Missionary Congress at Boston.

Pope Pius has named the Most Rev. Dr. John Bonzano as the pontiff's special representative at the second Missionary Congress, which will convene on October 19 at Boston. More than a hundred archbishops and bishops from all parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies will attend the congress. Cardinals Gibbons, Farley, and O'Connell will take prominent parts in the congress.

SENATE PASSES TARIFF BILL

MAY BE A LAW SOON

La Follette and Poindexter Vote With the Ayes

WILSON GRATIFIED WITH RESULT

Upper House Adds to Free List and Lower Rates.—Louisiana Democrats Against Measure.—Currency Bill Next.

With applause from galleries and floor the Senate at 5:40 o'clock Tuesday afternoon passed the Democratic Tariff Revision bill by a vote of 44 to 37. The margin of seven, which was wider by more than the Democratic margin of control in the Senate, augmented the Democratic victory.

Senators Ransdell and Thornton of Louisiana were the only Democrats to vote against the measure, while Poindexter of Washington and La Follette of Wisconsin voted for it. Mr. Poindexter is the only Roosevelt Progressive in the Senate, while Mr. La Follette is perhaps Col. Roosevelt's bitterest enemy.

Mr. Kenyon of Iowa, like Mr. La Follette, a radical Republican, disappointed the Democratic leaders by staying with his party but Mr. Newlands, a Democrat of Nevada, consoled them by supporting the measure in spite of the opposition of his constituents to both free sugar and free wool.

Shortly before the vote was taken a rumor spread that President Wilson would set aside another precedent by watching the proceeding from the row of seats reserved for his family. But he did not come; Secretary Tumulty and a few of his friends occupied the seats. When notified of the passage of the tariff bill, President Wilson prepared a statement for the press in which he declared "a fight for the people and for free business, which has lasted a long generation through has at last been won handsomely and completely," and predicted equal success for the currency bill.

When the President was asked to comment on the votes of Senator La Follette and Senator Poindexter he expressed very warm admiration "for their conscientious independence and courage."

As the bill was nearing the final vote another futile effort was made by Senator Cummins to put an anti trust provision into the measure—one to transfer imports to the free list whenever it became apparent that they were controlled by a trust. The amendment was defeated.

"This was an opportunity for the Democratic Party to give some real relief from the burdens imposed by trusts and combinations," said Senator Cummins.

Mr. Cummins declared later in the debate that Congress had lost its place in the affections of the American people, who had substituted in its place "a single will"—that of President Wilson. He assailed the Democrats for the secret caucus and insisted they had ignored party principles. To prove his assertion, he said he would read from the works of "the man who has more influence in the Congress of the United States than any man ever before had. I refer to Woodrow Wilson," he added. The bill has been in Congress more than five months. Of this time it has been in the Senate four months and two days, having been sent over from the House May 8 last.

BOYS FROM UNITED STATES RETURN AUSTRALIA'S VISIT

Entertainment to Be Given in Each Town Visited.—Forty-Six Selected Out of Three Thousand.

Following the lead of the West Australia boys who last year played and sang their way round the world, 46 sturdy Australian boys, from 12 to 18 years of age have arrived in Australia, under the command of Major Peixotto of the Columbia national guard, according to the Christian Science Monitor.

The boys have been selected from 3000 candidates, for their all around ability, musical and athletic skill, scholarship and character being the chief qualifications. An entertainment will be given in each of the towns visited during the tour, and an offer will be made to divide one half of the receipts with some local charity or boys' organization, in return for which citizens will be asked to extend their hospitality to the boys so as to make hotel residence unnecessary.

Australian welcome is assured, for its young citizen soldiers will rejoice to meet the visitors on football ground and at rifle range.

REVENUE FROM THE FORESTS

GOVERNMENT'S PROFIT

Systematic Cutting of Timber by Experts

DEFENDERS OF SPOILATION FEW

Alaskan Forests Will Probably Figure Prominently in Future—Territory Rich in Timberland Awaiting Conservative Handling.

They have been casting up accounts at Washington and find that the receipts to the treasury from forests federally controlled amounted during the fiscal year just closed to $2,500,000 while contracts entered into for future cutting of timber under careful supervision by government foresters amounted to $4,500,000, says the Christian Science Monitor. Arguments for conservation like these leave critics of the nations present policy dumb. As a purely doctrinaire problem there is still room for considerable controversy between federalists and states rights advocates. But when it comes to contrast between forests watched over by some public authority and so disposed of as to insure their perpetuity as social assets and their steady contribution to the public treasury, and the old policy of grants to purchasers who then proceeded to strip the land of timber, defenders of spoilation get little popular backing today. The pocket of the taxpayer responds to the touch of public income derived from timber sale. Taxes, speaking in general terms, are rising. Here is a way to check the soaring process, and distribute generally incomes arising from property produced without man's aid during past generations. Moreover, as governmentally administered forestry service in India from sale of timber are studied the success so quickly won by the American government does not seem at all surprising or phenomenal. If no change in the policy comes under the present administration, and it is not likely to if Secretary Lane has his way, the profits within a few years will be such as to relieve taxpayers from all expense in administering the costly and elaborate national forestry work, and to leave a considerable margin of net profit, increasing annually.

If present plans for extension of federal control over Alaskan affairs take formal and legal shape and the nation makes that territory a laboratory for trying out not a few experiments in social evolution which it dares not leave to the slow processes and rigors of competitive capitalism of the old school, then Alaskan forests are likely to figure somewhat prominently in future territorial budgets. The nation has yet to appreciate how much timber wealth the territory has awaiting economical and conservative handling with social ends in view.

TWO SENSATIONAL PLAYS WITHDRAWN FROM STAGE

"The Lure" and "The Fight" Suspended Until Grand Jury Sees Productions.
The two theatrical productions, "The Lure" and "The Fight", which were drawing large crowds respectively to the Maxine Elliot and Hudson Theatres, in New York, and about which the question of morality was raised by public officials, were withdrawn Tuesday by their producers, Lee Shubert and William Harris, in accordance with an agreement reached between the producers and chief Magistrate William McAdoo. The morality or immorality of the two plays is to be finally judged by the Grand Jury, to which the case will be transferred from the Court of Special Sessions by direction of the District Attorney.

A special performance of each play will be given for the Grand Jury. If sixteen of the twenty-three members of that body concur in the opinion of Chief Magistrate McAdoo that the plays are indecent and public nuisances, without waiting for a jury trial, Lee Shubert will withdraw "The Lure" permanently and disband the new companies that have been organized to present the play on the road, and William Harris, acting for the estate of Henry B. Harris, will do the same with "The Fight."

Shortening of educational courses from one to three years is advocated by President Judson of the University of Chicago in the School Review.

Major H. L. Wiyone, late United States military attaché at Tokio, Japan, was buried with high honors in Tokio.

Sunday

William H. Peck and Ernest Zell, of Alexandria, Va., were instantly killed at Washington, when a Washington and Old Dominion train struck Peck's auto at Humes Crossing. Forrest Crook, a flagman was also injured.

Cardinal Joseph Calasanz Vives y Tuto, prefect of the congregation for Religious Affairs at Rome, died today. Recently he had undergone an operation for appendicitis.

