Confederate soldier. This to my mind is conclusive evidence that no one questions the ability and fitness of the southern man for the high office of president of the United States."

Mr. Varner is very much pleased with the situation in North Carolina. He states that he is in receipt of hundreds of letters daily from men pledging their support to Mr. Underwood. He says that all the other candidates have friends in the state, but the large majority of them believe Mr. Underwood is the better man and would have a better chance of election than any other candidate now in the field.—Washington Post.

GIVE THE NORTH A CHANCE.

Oscar W. Underwood Successful Democratic Leader.

The war between the states removed the causes of irritation between the north and south and laid the foundation for a perfect peace. For a time memories of the struggle and of conditions resulting from it kept passion and prejudice alive, but these gradually disappeared. In 1868, 1872, 1876 and 1880 abuse of the south played a prominent part in presidential campaigns—the Republicans using it to win votes—and then it ceased.

THE UNDERWOOD WAY.

Too Busy to Blow; Too Earnest to Parade; Too Modest to Brag.

The average reader of political news and the great mass of intelligent American voters had hardly heard of Oscar Underwood of Alabama till two years ago. They then began to ask, "Where has this man been all these days?"

Underwood a Worker.

The solution is simple, logical and of genuine credit to the subject of the discussion. He had simply been at work. The Underwood way is not the blazed and blazoned way. His progress has been steady, but there have been no loud announcements of the stages reached on the journey upward. There has been no meteor business in his. It has been a steady, flickerless light, growing more and more steadily brilliant as it grew normally to needs and conditions and possibilities.

The Underwood way is exemplified in the significant record of his biography in the Congressional Record. Where there were from twenty to forty lines telling the life story of the other senators and representatives there are just five terse, well packed, fact full lines about Underwood. The congressmen furnish the material for the "copy" in this biographic sketch—usually their early life struggles, their triumph over difficulties, modestly veiled narratives of their winnings by figured majorities over opponents, whom they married and who married them and a good deal more.

Own Statement of Record.

Underwood didn't even furnish his middle name to the publisher. Here's his legend:

"Alabama.—Ninth District.—Counties: Bibb, Blount, Jefferson and Perry counties; population (1910), 301,945. Oscar W. Underwood, Democrat, of Birmingham, was born in Louisville, Jefferson county, Ky., May 6, 1862; was educated at Rugby school, Louisville, Ky., and University of Virginia; was elected to the Fifty-fourth, Fifty-fifth, Fifty-sixth, Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth, Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth and Sixty-first congresses and re-elected to the Sixty-second congress."

Record of Achievement.

That's all. That's enough. It's a record of just plain, hard progressive, increasingly effective and eminent public service. That's the way he has been advancing. That's the reason you never heard of his rise years ago—his progress like a meteor and most likely his disappearance into space and darkness. He's been too busy to blow, too earnest to parade, too modest to brag. The opportunity came for leadership; then the years of quiet study, of steady practice, of practical experience began to tell. The stored information, the accumulated wisdom, the great reserve force, dangerous to his enemies and a supply of strength for the Democratic ranks, became known.

It was the Underwood way.—Athens (Ga.) Banner.

UNDERWOOD BRIEFS.

Mr. Underwood may not get the Democratic nomination for president, but there is no denying the fact that he is making easy sailing for the man who does. His leadership during the present session of congress has demonstrated his fitness to hold any office within the gift of the people.—Laurel Argus.

If the thinking men of this country, the middle class, who make up the great majority, will stop to think they will come to the conclusion that Oscar Underwood more nearly represents their beliefs than any man who is before the people at this time as a presidential candidate.—Farmington Valley (Conn.) Herald.

Oscar Underwood, who is being very prominently mentioned for the Democratic nomination for the presidency, declares, "If I could aid in writing on the statute books laws that would equalize the burden of taxation make the wealth of this country carry its fair share of the taxes to support our government and lift from the backs of the masses of the people the inequitable load of taxes they are compelled to carry, due to the fact that our taxes are levied on consumption and not on wealth, I should accomplish a vast deal of good for the American people." That's a noble sentiment, to be sure, and one that does credit to Mr. Underwood's heart and head.—Staff. Johnson City. Tenn.

THE LENTEN SEASON.

TO-DAY, the most solemn of all days in the year, the holy season of Lent draws to its close—that season of preparation for Easter, the "Queen of Festivals."

Self-denial, self-abnegation and self-discipline are commendable at all times, and the mere exercise of such practices for only a stated period at the end of which self-indulgence is allowed to run riot, is of no value to any one;

gences, and for a new and stronger determination to use every means that will aid one in leading—not now and again, but constantly—a better, nobler daily life.

THE LEGISLATURE.

ALWAYS say the good word about your own town, about its people and its enterprises. Have faith in your community and be always ready to lend a hand in pushing forward its best interests.

OUR late friend Solomon once made a remark which, with some others of his, was deemed worthy of being put into print.

BRINGING religion into politics and making it the issue that controls the choice between candidates is poor policy from every possible standpoint.

TAFT'S RECORD AGAINST TRUSTS

Sherman Law Enforced Without Fear or Favor.

EXCELS HIS PREDECESSORS.

Both In Civil and Criminal Prosecution Taft Administration Breaks All Records—Legal Accomplishments of Five Presidents Compared.

TAFT'S ANTI-TRUST RECORD.

Under the last five administrations prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust law have been brought as follows:

Table comparing Taft's anti-trust record with his predecessors (Harrison, Cleveland, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft) in terms of civil and criminal suits.

