STAR SPANGLED BANNER CELEBRATION TO BE GREAT EVENT

Other Historic Places Also Will Celebrate.—President Wilson and Many Notables To Be Present.

The National Star Spangled Banner Centennial Celebration is being developed on larger lines than first planned. The events in Baltimore are going to be the finest the city has known, including a $20,000 illumination, a 25,000 military parade, a notable regatta and a pageant which is described as being on a scope heretofore unattempted in America. The week from September 6th until the 13th will be crowded with big things. The new plan also calls for the extension of the celebration to all the points touched by the history of the National Anthem. This will mean Washington and old Georgetown in the District of Columbia, and the following places in Maryland: Havre de Grace; Fredericktown, Cecil county; Georgetown and Caulk's Field, Kent county; St. Michaels; St. Leonards; Upper Marlboro and Hill's Bridge, Annapolis; Blandensburg, where Barney made his noble defense; the birthplace of Key Mar, Carroll county; the original burial place of Key at Frederick City, Frederick county; the British landing place at Fort Howard, Baltimore county; and the Battlefield at North Point where the last battle on American soil was fought which led to the Treaty of peace and where the cornerstone of a monument was laid seventy-five years ago upon an acre of ground donated to the State by Dr. Jacob Houck. The keen interest in the celebration continues to grow. President Wilson and former Presidents Taft and Roosevelt expect to be present, and there will be a brilliant assemblage of the notables of the country. Special provisions are being made to take care of the people of Maryland and most of the counties will have special representations.

SEVENTY WOMEN'S CLUBS THRIVING IN MARYLAND

According to Directory Recently Published by Maryland State Federation.

In the newly published Directory of Clubs of the Maryland State Federation there is an aggregate of 70 women's clubs representing a membership of about 9,000 clubwomen. Among these are the Current Events, Club of Hagerstown, Frederick Civic Club, Frostburg Civic Club, Hytheham Club of Port Deposit, Lonaconing Civic Club and the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs.

The professional and business women of the State are represented in the directory by the John Hopkins Nurses' Alumnae Association, Kindergarten Club, Myrtle Club of Women Workers, Maryland State Association of Graduate Nurses, the Association of Neighborhood Workers and the Women's Board of Police Matrons of Baltimore City.

The three largest women's organizations in the State are the Baltimore Association of Jewish women, with a membership approximating 1,000; the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs, which has 1,000 members, and the Women's Civic League of Baltimore, the membership of which is 1,211.

International Polity At Harvard.

Harvard University will shortly inaugurate a course of lectures on International Polity. This course has been made possible through the co-operative efforts of a number of undergraduate organizations. Subjects to be discussed will include such matters as peace, armaments diplomacy and the labor and suffrage movements. This new work is similar to that being done at many English universities, where a good deal of attention is paid to the study of the leading facts that have to do with the relations obtaining between the States of the modern world. The first lecture in this series will be delivered next month by Norman Angell, an Englishman, the plan being to have as many foreigners as possible express their views at Harvard.

Tree Species In the United States.

There are somewhat more than 500 recognized tree species in the United States, of which about 100 are commercially important for timber. Of the 500 recognized species, 300 are represented in the Government's newly acquired Appalachian forests. All American species, except very subtropical ones on the Florida keys and in extreme southern Texas, are to be found in one or another of the National forests.

Thomas Lipton will be one of the visitors at the San Diego Exposition, his exhibit taking the form of a Ceylonese tea garden, surrounded by a tea plantation.

CATHOLIC CONVENTION DURING THE CURRENT YEAR

Cardinal Gibbons To Act As General Chairman Of Committee On Oratory At Meeting To Be Held In Baltimore.

Even this early, plans are being arranged for Catholic conventions to be held during the year. It has been decided to hold the eleventh annual meeting of the Catholic Educational Association in Atlantic City, N. J., from June 29 to July 3, Bishop McFaul having tendered the Executive Board an invitation to hold the meeting there. He is very much interested in the work of the Association. Cardinal Gibbons has appointed the chairman of the committees that will manage the convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies to be held in Baltimore in October. The Cardinal himself will serve as general chairman, as chairman of the committee on oratory. He has already arranged to have Archbishop John Ireland of St. Paul, Minn., and Bishop Patrick J. Donohue, of Wheeling, W. Va., preach the sermons at the Pontifical Mass in the morning and the Solemn Vespers in the evening of the opening day. The Baltimore convention will be an even more notable event than the one at Milwaukee last year, because it was for the purpose of honoring Cardinal Gibbons that Baltimore was chosen as the convention city. It is not improbable that all of the American Cardinals will attend.—Catholic Tribune.

DATES FOR FARMERS INSTITUTES IN THIS COUNTY

Under The Auspices Of Maryland Agricultural College.—Interesting Illustrated Lectures Will Be Given.

In the interest of everything pertaining to farming, Farmers' Institutes under the auspices of the Maryland Agricultural College, will be held in Frederick County beginning Monday February 9, and closing Friday the 13.

The sessions will be at 10 a. m., 1.30 and 7.30 p. m. The lectures, to which all are invited, will be illustrated and will embrace all the essential points of soil improvement, dairying, horticulture, the raising of crops, the care of live stock and farm poultry and the prevention and treatment of disease among farm animals.

These lectures are intended to heighten interest in farming and during each session, questions and comparison of views will be welcome. No collections will be allowed. Everything is free and pupils of the local schools are invited to all the meetings.

On Monday February 9, these talks will commence at Thurmont. The following day the people of Jefferson will have the opportunity of hearing the lectures. Next they will be delivered at Meyersville, and they will be concluded in Frederick on Thursday and Friday, February 12 and 13. Dr. Richard T. Hill is the director of these Farmers' Institutes.

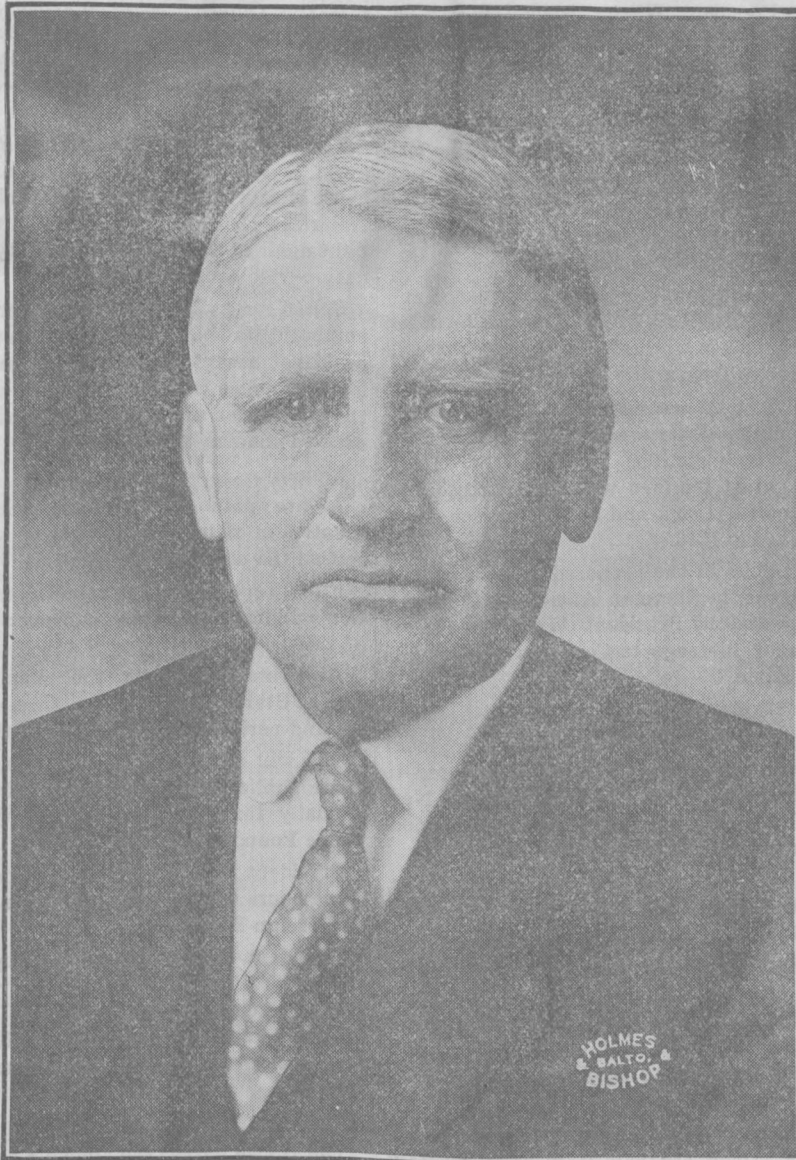

Male Stenographers In Demand.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that while it has no difficulty in securing sufficient female stenographers and typewriters to meet the needs of the departments at Washington, the supply of male eligibles has not been equal to the demand. Young men who are at least 18 years of age and who are willing to accept the usual entrance salaries, which are $840 and $900 a year, have excellent opportunities for appointment. While the entrance salaries are low, advance is reasonably rapid to those meriting it. The examinations, which any competent stenographer should be able to pass, are held each month in the year, except December, at the principal cities of the United States.

