A RAW DEAL FOR COL.

Goethals Has Not Received Fair Consideration

ARE THE PLUMS FOR METCALF?

Friends of Officer, Irrespective of Party, Regard Appointment As Not Too Willing Move on The Part of Administration.

The friends in Washington of Colonel Goethals are not unduly elated over the situation which finds that officer somewhat precipitately and, withal, belatedly nominated as governor of the Canal Zone, to take effect on April 1, says the Army and Navy Register. It has been considered that the administration has shown a delay in this particular suggestive of reluctance in making the appointment, and there has been no concealment of congressional impatience with the executive branch on account of the deliberation.

Perhaps this is responsible, in part, for the impression that Colonel Goethals, since the advent of the present administration, has not had the cordial and prompt support which his position and record are considered at the capitol as his due; at all events, that sentiment exists and may lead to some interesting developments during the next few months, especially if it shall appear that there is any attempt to obtain legislation which will continue in existence and in power the Canal Commission, as is reported to be the intention, after April 1 without Colonel Goethals.

Without the special legislation the Canal Commission will go out of existence on the day when Colonel Goethals becomes the Zone governor. This would have the effect of making Mr. Metcalf, Secretary Bryan's appointee on the commission and his former associate in business, the head of the body whose principal function is assumed to be that of parading Europe and arranging for the foreign participation in the celebration of the Canal opening. It is known that the relations of Colonel Goethals and Mr. Metcalf have not been of the harmonious character.

There has been friction, due to the clashing of authority, since Mr. Metcalf arrived on the Canal Zone, and it is now no secret that some of the other members of the commission and Colonel Goethals have been all along in a sort of warfare. This combination of circumstances, coupled with the indifference of the administration toward Colonel Goethals during the past few months, is described as responsible for Colonel Goethals' willingness to seriously consider the appointment as New York police commissioner, and the negotiations between the municipal head and Colonel Goethals in regard to that office unquestionably forced the hand of the administration, which finally perceived that the time for action had come and that further postponement of the appointment was not possible on any ground. It was realized as a result of the comment on the situation that Colonel Goethals could not be long ignored in determining upon the appointment to the governorship of the Canal Zone. There is an inside history of the affair which may some day be revealed, especially if Congress is called upon for further legislation.

Many Defective Locomotives.

Some interesting facts have been brought out since the inspection of locomotives by the Inter-State Commerce Commission. In 1912 there were 856 accidents resulting from failures of locomotive boilers and their appurtenances, causing 91 deaths and injuring 1005 persons.

In 1913 these items were reduced to 820 accidents, 36 deaths and 911 injuries. Of 90,346 locomotives inspected over half (54,522) were found to be defective, and 6690 were either held out of service or ordered changed and strengthened to conform to the requirements of the law. It is difficult to understand the attitude of certain railroad officials who object to making some of the repairs and revisions called for, although the defects are such as might cause serious accident, on the ground that the law does not cover such defects and that the Commission was exceeding its authority in pointing them out and calling for their correction.

The fastest steamship in the world is said to be the new Russian torpedo destroyer Novik, which on her recent trial trip reached a mean speed of 37 knots.

The estimated daily average consumption of cigars in the United is 21,718,448, and of cigarettes, 23,736,190.

NINETEEN THIRTEEN MADE HISTORY IN AVIATION

Men Who Also Made Year Notable.—Continents No Longer Limit The Journeys Of Airmen.

Dwarfing the achievements of all previous years in aviation, 1913 will long stand as a mile-stone to mark the beginning of long-distance cross-country flying. The accompanying illustration can only convey in a very general manner an idea of the accomplishments of the kind of pilots Europe is now turning out. It shows, however, beyond a doubt, the tremendous strides taken in the development of the aeroplane.

The most notable journey of the year is not possible to show graphically. This was the flight of Victor Stoeffler, the Alsatian airman, who covered 1350 miles in a single period of twenty-four hours, travelling from Berlin to Posen, back to Berlin, then via Darmstadt, and concluded with two round trips between the latter two cities.

Bridejone des Moulins made the longest flight so far as total mileage is concerned by planning from Paris to St. Petersburg and back, 3000 miles in all, of which nearly 900, from Paris to Warsaw, were covered between sunrise and sunset on one day. Two aviators, Bonnier and Vedrines, flew from Paris to Cairo. Especial interest attached to the former's journey from the fact that one of his stops was made at Jerusalem at the edge of the pool of Siloam. Daurcourt accomplished three-quarters of the same route when he lost his machine in the Taurus mountains.

In England the longest flight was made by Hawker, 1500 miles, three-fourths of the way round the British Isles. An army captain, Longcroft by name, made a world's record by flying from Montrose in Scotland to Portsmouth on the south coast of England, and thence to Farnborough without alighting, nearly 700 miles in all. Another officer, Captain Becke, flew in one day from Montrose to Limerick, on the west coast of Ireland.

These flights, showing the achievements in reliable communication by aeroplane between points far apart, are eloquent of possibilities for various air services in future.

WESTERN MARYLAND FIGURES IN STILL ANOTHER WRECK

The Pennsylvania Also Has an Accident Near Union Tunnel Outside Of Baltimore.

Sunday was an off day for railroading in the vicinity of Baltimore. Traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad between Washington and Philadelphia was tied up for a considerable time when Philadelphia-Washington express No. 57 crashed into the rear of a New York-Washington mail and express a few miles outside Baltimore. Three men were injured slightly and were brought to Baltimore.

Then an engine attached to a passenger train of the Western Maryland Railway crashed into a freight train about 300 yards south of Walbrook Station.

Following the accident the engine of the passenger train was thrown from the track, rolled down an embankment about 15 feet and set fire to the stables of the Hudson Cement Company.

The accident happened close to 6 o'clock. The passenger train was approaching Walbrook Station and a freight engine was backing out with several cars from the Wabash switch off. The engineer of the freight locomotive either failed to hear or take heed of the warning blasts of the passenger train and continued on to the main line. The passenger locomotive struck the first car of the freight and overturned. The engineer and firemen jumped just as the crash came. Hot water and steam reached the firemen before he could scramble out of reach. Passengers in the coaches were shaken up but none injured.

Chinese Demand For Foreign Goods.

Now that many of the Chinese are adopting foreign dress, foreign food, and foreign-style houses they are demanding a larger quantity of foreign merchandise. The sale of foreign clothing, shoes hats, and jewelry is rapidly increasing. Foreign made furniture also is coming more and more into use, and while a great deal of the foreign-style furniture is being made in China there is a growing demand for foreign locks and hardware of all descriptions. A considerable increase is noticed in the consumption of foreign food, and tinned provisions are enjoying a wider sale.

Reports from Georgia are that practically every county in the state is represented at the winter school conducted by the Georgia State Agricultural College. Girls and boys are present. Fathers and sons study side by side.

Proprietors of many Back River resorts have been fined for violations of the Sunday closing law.

"Mendel Beilis," a melodrama founded on the story of the trial for "ritual murder," in Russia, is being given by the Holiday Street Theatre Stock Company in Baltimore this week.

John Chaney, familiarly known in Cumberland as "Long John," reputed to be the tallest man in Western Maryland, died at his home at Avilton, Garrett county, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. He was 84 years old.

The new military company being organized in Hagerstown will obtain the required quota of men this week, there being three more enlistments necessary. The company will then be mustered into the First Maryland Regiment, commanded by Col. Charles A. Little, of Hagerstown.

Rockville, Montgomery county is much perturbed over the development of merely a score of cases of typhoid fever.

The National Cannery Association and allied industries is in session in Baltimore this week. There are more than two thousand attending, many with their wives and daughters, and they represented every State in the Union.

The Hagerstown Sanitary Milk Pail Company was incorporated Monday with a capital stock of $5,000. The company will manufacture and sell sanitary milk pails, invented by Alexander F. Demory, who is president of the company. County Clerk Alexander R. Hagner is secretary and Vernon N. Simmons, editor of the Hagerstown Herald treasurer.

The Rover Flour Mill, property of Augustus R. Selby, of Rover, Howard county, was burned Tuesday morning. Besides the mill and machinery, a large quantity of flour, wheat, corn, cornmeal and buckwheat were destroyed. The loss is about $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

A. K. Myers, ex-chief judge of the Orphans' Court of Carroll County, died suddenly at his home at Frizellburg, Monday. He was 65 years old, and leaves a widow and the following children: Harry K. Myers and Mrs. Clarence Myers, at home; Robert Myers, Westminster; Mrs. Frank Warchime, Silver Run; Mrs. George M. Motter, of Littlestown, Pa.

