Letters To The Editor.

[The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.]

American Scholarship, Statesmanship and Politics as Seen by an English Critic.

Mr. Editor:

The Sweet singer of Ayr, in one of his artlessly musical "songs," exclaims: "O wad some power the giftie gie us, to see ourselves as others see us!"

"The ancient Sybil famed in rhyme, (for he) Saw deeper in the womb of time * * * Not only saw all that could be, But much that never was nor would be."

So is it with the London Critic, who, as he draws the horoscope of Dr. Woodrow Wilson, sees in him "a phenomenon new to American experience."

With what skill, indeed, does the far seeing diplomat of London, touch the weak spot of our "American public men," * * * "who have never been grounded in the fundamentals of political science."

William Lorimer is to Try Again. Far from being crushed by his expulsion from the Senate of the United States, not broken in spirits by the fact that he is the first man formally to be driven from the Senate on charges of corrupt election methods, William Lorimer of Illinois is going back to Chicago and plan once more to get a seat in Congress.

The plan will be to lionize Lorimer and try to make it appear he is a martyr. When he gets back to his district, it is expected he will be given a huge reception by way of serving notice that he is still a force to be reckoned with in the politics of the State.

Finally, the Critic of the Mail tells us that Dr. Wilson's "policies are the policies of ideas and measures not of personalities and Committee Rooms."

For all that, like "Marse Henry" of the Louisville Courier, between Taft and "Teddy" and him whom we must recognize as the Joshua of the Democratic party, "We cannot take to the woods," and we must hope and pray for Wilson's election.

cut, New York and even Massachusetts, besides the solid South, the best adherents of Harmon, Clark and Underwood as safe checks for the prevalence of the populist tendencies with which the New Jersey Governor has baited the hooks of his Presidential aspirations.

INDEX.

To The Editor:

At the time of the Revolutionary War there was a man named Har, who made scythes and sickles, on Tom's Creek, near Emmitsburg, Frederick county, Maryland.

Those men all died poor. They all got land warrants in the 50's and it was too late to do them any good. In about 1840, a paper mill was built on Turkey Run.

JAMES P. SMITH, Fayette Co. Avena, Ill.

Congressman Lewis on Express Rates.

In commenting on the investigation into the express rates, Congressman David J. Lewis said: "The truth is that the whole theory of regulation applied to normal transportation agencies is inapplicable to the express companies because they are parasites in transportation."

As a solution to this problem and the needs of the country, Mr. Lewis said: "What the country needs and must have is a system of transportation for the small shipment that will start where the postoffice now stops, at 2 cents for the letter and with rates or charges graduated from a half pound up to 100 pounds, where the railway minimum starts."

William Lorimer is to Try Again. Far from being crushed by his expulsion from the Senate of the United States, not broken in spirits by the fact that he is the first man formally to be driven from the Senate on charges of corrupt election methods, William Lorimer of Illinois is going back to Chicago and plan once more to get a seat in Congress.

The plan will be to lionize Lorimer and try to make it appear he is a martyr. When he gets back to his district, it is expected he will be given a huge reception by way of serving notice that he is still a force to be reckoned with in the politics of the State.

The first step of importance in the plan to rehabilitate Lorimer, it is expected, will be to re-elect him to the House of Representatives from his old district in Chicago.

Lorimer would like, of course, to return to the Senate. But the way to this does not appear easy. He cannot make any fight for the Senate immediately. The candidates for the Legislature have already been nominated and the selections for the Senate made in Illinois primaries.

Express to Be Reduced.

(Continued from page 1.) Commission, made public, will be the basis for this investigation although the agents of the Department of Justice will make additional inquiries into the subject.

Attorney General Wickersham, it is reported, has directed Assistant Attorney General Fowler and Solicitor General Bullitt to undertake the express inquiry. The Interstate Commerce Commission's report declared that while the express companies are separate legal entities, there is an identity of interest between them.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

LET MILDNESS EVER ATTEND THY TONGUE.

Over the fireplace in the manse of the Summerville Presbyterian Church, S. C., appears this motto:

When ye sitte by my fyre to keep yesal warme, Tak heed that ye tongue doth ye naybor na harme."

A pretty good reminder, that; a sort of friendly nudge to visitors to talk of affairs and not to gossip about one's acquaintances.