Full information in regard to the examination may be secured by addressing the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or the District Secretary, Post Office, Boston, Mass., Philadelphia, Pa., Atlanta, Ga., Cincinnati, Ohio, Chicago, Ill., St. Paul, Minn., Seattle, Wash., San Francisco, Cal., Customhouse, New York, N. Y., New Orleans, La., or Old Customhouse, St. Louis, Mo.

"Book Film," To Aid Students.

The Bibuphote, an invention of Eugene Morel, of Paris, is expected to revolutionize study and the work of students throughout the world. The invention makes it possible to print fifty ordinary pages of reading matter on a film about the size of a postal card. A screen is placed on a table and the reproduction of the film is thrown on this. Librarians all over the world will be urged to take up the invention, for in this way many rare works will be placed so as to be easily accessible to the students.

HON. BLAIR LEE, U. S. SENATOR FROM MARYLAND.

HERE AND THERE IN THE STATE

Ground for the ball park of the Baltimore Federal League club at 29th St., near York road, was broken last week by Mayor Preston.

As soon as the weather permits the moving picture palace, at Pen-Mar, recently damaged, will be rebuilt on a larger scale. The amusement building, destroyed by fire not long ago will also be rebuilt. Concrete will be extensively used.

The eight annual automobile show which came to a close in Baltimore on Saturday was the best-ever held in the Monumental city. More cars were sold than at any previous event and the average attendance each night was above eight thousand.

Cardinal Gibbons, Bishop Corrigan and many priests were in attendance at an impressive pontifical Solemn High Mass at St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, Sunday morning.

Capt. William Fullam is to succeed Capt. John H. Gibbon as superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Mayor Preston is very much in earnest about a new bridge to connect Baltimore and Anne Arundel county at Ferry Bar. It is his desire to have the legislature make an appropriation for it in the States Roads fund.

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, has been elected a trustee of Johns Hopkins University to succeed William H. Buckler, the noted archaeologist.

George Harvey, the new editor of Harper's Weekly, New York, was looking things over in Baltimore last week.

Rev. Charles Atwater, rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal parish, near Brunswick, Frederick county, has resigned his pastorate to accept the call extended him by the Protestant Episcopal Chapel of the Advent, Charles and Ostend streets, Baltimore.

Adjutant General Charles F. Macklin has announced that the annual inspection of the Maryland National Guard will begin on March 30, and continue up to the first of May, on days assigned for each company.

Evidently preferring a railroad depot to a church, Remus R. Darby and Miss Della P. Bartgis, both of Poolesville, Montgomery county, were married in Camden Station, Baltimore, Saturday by Rev. Walter P. Griggs of Long Green, Baltimore county, Maryland.

An overheated stove pipe is supposed to have been the cause of the $8000 fire in the home and store of Edgar Ridgeley, of near Ellicott City on Saturday.

To gain a much needed rest and at the same time to consult leading foreign authorities on radium, Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of the Johns Hopkins University, will spend a month abroad. Dr. Kelly accompanied his son, Howard A. Jr., who sailed last week. The latter will enter a college near London.

None but women were the honorary pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Susanna Moore Maddox, 84 years old, which took place last week in Baltimore. Mrs. Maddox was the oldest woman member of the Woman Suffrage Association.

The Salisbury High School is much interested in a debate on Woman Suffrage to be held by the literary societies on the 30th instant. There is much discussion, too, over the prize which the Just Government League of Wicomico County has offered to the ninth, tenth, and eleventh grades for the best essay on Votes for Women. There is some fine suffrage sentiment among these ladies and gentlemen and there are some "foemen worthy of their steel."

The State Suffrage Leagues of Maryland are united on a plan to give a dance and entertainment at Carvel Hall on February 13. The affair will be held in honor of the Assemblymen and their wives, and promises to be very successful.

The Baltimore Federation of Labor intends to deluge the Legislature with 13,000 letters representing the sentiment of over 25,000 laboring men in Baltimore in favor of a compulsory compensation act.

It is confidently expected that Hyattsville will get a $25,000 School Building. The Seventh Annual Convention of the National Canners Association and its allied industries will be held in Baltimore, February 2-6, 1914, inclusive.

Arrangements are being made between the Avilton Mutual Telephone Company, of Garrett county, and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company to locate a joint exchange in Frostburg in order to facilitate telephone traffic throughout Garrett and Allegany counties.

George W. Kefauver has been notified of his appointment as postmaster of Middletown and will assume charge about February 1. He is a son of J. Hollin Kefauver and is 27 years old. He succeeds Leslie Gaver.

By direction of the Board of County Commissioners, John A. Garrett, attorney to the board, has prepared a bill, which will be introduced in the Legislature, providing for the collection of special taxes in subdivisions of Montgomery county adjacent to the District of Columbia.

William Lewis is a sixteen year old negro, falling in his second attempt to escape from jail at Elkton, set fire to the building and was nearly suffocated.

LOYAL SUBSCRIBER WRITES OF PROGRESS IN EMMITSBURG

Recalls When Lard Lamp and Tallow Candle Were Used.—Looks Forward To Home Paper To Learn Of Old Friends.

A very loyal subscriber to the CHRONICLE from Philadelphia in renewing his subscription writes very entertainingly as follows: "I always look forward to my little home paper every Saturday morning as it tells me about the old friends I left years ago and I delight to read about the progress of the old home town.

"To think that in the course of the 70 years of my life I can go back to the old lard lamp and the tallow dip or candle that my mother used to make by the dozens at a time. Then the fluid light, then coal oil and now you have gotten to electricity. What a change from the Old Stage coach in which my sister and I travelled in to Union Bridge, in 1865 to take the train for Philadelphia. Now it is the steam cars, automobiles and airships. Surely in the seventy years there has been a marvelous change in the way of progress."

"So you see I love to read in the columns of your paper all the progressive changes in the dear old town of my childhood. My two sons are both electricians. The eldest boy has been at Strawbridge for the past twenty-four years, electric engineer in their plant. The younger son who passed home to God at Christmas time began his work in electricity at seventeen years. The North American Building, The Stephen Girard Building, St. Patrick's Catholic Church, many of the Convents and other notable buildings are monuments to his skill and work. He died a Martyr to his work, a nervous breakdown. I merely mention this to show what I have seen in seventy years."

To show her loyalty and appreciation she says: "You may send the Chronicle to me until you receive my death notice."

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION TO BE HELD ON MARCH 14th

Ordered By P. M. General For Fourth-Class Postmasters in Maryland.—Twenty-five in This County.

The Postmaster General has ordered a civil service examination of fourth class postmasters in Maryland, to take place during March next. Eighty-nine officers are located within the Sixth Maryland District, twenty-five of them in Frederick County. The examination for these officers will be held on March 14th, at Frederick and Woodsboro. It is open to persons residing within the mail delivery of each respective office, at Araby, Braddock Heights, Buckeystown, Burkittsville, Dobs, Graceham, Ijamsville, Jefferson, Knoxville, Ladiesburg, Lantz, LeGore, Lewistown, Libertytown, Lime Kiln, Lloyds, Monrovia, Myersville, New Market, New Midway, Point of Rocks, Sabillasville, Tuscarora, Unionville and Walkersville.

The salaries of these offices depend on the business done; when it rises above $250 a quarter, a postmaster is appointed by the President. Persons wishing to take this examination should write the Civil Service Commission for blanks and instruction papers, or to Congressman Lewis, at Washington; or they may be had at the postoffice affected. Only the offices named will be examined.

Sorting Freight By Electricity.

Hull which has just secured its own telephone system, is to be the centre of an experiment that may cause wide reform in the methods of handling freight on the English railways. The system practically means the sorting of goods in warehouse by simply pressing a button. Electrical machinery has been invented by a company with which Mr. Marconi is associated for dividing the warehouse into a series of alphabetical sections. Travelling trays under electrical control distribute the goods according to the index letter of their destination—B for Bradford, L for Liverpool, and so forth—in a manner similar to that by which letters are sorted in the post office. A French, an American, and two English railway companies are now negotiating for the adoption of the system.

