Machine Guns Used And How They Are Fired

METHODS EMPLOYED BY SPIES

Costs $23,000,000 a Day To Feed the Armies.—Bravery and Heroism Reported From Fields of Battle.

In the British army the machine gun is the Maxim; the French use the Hotchkiss, or Puteaux; Austrians employ the Schwarzlose, and Germans the Maxim. In all cases machine guns are attached to the infantry forces, usually at the proportion of two guns per battalion, or 1,000 men.

These guns fire rifle cartridges at immense speed by mechanical means, and usually the kick, or recoil, of the gun is used for the purpose of reloading. It is interesting to note that in a test forty-two British first class-shots engaged against a machine gun, each firing at the same target for one minute, the gun discharged 228 rounds and made sixty-nine hits; the forty-two marksmen discharged 408 rounds and made sixty-two hits.

Some idea of the plan used in operating these guns may be gleaned from the following:

"The commandant of the modern German fortress led the correspondent into his conning tower of nickel steel. It was a small, dim, mysterious room. A table in the center had for top a ground-glass like the ground glass of a camera, and on this ground glass table top all the surrounding country in every direction lay spread in bright, clear focus.

"This table," said the commandant, "is marked out in tiny squares, you see. Each square has its number—a number corresponding with a certain target. Suppose, now, an enemy appears: suppose he appears in Square 19, and sets up his cannon on that wooded hillock above the little river. I press button 19 in the gun cupola, and this signal tells my men below just what gun is to be trained and what target is to be aimed at. They train the gun accordingly to No. 19 elevation and No. 19 direction—the fuse is timed No. 19—and bang! The shot can't miss, unless, indeed, the cartridge should happen to be defective—no, it can't miss any more than an adding machine can add a column wrong."

A particularly ingenious example of the methods employed by German spies at the front for communicating information to their troops is given in the London Times.

A favorite sign of the German spies is a black cow. This animal, crudely sketched in black crayon on walls and gates and fences, was frequently noticed by the French as they passed and was so badly drawn that it aroused no suspicion. The only remark it called forth was that it was much out of proportion. Sometimes it was small, sometimes large now rampant, now couchant, and often the horns were ridiculously long in comparison with the rest of the animal.

A little cow signified that the road was only weakly defended; a moderate sized cow meant that the allied troops were in the neighborhood; a large cow was a warning that there were earth works or trenches nearby. The direction in which the cow's head pointed indicated where the danger was. If it pointed into the air, that meant that the Germans had better reconnoitre the ground by aeroplane before advancing.

The yellow glare which usually floods the London sky of an evening has almost disappeared, and the lights of the metropolis are still diminishing. In the darkness overhead the rays of searchlights dart here and there in search of hostile aircraft, vivid columns of brilliant light.

Another History Marker Gone. With the dynamiting of Oak Piers, a century old, near the Anacostia (D. C.) bridge across the eastern branch of the Potomac, the last sign of one of Washington's most historic landmarks has been removed. The piers were dynamited by Army engineers in the work of reclaiming the Anacostia flats. The bridge marking the site, once part of the highway between Baltimore and outlying Maryland points, and always regarded as a strategic point of entry to the American capital, was that burned by the British in August, 1814, when they fought their way to Washington. Since then a reminder of the historic bridge has been suggested by the old Oak Piers.

WIRELESS TELEPHONE IN NAVY

Apparatus Effective at Forty Miles and No Listening on the "Line."

The Italian Navy has just adopted a wireless telephone instrument perfected by H. J. Round, one of Marconi's lieutenants. This apparatus is guaranteed for forty miles, and under favorable conditions should make a voice audible at sixty miles. It makes possible the transmission of all orders from the admiral to the captains in the fleet by word of mouth, and, should a misunderstanding arise even during a battle it can be cleared away simply by ringing up the flagship and talking the matter over. "By multiplying the power and coarseness of the materials," Mr. Round remarked, "the same device could easily make words spoken in New York audible here, and that is what we had planned to demonstrate this month. It would have been wholly a scientific demonstration, without present commercial value, owing to the excessive cost. But the restrictions governing wireless are so numerous under war time conditions that experiments of that kind are out of the question." Perhaps Mr. Round's apparatus is described as simple and no more expensive than amateur wireless telegraphy outfits. In order to get a connection with any particular point a selective scheme has been devised by which an aerial wave of a certain strength sets a pendulum attuned to a like strength swinging sufficiently to ring a bell at the receiving point. Thus the caller can ring any one of about twenty different receivers without the remaining nineteen hearing the call. Once connection is established, conversation across forty miles of air is easier even than by wire, except when there is lightning in the atmosphere, which has the effect of causing slightly blurring sounds.

1,735,369 CARS IN UNITED STATES

Motorists Have Paid in Fees Nearly $9,000,000.

The fees paid by motorists, so far as there are returns available, aggregate $8,817,654. According to the latest annual compilation made by the Automobile, there are in the United States 1,735,369 motor vehicles. This total was obtained by securing from the registration officials in all the States their figures for October first with the proper deduction for duplications of registration. This figure shows a gain of 203,503 over the number of cars registered last year and a gain of about 725,000 in two years. Among the States New York leads with 160,475 cars, Illinois is second with 126,681, Pennsylvania third with 122,773, Ohio fourth with 118,950, California fifth with 113,061, Iowa sixth with 100,183, Texas seventh with 75,000, Michigan eighth with 74,777, Massachusetts ninth with 72,966 and Minnesota tenth with 66,700. Other States having over 50,000 cars each in order are Indiana, Nebraska, New Jersey, Wisconsin and Missouri. Nevada with 1,523 cars is credited with the smallest number of any State. Mississippi is the next to the lowest with 1,650. As near as can be estimated there are in the country 678,562 gasoline passenger cars, 388,530 gasoline commercial vehicles and about 19,000 electrics of both kinds.

Jannus Brothers Fly Over Baltimore.

Anthony and Roger Jannus who are about to establish a flying machine factory in Baltimore, took a flight over the city on Saturday in order to try out some new control device on their flying boat. They circled over the Sun building a couple of times, then continued their flight a little to the northwest, then circled to the south, swept over the Emerson Tower, with its big blue bottle, circled around that, the tallest structure in that part of the town, once or twice, and then headed southeast, sweeping over the factories and the railroad freight yards to the river and back to Yockel's Park, where they landed. In this flight they had attained a height of about 2,000 feet and were in the air about 20 minutes.

Prosperity Ahead.

The National City Bank of New York, in its monthly letter sent out on Monday, says: "Affairs in this country are moving in an orderly manner toward recovery. The banks in the central cities have restored their legal reserves, money is easier, fears of a financial crisis have disappeared, the foreign trade situation is better, a pool to lend money on cotton has been agreed upon, and the new banking system is nearer to doing business. These are all important gains over the situation of two and three months ago."

Emperor William has bestowed upon the king of Bavaria and the king of Wurtemberg the decoration of the Iron Cross in recognition of the bravery of their troops.

SMITH AND LEWIS REELECTED

Carrington Defeated by 15,000 Plurality; Zihlman Loses by 670

"LITTLE GIANT" WINS AGAINST HEAVY ODDS

Big Republican Landslides in Many States Due to Progressive Decline From Two Years Ago

WHITMAN IS GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK; WADSWORTH TO SENATE

President Wilson Will Have a Democratic Congress to Sustain Him to the End of His Term.—Old Standpat Warhorses, "Uncle Joe" Cannon, William B. McKinley, Turned Out Two Years Ago, Re-elected.—Woman Suffrage Badly Beaten in Western States.

HON. DAVID J. LEWIS.

The election on Tuesday in Maryland resulted in the reelection of Senator John Walter Smith over the Republican candidate, Col. E. C. Carrington, by 14,691 plurality. All the Democratic candidates for Congress were elected with the exception of that of the Fifth district where Sydney E. Mudd, Republican, defeated Richard A. Johnson. Those elected in the other districts were as follows: First, Jesse D. Price; second, J. F. C. Talbot; third, Charles P. Coady; fourth, J. Charles Linthicum; sixth, David J. Lewis.

In three counties of the State the question of local option was voted upon, and according to reports, all three counties have gone into the "dry" column.

In Garrett county the vote was: For, 2,377; against, 507, giving the "drys" a majority of 1,870.

Carroll county, where a particularly hot fight was waged, went dry by about 1,200. The bill granting the county the right to vote on the liquor question was passed by the last session of the Legislature. The county goes dry on May 1, 1915, when licenses now in effect expire.

Cecil county that votes on the liquor question every four years, decided to remain in the "dry" column.

The outcome of the election in Frederick county was quite a surprise. Senator Smith, who was expected to carry the county by a large majority over Carrington, lost to his opponent by 352, while Lewis who was expected to run behind Smith and possibly lose to Zihlman in view of the registered Republican affiliation majority, carried the county over Zihlman by 179. Frederick city went for Congressman Lewis by a majority of 103, making a big gain for the Democrats, according to the registration figures, which gave the Republicans a lead in Frederick city of 11.