The woman suffragists fired what they called a "16-inch gun" when they launched their new magazine, the Suffragist, into being. It is said to be a weekly publication, and the managers have set 200,000 as their subscription list. Mrs. Rheta Childe Derr is to be editor-in-chief, assisted by Mrs. Jessie Hardy Stubbs.

Monday

Gus Lawson, an American cyclist, and Scheurman, a German rider, were killed while racing at Cologne.

Frederick Greisheimer, who married Lillian Lorrain, the actress, from whom he is alleged to have stolen a ring valued at $5,000, and who was indicted for grand larceny, gave himself up to the New York police.

Individual deposits in national banks of the United States decreased $190,000,000 between June 4 and August 9, and loans and discounts increased $20,000,000, according to preliminary figures of the last call by the Comptroller of the Currency.

Smoke costs Pittsburgh $10,000,000 a year or about $20 per capita.

The Canadian court acquitted William Travers Jerome, who had been arrested on the charge of gambling in Coaticook, and apologized for the humiliation to which he had been subjected.

Pope Pius received the Catholic Athletes in private audience.

Nearly a million dollars is the estimated damage of a terrific storm that swept through the Conewago Valley and the district of Lancaster county, flooding miles of tobacco and corn, burning barns and carrying off buildings.

The strike conditions throughout Ireland are worse. The railroads have refused to take any goods for transportation, and traffic is practically at a standstill.

The Republicans in Maine elected John A. Peters for Congress, defeating William R. Pattangall, the Democratic candidate by a narrow margin. The Progressive vote showed poorly.

Tuesday

A settlement between the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, by which most of the demands of the former are granted, was made at San Francisco.

Old Defenders Day.

To-day is Old Defenders Day. The date is of special significance to Marylanders and especially Frederick countyans, because it is not only the anniversary of Baltimore's defense in 1812, but also commemorates the writing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by Francis Scott Key, a native of Frederick.

PARAGRAPH NEWS.

Thursday.

Thirty women at Lake Shore Park, Peabody, put out a fire and saved several cottages. A woman's fire department had been organized because all the men were away during the day.

James Farley, the noted strike-breaker, and at one time the only man who ever made a profession of breaking up industrial strikes with strong arm methods, died at his home in Plattsburg, New York. Farley was 39 year old. He ran away with a circus at the age of 15 and later became a hotel manager. He started in street railway work as a coal passer. His first work at strike-breaking was on the great Brooklyn strike in 1895. Later he went all over the country breaking strikes.

The Hamburg-American Steamship Line issued a statement denying that the Emperor, the world's biggest ship, is going out of commission.

MT. ST. MARY'S GRADUATE PROMINENT IN MEXICAN CRISIS

Benjamin Molina, '09 Spokesman of Body that Called on the Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

A Mount Saint Mary's graduate takes a prominent part in the present friction with Mexico, as we may conclude from what follows, the item being taken from the Imparcial of August 29: Mr. Benjamin Molina with his fellow classmates of the School of Jurisprudence, of the capital of Mexico, was spokesman of the body that called on Mr. Gamboa the Secretary of Foreign Affairs to congratulate him on the dignified, learned and patriotic manner in which he carried on the interview with Special Ambassador John Lind, of the United States.

It is stated from the paper, from which we copy the item, that Mr. Molina was most felicitous and eloquent in his address. Many of our readers who attended the commencement of Mount St. Mary's in June 1909 will remember Mr. Molina as one of the speakers on the occasion. His speech was "Mexico and Her Resources." Mr. Molina is a nephew of Don Olegario Molina, the Secretary of the Treasury of the Cabinet of Porfirio Diaz.

A Bishop for the Army and Navy.

A "Bishop of the Army and Navy" may be authorized by the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, which meets in New York in October. If such action should be taken the United States will have the only diocese of the kind in the world. This proposition grows out of a memorial presented to the general convention of 1910, which met in Cincinnati, by the Right Rev. Dr. Alfred Harding, the Bishop of Washington. He presented the paper in behalf of 14 priests of the Protestant Episcopal Church serving as Army and Navy chaplains. It was set forth in the memorial that the chaplains needed the counsel and advice of a bishop; that they desired a more vital connection with the missionary activities of the church, that they hoped it would be found practicable to make them and their posts a special diocese. The memorial further sets forth that it was desirable that this new diocese be composed of the military and naval reservations in the United States and the insular possessions and the vessels of the United States Navy. The petitioners also held that the new diocese should have authority to hold convocations and select its own clerical and lay deputies to the general convention. — Army and Navy Register.

Revs. Murray and Mitchell Make Addresses Here.

The Rev. Dr. Murray and the Rev. Mr. Mitchell made very interesting addresses at the Methodist Episcopal church, this place, on Tuesday afternoon. They are conducting a State-wide campaign and their subjects are Foreign Missions and Evangelism. The Rev. Frank R. Bayley, pastor of Govan's Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. Mr. Lichter, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, Baltimore city, were scheduled to be present to speak at this place, but letters of regret were read by the pastor, the Rev. Hamilton P. Fox, which declared that their absence was due to previous engagements. Dr. Murray is pastor of Catonsville Episcopal church, and his address was very inspiring. The Rev. Mr. H. Mitchell, is pastor of Forest Park Methodist Episcopal church, Baltimore city, and his address was also very inspiring.

The congregation regretted very much the absence of the Rev. F. R. Bayley, as he was pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church for several years. The ministers are making the campaign in a large automobile, so that they can speak at several Methodist churches in one day. They arrived at this place at 2 o'clock and services were held at 2.30. They left immediately after the lectures and motored to Thurmont, at which place they spoke on Tuesday evening.

Dr. JERRY OVERHOLTZER INVENTS UNIQUE AIRSHIP

Admiral Bushman Co-Operates—First Flight to be Made Next Week from Poplar Ridge to Eiffel Tower, Paris—Select Crew to Accompany Scientists on Journey.

Probably one of the most unique aeroplanes ever constructed is that which has just been finished by Doctor Jerry Overholtzer and Dr. Daniel Shorb, both on the faculty of Harney University. This aeroplane may be seen for the next few days only at the hangar on Dr. Shorb's estate, "Pigs' Misery."

It took twenty-seven men, working night and day under water, to build the machine and during its construction specifications by wireless were received by Dr. Overholtzer every half hour from engineers at the Sorbonne, Paris, the University of Moscow, and the Dead Letter Office.

Many of the mechanical devices were originated by Admiral Bushman and the air-digging devices by Dr. John Glass, recently decorated by the Shah of Persia with the Order of the "Alum-inum Growler."

Last Monday a representative of THE CHRONICLE asked Dr. Overholtzer for a description of the propelling power of his airship to which he replied as follows:

"The main feature of the engine, which is of the complex eccentric type, is the simplicity of the duplicidentate. The meta centre articulates with the friction wheel and topburtons on the warping chock. This flutes the suction pipe in such a manner as to lap-joint the back gear. The lubricator, connecting with the counterbalance spring, throws the pinchock under the carburetor, at the same time opening the muffler cut-out near the nephoscope. This feeds the silo juice through the bung hole and sparks the fifth wheel near the gunwale. The cloud anchor, which is regulated by a heliograph, is so adjusted on the pinochle deck that it releases automatically from the whiffletree. Thus it is possible to stop and remain in mid-air by putting on the reverse clutch while going at the rate of 184 knots a second."

