WILSON CHOICE OF THE COUNTRY GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY MAKES CLEAN SWEEP

Leader of Bull Moose Runs Second, While Taft is a Distant Third in the Race for Presidency

COMPLEXION OF NEXT HOUSE WILL BE DECIDEDLY DEMOCRATIC

Sulzer Carries New York, Ross Wins in Massachusetts, Baldwin Re-Elected in Connecticut and Cox Gets Ohio.—General Democratic Landslide in Which Many Rock-Ribbed Republican States are Caught.—Both Roosevelt and Taft Lose Their Native States.—Senate Democratic Too.

From painting by Seymour Thomas.

The verdict of the people has been given and Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, the overthrower of bossism, and the people's candidate will occupy the White House for the next four years.

He went before the people on a truly Democratic platform—the reduction of the tariff—and from the very moment his nomination made him the standard-bearer of the Democracy, his cause steadily gained ground and the ranks of his followers new enthusiasts until the climax came in the form of the biggest plurality ever given a candidate for President of the United States.

Prior to the election the newspapers that were most favorable to him and, of course, those who did not espouse his cause, looked upon the possibility of a vote so close as to indicate the likelihood of the decision being "thrown into the House."

The magnificent returns however eliminated all suggestion of doubt, and State after State added its electoral vote to the sum total of the country's approval and with it gave to its Congressional nominees such a vote as to prove that the sentiment of the country is overwhelmingly Democratic.

This was intensified by the election and reelection of Democratic Governors of many strong Republican States and by returning to their various legislatures Democratic Senators and delegates.

Although his popular vote is not as great by two million as the combined vote of the Republican and Progressive parties, Mr. Wilson has thus come as near to capturing the entire electoral college as it will probably ever be given to a presidential candidate to do. Counting only States that are certain Wilson has 425 electoral votes, Roosevelt 94 and Taft 12.

Iowa with 13 votes, Minnesota with 12 votes, South Dakota with 5 votes and Wyoming with 3 votes are still regarded as doubtful, but Wilson appears to be leading Roosevelt.

Late returns indicate that the Democrats will have a majority in the Senate.

According to the latest returns the House of Representatives will contain 279 Democrats, 118 Republicans, 12 Progressives, 26 districts unreported.

Wilson and Marshall so far have carried 40 of the 48 states.

"A great cause has triumphed," was President-elect Wilson's message to Chairman McCombs in reply to a telegram sent by the man who has so skillfully managed the campaign of the New Jersey Governor. Governor Wilson's message said:

"A great cause has triumphed. Every Democrat and every true Progressive, whatever alliance, must now lend his full force and enthusiasm to the fulfillment of the people's hope—the establishment of the people's rights."

In his telegram to Governor Wilson, Chairman McCombs told him that he had won a significant victory, having received the largest electoral vote ever given a presidential candidate.

Shortly before midnight Tuesday Colonel Roosevelt made the following statement:

"The American people by a great plurality have decided in favor of Mr. Wilson and the Democratic party. Like all good citizens, I accept the result with entire good humor and contentment. As for the Progressive cause, I can only repeat what I have already so many times said, the fate of the leaders for the time being is of little importance, but the cause is the most important, for its triumph is essential to the well being of the American people."

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT." About the same time he issued his statement, Colonel Roosevelt sent the following telegram to Governor Wilson: "The American people by a great plurality have conferred upon you the highest honor in their gift. I congratulate you thereon."

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

President Taft sent the following telegram to Governor Wilson:

"Cincinnati, Nov. 5.

"Hon. Woodrow Wilson,
Princeton, N. J.

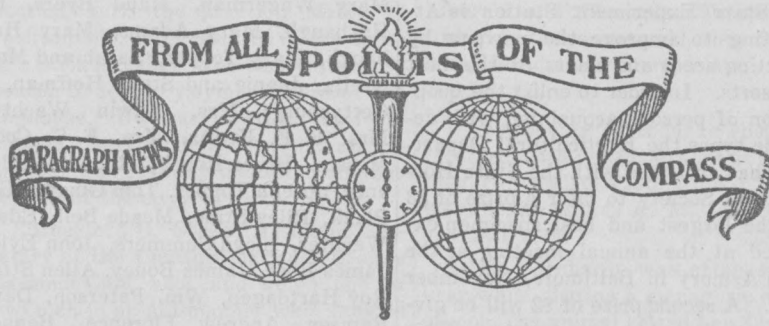

"I cordially congratulate you on your election and extend to you my best wishes for a successful administration."
WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Maryland Solidly Democratic.

"Uncle Joe" Defeated.

Former Speaker, Joseph G. Cannon, who at the beginning of the last Congress was deposed by the Democrats, suffered defeat in Tuesday's election. Frank J. O'Hair was victor over "Uncle Joe," by 611 plurality. This is only the second time Cannon has suffered defeat since 1870.

Complete returns from Maryland give Wilson 99,732; Roosevelt, 52,497; Taft 45,511. Six Democratic Congressmen were elected for the first time in a generation. They are: Covington, First District; Talbott, Second; Konig, Third; Linthicum, Fourth; Smith, Fifth; David J. Lewis, Sixth.

WORTHINGTON ELECTED JUDGE

DEFEAT OF MR. WILLARD REBUKE TO BOSSISM

Frederick County Reverses Previous Votes and Gives The Democratic Candidate Big Majority

GETS GREATLY INCREASED MAJORITY IN MONTGOMERY COUNTY

Largest Vote Ever Polled In County Came Out On Tuesday.—Fair Weather
Helped To Get It Out.—More Independent Voting Than Ever Before.—
Democrats Jubilant over Capturing Stronghold of Republican Party in Western Maryland, and Electing Their Full Ticket.

The fight in the Sixth Judicial District was a decisive victory for the people and showed conclusively that the sentiment in both parties is unalterably opposed to ring, boss and one-man rule. Especially was this so with respect to Frederick County, where for years bossism has run rampant and where threats, coercion, and trades on candidates have been the order of the day in each political campaign.

In Montgomery county Worthington rolled up a handsome majority, doing more by far than the forecasters had predicted, in practically every precinct the Democratic candidate's vote running ahead of normal majorities in this Democratic County.

All that Frederick was asked to do was to keep down the Republican majority, but Frederick did more than this—by not only responding to the demand but running up a majority that sent chills down the spines of the boss and his political henchmen.

Judge Worthington's victory was the surprise of the election in Frederick County. Although it has a normal Republican majority of 500, Judge Worthington carried the county by 651, the largest majority given any local Democrat in a generation. When Chief Judge McSherry was elected he carried the county by 79 majority.

