NOW IS OUR OPPORTUNITY IN SOUTH AMERICA

A $1,000,000,000 Business is Open to The U. S.

RECENT PEACE TREATIES HELP

The Administration is Making Every Effort to Get the South American Trade Which Has Been Deflected From Europe by the War.

Since commercial and industrial affairs in Europe have been brought to a dead halt by the war, it is clearly the duty of all neutral countries to do all in their power to ameliorate conditions so far as is possible without endangering or impairing their neutrality.

The progress toward the readjustment of affairs under new and unanticipated conditions is slow and difficult, but sure and certain nevertheless. There are great opportunities open to the United States in this matter of readjustment, which are a part of her great responsibility in rearranging the world's shattered commerce.

Chief among these opportunities is that for attracting the trade of the South American countries to the United States. The administration has realized this fact and has put forth every effort to open up this trade to the commerce of this country.

"While European artisans, mechanics and laborers are drilling and marching and fighting and killing one another, somebody must supply the peoples of South and Central America with the manufactured products which they need and use in their everyday life," said the Ohio State Journal. "Of course that somebody is the United States. The republics to the South buy annually from England, Germany and France and other Old World countries manufactured articles which cost more than $1,000,000,000. Last year Argentina alone bought $250,000,000 worth of such goods from the nations now involved in war. These buyers cannot get what they need from Europe now and naturally turn to the United States.

"There is a wonderful opportunity right now to establish with the Pan-American republics trade relations which will be permanent. President Wilson's wise policy toward these nations, as illustrated by his virtual recognition of three of them as world powers in the Mexican peace negotiations, has put them in a friendly frame of mind toward us. Sentimentally, they probably would rather deal with us than with anybody else. If our manufacturers are alive to the situation and resist the temptation to charge war prices for their goods, Europe never again will get much of this business, and within a very few years the business will be double or triple what it is now."

OUR DANGER IN FAR EAST

Philippine Independence Is An Unwise Measure At This Time.

"The nations involved in the Far Eastern struggle have many interests and territorial possessions in close proximity to the Philippines and to discuss the disposition of the Philippines at this time would be impolitic and extremely unwise," declares a minority report of the House insular affairs committee on the Philippine Independence bill.

The report, signed by the Republicans of the committee, declares Japan might seize all of Germany's Pacific possessions.

"A distinguished Japanese," said the report, "once observed that the Philippine archipelago is but a continuation of their own. Territorially we are in closest relations with Japan, one of the nations now at war.

"Still closer are our territorial relations with Germany. The Samoan Islands, in the South Pacific are divided between England, Germany and the United States.

"Hawaii with 191,000 total population has 80,000 Japanese and only about ten thousands Americans. This group of islands, in the center of the Pacific Ocean, is probably the most desirable strategic point in the world.

"It is true that Japan has stated that her offensive operations would be confined to Kaio-Chau, but why should they, from Japan's point of view? If angered by stubborn resistance, severe losses and pressed by an already aroused war spirit among her people Japan should seize all of Germany's Pacific possessions, no one would be surprised.

The Czar of Russia has ordered all German and Austrian sovereigns and princes dismissed from honorary colonelships in his regiments and that they be deprived of all Russian decorations.

ALL READY FOR BOOSTER FESTIVAL

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of Next Week Will be Gala Days for Emmitsburg.--Monster Parade and Trades' Display on First Day.--The Final Programme.

The last detail has been completed and everything is in readiness for Emmitsburg's Big Booster Festival, which begins with the Monster Street Parade and Trades Display on Monday morning next. The programme covers three days during which there will be something going on every minute. In addition to the Concerts, Entertainments and Lectures in the tent there will be plenty of attractions in the open for the amusement of all. A large steam-driven Merry-Go-Round has been set up in the Park and will afford a source of enjoyment for the children. There will be at least two bands in the opening day parade and plenty of music on the other days.

The town will be in holiday attire for the festival. All the business places and many private houses will be gaily decorated. To-day is the day set for putting up the decorations. Some places the work is completed while others are busily engaged embellishing their places of business or residence.

A WORD ABOUT THE TICKETS.
As some misapprehension seems to obtain in regard to the tickets, let it be made plain that there is no charge whatsoever for admission to the grounds. To the lectures and special entertainments in the big tent a nominal admission is charged those not holding season tickets. Those holding season tickets are admitted to everything and at all times. A season ticket costs $1.50 and is good for all performances. It is transferable, that is, valid for the person presenting it. Different members of the family, or others can use it at different events.

LEWIS IS MINERS' FRIEND

He Began Life As a Coal Miner Himself.—Gets Bill Amended.

Representative David J. Lewis, of Maryland, has succeeded in amending the Alaska Coal Land Leasing bill in the interest of the man who will dig the coal when our Alaskan fields are opened up. Lewis, it will be remembered, started out in life as a coal miner and has the interests of his former fellow-workers at heart.

The Lewis amendment, which was approved just before the House finally passed the Ferris bill provides that the lessees of the coal lands from the government shall not work their underground miners longer than eight hours a day except in cases of emergency, and the miners shall be paid off at least twice a month. The amendment also strikes a blow at the "company stores," and provides that coal miners employed in the fields leased from the Government shall be allowed to purchase their household and other supplies from any store they may wish. It also provides that rules shall be promulgated which will insure the coal digger a fair and just weighing or measurement of the coal he digs from the earth.

The Lewis amendment embraces the most advanced legislation affecting coal miners ever passed by Congress. While Congress has enacted the Eight-Hour law for Government workers, it has never taken a step to free the miners from the "company stores," a condition which was condemned in the report of the Senate committee investigating the West Virginia mine troubles.

The Ferris bill, providing for the leasing of the coal lands in Alaska has passed the House. The measure paves the way for developing the vast coalfields of that section. It restricts the amount of coal lands to be leased to each individual and company. The bill calls for the leasing of the Bering river, Matanuska and Nenana coal fields first.

A Thousand Lives In Three Years.

Ships totaling 136,000 tons have sailed from the ports of the world during the past three years never to be heard from again. With them have been lost more than 1,000 lives and the seas have given back nothing to show on what uncharted reefs disaster lurked.

These are the figures of Lloyds, and Commander J. Foster Stackhouse, of the British Naval Reserve, is in Washington seeking American co-operation in solving mysteries of the deep and clearing the seas of hidden dangers.

Minerals produced in the United States in 1913 were valued at $2,500,000,000, establishing a new record.

All other tickets are for one person and one performance. The charges for these are as follows: Adults—Nights, 50 cents; Matinees, 35 cents; Children—Nights, 25 cents; Matinees, 25 cents. Money can be saved by purchasing Season tickets which are now on sale at the principal stores in Emmitsburg. Every family should have at least one Season Ticket for its members.

FLOATS FOR THE PARADE.
Everyone who possibly can should contribute something to the big parade on the opening day. The trades' display and floats will give a fine opportunity for original ideas. If you can arrange a float representing your business or displaying the products of your farm, enter it in the parade. If you own an automobile or a carriage, decorate it, fill it with your family, and be in the line. Unique and grotesque floats will lend variety to the procession. An ingenious person could contrive a very striking affair in a short time and at little or no expense. If you haven't a float, an auto or a carriage, procure a horse and join the cavalcade. This is a feature of the parade that should appeal to a great many men, especially the sons of farmers.

THE BOY SCOUTS.
One of the features of the big parade on Monday will be the Boy Scout contingent, made up of the younger element, the young boys of the town. Under the supervision of Mr. Samuel Rowe, Scoutmaster, these manly youngsters have been drilling regularly and with their boy scout equipment and their own drum corps, they will make a fine appearance in the line. They are fully imbued with the boy scout spirit and during the three days of Booster Week will be willing and ready to serve, as only boy scouts can, whenever their assistance is needed.

Diseases caused the swine breeders of Maryland to lose 25,900 hogs, valued at $272,000 last year.