*One property seizure. The ratio of prosecutions, allowing for length of time in office, of the Taft administration as compared with the records of its four immediate predecessors is approximately as follows:

Table showing ratios of prosecutions for Taft vs. Harrison, Cleveland, McKinley, and Roosevelt.

President Taft's administration has broken all records for prosecutions brought and won under the Sherman anti-trust law.

Until Mr. Taft became the president the administration of Mr. Roosevelt held the record in both particulars.

Stripped of controversy as to the exact meaning of certain language of the Sherman anti-trust act, the questions that had to be determined by those in administrative authority and those who judicially determine their acts were, first, how effective the law was to reach the great aggregations of formerly competitive producers and dealers, individual and corporate, who, through intercorporate stockholding mergers, consolidations and otherwise, had acquired so great a control over a particular line of industry as to enable them to dominate it and to exclude or admit competition as they might choose upon their own terms.

Secondly, to determine whether the construction of the law was correct which had been given to it by some of the judges of the circuit court in New York in the tobacco case and in the opinions of some of the justices of the supreme court in other cases to the effect that any combination which in any respect operated to restrain to any degree a pre-existing competition in interstate commerce was necessarily condemned by law.

In the three years of the Taft administration all of the sixteen cases left pending by the previous administration have been disposed of except two, which have been argued and submitted to the supreme court of the United States and are now awaiting decision.

During the Taft administration up to February, 1912, twenty-two civil suits have been brought and forty criminal indictments found under the Sherman law, making in all sixty-two proceedings. As a result there were fifteen judgments and eleven of these in

Promise and Performance

What the Republican Platform of 1908 Pledged.

Tariff revision along protective lines, with a maximum and minimum provision.

Free interchange of products with Philippines.

Development of permanent currency system.

Establishment of postal savings banks.

To increase power of government to control trusts and secure greater publicity of corporation methods.

National supervision of railroad stocks and bond issues.

Enactment of employers' liability law and other laws further advancing interests of American workingmen.

To define authority of courts with regard to writ of injunction and uphold integrity of courts.

Extension of rural free delivery.

More federal aid in agricultural experiments.

Enforcement of fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth amendments to the constitution.

Conservation of natural resources and improvement of waterways.

To maintain and promote American army and navy.

Expansion of foreign commerce.

Liberal pensions for war veterans.

Protection of American citizens abroad.

Obedience to and maintenance of civil service laws.

Greater efficiency in public health agencies.

Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona.

Extension of principle of arbitration.

Citizenship for Porto Ricans.

Involved eighty or more defendants. Eight out of twelve defendants were convicted on one indictment after trial by jury and their conviction confirmed by the court of appeals, and thirteen criminal prosecutions are pending.

A brief review of the cases brought under the anti-trust law during the administration demonstrates clearly its value to the American people in their protection of that equality of opportunity which is declared by the platform of the Republican party to be the right of every citizen.

Reference to a few of the anti-trust cases brought by the Taft administration gives an excellent idea of the hardships some of these illegal combinations entail upon consumers.

In like manner the government took cognizance of the pooling in the wire industry, with the result that nine indictments were found in New York against eighty-three persons engaged in that business.

One of the most outrageous cases of combination in restraint of trade and a notable violation of the Sherman law was that of the hand blown window glass industry. Practically all of the manufacturers (eighty-three in number) formed a company which controlled the entire output of hand blown glass.

The federal government is prosecuting suits against the beef trust and the lumber trust with every promise of victory.

No Brass Band.

Brass bands and megaphones have not been needed to herald the accomplishments of the administration of President Taft.

And What President Taft and His Party Have Performed.

Payne bill, reduction downward, tariff board, maximum and minimum, veto of bills which violated principle of protection.

Embodied in Payne tariff act.

Report of currency commission submitted and pending.

Postal banks in operation. Millions already deposited.

Federal incorporation act recommended, anti-trust law strictly enforced, corporation excise tax, providing for publicity imposed by Payne tariff act.

Stocks and bonds commission created, exhaustive report on subject submitted.

Employers' act submitted, law limiting hours of employment enforced, compulsory compensation act pending, bureau of mines established.

Measure based on president's recommendation pending, Arizona recall provision vetoed.

Rural free delivery extended.

Operations of agricultural department vastly enlarged.

Strictly enforced. Sixteenth adopted by congress, submitting income tax amendment to the states.

Bond issue for irrigation projects, "sork barrel" method of river and harbor appropriations abolished, comprehensive conservation policy adopted.

Army reorganized, maneuvers that gave it mobility, two battleship program submitted.

China opened to American finance, increased commerce with all the world.

Pension roll liberally maintained.

Russian treaty abrogated because of discrimination against American citizens.

Laws obeyed to the letter and enforced, extensions put in effect and others recommended.

Bureau of health recommended, pure food laws enforced.

New Mexico and Arizona admitted.

Arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France negotiated, ratified with amendments.

Measure pending.

Deserves Another Term. Representative J. Hampton Moore, who is well known in many different sections of the country on account of his active interest in waterway improvements, in discussing the administration of President Taft has this to say:

"President Taft ought to be re-nominated and elected because he stands for stability. He should be nominated because it has been generally conceded by Republicans since the first day he entered the office that the same treatment would be accorded him with respect to a second term that is usually accorded to Republican presidents who have done well.

Honesty of Intent, stability of purpose and a firm faith in the principles of the party of Lincoln, Grant and McKinley are some of the characteristics of President Taft.

DELEGATES FOR TAFT.

