THREE STATES ARE LUCKY IN PATRONAGE GIVEN

Nearly a Million Dollars Worth Placed

N. Y., N. J., AND PENNA. UP TOP

President Sought to Appoint Best Men Regardless of Their Abode.—The North Gets the Most.—Interesting Tabulation by States.

Between March 4 and Nov. 1 President Wilson has distributed political patronage to the extent of $900,000, that sum representing the annual payroll value of the places he has filled. The offices taken into account in this compilation include district attorneys, United States marshalships, district judgeships, customs and revenue collectorships, postmasters, etc.

The totals show that a considerable proportion of the whole has gone to New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but there has been no serious criticism, the President not being required to divide patronage evenly between the several states. It is known, also, that he has viewed the question of patronage as a whole rather than by states, and has sought in all cases to find the best equipped men for certain places, regardless of their abode. It so happens that in the list of patronage thus far the 11 states of the old South have not fared as well as certain states of the North and West, but here again there is no disposition to charge that the President has been aiming to discriminate against the South. Here is the tabulation by states, as taken from the official records:

Alabama, $10,000; Arizona, nothing; Arkansas, $35,000; California, $47,600; Colorado, $15,000; Connecticut, $7,000; Delaware, $4,000; Florida, nothing; Georgia, $17,000; Idaho, nothing; Illinois, $17,200; Indiana, $11,000; Iowa, $22,600; Kansas, nothing; Kentucky, $26,600; Louisiana, $12,000; Maine, $10,000; Maryland, $11,000; Massachusetts, $5,000; Michigan, $8,000; Minnesota, nothing; Mississippi, $16,000; Missouri, $66,825; Montana, $15,800; Nebraska, $26,000; Nevada, $7,000; New Hampshire, $7,000; New Jersey, $57,500; New Mexico, $5,000; New York, $59,100; North Carolina, $28,000; North Dakota, $8,000; Ohio, $14,000; Oklahoma, $19,000; Oregon, $4,000; Pennsylvania, $57,000; Rhode Island, nothing; South Carolina, $28,500; South Dakota, nothing; Tennessee, $18,500; Texas, $27,000; Utah, nothing; Vermont, nothing; Virginia, $45,500; Washington, $4,000; West Virginia, $10,000; Wisconsin, $29,600; Wyoming, $8,000; District of Columbia, $88,700.

TO ASK LEGISLATURE FOR $6,000,000 FOR ROADS

Governor and Chairman Weller of State Roads Commission Have Same Idea About Allotment.

The State Roads Commission, according to Chairman Weller of that body, will ask the next Legislature for $6,000,000 with which to complete the highways system mapped out by this commission.

As originally laid out the State roads system embraces about 1,150 miles. Already between 450 and 500 miles have been completed, while contracts have been let for between 100 and 125 additional miles to be completed next year.

Heretofore the amounts allotted were based on the mileage of county roads in each particular county. The Governor and Mr. Weller think the next allotments should be based on the mileage of State roads in each county. Otherwise they say that some counties with but a small percentage of State roads will get large appropriations while other counties with a large percentage of such roads will get very little, thereby making it very difficult to connect up the various links.

Medium That Resists Light.

That the space between earth and the stars is occupied with some medium that resists the rays of light is the belief, among others, of the astronomers Birkeland and Sec, who say that the whole sky is suffused with nebulous material. Dr. Birkeland thinks the matter scattered through the interstellar spaces exceeds in mass the aggregate of the suns and planets. An article in Popular Astronomy for December includes Dr. Turner's estimate that the resisting medium extinguishes about half the light in 4,000 billions of miles.

A new record of four hours between Washington and New York was made by the special train bearing photographs of the Wilson Wedding.

LONDON'S GREAT WORK FOR RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

Sir Rufus Isaacs, the New Lord Chief Justice, Pays a High Tribute to British People on Behalf of His Race.

A tribute to the leadership which the City of London has taken in the cause of Religious Liberty was delivered by the new Lord Chief Justice, Sir Rufus Isaacs, in responding for 'His Majesty's Judges' at the Lord Mayor's banquet on Nov. 10. Sir Rufus said in part:

'Mr. Sheriff Painter has been good enough to propose the toast of 'His Majesty's Judges,' to which, for the first time, I have the honor and privilege of responding. You will, I am sure, forgive me if, before I say a word on behalf of my brother Judges, I give utterance to two thoughts which are foremost in my mind at this moment, when I stand here, in this historic hall of the ancient City and address you in response to the toast so felicitously proposed.

'The first, is that I count it indeed fortunate, and may I say appropriate, that my first public utterance outside the courts of justice should be made here in the City, bound as I am to the City by memories of my early youth, my early association and training; and remembering, as I do, that much of what has stood me in good stead in my life in later years was learned in the City and among business men.

'The second is, you may perhaps think, a little more irrelevant, but I am in my infancy as a Judge, and, therefore, you must forgive me if I stray a little into irrelevancy. I cannot address you here, to-night, in the City, without recalling that I should not be here, occupying this position at this moment, if it were not for the great struggles of the City—now so many years ago—in the cause of religious liberty.

'I should be ungrateful, indeed, if I allowed this opportunity to pass without reminding you that, first of all, it was the City that insisted upon members of my community being members of your corporation. And it was the City that led the struggle for representation, again, by members of my community in the House of Commons.

'If I have strayed for a moment into those paths which, perhaps, are not peculiarly appropriate to the toast for which I am responding, it is because I should think that I were false to everything that is within me if I did not give utterance to these sentiments, remembering as I do that memories so quickly fade, and that, while a whole nation now agrees that there should be the fullest religious liberty and toleration, that was not the case when the City fought the battle which placed me here.'

Believes Eggs Are Harmful.

A physician of fifty years' practice, Dr. Simes, at present living in the Hotel Empire, New York, known the country over as an authority on human physiognomy, his work on that subject being in the New York Public Library, said quite recently: "Don't eat eggs; eggs contain lime; lime is dead matter. Eat food containing live matter."

He says that he gave up eating eggs many years ago, as he found that they were conducive to paralysis, particularly of the arms. Others' experience confirms this. Last spring I habitually ate eggs for noonday luncheon. I found that in the afternoon, when I had worked a couple hours, my left arm commenced to get numb, and the hand partially paralyzed. Since I have given up eating eggs, however, I have never suffered in the slightest degree from such symptoms. I know of nothing else that could have brought about the change.

Murray, of Maryland. The bishop-elect will be presented by Bishop G. W. Peterkin, of West Virginia and Bishop R. A. Gibson of Virginia. Right Rev. B. D. Tucker, D. ## Largest Warship in the World.