THE FIREMEN'S DIVISION.
No event of public importance in Emmitsburg is complete without including in a prominent position the Vigilant Hose Company, the town's volunteer firemen. A special invitation has been extended this splendid organization and it has been accepted. The company will be given a position of honor, forming the escort to the Burgess and Commissioners. The firemen's clean-cut uniform lends an air of military dignity and the appearance of the company on dress parade has always called forth commendation and applause.

THE HUMAN FLAG.
The Star Spangled Banner feature of the pageant will be beautifully and appropriately represented by the "Human Flag," this banner of our liberty being composed of about 100 young ladies attired in emblematic colors. This section will form a very distinctive and important part of the parade and cannot fail to be most effective.

THE BIG PARADE.
The big parade, and the only parade of the festival, will positively be held on Monday morning at 10 o'clock sharp. Indications are that it will be the greatest parade Emmitsburg has ever seen. The line will form at the West End of town, extending out Pennsylvania and Mountain avenues. All those who intend participating in the event are requested to be present not later than half-past nine to be assigned their proper places.

The route of the parade has been so arranged that all the streets of the town will be covered. Forming at the New Hotel Slagle, the extreme end of West Main street the parade will proceed East on Main street to the East End, thence North through the lots of Mr. Charles Gillelan to Green street, thence West to Gettysburg street, then South to the Public Square and on down Frederick street to the Frederick street entrance to Firemen's Park.

Joseph R. Hoke has been appointed Chief Marshal of the parade. He will be followed by a platoon of horsemen composed of the following: George Harner, E. R. Shriver, Clyde Cover, John Harner, Edgar Stansbury, and J. Frank Topper. The aides, who will have charge of the line of parade, will be H. S. Boyle, John T. Long, Ed. McLaughlin, Robert Gillelan, Francis S. K. Matthews and William Colliflower.

A SPECIAL SUNDAY EVENING FEATURE.
By special arrangement with the Radcliffe Attractions Company, a union service will be held in the tent on Sunday evening next. Dr. H. W. Sears, of Waverly, Ill., will preside and deliver an address on a non-sectarian subject. The Metropolitan Glee Club will also be present and render a special programme. There will be no charge for admission to this special Sunday evening feature and it is expected that the tent will be crowded.

WHAT IS A DUM DUM BULLET?
The Allies and The Germans Accuse Each Other of Using It.

Who knows what a Dum Dum bullet is? The Allies recently accused the Germans of using it in the war on the European continent, and the Germans have replied with the same accusation. Why don't they want each other to use it and how does it differ from any other bullet?

The Americana Encyclopedia has the following definition and explanation: "Dumdum bullets have their name from a little town in India, near Calcutta, where the ammunition factory for the British government in India is situated. For the benefit of Afghans, possible Indians mutineers, negroes and other barbarians, the British had a bullet manufactured here which is half covered with steel, but with a soft leaden nose; when discharged from a modern rifle of high power, this soft nose expands, or "mushrooms," turning the bullet in the air into a horrible fleshing object which tears through the bulging of a man, surely bleeding him to death.

The purpose of this bullet is to kill the man every time. The purpose of the ordinary humane bullet of modern warfare, which is wholly incased in steel or nickel, is merely to put the man out of the fight. It makes a small, clean wound. If it does not strike a vital part the bullet may go entirely through the man without wounding him seriously. But it shuts him out of the fight for the time being.

The British in India reckoned that a humane bullet like that would be of little use to fight savages with and therefore, at Dum Dum, they manufactured the soft-nosed, expanding horror. But the international conference at The Hague in 1899 decided against the use of this bullet in war, and adopted a rule forbidding it."

Twenty-five Ships More For U. S.
The United Fruit Company will enter under American registry 25 steamers with an aggregate tonnage of 117,000, now engaged in trade with the West Indies and Central and South America, according to a statement issued at the company's office today.

Seven vessels under construction in England will also be given American registry. The decision to change the registry was reached upon the signing by President Wilson last night of an Executive order suspending certain sections of the navigation laws.

The golf courses and cricket fields of the British Isles are being used for pastures and the club houses as hospitals.

CENTENNIALS' GALA DAYS

BALTIMORE'S BIG WEEK

Monumental City Has Biggest Week in History

FREDERICK CELEBRATES TOO

Thousands of Visitors From Length and Breadth of the Country Throng to the Great Jubilation Over Our National Anthem.

Crowds estimated in the hundred thousands poured into Baltimore this week for the Star-Spangled Banner Centennial, the greatest and most elaborate celebration which has ever been held in the progressive Monumental City.

The long and impressive list of events began on Sunday when the week was opened by an immense music festival and appropriate sermons in all of the churches. Since that day the week has been crowded with events following each other in rapid succession and all doing honor to our national anthem, The Star-Spangled Banner and its author, Francis Scott Key, who received the inspiration for his magnificent work from the heroic defense of Fort Mchenry by patriotic Americans just one hundred years ago in Baltimore harbor.

Immense parades and pageants both military and civic, receptions, lawn fetes, ball, athletic games and carnivals have given those participating in the great festival one round of surprises and gaiety.

The United States government officially took its part by sending three warships and the old frigate "Constellation" which was launched at Baltimore just 117 years ago. Although President Wilson was unable to be present, Secretary Bryan, Vice-President Marshall and most of the Cabinet from Washington were on hand, together with fifty members of the diplomatic corps and the chief executives from many states of the Union.

Frederick, where Francis Scott Key is buried, has also had a week crowded with festivities in honor of that author and the Star-Spangled Banner, a week that reaches its climax to-day and tomorrow and one that will be long remembered. The city is a mass of flags and bunting by day, and a veritable fairyland by night. The celebration opened on Wednesday with fitting exercises and since that time monster parades, concerts and festivities of every kind have given the county seat the greatest week in all its history. It is also home-coming week in Frederick, and thousands of former residents have thronged back to the historic town to meet old friends and join in the celebration of the glorious centennial.

Frederick and all of its citizens who labored so earnestly for their city, may well feel enthusiastic over the evident success of the week's events and take due credit unto themselves for their progressiveness in going ahead unassisted by anticipated funds, and making such a splendid week for Frederick and the county, possible.

GERMAN DYES FOR U. S.

Removal of Restrictions Means Much to Our Business.

Information of vital importance to industries throughout the United States employing millions of men was received at the State Department, when Ambassador Gerard reported that Germany had lifted the restrictions on shipments of dyestuffs to the United States. This means that many cotton, woolen, leather and other factories that use colors made in Germany will be able to get supplies without interruption.

Germany has also given assurances that the Rhine is open for transportation. This means that the colors may be shipped in the neutral vessels of Holland.

It may be necessary for the government to send an agent abroad to see that the dyestuffs are put aboard Dutch liners.

Representative Metz, who is familiar with the chemical industry in Germany and transportation conditions on the Rhine, is willing to undertake this journey.

He is 76, But He Wants a Wife.

In spite of the fact that he is 76 years old and not as active as he used to be, James M. Michael, a farmer of near Liberty, has advertised for a wife in a Frederick paper.

Michael requires fair looks, good common sense and a thorough knowledge of housekeeping. He has received one application from Baltimore, but since the applicant was but 27 years of age, Michael turned her down thinking that domestic bliss would not be fostered by such a difference in years.

LAWS GOVERNING SUBSCRIPTIONS

Most readers of newspapers and many publishers are not familiar with the laws governing subscriptions. Here are the decisions of the United States court on the subject. They will be interesting to publishers and many will undoubtedly be glad of the opportunity to print them for the benefit of delinquent subscribers:

"Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

"If subscribers order a discontinuance of their publication the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

"If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

"If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

"The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

"If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the subscriber is responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearage is sent to the publisher.

The two important features found in this little frock are the low or French waist line and the kimono sleeves. They mean extreme smartness, and incidentally the sleeves also mean simplicity of making. The circular bounces lapped one over the other are important, too, for they mark a departure.

Altogether the frock is a new one, demonstrating the latest fancies. In the picture it is made of dotted challie with bands of silk.

For the six-year-old size the dress will require three yards of material

BENEFITS FROM WAR FOR U. S.