On Saturday, March 23, 1912, the number of delegates elected to the Republican national convention pledged to President Taft were as follows:

Table listing the number of delegates pledged to Taft by various states including Alabama, District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Philippines, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Dinner Adventures

Young Mrs. Wilton hurried guiltily through the dusk. This was the third time within a week that she had attended a reception and remained so long that her conscience, if not her husband, reproached her.

"I'll stay at home tomorrow and get up a regular dinner, frills and all,"
she promised herself, penitently.

The dining room clock chimed half-past 5 as she opened her door. There was no time to change her dress, so, slipping a big apron over her finery, she flew into the kitchen. There she put on the kettle, turned the heat on full blast under the oven and in ten minutes more was flogging biscuits into buttered pans.

She flew in and out of the kitchen and the dining room with the beautiful quickness and sureness that sometimes comes as a result of a happy, restful, worry free day. She felt somehow that dinner would be good, even though it was hurriedly prepared.

It was. The steak was broiled to perfection, the biscuits were so flaky that even Mrs. Wilton was astounded.
The coffee had percolated itself into some sort of nectar.

"Say, young lady," Wilton remarked as he buttered his fifth biscuit,
"this is a dinner that must have been inspired. Why—" helping himself to more steak and mushrooms, "it's a regular poem!"

"Oh, this isn't what I call a regular dinner," declared Mrs. Wilton, dimpling. "I got in rather late from Mrs.
Bentley's this afternoon and so I didn't fuss. But tomorrow we are going to have a dinner that will take your breath away. I have the outline of it already in my mind, and you may bring that Mr. Ridgely home with you if you want to."

"Well, if you can beat this dinner you're a wonder. Of course, I'll bring Ridgely. I've been advising him to get married when he's kicked about boarding house meals, and a meal like this one will certainly clinch my arguments."

Directly after Wilton's departure the next morning Mrs. Wilton sat down and put the outline of the dinner on paper. Everything worked out so smoothly and looked so well when written down that she felt as if the dinner was already half prepared.

Her mind was easy when she picked up one of the new magazines. The stories were interesting. When finally she turned from them she discovered that it was too late to get several of the dinner essentials in time for them to be prepared properly.

With a good deal of reluctance she rearranged the dinner. As she was on her way to the telephone to order the new dinner materials the door opened and Mary Powers ran in, dazzling in her bridal finery and fresh from a European honeymoon.

The sunny afternoon melted away and when Mary Powers had vanished young Mrs. Wilton stood in the middle of the floor and an awful foreboding flooded her soul. She had forgotten for the second time to order the makings of that dinner!

One wild look at the clock told her that the last delivery boy had gone on his last round. There wasn't even time for her to dress and run out after the necessary things.

A sick fear came upon her and she whispered hoarsely: "There's not a thing in the house!"

Her feet were dead weights, her head was incapable of thought and her hands moved incessantly in maddening purposelessness.

Away up on the emergency shelf,
where in a spirit of joking security her husband had put them, was the proverbial can of salmon and the pound of prunes. In the icebox were four sad little chops. And she baked biscuits, sad little biscuits, and a cake, a pitiful-looking cake. It was then past dinner time.

She arranged this harrowing feast,
turned the lights low and waited.

When an hour that seemed eternity had slipped away and her head was throbbing like a dynamo the door opened gently and a conscience-stricken Wilton appeared—alone.

"Where's Mr. Ridgely?" asked Mrs.
Wilton in a far-away voice.

"Why, you see, Bess, I—well, I'm frightfully sorry that I forgot about your magnificent spread tonight, but I had an out-of-town caller—Cheney, you know, my best customer—and I forgot about time. We missed my regular train, and Cheney couldn't stay over, so I didn't try to get home.
We had supper in a restaurant. I'm awfully sorry, girl, but—"

Mrs. Wilton began to clear the table with cheerful rapidity.

"Never mind," she said, "I worked pretty hard over this dinner, but it can't exactly be called an inspired repast."

Man and the Rat.
Man and the rat go everywhere and eat everything. They are the two creatures that dwell in houses and travel in ships. Each drives its other rivals to the wall, but neither, except locally and for brief periods, has ever come near to exterminating the other.
The use of cement is greatly facilitating the fight going on against the rats.

DRILLING SAVES MUCH SEED
New Mexico Station Makes Interesting Experiments to Determine Amount of Waste.

That an immense amount of seed is wasted by farmers because they do not know how much to use, is well known. To ascertain how far this waste extends some valuable experiments have been made by the New Mexico station.

It was found that ten pounds of alfalfa seed put in with a drill in different kinds of soil resulted in a better "stand" than twenty pounds sown broadcast, with same quality of seed.

In the drilled plots the young plants were closer or nearer together and were no doubt able to assist one another to some extent in pushing through the surface crust. In this experiment it was found that in clay loam about half as many seeds were required as were necessary in very sandy land.

If the soil be fertile and other conditions favorable the following estimates will be found to be as near correct as it is possible to make them:

- Wheat, 3 to 5 pecks per acre.
- Corn, 8 to 10 quarts.
- Oats, 1½ bushels.
- Kaffir and Egyptian corns, 6 pounds.
- Buckwheat, 1 bushel.

USEFUL SHOVEL FOR WINTER
May Be Used Around Walks and Porches or to Drag Leaves After They Have Fallen.

Take a piece of board two feet long and ten inches wide. Nail to this a handle six feet long of 1x4 material. Nail a brace from lower edge of board to handle. This shovel may be used to push or drag snow from walks and porches about the home or to drag leaves together after they have fallen from the trees in the fall of the year.