Woodsboro is planning for an electric light and water system. Following the election of a Burgess and three Commissioners an effort will be made to amend the charter so as to give the Burgess and Commissioners the right to issue $10,000 in bonds. At a mass meeting G. P. Smith was nominated for Burgess and C. A. Welker, William B. Stambaugh and Dr. William H. Kable for Commissioner. The election will be held Saturday.

The Castle Hill Orchard Company has been organized at Snow Hill. The company has 243 acres of land on which 18,000 apple trees are being planted. The land between the rows will be used for trucking. The varieties to be planted are 7,800 Staymans, 2,800 York Imperials, 2,800 Guno, 4,000 N. W. Greening Yellow Transparent and Williams Early Red. Peach trees will be planted as fillers in part of the orchard. The incorporators are John W. Staton, James Whaley, Orlando Harrison, George A. Harrison, G. Hale Harrison and Henry Long Harrison.

Only 27 per cent of the tillable land of the United States is actually under cultivation, according to estimates of the Department of Agriculture, based upon reports of 35,000 correspondents.

The National City Bank of New York has a capital of $25,000,000. Its surplus and profits are $30,500,000, and its deposits more than $210,000,000.

DIRECT ELECTION OF SENATORS TO BE GIVEN A BIG TEST

One-Third Of Membership To Go Before People In Next Ten Months.—List Includes Several Veterans.

The list of Senators facing the trials and dangers of political campaigns this year include a large number of veterans in the Senate.

The elections will offer the first general test of the direct election of Senators. Several members of the Senate have been elected under State laws which substantially provided for direct elections under the Oregon plan.

Senators whose terms expire March 3, 1915, and who will be returned or defeated in primary elections to be held within the next few months are Bradley, Brady, Brandegee, Bristow, Burton, Crawford, Cummins, Dillingham, Gallinger, Gronna, Jones, Penrose, Perkins, Root, Sherman, Smoot, and Stephenson, Republicans; Chamberlain, Clarke, of Arkansas; Fletcher, Gore, Newlands, Overman, Shiveley, Smith, of South Carolina; Smith, of Georgia; Smith, of Maryland; Smith, of Arizona; Stone, Thomas and Thornton, Democrats.

Among the veterans are Senator Gallinger, who has seen longer continuous service in the Senate than any other member, having been seated in 1891; Senator Perkins, whose service will cover twenty-two years; Senator Penrose, who has been in the Senate since 1897, and Senator Dillingham, who first came to the Senate in 1900. Senators Clarke, Stone, Overman, and Smoot, will have been in the Senate twelve years when their present term expires. This list includes eight of the twenty oldest Senators in the upper house of Congress.

Senator Sherman has seen less service in the Senate than any other member facing a campaign for re-election, having taken his seat March 26, 1913, after a deadlock in the Illinois legislature lasting many weeks. Two other new arrivals who must go back to the people are Senator Brady, of Idaho, who took his seat January 14, 1913, and Senator Thomas, of Colorado, who took his seat January 15 of the same year.

CITY REGISTER OF NEW YORK SOUGHT TO PURIFY POLITICS

John J. Hopper Spends $100,000 Of Private Fortune.—Friends Will Give Banquet In His Honor.

They have discovered a Democrat holding office in New York City who has spent something over $100,000 of his private fortune in trying to purify politics without abusing anybody. John J. Hopper is the high-minded citizen, and he has been the city register for some time back without attracting much attention, except that his friends wondered why a rich man should care to hold office of any sort. Hopper lamented the corruption and graft of Tammany methods and sought to bring about a changed condition of things along with the sending to jail of some especially active offenders. He spent many times his salary each year in the purification business and wonders why the game of graft goes on. His friends admire his zeal for the righteous uplift and all that sort of thing, wondering most when he will grow weary of it, but they feel he deserves some reward, and they have planned a big banquet in his honor the night of St. Valentine's Day. Several members of the New York delegation have been invited and a committee will possibly arrive in Washington this week to invite President Wilson.

It will be explained that Hopper once classed as one of the Hearst Independence League organization, became a convert to the Wilson Democratic faith and proclaims admiration for the Wilson way of doing things in the White House. The President may not attend the banquet, but a cabinet member may be secured, along with an administration Congressman from some other than New York State. Hopper is not anxious for any political honor and the chief aim of his friends is to give some reward for his uplift efforts.

Retirement of Colonel's Of The Army.

The secretary of war still has under consideration the cases of about twenty colonels of the line of the Army with a view to ordering certain officers, perhaps as many as five or six, before Army retiring boards for examination with a view to transfer from the active list. The records of the colonels who have been designated as entitled to consideration are being carefully considered, and the secretary of war will undoubtedly be guided in his determination of individual cases by the recommendations of the chief of staff. The retirements will be on account of physical, professional, and temperamental incapacity.

NATION THANKS FEW HEROES

LIST INCLUDES BUT 104

That Many Joint Resolutions Passed by Congress.

WASHINGTON FIRST HONORED

Captain Rostron Rescuer of Titanic Survivors, The Most Recent Instance.—Thanks Rare During Peace Period.

It is interesting to note, just at this time when the whole country is chafing under the delay of Congress in giving due recognition to Colonel Goethals, Panama canal builder, that since the Declaration of Independence in 1776, the thanks of Congress have been given to 104 persons. This is at the rate of less than one year; as a matter of fact so many heroes were thanked during the Revolutionary and civil wars that the thanks of Congress rarely are given during times of peace. The thanks extended to Captain Henry Rostron, of the Carpathia, for his rescue of survivors of the Titanic, is the most recent instance of thanks given for a peaceful mission.

The list of war heroes who have been thanked by the passage of a joint resolution by the two houses of Congress includes most of the prominent figures in American history beginning with Washington, who received the thanks of the Continental Congress for the capture of Boston.

In the whole list there is the name of only one woman. She was Elizabeth Thompson, who presented to the government Carpenter's painting of the signing of the emancipation proclamation.

Congress occasionally has recognized the victories of peace, despite the preponderance of the names of war heroes in the brief list. To Cyrus Field Congress gave its thanks on the completion and operation of the Atlantic cable. To Tewfik Mohammed, Khedive of Egypt, Congress voted thanks for his gift of the obelisk, which stands in Central Park, New York. Cornelius Vanderbilt was thanked by Congress for the gift of his yacht for naval purposes during the civil war, although this was a quasi-naval event.

George Peabody, of Maryland, was thanked for his philanthropic gifts. These included among other things, $23,000,000 for education in the South. He was offered a baronetcy in England but refused it. Henry M. Stanley was voted thanks for his African exploits but Stanley's subsequent action left a sore spot in Congress. Stanley's American citizenship was questioned at the time thanks were bestowed. Subsequently he was quoted as speaking disparagingly of the action of Congress and when he became a British subject and was elected a member of the British Parliament the resentment of a certain American clique was manifested.

John Adams, the second President of the United States, was among the first men to receive the thanks of Congress. Before he was elected Vice President in 1796 Congress publicly thanked him for his ten years' service as an American diplomat in Europe.

An alphabetical list of the men who have been recognized by Congress as worthy of the gratitude of the American people shortly will be published under order of the Senate. It promises to be a valuable contribution to a branch of Americana given little attention in recent years.

Machine Politician a Woman.

Mrs. Gertrude A. Lee, formerly vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is now chairman of the State Democratic Committee, of Colorado. She is also chairman of the Woman's Division of the State Committee. Mrs. Lee has announced that she is a machine politician. She added however, that by a machine she did not mean "a corrupt body, but an organization pure in principle and certain in purpose." To suffragists the most interesting thing about the new Democratic boss is her statement that she hopes "to make the Democratic Party the leading exponent of the rights of women." With the women of the equal suffrage states fully aroused to their power, and also to their responsibility for helping to secure political rights for other women there is no doubt that all of the big parties will realize they must endorse votes for women if they wish to carry the next Presidential election.

A Japanese company has planted $200,000,000 pearl oysters in a bay in that country, and believes it will harvest millions of pearls through a recently invented process for impregnating the mollusks.