"London Statist" Says We Should Serve As World's Bankers.

The war in Europe will probably bring economic advantages to the United States. It will enable it to sell its great crops in places which will give a much greater income than if there was no war, says the "London Statist."

Almost every industry will derive more or less advantage. American investors and bankers should get in much profit from the ability to buy back from Europe great quantities of securities at attractive prices in payment for the foodstuffs and raw material exported from the United States.

The United States can become, as it has this week, the world's greatest market for capital, and if the American people rise to their opportunity they can do a great deal to mitigate the disastrous economic consequences which would otherwise result in many countries from a great European war.

It is obvious that for the time being the money markets of Europe will be closed to the demands for new capital of Canada, Brazil, Argentina, Mexico and other countries, and at such a time the prestige of the United States would be immensely enhanced if it were to take the place of Europe and meet the pressing needs of these borrowing countries.

It is possible that the United States may participate in the great loans that will have to be raised in Europe if almost the whole continent becomes engaged in war. Possibly the participation will be indirect rather than direct.

For the United States to gain benefit from the position as the wealthiest nation in the world, it is essential that American investors should not only have confidence in the future of their own country, but also believe that, war or no war, the world will continue to progress.

In brief, a great war in Europe will give the United States an opportunity of assuming the post of world banker, by supplying capital freely to countries and individuals in all parts of the globe who need it and can provide the required security. Should the American people take advantage of the golden opportunity afforded them by the outbreak of war, it will mean not diminished but increased prosperity for the United States.

OCTOBER 4 DAY OF PRAYER

Wilson Officially Urges Nation to Pray for Peace.

President Woodrow Wilson officially issued a proclamation from the White House on Tuesday, designating Sunday, October 4, as a day of nation-wide prayer in the United States for peace in Europe.

The proclamation follows: "Whereas, great nations of the world have taken up arms against one another and war now draws millions of men into battle whom the counsel of statesmen have not been able to save from a terrible sacrifice; and

Whereas, in this as in all things, it is our privilege and duty to seek counsel and succor of Almighty God, humbling ourselves before Him, confessing our weakness and our lack of any wisdom equal to those things; and

Whereas, it is the especial wish and longing of the people of the United States, in prayer and counsel and all friendliness, to serve the cause of peace.

Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do designate Sunday, the 4th day of October next, a day of prayer and supplication, and do request all God-fearing persons to repair on that day to their places of worship, there to unite their petitions to Almighty God, that, overruling the counsel of men, setting straight the things they cannot govern or alter, taking pity on the nations now in the throes of conflict, in His mercy and goodness showing the way where men can see none, He vouchsafe His children healing peace again and restore once more that concord among men and nations without which there can be neither happiness nor true friendship nor any wholesome fruit of toil or thought in the world; praying also to this end that He forgive us our sins, our ignorance of His holy will, our willfulness and many errors, and lead us in the paths of obedience to places of vision and to thoughts and counsels that purge and make wise."

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

England's Collegians in Her Army.

The universities and colleges are contributing their share of men for the war. The vice chancellor of Oxford has recommended to the war office the names of 1,112 undergraduates for commissions in the army. Of these 1,000 already have been commissioned, which gives one-third of the student body to the army and more than that proportion of British subjects, because there are many foreigners among the undergraduates. All Souls College has provided three officers.

"Its long, branching roots penetrate far down, push and crowd the earth this way and that, and thus constitute a gigantic subsoiler. These become an immense magazine of fertility. As soon as cut, they begin to decay and liberate the vast reservoir of fertilizing matter below the plow, to be drawn upon by other crops for years to come."

Alfalfa seed sown during August or September will yield four to six cuttings next season. Frequent cuttings thicken out the stalk and makes it stool out and grow off better.

Alfalfa ranks higher than Timothy in feeding value. In fact, it might be termed both corn and hay, as it is almost a complete food. Experiment stations place the feeding value of Alfalfa hay at $20 per ton, as against Timothy hay at $12 per ton. This, with the fact that Alfalfa will easily yield, on good land, 8 to 10 tons of splendid hay per year, shows what a valuable crop it is. Lands in the Western States that are well set in Alfalfa sell readily at from $100 to $200 per acre. The acreage of Alfalfa is increasing very largely all over the Middle and Southern States; our farmers are fast beginning to realize that a valuable crop it is. Alfalfa will succeed and do well on any good loamy, well-drained soil, but the land must be well and thoroughly prepared for best results.

It should never be used for pasture; it is too valuable as a hay producer to risk injury from stock. A heavy application of lime is of decided benefit—2,000 to 3,000 pounds per acre. Alfalfa is usually sown broadcast at the rate of 20 to 30 pounds to the acre. Our Alfalfa seed is the highest grade, strong germinating seed of the best and cleanest quality possible to procure.

We offer American Dry Land Non-Irrigated Alfalfa Seed, Bolzano's "Gold" Brand Fancy, 99.28 per cent. pure.

THE FRITCHIE UNVEILING.

Frederick's Tribute To Whittier's Heroine On Wednesday.

Frederick paid high tribute on Wednesday to her heroine Barbara Fritchie, made famous by the poet Whittier, when the beautiful shaft marking her grave was unveiled in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Milton G. Urner, of the Frederick county bar, was master of ceremonies, and a number of Civil War Veterans, including Charles T. Barnes, of Chicago, bugler of Sickles corps, Army of the Potomac, was present. Many visitors from Washington, Baltimore and other cities were present.

For many years the bodies of Barbara Fritchie and her husband reposed in the old Reformed grave-yard, but about two years ago they were removed to Mount Olivet Cemetery and reinterred in sight of the Key Monument. Later the Barbara Fritchie Memorial Association was organized to erect the monument.

Mrs. John H. Abbot, a grand niece of Barbara Fritchie, unveiled the monument.

Mrs. Abbott is the possessor of the flag which is said to have floated from the attic window of the Fritchie home, and much of the china ware which Barbara used. The flag is kept in a box under a glass covering, and while it is viewed by nearly every tourist that comes to the city, it played no part in the unveiling.

AMERICAN ROAD CONGRESS

Will be Held This Year at Atlanta—Every State Represented.

Maryland will be represented at the Fourth American Road Congress which will be held in Atlanta, Georgia, during the week of November 9th, by Mr. Henry G. Shirley, Chief Engineer, State Roads Commission, who will present a paper on "Heavy Traffic Roads."

A conference of the official heads of the various State Highway Departments and of the United States Office of Public Roads, will be held at some time during the course of the sessions to consider questions of mutual interest to the Highway Departments. A number of the States have gone extensively into the building of trunk line systems through large bond issues, notably New York, with an actual and contemplated outlay of $100,000,000, California, $18,000,000, Massachusetts about $14,000,000, Maryland actual and contemplated about $18,000,000, and other states in smaller amounts. The methods followed and the results obtained will be carefully analyzed. Other States, among them Virginia, Georgia, Colorado and Washington have gone extensively into the use of State convicts for road work. The States of New York and New Jersey are now experimenting along these lines while many others are studying the problem. Convict labor will, therefore, be another one of the many subjects to be discussed at the Congress.

The Congress is managed by the American Highway Association and the American Automobile Association, under whose auspices the 1913 Congress at Detroit broke all records for attendance, completeness of program, and magnitude of exhibits. This year the exposition will include Government and State Exhibits and several acres of road machinery, materials and engineering instruments.

New Game Laws Issued by State.

State Game Warden, James P. Curley, has issued a compilation of the new game and fish laws of the State for the seasons of 1914 and 1915 which were recently passed by the legislature.

A uniform season bill provides for a season from November 10th to December 24, both dates included, for the following game:

Partridge or quail, English or Mongolian pheasant, Dark Neck Bohemian pheasant, pheasant or ruffed grouse, rabbit, squirrel, wild turkey, woodcock and deer. Under this law it is unlawful to gun or hunt on Sunday, or when there is sufficient snow to track game, and also between sunset and sunrise.