Nitrate of Soda.
The Montana station experts observed that, where moisture content of the soil was good, the nitrate formation was relatively high. In connection with these studies it was shown that the great benefit from summer fallow was due to nitrates accumulated in the moist soil during the fallow season, which gives a rapid growth the following year, so that the crop usually has advanced beyond the stage of liability to serious injury before the dry period of the year arrives.

GARDEN and FARM NOTES

A crack in a wall is a poor ventilator.

Get nitrogen into the soil, and you have humus.

Onions should never be handled
when frozen, as it will produce rot.
The onion is a bulb, a plant at rest, and the least warmth starts it into growth.

Make an inventory of everything you have on the farm; its condition and value.

More potatoes are grown in New York state than in any other state in the Union.

Now is the time to plan for the supply of ice that will make next summer more enjoyable.

Farming is a regular business—to make it profitable requires work for the head as well as for the hands.

Many a man who makes fun of the book farmer, calling him a theorist and impractical man fails simply because he does not read and study.

It is much better that onions should remain frozen through the winter, provided they can thaw gradually,
than to put them in a warm cellar.

If many of the farmers knew how much it cost them to leave their machinery out doors all winter they would be quick to build machine sheds.

Do not cut the alfalfa after barley is harvested; let it make root growth.
If wanted for hay, cut the crop as soon as it commences to bloom the following year.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mr. Joshua Gillelan, of Baltimore, spent several days here.

Mr. E. F. Ohler, of Pittsburgh, is visiting here.

Rev. Mr. Gluck and Rev. Dr. Reinwald, Miss Ruth Gillelan and Miss Codori attended the funeral of the late Rev. W. C. B. Shulenberg at Hagerstown on Saturday.

Bishop Murray spent Monday here. Sheriff Snively, of Washington county, was in town on Tuesday.

Mr. Dunn Black, a student at Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., who is home on a vacation spent Tuesday in Emmitsburg.

Mr. E. J. Chaisty, of Baltimore, spent Tuesday here.

Misses Edith Ohler, Pauline Baker and Maude Dorsey and Messrs. Wm. Morrison, Donald Agnew and Prof. Strauss attended the 3rd Annual Commencement of the Fairfield High School on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Simon Lohr, of Thurmont, was in town on Wednesday.

Mrs. Sarah Dorner and daughter, Kathleen, of Carlisle, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke.

Messrs. Edward and Robert L. Kerschner are here for the Easter holidays.

Miss Mary Chrimer is home for the Easter holidays.

Mrs. John Hess and daughter, Miss Alice, of Taneytown, spent Tuesday with Miss Hannah Gillelan.

Miss H. H. Motter and Masters Vail and James Motter, of Washington, are here for the Easter holidays.

Mr. B. M. Kerschner returned to Emmitsburg on Wednesday.

Mr. Sterling Galt, Jr., of Princeton University, is here on his vacation.

Misses Valerie Welty, Gertrude Kennedy, Helen Comfort and Mary Frances Welty were in Gettysburg on Thursday.

Mrs. John Tyson has returned from an extended visit to Baltimore, accompanied by her grandson, Master Joseph Vincent Tyson.

GOVERNOR RESENTS DELAY IN REPORT FROM SENATE

Of Those Appointments Which Have So Far Been Confirmed or Rejected.

Governor Goldsborough yesterday gave voice to his indignation over the way he has been treated by the Senate, and especially by Senator Maloy, of Baltimore city, in regard to the action of the Senate on his nominations.

The Senate adjourned three days ago, but the Governor has received no word as to the action taken on any of the nominations except three—those of Gen. Lawrason Riggs for Police Commissioner, S. Sterett McKim for Liquor License Commissioner and Luke Hackett for School Commissioner in Dorchester county, all of which were rejected.

"Even these had to be pulled out of the Senate that night by sending after them," said the Governor. "I sent down to get them so that I could send in new names. As to what action was taken on other names on the last day of the session I have not received one official word. I have repeatedly sent down to the office of Mr. Sullivan, secretary of the Senate, who should have this official information, but he says he hasn't it."

Frederick County and Legislature.

The Legislature just adjourned, did not do so badly by Frederick county as the following will show:

State to pay Board of Charities and Correction $11,660 back pay for inmates at Montevue.

Payment to the county of $10,000 for 1912 and 1913, or as much as might be necessary to pay for keeping inmates at Montevue.

A bill taxing judgments i. e. income producing judgments at the same rate as now charged on promissory notes.

Appropriation of $40,000 for erection of an armory in Frederick.

New charter for Frederick containing referendum.

Made available a portion of Shoe-maker road fund.

County will get $18,000 for purchase of pikes.

Subject to approval of the people a $75,000 bond issue for roads.

Bond issue of $75,000 for school buildings.

A steamer left New York with 112 women and 3 male passengers. There is danger on the deep. It is leap year.

CHILD BLOWN INTO QUARRY POOL AND IS DROWNED

Fatal Accident at Houck's Lime Kilns, Ceresville, During High Wind on Tuesday.—Child 4 Years Old.

Blown from his feet by the strong wind, Roger C. White, the 4-year-old son of Charles E. White, a lime burner at Houck's lime kilns, at Ceresville, fell into a pond in the quarries late Tuesday afternoon while he was there alone and was drowned.

Several children were playing about the quarries, but when the wind and rain storm came up all hurried home except Roger, who remained behind. After it started to rain those at home noticed he was missing and started out in search of the child. The dead body was located in the pond shortly afterward. An inquest was held and it was found that the child was evidently blown into the water by the wind.