Lewis is returned to Congress with a considerable reduced majority over that he secured two years ago, when he defeated Wagaman by 6,287. At that time the Republican party was torn asunder by primary fights and the Democratic party was in the ascendency. This time the Republicans entered the campaign with a united front, and at the same time they had a candidate who was said to be strong with the laboring men, the same as Lewis was. However Zihlman's showing in Allegany county was a distinct disappointment and the returns show that Lewis is the more popular of the two among the laboring people. The Republicans in Allegany county have an affiliated majority of about 2,700, and the results show that Lewis again made inroads. Garrett county returned to the Rep-lican fold but did not give the large Republican majority which it has given in years gone by. Washington county split even on Senator and Congressman, and gave Lewis a majority of 204, while Smith lost to Carrington. Montgomery county, as usual, went for the Democratic nominees by large majorities.

The vote in the sixth Congressional district was as follows:

	Lewis	Zihlman
Allegany.....	5,034	5,181
Garrett.....	1,114	1,686
Washington.....	4,569	4,382
Frederick.....	5,154	4,975
Montgomery.....	3,578	2,555

Totals..... 19,449 18,779

Lewis' plurality, 670.

In Emmitsburg the vote polled was:

	Lewis	Zihlman
Precinct 1.....	194	95
Precinct 2.....	141	96

Totals..... 335 191

Lewis' plurality, 144.

Results in the election throughout the country, show that the Republicans made great gains, although the Democrats will retain a majority in the House of Representatives and perhaps increase their majority by one in the Senate.

In New York Charles S. Whitman, Republican, was elected Governor by 141,000 plurality over Martin H. Glynn, Democrat, and James S. Wadsworth, Republican, Senator, by 102,000 over James W. Gerard, Democrat.

In Connecticut there was a landslide of New York proportions. The Republicans carried everything. A Congressional delegation of five Democrats became one of five Republicans. Senator Brandegee, Republican, was re-elected by 12,000 to 15,000, defeating Gov. Simeon E. Baldwin. The whole Republican State ticket was elected, as well as the Legislature.

Dr. Martin Brumbaugh, Republican candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, and the entire Republican State ticket, was elected by large pluralities.

In Indiana one of the Wilson leaders in the Senate, Benjamin F. Shively, was returned to his old post by 30,000 plurality after an extremely hard fight. This stands out from among other Senatorial elections as a distinct Administration victory.

In Massachusetts, David I. Walsh, Democratic Senator, was re-elected, but the rest of the ticket went Republican.

NOT SEIZING HER OPPORTUNITY

London Criticizes America for Not Profiting by Present Conditions.

London is criticising the lack of enterprise on the part of American manufacturers in not taking advantage of the war situation. A recent dispatch says: "The other week the War Department searched London for agents of American mills to supply a half million pairs of blankets to Lord Kitchener's new army. No agents were found and the orders went to British mills, which were unable to give guarantee as to when the order would be fulfilled.

Not only the British Government, but also the French and Russian, are now calling wildly for supplies of all kinds, camp equipment and accoutrements, but the Americans, by what is considered here a surprising lack of enterprise, have not been on hand. It is not a question of seeking business, but of having it thrust at them.

There is likely to be a continuous demand for blankets, olive drab uniform, which is now manufactured for the American army, canvas, cooking utensils, army shoes and material which the United States has never heretofore exported to England.

General trade opportunities are also offered to America, since England, Germany and France have largely supplied Spain and Italy and the lesser countries of Europe, to say nothing of the trade with Africa, the Orient and South America."

WAR STOPS SALE OF VODKA

Failure to Get Fiery Whiskey Raises Condition of Russian Peasantry.

The discontinuance of the sale of vodka in Russia has greatly improved the condition of the inhabitants of that country, according to dispatches from Petrograd. Peasants who before the war had fallen into hopeless indolence and depravity already have emerged into self-respecting citizens. The effect on character is already visible in neatly brushed clothes instead of the former ragged and slovenly attire. Huts which were formerly dilapidated and allowed to go without repairs are now kept in good condition. The towns have become more orderly and the peasants indulge in wholesome amusements. These people now save fifty-five per cent. of their earnings, which formerly was spent for drink, and they have increased their earning capacity through sobriety. The extra money is now devoted to the necessities and comforts of life. This startling regeneration of the peasantry is, in the opinion of the Russian authorities, likely to have an important effect on the social and economic conditions of all Russia. A change in the large cities also is noticeable. Liquor still is sold in first-class cafes, but these are virtually empty. The Nevsky Prospect, once famous for its gay midnight life, is now quiet without a sign of revelry.

President Comes to the Rescue.

When returning to the capital from Baltimore Sunday evening, President Wilson figured in an automobile accident at Murkirk, near Laurel, and the President's car was placed at the disposal of a party of Washingtonians who were injured when their car turned turtle on the Baltimore-Washington boulevard.

Two women, a boy and a man from Washington had just been in collision with the car of Dr. J. R. Hunt of Laurel as it stood by the side of the boulevard at Murkirk, when the President and his aides came bowling along on their return trip to Washington after the executive had attended church earlier in the day.

President Wilson alighted from his car, inquired after the injured members of the party, and, when the Washington car refused to run after being righted, he offered his own car that they might be gotten to Washington with the least delay. Despite their hurts, the offer was declined, so after shaking hands all around President Wilson continued to Washington.

Will Try Baltimore Invention.

The big gun invented by John Patten and Ernest B. Miller, engineers of the Davison Chemical Company, Curtis Bay, will at last be tested by England. The peculiar features of the gun are that it does away with the rifling in the gun barrel, the wearing out of which so greatly shortens the life of the ordinary big gun, and by a process of hardening the interior surface of the gun, still further lengthens its life, and that by a peculiar method of utilizing the gasses of explosion a rotary motion is given to the projectile similar to that given in ordinary guns by the rifling.

THE NEED OF A LARGER NAVY

LESSON FROM THIS WAR

Warships Cheapest and Best Insurance

FORMER SEC. OF NAVY SPEAKS

Powerful and Efficient Naval Equipment More Necessary Than a Large Standing Army so Thinks Von L. Meyer.

Why the United States needs and should maintain a powerful navy, especially in view of the lessons of the great war now going on, and how such a navy would prove the cheapest and best form of insurance of peace for this country, were explained by Hon. George von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy in President Taft's Cabinet, and a man whose wide experience in the diplomatic service and as head of the navy makes his views worthy of deep consideration. He was speaking to members of the City Club, of Boston, who tended him a dinner.

A much larger navy was urged by Mr. Meyer, who pointed out that America must be so strong as to make any other Power hesitate before attacking her. The War of 1812 never would have taken place, he said, if this country had been well armed on the sea; the Civil War would have been shorter and Spain would not have dared to take up arms in 1898 if there had been a thoroughly efficient navy at this country's command. Taking the present war for illustration of his views the speaker said that had England not possessed the greatest navy she long ago would have been vanquished and humiliated; England's warships have driven the German trading vessels from the high seas and have kept the German navy bottled up and unable to cooperate with the army for an invasion of Great Britain.

If the United States had kept her navy up to the size which it should have been she would today be saving millions of dollars yearly on pensions and, likewise, if this country will build an adequate number of warships it will save millions on pensions in the future. America's navy, in his opinion, should be larger than that of any other Power except Great Britain because it has more need than ever for such a force—with the Panama Canal, Alaska, the Philippines and Hawaii to protect in addition to maintaining the Monroe Doctrine and keeping any possible enemy from landing a force in the United States proper.

"The navy is a great military institution," said Mr. Meyer, "and you can't make a little red schoolhouse of the ships, as every hour of the day is taken up in routine work. The navy is a great school in which the men learn a variety of useful trades. If we are to learn anything from the present war we should profit from England's experience, for where would Great Britain stand today if she had listened to the councils of the little navy men. More than ever we need a great navy to safeguard the Panama Canal, Hawaii and Alaska. A navy costs money, but it prevents a greater cost. The cost of the Spanish War was a little more than $500,000,000, and for five per cent. of that amount we could have had a division of battleships, and with such a division Spain would have backed down. A powerful and efficient navy is an assurance against invasion, for the fleet would have to be crushed before an invasion was possible. The whole cost of the United States Navy from the beginning has been 25 per cent. less than the pensions since the War of the Revolution.

"There is overwhelming proof of the necessity of a powerful navy—a navy so strong that no nation will dare attack us. If the Russians had had a powerful navy at Port Arthur in 1905 Japan would never have gone to war. When Italy seized Tripoli, Turkey was helpless because she had no navy. The possessions—

War Tax Stamps Are Coming.

The Department at Washington has informed Joshua W. Miles, Collector of United States Internal Revenue that the new license stamps to be issued on account of the war tax and which are effective today will be received before November 15. As soon as they are received those affected will be expected to call and pay the tax promptly. The classes affected by the tax are: Bankers, brokers, pawnbrokers, Custom-house brokers, commission merchants, theaters, museums, concert halls, tobacco dealers, tobacco manufacturers, cigar manufacturers and cigarette manufacturers. The general stamp tax, which will affect the public the most, does not go into effect until December 1, and it is expected that by that time the new stamps will be ready.

TRIBUTE TO PROFESSOR LAGARDE BY HIS PASTOR.

Let us now praise men of renown and our fathers in their generation.
Eccl. XLIV, 1.