Big Money In Oil Wells.

Scores of men are making money by the thousands by investing in oil lands in the Sardis district, Harrison County, W. Va. For the J. W. Agnew holdings including nine wells, it is stated that $1,200,000 was recently offered. United States Senator Goff's well, brings him an income of $1,000 a day. Another man from Pennsylvania is making between $4,000 and $5,000 daily.

New York's new sewer system is to cost $37,000,000.

GREAT INDIAN EXHIBIT AT SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION

Entitled "The Painted Desert" Will Embrace Mode of Living, Industries and Handiwork.

The promise of the great Indian exhibit at the San Diego Exposition is to be more than fulfilled. "The Painted Desert," is the name given to the exhibit made by the Santa Fe Railway company, and this part of the exposition as now planned will embrace the mode of living, the industries, the handicraft, the sports and the ceremonials of all the wonderful Indian tribes of Arizona and New Mexico.

The real "Painted Desert," so named because of the vivid coloring of, whose face caused by deposits of variously colored stones, is in Northern Arizona, and a part of the Navajo Indian reservation. Six acres of ground on the site of the exposition will be used for reproductions of characteristic scenes on the "Painted Desert," and here representatives of all the famous tribes of Arizona and New Mexico will be brought, to be seen by exposition visitors at work and at play. In the hogans and tepees they will live, just as they live when they are at home, and in the community houses of the New Mexico tribes exhibits of their handicraft will be seen.

The Snake Dance of the Hopis, the Sun Dance, and all of the other dances and tribal ceremonies will be held on the "Painted Desert" at San Diego many times during the year of the exposition. Indian games and sports will be seen, and also the blanket making, basket weaving and bead embroidering.

All this is to be supplemental to the archaeological and ethnological exhibit which the exposition is gathering, and which will be the greatest exhibit of its kind ever made at any exposition.

FORMER GOV. MALCALM R. PATTERSON DRAWS CROWD

Record Crowd Fills Lyric Sunday In Support Of Constitutional Prohibition.—State Legislators Present.

The demonstration in favor of constitutional prohibition held under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland in the Lyric Theatre, Baltimore, Sunday afternoon the greatest meeting in the interest of temperance ever held in Maryland.

Thirty-five hundred men, the full capacity of the building, were present and hundreds were denied admission because the limit of the building had been reached.

The chief attraction was former Governor Malcolm R. Patterson of Tennessee whose address was a sublime tribute to the saving power of Jesus Christ and a terrific arraignment of the liquor traffic. The consensus of opinion among those who heard him is that it was the greatest speech on this subject ever heard in Baltimore.

Other speakers present were Rev. P. A. Baker, National Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, Rev. T. M. Hare, newly elected Superintendent William H. Anderson, now of New York.

Tremendous enthusiasm was evidenced throughout the meeting and as a reflex of temperance sentiment and the need for some action by the Legislature of Maryland along the lines indicated it must have tremendous force.

A number of members of the State Legislature were present, beside other professional and business men.

If money talks this demonstration spoke in stentorian tones for on the five year plan the subscriptions amounted to more than $27,000. This is the greatest collection ever taken in the interest of temperance reform in the United States of America except one other of $30,000 which was lifted at Columbus, Ohio, during the great convention in November last.

Will Tell Of African Experiences.

Dorsey Mohun, formerly a resident of Washington, who has spent the last twenty years in Africa, will shortly deliver an address on some of his African experiences at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Mr. Mohun is more familiar, it is said, with African affairs than any other American citizen today. He is a fellow of the Royal Geographic Society of England, and also a member of the French and Belgium geographical societies. He has been decorated for distinguished services in Africa by both the English and Belgium governments.

Laws to prohibit further immigration till all surplus laborers in the United States are fully employed were favored by a resolution adopted at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

The American Druggists' Syndicate has increased its dividends from 8 per cent. to 10 per cent. and increased the stock from $2,500,000 to $10,000,000.

Run down by an express train while driving his team across the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Aberdeen, Md., early Tuesday morning, A. R. Fletcher, 73 years old, a well-known undertaker of Aberdeen, sustained injuries which resulted in his death a few minutes later while being rushed to Baltimore on another train.

The Cambridge Standard, established by Gov. Philips Lee Goldsborough in the eighties, when he was Comptroller of the State Treasury, has been sold by Postmaster William H. Medford and his associate owners to J. Raymond Allen.

As a result of several tragedies by boys in Cecil county within the last year the Women's Club of Elkton will present a bill in the legislature making it a misdemeanor to give or sell a child under 16 years of age any kind of firearms or ammunition.

Cardinal Gibbons has announced the appointment of Rev. P. C. Gavan, for the last 12 years chancellor of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, as pastor of the Sacred Heart Church in Washington, succeeding Rev. Joseph McGee, who died last week.

By a decision of Judge Robert R. Henderson in the injunction suit filed by the Mayor and Council of Hagerstown, the Hagerstown and Frederick Electric Railway Company has a legal right to sell current for lighting and power purposes to the citizens of Hagerstown in competition with the city's municipal lighting plant.

Boligiano's
"Greater Baltimore"
Tomato

Better Than Stone Ever Was

Just doubles the yield of many of the best Canning Tomatoes you have ever grown. Brilliant Red Color—One of the Handsomest Tomatoes you have ever seen for Canning Purposes. Ripens Evenly To The Stem—Is Free From Ridges, Cracks and Blight.

Extracts from Bulletin No. 165, Vol. XVI, April, 1913.

"The average calculated yields for three years of eleven varieties tested shows 'Greater Baltimore' ranking first with a yield of 16.25 tons per acre against Stone 13.25 tons per acre.
"Considering Yield and Quality the eleven varieties tested will rank as follows as a field crop for canning—'First Greater Baltimore'.
"Picking season from July 25th to October 1st, the 'Greater Baltimore' yielded nearly 22 Tons Per Acre.
"The 'Greater Baltimore,' which has been gaining in popularity with the Canning Trade during the past two years, begins bearing 12 to 16 days earlier than the Stone, when both are sown and handled in a similar manner throughout the season.
"It will also be seen that 'Greater Baltimore' is as early a bearer as Chalk's Early Jewel, which is generally considered an early sort.
"It is largely the Earliness and the Uniformity with which the plants bear a Large Number of Large Smooth Fruit throughout the ripening season that makes the 'Greater Baltimore' superior to the Stone, which has been the standard canning variety for many years.
"The average date of first ripening for the 'Greater Baltimore' was 120 days from the sowing of the seed in the hot beds and 55 days from the time the young plants were set in the field.
"Ever since originating this now famous Tomato, we have year after year by carefully eliminating and selecting—built up what has been proven by Agricultural Experiment Stations to be the Best Main Crop and Canning Tomato in the World. Don't be misled—Get Boligiano's True Originator's Stock of 'Greater Baltimore' Tomato.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

Philadelphia Alumni Meets.

On the evening of January twenty-first at Greens Hotel, Philadelphia, amidst an atmosphere of brotherly love redolent with the cheerful recollections of college days, the Philadelphia branch of Mt. St. Mary's Alumni Association held their annual banquet.

The business meeting was formally opened with an address by Hon. A. V. D. Watterson, LL. D., President of the National Association, Judge H. Gilbert Cassidy acting as temporary chairman. At this meeting the following local officers were elected: President, Rev. Jas. J. Smith, Vice-Pres., John McFadden; Secretary, John V. McCann; Assist. Secretary, John H. J. Quigley; Treasurer, Horace P. Nepps.

Hon. Richard M. Reilly, LL. D., of Lancaster, Pa., was delegated to the work of organizing a separate branch of the association to be known as the Harrisburg branch.

After the business meeting those present were treated to a sumptuous repast, the festive boards being decorated to add zest and cheer to the occasion.

H. Gilbert Cassidy, Esq. acted as toastmaster. Very Rev. Mgr. B. J. Bradley, LL. D. made some important announcements concerning present conditions of the College. Addresses were also made by Hon. A. V. D. Watterson, Hon. Richard M. Reilly, Dr. James A. McGuigan, John F. McCann, John H. J. Quigley, John McFadden and the Rev. Patrick H. McGinnis.

About fifty members were in attendance. A committee was formed to make arrangements for a banquet to be held in the near future.

Albright 20; M. S. M. 36.

Mount St. Mary's basketball team continued its winning streak last Saturday when it defeated the fast Albright College team 36 to 20. The game was spectacular from start to finish, both teams fighting in aggressive style. The Mountaineers were never in better form and gave a splendid exhibition of team work throughout the game.