Another Father Damien.

Word has been received in this country, from Jesuits in the foreign mission fields that a distinguished member of the Society of Jesus, Pere Isidore Dupuy, who holds the much-coveted medal of the Legion of Honor in France, has been stricken with leprosy. He is at present confined to a hut in the leper colony of Marana in Madagascar. He is in his sixtieth year.

He is the tenth priest actively engaged in missionary work during the last half century to be stricken with this disease. The list is considerably swelled by a number of lay brothers.

Father Damien, Father Conrardy and Brother Serapion Van Koop and a Father Gregory lead the list of the leper dead. Father Damien's successor in Molokai is a civil-war veteran, Capt. Ira B. Dutton, now Brother Joseph. He is close to sixty and until now has escaped the affliction. But he tells his friends it may come when he least expects it.

Funds For Woman's College.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the Woman's College President Joseph H. Apple reported the amount in hand and pledged for the new building as more than $30,000 and likely to reach $40,000 by commencement. A fund of $100,000 is desired. Owing to the rapid growth of the city the question of a site more suburban was discussed.

REMARKABLE ENDURANCE OF ELI K. SLAGLE, AGED 80

With Foot Crushed Walks Three Miles to His Home.—Physician Hesitates to Amputate Injured Foot.

With four toes on his right foot mashed to a pulp, Eli K. Slagle, 80 years old, of New Midway, walked from Woodsboro, where he was injured by a train, to his home, a distance of about three miles. When he arrived home all the people were away, but even after their return he did not make known his injuries until 5 o'clock, the accident occurring at 10 o'clock in the morning.

His foot was saturated with blood and it was found that his injuries were serious. A physician was summoned and gave medical assistance. Owing to the advanced age of Mr. Slagle it was decided not to amputate the member. On Wednesday he was getting along as well as could be expected, but it is feared that serious complications will set in to impede a recovery.

Dean Academy Plays Ball.

On Saturday the Dean Academy baseball team played Mount St. Mary's College and won with little trouble. Two hits and one run is all Dimmick allowed the Mountaineers. In the meanwhile his team rolled up a score of thirteen runs with an equal number of hits.

The only consolation to Mount St. Mary's is the fact that Rock Hill was an easy mark for the Academy.

DEVOE TAKES LEAST GALLONS; ALWAYS

Paint Devoe; it's the cheapest paint in the world; never mind the price; it may or may not be more. Less gallons will paint the house; and the paint will outwear anything.

Skip wear; you've got to wait, to find that out. It covers more; you haven't got to wait to find that out. It's the cheapest of all; no matter about the price.

M. A. Thomas, painter, Lynchburg, Va., writes: "The first job I did with your paint I estimated 37 gallons; had 12 gallons left. Since then I have used Devoe altogether and recommend it to all my customers. When I commence a job, I tack up a card reading as follows: M. A. Thomas, contractor; Devoe Paint."

That's how. Sold by J. THOS. GELWICKS.

To the Voters of Frederick County.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination as the Democratic candidate for Associate Judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit composed of Frederick and Montgomery counties, and respectfully solicit your support and influence at the primary election to be held on May 6, 1912. JACOB ROHRBACK.

To the Democratic Voters of the Sixth Judicial Circuit of Maryland.

In order to prevent any misapprehension in regard to the matter, I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the position of Associate Judge of this Judicial Circuit, and I earnestly solicit your support and influence for the nomination to that important position. The primary will be held May 6, 1912. Respectfully, GLENN H. WORTHINGTON.

Blue Ridge College to Move.

Late Saturday night a telegram from Union Bridge, Md., stated that the Blue Ridge College trustees had unanimously decided to consolidate the two Dunkard colleges in the town of Bridgewater, Va. Order of Publication.

ELI HENRY HYATT, Plaintiff, vs. ELIZABETH BACHUS HYATT, Defendant.

No. 8819 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Frederick county, Maryland, sitting as a Court of Equity.

The object of this Bill is to procure a Decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii of the Plaintiff from the Defendant.

The Bill states in substance as follows: That the Plaintiff is a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, but that the residence of the Defendant is unknown, that the Plaintiff married the Defendant at Salida, Colorado, June 6, 1897, where they resided until 1903 when they moved to and resided in Woodville District, Frederick County, Maryland, where they resided upon a farm until about February 3, 1909, when the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff, since which time the Plaintiff has not heard from the Defendant, nor does he know anything of her residence.

That the abandonment of the Plaintiff by the Defendant was without cause, has continued uninterruptedly for more than three years, and that it is final and deliberate, and there is no hope of reconciliation between the parties to this suit.

That when the Defendant left the Plaintiff she wrote a letter to him stating her intention of leaving him;—and that the Plaintiff and Defendant have no children.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii, and for an Order of Publication against the Defendant Elizabeth Bachus Hyatt, who is a non-resident. It is thereupon this second day of April, nineteen hundred and twelve, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, ordered that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be published in a newspaper in Frederick County, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 4th day of May nineteen hundred and twelve, giving notice to the said absent Defendant Elizabeth Bachus Hyatt, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 20th day of May nineteen hundred and twelve, to show cause, if any she has, why a Decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

HARRY W. BOWERS, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Frederick County Maryland.

SPECIAL MEETING

—OF—

County Commissioners.

Frederick, Maryland, March 11, 1912. The County Commissioners will meet at their office at the Court House on Monday, April 1st, 1912, at 10 o'clock A. M., and will continue in session three weeks to hear appeals from assessments, assess new property, consider pension applications and for the transaction of general business. The following schedule of districts has been adopted:

FIRST WEEK.