The many tributes of esteem, respect, admiration and affection which have been paid to the late Professor Lagarde, show forth strikingly the grand, noble character of the man, and evince the sincere appreciation of his services to Mt. St. Mary's College and to the public at large. The high regard in which the Professor was held, was not confined to his collaborators, and the students, and the alumni of the College, but extended likewise to the families of those to whom he imparted instruction for upward of forty-five years. This fact was attested by the genuine sympathy that resounded from every quarter at the sad news of his departure, and that made many feel they had sustained a personal loss. Intelligent men whose position and experience enable them to give correct estimates of character, were the most sincere in their declarations of the sterling qualities of the man. Words are far inadequate to express the esteem and affection in which the Professor was held particularly by those that were most intimately associated with him, and that knew him best and longest; and the place which he holds in their minds and hearts, is the strongest test of the singular worth of the man. To the expressions of appreciation already given of his high qualities, I feel as pastor that it is incumbent on me to add this humble tribute, and set forth however feebly his relations as a member of St. Anthony's parish. The moral support and sustained encouragement which Professor Lagarde offered me ever since my first advent in this community over ten years ago, and his cheerful readiness to assist me in any and every manner in his power towards the discharge of my pastoral duties must always abide with me as a happy memory and a sweet solace. Had I not known the Professor in health, and had I been called to make his first acquaintance during his last illness, the dispositions which he showed during that supreme test of his noble Christian character, would alone have convinced me that I was dealing with a man whose life had been an exemplification of strong abiding faith and of all the traits that go to make up the Christian gentleman. He had already been tried sorely in the school of sorrow and adversity, he had felt a share in the cross of his suffering Redeemer, and now the final summons comes to leave his earthly task and to receive the reward of his stewardship. It was but natural that he should be reluctant to resign his accustomed place and to part with many loved ones; but, equal to the emergency, he generously and courageously makes the sacrifice and strives to dismiss all worldly cares in order to give his whole attention to the immediate preparation for his departure. I must ever remember the edifying dispositions with which he received the last rites of the Church.

The relations of Professor Lagarde to the Mountain community form a chapter of no little interest and instruction. One could not form a picture of the homes of these people, grouped round about the college, without the person of this venerable patriarch looming up in his own home or in the homes of the poor and lowly, ever ready to aid them by his counsel and advice and to further their interests in every other conceivable way. He knew not selfishness, but was ever ready to be consumed on the altar of sacrifice to the public welfare. He had the happy faculty of rendering a service as if he were the beneficiary. Superior as he was in many respects to his fellows, he adapted himself to them and made himself all to all men. His services to his fellowmen were sometimes requited by ingratitude, but even then rising above the all too-common sentiments of retaliation or vindictiveness, he showed himself ready to bestow additional favors. He often proved a peacemaker by the prevention of lawsuits, which in a community like this accomplish no other object than to bequeath to posterity their dread venom. Teacher, scholar, gentleman, public benefactor as he was, Professor Lagarde will continue to live in the many good deeds he has wrought. Deeply grieved as we are at the loss to this community entailed by his death, I am assured that a grateful people will ever keep his memory green by recalling him and his many benefactions and, above all, endeavoring to make some substantial return for all that he has done for them, they will remember him in their prayers and holy communions and at the divine sacrifice. May the rising generation learn from him those gentlemanly traits which will render happy their mutual relations, and go far to insure their success in life. The family and friends that mourn the passing away of this good man, will find comfort in the words of holy writ: "The souls of the just are in the hand of God and the torment of death shall not touch them. In the sight of the unwise they seemed to die, * * * but they are in peace." Wisdom III, 1, 2, 3.

Pastor of St. Anthony's Church.

The war demand for wheat brought American exports for the three months ending with September to the highest point ever reached in any corresponding period.

Government Makes Report on Maryland Crops.

The Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture has just completed its estimate of the acre yield of the principal farm crops of Maryland for this year. The estimates are based on crop conditions during the early part of October. The final figures will be given out within a short time, but is reported that they will not differ to any great extent with the preliminary estimates. According to the figures the yield per acre of the principal crops of this State in 1914 will be as follows: Corn 42.5 bushels; Buckwheat 22 bushels; Irish Potatoes 122 bushels; Sweet Potatoes 146 bushels and Tobacco 870 pounds.

Co-operative Farming.

In this age of co-operation, in which manufacturing and commercial interests have attained wonderful development and success by merging their resources, it is not to be wondered at that co-operation has slowly but inevitably wended its way into rural life. The old method of individualism is gradually giving way to the co-operative spirit and the result is a greatly reduced cost of living and lessened expense of farming.

Maryland farmers are leading the co-operative movement and it is gradually being extended into every feature of community life.

Maryland Farmers Complete Hay Mowing.

Maryland farmers produced 452,000 tons of tame or cultivated hay during 1914, according to the preliminary estimates made by the United States Department of Agriculture. The yield last year was 491,000 tons. The product is selling for an average of $15.30 per ton, compared with $12.20 per ton in 1913. The yield per acre this season is 1.16 tons and the quality is not as good as that of the average crop of the past ten years.

Three Counties Quarantined.

By a proclamation issued by Gov. Goldsborough for the purpose of halting the spread of the cattle disease throughout Maryland, Allegany, Frederick and Washington Counties have been quarantined.

ODDS AND ENDS

The Chilean Government intends to purchase several vessels on the west coast, now sailing under other flags, in order that they may be used to move nitrate to the United States and bring back coal and other merchandise.

It is reported that already 38,000 German soldiers have received the Iron Cross for conspicuous gallantry in the field. This German decoration, which is similar in design to England's Victoria Cross, is said to be cast out of guns captured in war.

Philippine purchases of products of the United States advanced from $5,000,000 in 1909 to $10,000,000 in 1910, $20,000,000 in 1912, 25,000,000 in 1913, and $27,000,000 in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914.

Ernest Deletraz and G. Grouzelle, representatives of the French Government in buying tobacco, are in Baltimore and expect to remain some time securing Maryland tobacco for their Government.

The managers of the Nobel Institute have decided to give this year's peace prize, which amounts to about $40,000, to the Netherlands Government, to be applied toward the support of Belgian refugees in Holland.

LAW'S GOVERNING SUBSCRIPTIONS

Most readers of newspapers and many publishers are not familiar with the laws governing subscriptions. Here are the decisions of the United States court on the subject. They will be interesting to publishers and many will undoubtedly be glad of the opportunity to print them for the benefit of delinquent subscribers:

"Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered as wishing to renew their subscriptions.

"If subscribers order a discontinuance of their publication the publisher may continue to send them until all dues are paid.

"If the subscriber refuses to take the periodical from the postoffice to which they are directed, he is responsible until he has settled his bill and ordered the paper discontinued.

"If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former address, the subscriber is held responsible.

"The courts have held that refusing to take periodicals from the postoffice, or removing and leaving them uncollected is prima facie evidence of intention to defraud.

"If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the subscriber is responsible until express notice with payment of all arrearage is sent to the publisher.

Hiawatha Literary Society.

The first regular meeting of the Hiawatha Literary Society was held on Friday afternoon Oct. 30. The following program was rendered. Hostilities between Turkey and Russia caused a general dash to the buying side in the wheat market in Chicago. As a result prices opened as much as 2½ cents a bushel above last night's level, May wheat touching $1.22, as against $1.19½ at the previous close.

George E. Roberts, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, Director of the Mint, has resigned. It was announced at the Treasury Department that the resignation would be effective when accepted by President Wilson.

Sir George Paish and Basil B. Blackett, English commercial and financial representatives, returned to Washington today and renewed conferences with a treasury and bankers' committee regarding the foreign exchange situation.

Four thousand bales of cotton and the warehouse of J. W. Coleman & Bro. at Moultrie, Ga., were destroyed by fire of undetermined origin today. The loss including a quantity of farm machinery and grain, is estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000.

The appointment of Baron Fisher, admiral of the fleet, to succeed Prince Louis of Battenberg as First Sea Lord of the Admiralty, was announced officially by the Press Bureau.

Pitchers Bender, Coombs and Plank will not be with the Athletics next year. This was admitted by Manager Connie Mack in a statement given out today by the leader of the former world's champions.

Saturday.

Jacob Dickinson, special Government counsel in the dissolution suit against the United States Steel Corporation, discussed the case today with Attorney General Gregory. Argument in the noted case was concluded recently and it now awaits decision.

Bishop Charles W. Smith, of St. Louis, died of heart failure early today at the home of Justice Anderson, of the District Supreme Court, Washington, where he was being entertained while attending the meeting of conference claimants of the Methodist Episcopal Church in session in Washington.

Seventeen persons were hurt today in the wreck of train No. 32 on Lackawanna Railroad, which was thrown off an embankment a mile west of Allford, Pa. Part of the train of five cars rolled down a 30-foot incline into Martins Creek. The wreck, which happened at 6.15 A. M., was attributed to a broken rail.

A curious political mixup came to light at the White House when President Wilson withdrew a telegram of indorsement which had been sent by mistake to John C. Vaughn, the Progressive candidate for Congress in the Second Illinois district.

Sir George Paish declared today at Washington, that if "our spinners in England will begin buying cotton in such quantities that it will take but little time to settle this exchange problem. The amount of cotton our mills will buy, even at the reduced prices which may prevail, will go far toward reducing the debt which this country owes to England at the present time."

The Department of Agriculture today quarantined the Union Stock Yards at Chicago, to prevent shipment of cattle, except for immediate slaughter, because of foot and mouth disease.

Sunday.