Judge Worthington, who was kept busy answering telegrams and letters of congratulation, said he was profoundly gratified at the sweeping victory. He said he made a complete canvass of the county and was of the opinion that his majority would be greater than when he ran for State's Attorney, when it stood at 430.

The vote was as follows:

Worthington, D.	Willard, R.
Montgomery.....	3,321	2,176
Frederick.....	5,818	5,167
Totals.....	9,139	7,343
Worthington's majority.....	1,896

LEWIS RETURNED TO CONGRESS

SIXTH DISTRICT RE-ELECTS HIM BY BIG MAJORITY

Carries All Five Counties, Winning Wagaman's Home
County, and Capturing Republican Garret

FREDERICK COUNTY, FOR THE FIRST TIME, GOES FOR HIM

In Every District The Man Who Has So Faithfully Served His Constituency, Made Gains And Overcame Previous Republican Majorities.—His Election
Is a Big Asset To The Democrats Who Will Control The Next House of Representatives.

The majority given David J. Lewis—the largest majority ever given a Democrat in the Sixth Congressional District—was a magnificent testimonial of the people's appreciation of the splendid work done in Congress by the "little giant" from Allegany. It showed that in every precinct of every county in the district there were men alive to the necessity for keeping in Congress their indefatigable representative whose practical achievements meant an alleviation of the burdens of the masses.

Throughout his entire campaign Mr. Lewis' remedial measure, the Postal Express, was the theme on which he dwelt; it was one of the constructive measures on which he had set his heart and to test this out and to apply its practical provisions until it met the conditions for which it was originated was his one desire.

No Congressman in the history of the country has ever distinguished himself in so short a time as has David J. Lewis in the one term in which he has served the Sixth District. Nor has this been brought about by bluster nor self-assertiveness. He had something to offer the country. It was meritorious. The House listened; the Senate considered, and both approved, and this is why "the little man" came into prominence, and this is why the people have retained him. His victory is a personal one and a public one and through it Western Maryland takes a place on the map which it never had before.

The re-election of Congressman Lewis in the Sixth district was the most decisive victory won by the Democrats in the State.

The Sixth, which is the Gibraltar of Republicanism in the State and which, under normal conditions, has until two years ago invariably given Republican Congressional candidates majorities averaging 4,000, completely reversed itself on Tuesday and gave Mr. Lewis a majority of 6,245.

Mr. Lewis' victory is complete in every detail. It is the first time in generations that Garrett county has given a Democratic majority, Mr. Lewis carried it by 119, while his home county, Allegany, rolled up the unprecedented majority of 3,096 for him.

The results in the district are unquestionably due to Mr. Lewis' record as a member of Congress for the last 16 months. Two years ago he was elected by a plurality of about 800, and immediately launched upon his work with an enthusiasm which soon placed him in the front ranks of Congressmen.

The vote in the five counties is given below:

	Lewis, D.	Wagaman, R.
Allegany county..	5,102	2,152
Garrett.....	1,322	1,026
Washington.....	4,747	4,022
Frederick.....	5,548	4,847
Montgomery.....	3,526	1,940
Totals.....	20,245	14,900

No Tariff Radicalism.

The tariff will be cautiously and, we believe, most reasonably revised; upon moderation depends the fate of the Democratic party, as its leaders know. But no legitimate interest need fear; business will not be disturbed or harassed; the country and its institutions will be the chief consideration with the next President of the United States, who has shown that he is a clear-sighted, sagacious, sensible man, inspired by a patriotic devotion to the country.

The most loyal Republican who has witnessed his national leader go down to defeat in his steadfast adherence to those great constitutional principles which are at once the glory and safeguard of the republic may have cause for satisfaction in knowing that the Democrat who is to take his place has put behind him at all times the crude and dangerous ideas of a centralized government, personal rule and contempt for lawful and constitutional methods.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A wire netting thumbstall, invented by a Nebraskan, protects a wounded thumb from sudden blows much better than the usual rubber affair.

Muskogee, Ok., boasts an incubator in which 60,000 eggs can be hatched at one time.

Meaning of the Verdict.

The election of Governor Wilson vindicates the sound common sense of the American people. They will have progress. They will have social justice. They will have the well-being of the weaker elements of society safeguarded. But they will have all this in accordance with law, and subject to the limitations of the Constitution, and by methods under which the country has prospered for 123 years.

They will not be stamped by hysterics. They will not break down the salutary practice founded upon the refusal of Washington to be a candidate for a third term.—Philadelphia Record.

Judge Worthington's Victory.

Judge Worthington has been tried in the judicial office and he has shown himself to be possessed of admirable capacity and temperament for the exercise of the functions of his high office. With Judge Worthington on the bench no one will have any "friends at court." All who come before his tribunal will be judged upon the merits of their cause. His election will mark a new era in the history of Frederick and Montgomery counties.—Frederick Post.

A CHANCE FOR THE BOYS.

One of the largest and best of our native fruits has never received the attention that it merits. This is the wild pawpaw (Asimina triloba) which is found along rivers and small streams in many sections of the eastern and central states. The fruits vary greatly in size and quality and are produced singly or in clusters on small bushes. The characteristic flavor of the fruit is not relished by some but many persons are very fond of the well ripened fruit. The State Experiment Station is attempting to improve the pawpaw by collecting seeds and plants of the best wild sorts. In order to enlist the cooperation of persons acquainted with desirable types the Horticultural Department has arranged with the State Horticultural Society to offer a prize of $3 for the largest and best specimen exhibited at the annual meeting at the Fifth Armory in Baltimore, November 18-23. A second prize of $2 will be given for the next best specimen. This offers an opportunity to any boy in the State to win a substantial premium and at the same time help in the improvement of a neglected fruit. Specimens should be securely packed together with the name and address of the sender and forwarded to W. R. Ballard, State Experiment Station, College Park, Maryland or sent direct to the Armory in time for exhibit in care of Prof. T. B. Symons. Secretary of the Horticultural Society. Transportation charges will be refunded upon presentation of receipt.

Another One On The Country Editor.