Farm Implements for Turkey.

Owing to certain land improvements now taking place in the interior of Turkey, and also because of the great influx of refugees into Asia Minor from certain districts affected by the recent war, there is a new era of agricultural activity about to commence. The Ottoman Government is recognizing the Agricultural Bank to the extent that loans may be made to small farmers on easy terms in order to aid them to purchase agricultural implements. This should create a good market for American farm machinery, which is of the type likely to be used by small farmers unable to purchase elaborate machinery.

The Bank of England was enabled in consequence of further world-wide ease in the monetary situation to lower its minimum discount rate by one per cent, making it three per cent.

PUBLICATIONS IN U. S.

According to the forty-sixth annual census of the publications of the United States and Canada, published in the American Newspaper Annual and Directory, five new publications are started every working day in the week. So many suspensions and consolidations occur, however, that the net gain is only three papers a week.

There are in all 24,527 publications, of which 2640 are dailies. Evening dailies outnumber morning dailies three to one. There are 572 Sunday papers. The publications of the country are printed in 40 languages. Only four industries now exceed, in point of capital invested, the printing and publishing business.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Very little if anything has come from the agitation in the Maryland General Assembly. Numerous bills have been introduced and referred to this or that committee for consideration or debate.

One bill that is raising a howl among automobile owners in the State, and that means no small number of citizens—is that introduced by Senator Maloy, proposing large increases in the charges for automobile licenses of all classes, the schedule of provided rates running from $50 to $200 per annum.

Spring state-wide primary elections are urged in another bill.

The Garrett County local option bill passed the Senate unanimously.

VESSELS COMMANDER IS HELD
NEGLIGENT BY COMMITTEE

Capt. Berry of the Merchants and Miners' Steamship Nantucket is to Stand Trial.

Capt. Berry, of the Merchant's and Miners' steamship Nantucket, which rammed and sank the Old Dominion liner Monroe, off the Virginia capes with the loss of forty-five lives Friday morning, will have to stand trial.

A committee appointed by Secretary of Commerce Redfield, after consideration of the report of Inspector Robert E. Tapley, held that Capt. Berry was negligent. Capt. Berry will be tried by the Federal Steamboat Board at Philadelphia.

Inspector Tapley will be instructed to file formal charges against Capt. Berry. The trial will have a strong bearing on the $1,000,000 libel suit filed by the Old Dominion Company against the Merchant and Miners Company for the sinking of the Monroe.

The trial of Capt. Berry can either exonerate him, or cause the suspension or revocation of his license to command or assist in the command of any vessel licensed by the United States government.

Policewomen For Washington, D. C.

If the recommendations of Major Richard Sylvester, Chief of Police, are approved, Washington will soon have several policewomen added to its patrol force.

In his report to the District Commissioners, Major Sylvester says that there are many phases of police work for which policewomen are best fitted, such as the protection of women and girls and the supervision of motion-picture shows, dances and other forms of amusement.

Taneytown to Petition Legislature.
 The citizens of Taneytown and vicinity held a formal public meeting and adopted a petition and request for legislation embracing matters pertaining to election, property assessment, appropriations, roads, health and morals, and the sale of intoxicating liquors. Rev. L. B. Haffer, E. D. Garner, Rev. S. R. Downie, Judson Hill and Charles E. H. Shriver were appointed a committee to present this petition.

The Snow Covered the Beech.

WHEN one goes to bed early on a windy night it is sometimes hard to go to sleep.

Jack and Evelyn found it so one night, and daddy said he would tell them a little story about the wind and the trees.

"The old north wind is something of a joker," daddy said. "If the trees paid no attention to him it would be much better for them. But in the winter they have nothing to do but to stand around and try to keep warm, and, like most idle creatures, they are apt to get into mischief."

"When lively Mr. Boreas, as the north wind is called, comes blustering around with this tale and that they listen to him and believe him instead of paying no attention to his mischievous stories."

"In summer, when the trees have work to do and are busy growing, they stand together, laughing and talking."

"In the fall, when they lose their lovely leaves and stand out bare and thin, their tempers seem to change."

"But to get back to our story, one day Mr. Boreas came rushing through the woods. He stopped a minute beside the big beech tree to playfully twist some of its crooked branches."

"'Mighty cold weather this,' Mr. Boreas said. 'But it will be worse than this after awhile.'"

"'Hurrah,' cried the cedar trees, who had heard Mr. Boreas; 'we are going to have cold weather!' They liked the snow and the cold."

"'Oh, keep quiet!' snapped the beech tree. 'You don't know what you are talking about. It won't be cold for a long time.'"

"'It will, though,' the cedar trees answered, and the oak, too, nodded its head. The oak was the oldest and wisest tree in the woods."

"'I don't believe a word of it,' the beech tree replied. Then there was a murmuring from all the trees in the woods, for the oak was their king, and whoever was rude to the king was punished."

"So the murmuring grew until the people who lived on the edge of the wood said, 'Just hear the wind in the trees!'"

"The north wind had come rushing back again, and he helped the other trees to punish the beech tree. With their long arms the trees beat and hammered at the beech tree until great branches were broken off it."

"And then the wind brought in the snow, and it drifted on the beech tree, covering its branches with heavy ice until at last it tottered under the load and fell to the ground."

"And because it had always been a fretful, complaining creature it was not missed in the forest."

Birds.

The first "birds" were not much like those of the present time. The pterodactyl, supposed to be the pioneer of bird life, was a great feather winged monster, with great spears on the hinges of the wings and a mouth full of sharklike teeth. The pterodactyl did not sing, and could we have seen him we would not have felt like singing ourselves. True birds, and especially the warblers, are very late in geologic time. There was no bird melody in the carboniferous jungles. The singers, in all probability, did not greatly antedate the human race.—New York American.

Where Sentiment Stops.

Mary Johnson in her book "Hagar" has Mrs. Green, one of the characters, reply to the heroine's wish that she could make money by saying: "It ain't so easy for women to make money. There's more ways they can't than they can. It's what they call 'sentiment' fights them. Sentiment don't mind their being industrious, but it draws the line at their getting money for it."

A Great Art In Little.

"Is there really any art in conversing?"

"Of course, always say small things in a big way and big things in a small way."—Minneapolis Journal.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingano Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

"THE INDICTMENT IS AGAINST THE PARENTS."

Parents, through indifference or through their own negligence, too often foist upon teachers the extra burden of inculcating "home training" in children.

"Many children of today," truly says a northern publication, "receive less home discipline and parental instruction than did their predecessors."

Certainly the responsibility of a parent towards the child is one that a Christian, that a self-respecting mother or father cannot conscientiously escape. Clearly it is not the duty of the school teacher to take the initiative at least. The best that can be asked or expected of him or her is to supplement the training of the home, and by moral precept and moral development bring out the best that is in the pupil.

Is the child of this day offered the home life and parental companionship that it ought to have? Is the home hearth made attractive to the child? And around that hearth is respect and obedience and consideration so implanted and cultivated by wholesome training that it becomes the child's second nature? If not the street must become the creature of the street.

"The street" points out the same journal, "has its uses, but it is not a substitute for fireside or lecture hall or church as a place for youth to gain ideals; and if for any reason, in rural hamlet, suburban town or urban center, the street becomes the only recreation center and evening school of youth, the indictment is against parents who will not displace the street from its coign of advantage."

Have you a child? Then make it welcome in the home. Let the home under natural restrictions be the haven for the child and its companions, and so order the home and the conduct of its inmates that parental discipline and respect for parental authority are so intermingled with good feeling and mutual interdependence that happiness and home will become synonymous.

TO INSURE PEACE.

From both branches of the Service, and from the highest authority in each, comes the plea for preparedness on the part of the United States. It is all very well to talk peace, to write peace and to urge peace through international congresses; but wars and armed interventions are liable to be made necessary almost any moment, and before actual war begins is the time to have ships and shells and men and munitions of war. An adequate navy and an army ready in spirit and in numbers to cope with the ships and men of no matter what power—these factors are much more conducive to peace than any others yet discovered.

No matter what the crisis—be it war, flood, fire, shipwreck—the heroism, the unselfishness, the innate chivalry of the average man (we will qualify it by saying American) clothed though it may be at times by a rough exterior, is always conspicuous. Who can better exemplify this than the conduct of Keuhne, the wireless operator of the Monroe, in the Virginia Coast disaster last week? He risked and lost his life, to save a negro "Mammy."