The Federal Regulations cover wild water fowl and migratory game birds. Under these regulations the season for wild fowl is from November 1st to January 31st, both dates included; for rails, etc., from September 1st to November 30th, both dates included; for woodcock from November 1st to December 31st, both dates included; and for plover, jacksnipes and yellowlegs from September 1st to December 15th, both dates included.

Attention of gunners is directed to fact that the State and most of the county laws are at variance with these regulations, and where they lengthen the season the Federal Regulations prevail.

IMPROVED WHEAT VARIETIES RETURN HIGH YIELDS

Practical Tests In Many Sections Of the State Demonstrate Higher Yields From Selected Wheats.

No question is more frequently heard among farmers at this season than, "What is the best variety of wheat and where can I get the seed?" The State Experiment Station undertakes to answer this question as a result of many tests with varieties it has conducted in various parts of the State on private farms and on its own experimental fields where uniform conditions of soil, climate, and fertilization have enabled such tests to be carried out with accuracy. During the past six or seven years there have been about one hundred varieties in test under these conditions.

A GOOD STAND.

Some of these varieties have been found to be very inferior and in consequence have been discarded. Others have been found that yield well in a favorable season, but to not stand up well when conditions are unfavorable. Still other varieties produce well almost every year regardless of conditions, and even in a very unfavorable season maintain a much higher yield than the poor varieties. It is in these last varieties that we are the most interested, since the record of their yields has been uniformly high, and they have proven their yielding qualities not only at the Experiment Station, but in many sections of the State, where they have been grown on private farms side by side with the native varieties.

Variety.	Yields Of Improved Wheats Per Acre.
	In 1914.	5-Year Average.
Bearded Wheats.
Purple Straw.....	34.26	31.36
Dietz Longberry.....	34.72	30.61
Mammoth Red.....	37.11	31.03
Turkish Amber.....	37.38	30.05
Fulcaster.....	37.42	31.42
Smooth Wheats.
China.....	34.16	31.49
Currel's Prolife.....	38.88	31.03
Wheats Commonly Grown in Maryland.
Fultz Mediterranean.....	38.07	25.66
Fultz.....	30.40	26.20

Compare these figures, and the wheat grower will see that the better varieties in a test of five years have led the poorer and more commonly grown wheats of the State by an average increase of five bushels per acre, surely a gain worth considering, if, as we believe, it can be obtained by the seeding of improved varieties.

FLY IN WHEAT MAY BE CONTROLLED BY TIMELY SEEDING.

T. B. SYMONS, Maryland Agricultural College.

The Hessian fly can be controlled largely by late planting, rotation of crops and not allowing volunteer wheat to grow on fallow ground. The treatment is essentially one in which the host plant is kept away until the last fall egg-laying brood of the insect has disappeared. The date of its disappearance depends on the latitude, altitude and weather conditions. A wet September may cause an early disappearance, while a long fall drought and warm weather may cause a much later disappearance. Taking all into consideration, wheat should not be sown in the vicinity of the following cities and towns of the State before the dates given:

Oakland, September 12 to 19; Hagerstown, October 1 to 7; Frederick, October 3 to 10; Westminster, September 26 to October 5; Rockville, October 3 to 8; La Plata, October 9 to 18; Cockeyville, October 3 to 10; Elkton, October 2 to 9; Belair, October 2 to 9; Chestertown, October 6 to 16; Easton, October 9 to 19; Salisbury, October 10 to 17.

It frequently happens in Southern Maryland that wheat does not yield well, and experience inclines us to believe that winter oats could be profitably grown in its place. Winter oats should be seeded in the fall, about the first of October and unless the season is particularly unfavorable, we ought to expect a heavy crop of grain.

The varieties of winter oats that are proving most successful in Maryland are Culberson, 206, Dewey, and Virginia Gray. The average yield at the Experiment Station farm for several years past has been close to 50 bushels per acre, with grain weighing from 34 to 37 pounds per bushel.

TAKE HIS ADVICE.

The highest salaried editor in the world, Arthur Brisbane, says:

"As a friend talking to another about a certain kind of goods can influence a friend more than a stranger, so a country newspaper, standing on a footing of friendship with its readers can talk to them about goods for sale or any other topic, and impress upon them more strongly than the big metropolitan newspaper, which is really a stranger."

The judgment of an authority like Brisbane amounts to something. Take his advice, then, and advertise in THE CHRONICLE, the paper that is your friend.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good livery, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

WHY?

"Why wasn't THAT in the paper?"

You've heard this question many times, Gentle Reader, in connection with a bit of interesting information that has come to you alone or is known only to few.

If the news you looked for was interesting to you—even to the extent of causing you to desire its appearance in your local paper—it is fair to assume that it would be interesting to your friends, to the community at large.

In this connection the Westminster Times aptly says:

Dozens of things happen every day that the newspaper man never hears about. He does the best he can, keeps his eyes open, but he is only a human being, not omniscient, omnipresent, or endowed with the gift of foreknowledge, and therefore cannot foretell the occurrence of an event.

"City papers," as you call them, maintain a corps of reporters, news gathers, interviewers. Their big volume of business, their circulation warrant it. These reporters "cover" everything; they extract news from everybody. Moreover hundreds of people telephone or otherwise communicate news to the "city papers." That is why they are "full of news."

The rural press is not justified in employing a corps of reporters. The business of the rural office is not sufficient to warrant it. That is evident; it is also reasonable.

Relatively, the "local paper," the weekly paper, the "home paper," is more important, or at least just as important, to its community as the "city paper" is to the city. It is the only formal medium of communicating a town's interest, a town's activities, a town's aims and aspirations to the outer world.

How important it is therefore, that the local paper contain everything that is of interest. Why would not the people of a town—especially those who take pride in the place they live—why would they not be really anxious to show the outside world, through the columns of their weekly publication, how progressive their town is, what a good place it is?

The local paper is YOUR paper; it represents, or endeavors to represent, and fairly, you, your business, your community, your district. Consequently, if you cooperate with it—if you aid it in its endeavor to print everything that should be printed, you will make it a true reflector, a dignified bulletin, a gazetteer of local life.

The "why" rests largely with you.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

So often it has been deplored that Emmitsburg has no grange, no farmers' club, no farmers' alliance. Many and many a time has it been regretted that this town has not frequently the opportunity to enjoy high-class and refined amusements. This would clearly indicate that there is a real demand for both—that farmers would welcome the one, and that the citizens of the town would liberally patronize the other.

Here, then, is the opportunity; next week lecturers of note will be here to address the farmers on topics that are of special interest and that will be of greatest benefit to all the farmers in this district. In addition to this there will be entertainments given by the very best talent—amusing and instructive, and at a nominal price for admission.

Booster week will be a three-days' holiday, a time given over to relaxation and real enjoyment. There will be something worth while going on all the time—something to appeal to the old, the middle-aged and the young. Community interest, community pride, community good will should be manifested everywhere and in everything. Success and the best of results will follow, and the memory of Booster week will ever remain a very pleasant one.

EDUCATIONAL CO-OPERATION.

The children of Frederick county returned to school this week, after the long summer vacation, in greater numbers than ever before. The people are realizing more and more the great opportunities and advantages that are offered by education, and are correspondingly eager that their children should have advantages which the parents themselves were not in a position to enjoy.

But the parents should not think that, once the child has been enrolled in the school, all the home responsibility is ended. Co-operation between the home and the school is essential if any lasting benefits are to be derived. The parents should see to it that the child is in regular attendance, that there is sufficient study at home in preparation for the morrow's lessons and in all possible ways should work hand in hand with the school authorities.

The child should be brought to see that study is not a disagreeable task imposed upon him to keep him from play, but that it is an opportunity for an investment which may yield big dividends in future years; dividends in direct proportion to the capital of diligence and energy which he invests in the present.

THE BRUNSWICK TIMES.