"There are moments when the life of a country editor hardly seem worth living, fleeting moments, perhaps, but intense moments nevertheless," says the Richmond Times-Dispatch. "The editor of the Sunfield Sentinel experienced one of these moments recently, according to the following, which is taken from his valuable paper:

When a girl with a face like a cream puff marries a youth who never earned a dime outside a shooting gallery, the editor has to paint the bride as a radiant vision of blushing beauty and the groom as a "rising young business man," or else disappoint an expectant circle of delinquent subscribers. If the editor fails to spread a two-column obituary over a prominent citizen, who never paid a grocery bill outside of the justice court, he is liable to be waited upon by some two-fisted relative of the deceased with an infuriated air and a punch in either hand.

The Constitution Survives.

Mr. Roosevelt has entirely changed his visiting list. He has broken practically all his friendships of a lifetime, and he has failed in his ambition to have a third term as president. He has caused numerous of his never friends to spend their private fortunes like water, and he has created a feeling of distrust of American institutions in the minds of a large number of persons.

But, fortunately, that large number of persons is a very small minority of the total citizenship of the United States. The Constitution still stands, the government still lives, and it is to be hoped that the course of prosperity will continue.—New York Herald.

How changed are the times as shown by the fact that within recent years the term "conservative" has passed from a compliment into a reproach.—Annapolis Capital.

Will be Conservative.

Mr. Wilson will be a conservative President in the best sense of the word; the Democratic party in that best sense will be a conservative party. It would be blind, indeed, if it did not see that it is only through a wise conservatism that it can retain the confidence of the country. The people have just voted overwhelmingly against radicalism, against agitation.—New York Times.

SUFFRAGISTS GET THE BALLOT IN FOUR STATES

Women Now Allowed To Vote In Ten Commonwealths.—Great Victory for "Equal Rights."

Woman's suffrage has carried in four of the five states in which was put to a ballot. Dr. Anna Shaw, president of the National Woman Suffrage Association of America, declared today:

"Women will have the vote in Michigan, Oregon, Arizona and Kansas, making a total of 10 states in all.

"This is by far the greatest victory suffrage has ever won. We expected to win in Kansas, Arizona and Oregon, but were not confident of the result in Michigan.

"This victory means that we are now on 'easy street.' In the next presidential election every political party will have a woman suffrage plank in its platform. Women will hold the balance of power in the West and every political party will try to gain the favor of the women voter. A complete victory for woman suffrage is not far away."

Before Tuesday's election women could vote in six states, which have a total of 37 electoral votes, as follows: California, 13; Colorado, 6; Washington, 7; Idaho, 4; Utah, 4; Wyoming, 3. Their victories yesterday gave women a voice in the allotment of 33 more electoral votes—Michigan, 15; Kansas, 10; Oregon, 5; Arizona, 3.

The Office Towel.

Alas! Cruel Fate! Thou now hast dealt
The saddest blow of all—
No more the office towel hangs
In glory on the wall.

'Twas thou, who at the close of day,
Removed the grime and grease;
Now foreman, devil, comp and sub
All mourn thy sad decease.

Thou spreadest germs—so saith the sage.
If such should be the case,
A hundred thousand, more or less,
Are on each hand and face.

And so thy doom hath been pronounced
By men of great repute;
And we unlearned mortals may
Their mandates not dispute.

No fault of thine, these spots of grime,
These finger-prints, both large and small;
For thou wert white as spotless snow
When first we hung thee on the wall.

The devil 'twas who soiled thee first
With daubs of oil and ink.
Then followed all the dust and dirt
That missed going down the sink.

Forgive the harsh, ungrateful man,
Who cursed with all his might,
When seeking up and down thy form
For just one glimpse of white.

We'll miss thee; yes, we'll miss thee,
As we tread the beaten path—
From the boss, who never used thee,
To the comp who took a bath.

We need no crepe to drape the wall
That once thy figure bore;
But here thy blackened form we'll hang
To rest forevermore.

It is stated that the five engines in the fire can be restored for about $3,000. The roundhouse was insured. The greatest damage was to the machinery. WIND-UP OF FOOTBALL SEASON

Has Been One of the Best.—Mount St. Mary's Man To Referee Big Contest Between East and West.

What has been considered one of the best year's in football is fast drawing to a close. All preliminary games have so far been played and the results to the leading coaches of the country with very few exceptions have been beyond expectations. The new rules have proved all that the rules committee intended and those men feel that their weary hours of fixing the code up for the present season was well rewarded by the final results of the games already played. The general public desired more scoring in the game this year, and for the elimination feature which was very prominent for the past two seasons, namely too many tie scores and large crowds leaving fields with the contest undecided—the committee should be given a great deal of credit, as very few games have been played where the final whistle of the referee did not proclaim a victor.

This coming Saturday is what is known as the semi-finals before the big contests. However there is one game that will be played that will be of interest to the East and the West, and that is the game between the University of Michigan and the University of Pennsylvania. This game will take place on Franklin Field Philadelphia and from present indications over thirty-five thousand people will witness the contest. Last year at Ann Harbor the Westerners won by a small score and the coming battle has put the Pennsylvanians on edge to such an extent that the football world at large is very much interested.

Many other important games are scheduled for tomorrow and among them of local interest is the game between Mt. St. Mary's and Rock Hill, at Elliott City. The Mountaineers have been unable to do little or nothing with the Rock Hill boys in past seasons but Coach Thompson feels that they should get away with the game with ease this year. The local team has been putting up a good article of football this year but the teams they have been up against have been really out of their class. Next season it is the intention of the management to play only Maryland colleges and with this intent it is felt that there will be more interest in the most important of college sports at the Mount. Prof. M. J. Thompson of Mt. St. Mary's has been invited to referee the great game at Philadelphia Saturday between University of Michigan and University of Pennsylvania. He will leave here to-night for Philadelphia.

Taft Was Faithful.

Mr. Taft in his defeat may justly feel satisfaction in having achieved something greater than re-election. He has stood faithful to principle. He has held the Republican party true to its noble traditions. He has prevented the judicial power of the country from being made subservient to the changing whims of temporary majorities. He has preserved to the powerless the guarantee of personal liberty against the tyranny of passion. He has moved serene amid misrepresentation and abuse, discharging his duty as he saw it and refusing to do anything for spectacular political effect at a time when demagoguery was in demand. He will turn over to his successor the administration of a country whose laws were never before so well enforced, whose expenditures have been cut down, whose governmental methods have been systematized and made unprecedentedly efficient, whose general prosperity and happiness are at a high pitch. His trust is faithfully discharged.—New York Tribune.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

LOOKING BACKWARD AND FORWARD.