Normal minds are too full of normal thoughts to harbor tell-tale reports about this one or that, and really sane people are too much engrossed in their own business to stop the passerby and use up valuable time in pumping "they say" and "did you hear" and "it is reported" into empty heads supplied with funnel ears.

But what a lot of people there are with whom time counts for nothing! They will stop anything they are doing either to boost a bit of gossip or to lay in a supply for future use.

embellishment—needs no substantiation, in their opinion. In fact the more improbable and unlikely the tale the better they enjoy hearing and repeating it. "One reason that a lie travels so fast, says Collier's Weekly, is because it meets so many friends who are willing to give it a ride. Truth has to get up in the cold, gray dawn of the early morning and make a hard day's journey, and knock a dozen times before he can even get a door open.

THE EXPRESS INVESTIGATION. "While the express companies are separate legal entities, there is an identity of interest between them," is the report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

But the public is not in the humor to be damned on this point. The fact that its protest caused the Interstate Commerce Commission to hold a three years' thorough investigation of express methods, and the further inquiry of the Department of Justice, about to be made, is ample proof of this.

A PLEA FOR ARBITRATION. The leading nations of the civilized world to-day recognize arbitration as the wisest and best way of settling any disputes that may arise.

Senator Bradley is to make a fight on the floor of the Senate for the adoption of a special amendment to the sundry civic bill in order to get action at this session of Congress which will make the Cantrill tobacco census bill effective.

Doesn't it seem only reasonable to think that a great majority of such cases could be settled by arbitration? If the two parties in the dispute would view the matter in a sane, common sense way, they would see that it is most decidedly to the advantage of both parties to come to terms peacefully.

YOU KNOW SOME LIKE HIM. There was a man once on a time who lived in a thriving town, in which he made full many a dime; but he turned his neighbors down.

WHETHER or not other senators besides Mr. Lorimer would have trouble on their hands were all the facts in connection with their election brought to light, is a question that is uppermost in the minds of many who have followed the evidence and the summing up in the case of the gentleman from Illinois.

SOMEBODY out in Colorado found a hat, once belonging to Mr. Roosevelt, that had become petrified. As it would be almost impossible for even the Colonel to talk through an adamant head piece, it is to be hoped that the finder will return it to its former owner with the request that he wear it during his forthcoming campaign.

Herbert Knox Smith, United States Commissioner of Corporations, refused to deny or affirm a report that he had tendered his resignation as Commissioner or contemplated doing so.

The will of the people is supreme. If fraud and rascality exist, it is because we have these things in our hearts and elect rascals to office.—The Philistine.

The man who starts out with the idea of getting rich won't succeed; he must have a larger ambition.—John D. Rockefeller.

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

The Kind of Man For the Public Service. The language used may be conventional, but the meaning is not at all so, when it is said that Woodrow Wilson is an ideal candidate for the Democratic party to present to the people of the nation, declares the Baltimore Sun, which says:

"A man of thorough economic training who believes in a tariff for revenue only and knows why he does. "A man of such comprehension and liberality of view that he can know and understand all sections of the country and yet, withal, a Southerner, a Virginian by birth, almost a Baltimorean. "A man of rare intellectual training. "An amateur in politics, yet one who achieves things which the professionals might boast of.

And he is no ordinary man. Scholarly, dignified, earnest, cultured, erudite, polished; these adjectives certainly apply to him, but they do not touch his most characteristic quality. That quality, we are convinced, after watching his career for many years, is one which it would be difficult to define precisely, but which embraces a deep patriotism, a broad open-mindedness and a thorough-going sympathy with the feelings and the needs and the hopes and ambitions of the American people.

To Be or Not to Be. That is the Question.

The whirlwind statesman of Oyster Bay is confronted with an awful and embarrassing situation. After listening for several months in his attempt to hear a murmur of desire or longing for his presence in the political arena, this willing self-established autocrat pushed himself into the Republican muddle, and succeeded in exposing scandals long laid low, rattling dry bones of party skeletons, and eventually in securing to himself the most complete black eye, spanking and boot-toeing, that has happened to a patriot, a high-souled statesman or a would-be President, in the time when the mind of man runneth not to the contrary.