Flying the pennant of Santa Claus, the freight steamship Sorstedyk, of the Holland-America Line, arrived at New York today with a cargo of several thousand tons of toys that were sent from Switzerland, the vessel being the first to bring a consignment of Christmas goods from Europe in several months.

Three persons were killed and another seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a New York and New Jersey Railroad train at the Aloce street crossing, Garnerville, near Haverstraw, N. Y.

Lieutenant General Adna R. Chaffee, retired former chief of staff of the United States Army, died at his home at Los Angeles, Cal., today of typhoid pneumonia. His body will be taken to Washington, leaving Tuesday, for interment in Arlington National Cemetery.

From the altar in St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, Wilmington, Del., a thief stole the solid silver communion service, valued at $200, and which had been presented to the church by Mrs. Alexis duPont as a memorial to her husband. About the same time a similar theft was committed at St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, more than three miles distant, when some one carried off several pieces of the silver communion set, which was a memorial, and valued highly by the people of the church.

Fire which began at 10.30 Saturday night at Shubuta, Miss., and which was not gotten under control until 4 o'clock this morning entailed a loss of $150,000. Only five stores remain in the place.

Monday.

Notification of the release of the Standard Oil Company ship Platania by Great Britain was conveyed to the State Department by British Ambassador Spring-Rice.

Criminal indictments were returned today by the United States Grand Jury against 21 directors and former directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, including William Rockefeller, Theodore N. Vail, George F. Baker, William Skinner, Charles F. Brooker and John L. Billard.

The Florida law taxing the gross receipts of sleeping and parlor cars within the State in the form of license charges and ad valorem taxes was declared constitutional by the Supreme Court.

In a sharp note to Carranza this afternoon this government placed the responsibility for delay in evacuating Vera Cruz squarely upon Carranza.

Secretary of Labor Wilson today signed a warrant for the deportation from San Antonio, Texas, to Cuba of Louis Hernandez for threats made against Consul John R. Silliman and 10 other Americans arrested at Saltillo at the time of American occupation of Vera Cruz.

Baron George Bakmatieff, Russian Ambassador to the United States narrowly escaped death when the taxicab in which he was riding was run into by another automobile while speeding down Linden avenue, Baltimore. His chauffeur also was painfully injured. The driver of the other automobiles was so seriously hurt that he was taken to a hospital. Both machines were wrecked.

James Henry Osgood, founder of the "underground raid," by which fugitive slaves were aided in escaping North, died in Chicago at the age of 98 years. He was born in Springfield, Mass. In 1850 he started an express company bearing his name and which operated between Boston and Worcester.

Tuesday.

Armour & Co's five-story fertilizer plant, Chicago, also used as a stable for 300 horses, was destroyed by fire early today at an estimated loss of $150,000. A score of firemen narrowly escaped death when the south wall of the burning building fell. Practically all the horses were rescued.

The Sheldrake Springs Hotel and Sanatorium, Interlocken, N. Y., covering more than half an acre of ground, was burned to the ground with $100,000 loss.

J. Ogden Armour stated today that there would be no advance in the price of fresh meat. While the foot-and-mouth plague lasts, independent packers, of whom there are a score in Chicago and more in nearby cities, will have their supply cut off or be forced to pay freight on shipments by roundabout ways. All the killing houses at the yards are owned by the big fellows, and no slaughtering is permitted anywhere except in the yards.

The steamship Massapequa, chartered and cargoes by the Rockefeller Foundation sailed from New York for Rotterdam, Holland, with 4,000 tons of flour, rice, bacon and beans for Belgium's starving people.

Wednesday.

James W. Wadsworth, Sr., of Mount Morris, N. Y., was one of the heaviest winners over the election. He bet $25,000 at odds of 3 to 1 that his son would be elected United States senator, and consequently "cleaned up" an even $75,000.

John Kean, former United States senator from New Jersey, died in Elizabeth, N. J. after a long illness.

Thursday.

The Chicago packing houses are not going to close after all, according to announcement this afternoon. The packers will evade the state order that the stock yards be closed to the receipt of animals for slaughter by unloading the cattle, hogs and sheep at the slaughterhouses and driving them through chutes direct into the killing-rooms.

Six men were burned almost to a crisp and many were saved through thrilling rescues by firemen and police when fire ruined the Waverly Hotel, a lodging house at 352 Eighth avenue, New York.

WAR FROM THE INSIDE.

lance which are a strange contrast to the feeble glimmer of the street lamps. The shop windows with their gay decorations are blotted out, and are lights have become things of the past. The Londoners, however, have accepted this altered condition with resignation in the belief that the dark is their best protector.

The lights in tramcars and motor-buses become dimmer every evening. Recently the tramcars travelled with every blind drawn, and they sped across the bridges in total darkness. Now new electric lamps have been installed. These have a bluish-black glass, and the city workers returning home cannot read the evening papers.

The amount of bread eaten in a week by the German soldiers now in the field would make a loaf 393 feet high and weighing 60,130,000 pounds. A week's supply of potatoes would make a tuber 188 feet high and weighing 120,330,000 pounds. The figures given are for the standard ration, which is probably a very different thing from that actually being consumed along the great battle formation, where there is a great flexibility as to the food to be used. It is possible that pemmican (a condensed meat product) is entering into the ration very largely. The Kaiser has always expressed a lively interest in his soldier's food, and he has not infrequently ridden up to the field bakeries and sampled the product of their ovens.

Some idea of the enormous expense of the war will be gained from the fact that the daily cost of provisions for the combined armies would be $12,500,000, without the expense of transportation, which would be $4,200,000 more each day. These figures were based on the prices of some years ago, so that 15 per cent. could be added to the cost of the food, making the cost to-day $18,750,000, or $22,950,000 "delivered" at the place of consumption.

Hateful as war is and utterly abhorrent to the Christian mind, we must yet recognize the fact that it brings to the surface as nothing else can certain heroic qualities in man that the whole world admires. And the great war has already been prolific of heroes. What is a hero? He is one who does his duty fearlessly, as he sees it, with all the energy, ability, power and enthusiasm at his command. At Liege a German officer, directing his men in the trenches, fell shot in the head. At once the others came to him, eager to help. He waved his hand. "No, no," he said, "I have got my account—go forward—do your duty." And so died a hero. Prince Frederick of Lippe, leading his command, received a bullet in his breast. He knew it to be a mortal wound, but with his last ounce of strength he sprang forward, grasped the regimental standard, which was in danger of being taken, and shouting "Save the flag!" fell to rise no more. Many incidents of individual heroism like these are told of both sides, and they relieve the sombre tragedy of war. Many undistinguished heroes went to their death at Namur, Charleroi and other battlefields in Belgium and along the border from Mons to Muelhausen, and at the great battle in Lorraine, where three hundred thousand fought on either side. The story is told of a number of students of Liege University who had volunteered for military service. There was an examination to be held, but a great battle had already begun. It was at first proposed to abandon the examination, but with a unanimous voice the students and faculty decided that it should go on. "The examination took place," relates the correspondent, "and then the candidates trooped from the hall to the battlefield, where many of them lay dead a few hours later."

New York City's municipal budget for 1915 exceeds $200,000,000.

The six dead were burned to death in their beds or caught in the hallways as they rushed through the flames in a futile effort to reach safety.

William Rockefeller, who at various times has been reported seriously ill and too weak to testify in examinations, appeared unexpectedly before Federal Judge Foster in New York today and pleaded not guilty to the conspiracy indictment of himself and 20 other officials and former officials of the New Haven Railroad. Bail was fixed at $5,000 and quickly furnished.

Reports that Switzerland has asked this government to join with other neutral nations in seeking an armistice to halt the European war met with a denial today from Acting Secretary of State Lansing.

W. P. G. Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, announced that the bankers of Richmond, Va., have pledged subscriptions for the entire amount of their $1,000,000 share in the $135,000,000 cotton pool.

American Minister Fletcher at Santiago, Chile, today reported the German naval victory off Coronel, Chile, in which the British cruiser Monmouth was sunk, and the arrival of three German warships at Valparaiso. The damaged cruiser Good Hope is reported as having escaped with the cruisers Glasgow and the Otranto.

"The Thinkers of the Country Are the Tobacco Chewers"— said one of the greatest thinkers this country ever produced.

Says the Judge:

"My brain grasps the points of a case more easily when I'm chewing PICNIC TWIST. I suppose it's because of the gentle stimulation that PICNIC TWIST gives without the after effects of "strong" tobacco.

"Have you ever noticed how many great jurists chew? Well, there's nothing better to oil the wheels of justice than PICNIC TWIST."

Have you ever wished for a tobacco that you could keep on chewing without feeling that you were over-chewing?

For a long time you've really been looking for PICNIC TWIST, with its lasting sweet taste, and true tobacco satisfaction with no "come-back."

Compare PICNIC TWIST in taste, looks, convenience or any other way, with any dark "heavy" tobacco. Then you'll know the advantage of chewing the light, mild, mellow part of the leaf, the only kind that goes into PICNIC TWIST.

There are few better preservatives of the teeth than PICNIC TWIST.

THE NEED OF A LARGER NAVY.

sion of a navy enabled us to keep out of trouble with Mexico. Yet the fleet should not have been sent to Mexico. We should have had cruisers and gunboats to send there. The fleet of battleships should be at sea in practice. Now after a year in Mexican waters the vessels are less efficient. The men and vessels without sea practice are deteriorating.