Now that the smoke of battle has lifted and that we can survey the field, we are enabled to estimate the results of the conflict. It has been a mighty engagement; never since the fateful November of 1860 have the people been so pitted one against the other. At that time it was the beginning of the disintegration of a system which the country, from the South as well as the North, groaned under. The ills that threatened Republican institutions then were the outcome of a National sin—for slavery was the common act of North and South. The North brought in the slaves, the South bought them and perpetuated the evil. The conflict between the States ended by ridding the country of the ancient wrong. Victory is at all times an unsafe adviser. The Republican party in following up the awakening of trade which war had paralyzed, they offered to the capitalists of the Nation the alluring promises of exorbitant profits and by a cunningly devised system of tariff they begot the Trusts which fastened on the people a bondage little short of physical slavery; and so, the power of Republicanism was made perpetual and its behests blindly carried out by its honest adherents, in the belief that it was the outcome of a great moral principle—the enfranchisement of a poor benighted race.

To carry out the destinies of a new people, engaged in the development of theories made necessary by the altered conditions of the time, the people were made to believe that to foster our American industries to their fullest, it became the duty of government to introduce a system of high protective tariff, which was intended to bring the home market to its highest development and under the aegis of the Grand Old Party of moral ideas, the people were steadily and cruelly robbed to enrich the favored few.

Since February last, a mightier conflict was inaugurated. For then it was not the riddance of an "institution" called "peculiar," but it was the struggle of two men to perpetuate on one hand the evils of legislation for favored classes and on the other to cater to the vanity and the inordinate ambition of one, who came nearer inaugurating a merciless Caesarism than even the worse foes of Grant had ever imparted to him. In the recent election the G. O. P. was fighting for its life; it was not merely the question of Taft's presidency which was at stake, but it was the very destruction of the Republican party itself; the local organizations being destroyed, the capture of the Legislatures which have hitherto been considered as safe, was tantamount to a disbanding of its forces and involved its final destruction. Roosevelt in his inordinate reaches after power looked but to himself. He claimed a sort of partnership with Providence for the greater good of the greater number, but he who started out by being everything for everybody, has found his limit, that he is after all, in spite of a wonderful personality, a negligible value in the actual destiny of the land.

Yet, here let us pause. Wilson under the elevating influence of that most resilient and only truly liberal party, the National Democracy, is borne in triumph to the White House. But he must remember that what wrecked Taft was all promise and no performance—let him be true to his ideals, let him carry out not only to the letter but in the true spirit of Democracy, the program of the Baltimore Convention and Democracy will again bless the land with its beneficence.

A word to those who turn to the tricks of the shysters and the scurvy politician, the sovereign people are marching on now, they are the masters, they must be consulted and through primaries and other popular equipments of a truly representative Democracy, let the rule of the Boss be a thing of the past to be mentioned as we speak of a dread scourge. Let the people rule and our institutions will be safe in their hands.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF VICTORY

"It has ever been the proud boast of our countrymen that in the United States the People rule." Thus spoke Grover Cleveland twelve years ago. Since that time, however, the reverse of that boast has been true. Our system of government has been distorted and its functions perverted to the extent of exacting a tribute from all the people to upbuild certain branches of business for the benefit of a few beneficiaries.

But that devout aspiration "that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth" has again been fulfilled and the People have registered their verdict in favor of Wilson and Marshall in every plank of whose platform the assurance of the welfare of the People was deeply graven.

This responsibility placed upon the shoulders of the Democratic party is a tremendous one, and that party if it would do its whole duty to the whole People must bear in mind that it is the sworn trustee of the People.

A sacred trust is that—a trust that calls for wisdom, discretion, caution, temperance, progress, vigor and Godly fear.

That these virtues will inspire both the men who will soon take up the reins of government and those who will assume responsibility in every branch of national and state administration, we have no doubt.

THE RESULT IN FREDERICK COUNTY.

In no part of Maryland is there rejoicing that surpasses that of the People of Frederick County. The election of David J. Lewis was a signal reward for signal service, and the decisive majority given to Glenn H. Worthington was a telling rebuke from the People, irrespective of party, to an infamous system of domineering, dictatorial bossism that for years has been a blot upon the escutcheon of Frederick City and County.

The people of Thurmont and Catocin and in fact the people all along the line of the course of the proposed auto race are to be commended for their prompt action in repairing and improving the crossings in their respective localities. They looked forward with keen pleasure to the News-Chronicle event, and, as is always the case with those liberal minded and progressive folks, they immediately began to do their part and would have done a great deal more had the race been assured.

The Bull Moose snorted wildly as he pranced the county o'er, and he bellowed long and loudly as he flew from shore to shore. But he kicked Big Bill a stunner sending him clean through the ropes, and he smashed the Grand Old Party's aspirations and its hopes. But Wilson's right got working and with one terrific blow, he gave a solar plexus to them both and laid them low.

NAPOLEON is said to have said that the whole art of war consisted in having the greatest force at the right time at the proper point of contact.

The people of the Sixth Congressional district and the Sixth Judicial circuit must have been reading Napoleon pretty closely preparatory to forming their line of battle against Wagman and Willard.

It is a healthy sign of the times that the people as a body, irrespective of political ties, have insisted that the judge's ermine shall be preserved free from the least suspicion of political contamination.

THE upward tendency of the stock market immediately upon the announcement of the Democratic landslide did not bear out the prediction of the "calamity howlers."

THAT "silent vote" that was going to elect Mr. Taft certainly remained silent. It must have been chloroformed.

AND Emmitsburg district feels very proud of her part in the fight that ended in such a glorious victory.

ON what a choppy, sickening tide they'll toss—those "Hessians of Democracy" owned by the Boss.

COULD anything be more emphatic than Maryland's vote? Six Congressmen, too.

HERE'S your hat Mr. Hanna—what's your hurry?

New York American, Dem.: The very magnitude of the Democratic victory is the measure of the enormous responsibility entailed upon the successful nominee to the party for which he stands.

New York Sun, Rep.: Politics being out of the way, business now has a clear field. There never was a campaign that hampered business so little as the campaign that has just passed into history.

New York Times, Ind. Dem.: It is to a firm, strong, true hand, to a wise and enlightened mind, that the people have entrusted the guidance of their affairs. And no man ever took the Presidential chair more free of hampering pledges and obligations, for Mr. Wilson is absolutely free.

New York Tribune, Rep.: As for Mr. Wilson, he has large if indefinite promises to redeem. * * * Behind him will be a Congress as undisciplined and hard to lead in sane paths as that which confronted Mr. Cleveland. His task is difficult. That he may perform it with credit to himself and honor to the country is our most sincere wish.