Issue No. 1, Volume 1, of the Brunswick Times made its appearance last Thursday. It is a well-edited and well-printed 8-page paper; full of news and overflowing with public spirit. Brunswick has long felt the need of a live paper and should heartily support the Times which has pledged itself to "work always for whatever makes for education, tion, morality, religion, the square deal honesty and efficiency in public affairs." No aim in journalism could be higher. We congratulate Brunswick in having such a splendid medium in which to exploit that progressive town's many activities and we wish the fullest measure of success to those who are responsible for the new weekly.

DON'T sit at home and say "it will not work." Because of folks who say it, those who shirk, much good is oft impeded. In public things the help of all is needed. To say "I have no time is poor excuse; to hope 'twill be accepted is no use. Indifference is a greater cause for shame—as bad as "knocking," handing out but blame. Take hold and push; you could if you but would. 'Twill help you and redound to public good.

The farm laborers of Maryland work on an average of 10 hours and 7 minutes per day, according to a report which has just been issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. We have 60,000 farm laborers in this State and the average monthly compensation is $17.30 with board and $26.50 if the laborer boards himself.

Paris at Night.

To a traveler arriving at night Paris reveals a glamour and conceals a mystery—the excited, gesticulating porters that greet the train as though they were there to welcome friends and eager to serve them; the uncertain lights of the train shed, the dimming in the ears of a strange language—a beautiful strange language—and the wild, exhilarating flight in a trunk laden taxi through unknown streets.

There is glamour, if you will, in the lights of the restaurants, in the dizzy crowds and in the broad, brazen avenues teeming with a race of people who like to believe that every day is a holiday, but there is mystery in the silent by streets, lined with high blank walls and darkened windows, where a footstep echoes dimly and the beat of a horse's hoofs resounds like musketry, and there is mystery, too, in the stretches of fragrant gardens, with their treetops reaching up dark masses into the golden glow that hangs like a halo above the City of Lights.—Gordon Arthur Smyth in Scribner's.

Echoes.

An echo is a sound repeated from some obstructing surface so that a person in the path of both the original and reflected waves hears the sound twice. Sound being produced by waves of the air, when such waves meet an opposing surface as a wall they are reflected like light waves. The sound so heard as if originating behind the reflecting surface is an echo. An echo returns to the point from which the sound originated if the reflecting surface is at right angles to it. An oblique surface deflects the sound in another direction so that it may be heard elsewhere, though not at the point where the sound originated. If the direct and reflected sounds succeed one another with great rapidity, as happens when the reflecting surface is near, the echo only clouds the original sound so that it is not heard distinctly, and it is this which interferes with the hearing in churches and other large buildings.—Philadelphia Press.

Deals by Barter.

Long as it is since deals were usually effected by barter money still does not enter into much of the business done in rural parts of Great Britain. The most general transaction by this system is grinding corn. Gleaners instead of paying the miller for converting their wheat into flour or barley into meal allow him to retain a certain proportion of the grain, and in Wales even farmers commonly do likewise. Village blacksmiths in Wales have many similar deals. Frequently one gets a neighboring farmer to haul him a load of coal to his smithy, and thus becomes indebted to him for so many hours' work, the number depending on the distance and whether more than one horse is employed. If before the next harvest the farmer requires any smithy work done the debt may be wiped out, but if it is still owing then the smith discharges it by going into the harvest field himself.—Pearson's Weekly.

Witchery of a Barn.

There is a spirit of poetry about a barn, and unconsciously men are touched by it. In youth it kindles our imagination and fosters our susceptibility to the simple beauty of common things; daybreak, with the fresh sweetness of the wet grass about us as we go up the path toward the great barn still darkly silhouetted against the brightening sky, with the weathercock, high up against the topmost band of pink, pointing to clear. With the opening of the barn door the day's work begins; the horse whinnies at the sound for his corn; the cattle move expectantly in their stanchion rows; the chickens cackle and cluck in the hay-loft as they drop fluttering to the floor. Day has begun—day, with all its activities, with all its commonplaceness, with all its mysteries. Something of all this we feel unknowingly as we pull back the heavy bolt and throw open the barn door.—Suburban Life.

Elephants' Tusks.

The largest tusks of Indian elephants measure not over four or five feet in length, outside curve, and about sixteen inches in circumference at the gum and weigh about seventy-four pounds. The tusks, except those of very aged elephants, are solid only for a portion of their length. The hollow is filled with firm, bloody pulp. In young animals the tusks are solid only for a portion of their length even outside the gum and are hollow throughout the embedded portion. With age the pulp cavity decreases in depth till in very old animals it becomes almost obliterated.

When She Would Return.

"I saw your mother going to one of the neighbors as I crossed the street," said the lady caller to her friend's little son. "Do you know when she will be back?" "Yes, 'm," answered the truthful Jimmy; "she said she'd be back just as soon as you left."—Lippincott's.

One Way of Getting Out.

Gaston burst like a whirlwind in upon his friend Alphonse. "Will you be my witness?" he cried. "Going to fight?" "No; going to get married." Alphonse after a pause inquired, "Can't you apologize?"—Cri de Paris.

Same Thing Now.

"You know woman was once the head of the family," she said. "No need to speak of that in the past tense," replied her husband meekly.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Jealousy is the fear or apprehension of superiority; envy is our uneasiness under it.

Innocent Old Age.

"Youthful innocence" is one of those expressions which is untrue so far as criminals are concerned. It is a remarkable fact that a criminal is at his worst when he is young, and the older he becomes the better the life he leads. Criminal statistics show, as a matter of fact, that the most virtuous age of the average wrongdoer is between fifty and sixty. It is in the very earliest part of their careers, between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one, that men and women criminals are at their worst. From twenty-one to old age they gradually improve.

This also goes to prove another remarkable fact about criminals, and that is that marriage helps to reform a man or woman. At the average age at which most people marry there is a remarkable drop in criminal statistics.

Between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one—the time when a man is at his worst, criminally speaking—are just those years when a child is breaking away from its parents and is allowed to go free.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Story of Stevenson.

After one of Dumas' plays which he saw presented in Paris and in which a man employs an unworthy stratagem against a woman Robert Louis Stevenson wrote:

"I came forth from that performance in a breathing heat of indignation. On the way down the Francois stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavity which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been applauding that piece. I retract my apology.'"

"Said the old Frenchman, laying his hand on my arm and with a smile that was truly heavenly in temperance, irony, good nature and knowledge of the world, 'Ah, monsieur, vous etes bien jeune' (Ah, sir, you are very young)."

Colors of Rainbows.

Violet, indigo, blue, green, yellow, orange and red are the colors of the rainbow. Most are sure of that. It is true, however, of only a very few rainbows. The colors of rainbows vary with their width, and their width varies with the size of the raindrops, big drops producing narrow bows with bright clearly defined colors, small drops producing wide bows with pale colors. Here are the colors as generally seen: (1) When the raindrops average one millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange, light red, dark red; (2) when the drops average three-tenths of a millimeter in diameter, violet, light blue, bluish green, green, yellow, orange; (3) when the drops average one-tenth of a millimeter, very pale violet, violet, whitish blue, whitish green.

Law at Ascot.

Ascot is legal as well as royal in being the only racecourse in the world with its especial court of justice. When George IV. was regent he was assaulted at Ascot and when his assailant was arrested demanded his instant punishment. Enraged at the delay necessitated by the man's conveyance to Windsor, the prince decreed that a magistrate should always be in attendance at Ascot for the swift punishment of offenders. The indictable offenses act of 1818 made the royal wish the law of the land, and during Ascot week the chief magistrate at Bow street is accordingly on duty in the little room opening onto the paddock, to try and to sentence all offenders within a minute or two of their arrest.—London Answers.

Not Allowed to Read the Bible.

But few people know that in the sixteenth century an Englishman was not allowed to read the Bible, yet it is perfectly true. Henry VIII. issued a decree prohibiting the common people from reading the Bible. Officers of state were exempt from this law. Probably the king thought these officials would be none the worse for perusing the sacred work, and noble ladies or gentlemen might read the proscribed volume if they did so in their gardens or orchards, but no one was allowed even to read it to the lower classes.—Westminster Gazette.