The visitors who had not suffered defeat this year were surprised at the staying qualities of the mountain men. Captain Benfer, of Albright, on whom the brunt of attack fell would have had an easier time getting away from his shadow than losing May. May and Dowdle carried Albright's star in splendid style and without his basket caging the visitors were very much handicapped.

Leary and Lally at guard proved towers of strength, both on offense and defense. Captain Costello starred, as usual, with 10 goals from the field to his credit. Benfer and Hartseler excelled for Albright. The lineup:

Mount St. Mary's—Costello, I. f.; Phillips, r. f.; May, c.; Leary, r. g.; Lally, r. g.

Albright—Hartseler, I. f.; Glossmire, r. g.; Benfer, c.; Baker, I. g.; Zinn, r. g.

Score—Mount St. Marys, 36; Albright 20. Goals from field—Costello, 10; Phillips, 1; Leary, 5; Lally, 1; Hartseler, 3; Benfer, 3—Goals from fouls—Costello, 2; Benfer, 6. Substitutions—for Mount St. Mary's, Donovan for Phillips, Dowdle for May, May for Costello, Costello for Leary. For Albright—Lutz for Baker, Benfer for Zinn, Zinn for Benfer. Time of periods—20 minutes. Referee—Mr. Liddy.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

MOON OF TENNESSEE AND THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS.

Shakespeare says "there is nothing in a name;" and while we never differ with the Bard, we believe there is much in some names, for certainly no one but the Representative of Tennessee bearing the name so suggestive of lunatic would dare, among the assembled wisdom of the Nation, to use such intemperate language as Representative Moon did when talking of the officials of our diplomatic service, whom he describes as "a superfluous appendage to the Republic," and as "a gang of political reprobates and society degenerates whom we ought to wipe out of existence." The Congressman must be ignorant of the fact that abuse is not argument or, is it that, in-much as he had nothing to say, he thought with Prince Henry, in Henry IV, that his blatant abuse "would be argument for a week, laughter for a month and a joke forever."

Mr. Moon is a Democrat, but he is evidently ignorant of the fact that Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the party was a diplomat and represented our country abroad with a distinction which shed honor on the young Republic. F. T. Bayard, a Democrat, James Buchanan, another, were diplomats; would Mr. Moon affix on their names the stigma of "reprobates" and "degenerates?"

Of course we know that the plutocrat party that passed out of power with the political passing away of Taft, made of the diplomatic representatives of our country abroad such an un-American and un-Democratic body that none but men of great wealth could be considered as fit selections for the greatest courts of Europe, yet this in no way justifies the opprobrious epithets of "degenerates" and "reprobates" applied to them by the Tennessean.

The time is coming, possibly, when the mere social feature of diplomatic life will not enter so largely into our international relations if not into the functions of these officers; but as commerce and the pacific temper it inculcates will be the ruling spirit, our mercantile interests will finally lead our legislators to find the medium which will give them the clue to avoid the mazes of international law and find the plain business part of Commerce by which able business men, such as the consular body of all nations, may not only increase our mercantile relations with the other powers, but by a system of fees based on broader trade, make each consulate not only the directorship for the expansion of trade, but also self supporting offices. Then mere social consideration and those of wealth will be relegated as conditions of the Past.

OUR NEW SENATOR.

As we go to press we learn of the seating of Hon. Blair Lee as the junior Senator from this State. We congratulate first, the Senate, and then him on whom the toga has fallen. Blair Lee will be an honor to the august body of which he is now a component part, and with his confrere the Hon. John Walter Smith, will add further lustre to the fame of Maryland.

ACCOMPANIED by a check for $5,000 Mrs. Oliver Hazard Perry Belmont's application for membership in Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst's Smashagette brigade has been received filed and accepted. This brigade it is said, will continue to wage war on Congress until that body consents to amend the constitution so that women may vote. General Villa has not yet sent in his application, and Carrie Nation is dead—but there's Hobson.

As a supplement to its "Joke Book" the W. M. (Worst Managed) Railway has, according to a news article in a Cumberland paper issued a book of rules. These rules are intended for W. M. employees and are said "to embrace all that is modern in railroading, and when in effect will be the real safety first." When they finally become effective it is expected that another book entitled "Safety At Last" will be issued by this company.

"MAKE way!" the Speaker shouted, as he Tripped down from his chair, and sought the outer corridor to fill his lungs with air. No! 'twas not a hostile army, that throng that he ploughed through, 'twas the army of employees that has nothing else to do, but hang around the aisle-ways, ever getting in the way—simply there to put their time in so that they will draw their pay.

THE Boston Transcript says: "Hiram Maxim complains that Americans chew away in gum each year the price of three dreadnoughts. And the pork barrel debaters in Congress chew away the price of three more."

Why not put a Maxim silencer on both?

BELIEVE us, there is nothing as regular as the irregularity of a gasoline engine.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS IN CHINA.

Commercial Agent D. C. Alexander, Jr., reports: At present only four cities in China have electric street railways; and of the four, three cities are only nominally in China. The Hongkong St. railway is a British enterprise operating in a British colony; likewise, the Shanghai street railways are the property of British and French companies, and operate only in their respective national concessions, which are practically foreign territory. Similarly, the electric railway in Dairen (Daln.) South Manchuria, is a Japanese enterprise, built and conducted in a leased territory which, during the period of the lease, is to all intents and purposes a Japanese colony. Of Chinese cities proper, Nanking has a light steam railway, seven and one-half miles in length, which provides facilities for only a small part of the city. The service is very infrequent as there are only two locomotives on the line. The city of Mukden, Manchuria, has about five miles of track, on which very small horse cars are operated at irregular intervals; but the rails were copper bonded when laid, and it is proposed to electrify the line when the necessary funds can be secured. Both the Nanking and Mukden lines were built by the viceroys of the provinces in which these cities are situated, and are therefore the property of the province or city. Although the street railway in Mukden has not yet been electrified, the city has an electric lighting plant, operated in conjunction with the Imperial Chinese Mint in that city.

MOUSE HOLDS UP POWER PLANT.

While passing the switchboard, I heard an unusual sound like that of a vibrator of an induction coil and it was evidently coming from somewhere behind the switchboard. Four lead-covered cables coming from two 2200-volt alternating current generators are taken through a small square hole in the floor of the switchboard platform and through this hole I could see a dim flash whenever the sound occurred. I also thought I could smell hot insulation, says an engineer writing in Power.

I proceeded at once to tear up the floor and in doing so disturbed the cables so that the noise practically stopped. Thinking the flash was only some static disturbance, due to excessive damp weather, I went home, instructing the night engineer to watch closely. Nothing developed during the night and when, the next morning, I proceeded to investigate, everything looked all right, but when I ran my hand down the cables to the point where they emerged from the tile, I found a dead mouse, head and shoulders out of a hole in cement. Pulling it out, I found the left shoulder burned to the bone.

A closer investigation showed that the lead and rubber insulation had been gnawed from one wire from each machine, only one of which was running.

COSTS TO BE CARDINAL.

Cardinal Rampolla's death reduces the number of the Sacred College to fifty-six, so it is expected that steps will soon be taken to fill some of the vacancies. The prelates chosen will find their new dignity an expensive one, for even in the case of Italians the cost of admission to the Sacred College is rarely less than $10,000. Part of this goes in fees, ranging from ten lire bestowed on every chorister of the Sistine Chapel to $640 for the papal master of the ceremonies. Moreover, for three days after his investiture a cardinal is expected to hold receptions for the entertainment of practically anyone who cares to pay a visit of congratulation. The induction to the titular church in Rome, which is assigned to every cardinal, costs foreign prelates about $2000 more than those born in Italy.—London Chronicle.

STATUE TO TIME.

At the International Time Conference held at Paris last October, it was decided that France should be the timekeeper for the world, transmitting the hour to all corners of the habitable globe by means of the wireless station of the Eiffel Tower. To celebrate this event a committee has decided to erect a "statue to the hour" at Villers-sur-Mer in Normandy, at the spot where the meridian of Greenwich first touches French soil. The statue will represent Phoebus in his chariot, drawn by fiery steeds, holding in his hand a lance, which marks the exact point of the meridian. The monument will cost 28,000 francs. It will stand on the spot generally believed to be that from which William the Conqueror embarked for England.

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

Legislative Extravagance.

The Advocate is loyal at all times to the best interests of the Democratic party. It has never taken any other position than that the best interests of the State of Maryland and of the United States could be served through the agency of that party.