In the Democratic nomination of Governor Wilson, a scholar, a historian, a self-contained gentleman, whose progressive attitude is eminently satisfactory to the thinking element in both parties, and whose sanity cannot be gainsaid, the Rough Rider receives another jolt, and is forced to the hasty manufacture of other drawing propositions to form a basis for his boasted bolt and third-party formation; and is met everywhere by apathy, distrust if not open contempt or opposition.

What of Your Vacation? Taking a vacation is more important than taking medicine, for often by taking it at the proper time it removes the necessity for medicine.

The old time business man laughed at the idea that a rest of the body and mind once a year was essential to efficiency. He thought such relaxation a waste of valuable time.

At Los Angeles judgment was found for the widow of Prof. J. Alexander Brown, formerly of Cynthiana, Ky., in a suit involving a note for $9,000 held by brokers, the signature to which Mrs. Brown pronounced a forgery.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

Getting Worse. "My fight and my victory!" These words from Col. Roosevelt upon the expulsion of Senator Lorimer indicate megalomania in an advanced stage. Col. Roosevelt's refusal to dine with Senator Lorimer was an incident of the fight upon the Illinoisan that exhibited Col. Roosevelt in a typical attitude as an advocate of the right where the position taken would be unquestionably popular and would involve no inconvenience to him.

Of course, Col. Roosevelt's attitude had nothing to do with the course of the investigation or the shaping of the result. Fifty-five Senators voted to oust Mr. Lorimer. If they could take Col. Roosevelt seriously they would hardly feel complimented when hearing him trying to take credit for their good work.

The New Express Rates.

There will be universal approval of the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in directing a revision and reduction of express rates. Conditions in relation to the express companies had become intolerable. Excessive charges were common, the imposition of double charges were unwarrantably frequent, and there was, in addition, an absolute disregard of public interest and convenience.

Britain's Panama Canal Protest.

There is nothing to get vociferous or excited over in the request of the British government that our pending Panama Canal legislation be held in abeyance until the British side shall have been presented in a formal, full, explanatory note, which, it is stated, is in transit to the State Department.

So far as the precursory explanatory note sent by the British Charge d' Affaires to the Secretary of State explain, it appears that British exceptions to the pending Panama bill have to do solely with the question of its proposed exemption of American coastwise traffic from tolls, to the exclusion of railway-owned ships, from the canal and the tentative exemption likewise from tolls of American ships that may be subject to being taken control of by this government in times of emergency.

A Sane Progressive.

Gov. Osborn of Michigan is a sensible man. He is not going to organize in his State a new party, nor is he going to become a link in the chain of those who identify themselves with the insane ambitions and revenge work of Theodore Roosevelt, who does not hesitate to break up a great party, to which he himself has sworn fidelity, in order to "get even" with Mr. Taft for real or fancied wrongs (most likely fancied). The Governor says a thing that is as self-understood as it is obvious: "Those Republicans who may be dissatisfied with Mr. Taft as a leader and administrator perhaps may find that which they desire in the way of reform by voting for Mr. Wilson."

Friendly and Wise Counsel.

England has formally asked to be consulted in a matter of our domestic legislation, that regarding Panama Canal tolls. It may be possible to find a precedent for such action, but to say the least it is unusual. There may be some super-patriots who will resent such intervention on grounds of National dignity, and there are sure to be some greedy pushers-up to the public trough who will shout aloud for action in resentment.

The occasion of England's speaking is that the United States in violation of its pledged faith assumes to convert an enterprise of world proportions and world benefit into one of selfish advantage and discriminating interest. There are those who will profit by this, and there are others whose consciences are encouraged by it. We began by "taking" or stealing, the route, whose title we had guaranteed to a friendly nation, a sovereignty in a political sense, but a family adjunct—to use the fashionable word—in another sense.

Habits.

It is a good plan to break one's habits occasionally, to see that it can still be done. To follow even the best of habits too closely tends to ossify existence. It makes one stiff. It narrows his tastes. The retired farmer who still gets up before daylight every morning, so as to get an early start waiting for bedtime, would be much better off if during the stress of life he had broken his habit occasionally and slept until nine o'clock.

was all right for poets and others of artistic temperaments, but to a practical energetic business man, who seldom read poetry, it was absurd that he ever needed a rest.
But this mistaken theory has long since been routed. About the only conspicuous representative of the class who hold that man never needs a vacation and but a few hours sleep each day, is Mr. Thomas A. Edison. Apparently that gentleman is hold up well under the strain. Apparently he is none the worse for working twelve hours a day and sometimes eighteen, with seldom a vacation. But who shall say that even Edison would not feel better and find himself more efficient if he should be more generous to his faculties?—Democrat and Journal.