The Compromise.

"How did Jack and Mabel agree over their dispute about the marriage service?"

"Mabel told Jack if he would make good on the 'all his worldly goods' endowment proposition she would gladly make the promise to obey."—Baltimore American.

Making Himself Solid.

Examining Admiral (to naval candidate) — Now mention three great admirals. Candidate—Drake, Nelson and—I beg your pardon, sir, I didn't quite catch your name.—London Punch.

He Left.

"I may have remained a trifle late, but her remarks were too pointed." "What did she say, Ferdy?" "Told me their lease was about to expire."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

His Share.

Master (suspectingly) — Who wrote your composition, Johnny? Johnny—My father, Master—What, all of it? Johnny—No, sir, I helped him.—Current Opinion.

Used to It.

She—I suppose it would break your heart if I were to say that I can only be a sister to you. He—Not at all, I'm used to having girls say that.—Exchange.

Line of Swiftest Descent.

What is the line of the swiftest descent? To any one not acquainted with the laws of higher mathematics a proposition such as this would appear absurd, the most obvious answer being a straight line. However, it has been proved by mathematicians that the line of swiftest descent is a curve called the cycloid. It is this curve that the eagle unconsciously utilizes in his wonderfully swift swoop to his prey. The analysis of the curve is simply a straight line motion combined with a circular motion. The best illustration showing this is a cartwheel as it rolls along the ground. Any point on the rim of the wheel is describing a cycloid, and no point is at any time describing a circle or going in a straight line. A peculiar thing is deduced from this knowledge, and that is that no point on the rim of a wheel rolling on a surface goes round the center of the wheel, for the center is describing a straight line, and all the points on the rim are describing cycloids; thus as no circular motion exists, the statement holds.—New York Press.

Tennyson's First Poems.

The wind came sweeping through the garden of an old Lincolnshire rectory one morning in the beginning of last century and blew upon a child five years old, who opened his arms to the blast and let it carry him along, crying as he traveled, "I hear a voice that's calling in the wind." That was Tennyson's first line of poetry. The first poem he ever composed was written upon a slate one Sunday morning at Louth. The subject, set him by his brother Charles, was "Flowers," and little Alfred covered his slate with blank verse after the model of Thomson's "Seasons." His next attempt was an elegy upon his grandmother, who had just died, written at the request of his grandfather. When it was written the old man put 10 shillings into the boy's hand and said, "There; that is the first money you have ever earned by your poetry, and, take my word for it, it will be the last."—Westminster Gazette.

Different Doctors.

There are a great many "doctors" who know nothing of medicine. In its technical sense doctor is a university degree, the highest given. It is given in recognition of attainments in many branches of learning, and so there are several kinds of doctors. There is the familiar M. D., doctor of medicine; the LL. D., doctor of laws; the Ph. D., doctor of philosophy; the D. D., doctor of divinity; the J. D., doctor of jurisprudence; the D. D. S., doctor of dental surgery, and many another. So if you hear a man referred to as "doctor" you must find out what he is doctor of before you can determine to which profession he belongs.

Doctor of laws seems to have been the earliest of the doctor's degrees, it having been awarded as early as the twelfth century. Doctors of divinity appeared somewhat later. It was a century before the now familiar M. D. (doctor of medicine) came into use.—American Boy.

Sunstroke on Mountains.

Sunstroke, according to experiments made by Professors Victor Henry and Moyscho and reported to the French Academie des Sciences, is due to the invisible ultra violet rays at the extreme limit of the spectrum. If the solar spectrum be examined at an altitude of from 3,000 to 4,000 meters it will be seen that the limit of these rays varies little, but that their intensity is greatly increased. At sea level this intensity is comparatively feeble. So one is much more likely to have sunstroke on a high mountain than in a valley.—New York World.

Better Still.

One of the principal owners of a promising gold mine was expatiating on its merits to a capitalist and prospective investor. He described the vein in which the miners were working, showed him specimens of the ore and backed up his statements with the written opinions of experts.

"Well," admitted the capitalist, "it looks as if it might be a good investment. As my old Uncle Hiram would say, it has 'pints.'"

"Pints?" exclaimed the owner, carried away perhaps by his over-anxiety. "Why, sir, we're in quartz right now!"

Buried With Dols.

In the Chinese morgue one of the strange sights is a number of life size dolls which are burned to accompany the corpses as their servants to the next world. They are doubtless a relic of the time when human beings were thus burned as companions of the deceased.

More Darkness.

"I'm all in the dark about how these bills are to be paid," said Mr. Hardup to his wife.

"Well, Henry," said she as she pulled out a colored one and laid it on the pile, "you will be if you don't pay that one, for it's the gas bill."

Vegetable Sponges.

Vegetable sponges are used a great deal by the poorer class of natives in Ecuador. They assert they are better in washing dishes and in bathing than are the animal sponges.

Athletes of India.

The wrestlers and athletes of India develop great strength by living on milk, a little goat's flesh and plenty of food made from flour.

Culture.

Culture is familiarity with the best that has been done or thought. It is the soul's warm friendship of the great spirits, living and dead. Hills.

Hancock—The celebration of Hancock's first home-coming closed on Sunday night after a day of pageantry. Two parades were held—an industrial and farmers' display in the afternoon and a carnival procession at night. The town founded more than 125 years ago, had the largest crowd in its history, Pennsylvania and West Virginia contributing to the throng.

The Nation is Facing Meat Famine.

Economic experts of the Federal Government are giving the high cost of living problem thoughtful consideration and are investigating the high prices of meat. The Department of Agriculture has just completed a census of the meat-producing animals of the United States and finds that there has been a decrease of 4,188,000 head and an increase of $176,530,000 in value during the past year. On January 1, 1914, the herd numbered 144,507,000, compared with 148,690,000 head a year ago.

Denton—A Prohibition meeting here Saturday night was addressed by Edward W. Mills, of West Virginia. Mr. Mills was the Prohibition candidate for Governor when the State was carried for constitutional prohibition.

Hagerstown—Ex-City Councilman Lawson Funk, a retired business man of Philadelphia, is critically ill with pleurisy at the home of his sister, Mrs. Annie Schindel, here. He was taken sick while visiting relatives here with his daughter, Miss Dolly Funk. His Philadelphia physician has been summoned.

Fritsch, president of Waynesboro (Pa.) Metal Refining Company.

Annapolis—Prof. Fred W. Morrison, of the department of modern languages at the Naval Academy, died Tuesday at the Naval Hospital here after an illness of two months of typhoid fever and complications. He was 46 years old and is survived by his widow here, his mother and a brother in New York.

Salisbury—James Crouch, a police officer of this city, while handling his revolver at his home, shot and seriously wounded his wife on Tuesday. Mrs. Crouch had loaded the revolver for her husband, and when he started to leave the house to go on duty he picked it up and playfully pointed it at her, not knowing she had loaded it. In some manner the trigger was pulled, the ball entering the lower part of Mrs. Crouch's body.

Annapolis—A number of important changes in the personnel and administration of the Naval Academy will occur with the opening of new academic year, October 1. It is certain that Capt. George W. Logan, commandant of midshipmen and head of the executive department, will be relieved, and it is thought that Commander Guy H. Burrage, head of the seamanship department, will succeed him.

The bulk of nation's decreased meat supply is in the swine herd. Compared with last year the number of hogs in the United States has diminished 2,185,000 head; cattle 175,000 head and sheep 1,763,000 head. The major portion of the increased values is credited to the beef animals. The value of all cattle, excluding milk cows, when compared with last year, shows an increase of $166,688,000; swine have gained $9,842,000 in value, while sheep have depreciated $1,476,000.

Daddy's Bedtime
 Story — A Party At the White House.
 They Again Stood Before the President.