"My idea was to mobilize the fleet each year at New York and San Francisco so as to popularize the navy and demonstrate its efficiency. England has been doing this for years, and she had just done it when the war broke out. The result broke out. The result was that Germany's overseas trade, amounting to about $4,000,000,000, ceased. It will be found that one of the most potent means for bringing pressure to bear that will end hostilities will be the allied fleets.

"The English navy has demonstrated that it could not only protect its coast, but enable its commerce to be carried on and keep its food supply intact, and it has proved to be the greatest safeguard of the left flank of the allied army.

"Better no navy than one that is insufficient and which only deceives the public. It may be impossible to have a large standing army, but is possible and necessary to have a powerful and efficient navy—more powerful than that of any nation except England. We should build four battleships a year until we have forty-eight, with the necessary auxiliaries. We should have a merchant marine to carry our commerce to the farthest markets of the world. Battleships are cheaper than battles, and the invasion of a country cannot be effected in face of a great fleet of battleships. In war nothing fails like failure. We want a definite policy of cooperation between Congress and the Navy Department. A powerful navy is the cheapest insurance."

Hon. Louis A. Frothingham said he agreed fully with the resolutions proposed by Congressman Gardner concerning the navy in the request to inquire into our preparedness for war.

"The Germans Are Against Us!"

MORE BANK TALK

Did it ever occur to you why all good business men keep a checking account with a bank? We'll tell you. It enables them to keep their funds in a more secure place than the office safe. It gives them a better standing in the business world. It enables them to pay their bills by check, the returned check being an undisputable receipt.

Individuals find a checking account very convenient and a source of saving. Money in one's pocket is often spent on the spur of the moment, while one is disposed to think twice before drawing on their balance in the bank.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingano Hills and the Catoclin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

"YOU CAN'T KEEP A GOOD MAN DOWN."

David J. Lewis goes back to Congress where he belongs. The people have so determined. The "Interests" were against him to a man and they worked harder than ever before to snow the "Little Giant" under, but they could not do it. The sins of Adam and Eve were charged against him; responsibility for the European war was laid at his door; he was made the scapegoat of every iniquitous measure under the sun. It was alleged that he was a communist, an anarchist, the foe of the laboring man, the enemy of the farmer. The railroads, express companies, telephone and telegraph corporations worked against him and worked hard, very hard—all to no avail. Lewis' majority was small, but, in the language of the street, "he got there" just the same.

And now that he is re-elected he will prove, even to a greater extent than heretofore, that he is the friend of the workingman, the defender of the rights of the people, the promoter of the farmers' interests and the true representative of the Sixth Congressional district.

As heretofore David J. Lewis will pay strict attention to duty. He will be found in his office when he should be; he will be seen in his seat on the floor of the House when it is his place to be there; his voice will be heard in the advocacy of sane and constructive legislation, and his vote on all questions affecting the welfare of the Nation and of the State of Maryland will be given in no uncertain terms and it will be on the side that is right.

We heartily congratulate the people of Western Maryland in the wisdom of their choice and we sincerely congratulate David J. Lewis for his clean-cut victory in the face of the tremendous odds that were against him.

ON HIS RECORD.

Notwithstanding the sinister efforts of some of the "Leaders" in his own party—those who ran up and down the State during the primaries crying "anything to beat Smith"—Hon. John Walter, asking no favors and standing on his own record came through an easy winner. He should have had a majority of 30,000. Be that as it may, he is there, and for the long term. "The other fellows did all the taking," made all kinds of accusations—and fell down. John Walter said nothing. He "stayed on the job," did what he said he would do, kept all his pledges. Those in his own party who tried to defeat him may have regrets—John Walter Smith will have none. He played fair and he won. The victory is all his.

SOFT PEDAL, COUNT.

Some of these fine mornings Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, will open his mouth so wide that he will "put his foot in it." The Count seems to think it incumbent upon him to assume the role of German press agent; but he goes too far. Were he a private citizen he would have the right to comment as he pleased. But he is the personal representative of the Kaiser and propriety, if not diplomatic ethics, should exact from him an attitude like that maintained by our Ambassador to Germany. Imagine what would happen if Ambassador Gerard would openly send out from our embassy his views on the right of Germany to violate the neutrality of Belgium. It would not be the iron cross he would get but the "double cross."

It is very easy for the head of a nation to embroil his country in an international entanglement, and once in, it is not so easy to get out. An opinion publicly expressed to an ambassador, an outward show of partiality, an indication of favoritism—any one of these may prove a spark to kindle the flame. Throughout all the complex difficulties of the present situation President Wilson's course has been admirable. He has been courteous, and fair, to all, but above all, impartial, yet not colorless.

It is not often that men voluntarily reduce the source of supplies upon which they are dependent for a livelihood. Litigation being the meat on which lawyers thrive it is only natural that litigation, of every description would be advocated by them. Quite noticeable therefore is the formal action of the New York Bar Association discouraging and discountenancing unnecessary law suits and decrying the practice of setting up actions at law based upon meagre technicalities.

If David J. Lewis is as badly damaged next Tuesday as many of the packages sent by the parcel post his folks will never recognize him again.—Montgomery Press.

Badly damaged packages are the result of carelessness and ignorance on the part of the shippers who use the parcel post. Intelligence is what re-elected David J. Lewis. Incidentally "Davy" is in the very best shape and condition, and easily recognizable as the best Congressman the Sixth District ever had.

THE true horrors of war are brought closer home to this big country abiding in peace as the winter days approach. The mental picture of the field of battle is gruesome and terrible enough, but more than heart-moving is the all too realistic picture of homeless widows, innocent children and defenseless babes, thousands in number, that are suffering, all on account of a "scrap of paper."

We have had long ballots and short ballots, and vest pocket ballots and all that, but it remained for California to eclipse everything with a ballot four feet wide and two feet long. It was a referendum ballot containing forty-eight propositions. No corollaries were mentioned, but a "recall" seems certain.

THERE would be little necessity for the importation of calf hides from Germany if calves were allowed to mature in this country. On the other side they let them grow larger, serving two purposes: obtaining hides heavy enough for the manufacture of shoes, and veal that is more wholesome.

CAN there be any truth in the report that the Kaiser is about to engage the services of George Stallings, the man whose generalship brought the Boston Braves to victory? Four straight for the Kaiser would come mighty near putting the kibosh on the Allies just about now.

THE appearance of a town is an index of the character of its inhabitants. It is a mirror—it reflects the people. If they are clean, their town will be clean; if they are slovenly, it, too, will be slovenly. Moral—well that is hardly necessary.

SIEGE guns for long distance, cannon for level shooting, Zeplins for aerial bombs, submarines to shoot torpedoes under ships—it only remains for some one to perfect a projectile that will undermine a battlefield and blow an entire army into the air.

THE New Orleans State refers to Colonel Roosevelt as having dwindled from a Moose to a mouse. Obviously he is very active in his search for the "cheese."

"Uncle" Joe Cannon can once more fire his shrapnel to the accompaniment of "Nick" Longworth's fiddle.

Two Rules of Life.

Here is a man whose guiding principle is hate. He is forever trying to punish somebody for some real or fancied grievance. He will spend money and thought and time to bring confusion upon some one whom he chooses to regard as an enemy, money and thought and time which he might employ in advancing his own fortunes or in nobler effort. When he succeeds in his end he seems to take a brief satisfaction in his work, but he does not impress us as a happy man. He soon forgets all about the punished enemy and casts about for a new one to punish. When he fails in his end and his enemy escapes or punishes him he is very much cast down.

One advantage of taking the diametrically opposite passion to the one this man has selected as your guiding principle of life is that even when you lose you win.—Columbus Journal.

Sitting Cross Legged.

The next time you ride in a street car notice the number of people who sit cross legged. It has been estimated that four-fifths of them do. Probably you do. A prominent London physician has investigated the habit, and his advice is "don't sit cross legged." He states that the prime objection to the habit is that the return flow of blood is stopped at the knee, the result being that the veins in the leg swell up. As all of the weight is thrown to one side of the body, the under leg is likely to go to sleep. The body should be equally balanced. Much crossing of the legs is also dangerous in that it is likely to cause lopsidedness. The limbs should be allowed to rest easily, so that the flow of blood is natural and the body equally balanced.—American Boy.

Struggle to Hide the Truth.

"What makes you insist on always dancing with that girl? You know you dance badly."

"That's true," replied the determined youth. "I think a lot of that girl. If I dance with her instead of letting her sit down and watch me at a distance maybe I can keep her from seeing what a fearful dancer I really am."—Washington Star.

Arabic Alphabet.

The Arabic alphabet has twenty-nine letters, each of which is written differently, according as it stands alone or in combination with other letters, at the beginning, middle or end of a word. To learn the alphabet, therefore, means to memorize $4 \times 29 = 116$ different signs.

Truth and Love.

When I remember how earnestly men have striven to think their way into the secrets of the universe and how certainly they have failed I see clearly that only he who lives into truth finds it and that love alone is immortal.—Hamilton Wright Mable.

Queer English.

Here is an example of the quaint misuse of words, the confusion of pronouns being not many years ago, whatever may be the case now, quite common among the country people of Hampshire, England: "If her won't go along o' we we won't go along o' she."

Naming It.

"What kept you so long?" "I was showing that pretty girl how to reach her destination." "I call that miss-directed energy."—Baltimore American.