Dr. Overholtzer and his crew of picked men, including Prof. Nicholas Keller, Dr. Buckingham and Commodore Charlie Reeder will make a flight next week at four o'clock from the Poplar Ridge standpipe to the Eiffel Tower, Paris, stopping for lunch at the Sandwich Islands.

Quartermaster Bill Snyder, of Harney, has taken aboard the following rations which will be handed out to the occupants every thirty seconds—1,000 rounds limberger tarts, 2 gallons denatured corn juice, 500 yards pickled tripe, 3 cords dog biscuits, 15 firkins colorless apple butter, 3 long tons of alfalfa pies, 45 cans of fried water, 30 porterhouse cats, a mouth-organ and a fried egg.

MAYOR GAYNOR DIES AT SEA FROM SHOT WOUND

Coughing Spells From Gallagher's Bullet Finally Result in Heart Failure.

William J. Gaynor, mayor of New York, died at one o'clock, Wednesday afternoon on board the liner Baltic about mid-ocean. Mayor Gaynor sailed for Europe last Thursday, being in a weak condition and taken on the boat secretly. It was on his last previous boarding of a ship three years ago, that he had been shot by a would-be assassin. His death was an indirect result of the wound then inflicted.

The news of Mayor Gaynor's death, received by wireless, yesterday, not only stunned New York but complicated an already almost helplessly confused political situation.

Gaynor had been renominated Wednesday of last week an independent candidate to run against Tammany. The mayor was then so weak that he had to have his speech read to the 30,000 who gathered in City Hall and proclaimed his nomination.

Adolph Kline, a strict organization Republican, succeeds to the head of the City's government.

His Parting Benediction.

A country minister, in a certain locality, took permanent leave of his congregation in the following pathetic manner:

"Brothers and sisters, I come to say 'good-bye.' I don't think God loves this church, because none of you ever die. I don't think you love one another, because I never marry any of you. I don't think you love me, because you have not paid my salary; your donations are mouldy fruit and wormy apples,—and by their fruits ye shall know them."

"Brothers, I am going away to a better place; I have been called to be a chaplain in a penitentiary. 'Where I go ye cannot come,' 'but I go to prepare a place for you,' and may the Lord have mercy on your souls.
"Good-bye."

The Bold Mexicans.

Observe the admirable valor of our Mexican brethren.

The response of the Mexicans to President Wilson's announcement that we are not going to intervene is an immediate rush to arms to repel intervention.

What they would have done if he had announced that we would intervene is something of a conundrum, but not a pressing problem. What they are going to do when they find nothing to repel may be a very real and pressing problem; for offended dignity armed and bewildered, is equal to almost any sort of foolishness or heroism, according to the prevailing leadership. —Hagerstown Mail.

It may be a mistake of the publisher in thinking he has been done a favor, but as a rule whenever a newspaper loses one subscriber on account of pique there are usually two or three others gained for the very reason that the one feels aggrieved.
The broad-minded and intelligent subscriber will recognize the fact that it is only the negative quality in life that never crosses the feelings of anybody.—Jennings (La.)

EMMITSBURG
FREDERICK COUNTY
MARYLAND

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Em-mitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notedly healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick, eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount St. Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 105 years—is located here;
St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 104 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are Excellent Schools—
Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverymen, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg;
there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—
come to Emmitsburg,

Care of the Teeth.

The teeth should be washed in tepid water inside as well as outside with a fairly stiff toothbrush in the morning and the last thing at night.
This helps greatly to preserve them.
as the primary cause of dental decay is the decomposition of particles of food left between the teeth after a meal. Washing with a stiff brush dis-lodges these particles, and rinsing the mouth freely afterward with some warm disinfectant mouth wash completely removes them.

Open Spaces In Cities.

Along with the new keenness over social and economic reform England has developed a number of other virtues in the past score of years. One is an appreciation of the value of open spaces in cities, and one is the increased determination to preserve ancient landmarks. Every few months an article appears in the Times or some other influential newspaper acquainting people with the danger that threatens some historical or long cherished spot, and usually the money necessary to save the property has been forthcoming.—Indianapolis News.

Arizona's World Wonder.

The Grand canyon cannot be described in measured terms. Every beholder sees it in a different form, just as the rolling clouds suggest different resemblances to the eyes of the beholder. Begin with the thought of the canyon thirteen miles wide, a mile deep, the Colorado river 200 feet wide imprisoned down in the depths between lofty walls of weather stained granite and rushing wildly on its way. It is buried so deep that only now and then can you get a glimpse of what looks like a little dark ribbon of gray. Above the black granite walls of the river you see what you can easily imagine to be row after row of red brick skyscrapers projecting from the sides of the canyon at acute angles and always pinnaced by imposing towers.

The height of those prodigious skyscrapers and towers cannot be measured by the imagination. They seem to rise a few hundred feet. In reality they tower thousands of feet from the foundation walls. The colors are marvelous.—Leslie's.

Bell of the Old Oregon.

The old bell which on Oct. 22, 1850, told from the sidewheel steamer Oregon the news to San Francisco that California had been admitted to the Union is now a part of the exhibit in the pioneer room of the Golden Gate park museum. This heirloom of California history was the ship's bell of the steamer Oregon, which sailed from Panama for San Francisco soon after this state had been admitted to the Union, Sept. 9, 1850. When the steamer sailed through the Golden Gate on the morning of Oct. 22, 1850, and approached Meiggs wharf a sailor tolled the bell incessantly until scores of small boats came alongside and learned what news the vessel brought. The people of San Francisco then heard for the first time that their state had been admitted into the federal union, and festivities ensued. The bell bears the inscription "Oregon, 1848, New York."

China and the Telegraph.

China was confronted with a stiff problem at the introduction of the telegraph. It was hopeless to think of combining the western Morse dots and dashes in sufficient variety to express the 3,000 or 4,000 characters used by a fairly literate Chinese, not to speak of the entire 40,000 or so known to the highly educated men of that race. A phonetic system was barred by the fact that the same Chinese monosylla-ble means different things, according to the context or intonation and also by the diversity of dialects. A Dane, Professor Schellerup, found the solution. The 7,000 characters most commonly used are given their equivalents in a code of numerals and these numerals are telegraphed. Thus, "cash" in the code is 6.030. If any one wanted to telegraph the number 6,030 itself he would send the code equivalents of the words "six," "thousand" and "thirty."

Animals and Earthquakes.

One of the mysteries still unsolved is that of the sense by which the lower animals become aware of the approach of earthquakes. For three or four days before a series of earthquakes at Guadalajara, Mexico, the many parrots of the city showed great and unusual restlessness, and during the period of disturbance the increased cries of the birds gave warning of the nearness of the worst shocks.
Rats also became alarmed, fleeing from the city before the earthquakes came. Supersensitiveness to faint shocks hardly give satisfactory explanation, for modern seismographs are very sensitive, and it is quite unlikely that tremors too slight to be recorded would be felt so strongly as to give alarm.