And not to be out done in courage and consideration the negro waiter on the same ship gave his life that an aged white lady might save hers. Truly "heroism is the brilliant triumph of the soul over the flesh" * * * over fear, suffering and death."

SUCH LUCK.

When ended is the daily grind
A wearied gent
Turns homeward, but alas, to find
The cook has went.—Pittsburgh Post.

And more than that, to find a much
Distracted dame
Who tells him (don't it beat the Dutch!)
That guests have come.—Boston Transcript.

And then he finds next morn
When he has risen
Some chump has left the bummiest hat and coat
And taken his'n.

PANTALON skirts, fur anklets and straw hats were features of the fashion turn-out on the boardwalk. They forecast styles to be seen in the Easter parade, is the announcement from Atlantic City. Why don't the men get in the game at Easter too? How about limousine pajamas, with hoop skirt effect and poached egg and spinach trimmings, wicker top boots, a patent-leather high hat and seal skin fan.

What is the use of having a State Shellfish Commission if its recommendations in respect of oyster culture are to be nullified by individual opinion? Several oyster bills have been introduced and more may follow, but common sense would surely suggest that the expert opinion of this regularly established commission should be the last word on the subject.

SAYS the Washington Herald, "Uncle Joe Cannon announces that he is here to run a few errands; Uncle Joe has 300 per cent too much pep for a messenger boy." Maybe is in training for another run for Congress.

Out in Portland, Oregon, the eighth and ninth grade pupils of the public schools had a spelling bee which lasted two hours, and the simple word on which the losers stuck was "musilage."

"THEY are teaching boys to sew in Minnesota," read a heading in a paper yesterday. Why not teach them, then, to tuck in old Kentucky and to knit, perhaps embroider and crochet?

Word comes from the White House that the President will keep "hands off" in State political fights hereafter. Some wisdom, that.

In simple terms the President's proclamation regarding Mexico is "Go to it."

STEEL CHIPS ON FIRE.

The belief that iron will not burn was exploded recently by a fire in a pile of scrap iron which gave the Plainfield, N. J., fire department several hours' hard work. Behind a machine shop there was a large heap of steel chips from automatic turret and screw machines—a pile eight feet high containing several carloads. Considering the heap fireproof, the yard gang started a rubbish fire against one side of it. Long after the rubbish had burned out, smoke and flame began to come from the pile of steel chips, and in several places the bottom was found to be glowing white hot. Twice during the next twelve hours the fire department had to be called to fight the fire, and each time after it had been flooded with two powerful streams the fire in the steel chips sprang up again. It burned with a weird, hissing sound, little smoke and only thin yellowish flames, but tremendous heat. The chips had been put through a centrifugal separator, and very little oil was left upon them. Hence, it must have been the iron that burned. Evidently the metal was so finely divided and presented so much surface to be oxidized in proportion to the radiating surface of the pile that combustion proceeded exactly as in a pile of coal, only faster. The pile sank to one-third its height, but the metal had not melted; where the fire had been hottest the chips simply turned dark blue.—Popular Mechanics.

AGED PREACHERS IN GERMANY.

The shamefully inadequate provision made for the support of the aged ministers of the Gospel of most denominations of this country, is in marked contrast to the superb provision made for them in Germany. There, it is stated, the young minister gets a minimum salary, usually $500 and a parsonage. This salary is increased every few years until, at 65, the minister, even if he has changed his parish, receives $2,500, the largest compensation permissible, to which is to be added the use of the parsonage and certain fees given him. At 65 the minister can withdraw on a pension if he shall so elect, or if the parish shall so desire. Or he can continue by general consent for five years longer. On withdrawing he receives as a pension for the rest of his life, two-thirds of his last and highest salary. On his death his widow receives an adequate pension for the remainder of her days, and also each of her children, until their sixteenth or eighteenth year.

MEMORY FOR BENEFITS.

To have a memory for benefits, not for offenses, these are the two pivots on which friendships may rest strong and abiding, friendships which add to the greatness of noble minds. Be not like those who are hurt and offended by an unkind word or by a word meant in fun, and which escaped, as it were from a cloister, unlocked for a moment by the tongue,—yea, more hurt than they ever were pleased, and comforted by a thousand renewed proofs of loving friendship.—Petrarch.

Tennessee is the only State that has two men in the President's Cabinet, McAdoo and McReynolds—one Irish and the other Scotch.

FOOTBALL MEN IN POLITICS.

The recent election of Blair Lee as United States senator from Maryland recalls to mind the long list of former players who have won public recognition of similar nature. Lee, who was a famous "forward" at Princeton in the late seventies, playing the position of "next-to-end" now known as tackle, followed the footsteps of many other Princeton, Harvard and Yale players.

Robert Bacon, late ambassador to France, was an old Harvard captain and half-back; James S. Harlan of the United States Interstate Commerce Commission, is an old Princeton forward. Lee McClung, late treasurer of the United States, a former captain and half-back at Yale; William H. Lewis, recently Assistant Attorney General of the United States, an old Harvard center; S. H. Thompson, the present First Assistant Attorney General of the United States, and William W. Roper, the present surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, both Princeton ends; ex-Congressman Lucius N. Littauer, a line-man for the Crimmon; Gifford N. Pinchot, late Chief Forester, once a varsity man at Yale, and his successor, the present incumbent at Washington, Chief Forester Harmon S. Graves, a former back for the Blue. The late Governor William E. Russell, of Massachusetts was a half-back at Harvard; Governor George R. Carter, of Hawaii, once a guard at Yale; Everett J. Lake, the great Harvard half-back, lieutenant governor of Connecticut, and the famous W. H. Corbin, affectionately known as "Pa," the present commissioner of taxes for Connecticut, once a center for Yale. John C. Bull, the great Pennsylvania half-back, is Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania.

In the Connecticut Senate recently sat Frank S. Butterworth, Yale's famous full-back of twenty years ago. Down in Delaware is Justice Marvel of the Supreme Court and once Secretary of State, an old Princeton captain and forward, and in the office of the attorney general of Maryland sits celebrated Edgar Allan Poe of Princeton. In the office of the chief justice of New Jersey is William S. Gunmore, another old Princeton captain; in Pennsylvania's Twentieth Judicial Districts another Princeton player, Judge J. M. Woods, George W. Woodruff, an ex-judge of the United States Circuit Court was once a celebrated guard at Yale, and still more famous as a coach at Pennsylvania, inventor of the quarterback kick, guardsback and a host of other football manoeuvres. A recent reform mayor of Harrisburg was Vance McCormick, the old Yale quarterback. A late assistant police commissioner in New York was Bert Hanson, the old Yale guard, and there is "Big Bill" Edwards, an old Princeton captain, late New York street cleaning commissioner, now in charge of a similar department at Newark. M. J. Charles D. Daly, the army's successful coach last fall, has recently left the office of fire commissioner of Boston to rejoin the army and the list might be continued indefinitely.

THE AESTHETIC ELEMENT.

Education is no longer acquisition but attainment, writes a contributor to the New York State Journal of Education. The best success and happiness is not what one has, but the use of what one has. How much one can get, and how little use, is not the question, but rather how much use is made of what one gets. The ethical and aesthetic are now more vital than the economic; indeed, the economic is now largely ethical and aesthetic. He is rich and happy who can get the most satisfaction out of the least, who can make a little do a great deal of good. The aesthetic elements will enable a young woman to add more to her attractiveness with an inexpensive bow of ribbon than another with an outfit of new garments. One flower may be more effective in beautifying home or grounds than a whole bouquet or a garden.

Education in aesthetics has sometimes been misdirected to criticism, teaching one to be constantly uncomfortable because high art is so rare, while the aesthetic in education tends to make one group the common things of nature and life into garlands of beauty. Under the microscope the fuzziest leg of any wriggling thing is perfect, while the most polished bit of polished steel is chaos; so the aesthetic in education teaches one to see beauty in nature, to be comfortable in the presence of whatever is God-given. Poverty cannot make one who can enjoy nature in all its beauty poor, wealth cannot make one rich who can find no beauty or comfort in the every-day conditions of life.

A MONSTER NEWS SHEET.