We are now living in a day of what might be called national extravagance,—a money madness,—which we Democrats have been charging to the Republicans in national affairs for these many years. Since March 4, 1913, President Wilson has given great encouragement to the whole country by his determined stand in behalf of efficiency in public service and economy in public expenditures.

The heaven does not seem to have leavened the loaf, however, for the example being given to the State of Maryland by the members of the House of Delegates now in session is proof positive, that the present Delegates have little desire to practice economy. Because The Advocate is an out-and-out Democratic paper at all times, we take the liberty now to sound this note of warning to the members of the present House. The people will no longer tolerate such reckless extravagance as is about to be practiced at this session.—Democrat Advocate.

We fear that farmers, and others, who are "getting together" in order to say what they want in the way of legislation, are doing so rather late. It is a pretty hard matter to get something, without first putting out of the way something else already gotten by somebody else—in other words to correct evils, and replace them with good. The most of our evils are of slow growth—like cancers—and like them, are not easily gotten rid of on short notice. We are of the opinion that he who wants to get something in politics, must play the game, according to its rules, by making a noise a long time before the legislature convenes.—The Carroll Record.

Senator Williams, of Cecil, has introduced a resolution asking for the appointment of a committee of three Senators and four Delegates to get information regarding State roads before the $6,000,000 appropriation asked for is considered. This resolution is in the right direction and should have the approval of the Senate and House. No body of Representatives should vote away that much money without knowing how it is to be used and what kind of roads are to be constructed.—The Harford Democrat.

The Same Old Story.

The Maryland Legislature is at the same old game of padding the payrolls. After adopting a new set of Rules that promised a new era of things and after solemnly impressive speeches by the respective presiding officers that "sounded an economy note," we are being treated to the usual spectacle of a horde of useless officials that are handed out "jobs" for no better or more valuable public service than the bare purpose of paying political debts. How can it be done? Oh! That is easy, when the old Democratic Machine is well settled in the saddle and is strongly equipped with an overwhelming majority. It then becomes with said Machine a simple question of how far it can go in giving out political "paps" to the "boys," at the tax-payers' expense. If the taxpayer has any inclination to "kick," let him. The political Machine don't mind. It knows full well that when the next election rolls around, it will only have to yell "vote the ticket," to make the tax-payer bury his woes, forget his disgust and march up to the polls promptly and submissively to give another lease of life to that same old machine.

And so the thing goes merrily on, the tax-payer footing the bills and the political hack fattening off the performance.

Great is politics and greatly to be praised!—Cecil Whig.

Wasting Public Funds.

The Maryland Legislature now overwhelmingly controlled by the Democratic party, is going the limit at this session in placing on the pay-rolls a horde of useless employees many of whom perform no service and do not even take the trouble to go to Annapolis. In 1912 the number of employees totaled 81 and a storm of protest came from all over the State against such misuse of public funds. This year when fewer engrossing clerks are needed because bills are now printed and not engrossed as heretofore, one hundred and ten persons have been appointed to jobs by the Democratic majority. So it goes!—The Bel Air Times.

The Democratic party of Frederick county, as usual, got the short end of the string, when it came to apportioning the appointments at Annapolis on Monday. And the funny part of it is that there are more employees provided for than there were two years ago.—The Frederick Citizen.

Some people seem to be obliged to talk mean of others. That seems to be their only subject when they get together. If you hear any remarks they have made about you, don't get mad. Remember that gossipers have very little judgment and common sense.—The Middletown Valley Register.

Business experts seem to be agreed that the outlook for spring business is reassuring and promising, and that the bottom has been reached in commercial depression. It said the steel and iron trade begin to show evidence of improvement and while the improvement may be slow at first the clear-eyed optimists can plainly see rainbow tints gliding the horizon of the future. Men who are able to look ahead and get the proper perspective will reap the coming harvest of prosperity.—Catonville Argus.

The Maryland Senate has 27 members which have named 50 employees, while the House of Delegates having a membership of 102, requires the services of 117 employees to attend to their needs, surely a plentiful sufficiency.—Havre de Grace Republican.

"WEDDING BELLS!"

Mr Herman Cheesemeyer, formerly night watchman at the Piketown Pickle Factor, was seriously married last Friday afternoon to Miss Serreptitia Rhubarba Prunella Mudd, the accident occurring at the palatial home of the bride's parents above Si Hogboom's lively stable. The crime was committed at two o'clock by Rev. I. M. Good-enough, rector of Piketown Church of the Holy Roller Skaters, who mispronounced them man and wife.

The unblushing bride who confessed to forty years, though as yet a full confession has not been obtained, was charmingly attired in a dress of pink cheesecloth, caught up with purple caucelflowers, and she wore a wreath of Bermuda onions. The wedding march—"He's Got An Elephant On His Hands!" was entrancingly rendered by Miss Priscilla Puddlefoote, the church organist.

The bride walked in on the arm of her father, which difficult feat was applauded to the echo, and Mr. Cheesemeyer, neatly dressed in a green shirt, overalls, hip boots and opera hat, was supported by Mrs. Mudd, who loudly declared she had better start at once doing what she had always done for her husband. Mr. Cheesemeyer was followed by an imposing procession of bill collectors, but Mr. Mudd, a former tissue paperweight pugilist, restrained them until the decision had been given by the Rector, who announced the gate receipts to be a dollar and six cents.

Quite a number of guests were present at the wedding, and a number of presents ghesed at as they were not in evidence. After the last inning, a sumptuous collation of pickled pigs feet and prune ice cream was devoured, and the assembly adjourned at a late hour—by the request of Constable "Bije" Doodleheimer, who was present to preserve order.

At five o'clock the unhappy pair left on foot for Swamp Hollow, where they will inspect the new theatre; Mr. Cheesemeyer, it is reported, being interested in the scenery. Everyone wished them an enjoyable trip and a safe return—of the dishes Mrs. Mudd had borrowed for the auspicious occasion. Mr. Cheesemeyer is by birth a Finn, his mother being a Fish before her marriage. He is a steady, settled man, having spent twenty years in Sing Sing before coming to Piketown to settle down—but never up, as the bill collectors agree. It was said that the groom was uncertain as to what work he would pursue, but interviewed by the Trombone Sporting Editor, he said, with excessively pure diction—

"I ain't uncertain at all—I'm certain I won't pursue none—what for did I marry a father-in-law?"

Mr. Mudd was too full of spirits, having drained the keg, to utter a word, and his conversation will occupy a full front page on the back of The Trombone's Sunday Supplement next Thursday morning. When Mrs. Mudd was handed the bearded one about "not losing a daughter, but gaining a son" she answered with simple dignity, "Yes—to feed and bed!"

The affair was reported by special wire to The Trombone office—where bulletins were posted after each inning, showing the standing of the teams and the temperature of the patient. Too much credit can not be given, even by our town merchants, to the reporters who handled the colossal social event Piketown has witnessed for ages.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes to Mrs. Mudd, though Mr. Mudd is congratulated on his marvellous achievement of marrying off a forty year old daughter. At a town meeting last night, speeches were made, showing how Mrs. Mudd would have to support three, and our citizens responded nobly, securing her seventeen washes in a few seconds. Mrs. Mudd is now enabled to work day and night shift at the tub, and Piketown has the glow in its heart of having done a charitable deed.

Mr. Cheesemeyer, reached by telegraph last night, seemed surprised at the question—"When will you apply for a divorce?" but returned succinctly, "When I want it!" It is not known when he will return to Piketown, as Constable Doodleheimer vows to arrest him for stealing away—to avoid rice and old shoes.—Piketown Trombone.

Current Comment From Leading Journals.

Mouths That Should Be Shut.

There is a corollary and a counter-part to this fair, wise and just programme of Government policy and remedial legislation. It is that the mouth of the pestilent demagogue shall be shut, that there shall be an end to the attainment of political ambition through the harassing of corporations. The blackguards and blatherskites of politics have made their living by stirring up hatred against the corporations, against bankers, against business. The wonderful success of Mr. Wilson in carrying great projects of legislation through Congress, and the sagacity and the justice of his present recommendations have removed all cause and all reason for these assaults. "The antagonism between business and Government is over," says the President in his message. Then, since the main army has won its victory, let the guerrillas be put in the guard house or whipped into silence. This new constitution of peace "the peace that is honor and freedom and prosperity," will be an instrument without power and without continuance if the brawlers and disturbers are permitted to go on with their criminal conspiracy against peace, against honor, and against prosperity. And these observations we commend to the attention of the Democratic Congress.—New York Times.

Clear, Sonorous, Filling But Not Illuminating.