Philadelphia Ledger: Governor Wilson, when he takes his place in the White House, will be in a peculiar sense a "President of the whole people" rather than the representative of a party, inasmuch as great numbers of convinced Republicans who "never voted the Democratic ticket before in their lives" contributed to the result as a means of averting the peril of Rooseveltism.

Richmond-Times-Dispatch, Dem.: He stands as the chosen apostle and champion of a great people to proclaim and enforce the gospel that the republic is opportunity. To make that creed a fact in everyday life is the work that lies before the Democratic party.

Philadelphia Press, Rep.: He is a man of high character and no one can doubt he is sincerely patriotic in all his purposes. We hope he may be restrained from laying his hands too violently on the protected industries and labor of his country and that his administration may not in consequence be characterized by the calamitous results which his policies so plainly threaten.

New York Herald, Ind.: You [Governor Wilson] will take over the administration of a country actually more prosperous than at any other period of its history. If you leave it that way at the end of your administration, you will be regarded as one of the greatest Presidents that ever lived. You propose to do great things. Your program actually contemplates the remaking of industrial America. But we trust that your program to the very end will include the maintenance of the status quo of prosperity.

What is Democracy?

What is democracy? It is the co-operation of all sorts and conditions of men united to preserve the rights of the person and the rights of property. Preservation of these rights is the whole structure of civilization, and democracy is the co-operative method of securing those rights. Democracy simply insists on equal rights for all persons, and equal securities for all properties, large or small, and of whatever sort. The equal rights of persons and of property is the sole sense in which democracy means equality.—C. W. Eliot.

The Big Leaguer.

The season over, winds was chill And he goes back to Pumpkinville. Back to the little town he goes, Displaying latest hats and clothes. He loafs around from store to store With friends and followers galore. To them a hero great he seems As he tells how the leading teams Play ball.

He hibernates quite like a bear And sometimes it gets lonely there. There's no excitement on the bill In little towns like Pumpkinville. He soon begins to miss the throngs, The yells, the hoots, the noisy gongs. And he is glad that April day On which he hears the umpire say: "Play ball!"

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

Insufficient Nourishment.

Prof. Rubin, in a recent dissertation on the question of feeding the human race, which, he maintains, has come to a critical point, says that there has been a distinct step backward in the organism of the workingman and that cooking is a lost art. He deduces from this that the greatest problem confronting mankind is that of providing the race with proper nourishment.

The professor recommends that each city should have a department in its administration, clothed with plenary powers of caring for this branch of the people's welfare. The growth of our cities and the industrial workers as a class has complicated the problem to a point where it is becoming necessary for municipal governments to maintain a watch that the inhabitants receive proper nourishment.

Dr. Rubin believes also that school children who fail to get sufficient nourishment should have the deficiency made up.

An insufficiency of expensive food is not near as good as an adequate supply of plainer but nourishing food.—Washington Herald.

Pure Shoes.

If we insist upon pure food, why shouldn't we insist upon pure shoes? The Louisiana Legislature finds no reason for differentiating, and has enacted a law compelling manufacturers, merchant and salesman selling shoes in the State to brand them with an honest statement of the materials used in their construction. It was pointed out in the debate over the bill that the people of the country pay $600,000,000 annually for shoes. Every shoe is supposed to be of good leather, but a champion of pure shoes asserts that between 80 and 90 per cent of shoes purchased contain substitutes for leather in concealed parts. By the new law, the protected leather board, straw board, leatheroid, people of Louisiana will know whether they are treading upon fibre board, horn, paste or any other substitute for good leather. If there is as much adulteration in shoe manufacture as is alleged there certainly is no reason why the people should not have pure shoes.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Aftermath of the Election.

The Presidential campaign of 1912 has passed into history, with its political excitement, its partisan appeals to the people, its discussion of national issues, its defeat of two, and its triumphant election of one of the candidates to the highest office in the gift of the country. Yesterday the voters of the nation performed their part in the quadrennial registering of their choice of rulers, and they have spoken in no uncertain terms. The election of Wilson and Marshall sets at rest for four years the policies and principles which will be a paramount in the administration of the political affairs of the republic.

To-day's great and significant change settles upon the nation. Having disposed of the Presidential elections, the people will now give attention to business and industry, to work and the pursuits of life. The exaltation of the victors and the blasted hopes of the vanquished are matters of small concern in comparison with the pressing duty of meeting the responsibilities of manhood and citizenship in the avocations of the community. Having entrusted the political affairs of the land to the Democratic party the nation now philosophically waits the outcome of its choice.

Predictions made days ago are vindicated, and while those who made them are naturally gratified, and even exultant, there is only sympathy for those who lost, and admiration for the magnificent efforts made in a hopeless cause. Leaders in the parties which have gone down in defeat showed no less courage of conviction, no less devotion to purpose and principle than those of the winning party. In the aftermath there is only good wishes and hearty commiseration alike for the Presidents and his lieutenants, and for the former President and his. The campaign was a grand conflict nobly won and no less nobly lost. Handshaking to day is no less sincere in its expression of sympathy than in that of congratulation. The people have unmistakably voiced their approval of the candidates and platform of the Democratic party, and that is the court of last appeal. Every true American yields to that decree, no matter how mistaken he may regard the opinions of the majority. It is the glory of the nation that the beaten minority never sulks in its tent and refuses to fight when the political battle is over. The Bull Moose and the regular Republican is as good a citizen as the proud Democrat on the morning after.

The nation now looks to Mr. Wilson and his coming administration to make good the professions made, the promises sacredly declared, and the political principles upon which both have received the seal of approval from the people of the United States. Woe betide both if the confidence of the people is betrayed! Victory and defeat have alike their compensations, and blasted political hope may be less heavy to bear than the burdens and banners of triumph.

The turmoil of unrest, the discontent due to high cost of living, the wail of poverty, and the woe of the underpaid have not been cured by a Presidential election. The great issues of the body politic and the economic problems of the age still await solution, and the change of administration is only a small incident in the nation's life.—Washington Herald.

New Birth of Freedom.

Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson the Democratic party has won its greatest victory since 1820.

But this victory is no tawdry partisan triumph. It is no vote of confidence in the Democratic Party as a party. It is a mandate from the people, and woe be unto the leaders of this Democracy if they falter in obedience to that mandate.