Rivers and Canals, But Not Roads.
The New York World speaks of the Republican platform as "apologetic in tone and stand-pat in tendency."
This means in one instance that so far as the proposition of national help for national road-building goes the Republican party, in the future, as in the past, will do nothing.
The same paper enumerates twenty-two pledges made by the Democratic party for popular good—
"One for comprehensive legislation for improvement of the great rivers and prevention of floods;—
"One for encouragement of the merchant marine, and—
"One for the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine."
All these are promotive of water transportation—not a dry syllable anywhere for even recognition of land transportation as a factor of vital public importance.
As one of the anomalies of popular government this is the chief.
On the cultivation and production of the soil the whole fabric of commerce and its regulation and protection by government rest, yet "not a cent for tribute" does government pay to make easy and smooth the inland farmer's transit to market.
Much—very much is done for the merchant, the non-taxpaying sailor, marine and admiral, but absolutely nothing for the tax-paying farmer!
The government even comes along and builds for town-people a $40,000-public building, but not a dollar does it ever appropriate for a good road leading thereto.
The Journal indulges these reflections in no unpatriotic sense, but rather in the way of inquiry.
For instance—
1. Why can government expend money on improvement of rivers and building of canals, but not on roads?
2. Why can government extravagantly subsidize the man who owns a boat, but not at all the man who owns a wagon?—Mining Journal.

Violating the Rules.
Newspapers are very prolific with advice as to the proper rules to be observed during hot weather, but they all violate one of the most fundamental rules of all, which advises people to get their minds off the subject of the heat.
The newspapers are the worst offenders against this rule, because as long as the hot weather lasts they print daily just how hot it is and how many people died or were prostrated by the heat.
The difficulty is that newspapers must print the news and when the mercury is soaring up among the nineties and everybody is talking about how hot it is and praying for a breath of cool air the weather takes precedence in the mind of the reader over almost everything else, except the nomination of a candidate for the presidency.—Frederick Evening Post.
The precautions now being taken to secure greater safety for passengers on ocean liners should be applied rigidly to excursion boats also. The softening of our grief with the time that has passed since the sinking of the Titanic should not make the authorities oblivious to the fact that excursion boats carry nearly as many lives every day as were lost on the Titanic and their life-saving devices are, in most instances, hopelessly inadequate.—Union News.

Senator La Follette puts his finger pretty squarely upon the root of the matter when he points out that Colonel Roosevelt could have brought about the nomination of Governor Hadley, of Missouri, if he had risen to the height of self-sacrifice. The trouble with the colonel is that he knows but one person who fills his idea of what a progressive should be.—Frederick Evening Post.
The choice of Charles Dewey Hilles to be chairman of the Republican national committee is gratifying to those who desire politics kept clean between now and November. It must also be highly satisfactory to President Tatt. His campaign for the nomination was conducted by Hilles with skill, decency and success.—Cumberland Daily News.
Problem in multiplication: If it cost $2,000,000 to elect T. R. in 1904 when he had things all his own way, what should it cost this year when the woods are full of Philistines?—Cumberland Daily News.
The new party is not at a loss for emblems, the following having all been widely suggested; the bull moose, the bandana, and the mint leaf—the latter suggestive of mint juleps, said to be a favorite inspirator of the new party.—Carroll Record.

Household Hints.
To Remove Rust Stains.
Nothing answers the purpose of a rust remover like rice. Boil a cupful of rice in two quarts of water for thirty minutes. Let it stand over night, then strain through a cheesecloth. Soak the rust spots in the rice water for four or five hours, then rinse in clear water. No matter how old the stains they will be removed.
To Strengthen Silk Hose.
If before wearing new silk hose they are washed in warm water and soap suds, they will last much longer, as this process strengthens the silk. Plain fine thread hose can also be treated in this way.
Cutting Out Scallops.
In cutting out an embroidered edge, I find that by using buttonhole scissors set at the size of the scallop, I am in no danger of cutting into the scallop.