The British super dreadnought, Warpite, launched last week, is the largest warship in the world. She is equipped with a full battery of 15-inch guns. Her equipment also includes guns for fighting off attacks of aeroplanes, an evidence that a great advance in aerial warfare is anticipated by the admiralty.

HORSES SUITABLE FOR ARMY ALARMINGLY SCARCE

Quartermasters Say that the War Department Would Have Great Difficulty in Getting Them in Case of Emergency.

The Army quartermasters who have to do with the purchasing of horses for the military establishment say that there is a really alarming scarcity of animals. Of course, the War Department is more or less hampered by the fact that Congress has not appropriated sufficient money to enable the quartermaster's department to acquire horses in sufficient number to supply all the mounted commands. It is hoped that during the coming fiscal year it will be possible to make good the shortage in horses caused by the distribution of troops on the border and elsewhere and by the increase of war strength of troops serving abroad. The prices paid for horses is about the same as it has been; indeed, the contracts most recently awarded are at prices less than they have been for two years. With sufficient funds, the Army could easily obtain enough horses to supply the commands at peace strength. If there were an emergency requiring a large number of horses, the War Department would have great difficulty in getting them even with the reasonable departures from the official specifications. This is due, in part, to the falling off in the product of those who are raising horses. The automobile has finally had its influence on animals, despite the assertion to the contrary, and this is observable to those who have the task of buying horses in quantity. The motor trucks seriously affect the market for draft animals, but that has to do mostly with the mule, so far as the Army is concerned. The mule will always be a necessity, despite the improvements which have been made in the motor trucks. The animals must be used with the troops in the field. The trucks will be useful for supplying the column in the rear.

To Make System More Elastic. Before the present parcel post becomes a medium of direct communication between the producer and the consumer, says Postmaster Campbell, of Chicago, the following conditions must be brought about: Increase in weight allowed by the government. Greater dispatch in handling perishable goods. Special facilities at postoffices for loading and unloading farm products. Special facilities, such as refrigerating, for protecting perishable goods. Increased rates if special delivery of perishable goods is demanded. Co-operation among the farmers in the establishment of shipping facilities. Co-operation among the farmers in establishing a demand for the products in the homes, insuring a permanent market. Campaign of education for the farmers in the matter of expert packing.

A great petition to this effect, bearing 167,849 names of citizens of Paris and the environs, was presented to the Municipal Council. As the hospitals are about to be reorganized, the petition asks that places be reserved for the sisters, and says: "The petitioners have no political design; our sole desire is to permit sick persons who ask to be attended by the sisters to have their wish. We do not wish to interfere with the rights of the present staff of the organization, but we think that patients have also the right to express their wishes, and that their rights are equal to those of the staff."

San Francisco, Cal., has hit upon a method of removing the chief objection to asphalt pavement. Commenting on this new discovery, Engineering News says: "The method of rendering the pavement less slippery is by heating the surface of the asphalt and then applying a layer of coarse sand, which is rolled into the pavement. This sand affords a sufficiently rough surface to enable horses to keep their footing and automobiles to pursue a straight course in wet weather. Experiments with this paving on Fell Street, between Baker and Scott, and on Scott Street, between Fell and Walker, have proved so satisfactory that the city officials have decided to extend its use to other parts of the city."

MARYLAND IN CONGRESS

STATE HAS MANY BILLS

Calendar For Present Session Marked With Them

FREDERICK WAR CLAIM TO BE UP

Measures Which Include Armor Plate Plant, Postoffice Improvements For Baltimore, Fort McHenry Memorial and Forest Reserve.

Maryland will have a large share in the results of the present session of Congress which began on Monday, if even half of the measures directly affecting Baltimore and State interests go through. Already the calendar of the House and Senate is marked with Maryland bills, while the members of the delegation have been laying the foundation for active work in the near future.

Perhaps the most important legislative projects in which Marylanders are directly concerned are those for a great national forest reserve and park between Washington and Baltimore, the armor-plate plant, the restoration of the old National Turnpike and the several appropriation measures.

Senator John Walter Smith has before the Senate now his forest reserve bill. He did not seek to press it at the extra session of Congress, knowing the futility of efforts of that sort under the rules. The Baltimore meeting, however, has revived interest in the subject and Senator Smith announces that he will get behind the proposition forcibly.

The armor-plate legislation is yet to be framed, but it will come to the front as soon as the Naval Appropriation bill is up for consideration in the House. The National Turnpike idea is to be considered by the newly formed Committee on roads when general highway legislation is proposed.

Among the bills now before Congress or soon to be are the following: By Representative Lintchum: Appropriating $650,000 to repair, remodel and improve generally the Baltimore postoffice building.

To protect the food fish of the Chesapeake Bay and Potomac river against guano fishermen.

An Appropriation of $500,000 for the erection of a Francis Scott Key monument, a memorial hall and a flag staff at Fort McHenry.

To place the supervision and control of Fort McHenry in charge of the city of Baltimore.

CLEVELAND SCHOOL CHILDREN WRITE TO DAVID J. LEWIS

They Admire His Character, are Very Much Interested in His Career and Tell Him They Will Emulate His Example.

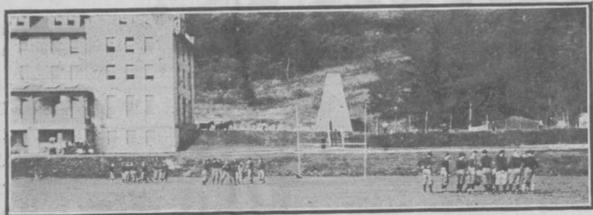

Representative David J. Lewis is happier these days than at any time since he became a member of Congress. He is happier now than on the day when Congress put the finishing touches on the enactment of the parcel post law, an accomplishment which made the Maryland Congressman a real national figure. For Lewis, more than any other man in Congress was the brains and inspiration behind the actual putting into operation of the parcel post.

Thirty Cleveland school-children are responsible for what Representative Lewis explains as his new-found happiness. These children, pupils at the Waring School, learned of Representative Lewis through Margaret Sheen, assistant principal. She told them something of his early history, of how at nine years of age he was working in a coal mine, but kept on fighting until he had educated himself, started on the practice of law and finally reached a commanding position in the halls of Congress.

The story told by Miss Sheen impressed the children. Thirty of the children, 17 boys and 13 girls, have written personal letters to Representative Lewis telling how much they enjoyed hearing of his career and how they propose to emulate his example. Most of the life of David John Lewis has been filled with rough experiences. He has had enough hardships to squeeze most of the sentiment out of his being. Yet when he received those letters from the Cleveland school-children he could not keep back the tears.

Ninety-two thousand members have joined the National Union of Railwaymen, which was founded last March. This brings the total number of members up to 242,000.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

The programme of the Debate on Monday next will be given a pleasant diversity in the form of a recitation or two and several musical numbers.

