and out of Congress has been recognized by the Chief Executive and his assistants, who are keenly interested in the return of the Marylander to Congress. This interest is not based upon partisan grounds, but upon a full appreciation of Mr. Lewis' wide knowledge of postal affairs. The Postmaster-General pointed out that Mr. Lewis is now needed more in Washington than at any other time to help develop the parcel post to its full value to the American shipping public.

The parcel post, of which Mr. Lewis is the legislative father, is now in its infancy. Its service must be extended. The Wilson administration realizes this, and with the help and advice of Mr. Lewis it will be developed and extended until it becomes as useful and beneficial to the American public as the parcelpost systems are to the people of foreign countries.

Representative Lewis suggested the "farm to table" service by parcel post. Postmaster-General Burleson at once took up the idea and, with his experts, he is developing a splendid postal vehicle from the producer to the consumer in order that the people of the city may buy the necessaries of life at lower prices, and in order to give the farmer a market for much produce which goes to waste in his gardens and on his truck

In helping work out these parcel-post problems, Mr. Lewis has become so identified with the Postoffice Department that he is regarded as a "Fifth Assistant Post-master-General."

Boxed Kaiser's Ears

TYPE OF RIFLES POWERS USE

Krupp Factory Workmen Exempt From Army Duty. - Cossacks are Excellent Horsemen.-Red Cross Nurses on Field of Battle.

Of more real interest than the mere bulletins of the progress of the war are the intimate insights into the life of those who are actually engaged in the fray, and personal touches bearing on certain phases of military life that are not chronicled in the dispatches. A number of these sidelights quite diversified and interesting are herewith given to the readers of THE CHRONICLE.

Probably there is only one English woman now alive who has boxed the ears of the Kaiser. That lady, the widow of Sir Hugh Macdonell, the distinguished diplomatist, described the affair in her book of reminiscences, published last year. It happened when Lady Macdonell was living in Berlin, and the Kaiser (then Crown Prince) was one of her frequent visitors. She writes: "He liked our English teas, and afterwards used to claim me for a game of draughts In the salon there was a big window with a deep seat that he especially favored; to this a small table was drawn up, and fine battles ensued over the board. I shall never me of cheating. He was so apparently serious that I became infuriated, and unmindful of his high estate and my duty as hostess, I impulsively leaned across the table and boxed his ears!"

Not all the men, and especially not all the officers, who die in this war will be killed by the bullets of the enemy. In all campaigns that have ever taken place a number of men are doomed to death directly the guns begin to shoot. There is always a rough kind of juswhat they amount to. An officer has incurred the hatred of his men, he has shown himself a beast but not a just beast, and when war comes there comes also the opportunity for revenge. disease in the South, and, according to East Berlin and Hanover. Dr. Murray G. Motter, technical assistant at the Hygienic Laboratory of the Public Health Service, it has great possibilities at a time like this, when foreign drugs are under embargoes.

In discussing this matter, Dr. Motter to daily changes.

"As indicated by the name, worm seed has long had a reputation as an anthelmintic. The plant from which the oil is distilled grows in waste places from New England to Florida. It has however, been cultivated, particularly in Maryland, and the oil has become known as Baltimore oil in contradistinc tion to the Western product, which is no longer much of a factor. While the oil is almost wholly a Maryland pro duct, it is said that the seed is harvest ed in considerable quantities in Florida

When Mr. Summers arrived at his nome the flames had spread practically throughout the entire upper story. Neighbors seeing the fire rushed to the scene and by their efforts much furniture on the first floor was saved.

Oystermen Charged With Violations.

That natural-bar oystermen are now and for weeks have been engaged in robbing each other is the tenor of reports that are coming into Baltimore from the Potomac river and the Western Shore south of Annapolis. According to these reports which are circumtantial, oystermen from the Eastern Shore counties are using motorboats and scrapers to get the best of the oysters in the Potomac and off the Calvert county shore before the opening of the dredging season, on November 1. This is in direct violation of law, which prohibits the catching of oysters by means other than tongs till November

It is stated that all through the month of September small power-boats from the Eastern Shore have been scraping for oysters in the Potomac and that as many as 50 boats have been so engaged.

Many Old Faces Will be Missed.