Canning.
When canning, if you will paint the ends of your first finger and thumb with collodion, and let it dry, you will have no trouble with stained fingers.
To Prevent Salt from Caking.
To prevent salt from caking in shakers in damp weather, when filling the shakers, put in a few grains of rice with the salt.
To Remove Scorch Spots.
Wet the scorched portion with clear water and sprinkle with borax. It will leave no stain and can be used on the most delicate fabrics.
To Clean Water Bottles.
To remove stains from the interior of milk or water bottles, cut a raw potato into small pieces and shake vigorously in the bottle for a few minutes.
To Remove Ink Stains.
A Chinese plan for removing ink stains is to wash them with boiled rice. Rub the rice on the stain as you would soap, and wash with clear water.
If paint is spattered on the window pane, it can be removed at once by a rag dipped in hot vinegar.
To remove a rusty screw, first apply a very hot iron to the head for a short time, then immediately use the screw driver.
To clean a lace yoke or suede gloves, use equal parts of gasoline and chloroform combined.

Prune Souffle.
14 large prunes, whites of 6 eggs, 1 cupful sugar, ½ cupful chopped walnuts. After the prunes have been boiled until soft remove the stones and chop fine. Beat the whites of the eggs until very light; beat in sugar gradually, then add the prunes and nuts and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake in a slow oven for 30 minutes. It must be served as soon as cooked, or the pudding will fall.
Apricot Ice.
1 quart and 1 cupful sugar, 1 can apricots, 1 quart water, 5 oranges, 1 quart cream, 2 lemons, whites of four eggs. The apricots, oranges and lemons are pressed through a sieve. Then boil the sugar and water to a syrup and allow to cool. Mix the fruit and syrup and add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. After this, start to freeze, add the cream and freeze till almost solid, then remove the dasher and pack well. This is sufficient for one gallon.
"Three of a Kind" Ice.
3 oranges, 3 bananas, 3 lemons, 3 cupfuls sugar, 3 cupfuls cold water, whites of 3 eggs, 1 cupful boiling water, 1 tablespoonful powdered gelatine. First put the cold water and sugar into a saucepan then add the grated rinds of 1 orange and 1 lemon, add the gelatine dissolved in boiling water. Allow to simmer for 5 minutes, cut the fruit into small pieces and add it to the syrup, with the whites of the eggs stiffly beaten. Then freeze.
An Excellent Desert.
1 pint cream, white of 1 egg, sugar to taste, ½ cupful ground walnuts, 12 figs, 6 dates. Beat up the cream until stiff with the white of the egg, which adds to the stiffness and bulk. Sweeten the cream to taste, add the ground walnuts, the figs and dates, cut into small pieces, mix carefully and put into a wet mould, cover tightly and pack in ice and salt, allow it to remain so for four hours.

Spider Corn Bread.
½ cupful of cornmeal, ½ cupful of flour, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, ½ teaspoonful salt, ½ teaspoonful soda, 1 egg, ½ cupful sweet milk, ½ cupful sour milk, 2 tablespoonfuls butter. Into a basin sift the cornmeal, the flour, sugar, salt and the sweet and sour milk. Melt the butter in a small frying pan, turn in the mixture, and pour an extra cupful of sweet milk over it without stirring. Bake for 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Injury From Hessian Fly. Dates For Sowing Wheat In Different Parts Of State.

The Hessian Fly has caused more or less severe injury in all parts of the State the past season. In some cases it has reduced the crop of wheat from 25 to 50 per cent.

On farms where the pest has been serious, narrow plats of wheat should be sowed in late summer about September 1st to 10th, depending on locality, as baits for the Fly. Later, this can be plowed down.

"The South should advertise its immense opportunities in Europe, like Canada and some of the Western States are doing," declared the Baron. He says the South offers to the European farmer, who wishes to emigrate, the best chance in the world to become independent.

"Some two years ago, said the Baron, I was in Amsterdam in the Amitel Hotel and met an American who told me of the opportunities in the South. My interest was aroused and after a trip to Florida two years ago I interested many friends in the emigration project.