An interesting game of handball between the Senior and Junior ends of the "grads" table was staged on Monday of last week.

The padded togs of the gridiron have been laid away and the basketball attire has come into its own. During the next few months the limelight will be focused on the quintet.

With the Fordham game in New York City, Mount Saint Mary's 1913 football season passed into history. All in all the season was a most successful and satisfactory one from every standpoint.

Not a few anti-vacationists had "ducks" at Thanksgiving, for it takes two to enjoy a box of dainties from home. In this connection, it may be stated, that there are many students who feel they want to personally thank Hon. David J. Lewis for the Parcel Post.

It is understood that quite a number of youthful poets have embraced the golden opportunity to become famous all at once by jotting down a few lines of Christmas verse for the Mountaineer. Just who the successful boys will be time alone will divulge as the Mountaineer will not make its appearance until about December 15.

The annual Senior-Junior Debate will be staged in the Auditorium on Monday evening, December 8, at 8 o'clock. The teams have been carefully picked and under such captains as Hogan and Tierney, a battle royal is looked for. The subject is one of national importance and the speakers have left no stones unturned in gathering material for their arguments which they are now diligently whipping into shape for presentation.

The Mountain men who won their "M" in football this year will meet to elect a captain for next year. The eligible candidates are Leo McManus who piloted the team this season, and John Dowdle, the star tackle. The coveted letter was awarded by the Athletic Association to the following players: Captain Leo McManus, Rice, Dwyer, Dowdle, Kelly, Hannon, Sutton, Sheridan, Carroll, Mahoney, Long, Cogan, Mulhearn, J. McManus and Haltigan.

Daily basketball practice has been held the past week. Thirty-five candidates are out for places. Capt. Costello, Ditchey, Leary, Phillips and May, letter men, reported, together with Boyle, Long, McManus and Sutton of last year's scrubs. Lally is a new man who looks promising. The squad is working hard in preparation for the opening game with Mt. St. Joseph's on December 11. The remainder of the schedule is incomplete but includes a three day trip to New York City at the beginning of the Christmas vacation, the Mountaineers playing Fordham, Seton Hall and Mahattan. Other teams on the schedule are St. John College of Annapolis, Bucknell, Susquehanna, Albright, Western Maryland, Washington College and Gettysburg.

Wednesday. Miss Margaret Wilson, the President's eldest daughter, became chairman of the Washington "Spugs" at a mass-meeting of more than 1,000 women, at which a society for the prevention of useless giving was organized. Twenty-eight men lost their lives in the Arcadia Hotel, a low priced lodging-house in Boston, which took fire. A judgment for nearly $300,000 against the Kansas City Southern Railroad was returned by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. The Executive Council of Massachusetts voted a pardon for Arthur W. Shaw, serving prison sentence for the larceny of $16,000 from the A. W. Shaw and the Cumberland Shoe Companies, of which he was treasurer. Jose Santos Zelaya, the former Nicaraguan President, who has been under arrest in New York at the instance of his own government was released from custody upon the withdrawal of Nicaragua's application for his extradition on the charge of murder.

The Christmas vacation will begin with the morning of Thursday, December 18.

Mount St. Mary's failure to beat Fordham in the Thanksgiving Day game at New York was rather disappointing to the followers of the Blue and White. The locals had met and defeated much heavier teams and a victory was expected after the poor showing of their opponents all season. However, the game proved nip and tuck all the way through, and finished without either side scoring. Both elevens were evenly matched as to ability and gameness, although the Mountaineers had the advantage in weight. Stiff defense on both sides prevented any chance of a score.

Mount Saint Mary's won the toss, and L. McManus kicked off. McDonough caught the pigskin at the 10-yard mark and dodged back thirty yards before he was downed. On the next play Robbin penetrated the Blue defense and carried the ball forty yards. A series of line plunges gave Fordham first down on the 12 yard line. After three chances against the line had failed, Quarter back O'Connell called "Bud" Wymard back for a kick from placement. Keenan blocked the attempt and returned the ball to the 35-yard mark.

Fordham gained the ball again on downs, only to lose it when Kelly fell on a fumble. Mount Saint Mary's held the ball for the rest of the quarter and advanced to midfield by the aggressive line charging of Mahoney. Carroll proved the best ground gainer for Mt. St. Mary's in the second period making two 30-yard runs. After the first few minutes the ball see-sawed back and forth, gradually coming nearer the Fordham goal posts. In the last minute, with the call in Fordham's possession, Wymard made his second attempt from placement on the 30-yard mark. The goal failed only a margin of less than a yard.

Mount Saint Mary's kicked off again at the beginning of the second half, and Sutton recovered the ball on the 20-yard mark, when Robbin fumbled. On the second down Conklin intercepted Mahoney's attempt at a forward pass. Three successive penalties for holding cost the Marylanders 45 yards.

Shortly after the opening of the last period the visitors made an attempt from placement. Dowdle dropped back to the 30-yard mark. He booted too low, however, and Robbin brought the ball back to midfield. The line-up and summary:

Referee—Mr. H. Fisher, Columbia. Umpire—Mr. W. R. Crowley, Bowdoin. Linesman—Mr. J. McCarthy, Manhattan. Time of periods—10 minutes each. Substitutions—For Fordham: Cotter for Dunn, McAirney for McDonough. For Mt. St. Mary's: Sheridan for Hannon, Long for Sheridan, Cogan for J. Rice, Mulhearn for Dwyer, Dwyer for McManus.

Noted Woman to Play in Football Game.

Mrs. Carrie Burckhardt, the only woman football coach in the world, has decided to enter the strenuous game as a player. For weeks and weeks Mrs. Burckhardt has been coaching the Price Hill football team at Cincinnati. She is a graduate of Vassar College, is a fine example of the physically perfect athletic girl, and when she came on to Cincinnati to make her home she brought with her ideas of how football is played in the East and some of the crack plays. When the team took the field for their first game Mrs. Burckhardt was on the side lines. Her presence lent encouragement and the team has beaten everything that comes its way. Just one position is weak, the coaches declare. That is the quarter-back. After a conference with her manager, she decided she would take a chance at the position of quarter-back, and in a recent game with West Covington she was seen in the thickest of the fray instead of on the side lines. The Baptists are considering the founding of a university at Washington.

THE WEEK AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Chronicle of Happenings at Frederick City and in the Courts.

After years of constant participation in warfare, during which time he served in the Boer War, under the Boer flag, numerous battles in the Philippines and Cuba, under the American flag, and witnessing struggles in Mexico, Frank D. Groshon, of San Antonio, Texas, has arrived in this city to claim $5,000 and the residue of the estate bequeathed to him by his aunt, the late Miss Annie V. Groshon, who died here a few days ago, and to live in Frederick. It is thought he will inherit nearly $12,000.