With his accustomed clarity of expression the President describes the purpose and effect of the several projects for finally overcoming the smallest degree of that "indefensible and intolerable thing," private monopoly. The "many hurtful restraints" of trade are to be so explicitly defined that the courts need have no confusion of mind about them, and a Government commission will advise business how to keep it out of the courts.

The President's "happy diction" is again in evidence in this message. He does not use as many words as his predecessors have done, but those he does use are sonorous and very filling, though somehow they fail to illumine the pathway or to give very much information.

Mr. Wilson is hopeful, and as long as we are all drifting on the same sea we may as well share his optimism and look forward to making some harbor where business, big and little may drop anchor and swing in the tide for awhile free from the assaults of criminal trusts and political bandits.—Providence Journal.

Jack Cade Blease.

Cole Blease, governor of South Carolina by a large popular majority, is a living mark of a great change of ideas in the South.

The Southern statesman were once strict constructionists, severe constitutionalists. They did not believe in private reform by public statute.

But since the South very generally went into prohibitory liquor legislation, it seems to have fallen in love with other forms of public regulation. Governor Blease's ideas are an illustration of this tendency.

In his annual message to the legislature, Governor Blease demands laws forbidding white persons to teach Negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Cubans, "or other disagreeable and incompatible races," to prohibit football, to prohibit men from smoking in restaurants when women are present, and to prohibit Northern men, owning land in South Carolina, from forbidding hunting on their estates.

Governor Blease is the legitimate political descendant of Jack Cade, who decreed that it should be a felony to drink small beer; that seven half-penny loaves should be sold for a penny, and that three hooped pots should have ten hoops.

Taking a further hint from Jack Cade's programme, we shall expect to see Governor Blease proceeding soon against the people who have traitorously corrupted the colored youth of South Carolina by erecting grammar schools for their benefit.—New York Mail.

If That, Why Not This.

Now that Charles W. Morse, the former ice king, demands an investigation to clear his name, why shouldn't the eminent medical authorities who certified that he had only a limited time to live also put in a plea for an inquiry that will straighten the professional reputations?—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Former Senator Chauncey Depew still says sharp things. He told the Republican Club in New York that he looked with complacency upon the appointment of Mr. Pinell as Ambassador to Russia because he believed Mr. Pinell would learn something over there. Mr. Depew explained that he always favored the education of citizens at the public's expense.—Washington Herald.

MOST VALUABLE OF TREES

What is probably the most valuable tree in the world, the Ganter acaguate, also popularly called the Ganter avocado and alligator pear tree, was planted at Whittier, Cal., in 1905, by A. R. Rideout. It bore fruit at four years of age. When five years old it produced a crop of 1,300 pears. During the year 1912, seven years after planting, the Ganter tree bore over 3,000 pears which sold at from $5 to $6 a dozen, totaling in all, $1,500. Budding wood from the tree, sold at ten cents a bud, the same year, brought $1,706, so the total revenue of the tree for the year amounted to the phenomenal sum of $3,206.

The Ganter tree was named after A. M. Ganter, who once owned the ranch on which the tree is planted. It is a seedling, the seed having been part of some unselected seed brought, presumably, from Mexico and planted promiscuously. Other seedlings which grew from the same planting are conspicuous for the infinite variety of results they have produced. One tree, planted at the same time as the famous Ganter, has grown to the same height as the Ganter (about 40 feet), but it never bears more than 50 pears a season.

The Ganter, besides being a prolific bearer, has demonstrated its superiority in hardness during the severe frost which California experienced last winter. Budded Ganter stock to seedling roots, survived, while in many cases the seedling stock to which it was budded, was frozen to the ground. First class nursery stock of the Ganter budding has been commanding from $10 to $15 a tree.

Ganter pears average in weight from eight to twelve ounces. They are about the size of small cantaloupes. They will keep from ten to twelve days after picking, which will allow ample time for transit across the continent and marketing. Shipments have been made from Whittier to New York and Pennsylvania with satisfactory results. There is one seed in each pear about the size of a walnut. The rest of the fruit is edible, excepting the peel.

OLD FLAGS AT ANNAPOLIS

There are only a few "Old Glories" in the Annapolis collection of 173 historic flags, but each is connected with some incident that gives it the honor of its present position. There is the 31 starred flag that flew as an ensign beside the sunrise flag of Japan when the close-shut doors of that island kingdom were pried open for American commerce. The old flag that Lieut. Charles Haywood defended so gallantly in 1847 at San Jose, Lower California, is there to recall the story of how he and his tiny garrison held an old mission house for over three months against an overwhelming Mexican force. Here too are a few reminders of history's saddest war, our own Civil war. Side by side in the one case are draped the ensign of the Union man-of-war Kearsarge and the stars and bars of the ensign of the Confederate cruiser Albemarle. The most recent addition to the collection is the ensign of the battleship Maine, which was recovered 14 years after the catastrophe in Havana harbor.

REMARKABLE HYBRID FOWL

At a recent meeting of the British Zoological society there was exhibited a living example of a remarkable hybrid between a black-winged peacock and a domestic hen (cross-bred game and Leghorn), which had been bred by R. P. Wheadon of Ilminster, Somerset, in 1911. The hybrid, a large, clumsily built bird, evidently a male by its spurs, attracted considerable attention on account of its strange appearance and its rarity, being only the second example of its kind known. It is mostly white, irregularly marked, especially on the neck, with reddish brown, a color derived from its mother, and clearly shows the characters of both parents. On its crown is a short tuft of feathers, and on either side at the base of the upper mandible there is a small wattle, while the middle tail feathers are long and curved, as in a male fowl.

MAKES ARTIFICIAL DAYLIGHT

A machine for making artificial daylight to be used for matching colors and tints has recently been invented. It consists of a cabinet, 28 inches high, surmounted by a dome-like reflector. By projecting the rays from an incandescent gas burner of a special type through plates of colored glass a perfect reproduction of average daylight is said to be brought about in the lower part of the cabinet.

COSMETIC OF THE MACUAS

In an effort to counterfeit the pale beauty of their Caucasian sisters the women of the Macua tribe of the Portuguese colony of Lourenço Marques, South East Africa, have invented a sort of face paste which, when applied to the human countenance and allowed to dry, assumes the appearance of a fine, white enamel. This paste when allowed to set properly is perfectly waterproof and very elastic as it adjusts itself without cracking to the flexing of the facial muscles. One coat of the cosmetic when expertly applied will retain its pristine purity for a month or more. Although the materials from which the enamel is compounded are well known and easily obtainable throughout the region the art of mixing them is known only to a few old women of the Macua people. These ingredients include a certain variety of white and very hard wood which, when rubbed upon a block of pumice stone with a small amount of "ant" oil, produces a whitish mixture which is the base of the enamel. This mixture must be put through a number of secret processes before it is ready for use.

SHRINE OF JUJU IBIRI BONG

In exploring the Eket district of Nigeria, East Africa, P. Amaury Talbot found many ceremonies and customs that seem to have come down unchanged from the time of the Pharaohs. He discovered a secret society bearing the name Ekkpo Njwawhaw (ghosts—the destroyers) whose juju is Ibiru Bong. To invoke the aid of this terrible spirit against an enemy, one must pluck a leaf and call upon the name of the juju and that of the man to be injured. The offering must then be flung into creek or stream that it may be borne into the Holy bay. Directly it reaches the shrine the juju will lie in wait to drag to death the one against whom his aid has been invoked.

BORING CLAM OF PACIFIC

The phola, or boring clam of the northwest coast, is one of the most curious creatures known to science. Although almost universally known as the "rock oyster," the bivalve is a member of the clam family and makes its home in rocks of varying hardness that are covered by the sea except at very low tide.

The creature begins boring into the ledges when very minute, using its sharp shell as a rasp. The shell is replaced by secretions as fast as worn away. When it penetrates the rock about six inches, it ceases from its labors. Its nourishment is obtained from the infusoria swarming in salt water. The phola is considered a great delicacy by epicures and is in demand at the summer resorts along the coast. In many localities the clams are blasted from the ledges with dynamite. Lately quite a trade has developed on Puget sound for the clams, which are found in great profusion on the shores of the inland sea. They are shipped to many railroad centers.

MUSHROOMS IN QUARRIES

In France, mushrooms are cultivated in subterranean quarries at a depth of 60 to 200 feet from the earth's surface. These quarries have been found extremely profitable in this connection, owing partly to their equable temperature and their freedom from draughts, provision being made, however, for their proper ventilation. The beds are formed of manure, covered with about an inch of fine, white, stony soil, in which the spawn or mycelium is introduced at a depth of a few inches, and in rows eight to ten inches apart. The length of the beds is variable, and in general they are approximately 20 to 25 inches wide and of the same height.