April 1 and 2—General Business. April 3—Creagerstown and Emmitsburg Districts. April 4—Hauvers and Woodsboro Districts. April 5—Catoctin and Urbana Districts. April 6—Buckeystown and Middletown Districts.

SECOND WEEK.

April 8—Woodville and Linganore Districts. April 9—Liberty and New Market Districts. April 10—Petersville and Mt. Pleasant Districts. April 11—Jefferson and Mechanicstown Districts. April 12—Jackson and Johnsville Districts. April 13—Lewistown and Tuscarora Districts.

THIRD WEEK.

April 15—Burkittsville, Ballenger and Braddock Districts. April 16—Brunswick and Walkersville Districts. April 17—Frederick District. April 18, 19 and 20—Pension Days.

The attention of all taxables is especially directed to this notice, as no abatement will be made nor any credit allowed after the 30th day of April, 1912, until the levy of this year shall have been completed. Persons having erected new buildings, or made additions and improvements to their old buildings, and those acquiring additional personal property would do well to report the valuation of same, otherwise they may be assessed excessively.

Those disposing of personal property are earnestly requested to report the same, and bring their sale books to this office before May 1st if they wish to be relieved from taxes on same this year. By order,

LINCOLN G. DINTERMAN, President. Markwood D. Harp, Clerk.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM EMMITSBURG SOLDIER

The following interesting letter is from Lucien Beam of the 3rd Battalion Engineers U. S. A., now stationed at Fort De Bussey, Honolulu. It tells of his journey from Fort Leavenworth to the Hawaiian Islands.

We left Ft. Leavenworth at 12 A. M. the first of March. I was one of the first guards on the train. We had one prisoner, an old man, with 26 years to serve, he had stolen 6 blankets and was caught with the goods on him. That is what the guard was for. I didn't get much sleep that night.

The first call I stood was a funeral, one of the men in the company drowned himself in the swimming pool at the fort and was in there one whole day before his body was found.

The next day we made good time, no delay until noon of the second day. We were delayed then six hours by snow drifts and we sure had a time of it. I saw six engines turn over all at once, trying to push a snow plow through the drifts so that we could get through. This was at Horsington.

The third day we rode through the plains. Once each day we got off the train for exercise. Our next stop was at Pueblo, Col., where we changed engines. We had four of them to take us through, as there was so much snow on the mountains. We went from Pueblo to Colorado Springs and around Pike's Peak. I saw the cog-rail road that runs to the summit. It sure is some peak. From there to Salt Lake and through Cripple Creek canyon, the scenery was beyond description. We had 15 minutes in Salt Lake. I could not get into the Mormon Temple as it was Sunday. It took us all night of the 4th and half of the 5th to get through Nevada. I did not see anything in this state but sage bush and hills. When we entered California we noticed a great change in climate. We got off the train at Portola. Here we ran over the hills in company formations and had one man to faint. As we went father west in California it looked like summer, everything green.

The Pitt River canyon was next. Here we saw hundreds of prospectors' camps and quite a few tall pines. At Sacramento I saw my first orange tree. The valleys in this state are most beautiful. I say California for mine. We got to Oakland about 9 P. M. of the 4th and started to unload our four cars of big boxes on to a little tug boat.

I don't think anything could be more beautiful than San Francisco after night, as we saw it from Oakland.

It rained while we were crossing the bay on the tug and every one got a good soaking. We did not get to bed till 12.30. I don't fancy those transport bunks at all. We were piled in the Brig, sleeping three men deep. I got a middle bunk and it sure was hot and stuffy with 165 men in a place 30x30. The transport food was bad. I bought five cans of pineapple, some crackers and other things which helped me out some.

I really did not get sick, just felt a little funny, but nine out of ten were sick for three days. The sea was very rough going through the Golden Gate.

We landed here (Honolulu) about 3 P. M. The morning of the same day a man fell overboard and was lost and another deserted in Oakland.

The first person I saw here was an old friend of mine out of the Service School. I was truly glad to see the one familiar face and we had quite a time till the company fell in and we marched to our new home in the suburbs of town, a beautiful place; not 100 feet from the beach and our shade trees are cocoanuts, pineapple and bananas. It is very warm and the mosquitoes are awful.

The natives are funny looking to us; the Japs and Chinks about 20 to each white man. There are three cruisers here manoeuvring and they make a fine display at night. As this is headquarters we have a club house and boats for our use—fine sport here.

The 20th of this month 15 men from this company go out on the hills to survey, of course I don't know who they are, but we will all go out in a month on survey work.

NATIONAL PLANT, FLOWER AND FRUIT GUILD

Continuing the article published last week telling of the National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild the following tells of the activities of this association: The National Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild was organized in 1893, and has now about three hundred branches.

The government of the Guild is vested in a board of directors, composed of the Founder, the National Officers and nine Presidents of Branches.

The duty of the Executive Board is to maintain a national office, to print and distribute the free transportation labels and all general literature; to have a supervision and direction of all existing branches and to introduce as rapidly as possible the beneficial influences of the Guild into every village and city of our land.

There are two forms of branches, city and country branches. The activities of a city and a country branch, though closely allied, differ.

Country activities consist in the collection and shipment of flowers, plants, fruit, vegetables, jelly and nature material for schools and flower shows. All these are sent direct to institutions and to tenement districts of a nearby city and there distributed.