Forgot His Troubles.

As a rule, in later years we remember our pleasant experiences more easily than our troubles. I once visited a village where I found the oldest inhabitant, a frail old man, who regaled me for an hour with quaint and comical reminiscences of his youth. With each fresh anecdote his reedy laugh broke out. It appeared as though his life had been one long comedy. "Did you never have any troubles?" I asked.
"Why, yes, to be sure," said the pa-triarh, "but I've forgotten all they, except there was anything funny about
'em."—London Standard.

Obedied the Order.

Bobbie—I heard you got a letter from your brother? Joey—Indeed I did! Bobbie—Was there anything important in the letter? Joey—Well, I didn't open it, for on the outside of turn in five days," so I sent it back to him.—New York Globe.

ject to seasickness should use atropine."

pleasant symptoms.

Bible Reviser Visiting Here.

Abbot Dom Gasquet, president of the English Benedictines and chairman of the commission appointed by Pope Pius X to revise the Latin Bible, or Vulgate, is in New York to begin a lecture tour of the larger cities of the United States and explain the progress made by his commission during the last five years.
Abbot Gasquet has been in America before, but not since he has undertaken the stupendous work of revising the Bible, which will require about fifty years to complete. Saint Jerome completed the first revision of the Latin Vulgate in the year 371, and this is the first time since that period that the work has been carried on in such a way that it is certain of being completed.

Costly Canvas Discovered.

Sadakihi Hartman, an old art critic, of Binghamton, N. Y., announces that he has discovered a genuine Guido Reni, entitled "St. Joseph and the Infant Christ," the property of Leo Buckley, an artist of that place. The painting is valued at $10,000.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES AS TO NEWSPAPER SUB-SCRIPTIONS.

Few readers of newspapers fully and clearly understand the laws governing subscriptions. Following are the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States on the subject:

Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

If subscribers order a discontinuance of their periodicals the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it and the subscriber will be responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearages is sent to the publisher.

THE stores which do the largest business are those which keep their names constantly before the public. Advertising is just as great a necessity to an active business life as food and drink are to healthy physical existence. If you stop eating you die for want of sustenance, if you stop advertising, your business dies for want of publicity. tf.

"Busy people are prosperous, and prosperous people are happy, and busy, happy, prosperous people do not go about with chips on their shoulders."

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

PRESIDENT'S LATIN-AMERICAN POLICY.

The jingoes of the press, but particularly those of Congress, have suddenly fallen into a more sedative temper regarding President Wilson's policy with the southern republics. It does honor to those who as representatives of the people were so clamorous for an aggressive policy toward Mexico to find that they give their unanimous support to the peace policy proposed by the President. The first blatant outcries are the undertone of the old antagonists of Cleveland when they sought to drive him into extremes in his Hawaiian policy. It was the greed for an extension of territory, flimsily concealed under the guise of patriotism; and there is no doubt that the first mutterings of the opponents of President Wilson's Mexican policy were inspired by the old desire of leading the flag on to foreign territories under the pretence that liberty follows the flag, but really to transform this country which exerts the most potent influence in the world for universal peace, into a hectoring military power, eager for war and starting it on the first aggression of the neighboring republic.

President Wilson has a policy regarding the Latin-American republics as he forecast it in his declaration of March 12; it is intended to foil an ambitious greed of revolutionary leaders at the expense of the peoples of the southern republics; but he is not disturbed by dreams of territorial extension. He has stated that the influence of this country shall not be exerted against the weaker nations south of us, but his promise to safeguard the liberties of these people by enabling them to resist the ambitious plottings of cut-throats and bandits will be hailed everywhere as the most honorable and courageous act of a most courageous man.

Let Congress keep on the plane to which President Wilson invites its members, and the civilized world will acclaim the exalted policy of an administration which, having a high moral aim in view, will lead other governments to see and repair the wrong put them by scheming and mercenary leaders.

DR. DUDLEY S. SARGENT AND THE NEW WOMAN.

Dr. Sargent, more than any other person in this country, has shown the way to the development of unsuspected physical qualities in young women, by introducing into their gymnastic training unusual forms of exercise. From this many have been led to believe that the doctor was trying to show that what a young man can do, a young woman could also. But at a recent address delivered before the Y. W. C. A. training school, the doctor took occasion to assure his audience that it is the womanly woman who is the hope of modern civilization, and that the mannish woman in every sense of the word is "down and out."

Let woman compete with man for civic status, then farewell to all those gentle ways we call feminine, and as the door bangs outward, in come trooping, toughness, harshness, shrill and student clamoring and roistering. Nay more, the unblushing disregard for those essentials of dress which "Nature self doth rue," makes the modest and shrinking woman resort to the polluting tricks of the harridan and the lost woman. What will become of those attractive and soul elevating ways that we love to associate with the solace of home? Under the degrading touch, woman loses her charm and her power to please, and she becomes unlovely, for she subverts the law of Nature—she unsexes herself.

THE RESULT.

There was an honest difference of opinion among voters as to which candidates ought to be chosen at the primary last Monday. That opinion has been expressed; the majority ruled, as it inevitably must, and those who won now become the candidates of their party.

But this is only the preliminary,—the try-out for entry in the final race which comes off in November. From now until election day each party will strenuously advance its arguments; each candidate will put forth his claim—and the people will decide.

The primary law—as has been said—was "a most authoritative invitation to all the people, who so wish, to make known their aspirations and have them fairly considered and justly acted upon."

It is to be presumed that each aspirant did his best—developed what strength he could—and that those who failed to win will, with good grace, abide by the decision of the voters and throughout the coming campaign rally to the support of those candidates who gained the coveted places and have thereby become the legally chosen representatives of their party.

GOOD MANNERS.

Some people think that good manners and civility, are mere gush, "taffy" some say; and with an eye to business, they declare, "it don't pay."

Listen to Lord Roseberry, scholar, statesman, economist, sportsman and guide to young England. He tells the youth of England that manners have an enormous commercial value in life. He deprecates the decay of manners in England and Scotland; aye, he adds "all over the world." He knows, for his years are many, his experience broad. He adds that he has "seen men by appearance and manners get such a start of very much abler fellows, that they have been able by appearance and manners to keep their place much higher in public life than their own abilities or service would entitle them to."

Drummers for business in the Latin-American countries, tell us that the well-mannered men are those that land the goods among those people. Your swaggering, sneering, tough generally gets left.

ONE of Mrs. Pankhurst's lieutenants, speaking of the militant leader's contemplated trip to this country, says: "Things will move more rapidly when Mrs. Pankhurst reaches the other side."

That's a safe bet. When a few of New York's "finest" get behind that English vandal she'll be found moving in a two-minute gait, and in the direction of the jail, where, if she so desires—and it is to be hoped that she does—she may starve to death in peace.

TAKE ignorance a plenty and prejudice a lot, and add a deal of toughness to the mixture you have got; then put with this much venom, and of swearing take a heap, and sprinkle it with lewdness and light-headed talk that's cheap; and don't forget the dope, and the tobacco and the booze, and gaudy suit and stockings and the ultra hat and shoes. Take all of this and then much else of just the kindred sort, and when you've finished you will find it is the modern "sport."