The country is seething with political discontent in spite of its unparalleled material wealth and prosperity. This discontent is confined to no particular class or section. Rich and poor alike, children of fortune and children of poverty, have begun to lose faith in the efficiency of their Government to establish justice and promote the greater welfare. They are not sure where the fault lies; they are not united as to the remedy; but this they know—that their institutions have been seized by privileged interests and turned against them; that subtle, mysterious forces operating unseen have proved time after time that their power over public affairs was greater than the power of the people as a whole, and they demand that their Government be emancipated from this partisanship.

This is the great work that confronts Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic Party—to restore popular confidence in the institutions of the Republic and re-establish a government of the people, by the people, and for the people.—New York World.

Murphy Must Go.

William Sulzer stands elected to the great office of Governor of New York upon that pledge that he will know no boss but William Sulzer. He must keep that pledge!

Murphy must go. There must be no more Murphy control of legislation. There must be no more Murphy puppets in the great appointive offices of the State. There must be no more Judges of great courts owing their places to the nod of the Tammany Boss. There must be no more servile waiting on Murphy's word.—New York World.

The End of Republican Rule.

The next President of the United States, Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, will go into office attended by an ample Democratic majority in the House of Representatives, and encouraged by the prospect of an imminent change in the control of the Senate. For the first time since 1895, that is to say for almost twenty years, the undivided responsibility for legislation and administration will rest upon the party which stood so nearly right with Grover Cleveland and went so frightfully wrong with Bryan in the disastrous adventure of 1896. The deadly influence of Bryan and Bryanism upon Democratic fortunes and usefulness ends with the inauguration of President Wilson—if President Wilson so wills.

The best wish that The Sun can express for President-elect, a comparatively untried man facing an unparalleled opportunity, is that he may seize upon the windpipe of Bryanism at the very start, and with all the strength that the sinews of long, lean fingers possess throttle that persistent and satial thing into eternal silence.—New York Sun.

Advice to the Victor.

A few friendly words to Mr. Woodrow Wilson, designated as the Next President of the United States:

In this hour of your triumph The Herald would address a few words to you in a spirit of the utmost kindness and candor, not that they may be necessary to hold you true to your purpose but because they may be helpful in upholding your hands.

The election has been with the country in a great state of prosperity. A panic of 1907 has been lived down. The country under the Administration of William Howard Taft has been bounteously prosperous. Divine Providence has blessed it with the greatest crops in its history. It has gone forth and conquered markets of the world which it has hitherto not enjoyed, and there has been an expansion of American trade abroad keeping pace with the expansion of American production at home.

You have been elected very largely because a large portion of the American people have been led to believe that cost of living has increased much greater than the individual income. This may be true or it may not be true.

It is now proposed to try the risky experiment of reducing the cost of living by upsetting industrial combinations which are called trusts and which are alleged to have enjoyed tariff favors used in conjunction with other artificial means to control commodities and expand prices.

You will take over the Administration of a country actually more prosperous any other period of its history. If you leave in that way at the end of your Administration you will be regarded as one of the greatest Presidents that ever lived.

You propose to do great things. Your programme actually contemplates the remaking of industrial America. But we trust, that your programme to the very end will include the maintenance of the status quo of prosperity.

LITTLE VIRTUES ARE NEGLECTED.

There are few of us who would not like to live up to the best that is in us. The trouble is that perfection is so far above us that we feel that we should be presumptuous even to think of such a thing. Hitching our wagon to the stars is nothing compared to fixing our thoughts upon such an ideal as perfec-tion.

Of course, if we had to be good in everything all at once, we should be justified in feeling that we had under-taken an impossible contract. Fortu-nately, however, this is not expected of us. "Little peddler, little pack," as St. Francis de Sales said, and it is here we have the secret that will enable us to pursue any course in self-improvement which we may undertake.

The little peddler must of necessity bear a pack that is in correct proportion to the strength of his body. Should he make the pack too heavy, it would not be long before he would faint beneath its weight. We know that this is true, and we have the authority of St. Francis to apply the same rule to the practice of the virtues. "Let us practice little virtues proper for our littleness," he said. Doesn't the matter of self-improvement assume a different aspect in the light of this advice?

If we were to be brought face to face with the necessity of correcting all our weaknesses in one fell swoop, each and every one of us would immediately become discouraged. Instead of that, however, we can certainly make a start without too great fear of failure, for there are countless little virtues which all of us need to practice, and some of them are more generally disregarded than the so-called greater virtues.

Thus, there are persons who are mod-els so far as the great general prin-ciples of virtue are concerned, yet in whose lives the littler virtues are woefully disregarded. Impatience is one of the most common sins; uncharitableness is another; intolerance, lack of humility, exhibitions of bad temper—all these, and many more, call for correction.

Have you never met a man who was able to practice the greater virtues, but who failed utterly when it came to the smaller things in life—who was honest in his dealings with men, for example, but who was so uncharitable that he never could seem to speak a kind word about anybody? Such a life is as much in need of correction as that of the man who commits apparently greater faults, especially when the latter are the result of weakness and not of deliberate intent. The greater faults may produce more serious consequences, and so may seem more important, but lack of char-ity, lack of patience, lack of tolerance, mar the life and make it one-sided, no matter how trivial they may seem to those of us who give way to them. —Graham Hood.

PUBLIC TAX PROMOTES WELFARE

"A public tax is the greatest instrument ever devised by man to promote human welfare," says State Supt. F.
G. Blair, of Illinois. "It is a method of doing for my neighbor what I am under obligation to do. It is the most effective expression of that ancient doctrine that each of us is his brother's keeper. It stamps with legal approval those general truths that we are members all of one body and that they without us cannot be perfect. It is the every-day application of the Golden Rule. I pay my tax and sidewalks are built and streets are paved. I have done for others what I would have them do and expect them to do for me. I pay my tax and lights swing along the streets, driving back darkness, and fear and crime. I pay my tax and officers of the law guard my property and protect me in my rights. I pay my tax and school houses rise, bells ring, doors swing open, and a million boys and girls march into the greatest educational institution on earth—the common school. Do I hear you say that such talk is 'the stuff that dreams are made of?' There may be a touch of fancy in it, but in sober earnest, isn't it the wholesome, the sound, the patriotic view to take of it? Shouldn't a fellow citizen take that view of it?
Can a patriot look at it in any other way? A tax rightly laid and rightly spent is not a curse, but a blessing—blessing him who gives and him who receives."

TO ACQUIRE TACT.

It is generally conceded that tact is a quality which serves us well at all times and under all circumstances. And while all regard it as a thing greatly to be desired, many fail to recognize that it may be consciously cultivated. If we analyze tact we find that it is made up of certain elements:

A sympathetic knowledge of human nature, its fears, weaknesses, expectations and inclinations.