ANOTHER LEANING TOWER

Pisa is not the only place to possess a leaning tower. At Etampes, France, there is one which dates back to the sixteenth century. Recently it was thought that this tower was leaning too much, and an expert investigation was ordered. The experts have come to the conclusion that the position of the tower has not altered by a millimeter during the past three centuries. Cardinal Richelieu had the tower examined in 1639, and a comparison of the figures then arrived at with those of the present experts shows no difference that can be measured by scientific instruments.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mr. and Mrs. John Roddy and son, John, Jr., attended the Automobile Show at Baltimore for two days last week.

Mr. George Zimmerman spent a day in Baltimore last week.

MRS. ELIZABETH EYLER.

Mrs. Elizabeth Eyer, wife of John D. Eyer, died at the home of her son, John A. Eyer, January 24th, aged 84 years, 1 month and 29 days. She is survived by her husband who is 86 years old, also the following children: Peter C., John A., Joseph J., Mrs. William Eyer, Mrs. Christian Miller, all of near this place, Mrs. Elijah Baker, of Hagerstown. Fifty-one grand children are living, eighty three great grand children and five great great grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. Jane McClain and Mrs. Margaret Eyer. She was a kind and gentle wife and a loving mother but she is gone but not forgotten, may her rest be sweet.

Dear mother thou has left us.
Oh, the loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God that has bereft us—
He can all our sorrows heal.

We will often listen for that voice,
We will turn to see that smile,
That always made our hearts rejoice
And the dreary hours go by.

But she heard her Saviour say
"Come unto me and rest
Lay down, oh, weary one, lay down
Thy head upon my breast."

Sleep on dear mother and take your rest,
Fillow your head on the Saviour's breast
Free from sorrow and all pain
In heaven we, will meet you again.

When our dear Saviour bids us come,
Our dear mother will hold the gates ajar
And welcome her loved ones home.

By her children,

Letters To The Editor.

(The Editor would have it understood that he is not responsible for the views expressed in communications addressed to him and published in THE CHRONICLE.)

No attention will be paid to anonymous communications.

Editor Weekly Chronicle:

It is reported that the sanitary cans were arrested and lodged in jail. The powers considered them a nuisance. What an excuse to make a nuisance. Poor pole-freed cans, waiting for the passers by to fill them with the floating trash that is deposited by careless and thoughtless persons, and make the street present a respectable appearance. Can they be bailed out? or will they be fined for misdemeanors whilst other cases are passed by, such as Hallow E'en, and its rowdiness, not mentionable, and men too full to get in their vehicles at midnight, swearing and quarrelling and the rowdiness on the streets so often heard, the insulting language to old men. The gatherings at various places in town, where the guffaw is intended for men and women passing by. What motives had the objectors to the cans? and why would the authorities hear such objections after giving their consent to put them up? Why go back on themselves when such a course was approved, cheerfully?

Let the public know the reason why they are not where they should be, instead of in jail. Reports are not always reliable. We want the official report. Remember I am not concerned with either party.

AN OUTSIDER.

In Honor Of Her Birthday.

The following persons spent a very enjoyable evening at the home of Miss Emma Stoner, the occasion being in honor of her birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bollinger, Jesse Dorsey, Robert Grimes, Ethel Grimes, of Motters, Virgie, Raymond, and Curtis Roop, of Keysville. They were pleasantly entertained by a band of string music by the Roop's young folks which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

The building committee of Hood College met on Thursday evening and awarded the contract for landscape work at Greater Hood College to Harrison and Schreier, Philadelphia. Probably the artists will begin work in about six weeks.

The order of General Agent, T. Latrobe, Northern Central Railway Company, issued on Friday, requiring all merchants of this city to deliver and check packages for passengers at the baggage room was the signal that let loose scores of protests from prominent business men of Frederick, and resulted in the Board of Trade sending a letter to the General Agent.

Charles Rothenhuefer was found helplessly pinned beneath a pile of fallen lumber in the lumber yards of Messrs. Wilcoxon and Brown and had not some workmen who were standing nearby heard the crash the man would surely have sustained fatal wounds. He will be confined in the hospital for some time.

An interesting insurance tangle is set for trial at the next term of the circuit court. The case will be heard upon the bill of interpleader filed by the Modern Woodmen of America, to determine whether G. W. If the Franklin County, Pa., officers do not pay the expenses of Sheriff Conard, incurred in capturing Lewis Linebaugh, who admitted stealing a horse from C. D. Buddeke, near Blue Ridge Summit, it is more than likely that the county authorities will prefer charges against the boy for selling stolen goods in this county. Sheriff Conard's expenses were $15.55, which Sheriff Walker, of Franklin County refused to pay.

Three measures affecting Frederick county were reported favorably by the lower house of the Maryland Legislature on Wednesday.

In ten days this city has lost approximately 5,760,000 gallons of water, because of two leaks in the main leading from the Fishing Creek and Tuscanora Creek receivers to Frederick. Fortunately the supply of water now is large and the leaks were not noticed by many.

The members of the Free Library Committee are looking forward to a book reception. President Rosenstock is in favor of using 140 volumes of the Independent Fire Company, which are placed at the disposal of the Public Library committee of the civic club.

To Head Jerusalem School.

Professor James Allan Montgomery, teacher of semitics at the University of Pennsylvania, has been granted a year's leave of absence so that he can accept appointment as director of the American School of Research at Jerusalem. Dr. Montgomery is also professor of Old Testament literature in the Episcopal Divinity School, and is the first member of the Episcopal Church selected for this office.

The number of men killed was the least since 1906, the death rate per 1000 employed was the smallest since 1899, and the death rate per 1,000,000 tons of coal mined was the lowest on record.

LIQUOR SALES INCREASING.

It is a significant fact that while practically half the area of the United States is under prohibition laws, last year's sales of intoxicating liquors, as officially reported by the revenue department, were the largest ever recorded and showed a gain over the year before larger than the gain in population. The increase in beer drinking was a million barrels, and in whiskey and brandy seven and a half million gallons. This does not look as though prohibition were the cure for the liquor evil.—The Southern Messenger.

Notes and Remarks Both Personal and Pertinent By "Country Contributor."

Miss Rose Krug and Mrs. Henry Cool are visiting their sister, Mrs. Walter Merriam in Baltimore.

Mrs. Gloyd Cook is suffering much pain from a severe case of blood poisoning, her left arm being affected from hand to shoulder.

Mrs. M. C. Bennett has returned to her home in Hagerstown, after a very pleasant visit with friends in Emmitsburg and this vicinity.

The many friends of Mrs. Charles Brawner will be pleased to hear that she is rapidly recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. John J. Crumlish during the past week entertained at dinner, Mrs. John McForeman and Misses Annie and Estelle Codori, of Emmitsburg.

Miss Moran, of Hagerstown is visiting friends near St. Anthony's.

The weather during most of the month has been delightful, neither too warm, nor too cold, just the kind of weather which would induce those fond of walking to take long tramps in different directions, if it were not for the general condition of our roads. Mud! Mud! kneedeep in most places and not only deep, but of an adhesiveness that clings on with no let up about it. In some roads the mud is so deep that it seems to be bottomless. Even on the "State Road," walking is no longer a pleasure as any person can see with half an eye. When the road was under the Emmitsburg and Frederick Turnpike Company, it was kept in very good repair, gutters kept open, ruts filled, etc., yet, the majority of persons traveling on the road then, growled over the small amounts they paid at the different toll-gates, yet this small amount was not much of a tax on each individual riding or driving on the Turnpike, and it was applied to keeping the road in good condition. Since the State acquired the road not much repairing has been done to it, water fills the ruts made in the road by passing vehicles. Great pools of water stand here and there, where the road is hollow as the gutters are hardly ever opened.

In the condition the road now is, it is not much pleasure to travel over it even for autos and other carriages, and at places, during a rain, or after it is almost impossible for foot passengers, and especially that piece of "Road" lying between the "Red Bridge" and the "Race Bridge," which forms one almost continuous pond, as the writer only knows to well, having to walk over it when going or coming from town. A stone pile forms a boundary on the Eastern side of the road, a gutter bounds the other side, in between a fine long pond of muddy water, there is no choice way of getting over it, or around it only to wade through, and to be well splashed with mud and water whilst crossing by every vehicle which drives past, and this piece of road is not only in that condition while it is raining, but for most of the time as any one who chooses to do so can investigate for themselves. Every person who has to pass in and out of Emmitsburg will bear witness to the condition of the road.