A DISPATCH from Paris says: "The last word in women's clothes is 'galluses.'" As women's skirts for some time have been approaching the shape of garments worn by the masculine sex, we are glad to note that there are to be no half-way measures, and that the final step has been taken. Probably soon we shall see the broad blue suspenders, commonly labeled "Police Brace" and "Firemen's Friend" adorning the backs of the fairer sex.

THERE is nothing more attractive about a house in winter than a window box filled with growing and blooming plants. Now is the time to be thinking about and preparing this pleasure-giving bit of home decoration. These miniature gardens in front windows are not only a source of pleasure to the occupants of those residences where they are maintained, but also to passers-by to whom they are equally a source of delight.

IF ALL the good intentions could be cornered by one man and that man had the contract for paving that particularly warm place we all fight shy of, John D.'s millions would look like a church collection in mid-summer by comparison with the said contractor's income.

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

Parents Neglect Their Duty.

Ordinarily, the parents feel that their duty is done, if they send their children to school; the average father does not look out for his children's welfare nearly as well as he does for his horse, dog, or automobile; he leaves them to "grow up." The teacher is criticised openly in their presence, thereby causing them to lose respect for such teacher, and encouraging them in habits of indolence and impudence. Seldom, if ever, is a child examined to see if it really does know what it is studying; very seldom, indeed, is the teacher consulted as to whether the child's work is satisfactory or not. This result is, alike, an injustice to both child and teacher. Practically, no attention is paid to the associates of the child; it is allowed to walk the streets all, or much of, the afternoon, and often times at evening as well. No system of study is insisted upon; no question of how many lessons are to be prepared, and how much time should be devoted to each, which, if applied, would give a fairly accurate estimate of whether or not enough time is being devoted to home study, but instead, its education, so far as the parents are concerned, is left to the child itself.—Annapolis Capital.

Farming Does Pay Some.

To-day it is evident that farming does pay, for farms are now a delight to the eye and an inducement to country life. You see neatness and order and fresh paint everywhere; well kept lawns and shrubbery and flowers before the house. You will see fine looking cattle in the fields and good horses, and high grade poultry. You will see a telephone line running to the house, a mail box, with the owner's name on it in front, which tells of free rural delivery. If you look in at the barn doors you will generally see an automobile, and you will hear the chug of a gasoline engine pumping water, cutting ensilage and doing other farm work. Talk about country uplift, the farmer has uplifted himself. All he needed was the money to do it with. The former conditions were not from choice, but from necessity. Given the opportunity and he has made the countryside a most pleasing prospect, and country life most desirable. All he needed was the money to do it with and evidently he is getting the money.—Catoonsville Argus.

Does any intelligent man think for one minute, that, if Theodore Roosevelt had been nominated by the Republicans at Chicago, there would have been any Progressive party? It originated with the "outs in order to get in."

Is this the inspiration, the fad, or the vision of the so-called Progressive Democrats? What have the greater part of the leading Progressive Democrats been in the past? They were the Gold Democrats, they were the Independent Democrats. They are the Democrats who have been for years helping the Republicans to defeat the Democratic party in this State. They defeated the Suffrage Amendment for fear that this State might become a one-party State, so they said, but it was in fact, only to defeat the Democratic party. By doing this they fastened negro suffrage upon the State.

In the main, they voted three times against Mr. Bryan, and now these same so-called Democrats are falling over themselves to do Mr. Bryan reverence.—Frederick Citizen.

The Dwindling Bull Moose.

Forty thousand Bull Moosers were expected at the love feast in Chicago, but only three thousand proved faithful and attended. These were not even rewarded by a message of confidence and good cheer from the Colonel. Perhaps he has noticed the drift of Republicans back to their grand old banner. At any rate the Chicago Bull Moosers have noticed it, like their brethren in Philadelphia.—Cumberland Daily News.

Motor car "mashers," who make a business of picking up young ladies(?) at night and giving them a "joy ride," are agitating Philadelphia officials. Well, if the ladies (?) like it, why not? Official interference in the fashions of the day—not to say vices—is not as popular as some pretend to think. The fact is, official interference is distinctly "on the blink," in this age of progressivism, whether it be in the line of automashing, or any other old line.—Carroll Record.

CURRENT COMMENT FROM LEADING JOURNALS.

"Higher Nationality."

Lord Haldane's address before the American Bar Association at Montreal dealt with the fundamental truth of human relationship. It was quite apropos of the approaching celebration of the centenary of peace between this country and Great Britain, and crystallizes the fact that this American association not only convened on British soil, but had a British Lord Chancellor as its guest; a rare dignity.

The principal subject discussed by the eminent lawyer was "A Higher Nationality," meaning literally "the moral sense of a people," but which, as the distinguished jurist explained, was so well expressed in the German word "Sittlichkeit." "The able orator describes this as:

The system of guidance which regulates conduct and which differs from law and individual conscience in its character and sanction. It applies, like the law, to all members of a society alike without distinction of persons. It resembles the morality of conscience in that it is enforced by no legal compulsion.

This "Sittlichkeit," then, is the system of habitual or customary conduct, ethical, rather than legal, embracing all these obligations of citizens, which it is "bad form" to disregard. His lordship added quite pertinently:

The system is accepted so generally and is held in so high a regard that none can venture to disregard it without in some way suffering at the hands of his neighbors for so doing. If a man maltreats his wife or children, or habitually jostles his fellow-citizens on the street, or does things flagrantly selfish or in bad taste, he is pretty sure to find himself in the minority and the worse off in the end.

The conclusion should be obvious. Not only does it not pay to do these things, but no decent man would wish to do them. The "Sittlichkeit" of nations differs and may degenerate; it may conflict with law and morality, as in a duel. But even here the force of an ethical public sentiment practically has eliminated the duel from civilization.

What the Lord Chancellor had to say of the relations existing between the United States and Canada was nothing but what had been expected. He reminds us that socially, physically, and industrially the two great neighboring countries are very much alike. So was ambition, habit, speech, and custom to an extent as to render it difficult to distinguish the people from one side of the border from their neighbors. He emphasized the remarkable fact that between them stretches a frontier of 4,000 miles without a single fort. Though having much in common, like two individuals of temperament nearly alike, they find it harder to get along amicably than would those of "opposite type." (What a diplomat!)

The final plea of the Lord Chancellor for "Sittlichkeit," combining the traditional Anglo-Saxon virtues, will appeal to the highest instinct of the race, and may inspire its realization.—Washington Herald.

The Panama Fair.

Events are so shaping themselves now as to indicate that both Great Britain and Germany will be adequately represented at the San Francisco Exposition. The campaign of Herr Ballin of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company to secure an independent German exhibit has thus far been most successful, and, as the special cable dispatches to the Sunday Times showed, it has the support of the newspapers most influential in the business world; but it is likely that the disposition now evinced by German manufacturers to join in the movement will induce the Government to shift its position. The official refusal to participate seems to have been based on a misunderstanding. The various manufacturers consulted wanted time to consider the question before embarking on an undertaking so serious. They have been considering it ever since, and many, if not most of them are now supporting the Ballin plan.