The ability to put yourself in the other person's place and to consider the matter as it appears to him.

The magnanimity to deny expression to such of your thoughts as might unnecessarily offend another.

The ability to perceive quickly what is the expedient thing, and the willingness to make the necessary concessions.

The recognition that there are millions of different human opinions of which your own is but one.

A spirit of unfeigned kindness such as makes even an enemy a debtor to your innate good will.

A patience that supplants accusation with the opportunity for self-discovery.

A recognition of what is customary under the circumstances and a gracious acceptance of the situation.

Gentleness, cheerfulness and sincerity—and such variations as the spirit of these may suggest —Anon.

RECEPTION TO REV. MR. GLUCK

New Pastor of Reformed Church Makes Favorable Impression on Notable Occasion.

Rev. A. M. Gluck, the new pastor of Christ Reformed church, was tendered a reception by the members of the congregation Friday night from 8 to 10:30 o'clock. During that time nearly five hundred people passed in and greeted the new minister who recently came here from Emmitsburg, Md.

The reception was held in the chapel at the rear of the church and which was elaborately decorated for the occasion. Around the room and three galleries was gracefully hung a mass of autumn leaves and vines. The pulpit in the chapel had been removed and on the platform was banked a profusion of palms and ferns, while cut flowers here and there adorned the room. The electric bulbs were covered with paper of varied hue, producing a light effect that was soft and beautiful. In fact the decorations were all in consummate taste and were much admired.

Standing on one side of the large chapel was the receiving line, consisting of the deacons and elders of the church, with Rev. Mr. Gluck at the head. They were Messrs. James B. Fisher, Martin L. Brown, George S. Hollida, William D. Myers and X. Poole, deacons, and Messrs. John T. Reynolds, William B. Cushman, E. D. Rauch and D. M. Kilmer elders. As the people entered the chapel from the vestibule they passed along the receiving line, greeted by each church officer in turn, and lastly introduced to the pastor himself, at the head of the line. For every one he had a pleasant word of greeting, and a little chat in almost every instance. Nearly all of the ministers of the town and their wives called to greet the new pastor and all were most cordially received. This was a marked feature of the reception. Rev. Mr. Gluck was in high spirits and his frank, cordial and friendly manner made a most favorable impression on all.

After the introduction formalities, the people passed behind the receiving line and were served with light refreshments. This pleasant diversion relieved any stiffness that may have been experienced and paved the way for a general commingling of the people in a social hour that was enjoyable in the highest degree, and fulfilled one of the purposes of the reception itself.

At intervals during the reception the Thursday Club, Miss Emma Staley, leader, entertained the people with some pleasing musical numbers. The orchestra was at its best and the music was a feature of the happy occasion.

There was a sprinkling of children at the reception and it was noticed that Rev. Mr. Gluck showed them marked attention, evincing a beautiful fondness for children.

The reception, the first one of the sort held by the congregation for more than a generation, was well appointed and most successfully carried out, and the event will linger long as a pleasant memory in the hearts of all.

Too much credit cannot be given the ladies for the beautiful decorations and the thoughtful entertainment of the people, all of which conspired so much to make the affair the complete success it was.—Martinsburg World.

HAGERSTOWN PRIZES ON EXHIBITION IN EMMITSBURG

Paris Awards To The Hagerstown Brewing Company Shown Here.

These medals, or rather one medal and one decoration, were offered for the best beer exhibited at the Paris Exposition and constitute the First Prize and highest honor in their class.

It often happens that prizes such as these are won on very meagre merit, especially where there are only a few contestants. Great credit is therefore due the Hagerstown Company, which received the highest honor in a class of twenty-seven competitors, representing many nations.

There are on exhibition at the wholesale liquor establishment of Harry Hopp on East Main Street, two superb medals awarded to the Hagerstown Brewing Company, of which Mr. Hopp is the sole agent in Emmitsburg.

Regardless of the award, connoisseurs proclaim the Export Pilsner Beer, the winner of these trophies, the best beer made, and the big sales recorded by Mr. Hopp certainly indicate that this brew is in great demand.

The prizes are well worth seeing and the beer they represent is said to be well worth trying.

MISS NINA L. BENNER.

Miss Nina L. Benner, daughter of the late ex-Sheriff Alonzo Benner, of Libertytown, died on Monday morning at her home, from a complication of diseases, aged 39 years, 11 months and 25 days. She had been an invalid for 15 years.

She is survived by her mother, one sister, Miss Lula, and three brothers, William and George, of near Liberty, and Dr. C. M., of Taneytown. The funeral was held in Union Chapel on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Poffenberger officiating; interment in the cemetery adjoining.

The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement.

W. M.'s Head Resigns.

Mr. Alexander Robertson, of the Western Maryland Railway, on Wednesday tendered his resignation as president of the road to the directors, who met in New York. Upon his request the resignation will become effective January 1. Poor health is the only reason given by Mr. Robertson for resigning. He has been on leave of absence for a month, recuperating from a general breakdown, at a Maine resort.

While the directors have not chosen a successor, it is understood that Vice President J. M. Fitzgerald has been favorably spoken of for the office. Since Mr. Robertson was granted leave, Mr. Fitzgerald has been acting president. He is one of the youngest railroad officials in the country and only a short while ago was elected vice president of the Western Maryland.

No Partisan Triumph.

Under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson the Democratic party has won its greatest victory since 1852.

But this victory is no tawdry partisan triumph. It is no vote of confidence in the Democratic party as a party. It is a mandate from the people, and woe be unto the leaders of this Democracy if they falter in obedience to that mandate.—New York World.

ELECTION DAY IN EMMITSBURG QUIET; ALL ARE INTERESTED

The Chronicle Announced Returns.—Large Crowd in Front of Building Heard Result Before Midnight.

Everything and everybody was orderly in Emmitsburg on election day. From the time the polls were opened until the very hour of their closing, voters in town and from the country made their way to their respective polling places and registered their convictions by means of the ballot.

It was an ideal day and lots of people were out, and though many from a distance remained in town after casting their votes there was no disturbance noticeable on any of the streets at any time.

It was a jolly crowd that gathered in front of THE CHRONICLE Office to hear the returns. There was a throng there from early in the evening until midnight—an orderly, good humored assemblage that innocently made merry with shout and jest as the dispatches were megaphoned or paraded up and down, lustily cheering the different candidates.

Through the courtesy of the C. and P. Telephone Company, private wires were run into THE CHRONICLE OFFICE and a most efficient operator received the dispatches that came at intervals of a few seconds.