Two Things He Hadn't Done.

Howell—You are getting absentminded. Powell—Well, I never yet have blackened my teeth and put tooth powder on my shoes.—New York Press.

Trademarked.

"If my little brother Willie ever gets lost we can easily find him," said small Eloise. "How, pray?" queried the visitor. "He's got a strawberry trademark on his right arm," was the reply.—Chicago News.

Health Recipe.

One time a man asked the poet Longfellow how to be healthy, and this is the answer he received: Joy, temperance and repose. Slam the door on the doctor's nose.

Lieutenant.

The word "lieutenant" means, literally, "holding the place." Thus a lieutenant colonel holds the place of a colonel.

When the Flower Withers.

Punishment is a fruit that, unsuspected, ripens within the flower of the pleasure that conceals it.—Emerson.

Fighting Dust With Dust.

About the hardest problem is found in coal mines, where dangerous dust is produced by the ton every day and scattered over miles of roadway and workings, the removal of which by vacuum or other means is next to impossible.

The best preventive found thus far seems to be that of fighting dust with dust. Sprinkling has been tried to keep the air free from inflammable dust mixture. Salt has been scattered over the floors to gather moisture and prevent dust from rising. The dust has been cleared from parts of the mine to form barriers, over which the flame from a dust explosion is not likely to pass. Now, however, the best results seem to come from the scattering of stone and clay dust over the coal dust throughout the mine. This makes the coal dust nonexplosive, and sections treated with the noninflammable dusts form better barriers against an explosion than the old dustless barriers.—Saturday Evening Post.

Old Time Bell Ringers.

"Bell ringing," said the bell ringer, "reached its height in Belgium after the middle age. The Belgian bell ringers invented the clavecin. This was a keyboard similar to a piano's, and each key being struck caused a hammer to hit a bell. In that way a clever bell ringer could get out of his chimes swift changes and intricate harmonies unknown before. The clavecin lifted bell ringing from manual labor to high art, but it must have been funny to see a performer playing on his piano-like clavecin. The keys were stiff; they had to be struck very hard, and hence the player wore thick gloves. He stood off from the instrument, sleeves rolled up and brow knitted, and, doubling his fists, he rained blow on blow with all his force. We bell ringers have no clavecins today, nor have we the skill of the ringers of the past."

Humanizing Geometry.

I used to try to work up a factitious enthusiasm for geometry by naming angle A Abraham, B Benjamin, C Cornelius, and so on; side AB then became Abrahamin, side BC Benjaminin, side AC Abranelius, and the perimeter Abrahamineliu—that last a name of Miltonic sonorosity, mouth filling and perfectly pronounceable if one scanned it as catalectic trochaic tetrameter. Although I never had the courage to introduce them to my teachers, I looked upon the Abrahaminellian family with some affection until one day I tried to name the perimeter of a dodecagon, when I came to the conclusion that it would require less time to learn the proposition by heart than to learn the name, and from that date I gave up all attempt to infuse an adventurous interest into Legendre and simply memorized him.—Atlantic.

Boiled Clothes.

Some housekeepers believe in boiling the clothes before rubbing, and some do not believe in boiling them at all. Others believe that clothes are made yellow by boiling. Boiling does not make clothes yellow. Clothes become yellow when they are improperly rinsed, when there is iron in the water or a deposit of iron is formed from the boiler or by the use of an impure soap. On the other hand, boiling takes an important part in the dissolution and removal of the soap, which expert housekeepers, who know that the soap must be removed if the clothes are to keep their color and wearing qualities, will recognize as an indisputable reason why the clothes should be boiled—and boiled after rubbing. In these days of sterilizing it seems illogical to accept as clean unboiled clothes.—Woman's Home Companion.

Badly Mixed.

A booking agent for a Chautauque bureau visited a small town. He called on a man who said that in order to introduce a Chautauque it would be necessary to see the most prominent man of the town. Together they called on the "first citizen," and the booking agent was introduced. "Mr. Jones," said he, "I called to see you in regard to a Chautauque." "It won't do a bit of good," spoke up the prominent citizen. "My wife and I have looked over all the catalogues carefully and have already decided on another machine."—Everybody's.

No Place Like Home.

A henpecked looking floorwalker in one of our large department stores was standing in the aisle with a pained and faraway look in his eyes. Suddenly a woman bustled up back of him and demanded, "Where are the children's dresses, sir?" "In the bottom bureau drawer, Maria," said the floorwalker, hastily turning around. And then he fled.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Many Kinds of Hard Work.

"I want you to understand," said young Spender, "that I got my money by hard work." "Why, I thought it was left to you by your rich uncle." "So it was, but I had hard work to get it away from the lawyers."

The Main Trouble.

"Ah was thinkin'," said Rastus John sing, "what a nice, peaceful-like world dis here universe would a been if it wasn't for de movements of de human underjaw."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Altruism.

Teacher—Johnny, you have been writing your own excuses. Johnny—I know, mum; it takes all pa's time to think of his own.—New York Sun.

The great art of learning is to do a little at a time.—Locke.

Our Canadian Boundary Line.

The country which can boast not a scientific frontier merely, but a natural one, has a huge advantage in time of war. The sea takes the first place in the category of natural boundaries; a big mountain range comes second and a big river third.

An object lesson in the value of all three is presented by India. Why is India the jewel of Asia? Because it is contained in a casket, the base of which is the ocean, the lid of which is the biggest range in the world and the key of which is the river Indus.

It is the most remarkable fact in the history of mankind that betwixt the vast dominion of Canada and her neighbor, the mighty United States of America, the dividing line is merely imaginary.

There is not a fort or redoubt or gun or military station along all that 4,000 miles of frontier. That is the true peace spirit. That is an object lesson to the world—two great nations dwelling side by side under separate flags and different laws and yet not in fear and dread of each other.—London Answers.

First Carrier Pigeons.

The Turks appear to have been the first nation to organize carrier pigeon service on any extensive scale. William Lithgow, who resided in the Levant from 1609 to 1620, tells us that the pigeon post of the caliphs conveyed messages from Aleppo to Bagdad, a thirty days' journey, in forty-eight hours. The whole kingdom was equipped with a pigeon post, and news sent by half a dozen birds or more—so that some might escape the hawks—was quickly transmitted from one end of it to the other. Philological evidence, backed by the opinion of the earliest writers on pigeons, goes to show that the carrier pigeon comes of Turkish stock. The old Turkish name for this bird is "bagadin," the French "bagadals" and the Dutch "bagadat," while the English used to call it "mawmet," evidently a corruption of Mahomet.—London Chronicle.

Rock Cannon of Malta.

It is a curious fact that when the island of Malta was in possession of the Templars those doughty knights defended their forts by means of cannon cut into the solid rock. Each of these strange engines of war was capable of containing an entire barrel of gunpowder and, it is said, could throw 10,000 pounds of projectiles. Inasmuch, however, as these natural cannon could not be aimed, fifty were cut out of the rock guarding the various channels of approach, and the vessels of that time were therefore unable to come within their own range before being annihilated by the big weapons of defense. Although the fame of these cannon was spread far and wide, they were not duplicated elsewhere and to this day they remain the only rock cannon of which there exists any record.

Largest and Smallest Books.

In the great library of the British Museum is to be seen the largest book in the world. This is an atlas of beautifully engraved ancient Dutch maps, bound in leather and fastened with clasps of solid silver. It is nearly seven feet high, weighs 800 pounds and was presented to King Charles II. before leaving Holland in the year 1660.

Side by side with it is the smallest book in the world—a microscopic gem of bookmaking, scarcely larger than a man's thumb nail. This contains the New Testament, inscribed by a German artist of Nuremberg in the early part of the seventeenth century. There are 208 pages, and the lettering is so perfect that it can be read without difficulty. The book measures three-quarters of an inch by two-fifths.—London Opinion.

The Prolix Witness.

A little over twenty years ago a judge in New Zealand was obliged to issue an order to the effect that "in future singing would not be taken as evidence" in his court. It was the constant habit of the Maoris when pleading a cause to sing long and quite poetic sagas. As these generally began with legends of their remote ancestors, sometimes many hours, even days, would be spent before the point, possibly trivial, was reached. There is something Gilbertian in this idea, but any old New Zealander could vouch for the facts.

Beautiful Beetles.

The exquisitely beautiful gold beetles of Central America belong to the genus pliosotis, and one might easily imagine a specimen to be the work of some clever artificer in metal. The head and wing cases are brilliantly polished, with a luster as of gold itself. To sight and touch they have all the seeming of metal, and it is hard to realize that the creature is a mere insect.

Too Big a Dose.

"He was always too proud." "He has swallowed his pride." "What has happened to him?" "He's busted." "He might have known if he ever swallowed his pride it would bust him."—Houston Post.

A Bitter Pill.

Milly—And how does your brother take married life? Tilly—He takes it according to directions. His mother-in-law lives with him.—Illustrated Bits.

Line of Perpetual Frost.

The line of perpetual frost at the equator is at an altitude of 15,000 feet; in the northern states of this country at an altitude of about 4,000 feet.

Laziness begins in crevices and ends in iron chains.—Spanish Proverb.

HERE AND THERE

IN THE STATE

Hagerstown—Fire last Saturday wrecked the lumber yards of H. L. Coffman & Co., on North Prospect street, and consumed a large quantity of dressed lumber, the loss amounting to $4,000.