In England it seems that the matter is viewed in much the same spirit. English manufacturers are considering the advisability of securing representation. The management of the fair intends to establish a bureau in London, with the idea of stimulating English interest, and the effort bids fair to be successful. There will be plenty of time before the opening of the exposition in 1915 for the shipment of goods and the arranging of exhibits. The prospect is that San Francisco's Panama and Pacific Exposition will be one of the largest and most memorable of world's fairs and that all the civilized nations of the earth will be fitly represented.—New York Times.

Fiction and Its Author's Rewards.

The novel is not the marketable form of literary property that it used to be, as not a few authors who rely on it for income are finding out. In the first place, relatively speaking, books are not being read as much as they used to be, not even for pleasure. The staged play, the motion picture, the illustrated periodical, the pageant and the dance, the touring car, golf and a thousand and one things that allure are arrayed against the story writer, at least during all save the winter months. Moreover there is the public library to be reckoned with, which, whatever its effect on the number of persons reading a story, does not conduce to multiplication of buyers, and this is the important detail from the royalty standpoint.

Nor is this all. Cheap and prompt reprints of stories by popular favorites and attractive and inexpensive new editions of standard fiction are hostile to the pecuniary success of stories by artists who cater to the few rather than to the many, and who, even under former more favorable conditions, never were tempted by hope of large royalties into becoming mere "book carpenters."

On the other hand the author of a work of fiction to-day, if the story has certain qualities, may count on new forms of income from it, which in many cases, will more than make up for any shrinking of income on the basis of books sold. With dramatic and cinematograph royalties added to income from serial publication and from books sold, there are not a few British and American novelists of prominence, who, from one book a year, derive an annual income which only the upper stratum of professional men approach. If this exemption from the necessity of hasty and crude work and this opportunity to brook over both form and content of a tale are utilized as they should by the writers of fiction the world of literature may be a gainer in classics. The temptation, however, will be to coin revenue from new as well as old sources of income, and as rapidly as possible. Those who thus succumb will betray their art for ducats.—Christian Science Monitor.

The Pankhurst Problem.

Although some good judges of the purpose of the restrictive clauses in our immigration law believe that Mrs. Pankhurst, as a fugitive criminal, can be and should be prevented from landing on our soil, we have not the slightest idea that the Federal Government will interfere with her coming. To do so would be to incur the wrath of a large number of well-meaning persons who regard Emmeline as a heroine and a victim of tyranny; and as there has been no disposition in this country to follow the pernicious example of the British militants, and no excuse for outlawry in the advocacy or extension of the suffrage to woman, it is likely that Washington will ignore the advent of this inciter of mob violence and arson. The pity is that the case may be used hereafter as a precedent to secure the landing of some criminal whose presence would be detrimental to society.

Mrs. Pankhurst is not likely to do much harm. If she attempts to lecture on white slavery she will probably be checked by the will of a people who have tolerated too much filth on the platform and have been brought to realize that no good has come of open public discussions of such subjects. If she urges the American women to smash windows and assault officials her advice will not be heeded, and she will lose whatever influence she may possess.

It seems a shame, however, as her status as a criminal under the British law is generally admitted, that some advantage cannot be gained for both countries through her visit here. She is coming in October, and there seems no present prospect that Thaw will get out of Canada before that time. Perhaps England may be willing to take a hand in the proceedings and exchange Thaw for Mrs. Pankhurst. This is worth thinking about.—N. Y. Times.

Retain the Two-Cent Postage.

The National Federation of Postoffice Clerks accused the express companies of manipulating the movement for 1-cent letter postage so that a deficit shall be created. The association expresses broad views on the subject. To carry a letter throughout our vast territory for 2 cents is proportionately a lower rate than exists elsewhere in the world. A 1-cent letter postage is a fanciful thing, although the large mailing houses would find it quite an item. One might think that if there should be any discrimination it should be against the firms that put in thousands of letters a year, burdening the mail and creating the greater part of the postoffice work. We favor leaving the 2 cent rate where it is. It is low postage, and, unlike most taxes, is fair, being paid only by the people that get the benefit of it.

To do away with it, the federated clerks say, would prevent further development of the parcel post, because of the deficit that would be caused. Whatever is or is not done, nothing should stand in the way of the development of the parcel post service. If it is to be pushed ahead, as it ought to be, it will in a few years become not only a convenience, but a necessity in every household.

One-cent postage also would wipe out the line between first- and third-class matter, thus flooding the mails with advertising matter that now pays 2 cents.—Washington Herald.

Dreamland.

Most people sleep for about eight hours out of the daily twenty-four.
That means they sleep one-third of each day, or one-third of their entire lives. And, according to many scientists, the whole time we are asleep we dream. We do not remember most of these dreams. Indeed, we remember only the very last one before we wake or some dream that is so vivid it wakes us. In other words, for one-third of our total lives we are dwelling in dreamland. And dreamland is a country of more utter absurdities, more grisly horrors, more fears, hopes, surprises and novelties than any land described by the most imaginative author. It is a land full of mystery, a land that science has for sixty centuries sought in vain to explore. It lies amid wholly unexplored regions of the human brain, regions which its possessor never saw. —New York World.

Foretelling the Weather.

Here are a few hints for foretelling the following day's weather: First of all, look at the northwest for your weather. However threatening the sky may appear, if you see a bit of blue in the northwest you won't have a steady downpour. At the worst it will only be showery.
If the day has been very fine and the blue sky is suddenly speckled over in the evening with little curly clouds then look out for a change of weather.
The longer they take to form the longer the time before the change comes about.

A red sun in the early morning is a bad sign, for there will be wet weather before the next twenty-four hours are over. Though the sky at sunrise may be absolutely cloudless, yet if the eastern horizon is red or orange the clouds will roll up and rain probably will fall before nightfall.

Evening red and morning gray,
Two sure signs of one fine day.

Tennyson's Last Hours.

Dr. G. H. R. Dabbs was the medical attendant on Tennyson during the latter's last illness. A few hours before the end the poet turned to the doctor and said "Death?" The doctor merely bowed his head. "That's well," said Tennyson. Dr. Dabbs has left on record a picture of the concluding scene. "Nothing," he writes, "could have been more striking. * * * On the bed a figure of breathing marble, flooded and bathed in the light of the full moon streaming through the oriel window; his hand clasping the Shakespear which he had asked for but recently and which he had kept by him to the end; the moonlight, the majestic figure as he lay there, 'drawing thicker breath,' irresistibly brought to our minds his own 'Passing of Arthur.'"

South African Lame Sickness.

An investigation of the South African disease known as lamziekte, or lame sickness, suggests that it is due to a special plant poison that is generated under abnormal conditions in grasses or other plants that are normally harmless. Its development seems to be associated with unusual weather and soil experiences, of which summer drought is important. Through such conditions wilting would favor the formation of the poison, and this gives explanation for the common belief that the disease results from eating wilted plants.

The Equator in Africa.

At the equator in Africa there are only two seasons—the wet and the dry.
The former lasts eight months. During the rains the natives live in houses made principally of bamboo and roofed with leaves, but as soon as the rains stop they set out for the forests and jungles.

She Learned to Keep a Bank Account

By OSCAR COX

"My dear," said Robert Read, "what is this nonsense about your joining the suffragists?"