"THE other day," said daddy, "I was talking to an elderly lady whose father was Abraham Lincoln's greatest friend. You know, children, that there was a time when the country went back on Lincoln, and the people didn't appreciate how much he really was doing for them."
 "Oh, how dreadful," said Jack. "Didn't he have any friends?"
 "Yes," said daddy, "he had one friend through all his dreadful time, and this friend was the father of this lady."
 "But what I'm going to tell you about is a party that was given at the White House when Lincoln was president of the United States. This lady's father asked Lincoln if his daughter and a friend of hers could go to the party, which was to be a reception and to be given in the afternoon. Lincoln was delighted that the two little girls wanted to come to the reception, as he always liked children. Of course the lady was then only a very little girl about your age, Evelyn. So she and her friend spent days beforehand thinking and talking about the president's party. They could hardly wait until the day came, but at last it did come, and, dressed in their prettiest white dresses and best sashes, they started off for the White House with the little girl's father. Everybody went in line to speak to President Lincoln, and, following her father, the little girl and her friend went along in the line to speak to the president. When the little girl's father was before Lincoln he said, 'Mr. President, this is my little daughter, Katharine, and her friend, Mary.' President Lincoln shook hands with them both, and they glowed with pride as he said: 'How do you do, Katharine?' and 'How are you, Mary? I'm very glad to meet you both.'
 "After Katharine's father had talked a few minutes with Lincoln they all moved on so the other people could meet the president. Katharine's father then told her to take Mary with her into another room, where they could have some delicious ice cream and cake. So they started, but before they had gone more than a few steps Katharine said, 'Let's go and shake hands with the president again, for he'll never recognize us a second time.' So they got in line at once, and soon they were again standing before the president.
 "He smiled and said, 'I think I've had the pleasure of meeting you two nice little girls just a few minutes ago.'
 "At first they were rather ashamed, and then as President Lincoln laughed they thought it was a good joke on them, and they were very proud that he had remembered them.
 "And little Katharine, now quite old, says that is the proudest and happiest remembrance of her life."

St. Euphemia's School Opens.

On Tuesday morning, September 8, St. Euphemia's parochial school opened its doors for another year's work with an enrollment of 200 pupils.

A mass was celebrated in St. Joseph's Church in the morning at 8.30 by Father Eckels, previous to assembling in the school rooms. Archbishop Corrigan visited each room, gave his blessing and also spoke a few words to the children encouraging them in their work.

Miss Gertrude Ryan has the distinction of winning a third prize of five dollars in a competition for the best essay on the "Inspiration of Columbus." This competition was conducted by the Knights of Columbus and was open to all the scholars of the parochial schools throughout the State. In presenting Miss Ryan with the prize, the Archbishop complimented her on having carried off a prize in a contest in which there were so many competitors.

Throughout this week, the school will hold half-day sessions only, and next week the regular full sessions will begin.

Electric Drive for Knitting Mill.

The Union Manufacturing Company's knitting mill in this place has changed its motive power from gasoline to electricity and hereafter the melodious cough of the engine will be missed along the shady sidewalks of Green street. A three-phase motor of the latest type and good for 7½ horsepower is doing the work now with electric power from the Security plant near Hagerstown and they tell us that the current jumps over the intervening 26 miles 60 times a second, does the work and jumps back to the plant and still is resting more than half the time. For all this its action is perfectly smooth and regular and the Company expects a material improvement in the amount and quality of its output from the use of electricity.

With this new customer, the local electric company now has more than 20 horsepower of motors connected up and inquiries for more.

Big Yielding Local Orchard.

The orchards of Mr. John S. Hollinger who has the reputation of raising the finest apples in this vicinity, are show places at this season of the year. Every tree in both orchards is full to its capacity, some of them having as many as fifteen props. Mr. Hollinger expects a yield of between seven and eight thousand bushels. Several carloads will be sent to Ohio. It will be remembered that some varieties of the many raised by this orchardist have been bought and exhibited by other people at county fairs and taken various prizes.

Mr. Hollinger, who by the way is adding substantial improvements to his home property, will likely have a float in the parade during Booster Week—a float made up of specimens of his best fruit.

The farmers were urged by Mr. Remsburg to make a thorough seed bed for their wheat and to use plenty of phosphorus, this meaning that fertilizer should be applied liberally. He also urged that the sowing of wheat be delayed until about October 1 and said that by that time the ravages of the fly would probably be reduced to the minimum.

Farmer Battles in Tree With Coons.

Horace Robinson, a young farmer, of Smithville, six miles north of Federalsburg, Md., had a fight Tuesday night in the top of an oak tree with five raccoons. Before the battle ended Robinson fell from the tree exhausted. Three of his ribs were broken, his thigh badly injured and it is feared he is injured internally.

Mr. Robinson encountered the raccoons. He followed them to a big oak tree which the coons climbed. Thinking he could capture them alive, Robinson followed, but when he reached the animals they showed fight. For several minutes the young farmer was surrounded by the coons and several severe gashes were inflicted. He kept up the fight until exhausted, when he fell to the ground. He dragged himself to the county road, where he was found by his father, W. H. Robinson, who carried him home.

FABLES IN SLANG

The New Fable of the Galloping Pilgrim Who Tried to Sit Down by the Wayside.

A certain affluent Bachelor happened to be the only Grandson of a rugged Early Settler who wore a Coon-Skin Cap and drank Corn Juice out of a Jug. Away back in the Days when every Poor Man had Bacon in the Smoke House, this Pioneer had been soaked in a Trade and found himself loaded up with a Swamp Subdivision in the Edge of Town.

Fifty years later the City had spread two miles beyond the Swamp and Grandson was submerged beneath so much Unearned Increment that he began to speak with what sounded to him like an English Accent and his Shirts were ordered from Paris.

On the 1st of every Month the Agents would crawl into the Presence of the Grandson of the mighty Muskrat Hunter and dump before him a Wagonload of Paper Money which had been snatched away from the struggling Shop-Keepers, who in turn, had wheeled it from the People who paid a Nickel apiece for Sunday Papers so as to look at the Pictures of the Decorations in the Supper Room at the Assembly Hall graced by the Presence of the aforesaid Bachelor whose Grandfather had lifted the original Catfish out of the Chicago River.

Then the Representative of the Old Family would take a Garden Rake and pattern all this hateful Currency into a neat mound, after which a milk-fed Secretary would iron it out and disinfect it and sprinkle it with Lilac Water and tie it into artistic Packages, using Old Gold Ribbon.

After that, it was Hard Lines for the Bachelor, because he had to sit by a Window at the Club and dope out some new Way of getting all that Coin back into Circulation.

As a result of these Herculean Efforts to vaporize his Income, he found himself at the age of 40 afflicted with Social Gastritis. He had gorged himself with the Pleasures of this World until the sight of a Menu Card gave him the Willies and the mere mention of Musical Comedy would cause him to break down and Cry like a Child.

He had crossed the Atlantic so often that he no longer wished to sit at the Captain's Table. He had rolled them high at Monte Carlo and watched the Durbar at Delhi and taken Tea on the Terrace at Shepherd's in Cairo and rickshawed through Japan and ridden the surf in Honolulu, while his Name was a Household Word among the Barmaids of the Ice-Palace in London, otherwise known as the Savoy.

Occasionally he would return to his provincial Home to raise the Rents on the Shop-Keepers and give out an Interview criticizing the New School of Politicians for trifling with Vested Interests and seeking to disturb Existing conditions.

Any time his Rake-Off was reduced from $10 a Minute to $9.98 he would let out a Howl like a Prairie Wolf and call upon Mortimer, his Man, for Sympathy.

After Twenty Years of getting up at Twilight to throw aside the Pyjamas and take a Tub and ease himself into the Costume made famous by John Drew, the Routine of buying Golden Pheasants and Special Cuvee Vintages for almost-Ladies, preserved by Benzozate of Soda and other Chemical Mysteries, began to lose its Sharp Zest.

In other Words, he was All In. He was Track-Sore and Blase and sore as a Crab and full of Ongway. He had played the whole String and found there was nothing to it and now he was ready to retire to a Monastery and wear a Gunny-Sack Smoking Jacket and live on Spinach.