Community gardens are established for children where they are taught to plant and cultivate flowers and vegetables and share them with the poor children of a nearby city. At the end of the season each child who has done well receives a diploma and is graduated to the care of his own home garden. Where possible, space is provided and instruction given to grown persons or families that they may raise vegetables for their own use.

Playground gardens for the adornment of spaces surrounding play grounds are encouraged. If desired these gardens may be cultivated by children not strong enough to take vigorous exercises.

Institution gardens for the practical instruction of the inmates in gardening, the beneficial effect of out-door-work and the privilege of sharing the results of their labor with the sick and poor are aided.

Factory gardens for the admiration of the passers-by and for the pleasure of the employees and employers are another feature.

Railway station gardens are suggested as one feature of civic improvement which strikes the eye of the public most forcibly. Such an introduction to a village raises the value of property. That it is a cheering sight to the train hands should be sufficient reason for this enterprise.

Roadside gardens improve the general appearance of things by removing unsightly vegetation and by adding attractive plants from wood and field.

Plant markets for the sale of the surplus growth of all gardens at prices ranging from 1c. up for each plant are maintained. This forms an opportunity for the exchange of plants among the people of the town, whereby every garden may be enriched; it promotes civic pride and co-operation, and furnishes also an additional source of supply for tenement gardens.

Fresh air parties are given for the poor of the city among whom the flowers, etc. of the branch are distributed.

A Country branch is in good and regular standing though it carry out only one of these activities. Distance from a railroad station or other conditions may prohibit the sending of flowers, yet may easily permit shipment of less perishable products, the maintenance of a Community garden or the carrying out of one or more of the other interests.

Fuller information in regard to any one of the activities mentioned will be cordially given on application to the National Secretary, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Washington. — [Special.] — "Underwood seemed to be the choice for president in all political talk I heard during my trip east," said James B. OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD, DEMOCRACY'S BEST ASSET.

OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD.

The Most Conspicuous Democrat of the Day.

There are a number of able Democrats in our hesitating country all of whom have done sound, intelligent work for their party and their country. Yet we are inclined to the view that the one most deserving of the affection of his fellow citizens, with or without respect to party, is the gentleman from Alabama, today the most conspicuous figure in congress and the country.

The task which Mr. Underwood faced when he entered upon his duties as majority leader in the house seemed well nigh hopeless. To persuade or der and discipline and reason into a herd of wild asses of the desert seemed a simple matter compared to the recreation of a sound Democratic organization out of the chaotic elements in Mr. Underwood's hands. Yet by patience and clear headedness he has accomplished the impossible and achieved a consistent, reasonable plan.

Mr. Underwood has won his spurs fairly on the firing line, and it is no mere chance which finds him the most conspicuous Democrat of the hour.—Washington Star

TAFT, ROOSEVELT, UNDERWOOD.

Tariff the Deciding Issue of the Presidential Campaign.

"The attacks on Mr. Taft's tariff record by the Roosevelt brigadiers," says the Springfield (Mass.) Republican, independent, "would be more effective if Mr. Roosevelt had any tariff record at all except one of absolute negation." That one sentence exposes the absolute weakness of the Republican party and the absolute strength of the Democratic party provided the latter organization develops the homely gumption to realize its impregnable vantage ground. The tariff will be the deciding issue of the approaching campaign. Attempts to sidetrack it will be as futile as would be efforts to invert the tides. Taft's tariff record is shot ridden. Conceding even the far flung contingency that he may approve bills passed at the current session, Democracy will get the credit for them. Roosevelt has no tariff record at all save of "absolute negation." Through seven and a half years of opportunity he could never "see" the tariff save as a possible trap to treat gingerly. Who stands out of the Democratic hosts as irrevocably embodying the party's interpretation of the tariff? OSCAR UNDERWOOD, chairman of the ways and means committee, the majority's house general. Every schedule that is to pass congress or be vetoed by Taft will bear the indelible imprimatur—"UNDERWOOD." The logic of the situation is irresistibly inevitable.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

TRAVELING MEN FOR UNDERWOOD

Cashman Changes From Wilson to the House Leader.

THE LOGICAL CANDIDATE.

Well Known Atlanta Member of T. P. A. Tells of Remarkable Amount of Underwood Enthusiasm He Meets on His Trips Through the State—Predicts Underwood Sweep in Georgia.

Perhaps no member of the T. P. A. in Georgia is more generally known than P. C. Cashman of Atlanta. For many years Mr. Cashman has been one of the leading spirits of the T. P. A. organization in this state, having been prominently connected with local and state organizations. He was also editor and publisher of the Southern T. P. A. Journal.

Mr. Cashman is a traveler who travels and who observes things as he goes, and he has an interesting way of telling it. He is manager of the traveling salesman's department of the Southern Saw works of Atlanta.

Leaves Wilson For Underwood.

To a Constitution man he was telling of the result of his observations on the presidential situation with reference to the Democratic nomination, and he said:

"I started out in this campaign thinking I was for Woodrow Wilson for president, but now that Oscar Underwood, the son of our sister state, has got into the race I have changed my mind, and I am going to support him with all my heart and soul."

Underwood Strong in Georgia.

"More than that," continued Mr. Cashman, "this sentiment seems to prevail everywhere I have been during the past few weeks. I have never seen anything like it, and if Underwood does not sweep Georgia, just as he has already swept Alabama, I will be very much surprised."

"The truth is," continued Mr. Cashman, "now that Mr. Underwood has been forced into the contest by the very logic of the situation, there is absolutely nothing for the south to do but to stand by him, for if he is not nominated it can be for no other possible reason than that he is a southern man. Thus if he is penalized it will be the whole south that is punished, and it is not like the south to join in the slapping of its own face."