Sheriff John D. Conard, who went into office on Monday, was called out of bed to admit his first prisoner, Geo. Jackson, colored. The prisoner was charged with theft and was arrested by officer Hoffman.

The Frederick booth at the Chicago Land Show is creating a strong impression upon the aggressive farmers of the West. The western farmers had the impression that only good corn was raised in the corn belt, in which they live. The corn of a Frederick county man took first place and this caused the crowds that swarmed the building to take notice of this exhibit. A Chicago man has written asking for names of farmers to whom he can apply as to farm and other labor conditions here. The show has been a great success.

The first contribution to the Community Christmas Tree fund has been made by the Leaders' Adult Bible Class of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Two hundred dollars are needed to make the affair a reality. It is thought about 1,200 will be made happy by this Christmas celebration.

Mr. William Roderick Dorsey, a former Frederick countian, has been promoted by President Wilson from the consulate at Jerez de la Frontera, Spain, to Tripoli. Mr. Dorsey spent several days here as the guest of his cousins, Miss M. Lou and Dr. Thos. B. Johnson.

An encouraging meeting of Barbara Fritchie Memorial Association was held on Thursday evening. One thousand folders have been sent to the men in charge of the Frederick county booth at Chicago, which will be distributed at the show.

The December term of court opened on Monday afternoon. The docket of civic and criminal cases was read and a number of interesting cases are likely to be tried during this session. Judge Worthington remarked that he was in favor of the passage of a rule that would move all the old cases to the "stet" docket, where they would lie, until a lull in the regular business of the court would permit their consideration.

The Junior steam fire engine, which has been in a factory in Hoboken, N. J., where it is being equipped with a tractor, will arrive in this city on Friday morning.

Music lovers of Frederick were given a rare treat last evening when Mr. Henry F. Anderson, organist, and Dr. Ernst Derendinger, violinist, gave a recital at Hood College auditorium. Mr. Anderson is a member of the Associate American Guild of Organists and for a number of years took private study in pianoforte with Rafael Joseffy. Dr. Derendinger, of the Hood College Faculty, has studied music in Switzerland, Wurzburg and Bavaria.

For Safety of Panama Canal.

In order to prevent earth slides which have been doing much damage to the Panama Canal an extensive hydraulic sluicing system is at work on the north side of the hill sending material that might cause possible future slides down into the Rio Grande Valley, away from the Canal prism. This work is making great headway, and will be the ultimate salvation of the canal so far as the menace of slides in Culebra Cut are concerned. The power comes from Miraflores power station, and is used through 350 horse power induction motors operating hydraulic monitors, with a pressure of 150 pounds to the square inch. Three 7,500 gallon pumping units are being installed to expedite the work. A flume carries all the spoil rapidly into the Rio Grande Valley, which is about 250 feet above the sea level, while the edge of the slide is 565 feet above the sea. It is expected that the sluicing system will move 1,500,000 cubic yards of the hill into the valley.

Heavy Railroad Death Told.

Two thousand five hundred and thirty-five killed and 49,911 injured was the railroads' toll for the quarter ended June 30, 1911, according to an Interstate Commerce Commission bulletin. This was an increase of 140 killed and 8,233 injured over the corresponding period of last year. Collisions and derailments numbered 3,596, or 124 more than in the same period last year.

Liquid Fuel for Swedish Ironclad.

The Sverige, the Swedish ironclad of 7,100 tons displacement now being built at Stockholm, will be fitted to burn liquid fuel as well as coal, and the armor for this vessel is to be made at Pittsburgh by the Carnegie Steel Company.

Huerta Remains Defiant.

It seems that the only effect of President Wilson's message on Provisional President Huerta was to bring from the dictator the declaration that he intended to fight on, even if it took years. An outline of the Wilson message to Congress was prominently displayed by all the Spanish morning papers. All comment was of an adverse nature and the papers openly accused Wilson of bad faith.

The Federal Army has been so pressed for recruits that servant girls have been forced to enter the ranks of the soldiers. Another trick was to arrange a moving picture show for men only, frame up a disturbance and then raid the place by police. The majority of the men were arrested, and the army gained 69 new soldiers.

A bill providing the expenditure of from $15 to $60 a mile on rural post roads by the Federal Government, in conjunction with State authorities, was introduced in the Senate by Senator Smith of Georgia. The bill provides that $20,000,000 a year may be expended.

Editor Weekly Chronicle:

As that joyous season of the year, Christmas, is rapidly approaching I would offer a suggestion through the columns of your esteemed publication, that all the people of Emmitsburg might take part in.

It is but a meager suggestion, however it is not the great things that attract our attention so much as does the small and trivial things in life. This suggestion is that every one leave their blinds up during the Christmas holidays, especially Christmas eve. Now this might seem simple, but the impression of such a thing made upon the one walking along the street is undoubtedly great. It causes our Christmas joy to penetrate the very walls of our homes and creates a similar spirit within the hearts of those passing by.

In other words we share our happiness with our friends and this is exactly what makes us glad, the idea of giving to others. Even though the streets be lighted, such a light does not carry with it the animated joy and spirit that comes from the true home.

Would that we might get that true spirit of loving kindness that was meant when it was spoken of old, concerning the first Christmas, "Peace on earth, good will toward men." Let this Christmas be bright and glad for all and let each one try to make it so for the other, and by doing this simple thing of letting the light out upon those who pass our homes, it can only be such.

First Issue of Catholic Review.

The first issue of the Catholic Review published in Baltimore made it appearance last week. There were articles on the liturgy of the Catholic Church by Rev. Carroll C. Smyth; on the Bible by Rev. Dr. William A. Fletcher, of the Cathedral; on St. Mary's Seminary and on other events and institutions of especial interest to all Catholics.

There is a whole page devoted to Washington news, in which were some interesting sketches of the educational and church work that is being done in the largest city of the diocese. The other cities and towns of the diocese are not forgotten. There is a children's corner, a short-story page and a department for Catholic fraternal societies.

An interesting letter from Rome dealing with religious-political situation in that city is in real journalistic style. The name of the author is not given. There are some who believe they see in it the pen of a young writer who lives within the walls of the American College at the Eternal City and for whom much has been predicted.

The editorials are strong, charitable and untainted by radicalism. They convey thoughts essentially Catholic without wounding those who differ in opinion. The typographical appearance is pleasing.

President's Message Warmly Received.