The Vanities of the Night-World had got on his nerves at last. Instead of sitting 8 Feet away from an Imported Orchestra at 2 A. M. and taunting poor old Alimentary System with Sea Food, he began to prefer to take a 10-Grain Sleeping Powder and fall back in the Alfalfa.

About Noon the next Day he would come up for Air, and in order to kill the rest of the Day, he would have to hunt up a Game of Auction Bridge with three or four other gouty old Mavericks.

When the Carbons begin to burn low in the sputtering Arc Lights along the Boulevard of Pleasure and the Night Wind cuts like a Chisel and the Reveler finds his bright crimson Brannigan slowly dissolving itself into a Helva Headache, there is but one thing for a Wise Ike to do and that is to Chop on the Festivites and beat it to a Rest Cure.

That is just what the well-fixed Bachelor decided to do.

He resolved to Marry and get away from the Bright Lights and lie down somewhere in a quilted Dressing Gown and a pair of Soft Slippers and devote the remainder of his Life to a grand clean-up of the Works of Arnold Bennett.

He selected a well-seasoned Senorita who was still young enough to show to your Men Friends but old enough to cut out all the prevalent Mushgush about the Irish Drama and Norwegian Art and Buddhism and true Symbolism of Russian Dancing.

Best of all, she had a spotless Reputation, holding herself down to one Bronx at a Time and always going behind a Screen to do her Inhaling.

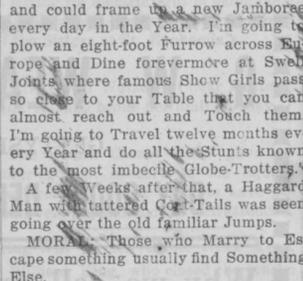

They were Married according to the new Ceremonies devised by the Ringling Brothers. As they rode away to their Future Home, the old Stager leaned back in the Limousine and said: "At last the Bird has Lit. I am going to put on the Simple Life for an Indefinite Run. I have played the Hoop-La Game to a Standstill, so it is me for a Haven of Rest."

As soon as they were safely in their own Apartments, the beautiful Bride began to do Flip Flops and screech for Joy.

"At last I have a License to cut loose!" she exclaimed. "For years I have hankered and honed to be Dead Game and took Excitement right off the Boards, but every time I pulled a Caper the stern-faced Mater would be at Elbow, saying: 'Nix on the Acrobatics or you'll lose your Number. Now I'm a regular honest-to-goodness Married Woman and I don't recognize any Limit except the Sky-Line. I grabbed you because I knew you had been to all the Places that Keep Open and could frame up a new Jamboree every day in the Year. I'm going to plow an eight-foot Furrow across Europe and Dine forevermore at Swed Joints, where famous Show Girls pass so close to your Table that you can almost reach out and Touch them. I'm going to Travel twelve months every Year and do all the Stunts known to the most imbecile Globe-Trotters."

A few Weeks after that, a Haggard Man with tattered Coat-Tails was seen going over the old familiar Jumps.

TAIL PROVED GOOD EVIDENCE

Fitted in its Proper Place It Proved Conclusively Who Was the Owner of Disputed Pet.

Two inches of the severed tail of a dog was responsible for restoring El Japonis, a white bull pup, to his mistress, Margarita Valdespino of El Paso, Tex., recently. She was the plaintiff in a recent lawsuit filed in Judge McClintock's court.

"Here's our evidence in the case, your honor," said the attorney representing the plaintiff, unwrapping a section of the tail of a dog and handing it to Judge McClintock.

"The court finds," said Judge McClintock, holding the severed member aloft, "that this is a part of a dog's tail. The question to be decided is what dog belongs to it."

"To El Japonis!" exclaimed the plaintiff.

In order to give him the appearance of a real thoroughbred two inches had been clipped from the animal's tail. The severed part had been preserved. Judge McClintock, scratched his head.

"In order to decide this question," he said, "I believe we ought to see that the tail fits the dog." The attorney passed the judge the bull pup.

"It just fits," said the judge, applying the severed part of the tail to that which was left on the dog. "I hold that the plaintiff has produced conclusive proof as to ownership."

Took Gold for Her Nerves. Pulverized gold as a remedy for shattered nerves figured at Kansas City in a suit for $7,500 damages against the Metropolitan by Miss Maud Wilson, a teacher in the George Baker Logan school. Miss Wilson was struck by a street car in 1912, and testimony in the circuit court recently brought out the unusual treatment she required. Gold was administered in one-sixtieth of a grain doses.

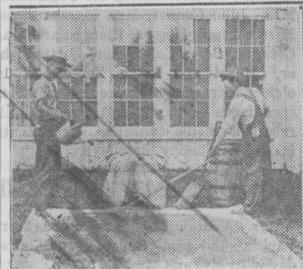

TREAT YOUR SEED WHEAT FOR SMUT

Insure Clean Seed By Killing the Spores Of Stinking Smut With Formalin.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

When a field of smutted wheat is threshed, many of the "smut balls" are broken and the sound grains are covered with the smut dust. As far as is known, this is practically the only way infection takes place to any serious extent. This infection is especially serious when a clean crop is threshed with a machine that has just threshed a smutted crop.

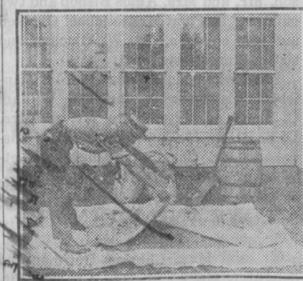

Before treating your wheat for stinking smut, it is best to remove all unbroken smut balls. Since the smut balls are much lighter than the sound grain, thorough fanning will generally do this. If fanning will not do it, the grain should be poured into a barrel of cold water and thoroughly stirred so that all the smut balls will come to the surface where they can be skimmed off.

SPRINKLING WITH FORMALIN.

Buy from your druggist 40 per cent. solution of formaldehyde or formalin. Pour one pint into 40 or 50 gallons of water and mix thoroughly. Put the grain to be treated in a basket or in a sack, one half bushel at a time, and plunge the grain into basket or sack containing the grain into the solution until every grain is thoroughly wet. Then raise the sack or basket for a minute to allow the solution to drain back. Next place the sacks where they will drain completely, or dump the grain out in a pile. Cover the pile with sacks or canvas, and allow it to remain in this way for 12 hours or more. Then the grain should be spread out on a clean floor to dry. This amount of solution should be sufficient for treating 40 to 50 bushels of wheat.

A good plan is to treat the seed in the evening and let it lay in the covered pile until morning. About one gallon of the solution will be required for every bushel of grain. Another method is to sprinkle the solution on instead of immersing the grain. According to this method the seed should be spread out thinly over a floor and the solution applied with a sprinkling can or with a spray pump, throwing a fine spray. While the solution is being applied, the grain should be stirred constantly with a hoe, shovel, or garden rake, until every grain is thoroughly wet, about three quarts of the solution to the bushel will be required. After the grain is thoroughly wet, it may be put in a pile, and allowed to remain this way for the same length of time as stated above.

Treated seed may be sown the following day after it has been spread out to dry, or it may be thoroughly dried and kept indefinitely. If sown soon after treatment, the drill should be set to sow from one-fourth to one-third more than for a normal seeding of thoroughly dry seed.

Maryland school teachers from four counties, Montgomery, Prince George's, Charles and St. Mary's will have an excellent opportunity to get in close touch with conditions at the State Agricultural College during the coming week, when their institute from Sept. 7th to 11th, will be held under the direction of the State Board of Education. This is the third event of a very busy summer at the Agricultural College, the first being a six weeks' course for rural school teachers extending through July, and the second being the three days' conference for Rural Ministers which was held here early in August. The Agricultural College is setting a good example in making our State educational institutions and their equipment of use to the people of the State every month in the year.

"Maryland Week" is the designation given the week of November 16-21, 1914, when the Maryland State Horticultural Society, Maryland Crop Improvement Association, Maryland State Dairymen's Association, and the Maryland Beekeepers' Association will hold their annual exhibition in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, Md.