The Logical Leader.

"As the leader of the Democratic house and as the author of the Underwood tariff bills, which everybody concedes will be the main issue this year, he is naturally the man to lead the party in the national campaign, just as he was the man to lead the majority in getting these bills through the house."

"In what sort of a position would the south put itself if, after these bills are passed and the Republicans begin to attack them, we should say that we cannot put the father of the bills to the front as their champion BECAUSE HE IS A SOUTHERN MAN? It would be a humiliating confession, and I for one do not believe the people of Georgia are willing to make it."

"If the Underwood bills are right, then Underwood was right in putting them through the house, and if he was right when leading the fight for them on the floor of the house he is the right man to meet the attack against them in the forum of the nation.

Principle Nominated McKinley.

"It is that very thing that gave William McKinley the Republican nomination for president. He was the author of the McKinley bill, and he was the man who had to defend that bill before the people in the national campaign that fall. The Republicans put him in the position where he could lead the fight before the nation, just as he had done in the house. Now the same thing is exactly true of Oscar Underwood, and if, as the Constitution has so often said, Underwood came from any state north of the Ohio river there would not today be a single name mentioned against him for the Democratic nomination."

"I am tired of such humiliating sectional abasement, and the strangest part of the whole thing is that you never hear this kind of an argument in the north. You have to come south to get it."

"While the T. P. A. is not in politics, and while I am not, of course, authorized to speak for anybody but myself, I can say that I have met any number of my brothers on the road who take exactly the same position. It certainly looks to me as if there was an Underwood fire all through Georgia, and that it is sweeping everything before it."—The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

UNDERWOOD IN MARYLAND.

Strong in That State, Thinks Hon. Robert W. Wells—Why He Advocates Underwood.

Robert W. Wells of Prince Georges county, well known as a successful lawyer at the national capital and in the courts of this state and a former member of the Maryland legislature, spent yesterday at the Rennett.

"As a Democrat," said Mr. Wells, "I am profoundly interested in the national campaign which is now getting under way. I have nothing to say against Harmon, Clark or Wilson and will gladly support either of them in case of nomination. At the same time it strikes me that the people of Maryland should not omit the great opportunity to promote the candidacy of the most available and strongest of all the aspirants on the Democratic side—the Hon. Oscar Underwood. Never before has such a glorious chance been presented and perhaps not in generations to come will Maryland be given the opportunity to influence in such a large degree the nomination and election of a president of the United States."

"Underwood stands for the south, the regenerated, reconstructed, progressive south. To nominate and elect him will lead to the expenditure of untold millions of capital in that vast and productive region of which Baltimore is the gateway and natural trade center. Here is a young man with no trace of sectionalism in his makeup. By reason of his sane course for eighteen years in congress, his devotion to tariff reform, his advocacy of the income tax and his high personal character he has won golden opinions from men of thoughtful and patriotic bent. He is not an agitator, and yet he is progressive. He is not reactionary, and yet he is conservative."

"In short, he is a well rounded, splendidly equipped man, and possessing the confidence of the country as he does, I see no reason why his nomination should not place him in the White House."—Baltimore American.

OSCAR W. UNDERWOOD

Not a Sectional but a National Figure

We are in accord with the hearty indorsement by the Atlanta Constitution published on this page of the candidacy of Hon. Oscar Underwood for the presidency. Earlier than the Constitution the Advertiser declared Mr. Underwood not only to be a suitable and able candidate for the presidency, but an available candidate as well. But we do not agree with the Constitution in demanding that Mr. Underwood present himself as the candidate of the south for the presidency.

Not a Sectional Figure.

Mr. Underwood on his acknowledged merits should go before the country as a national, not as a sectional, figure. He should be in the Baltimore convention not only as an Alabamian, not only as a representative of the vigor and the ability of the south, but as an American. He should not be nominated simply because he is from Alabama and from the south, but because he is an American who in the national halls of legislation showed himself a man of the highest character, of conspicuous ability and of the broadest patriotism. He should not be nominated and elected because he is from the south; he should not be defeated because he is from the south. He should be nominated because he is the one Democrat who brought his disorganized party in the house into a compact, effective body, which wrought well for the benefit of the country, and because of the soundness, the energy and the progressiveness of his leadership, which won him the confidence of the country.

Tariff the Issue.

The Constitution does well to stress the paramount importance of the tariff as the true issue of next year. It does well to present Mr. Underwood as the personification of that issue. The Democratic party, not on account of Mr. Underwood's being from the south, not in spite of Mr. Underwood's being from the south, should put him on the platform which he more than any other man has made for the party to make its victorious fight on this year. It is his right to claim that the tariff of his making has won the favor and the confidence of the people, and it is the right of his friends to claim that he should be chosen to defend that tariff and to ask the indorsement of the American people on his work.

Of National Size.

But when he is presented he should be presented as a candidate who is as much a national figure as the tariff is a national issue.

It is not the proper way to rid ourselves of the old, tiresome question of sectionalism by having the south make demands in the name of the south. Any organized force in politics automatically raises an opposing force. The sectional feeling is not dead beyond hope of reviving. We know of no better way of reviving it than for the south to make demands in the name of the south and because it is the south.

A southern man, it is true, has made a national issue, but the southern man in so doing it has become a national figure, and as such Alabama and her sister states could and should ask his nomination at the hands of a national democracy.—Advertiser, Montgomery, Ala.