In this progressive day when the tendency is toward big things, a newspaper of twenty-four pages, measuring seventy by one hundred inches and selling for fifty cents a copy, would be looked upon as a unique sheet. The "Quadruple Constellation" was a journal of this kind. It was issued by one George Roberts at 12 Spruce St., New York, and its edition was 28000 copies. This was fifty-four years ago. One of these papers was discovered among the effects of Ferdinand Dreer, Philadelphia. The "Constellation" required forty persons eight weeks to compile it and it was the intention of the editor to have the publication issued every hundred years.

Editorials From Maryland Exchanges.

The Interstate Commerce Commission investigating the railroads demands for increased rates, finds that the railroads have been giving rebates to industrial plants, amounting to many millions of dollars should be credited to the railroad companies receipts and profits. The Steel Trust, one of the greatest of all the industrial plants, was the complainant receiver of more than $15,000,000 in rebates that should be credited to railroad profits. This would indicate that railroads should re-organize their finances by keeping the money it gives as rebates, and not ask more from the people.—The Harford Democrat.

When such staunch Democratic newspapers as the Westminster Advocate warns the Maryland Legislature to cease its extravagance and get back to a rational economy, it is time for those who are directing the raids on the public treasury at Annapolis to call a halt.—The Sykesville Herald.

Senator Blair Lee's immediate admission to his seat on Wednesday by the affirmative votes of all the Democratic and fourteen of the Republican members again places Maryland in her true position in that august body and shows the steady progress of modern standards in government over old time partisanship. Twenty years ago Senator Lee would not have received a Republican vote. The people of Maryland feel assured in advance that our new Senator will merit by his future career the ideals of his warm admirers.—Eel Air Aegis.

In spite of the explanations offered to excuse the extravagance of the House of Delegates and the unprecedented raid on the State treasury to meet its swollen payroll the taxpayers of the State will refuse to accept any attempt to defend the employment of 13 pages, 7 messengers, 8 watchmen, 9 doorkeepers and 20 printing clerks, etc., for a legislative body of 102 members.—Democrat Advocate.

The tango craze must have reached great proportions in Massachusetts, for a bill has been introduced in the State Legislature to prohibit this dance, on penalty of $50 fine or six months imprisonment for second offence. Congressman Linthicum of Baltimore has introduced a bill, which if enacted will be of vast benefit to the country at large and especially so to the citizens of Maryland, who have noted the growing scarcity of our fish food supply. The object of the proposed law is to give the Federal Government control over the fishing seasons in the inter state bodies of water, and also to regulate by Federal control the shipment of fish oil and fish fertilizer scrap. Fish and Game Commissioners from all along the Atlantic coast will attend the hearings on the bill which will be held in Washington on February 18th and 19th before the Merchants, Marines and Fisheries, and the Interstate Commerce committees. The government should have control of the fishing seasons, as it now has in the case of migratory birds, in order to prevent the utter extinction of many kinds of our food fish.—Maryland Independent.

We Must Wake Up.

Two hundred and sixty students are enrolled at the Maryland Agricultural College this year—and one thousand would be a small and insignificant number. We must make Maryland Agricultural college a great college, and before it will be great, it must have great teachers at sufficient salaries, an equipment so fine, that we will attract young men from other States as well.

Given an Agricultural College of influence, well equipped, and it will be a source of help to every farmer in Maryland. Scientific farming is no longer a joke—it is a demonstration fact, and usually the farmers are the first ones in the State to appreciate this, and draw on the college for needed information and advice;—whether it's hog cholera, foot and mouth disease, or "blight," or dry rot—the Agricultural college knows why,—and the remedy.

Let each and every one of us weigh these facts, and then write a letter to a State Senator whose vote will help—so that the Agricultural college will get the needed appropriation.—New Era, Towson.

To require 117 men and women, with a clear prospect of more to be employed to wait upon 102 members, after a constitutional amendment had been adopted which was claimed would dispense with the need of many of those who had been previously employed, passes our comprehension.—St. Mary's Enterprise.

Br'er Jap And Br'er Mexicano.

The Mexicans and Japanese who think they have discovered in each other long-lost cousins are greatly mistaken. They have nothing in common but hostility to the United States. Fraternizing recently in Tokio, they claimed kinship closer than that existing between any other nations. Now in the City of Mexico they protract their banquets into the morning hours with descriptions of family characteristics possessed by both peoples.

Mexico, Aztec and Spanish; Japan, Mongolian, Malay and Korean; Mexico, profoundly religious; Japan, pagan; Mexico, indolent and unprogressive; Japan, industrious and ambitious; Mexico revolutionary and anarchistic Japan, machine-like in its order, obedience and system; Mexico, content with primitive ways; Japan, restlessly imitative and putting the whole earth under contribution—these are the races which a few trenchermen, under the influence of common appetites and grievances, agree are of the same blood and the same social and political ideals.

There has been nothing funnier than this since the days of Joel Chandler Harris. Br'er Jap and Br'er Mexicano have the same relationship to each other that Br'er Rabbit and Br'er Fox had to Uncle Remus.—New York World.

A Pertinent Suggestion.

Next to intoxication, a medical journal suggests, it is probable that impaired eyesight is the most frequent cause of motoring accidents and urges that all applicants for license to operate motor-driven vehicles should be required to pass an eyesight test. It is argued that all railroads and most electric lines require such tests, yet the need is much greater for automobile or truck drivers because the railroad and railway men have steel tracks, guarded by signals and watchmen, over a familiar route, whereas the chauffeur operates on the streets and highways used by countless other vehicles and pedestrians passing in all directions.

Munich, Paris and other cities in Europe require an examination of the eyes of all taxi drivers. When the often reckless risks taken on the streets by motor drivers are considered, where the slightest error may bring injury and death not only to the occupants of his own car but to others, the importance of precautions against defective vision must be apparent to all. How many of the otherwise seemingly inexplicable accidents may have been due to an unsuspected impairment of vision?—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Best Short Story.

In the "Magazine Section of the New York Times for Jan. 25 twenty four authors attempt to answer the question, "What is the best short story in English?" Many answers are given, but it strikes us that Owen Johnson, after naming several short stories by modern authors—Dickens's "Christmas Carol," Irving's "Rip Van Winkle," Poe's "Gold Bug," and others—hits the nail on the head when he says: "As it is, put me down for the story of Ruth and Naomi. All things considered, it is the greatest love story written." On this the Times comments: "There might be some slight ground for debate as to the right of Mr. Johnson's ultimate choice to a place in the list of the best 'English' short stories"—but why? Is not the English Bible an English classic? And is not "Ruth" in English?—The Watchman and Examiner.

Mixed In His Greek.

The Hon. Wesley L. Jones, a senator in Congress from Washington, has re-introduced his interesting, his romantic bill to dedicate and devote a certain ground in Washington to memorials of women and their achievements and to call that site "the Parthenon." The Sun has vainly implored Senator Jones to buy or borrow a Greek lexicon. Will he not at least consult the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, the Hon. Champ Clark or some other scholar of Congress and learn thereby that a "Parthenon" is no fitting name for a memorial to a married woman; for we take it that he doesn't mean to exclude married women or widows from temple honors.—New York Sun.

PRESIDENT WILL SOON MAKE KNOWN VIEWS ON WATER POWER

It is Expected that Mr. Pinchot Will Again Wage War.—Democratic Leaders Opposed to Federal Tax.

The President will soon communicate his views to Congress on the subject of waterpowers, either in a special message or in communications addressed to the committees that have jurisdiction over this legislation, so it is expected.

It is understood that this policy will be favorable to state control of such public work. Members of these committees have discussed the question with administration leaders and they predict that when the president makes known his views as to the control of waterpowers Mr. Pinchot will begin warfare such as was waged with such disastrous political effect to Mr. Taft in the preceding administration.

Democratic leaders in Congress, notably Representative Adamson, of Georgia, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee, which has jurisdiction over such legislation, are violently opposed to levying a Federal tax on waterpowers. They take the position that the powers of the Federal government over navigable rivers is to see to it that the navigability of such streams shall be maintained at all times, and that public works that may be erected in these streams are, under the law, subject to supervision by the States in which they are located. This is said to be the view of the administration.

THRIFT BAROMETER.