Williamsport—Matthew McClannahan, a prominent resident and three times mayor of this place, died at his home here Friday night of a complication of diseases, aged 75 years. He was a veteran of the Civil War, enlisting in 1861 in Company I, First Maryland Cavalry, and served for three years taking part in the battles of Gettysburg and Brandy Station.

Baltimore—Brother Valentine, professor of chemistry and biology at Mount St. Joseph's College, died Friday night at St. Agnes' Hospital. Death was due to pneumonia. Brother Valentine was a close student of science, and in his favorite departments of chemistry and biology he had marked success. In lay life he was known as Valentine J. Mooney.

Elkton—The second big fire within two months occurred on the farm of Lawrence Levy, located about two miles south of Elkton, shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The large hay barn, together with about 50 tons of hay and straw were burned.

Havre de Grace—After conferring with Dr. A. B. Bibbins, of the Baltimore Star-Spangled Banner Centennial Committee, the local committee, looking after the unveiling of a tablet and cannon to the memory of John O'Neill, who defended Havre de Grace, single-handed, against the British in May, 1813, has decided to hold the unveiling ceremonies November 14. A band and school children will assist in the exercises.

Hagerstown—Company B, First Maryland Regiment, which lost about $10,000 worth of equipment in the fire that destroyed Antietam Hall last week, has been informed by the State quartermaster's headquarters that a full new equipment would be shipped to the company in a few days.

Cumberland—The Vang Construction Company of this city, has secured the contract for the construction of a concrete bridge at Chattanooga, Tenn., at a cost of $480,000.

Cumberland—A statue of the Sacred Heart, surmounting a monument placed in St. Patrick's Cemetery, was blessed Sunday with special ceremonies conducted by the Very Rev. E. J. Wunder, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church. The statue with pedestal is 14 feet high. The children of the parish sang all the hymns, and the "Benedictus" was sung by the Holy Name Society.

Hagerstown—Forty prominent Washington county farmers were among those present at a banquet held Friday night by the agricultural department of the Hagerstown Board of trade in honor of the exhibitors in the corn contest at the recent Hagerstown Interstate Fair. Thomas A. Poffenberger, president of the Fair Association, acted as toastmaster.

Havre de Grace—Because the bids exceeded the amount of money available for the erection of the armory building the Belair Armory Commission has again refused to give out the contract and has asked for revised bids. J. Wilson Richardson offered to do the work for $25,600 and L. J. Whalen & Co., for $23,980.

Baltimore—Frank Revell, member and treasurer of the Maryland State Shell Fish Commission, and formerly Sheriff of Anne Arundel county, was brought to Baltimore Monday afternoon by Sheriff Potee of the county to answer to a warrant charging him with conspiring to secure illegal registration of voters in Anne Arundel.

Hagerstown—Fire which broke out Saturday morning on South Mountain, a short distance east of Smithsburg, and burned over nearly 1,000 acres of timberland, burned itself out Sunday night. The origin has not been determined. A large force of men fought the flames. The conflagration could be seen for miles.

Princess Anne—The canning house of A. Cooley & Co., at Kings Creek, about three miles South of Princess Anne, was burned early Monday morning together with the canning machinery and from Illinois and will take his seat in Congress next March for the twentieth time. Mr. Cannon was first elected to Congress 42 years ago, and served continuously till 1911, except two years, 1891 to 1893, when Samuel T. Bosley, an old soldier, defeated him.

Roger C. Sullivan, Democratic candidate for senator from Illinois, was defeated by Lawrence Y. Sherman.

about 5,000 cases of canned tomatoes and about $1,000 worth of sweet potatoes. The machinery and canned goods were owned by William Silver & Co., of Harford county, Maryland. The loss on the building was about $1,000 and on machinery and stock of canned goods $10,000.

Hyattsville—The Sisters of Providence of St. Mary's of the Woods, of Terre Haute, Ind., have purchased 60 acres and an eight-room house, a part of the old Bliss property, a mile west of this place. It is said that work will commence at once upon the erection of several large buildings to be used for educational purposes, the work to be carried on in conjunction with the Catholic University in Washington, about three miles distant.

Hagerstown—The sixth fire in Hagerstown inside of five days occurred Sunday when the stable of ex-City Market Inspector William H. Startzman, was burned, with its contents. A horse and a cow were saved by Leo Startzman, who discovered the fire.

Hagerstown—The dwelling and general store of Elmer Buhrman, five miles southeast of Smithsburg, was burned Sunday, entailing a loss of about $1,500, partly covered by insurance. Practically all of the furniture and the stock of goods in the store were burned.

Baltimore—Hyman Davidson, 6 years old, 129 North Washington street, was run down at Fayette and Castle streets by the car of Grace Huff, of the Poli Players Monday afternoon and so badly injured that he died less than an hour after the accident. His skull was fractured and his ribs were crushed in.

Hagerstown—Judge James Findlay, 77 years old, brother of the late Congressman John V. L. Findlay, of Baltimore, died suddenly of heart disease at his home, in Hagerstown, Monday morning. He was prominent in the commercial, social and political circles of Washington county. In 1879 he was elected by the Democrats to a four-year term as judge of the Orphans' Court. For 41 years he was a member of the firm of Steffney & Findlay, coal and lumber dealers, Hagerstown and Williamsport. He was a director and president for many years of the Washington County Bank, Williamsport; a director in the Potomac Valley Railroad and an active member of the Presbyterian Church. He was born at Chambersburg, Pa., being a son of Archibald Irwin Findlay, and was educated at Princeton. He owned a large estate, including Tammany farm, near Williamsport.

Baltimore—Charles Gerwig, 50 years old, and his wife, Mary, 48 years old, were found dead as the result of a fire which destroyed their home, at 1825 Dover street, at 1.30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Their son, Edward, 12 years old, is at Franklin Square Hospital in a serious condition.

Laurel—The home of Mrs. Frank Roman, near Jessup, was burned Monday. The loss is about $3,000. The flames are thought to have been started from a defective flue. The building was more than 80 years old and was built on the tract of land known as Champion Forest.

Hagerstown—A case of smallpox, the first in Hagerstown for some years, was discovered Monday. Harry E. Wright, an employee of the Western Maryland Railway shops is the victim. County Health Officer, D. A. Watkins, stated that the case was a bad one.

Baltimore—John O'Connor, for the past eight years steward for the Hotel Belvedere and one of the best-known hotel men in the country, died Tuesday morning in the Union Protestant Infirmary. Death was due to Bright's disease.

Wolfsville—Thousands of dollars worth of timber were destroyed in two forest fires near here which were extinguished Wednesday. Their origin is being investigated by forest wardens. The most destructive began near the Frederick and Washington county lines and swept an area of two miles. Owing to the dry woodlands the fires were hard to check.

Baltimore—Mrs. Sallie Hunt Starr, known throughout Baltimore for her work among children, died at her home, 3800 Forest Park avenue, Wednesday from apoplexy.

Fewer Saloons in Washington.

One hundred and twenty saloons and twenty wholesale liquor places were put out of business in Washington last Saturday.

Under the new excise law, recently passed by Congress, the number of saloons was reduced from 409 to 297, effective at midnight. The excise board to-day announced the list of saloons which must close their doors forever. "Rum row" on Pennsylvania avenue was hard hit, 40 per cent. of the saloons in a single block being closed. Several prominent hotels and also many "dives" lost their licenses. Fashionable and other clubs retained theirs. One of the most famous resorts to close its doors was Hancock's, established in 1840.

PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fail to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

Mr. Joseph Overman, of Richmond, Va., was a visitor in town over Sunday.

Mr. John Fortney, of Carlisle, Pa., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke.

Deputy Forest Warden Shot.

Last Thursday night while on his way home, Frank Smith, a deputy Forest Warden residing near Yellow Springs near Frederick, was shot from ambush while passing the home of George Bartgis who also resides in that vicinity.

After being shot Smith walked to his home unaided. A little later he was taken to a physician in Frederick and 75 shot were picked from his back and side. He was then removed to Frederick City hospital.

Smith charged George Bartgis with doing the shooting and shortly after midnight he was arrested by Sheriff Conard. Before Justice Anders he denied shooting Smith. He was held under $500 bond for his appearance before the Grand Jury in February. His father furnished the bond.

Some time ago Bartgis and his father were arrested by Smith and it is said there has been more or less trouble ever since. Smith is recovering from the effects of his wounds.

Miss Murray in Auto Accident.

While Miss Anne K. Murray, daughter of Bishop John G. Murray was motoring Monday evening on Preston street, near Linden avenue, Baltimore, another automobile started to cross Preston street. With great presence of mind, Miss Murray quickly switched the steering gear, and the machine collided with the rear of the wagon owned by William Lilly, of 3108 Strickland avenue. The collision tore both rear wheels from the wagon. Miss Murray narrowly escaped being seriously injured. She suffered only from the shock.

Teaching Staff Augmented.

H. Robinson Shipperd, from Harvard University, professor of the English language and literature; M. Stewart Macdonald, from McGill University, Montreal, professor of economics, and Stephen R. Fry, from Cornell University, professor of mechanical and electrical engineering, have been added to the faculty of Gettysburg College. On Founder's Day, October 29, Lafayette College conferred the degree of doctor of divinity on the Rev. Charles F. Sanders, professor of philosophy and education in Gettysburg College.