President Wilson's address upon the opening of the Sixty-third Congress, in which he outlined his programme of legislation, is declared to be the shortest, and at the same time, tersest and most comprehensive utterance of its kind on record. When he concluded his address in which he touched on an even dozen policies for the near future, the applause was little short of tumultuous. Without committing himself to any other trust policy than the preserving and clarifying of the Sherman Act, the President said he would treat that subject in a separate address. In regard to the Mexican situation, the President called Huerta an usurper and predicted his early collapse.

The proceeds of the lecture tour of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst amounted to $20,000.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

CO-OPERATION WITH THE "BOOK FARMER."

Fortunately not all the tillers of the soil are "dead set" against following the advice of "book farmers."

To those who are not yet converted, as well as to those who are making use of the instruction offered, gratis, by the Agricultural Department, the following from that excellent weekly, The Adams County Independent, should be of interest:

The average corn production in this country is about 25 bushels to the acre. In a good year it may rise to 30 or thereabouts.

"made" three bales from 12 acres, he had applied intensive culture to it. He got half a bale an acre in 1908, three-fourths of a bale an acre in 1909, and he expects ultimately to get two bales from an acre.

This big, generous and interested government stands ready to help any and every farmer in the country; advice of its experts may be had for the asking, and even a post card request to the Agricultural Department will bring to the farmer's door valuable literature on all subjects pertaining to farming.

Make the farm pay larger dividends, Mr. Landowner. Make the government your partner and you can do it.

THE SUN IN ERROR.

THE Baltimore Sun in its article referring to Lord Chancellor Haldane's endorsement of the Monroe Doctrine, makes an illusion which would create the impression that the British Government had never given a hearty support to the measure.

When at the Congress of Verona, the monarchists agitated the question of bringing back the Spanish colonists in subjection to Spain, the fact, as part of the proceedings of that congress was communicated by the British Minister of Foreign Affairs, Castlereagh, to the American Minister, Dr. Rush, in 1823, and called the attention of the American Envoy to the importance of some public protest on the part of the United States Government; this was done with such insistence that President Monroe issued the message he sent to Congress in which he formulated the principle that crystallized into the name of the Monroe Doctrine.

The entire matter may be found in Dr. Rush's Memoranda, in which he gives the particulars of his interview with the British Minister for Foreign Affairs. The American Envoy gives the key for the action of England when he says Lord Castlereagh declared that "the trade of the colonies ought to be free," and he made it known that Great Britain would do no more than interpose friendly offices, using no compulsion should they fail.

SAYS a Washington dispatch: "The free distribution of seeds by the government will be discontinued if Congress adopts a recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture."

This will be welcome news to those who have experimented with this form of government largess. Many a fellow has sown the contents of an envelope marked "Lawn Grass," and when the seeds "came up," has found his front garden looking like a series of soup bunches.

Under this system many a watermelon has developed into a sunflower, and many a seed labeled "Sweet Pea" has produced broom corn or petunias. This being the case, it is high time to cut out this expensive and useless practice. It is about as sensible as filling the mails with tons of speeches containing Congressman Cornstossle's views on—well anything that no one is interested in.

WITHOUT any explanation Russia has totally ignored the petition, signed by some of the foremost churchmen in America, urging the Czar to withdraw the "ritual murder" charge against Mendel Beiliss.

What she merited by her conduct all through the Beiliss persecution—the condemnation of every civilized country—she has already received.

If you've got any shopping to do, Don't wait until every one's through,

And then get red-hot Because good things are not Just lying 'round waiting on you. Be sensible; shop early; begin to-day, and at the last moment you'll not be panic-stricken.

HOW TO ATTAIN OLD AGE.

These comments on how to attain old age are made by a writer in The Journal of the American Medical Association: "The chances of attaining old age are much greater if we live much of our life in fresh country air."

"The city child is subject to a number of disturbing conditions other than mere absence of creature comforts, which undermine the constitution by throwing too heavy a burden on the sense organs, through which exhaustion of the central nervous system follows; among these conditions are noises, a perpetual round of hurry, and unending sequences of incidents exhausting the attention to which are super-added the physical discomforts of vitiated air and effluvia from human beings and waste organic products, besides offensive gases and infection-laden dust."

"To attain old age we have to relieve ourselves from worry, strains, and anxieties, withdraw periodically from the whirl of effortful existence, modify our diet, omit the use of stimulants and narcotics, and spend reasonably long periods of time under pleasant conditions in practical retirement. Above all, amusement should be simplified and accepted rather than sought after. Only vegetable and semi-animal foods should be eaten."

RAINCOATS AT TEN CENTS.

A man in Illinois has invented a process to produce and market a raincoat that can be retailed from 10 cents up. These coats are made in the regulation slip on style, from an integral piece of waterproof paper.

The coats can be made of oiled paper, or paraffin, vellum parchment paper, which gives the appearance of silkiness at a short distance. The original idea was for the coats to be worn only once, but, after a few trials, it was proven that they could be used successfully two or three times.

DISCOVERS NEW VIOLET.

Two new plants, entirely unknown to the botanical world, have been discovered on Battlement mesa, near Collbran, by means of the research work carried on by the forestry service. Report on the new discoveries have been made by John W. Lowell, Jr., supervisor of the forests.

The second new plant found was a variety of lupine, which furnishes good forage for stock. This plant has not been named. Both plants were found at an altitude of 9500 feet near Leon creek.

RINGS IN HISTORY.

Signet rings are mentioned in the Bible, and we find the ring in those days, to have been a sign of honor as it is with us. During the war a lover who wished to specially honor his bride sent the gold money to a goldsmith with which to fashion the wedding ring.

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

Needless Noises.

Ours is classed as a high pressure age, when the pace of both business and social life is so rapid that it is more than worth while to eliminate any other useless elements which tend to shorten life or make it worth living.

Regulation of Cold Storage.

The Legislature of Maryland, at its coming session, should pass a law limiting the period for which cold storage of eggs, meat, butter, poultry, or any other food stuff, shall be allowable, and requiring that such articles, when offered for sale, shall be labeled as to their character.

A Good Idea.

The New York State Prison Association is conducting a campaign to abolish the notorious Sing Sing prison and substitute for it a model prison farm, where convicts may be employed out of doors.

Gamblers in Food.

Nearly one hundred United States District Attorneys have been instructed by Attorney-General McReynolds to investigate the report upon the operations of the "alleged cold-storage combine."

The cold-storage combine is something more than an allegation. It is the "sure-thing" bet that speculators make against the vital needs of the people.

Forestalling or engrossing, as the operations of the cold-storage people would have been described, several who held back the people's food for gain were criminals and were punished as such.

The cold-storage inventions are not public blessings. They are public afflictions. They preserve food but they increase prices. When food is abundant and should be cheap, they supply the demand sparingly at exorbitant rates.