The taking of the judicial oath last week, by former Congressman Covington, of Maryland, suggests that many old faces will be missing in the next House. It will be without Underwood, who will go to the Senate; without Hobson, defeated by Underwood; without Murdock, who is risking everything in his senatorial campaign; without Clayton, of Alabama, appointed by Wilson to the Federal bench; without Peters, of Massachusetts, now an Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; without Palmer, of Pennsylvania, who also has the senatorial bee and who, if defeated, may possibly be taken into the Cabinet. The fortunes of war may result in other important changes. The next House may be Democratic, but it will not be the present House, and the Republicans who probably will form again the minority party will unquestionably have an entirely new problem on their hands when they come face to face with the combined congressional and presidential election of 1916.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoc-tin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites availabe. If you contemplate changing your place of residence-come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County,

The Undertaker a Developer.

There are in many communities sucessful business men ard farmers who stand like stumps in the highways of progress and in such a situation the Undertaker is an important factor in development. Scarcely a day passes that they do not add a new terror to death by refusing to join with public spirited citizens in a movement for the upbuilding of their community or by their indifference snag an industrial enterprise.

It takes live men to build a community and there is no sadder sight in life than a few noble spirited citizens staggering under a lead of dead timber. The undertaker is oftimes a developer.

Fog Signals. All the up to date light stations possess fog signals for warning the mariner of the presence of rocks and other dangers in foggy weather. The larger ones are so powerful that their blasts can be heard twenty-five to thirty miles out at sea. Most of them are worked by compressed air, a gas engine of perhaps twenty or twenty-five horsepower being brought into requisition for this purpose. The siren is blown periodically every seventy eighty or ninety seconds or so, the actual blast lasting perhaps about two or three seconds. It means that while the siren is running, in the case of the larger appartus, something like 500 horsepower is being expended in the production of sound.-Scientific Ameri-

To Lambaste. "Lambaste" is a sinewy, heroic word. We prefer it to its variant "lambust." And it is a word of respectable age "Stand off awhile and see how I'll lambaste him" was written in 1637. It comes from the word "lam," to beat soundly, and "baste," which means the same thing. The tautology is here only intensive. But the word should always be spelled with a final "e."-London Standard.

The Orator Scored "Who is there," cried the impassion ed orator, "who will lift a voice against the truth of my statement?"

Just then a donkey on the outskirts of the crowd gave vent to one of the piercing "hee-haws" of the tribe.

The laugh was on the orator for a moment; but, assuming an air of triumph, he lifted his voice above the din to say, "I knew nobody but an ass would try it."-London Globe.

The Secret Incentive. When I read history and am impressed with any great deed I feel as if I should like to see the woman who is concealed behind it as its secret in centive.-Helnrich Heine.

Good nature and common sense are required from all.

The Potato Habit.

Potato eating has become a habit not because potatoes contain enough nourishment to carry on life, but because they are cheap, easy to prepare and bulky enough to fill up the stomach. The potato consists almost entirely of starch, and though this has a place in the diet it is not capable of building up strength and muscle. Constant reference is made to the hardihood of colonists and early settlers. They were not raised on a potato diet, for the potato was a luxury as late as 1800, to be served with sugar, nutmeg and mace. It is a product of more recent years, part and parcel of the struggle to keep down the living expense at the cost of the body.

This does not mean that potatoes should be eliminated from the dietary, for like every other food they have a definite mission to fulfill, but they must be used with discretion and in proper combination. Excessive use brings an inevitable trail of anaemia, obesity and autointoxication.-Country Gentleman.

Poisoners of Rome.

Tofana, the Italian woman poisoner of the seventeenth century, was carrying on a tradition of ancient Rome. In 331 B. C. a supposed pestilence swept the city, and many leading men were carried off. Then a slave girl gave information, and the authorities surprised twenty Roman matrons preparing drugs over a fire. Since they insisted that the drugs were not poisonous they were compelled to drink them in the Forum, and all perished. Further information having been laid, 170 matrons were condemned. In 184 B. C. a four months' inquiry by the praetor resulted in the condemnation of 2,000 persons for poisoning. There were many similar scandals, but it will always remain doubtful whether in any particular one of these ancient cases the epidemic was not really natural.-London Spectator.

Gladstone's Quick Temper. A story is told of an encounter between Queen Victoria and Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Gladstone in an audience with the queen one day produced a list of people whom he wished to be made peers. The queen demurred and said, "I cannot create as many as this, Mr. Gladstone."