In addition to giving the news to those immediately outside THE CHRONICLE Building, another operator was busy every moment answering the two extra phones and sending the returns here and there throughout the country.

Long before midnight the trend of the election was known, and just as Wednesday morning was ushered in the people of Emmitsburg knew definitely from THE CHRONICLE service that Wilson and Marshall, and Lewis and Worthington had carried everything.

GRAND TURNOUT IN HONOR OF WILSON, ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Boys Celebrate The Democratic Victory and Take Roosevelt and Taft Up Salt River.—Republicans Join In.

On Wednesday night the boys and young men of Emmitsburg celebrated the election of Woodrow Wilson by a grand parade on the streets of the town. These young patriots were headed by the following illustrious gentlemen: Messrs. Joseph Myers, Norman Hoke, Thomas Frailey and Mark Harting who took Roosevelt and Taft up Salt River. Two effigies representing Roosevelt and Taft were hauled in a wheelbarrow to the place of execution which was in front of Mr. Joseph Welty's at the end of West Main St. They were headed by a very unique band which rendered very unique music.

Much credit must be given the leaders for their trouble. Many Republicans who accepted their defeat like heroes also took part in the parade. Some of the stores gave an exhibition of different colored lights and put off fireworks as they passed. The bonfire could be seen for thirteen miles according to one gentleman and many people from out of town gathered to witness the parade.

On Monday evening, November 4th, a meeting of the "G. B." Society was held in the High School building. After attending to business affairs the subject of a mock trial was brought before the members present for discussion. The mock trial, if adopted by the society, will be concerning the current subject "What has become of Jennie Bryce?" This should be very interesting and instructive for all, as a large prize will be awarded to any society or order which gives the best mock trial concerning this subject. On November 18 a special meeting will be held in the High School building, at which many very important matters which require prompt attention will be taken up, and every member is earnestly requested to be present.

Taft's Greater Victory.

But the man whom Colonel Roosevelt has thus punished for declining to invite young Mr. Garfield to the cabinet mahogany and for rightly dismissing the insubordinate Gifford Pinchot from a minor office has also won a victory of his own. He has blocked the third term. He has saved the life of the wise custom which must be the main safeguard against the success of the revolutionary enterprises of popular adventurers. He has maintained the cause of constitutional government and has held steadily and courageously, in the face of almost hopeless conditions, to the great principles which must prevail while the government we have endures.

Delightful Novelties to Be Seen on Autumn One Piece Dresses.
The latest charmeuse and serge show new features in the way of fancy ticularly to the charmeuse, as serge do not lend themselves favorably to draping purposes, says the Dry Goods Economist.

Patch pockets are a feature of the tailor made skirts, and instead of placing the solitary specimen allowed to each skirt high on the left side it is rather novel to set it just beneath the frill of the skirt.

A great feature is made of the buttonholes on the new suits. They are bound in velvet, satin, cloth or braid.
Slender effects and straight lines continue to be the one great demand of fashion for tailored skirts. The skirt pictured includes the newest features and is to be especially recommended for stout figures.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

china silk. They wash excellently and need no ironing.

Malines is one of the most popular trimmings for millinery. Entire shapes are made of it, and it often forms the crown or brim in combination with other materials. For instance, the brim may be of velvet and the entire crown made of loops of malines.

Here is one of the dressiest and prettiest of the new autumn waists, which may be made either low or high necked, as one pleases. The sleeves are elbow length, but the waist can be made over a fitted lining with undersleeves.

THE CLOCK OF DEATH.

It Was the First Astronomical Time-piece Made in England.

The clock at Hampton court palace derived its unpleasant title by reason of a superstition that whenever any one long resident in the palace dies the clock immediately stops. It is of record that when Anne of Denmark, the queen of James I., died the old time-piece was striking four and that it stopped almost before the last stroke sounded. Since that time it is said to have repeated this grisly proceeding each time a royal personage within its jurisdiction died.

At any rate, the clock has an interesting history quite aside from this. It was the first astronomical timepiece made in England, being constructed in 1540 for Henry VIII. Thirty-two years ago it was brought out of a shed wherein it had lain neglected for nearly half a century, and by order of the then secretary of the office of works it was re-erected in the courtyard opposite the entrance to the state apartments.

There is historical evidence to the effect that it was built by one Nicholas Cratzer, a German astronomer who came to England at the invitation of Cardinal Wolsey.

This old timepiece tells the hour, the month, the day of the month, the position of the sun and the number of days since the beginning of the year, the phases of the moon and its age,
the hour at which it crosses the meridian and the time of high water at London bridge. The time required to wind it is half an hour every week. The weights have a descent of over sixty feet.—Harper's.

THE VANISHING SEA COW.

A Marine Curiosity That Is Rapidly
Nearing Extinction.

One of the largest fish that has inhabited the waters of the gulf of Mexico and the south Atlantic coast of this country and which is almost extinct is known as the manatee. It was found in great numbers a century ago, and even a few years back this creature was quite plentiful in certain localities.

It is very gentle for a large fish and easily captured in heavy nets, which are usually stretched across the mouths of rivers emptying into the south Atlantic or the gulf of Mexico. The flesh is very delicious and brings a high price, having a strong resemblance to the very finest veal. The skeleton is valued at $100, and the skin if removed properly and cared for by those who understand its properties will bring a like amount.

This fish is often from ten to twelve feet in length and weighs about 2,000 pounds. It is so gentle it will not strike the light craft that happens to be near it, and when captured it shows no resistance whatever.

It is safe to say that in the next quarter of a century this creature will become extinct unless specimens are preserved simply to prevent the complete loss of one of our most wonderful sea creatures.

It lives wholly on salt water vegetation and grows found in the mouths of the rivers emptying into the sea.—
New York World.

The Spell of London.

The greatest of modern French poets, Paul Verlaine, fell instantly under the spell of London, even though he came to it as an exile to earn a wretched living as a teacher of French.

"As a whole," he wrote, "it is very unexpected and a hundred times more amusing than Italy or Paris or the banks of the Rhine." And again:
"The docks are wonderful—Carthage, Tyre, all rolled into one." He deplored the lack of clean cafes, but nevertheless, "No matter, this incredible town is very well, black as a crow and noisy as a duck." In Verlaine's view London had no monuments except the docks. He ignored Westminster, the Tower and all the sights.
For him they do not seem to have existed.—London Chronicle.

The father did not know, but he did not wish to show his ignorance. "It