Yet there is no monopolistic enterprise in this trust-ridden land more easy of regulation than storage and all the processes of storage. There is not a State or a county that cannot defeat the whole conspiracy. Laws as old as civilization run against it.

Why There is Less Drift from the Farm.

Possibly one of the most important reasons is the closer connection between the cities and the country districts now, due to better roads and the telephone. This has, in a great measure, done away with the isolation of the past, and has lessened one of the greatest difficulties of rural life.

The farm boys of to-day will be the farmers of the future who will continue the introduction of new ideas into farm management. They are certain to be more progressive than their fathers have been, and as a natural result of this crop production will be increased.

As another proof that the new tariff is going to help the poor man we note the price of radium has been reduced.

The peanut trust made 200 per cent. profit last year.

Won Their Pardons.

From the time of the story of Damon and Pythias various reasons for temporary release from jail have been given. It is related that in the Napoleonic era a soldier confined in a military prison for a minor offense against the service during a brief time of peace was released in order that he might be present at the christening of his infant son, born during his imprisonment.

Beecher Found Them.

Henry Ward Beecher used to visit his old friends once a year for many years, but in the latter part of his life he was not able to do this. In his very last year, however, he was able to spend a day in Indianapolis and went round the place. That evening he was received by the ministers, and the chairman in welcoming him said:

Speed of Animals.

According to the naturalists, no animal is known to have exceeded the speed attained by the famous race horse Sysonby. Instantaneous photographs show the full length of one complete stride of about twenty-six feet. In the stride of the fastest racers the hind quarters and limbs are raised considerably higher than the shoulders.

Perpetual Silence.

A curious mourning custom obtains among central Australians, who, although representing perhaps the lowest and most degraded type of human beings, have managed to evolve a most complex system of rites and ceremonies which governs almost every action of their lives.

Fancy Mice.

That the rearing of fancy mice can be made not merely an interesting hobby, but also a source of substantial profit, is illustrated by the experience of a Scarborough (England) man, hundreds of whose tiny pets find their way annually into the hands of the British admiralty.

Byron's Habits.

While Byron was in Ravenna, Italy he adopted strange habits. It was his custom to rise at 2 in the afternoon, breakfast and ride and dine at 3. Then he would sit and talk until 5 or 6 in the morning, or, if no company were there, he would write a bit of "Don Juan."

In Training.

"Have you been to sea in the last six or eight years?" "Not exactly," replied the mariner, "but I'm not out of practice. Every evening I go to the club and spend hours in a rocking chair whose motion has given many men seasickness."

Eugenics.

The self-made man was speaking. He said: "My father was a raiser of hogs. There was a large family of us." And then his voice was drowned by the applause.

We can do what we ought to do, and when we say we cannot, why, we cannot.

Late at the Play.

We know from Pepsys and from passages in the plays of contemporary dramatists that the manners of theater audiences in the restoration epoch were not nice, but there is no reason to believe that even the fops habitually arrived at the theater late. Mr. Sparkish, Mr. Novel and their fellows would talk loudly while the play was going on to show the superiority of their wit to the poet's, but they likely were on hand early to lose none of the fun.

Cruikshank at Eighty.

"Among the many people whose acquaintance I made in Richardson's rooms was old George Cruikshank. I happened incidentally to remark that I wasn't very well, when Cruikshank in his genial manner exclaimed: 'What? Not well? A powerful young fellow like you ought to be ashamed of yourself to talk of being unwell! Here, let me see you do this!'"

Punished the Selfish One.

The Bale-Geneva express, says the London Standard Geneva correspondent, was overcrowded the other day and several travelers had to stand in the corridors of the second class coaches.

The Charm She Wore.

Many are the charms adopted by society women with a grain of superstition in their makeup, and one of the most unique is that worn by a young matron who spends much of her time at Atlantic City.

Beautiful India.

India bears the same relation to the orient that Italy does to Europe. It is the home of palaces, temples and monuments; it is the home of beautiful art work in many materials. Most of its cities have a splendid historical past that is seen in richly ornamented temples and shrines, in the tombs of its illustrious dead and in palaces that surpass in beauty of decoration anything which Europe can boast.

Setting Him Right.

They were enjoying a motor ride and had just entered a country road. "May I kiss your hand?" he asked, a little confusedly. She removed her veil. "No," she replied. "I have my gloves on" — Lippincott's Magazine.

Teaching Him.

Briggs—Did your wife scold you when you went home so late last night? Griggs—You don't know what it is to have a wife who was once a school teacher. Why, she made me write a hundred times on a slate, "I must be home by 10 o'clock" — Exchange.

Soothing.

"Then you refuse to eat my first biscuit?" "I don't refuse to eat it, my dear. I don't want to eat it. I wish to have your monogram engraved on it and then hang it upon my watch chain." — Louisville Courier-Journal.

Defining It.

Instructor (at night school)—Give a sentence with the word "metaphysical" in it. Sluggsy Halted Puppl—On his way home Mr. Jones metaphysical. — Chicago Tribune.

Confidence imparts a wonderful illumination to its possessor. — John Milton

Here is a costume that would be handsome developed in any of the seasonable suitings. Wool velours suggests itself almost immediately because it is so handsome, but there are a great many materials of lighter weight, and silks are to have an immense vogue for suits.

This costume shows a wonderfully smart coat that suggests the empire effect and a little waistcoat. The skirt is made in two pieces with a little drapery at each side and quite

House of Quality.

People who in buying Groceries, make price and cheapness the standard instead of quality, will sooner or later, come to a realizing sense of the falseness of their economy. We stand for quality, first, last and all the time; and while doing so, we know that we can give you, intrinsically, better value for your money than the man who eternally talks cheapness. This is a House of Quality at moderate prices.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Of the cars derailed, one was an automobile car and another a piano car. Fortunately neither was much damaged and it is not supposed that the automobiles and pianos were damaged to a serious extent. Some of the cars were so badly destroyed that they have been burned up.

MR. BENNET J. TYSON.

Uncle Bennet is dead!

Such was the startling announcement sprung upon the people of Emmitsburg early Saturday morning. One of the oldest "stalwart oaks" gone! A man of remarkable physique, mind and character. Born here in 1832 and living all those years in one place, it would seem superfluous to comment on the life or habits of this "Grand Old Man."

Every man, woman and child knew him as Uncle Bennet. One-third of the residents were related to him by the ties of kindred. His parents were among the first settlers—the Hughes—who did so much for their Church in giving ground and laboring unceasingly for the cause of religion and the uplift of the future town. In those days great struggling was required, but with the help of God their energy and vitality were equal to the task. On the maternal side, Uncle Bennet was a direct descendant of Polly Buchanan, a near relative of the late President Buchanan. In 17— she married Joseph Hughes, a sturdy Irish lad fresh from the soil and one of Emmitsburg's first merchants. Later on she adopted his faith.