Says the Christian Science Monitor mounting deposits in national banks and trust companies are not always a sign of prosperity. They may register the status of idle rather than working capital. But rising totals of the resources of the savings banks and increase of depositors are signs difficult to reconcile with the claims of prophets of panic and the doleful depictions of chronic pessimists. Savings banks deposits in large centers like New York and Chicago inspire confidence. In the latter city they amount to $13,000,000 more than they did a year ago, and the relative growth between Oct. 22, 1913 and Jan. 14, 1914, was faster than during any previous equal period. So also in New York city. Since the new year opened, deposits there have increased in volume at an unusual rate; 50,000 new accounts have been opened, and these mainly, so it is estimated, by wage earners.

To persons who realize how large a part these savings banks deposits, figuring as carefully guarded loans, have to do with development of civic and industrial projects, this continued growth of deposits and depositors will bring satisfaction.

FAMOUS FRESCO RUINED.

The famous fresco painting of "The Assumption," by Correggio, on the octagonal dome of the cathedral of Parma has been, it is reported, irrevocably ruined by a recent attempt at restoration. Several unsuccessful attempts have been made from time to time for the preservation of this fresco. Some years ago it was proposed to cover the painting with thin wire netting to keep it in place. This was secured by nails driven into the walls, which permanently disfigured the painting. Now the netting has been removed and the painting thoroughly cleaned with hard brooms, which removed, besides the dust and cobwebs, also a great deal of the color. A restorer is now painting over the frescoes with crude tints and obliterating every trace of the original.

PROFANITY IN MEXICO.

In Mexico profanity has become so extreme that it has almost ceased to be profanity. It has become rather a mere manner of speech. For instance, the owners of pulque-dens, without a thought of being sacrilegious, give such names as the following to their resorts: "The Delight of the Apostle," "The Retreat of the Holy Virgin," "The Retreat of the Holy Ghost," "The Fountain of the Angels," "The Seventh Heaven," "The Hangout of John the Baptist,"

$4,000,000 College For Orphans.

The second attempt of the heirs of Robert N. Carson, street railway magnate, to have his $4,000,000 bequest for the founding of a college for poor girls in Philadelphia, set aside, has proved as unsuccessful thus far as the first. Judge Solly, in the Orphans' Court at Norristown, last week, decided that the contention of the heirs that the will was invalid because it was not properly attested, was not well founded.

As a result of his decision, a remarkable institution will rise at Erdenheim. It is to be known as the Carson College for Orphan Girls; is to be non-sectarian, and there is to be a cottage system employed to provide the students with comfortable, homelike surroundings. It is to be conducted like Girard College, which has educated many thousands of boys since its establishment a century ago, by Stephen Girard.

A class in camp cookery has been organized by the department of home economics of the University of Wisconsin for the benefit of the men who are studying to become forest rangers.

Fish to the value of $34,000,000 were caught in Canadian waters in the last fiscal year.

THE U. S. GOVERNMENT TO SELL SEVERAL OLD VESSELS

The Secretary to Have Notice of Sale Extended to Time Limit in Hope of Securing Foreign Bidders.

The Navy Department will shortly take action looking to the disposition to the highest bidder of several obsolete vessels. One is the Manila at Mare Island, which will be sold on May 4 and the appraised value of which is $10,000. She was one of the vessels captured during the Spanish war. Another vessel to be sold is the Restless, a small vessel valued at $2,000, now at the naval torpedo station. It was intended to sell the Newark at the Norfolk navy yard, but that vessel, the appraised value of which was $50,000, has been withdrawn from competition and will be turned over to the Public Health Service. Some consideration has also been given to the sale of the old Independence at Mare Island, but citizens of Vallejo have expressed a desire to have the vessel turned over to them for preservation as a relic. Hitherto the Navy Department in disposing of vessels to the highest bidder has not advertised for bids for the period of three months prescribed in the law. A shorter period may be used for this purpose by authority of the President. It has now been determined by the secretary of the navy to have the notice of sale extended to the time limit in order that the greatest amount of publicity may attend the transaction in the hope that foreign bidders may be induced to enter the competition.

CLOVER THE STANDARD.

Red Clover is considered as the standard forage and soil-improving crop combined, and is more widely and generally used than any other crop for this purpose. The quantity sown to the acre is usually ten to twelve pounds. It is an excellent plan when seeding to also sow two or three pounds of alsike clover to the acre; and if it is desired to inoculate the soil for alfalfa, a seeding of three to five pounds of alfalfa is desirable. When these three clovers are sown in mixture, 8 lbs. of red clover, 3 lbs. of Alsike Clover and 3 lbs. Alfalfa is the quantity usually sown to the acre. The advantage of sowing alsike clover are more on the lines of crop insurance than otherwise, as alsike clover is surer to give a stand, and also stands more adverse conditions of dry or cold weather than other clovers.—Wood's Crop Special.

RAILROAD PARASITES.

It is an open secret, says the New York Tribune, that what the Interstate Commerce Commission is most anxious to break up is the system of graft between a large number of the railroads and certain supply houses. An officer of one of the large equipment companies said recently that the public would be surprised if it could learn of some of the practices by which railroad costs were swelled for the benefit of some of the directors and other insiders. Many an order for equipment, he said, was awarded to companies only with the proviso that they use a certain coupling or axle, or what not, the sole virtue of which was that it was manufactured by a company in which some of the railroad directors were stockholders.

FAMOUS ENCYCLOPEDIA.

Two sections bound into one volume of the famous Chinese encyclopedia have been lent for a few weeks to the London library by Wilfrid Merten, who had the good fortune to pick up the book for an insignificant sum in a London bookseller's shop.

The Yung Lo Ta Tien, or great dictionary of Yung Lo, is the biggest literary work in the world. It had over 2000 scholars engaged in its compilation. Its pages number 917,480 and the number of characters employed is 366,992,000.

SOOT USED FOR SIGNALS.

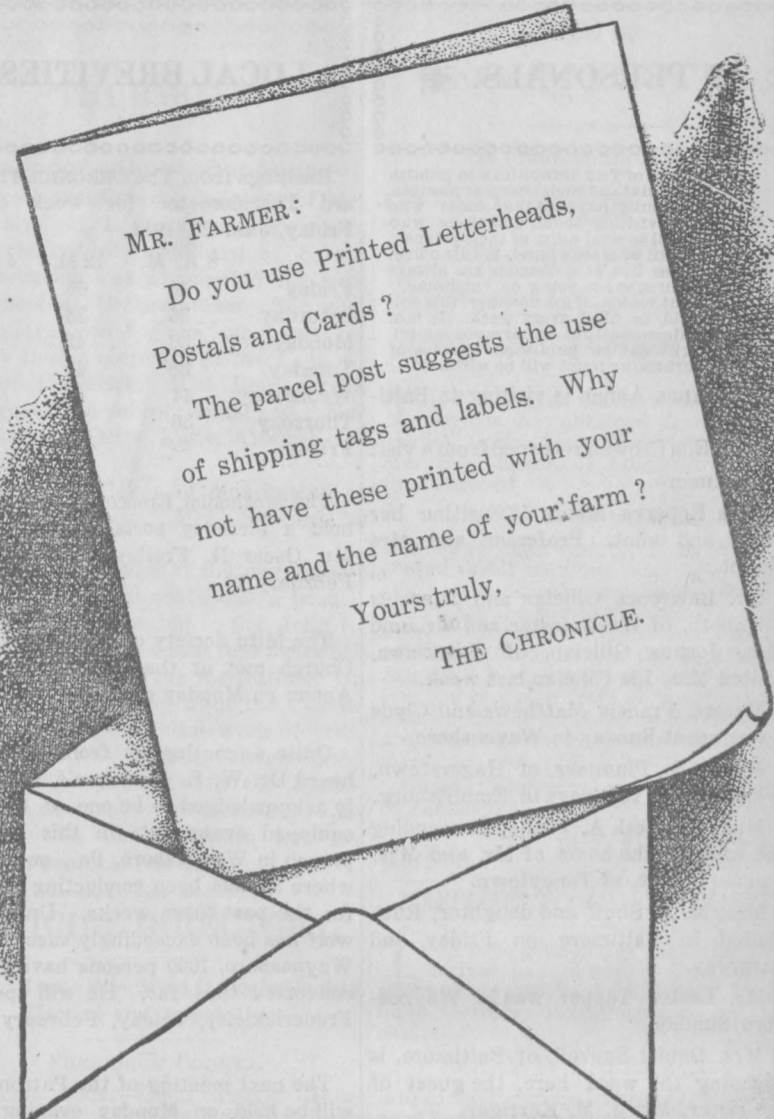

The French war office is testing an aeroplane signalling device invented by an American named Mearns, in which common soot is employed as the signalling medium.