She Set a Trap For Him

By F. A. MITCHEL

A gentleman alighted from a railway train, took a cab and was driven to a suburban residence. His summons at the front door was answered by a maid in a white uniform, trimmed far more elaborately than is usual for servants. Indeed, had it not been for the cap on her head he would not have taken her for such.

"Is Miss Mulford at home?"

"No, sir; she's not. She's gone to the city."

"That's too bad. I've come a long distance to see her." The gentleman seemed much put out. He stood thinking what he would do next.

"Beg pardon, sir. Are you Mr. Fitz Hugh?"

"Yes."

"Please come in. Miss Mulford left a message for you."

Mr. Fitz Hugh entered the house, and the maid showed him into a very pleasant reception room. On a table he found a note addressed to him. It read:

My attorney has advised me that you will visit me for conference upon the settlement of our interests in the Ormsby estate in the hope that we may come to an agreement whereby litigation may be avoided. I have been called away today and have instructed my maid to keep you till my return this evening. Annie will provide you with whatever will enable you to pass the time so far as she can.

The maid stood by demurely waiting while the gentleman read the note. When he had finished he looked up at her admiringly and said:

"Miss Mulford assures me that you will do what you can to keep me till her return. The way for you to do that is not to give me books to read or pictures to look at, but to entertain me yourself."

"How could I do that, sir," protested the girl, "you being an educated gentleman and I only a lady's maid?"

"You can do it better than the lady herself. Heaven protect me from these intellectual women. They know just enough about a subject to show their want of depth and think all the while that they are showing their brains. In my opinion a woman is intended for motherhood and has no business with ideas."

"Oh, sir, you're very hard on us poor women."

"Not on your kind—on women who know everything. Doubtless if you had left Miss Mulford to entertain me she would have bored me with a lot of opinions that would interest no one but herself."

"What kind of woman is your ideal?"

"To me amiability and beauty are the only requisite traits."

"Then you don't care for smart women at all?"

"I don't wish one of them to come near me."

"Not even a woman who is capable of taking care of her business affairs? Miss Mulford wouldn't suit you, sir, for she's all of that."

The maid entertained Mr. Fitz Hugh during the day by listening to him talk. By the afternoon mail came a note from Miss Mulford asking him to leave a proposition with Annie since she would be delayed in the city for several days. He submitted a basis for settlement, and Annie picked out several points in it that would lead to trouble. He saw and corrected them at once and complimented her on her foresight. Then he left her and returned to the city.

In a few days he received a note from Miss Mulford that she was sorry to give him another journey, but she would be pleased to have him call again. He went, wishing that he might find the lady again absent and be turned over to the care of the maid. "That girl," he said to himself, "is just what I'll want for a wife—that is, if she were in the same social class with myself."

On reaching the house he was admitted by a butler, which was a great disappointment to him. He had intended to say a few nice things to the maid before seeing her mistress. He was ushered into the same room as before, and in due time Annie came into the room dressed like a lady. Fitz Hugh looked at her surprised.

"Mr. Fitz Hugh," she said, "pardon me for playing maid the other day. I desired before entering upon a discussion with you as to business affairs of great importance to both of us to learn what kind of man I had to deal with. I found you. I am happy to say, a gentleman of sound ideas, liberal and capable of understanding your own interest as well as mine. You know that it is in your power to deprive me of my interest in the estate if I go to law. In other words, I am at your mercy. Can you blame me for learning your disposition before taking action?"

"No, I can't," rejoined Fitz Hugh earnestly. "I can suggest a way by which our interests can be made identical."

"What way?" asked the lady, dropping her eyes before his impassioned gaze.

"Marry me."

"I will," said Miss Mulford.

A few days later Miss Mulford visited her attorney.

"Well?" he asked. "What luck?"

"I've got him."

"Good! It was your only chance to save anything. How did you manage it?"

"Oh, that's a little story," she replied, and, dropping into a seat, she told him of her ruse to trap Mr. Fitz Hugh.

The skirt in pegtop style is an unquestioned favorite. It gives the fashionable effect of broad hips, and it takes graceful folds. This one consists of only one piece, seamed at the center front, while the closing is made invisibly at the left of the back.

Skirts of this kind are made of fine serge and the like; also from silks such as charmeuse, satin and canton crape for dressy occasions, so that the model may serve many uses. It is sufficiently drawn in at the feet to be fashionable and not too narrow to interfere with walking.

For the sixteen-year-old size the skirt will require three and seven-eighths yards of material twenty-seven inches wide. The width of the skirt is one yard and fourteen inches.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for girls of sixteen and eighteen years of age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8084, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

Story of a Lost Diamond.

A lady residing in a suburb of Boston sent her diamond ring to a well known shop there to be cleaned. A day or two later she took a journey of several hours. When she reached her destination she removed her glove, and lo, the diamond had come out of her ring. A diligent search failed to reveal the lost stone. She waited until her return to her home, and when the diamond could not be found there she went to the jeweler and told her story.

"I am afraid that you loosened the stone when you cleaned it," she concluded. She had little idea that he would agree with her, but to her surprise, after carefully examining the setting, he admitted: "I am afraid we did. I beg that you will select from my unset stones a diamond of about the size and quality of your old one, and I will give you back your ring looking as near as possible as it did when it was new." And he never charged her a cent! Of course he knew who the lady was and that he could trust her to tell a true story.—Kate Upson Clark in Leslie's.

Brazilian Rat Catchers.

Rats are a great nuisance in certain parts of Brazil, where the climate is very warm. The common cat does not thrive for some unaccountable reason, but is replaced by a domestic rat catcher, whose presence causes a decidedly unpleasant sensation to visitors when first they come in contact with the creature. It is a species of small boa constrictor—the gihola. The snakes are not venomous. They sleep in the house, generally taking up their position at the foot of the stairs. When nightfall approaches they begin to awaken, and during the night they glide swiftly about the premises looking for rats. Giholas are offered for sale in the markets of Bahia and Pernambuco at prices ranging from $1 to $5, according to the size of the creature. It is claimed that they are so easily domesticated that, if removed from one house to another, they invariably return to the house whence they have been taken.

Didn't Drop Into Poetry.

There is an interesting story of Wordsworth, who went to call on Miss Harriet Martineau at Ambleside. In the house which she had built and laid out, writes A. C. Benson in the Century Magazine. There was a gathering of neighbors present, and Wordsworth stood for a long time at the window contemplating the beautiful landscape outside. Then he turned to the party and said:

"Miss Martineau, I congratulate you on your beautiful little domain. The views are wonderful, and it will turn out to be the wisest thing you ever did in your life."

He paused for a moment, and the guests expected some comment on the uplifting effects of communion with nature, but Wordsworth, with a fine gesture, continued:

"Your property will certainly be trebled in value within the next ten years!"

Mail by Rocket.

The island of Good Hope was the first of the Friendly Islands to be discovered by the Pandora in 1791. But this lord of many islets is very difficult of approach, for the seas are dangerous except to very small craft. The post-master general has therefore invented a method of his own for the delivery of mails. He delivers them by rocket. When the hour of delivery arrives the whole population assembles on the shore to watch the great event, for it has happened that in midcareer the precious mail has burst and given its news to the waves. When the seven foot long rocket lands successfully there is a wild stampede of the natives thirsting for the latest news from Samon or the Fiji islands.—London Opinion.

The High C.

The famous composer and the noted tenor were standing by the rail of the ship looking out upon the tumbling waters.

"Yes," the composer was saying, "you took that high C perfectly."

"If I don't feel better in the morning," replied the tenor weakly, "the high sea is going to take me."

And he staggered toward his cabin.—New York Sun.

Condolences.

Mrs. Hen was in tears. One of her little ones had been sacrificed to make a repast for a visiting clergyman.

"Cheer up, madam," said the rooster comfortingly. "You should rejoice that your son is entering the ministry. He was poorly qualified for a lay member anyhow."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Self Sustained Humor.

"How did Borum get his reputation as a raconteur? His stories are not really amusing, and he doesn't tell them very well."

"No. But he can laugh at them in a way that makes him sound like a crowd."—Washington Star.

Wrappings of the Mummies.

The cloth woven by the ancient Egyptians was so durable that though it has been used for thousands of years as wrappings of the mummies the Arabs of today can wear it. It is all of linen, the ancient Egyptians considering wool unclean.

Truth and Life.

Where the seeking of truth begins, always the life commences too. So soon as the seeking of truth is abandoned life ceases.—John Ruskin.