Whereupon Mr. Gladstone, who sometimes got into a temper, tore the list The queen flushed slightly, but said nothing to Mr. Gladstone, who shortly afterward quitted the royal presence

Some short time later Mr. Gladstone presented a new list, much shorter than on the previous occasion. The queen, without looking at it, tore it up. It was then Mr. Gladstone's Professor W. B. Bottomley, in a lecture recently delivered at the royal botanic gardens, said that a clod of earth might seem to have no romance in it, but it was one of the most wonderful things imaginable. The soil was alive, it was a living machine, where microbes so small that 10,000,000 to 100,000,000 were contained in enough earth to cover a halfpenny were working together in a systematic way. They could not be seen and were only known houseflies tend to travel either against by their work, and the greatest benefactors to the human race were those who promoted their activities. The wise gardener looked after their well being, for without them there would be no plant life and no human life, since all nutriment was drawn from the soil.-London Globe.

Modesty. Dribbler-In my opinion a man who writes an illegible hand does it because he thinks people are willing to puzzle over it. In other words, he is a chunk of conceit.

Scribbler-Not always. Sometimes a man writes illegibly not because he is conceited but because he is modest. "Modest! What about?

The Microbe Menace.

Our wide general information, in this day of the Sunday newspaper, tells us that the real danger of the time is the quiet microbe. We could even wish that microbes clanked chains, and then we would know they were about and speed for the prophylactic. The innumerable devils of the middle ages. invisible but always somewhere in the neighborhood, have been neatly replaced by the discoveries of bacteriology and if we hadn't got used to them, living would be an almost impossible anxious performance. The vacationist, reading the warning issued by his government against the bacterial dangers of simple country living, would stay hopelessly in the city-and then, learning of the bacterial dangers of summer life in town, would eventually be driven to suicide by drowning as the coolest way out of his troubles.

Microbes, microbes everywhere,
In the water, in the air!
Kicking up a deadly row,
In the product of the cow.
You can almost hear them mutter
In the milk and in the butter. -Atlantic Monthly.

First Beef Extract Factory.

Something over a hundred years ago the hacendados (ranchmen) of Uruguay complained to the government that over 450,000 head of cattle were being killed annually for their hides alone. The carcasses were thrown to the dogs or left on the rolling pampas for the vultures to devour. Beef in Uruguay was so plentiful that it was something of a nuisance evidently. Of course that day has passed, but they still have cattle enough down there to convert some 700,000 head into 113,000,000 pounds of jerked beef in one year. most of which is sold to Brazil, Cuba, Porto Rico and other tropical countries. Perhaps but few people know that the first great factory for the production of beef extract was established at Frag Bentos, a little city on the Uruguay river about a hundred miles above Buenos Aires, the cosmopolitan capital of Argentina, and that it is still operating. Fray Bentos has been caled the greatest kitchen in the world. On some days 2,500 head of cattle are slaughtered.-Argonaut.

Theater Headaches.

The most frequent cause of headaches occurring during or after the theater is eye strain. People who use the full energy of the delicate eye muscles to obtain perfect vision are often unconscious of this stain. In the theater the continuous effort to keep everything constantly focused exhausts the nerve centers and headache results. The practice of seating the audience in total darkness while they are staring into an intensely lighted stage is another serious factor. The pupils, being widely dilited in the dark, admit the excess of light from the stage, often producing irritation of the eyes which lasts sometimes for days. Those subject to headaches should never sit where it is necessary to raise the eyes to watch the stage. This unnatural position of the eyes is very tiresome even to those who never have trouble at other times.-Journal American Medical Association.

Flight of the Housefly. Dr. Hindle of London finds that or across the wind. This direction may be directly determined by the action of the wind, or indirectly, owing to the flies being attracted by odors borne by the wind. Fine weather and warmth favor dispersal, and flies travel further in the open country than in towns-probably because the houses offer food and shelter. In thickly housed localities the usual maximum flight is about a quarter of a mile, but in one case a single fly was recovered at a distance of 770 yards-partly over open fenland. When set free in the afternoon flies do not scatter so well as in the morning. Liberated flies often mount almost vertically to a height of forty-five feet or more. Switzerland's President.

There is one highly civilized country in which not one person in four could give their ruler's name. That country is Switzerland. One reason why the president is almost unknown either by name or by sight is that he is not a public figure at all. He has no privileges as president and no official uniform-not even of the army. Switzerland has a fresh president every year He has no personal authority as president and is practically only the speak er of Switzerland's unassuming little parliament. It is recorded that at a preeting of Swiss business men no one could recall the name of the president. The waiter was asked. He happened to know, because the president was his uncle.-Philadelphia Times.

Trouble Ahead. "That speech you made placing me in nomination was a splendid statement of the case." said the grateful candidate "Yes." replied the old campaigner, "it was a fine statement. But we're going to have a dickens of a time proving it."-Washington Star.