"Why, it's no nonsense at all, Bob.
I've joined."

"Will you kindly tell me your object?"

"Well, you see, there are lots of women who own property, and they are interested in making the laws that govern that property. They should have a voice in electing the right officials."

"But you have no property?"

"Haven't I a husband who has?"

"And mayn't he die and leave it to me?"

Mr. Read found this argument too much for him. He thought awhile.

"What you have said," he remarked later, "reminds me that, I being liable to die before you do, you will need some knowledge of taking care of property. I think I had better give you some instructions in that direction, else a vote will do you no good, for you won't know enough to use it."

"No fear of that. However, I am ready to be instructed."

"I shall begin with teaching you to keep a bank account. Ever since I went away and left orders with the bank to honor your checks and you forged my name I have felt that you should know more about such matters."

"That was very stupid, wasn't it?"

"I should say so."

A few days later the husband gave his wife a check book, a pass book and a check for a hundred dollars, explaining what each book was for, and told her that she was to deposit the check in the bank. He also told her how to enter each deposit in her check book and subtract each check from her total deposits so that her balance would be always before her. He told her "For deposit" on the check and wrote her to sign her name under it, explaining that the words were to indicate the purpose for which it was indorsed and that it was not to be paid to any one. Then he made out her deposit ticket for her,
put it with the check in the pass book,
and the lesson was ended.

A few days later he came home and found his wife in tears.

"What is it, sweetheart?" he asked anxiously.

"I dare not tell you!" she moaned.

"Anything happen to the children?"

"No."

"Don't keep me in suspense."

"I've lost the hundred dollars you gave me for the bank."

"Why, I didn't understand that you were going to draw it."

"I didn't put it in."

"Oh, well, if you've only lost the check it doesn't matter."

"I haven't lost it." Fresh tears started.

"Well, what became of it?"

"I was cleaning out my desk and burning the old papers in it. I threw a lot of things into a wastebasket and dumped them into the kitchen range. The check and the little book it was in are all burned up."

She sobbed as though her heart would break.

Her husband looked at her pityingly,
a smile of hopelessness on his lips.
She thought the check was destructible, like a bank bill.

He kissed away her tears, explained how he would give her another check in place of the one she had burned and gave her another lesson on the subject. She was sure she understood him perfectly. The lessons were continued for many months, and Mr. Read became convinced that his wife had learned all about banking. At any rate, she made deposits and drew checks as well as anybody.

Then one day when Mr. Read went into the bank he was called in to the office of the cashier, who gave an
"ahem" and said:

"Your wife, who has an account with us, needs some explanation of banking methods."

"What's she been doing?"

"Nothing of any importance; nothing wrong. It is simply a matter of ignorance of banking. We notified her a few days ago that her account was overdrawn, and she sent us her check on our own bank to cover the deficiency."

"Humph!" grunted Mr. Read. "How much is it?"

"Two hundred and forty dollars."

Mr. Read drew a check for the amount and when he went home in the evening kissed his wife as usual and began reading the evening paper.

"Anything new in town today, dear?" asked Mrs. Read.

"Yes; it is reported that a new banking law has passed congress."

"Indeed! What are its main features?"

"It will make paying an overdraft with a check of the person overdraw-ing, drawn on the bank where the overdraft has occurred, illegal. You can't do that any more."

"Isn't it fortunate that I paid up before the law was passed?"

"Very. If you're tired of the trouble of keeping your account suppose you put yours in with mine."

"I think I will. You know I only did it to learn how, and now that I have learned, I don't need to bother with it any more."

"Just so. Let's go down to dinner."

"Bob," she said a few days later.

"I've been thinking that if you should die before me how nice it will be now that I've learned business and will be able to take care of my own affairs."

"You won't need another husband, will you?"

She looked at him reproachfully.

WORK AT THE LOCAL KNITTING MILLS PROGRESSING

Gives Employment to Many and Advertising for More.—It is Probable That a Larger Building will be Needed.

In the short time in which the Union Knitting Mills have been established in Emmitsburg the output has been so satisfactory that the manager, Mr. H. F. Finneyfrock, has advertised for more hands.

This factory began operations less than a year ago and in that time it has been progressing rapidly. These mills were first established in Frederick by the Union Manufacturing Company and the demand being greater than the one factory could supply, branch factories were opened in Thurmont and Emmitsburg.

It is very probable that if more employees are obtained and more machinery installed it will be necessary in the future to make arrangement for larger accommodations.

MRS. ISABELLA BELL.

Mrs. Isabella Bell, widow of the late John Bell, died on Tuesday evening, September 9th, at her home on West Main street, after a brief illness. She was well and favorably known in this community where she spent her entire life. Her father was the late Peter McClean, of Sabillasville.

Mrs. Bell was born December 10th, 1833, and attained the advanced pilgrimage of 79 years, 8 months and 29 days. The deceased was a most estimable Christian lady, thoughtful, kind, considerate in all her relations in life. Her quiet and unassuming demeanor was rare and beautiful. She lives in the hearts of all who knew her.

She is survived by six daughters and two sons—Mrs. John Keilholtz, of Graceham; Mrs. Jacob Baker, of Taneytown; Mrs. Chas. Englar, of Rocky Ridge; Mrs. Edward McGlaughlin, of Emmitsburg; Mrs. Kate Manherz, of York, Pa.; Miss Maggie Bell, Messrs. John Bell and Grant E. Bell, of Emmitsburg. Three sisters also survive—Mrs. Jane McClean, Mrs. Margaret Eyer, Sabillasville and Mrs. Jane Eyer; one brother, William McClean, Deerfield.

Funeral services were held this (Friday) morning at 10.30 o'clock, from her late home, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Charles Reinwald, D. D. Interment in the Lutheran cemetery, adjoining the church.

GELWICKS—WELTY

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, of this place was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday morning when Miss Ethel Welty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Welty, of Waynesboro, became the bride of Mr. Warren Gelwicks eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Gelwicks of this place.

The bride and her bridesmaid, Miss Lillian Topper were attired in navy blue. Mr. Gelwicks was attended by his brother Mr. Charles Gelwicks. Rev. James McNellis performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial High Mass. The altars were very tastefully decorated.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom. In the evening a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Gelwicks will reside in Emmitsburg.

MR. THOMAS HAYS THROWN FROM MOTORCYCLE

Handle Bars Become Loose as He Was Returning from Mt. St. Mary's College—Again Able to Attend to Business.

Mr. Thomas Hays apparently does not feel the effects of the accident that occurred to him on Monday morning as he is again out and able to attend to his business.

The handle bars of his motorcycle became loose as he was returning from Mt. St. Mary's College and threw him unconscious to the ground. He was taken to the home of Mrs. Mary Favorite where Dr. B. I. Jamison was summoned. It was discovered he had sustained a badly bruised and lacerated arm. Later in the day he complained of a sickening feeling in his head. The machine was badly damaged.

A Beautiful Wedding.