The soot is carried in a box on the aeroplane and thrown out by an arrangement similar to a soda water syphon, a light cloud of soot representing a dot in the Morse telegraph code and a heavy cloud, a dash.

Mosquito Elimination.

The demand for mosquito netting and canopies has fallen off to some extent within the past few years throughout the island of Cuba, owing to the fact that the people in general are gradually coming to realize the necessity, from a hygienic standpoint, of preventing the breeding of mosquitoes in and near their residences. In all of the larger cities and towns there is a periodical house-to-house inspection by representatives of the sanitary department to discover if there are mosquitoes breeding in deposits of water within the houses or anywhere in the surroundings. As occupants of the houses are fined if mosquito larvae are found during these inspections, the result has been a great diminution of these pests and a corresponding lack of necessity for mosquito nettings and canopies.

Cuba's population is 2,387,000, according to the new census. The population in 1907 was 2,048,980.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

The Methodist Episcopal church will hold a birthday social at the home of Mr. Oscar D. Frailey, Friday evening February 20.

The Mite Society of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mr. E. L. Annan on Monday evening.

Quite a contingent from this place heard Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, universally acknowledged to be one of the best equipped evangelists in this country, preach in Waynesboro, Pa., on Sunday where he has been conducting services for the past three weeks. Dr. Biederwolf has been exceedingly successful in Waynesboro, 1000 persons having been converted thus far. He will speak in Frederick city, Friday, February 13th.

The next meeting of the Patrons club will be held on Monday evening February 9, at 7.30 o'clock in the school building. All the patrons of the public school are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The following pupils of the Emmitsburg Grammar School are on the Honor Roll for attendance for the month of January.—Alice McNair, Pauline Annan, Margaret Hays, Sara Linn, Emma Reifsnider, James Hays, Bryan Byers, Sheridan Biggs, William Hays, Richard Biggs and Joseph Zimmerman.

The following pupils of Hayfield school are on the Roll of Honor for January: Alice Orndorff, Catherine Orndorff, Edith Harbaugh, Maria Kelly, Nora Harbaugh, Sarah Winebrenner, Robert Grimes, Arthur Lingg, Pius Kelly, Elbert Harbaugh, Glenn Harbaugh, James Orndorff, Lester Winebrenner, Clarence Lingg.

The regular meeting of The Lyles' Club was held during the past week. A new member was initiated and a well-prepared program was given, consisting of instrumental and vocal music. Dainty refreshments were then served and the club adjourned to meet again next week. One P. M., was discussed upon freely as representing a good time for the grandiose association to muster. A large amount of metrical composition also was in evidence and at the next meeting a sumptuous feast is heralded by some of the illustrious members.

The moonlight schedule for street lights went into effect the first of the month, the electric lights being turned on an hour before moonset.

Mrs. E. Cora Rowe entertained the Auction Bridge Club on Friday afternoon.

The Emmitsburg bowlers met defeat in Thurmont Saturday night at the hands of the Thurmont Club, the latter having a surplus of two hundred and two pins. Bentzel, the high man for Emmitsburg rolled two hundred and sixty five while Creager of Thurmont had three hundred and twenty to his credit.

Admiral Jerry Overholtzer in charge of the wireless station beyond Poplar Ridge, reports that although he had them in the cellar and each were provided with a pair of blue spectacles, his three pet ground hogs to which he has been feeding Charlotte Russe and Asparagus tipped salad, saw their shadows on the 2nd inst. "Uncle Jerry" therefore predicts five weeks two days and thirteen hours of rough weather.

In addition to the many improvements made to their recently acquired property on West Main Street, Messrs. H. M. Gillelan & Son have had erected in front of their meat market a substantial wooden awning.

The Mite Society of the local Methodist Episcopal Church was held at the home of Mr. Joseph D. Caldwell on Friday evening. A special and much enjoyed programme was rendered, which was followed by refreshments.

Applications for electric light are rapidly being filed with the Emmitsburg Electric Company. Within a remarkably short time the company has been in existence its customers, actual and on their waiting list, number forty.

During the past ten days blossoms have appeared on fruit trees, buds have been noticed on many rose bushes and several robins have been seen in the neighborhood.

There were 14 births in Emmitsburg District in January. This is the largest

OFFICER WILLIAM DAYWALT
KILLED BY DESPARADO

Former Constable of Emmitsburg Fired Upon Trying To Make An Arrest At Waynesboro.

William Daywalt, a policeman of Waynesboro, Pa., formerly constable of Emmitsburg, was shot and killed near the former place late Tuesday night by Abram Barnes, whom he was trying to arrest.

Abram Barnes and his younger brother, William, known as "bad men" came into Waynesboro from their home in the mountains near the Maryland line, filled themselves with liquor and proceeded to terrorize the town.

William Daywalt, a policeman ordered them to leave and in a subsequent altercation with Daywalt and the chief of police the brothers opened fire. One bullet killed Daywalt. Another wounded Miss Maria Graff, a bystander. Barnes was killed this morning by the Sheriff's posse while trying to escape. Before dying he confessed to the killing of Officer Daywalt.

Constable Daywalt was born February 28, 1875, and for a number of years served as constable in Emmitsburg. He was a fearless officer and his excellent record soon attracted the attention of the Waynesboro authorities who secured his services about five years ago. He is survived by a wife, who was Miss Stella Glass, of Emmitsburg and five small children.

Humanity by Parcels Post.

Sending children by mail is the new departure in the Parcels Post system. Tuesday a woman in Kansas received her two-year old nephew by parcel post from his grandmother in Stratford, Okla., where he had been left for a visit three weeks ago.

The boy wore a tag about his neck showing it had cost 13 cents to send him through the mails. He was transported 25 miles by rural route before reaching the railroad and arrived in good condition.

number for any month since records have been kept.

Miss Pauline Elder was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, Baltimore, on Wednesday by Dr. J. B. Brawner. It is believed that Miss Elder is suffering from acute appendicitis.

Mr. John Matthews, of the firm of Matthews Bros., was taken to St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, Wednesday morning by Dr. B. I. Jamison.

A cinder walk was laid last week on Frederick Street between Hotel Spangler and the Opera House.

Dr. D. E. Stone has purchased a new automobile.

Mr. James Baker is suffering from blood poisoning.

The Equal Suffrage League will meet at Mrs. E. L. Annan's Friday, Feb. 13, 1914 at 8 o'clock.

Pupils of the Emmitsburg High school present every day during the month of January were: Mary Ellen Eyster, Francis E. Rowe, James C. Annan, Albert Maxell, Charles Riffle, Ferne Byers. Present every day during the past term (Nov. Dec., and Jan.): James C. Annan, Charles Riffle.

A spelling bee will be held in the Emmitsburg Public school on Monday evening, February 9. Everybody welcome.

THE WEEK AT THE COUNTY SEAT
Chronicle of Happenings at Frederick City and in the Courts.

One of the boldest robberies ever committed in this city occurred early Sunday morning, when a thief entered the boarding house of Miss Mary Futner, and stole $40.00 in bills. Sheriff Conard and his deputies spent some time investigating the case.

125 cases are scheduled for the grand jury. States Attorney Lewis said about four or five hundred witnesses will be examined.

That U. S. has less and less interest in merely collecting taxes from his people for the sake of revenue and is exerting greater efforts in the protection of his people and betterment of mankind, was the keynote of Congressman William P. Borland's address in the Empire Theatre at the sixth anniversary exercises of the Y. M. C. A.

Road improvements throughout Frederick County from January 1, 1913 cost more than $21,717.39. These are the first figures available from the books of the Board of County Commissioners.

Judge and Mrs. Glenn H. Worthington returned from their visit to Florida on Sunday. When they arrived in Savannah, Ga., they were much surprised to find frost on the ground. Both were much benefited by the trip.

Arrangements are being made for the annual banquet and election of officers of the Frederick County Farmer's Association. Mr. Jesse P. King is now president of the association.

A parcel post mishap was revealed when Postmaster William C. Birely and his clerks opened a third class mail pouch. A ten-pound can of lard had been battered and the lid had slipped off causing the entire sack to be covered with grease. This is the first time any parcel post package has been materially damaged at the local office.