Under the skilled training of Shorb & Storm Uncle Bennet became a first-class carpenter and architect. Some of the finest buildings at St. Joseph's are monuments to his prowess. Frequently did the good sisters allude to him as "one of Nature's noblemen." Honesty, integrity and charity were his chief characteristics.

In July, 1856, he married Margaret Elder, who passed to an early grave in 1862, leaving three children, the youngest dying in 1884. The eldest daughter, Mrs. Uzzell, lives in Baltimore. Joseph, the only son, and with whom Uncle Bennet died whilst visiting him in Washington, has lived in that city for the past 12 years, following the avocation of his father. Twelve grandchildren survive.

Uncle Bennet was buried at solemn high Mass from St. Joseph's church, Father Hayden being celebrant, Father Eckels deacon and Father McNelis, his beloved Confessor, was sub-deacon. The sermon preached by Father Hayden was most practical and effective.

Let me conclude in the words which Archbishop Elder loved to quote: "An honest man is the noblest work of God," and Uncle Bennet and his ancestors were pre-eminently the honest men of Emmitsburg.

May he rest in peace.

The bride and groom left for a short wedding trip. They will reside in Taneytown, where the groom is engaged in business.

Owing in part to conditions of weather, etc., which we could not control we found it good business to make a quick adjustment of stock in OUR LADIES' READY-TO-WEAR DEPARTMENT.

There is only one honest way to do a thing like that, which is PRICE REDUCTION. We have therefore repriced the entire balance of stock of about seventy-five suits and two hundred or more coats—Women's, Misses' and Children's—at much under regular value prices. This sale has been going on for the past ten days with splendid success but stock is still very complete as to assortment of styles, qualities and sizes, at a wonderful saving on the prices usually asked on goods of these qualities.

There is no Ready-to-wear department outside of a Metropolitan Store that carries anyway near the lines of goods that we do.

REVIEW OF THE SPECIAL SESSION

Nonpartisan Analysis of Legislation by Congress.

PASSAGE OF TARIFF BILL.

Real Revision Downward—Currency Bill Held Up by Senate—Newlands Act Very Important—Abolition of the Commerce Court—Mexican Matters. Presidential Address to Congress.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A tariff law, the lowest since 1846 and in many respects approaching a free trade basis, is the most important achievement of the first session of the Sixty-third congress. Coming into complete legislative power for the first time in twenty years, the Democrats marked their control of the government by fulfilling their promises on the main issue which divided the two great political parties for more than half a century. It will take some time for the people to understand what has really been done with the tariff and what effect the rates will have upon the prices they pay. Details of the tariff are somewhat nebulous to the average person, and even those who have heard the subject debated day after day and have studied the schedules for years are somewhat hazy as to what has really been done, save that there has been a very great reduction—a real revision downward. The most marvelous thing about the new law is the ease with which it was passed. Its author, Oscar W. Underwood, took it into the Democratic caucus, where differences were thrashed out and where Democrats were morally pledged to stand by the ways and means committee. Then the bill was taken into the house and passed with only such changes as Underwood and his lieutenants thought necessary. A similar method was adopted in the senate, although Senator Simmons, who was in charge of the bill, allowed more latitude to his lieutenants on the finance committee than was given members of the house. And so was passed the measure for which the session was called by President Wilson. Ah, that name recalls something! It may be mentioned in passing that had it not been for the iron hand of Woodrow Wilson the tariff would have seen stormy times. There would have been no free sugar and free wool, and the rates generally would have been much higher. The president set his stakes on free wool and free sugar, held them in the bill in spite of the efforts of many Democratic senators, thus setting the scale upon which many other schedules were adjusted. Currency Which Never Came. Naturally when the president found that it was not such a difficult thing to pass a tariff bill he felt sure that currency would run along just as smoothly. Somehow it has been different. It seems to have struck snags which at times were about to wreck the measure. The majority in the house were docile. They only had to know that the currency bill suited the administration and then gulp it down without asking questions. Oh, of course, there were a few inquisitive persons, fellows who thought they knew something about finance, and they showed a disposition to kick, but the majority was so great that their outcries and kicks caused only a slight and momentary disturbance. In the senate it was different. The Democratic majority is very small. Strange to say, there were three of the seven Democratic members of the banking and currency committee who never would—no, never, never, never—vote for the administration bill. One of them stood out till the last, while the other two gradually yielded to the personal influence of the president and the lure of the party call. But this did not happen in time to make the currency bill a law at the special session. All this proved a surprise to Mr. Wilson. When he called congress in session in April he made plans to spend the summer with his family in New Hampshire and a month of the fall at Panama. Just the other day the president told an inquirer that he thought he might go to Panama in 1915. He didn't sign the tariff act until Oct. 3. He may not sign the currency act until April 3. Woodrow Wilson has learned the ways of congress during the special session, and he knows he must have patience. Newlands Act Very Important. Although the special session of congress dedicated itself to the tariff and President Wilson sentenced it to currency as well, it did also take up legislation. A law of far-reaching importance is the Newlands act, which was passed, providing for mediation, conciliation and arbitration between the employers and the employed. For a long time there was the Erdman act, which was well enough in its way, but it did not have very much strength in averting or settling strikes. The Newlands act really amounts to something. Already it has averted the tieup of all the eastern railroads and not long since was responsible for stopping a strike on the Southern Pacific. A real board for the settlement of labor disputes has been created, and highly paid me-have been selected as members of this board. It takes a pretty strong force, whether of capital or labor, to resist an offer of mediation from a federal board and precipitate a strike which may cause a protracted cessation of business, inconvenience the public and cause a loss of wages to thousands of men. If the present session of congress, long as it has been, had done nothing but pass the Newlands act it would have performed a great service.

Abolished the Commerce Court.

Three general appropriation bills were passed during the special session, one of which failed in the short session and another of which was vetoed by President Taft. The third was an urgent deficiency bill, which caused a great deal of discussion because of two important provisions which it contained. The commerce court, created by the railroad legislation of 1910, was abolished by a rider on the deficiency bill. This court was established in the face of bitter opposition. One of the judges was impeached, and on account of differences with the interstate commerce commission it became very unpopular. It goes out of existence at the close of the present year. A bitter contest between the two houses of congress arose over the question as to whether the judges of the court should also be abolished. The senate finally won, and the judges remain and will hereafter be circuit judges.

In the same deficiency bill was a much discussed provision which took deputy collectors of internal revenue from under the civil service. It was incorporated in the law, and hereafter these deputies can be appointed by the collectors. Charges of "spoils" raids upon the civil service, etc., were made, but they did not deter the majority.