A beautiful wedding was solemnized Tuesday morning at St. John's church, Frederick, when Miss Frances Eagle Rohrback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rohrback, of Buckeystown, became the bride of Mr. Joseph Victor Golbart, of Whiteside, Tenn. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. W. J. Kane, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Mgr. J. F. Makin, of Washington, D. C.; the Rt. Rev. Mgr. J. J. Tierney, Emmitsburg; the Rt. Rev. Mgr. McGovern, the Rev. B. J. Bradley, the Rev. George Tragger, of Emmitsburg, and Rev. A. J. Conlon, of Frederick.

The bridal party entered the church at 9 o'clock, the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, being met at the chancel rail by the groom and his best man, Mr. Simon Golbart, his brother.

The bride wore a gown of duchess satin covered with lace, her veil being trimmed with lace that her mother wore on her wedding day. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The maids of honor, Miss Margaret Dow, of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Margaret Rohrback, sister of the bride, wore white charmeuse draped in accordion plaited chiffon trimmed with American beauty satin and wore lace bonnets. Both of the bridesmaids were dressed in white satin, wearing short veils.

A wedding breakfast was served immediately after the marriage at the Rohrback home, after which the couple left on a northern trip. They will reside in Whiteside, Tenn., where Mr. Golbart is employed with the New Etna Coal Company. Mrs. Golbart is very attractive and popular, and is a graduate of St. Joseph's College. Mr. Golbart is a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College.

Some Notes on "Origins."

"Humpty Dumpty Sat on a Wall," etc., has come down to us from the days of King John. "The Babes In the Wood" dates from the fifteenth century, being founded upon facts, an old house near Wayland Wood, Norfolk, having the whole story in carvings on a mantelpiece. "Little Jack Horner," "Little Miss Muffet," "Old Mother Hubbard," "Mother Goosey" and "Goosey, Goosey Gander" are each traceable to the sixteenth century.

"Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat, Where Have You Been?" belongs to the reign of Queen Elizabeth. "Three Blind Mice" first appeared in a music book dated 1600. "A Froggie Would a-Wooing Go" was licensed to be sung as far back as 1600. "Boys and Girls Come Out to Play" and "Lucy Locket Lost Her Pocket" both hail from the period of Charles II. And, last of all, "Cinderella," "Jack the Giant Killer," "Bluebeard" and "Tom Thumb" were published by their author, Charles Per-rault, in the year 1697.—London Notes and Queries.

Palestine Children at Play.

In Palestine, as always, according to a contributor to Chambers' Journal, children's play is mostly "making believe" that they are grown up. You may see a mite of five or six paying a visit of ceremony to a pasha of equally tender years, exchanging such compliments with him as "Rest, I pray you!" "Nay, he who sees you is rested!" and finally backing out of his presence, while he gathers up handfuls of dust and sprinkles it on his head. Holding a law court, with melon seeds to represent the bribes, is a popular game, and so is a raid of fierce men from the desert. The selling of Joseph and his subsequent interviews with his brethren are rendered with much dramatic action. Also the afflictions of the man of Pz, with new details, such as Job's wife cutting off her hair and selling it for bread.
 "Doing bride" is naturally the chief amusement of the Moslem girl, as it is the one great event of her later life.

Dr. Johnson and Ghosts.

Dr. Johnson expressed himself with characteristic caution and common sense on the subject of ghosts. "It is wonderful," he said, "that 5,000 years have now elapsed since the creation of the world, and still it is undecided whether or not there has ever been an instance of the spirit of any person appearing after death." Yet the credibility of some stories of apparitions can hardly be called in question. Edward Fitzgerald was far from being a superstitious man, and there is a story of Fitzgerald in a book called "Tennyson and His Friends." He once told some people "how he had one day clearly seen from outside his sister and her children having tea in his dining room. He then saw his sister quietly withdraw from the room so as not to disturb the children. At that moment she died in Norfolk."—London Mail.

Saw Wood After the Wedding.

Many of the small towns in Europe have distinctive wedding customs which must be observed, and of these the old mountain town of Wildermann.
 In Germany, claims one that is particularly interesting and quaint. On the day before the wedding the young men interested in the couple place a sawhorse on the top of the house where the bride is lodging, usually upon a chimney, and the bridegroom has to take it down before the wedding. On the wedding day the couple find a rope barring their way after they leave the church, and they are not allowed to pass until they have sawed in two the knotty log lying upon the horse. The inhabitants of the town gather around to watch the sawing, which is supposed to show whether or not the couple will pull well together.—Popular Mechanics.

Berlin's Palaces.

Berlin owes its palaces and many of its finest buildings to Frederick William I. That monarch had a passion for building and transmitted it to others. Whenever he heard of a rich merchant settling in the capital he ordered him to build a residence in keeping with his wealth. If the merchant obeyed he was duly rewarded, and many German families owe their title of nobility to an ancestor having built a fine house.

His Thrilling Experience.

The following is an extract from a youthful autobiography:
 "I am eleven years old. When I was three I had the scarlet fever. After that I had mumps, measles and whooping cough, soon a great dandrump and bit my face and then I fell off of a ladder and broke my arm. Mother says boys have much better times now than when she was childish."—Everybody's.

He Knew Her.

"My wife is very particular," said the customer to the house decorator.
 "She says she wants the walls to match her complexion."
 "Oh, she wants 'em painted, then, and not papered," replied the wise man.—Yonkers Statesman.

His Three Laughs.

"The fool," wrote Burne-Jones in one of his letters, "has three laughs.
 He laughs at what is good, he laughs at what is bad and he laughs at what he does not understand."

What It Proved.

Miss Youngthing—Boo-hoo-hoo! Charley's given me a ring set with a mean little turquois. Her Mother—That's an emblem of constancy. Miss Young-thing—It isn't. It's proof of stinginess.

This little one piece frock has many advantages. The model is all in one, yet gives the blouse effect. The little skirt or plaited portion is stitched to the body portion, and the closing is made at the back, while the fronts of the blouse are overlapped.

Dresses such as this are made from any childlike material, the thinner

ANNOUNCEMENT

ALL successful business men will tell you that ADVERTISING PAYS. Do you want to be successful?

DO not think for a moment that you are wiser than they—ADVERTISE and be classed with successful men.

VERY skeptical people have been convinced that ADVERTISING PAYS. If you are skeptical try the cure.

EVEN pastors of churches have seen the wisdom of it. They advertise all the time. Result? Better congregations.

REASON it out for yourself and try advertising—just one thing for a while. The effect will prove that ADVERTISING PAYS.

THE public has been educated to read advertisements. Many people read newspaper and magazine advertisements before they glance at the "reading matter."

INTELLIGENT advertising is the kind that Brings Results. It appeals to people who have money to spend.

SYSTEMATIC advertising, the kind that makes the buying public look for the change, the news in your advertisement each week is the kind of advertising to make use of.

EVERY advertisement you insert in THE CHRONICLE makes your name and your business more familiar to the public. Can you afford not to advertise?

Quality of Challenge Flour Appreciated

During the past year the cost of manufacturing Spring Wheat Flours has been very much less than that of CHALLENGE FLOUR, due to the price of Spring Wheat being less than Winter wheat. This has resulted in many flours being introduced to housekeepers as being

Just as Good as Challenge Flour.

In spite of these conditions the sales of Challenge Flour have been the largest ever experienced during a like period, proving that the quality of Challenge is appreciated. We are making Challenge Flour today as we have always made it