The Frederick Armory gets the five-hundredth bronze plate from the United States Battleship Maine for a memorial tablet to be placed in the building in this city.

Mr. Marion S. Moberly was named librarian and court crier for this county circuit court. He succeeds Mr. George A. Schroeder, deceased, who held the position for 15 years.

Plans for the sale of valuable household effects of Robert Downing, the actor-evangelist and Helene Downing, his wife, were brought to an abrupt halt, when the Downings filed suits against Charles T. K. Young, a real estate operator, and Frederick Obenderfer, a furniture dealer for sums aggregating $60,000.

The grand jury began its twelve or fourteen-day session on Monday. William C. Neidig was selected as foreman. Chief Judge Hammond Urner gave the jurymen a few brief instructions and immediately their work proceeded. Mr. William H. Troxell was chosen from Emmitsburg District.

"The Tragedy of Moral Collapse," as exemplified in the downfall of Macbeth was the subject of Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, in the fourth of his series of lectures on Shakespeare Works at Hood College.

Nearly forty women appeared before the Board of Trade at a special meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building and through their spokeswoman, Miss Edna Carter, of the Union Manufacturing Co., presented their protest against the passage of the Maloy eight-hour law, now pending in the Legislature. A delegation will be sent to Annapolis where they will protest personally against the measure.

The renovating, repainting and repairing of the executive department of the city hall has been completed. It is the intention of Mayor Lewis H. Frailey to see that these public places are kept in a sanitary condition, and as a result the police force has been given orders to that effect. The Mayor is also determined to put an end to the roller skating on the streets.

Operation and control of public utilities and absolute jurisdiction over the awarding of franchises to corporations and individuals to operate public utilities in this city are the salient features of the bill which the Mayor and Board of Aldermen endorsed on Monday at a special meeting. The Bill will be introduced in the Maryland Legislature.

The city Ministerial Association met in the Y. M. C. A. building on Tuesday morning and the places of meeting for the addresses to be delivered by the renowned clergymen who are coming to this city next week were definitely arranged. Among the speakers are Dr. S. D. Gorden, Dr. William Souper, Dr. Russell Conwell, Rev. Mel Trotter and Dr. W. E. Biederwolf. Dr. Biederwolf will speak in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Friday evening, February 13.

On February 9, if the plan of former years is followed, the Board of County Commissioners will be called upon to appoint members of the Board of Charities and Correction for a term of two years, however it is thought that no appointments will be made until later, as a bill is now pending before the Legislature providing for the abolishment of the Board of Charities and Correction.

A book reception was held at the Y. M. C. A., on Wednesday for the benefit of the Free Library. This Public Library will be opened in the spring.

Statistics have it that 13,000,000 people saw 4300 football games in which 150,000 football players participated in 1913.

It Did.
In "Bohemian Days in Fleet Street" the following story of Charlie Williams, the war correspondent, appears:
"Charlie Williams could have given Baron Munchausen a stone and a beating. He spoke with a rasping North of Ireland accent, and his campaign anecdotes gained greatly by the stolid, matter of fact manner in which they were narrated. I recall now one of his campaign reminiscences. It is a quaint experience of a correspondent under fire.

"I had got under cover of a big bowlder and had tethered my horse beside me. I was just munchin' a beskit, when a shell burst on the rock an' shot the nosebag right off my charger. He had shoved his ould head out of cover."

"And you?" asked Pearce.
"I just went on munchin' my beskit."
"But," suggested Dunning, "if the shell took away the nosebag it ought to have carried away the beast's head as well."

"It did," replied Williams, with the utmost sang froid."

Watch the Clock.
If the passion for efficiency accomplishes nothing more it will—indeed, it has already—upset one of the most sacred tenets that altruistic employers ever put into the constitution and by-laws for the observance of employees. That tenet is, Don't watch the clock. It was hoped, of course, that if employees could be made to forget the clock they might also forget to go home at the expiration of the time for which they were paid.

Efficiency now makes the revolutionary demand that you should never take your eyes from the clock. To be a topnotcher in efficiency you must go even further. You must get a stop watch with split second hands and make sure that each minutest division of time has been assigned to it a precise and particular action, being or state. Watch the clock, my boy—watch the clock if you want to make a success in this world.—Ellis O. Jones in Lippincott's.

The Mullingers and the Hapsburgs.
The Mullingers are one of those old Swiss families concerning whom my friend Dr. Curti, distinguished Swiss national historian and director of the Frankfurter Zeitung, recently told me the following amusing incident, writes a correspondent.

Years ago a Mullinger was one of the staff of the Swiss legation at Vienna. On being presented to the Emperor Francis Joseph he bluntly expressed his pleasure at making the acquaintance of his majesty, which pleasure, he added, was all the greater since "in times gone by the Hapsburgs were mere retainers of the Mullingers."

"In that case," the emperor is said to have replied, "I think you will admit that my family has got on better in the world (that es weiter gebracht) than yours."—London Chronicle.

Try It on the Dog.

The farmer looked at the stranger and shook his head.

"What d'ye call yourself?" he asked.
"The Orpheus of the barnyard," replied the caller.

"What'n Tophet is that?" demanded the agriculturist.

The stranger smiled.
"A college professor has declared that hens will not lay at certain seasons unless they are amused. I'm the man who sits on a barnyard fence and amuses them. See, here is my mouth organ, and here is my tambourine. I play and sing and crack jokes until the hens roll over in sheer delight—and all for 50 cents an hour."

The farmer eyed him moodily.
"I wonder," he said, "how your talents would impress the dog? Here, Rover!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One Way to Cure "Nerves."

We remember hearing of an Englishman, a distinguished soldier, who was naturally a very nervous boy, but who had cured himself of the infirmity through reading Lever's novels. The manner in which Lever treats of all bodily peril as a kind of joke introduced him to a new philosophy that made any exaggeration of the advantages of bodily safety seem not only morbid, but ridiculous.—London Spectator.

Distinction.

"Don't you believe women can keep a secret?"
"Of course they can keep a secret."
"Well, I'm glad one man will admit it."

"Women can keep a secret. The trouble is they won't."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Quite Natural.

Bertha—And do you really believe that a woman always turns to the last page first when she picks up a book?
Percy—Well, I have no reason to doubt it. I know it is the nature of the fair sex to want the last word!—London Telegraph.

Willing to Help.

Father (to his old friend's pretty daughter)—Goodby, my dear! I won't kiss you—I have such a cold. His Son (with alacrity)—Can I do anything for you, father?

A Man's Vote.

To request an honest man to vote according to his conscience is superfluous: to request him to vote against his conscience is an insult.—Gladstone.

Lace flouncing is one of the smartest things for dinner and evening gowns. It is always beautiful and always easy to handle. This costume shows a most effective blouse and tunic worn over a plain two piece skirt. The neck is finished with a medici collar, which is very smart and almost universally becoming.

The wide girdle which extends over the hips terminates in the back with short sash ends. This gown is white save for the girdle, which is apple green.

For the medium size the blouse will require three and three-quarter yards of flouncing thirteen inches wide, the tunic one and five-eighths yards thirty-two inches wide and the plain portion of the blouse three-quarter yard of fabric, the plain skirt four yards twenty-seven inches wide.

These May Manton patterns are cut in sizes for the blouse from 34 to 42 inches bust measure and for the skirt from 22 to 30 inches waist measure. Send 10 cents each for these patterns, giving numbers, blouse 7842 and skirt 7671, and they will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.

The tam-o'-shanter is a pronounced favorite of the season. It is worn by girls and women alike and is very generally becoming. The hat pictured can easily be made at home by the amateur milliner.

The crown is joined to the under portion at the outside edge, and there is a band which fits comfortably about the head. As a matter of course, the trimming can be adjusted to suit the individual taste, but the simple quill is a much liked decoration. Velvet makes good looking hats of this kind, and for children fairy cloths are liked, and camel's hair cloth also makes charming little tams.

For the woman's size the hat will require one and three-eighths yards of material twenty-one inches wide or one yard twenty-seven inches.

This May Manton pattern is cut in sizes for women, misses and girls. Send 10 cents to this office, giving number, 8080, and it will be promptly forwarded to you by mail. If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage. When ordering use coupon.