The deficiency bill contained another provision which received practically unanimous support. It appropriated $400,000 as a part of a fund of $700,000 to erect in Washington a monumental building to commemorate the services and sacrifices of women of the United States, north and south, who cared for the sick and wounded soldiers during the war. The balance of the sum, $300,000, has been donated. The building will be the property of the United States, but occupied and cared for by the American Red Cross.

A Concession to Labor.

The sundry civil appropriation bill was vetoed by President Taft a few moments before his term expired because it contained a provision that of the sum of $300,000 provided for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws "no part of the money shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the conditions of labor or for any act done in furtherance thereof, not in itself unlawful."

This amendment was reintroduced in the bill at the special session, but when approved by President Wilson he said that the provision need not become operative as there were other funds available for the prohibited prosecutions if it was found necessary to begin them.

Panama-Pacific Exposition.

The sundry civil bill also contained a paragraph which provided for and nationalized the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held at San Francisco in 1915. Unlike former exposition laws it fixes the number of commissioners at three instead of seven or more, limits their pay to $3,000 instead of $5,000 and also places a limit upon the pay of employees and their expenses. This employment will not be simply "soft snaps" as in the past. A subsequent act provided for the free importation of foreign exhibits for the exposition and the protection of their trademarks and designs. Another act nationalized a smaller exposition which is to be held at San Diego, Cal., in 1915.

At the beginning of the special session an emergency deficiency bill was passed providing expenses for the session. It also made provision for the new department of labor, which up to that time had been without pay or quarters.

Indian Commissions.

The Indian appropriation bill was talked to death at the close of the last congress, and after considerable wrangling it was passed at the special session. Aside from the usual appropriations, the most important features were provision for two commissions, both consisting of members of the senate and house. One is to investigate the management of the bureau of Indian affairs in every detail. The other was directed to investigate irrigation conditions in Washington state and health conditions in New Mexico, particularly in regard to the establishment of a sanitarium for tuberculosis afflicted Indians.

Mexican Matters.

The situation in Mexico called forth desultory discussion from time to time, but the inclination was to leave the matter with the president. However, the deficiency bill contained an appropriation of $100,000 and a special act appropriated $100,000 more to bring destitute Americans out of Mexico. Congress has been ready at all times to make provision for emergencies in Mexico; but while bills for increasing the army were introduced, they have never been taken up.

A new embassy was created by an act making the minister to Spain an ambassador.

Another act provided for representation of the United States at the fourteenth international congress on alcoholism at Milan, Italy.

An act was passed providing for the increased number of midshipmen at the Naval Academy until 1919, which allows two designations by each senator and representative, ten at large to be appointed by the president.

Minor Acts of Legislation.

Quite a number of minor acts of legislation were passed, including bridge and land bills of local interest.

Recognition of the Gettysburg semi-centennial was made in providing transportation for Union and Confederate Veterans of the District of Columbia to that famous battlefield.

Tents were loaned to the Confederate veterans for their reunion at Brunswick, Ga.

The president was authorized to appoint delegates to the International Purity federation at Minneapolis, Minn.

Provision was made for congressional representation at the unveiling of the Jefferson monument at St. Louis and the Congress hall celebration at Philadelphia; also the opening of the exposition at Knoxville, Tenn.

The secretary of agriculture was authorized to make an exhibit at the corn exposition, Dallas, Tex.

A number of bills relating to public buildings were passed.

The Seaman's Bill.

A bill of more than ordinary importance because it makes many changes in the navigation laws was passed by the senate, but was not considered by the house. It is known as the seaman's bill, although it makes provision for greater safety of passengers at sea. The bill in some form has been pending before congress for nineteen years and has been advocated by representatives of the seamen's union. It is expected to pass the house during the coming session.

Another measure of considerable importance which passed the senate and is still pending in the house makes it unlawful for any member of congress to serve on a committee or solicit funds for campaign purposes. That bill is the outcome of the investigation made during the campaign of 1912, when many prominent witnesses were summoned.

The senate has agreed to take up and consider a bill providing for the construction and operation of railroads in Alaska on Monday, Dec. 8, but as no time has been fixed for a vote it is quite likely that the bill will be displaced by the currency bill.

On the senate calendar is a bill "relating to the exclusion of traffic from the streets and avenues of Washington during parades." It is the outgrowth of interference with the woman suffrage parade on the 3d of March.

Bills Passed by the House.

Very few bills have been taken up by the house save those mentioned, but the Hetch-Hetchy bill was passed and is pending in the senate with an agreement to consider and vote upon it during the first week of the regular session.

A bill to create an additional judge in Pennsylvania has been doing the shuttlecock act between the houses on account of a provision to create another circuit judge in West Virginia having been attached to it. It now reposes on the house calendar.

Lobby Investigation.

By far one of the most interesting investigations of the many that have taken place during the past two or three years was the senate lobby investigation which followed a declaration by the president that a lobby was trying to defeat certain features of the tariff bill. About the same time the Mulhall disclosures were published, which reflected upon both senators and representatives, and the lobby investigation was turned into a Mulhall investigation, the house joining with an investigation of its own. A special committee of the senate has taken thousands of pages of testimony, and the end is not yet in sight. No report was ever made. The investigation was started primarily to get information upon which to base tariff action, but the tariff bill was out of the way before the investigators were near the end of their inquiry.

Presidential Addresses.

The special session was notable for the introduction of an innovation in the matter of delivering presidential messages. The messages were delivered in person by the president, who addressed congress in joint session in the hall of the house of representatives on three different occasions. This revives a custom which existed in the days of Washington and Adams, but has not been the practice since the days of the first two presidents. The first address related to the tariff, the next to currency and the third to conditions in Mexico. The president has announced that he will continue to communicate with congress in this way. Another innovation on the part of the president was in visiting the capitol building and seeing senators and representatives in his room, which heretofore has been used by a president when he went to the capitol on special occasions.

Accept Nicknames.

Quite a number of congressmen take the names which their friends in younger days gave them. No one believes any mother ever christened her boy Tom, Dick, Jack or Sam, yet a lot of men have adopted the shorter names later in their lives. One thing a man can do—he can fashion his name to suit himself.

Among the men in congress who have chosen the shorter names are Ben Johnson of Kentucky, Champ Clark of Missouri, Tom Stout of Montana, Dan Stephens of Nebraska, Dick Morgan of Oklahoma, Sam Sells of Tennessee, Sam Rayburn, Joe Eagle and Jack Beall of Texas.

Then there is William H. Murray of Oklahoma, who adds after his name Alfalfa Bill in parentheses. He is proud of the title, which has followed him everywhere. He attained it by talking on alfalfa as a crop.