Donation Days For Hospital.

Thursdays in November are Donation days at the Frederick City Hospital. School children especially are asked to contribute one egg or one potato. Grown folks may give just what they please. All donations will be thankfully received at the Hospital on those days. The board of Managers, remember gratefully the generous responses of last year, and hope for a return this year. This is in lieu of the usual Thanksgiving offering.

Celebrated Eightieth Birthday.

Mrs. Mary Rosensteel, of Sharpsburg, Pa., the mother of the Rev. Fathers C. O. and T. W. Rosensteel, celebrated her eightieth birthday on Sunday, November 1. Among the seventy-five guests present for dinner on the day were Miss Margaret Rosensteel and Mr. J. C. Rosensteel, of Emmitsburg; and Mrs. Daniel Snovell and Mrs. William E. Rosensteel, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Ernest Lagarde begs to express her sincere appreciation of the many courtesies extended the late Professor Lagarde during his last illness, and to thank most deeply those who during her bereavement have been so considerate, so thoughtfully kind.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Every reader of THE CHRONICLE is invited to send news to this office. The management of THE CHRONICLE will take it as a particular favor if patrons will telephone or write to this office concerning matters of general interest. By sending personals, details of improvements to town or farm property, accounts of accidents and fires, the reports of meetings, particulars of deaths and weddings and mention of all social events, they will make this THEIR paper—truly representative of the community.

Tuesday, Election Day was very quiet and orderly in Emmitsburg. Both parties were active in getting out the vote and the best of feeling was observable.

The roof on the residence of Mr. F. Harry Gross was repaired this week.

Some of the best corn seen in this district this year is from the farm of Mr. J. Rowe Ohler. The ears though not abnormally large are unusually well filled. An odd ear among the specimens submitted assumed the shape of a pig foot and has been named the pig knuckle variety.

Cards are out for the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Lohr, of near Thurmont, on Tuesday evening November tenth.

The G. T. Club met at the home of Miss Mary Clare Boyle on Friday evening.

The following pupils of the Hayfield school are on the "Honor Roll" for October: Rose Winebrenner, Catherine Rentzell, Opal Long, Evelyn Orndorff, Alice Orndorff, Nora Harbrugh, Bernadette Orndorff, Catherine Orndorff, Clarence Lingg, Pierce Rentzell, Lewis Rentzell, James Orndorff, James Long, and Lester Winebrenner.

Mr. John Mentzer has reroofed his house on East Main Street.

Tuesday, Election Day, being a Legal Holiday the banks and Postoffice were closed, the latter except at mail time.

Prof. F. J. Halm sent to the CHRONICLE Office last Friday a large ripe strawberry, surrounded by a number of green ones, taken from his strawberry patch on Gettysburg street.

The children of Emmitsburg, observed Hallowe'en in their usual jolly way, by throwing corn and removing shutters, steps and everything that was not nailed down.

There will be no entertainment tonight in St. Euphemia's Hall. The next show will take place there, Friday of next week.

Rev. Charles Reinewald preached a Reformation sermon in the Lutheran Church last Sunday.

The kitchens of the double house owned by Dr. D. E. Stone and occupied by Messrs. Cleveland Hoke and Isaiah Ohler on West Main Street are being plastered.

The Mite Society of the Presbyterian Church met at The Manse on Monday, November 2.

The Union meeting of the Young Peoples Societies, which was held in the M. E. Church on Sunday evening, November 1, was very well attended. Miss Clara M. Rowe was the leader. The next meeting will be held in the Lutheran Church, December 6.

Rev. Hamilton P. Fox will give an illustrated lecture on The Panama Canal, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, this place on Thursday evening, November 12. All are cordially invited to attend this lecture.

Mr. John Wagaman is improving the Hardman property, which he purchased from that estate recently, by brick casing the log frame. The property is also undergoing other extensive improvements, which add very much to its outward appearance.

The festival held by the ladies of the Lutheran Church in the Eichelberger building on the Square on Election Day, was a great success. The amount cleared was $80.

Mr. H. W. Eyster is having the exterior of his house on West Main Street refinished with stucco. Mr. S. B. Florence is doing the work.

THE WEEK AT THE COUNTY SEAT
Chronicle of Happenings at Frederick
City and in the Courts.

Mr. George Edward Schell has on exhibition at his tontorial parlors, South Market street, a young cotton plant which attracts considerable attention. The tree contains a number of buds of which have burst into bloom.

During the month of October there were 116 instruments filed at the clerk's office. There were 71 deeds, 29 mortgages, one of which was a chattel mortgage; 10 bills of sale, three powers of attorney, one agreement, one contract and one discharge in bankruptcy. There were 67 marriage licenses issued during the month. Ministers certificates have not been returned for 29 licenses.

One hundred thousand Red Cross Stamps have been ordered by the local branch of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society. They are a dainty stamp with Santa Claus face, and are useful and appropriate to seal Christmas packages. The local society purposes to send these stamps broadcast through the county. An envelope containing one hundred will be sent to a family with a booklet of information as to the aims of the Red Cross Society and the good work it accomplishes.

A number of automobile parties from Frederick went to Hagerstown Sunday to see the ruins of the big fire of last week. The damage to the Baldwin Hotel is not so apparent on the exterior. The interior is badly wrecked.

Three splendid boxes of clothing, games, toys and books for Christmas gifts for European children were shipped from the Boys' High School on Saturday. The junior, sophomore and freshman classes, as well as the 5th, 6th and 7th grades most gladly made contributions to bring cheer to those who might otherwise be forgotten at Christmas. The North Market Street School also shipped a large box for the same purpose. The American Express Company called for and shipped free of charge these gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edmunds, of Philadelphia, at a dinner given Saturday night, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adele Edmunds, to Mr. Frank Levering, of Philadelphia. Miss Edmunds who is well-known in Frederick, graduated from Hood College last June, being the honor member of the class. Among the guests at the dinner were Miss Margaret Motter and Mr. R. Ames Hendrickson, of this city.

The difficulties surrounding the laying of Amiesite on Court Square and West Second street, have been removed by mild weather. Last week orders

Hallowe'en Windows.

The display windows of the Emmitsburg Clothing Store and the Candy Shop were very tastefully decorated for Hallowe'en. Mr. C. F. Rotering's Styleplus window exhibited specimens of choice fruits and vegetables as well as products of the field, with a border of autumn leaves surrounding. In the center was a hob-goblin, electrically lighted, made from a prize-winning pumpkin, and the corn cob pipe in its mouth held a miniature advertisement. The Styleplus pumpkin was suspended from the top of the window, thus rendering the entire exhibition in keeping with the season, and at the same time giving prominence to the fine qualities of Styleplus Clothing.

Messrs. Matthews Bros. also displayed autumn products, while their electric sign flashed "Inside for the Hallowe'en Party." The old witch mounted on her broomstick with a body guard of black cats around her, was also a feature in their display. These exhibits were not only attractive and rightfully demanded the attention of all, but showed the progressive spirit of these local business men.

Better Paint.

Better paint this year if your property needs it. Mistaken men have been waiting for paint to come down. The cost of their job has gone up not down; it always goes up by waiting; never comes down.

Better paint than Devoe? There isn't any.

Suppose one had waited 20 or 30 years ago for a better paint than Devoe; how long would he have waited? How long would he still have to wait?

The price a gallon makes some difference, yes, but not much; it's the paint that counts; the quality counts.

It's the go-far that counts. Protection of property counts more yet.

The value of foodstuffs sold abroad last month was $68,490,889, nearly double that of September a year ago, when the total was $38,786,624.

Mr. David H. Guise exhibits in the CHRONICLE windows seven choice specimens of apples grown on his farm near town. They are of the following varieties: Vandiver, Grimes Golden, Stark, Ben Davis, Paragon, Baldwin and York Imperial.

were sent to the Maryland Amiesite and Stone Company, of Baltimore, to discontinue the shipments of the material to Frederick. This order has been rescinded and the work will be continued with renewed vigor. If good weather conditions continue in the city for about ten days the job will be completed without the expenditure of any abnormal sum of money for unloading the material. On Saturday the work of unloading the cars went off smoothly.

As he walked on East South street last Friday afternoon, Charles E. Fleming was struck on the forehead by a bullet from a cat-rifle. The lead flattened on the skull, inflicting a wound which, it is thought, will not be serious. The gun was fired by a nurse from the Sabillasville State Sanatorium. The man explained that he was shooting at sparrows for a patient. The shot would have been fatal had it been an inch higher or lower. The bullet struck the thick portion of the skull, just above the temple and over the eye.

A yield of nearly 400 bushels of potatoes to the acre has been reported by one of the members of the Frederick County Potato Club, only club of this nature in Maryland. On an eighth of an acre this school boy raised more than 49 bushels. By the end of the week the entire club will have its crop from the ground and the exact yield will be tabulated and filed with Emory C. Remsburg, Frederick county farm demonstrator.

Three persons were injured Tuesday night when several dozen blank and loaded cartridges thrown in a bonfire exploded on West Fifth street.

The injured are:

Ira Ray, wounded in the forehead taken to the Frederick City Hospital.

Mildred Hull, injured on the hip.

Marcus Simmons, slightly injured.

Without the slightest warning the cartridges, concealed in a barrel taken from the store yard of H. L. Ebert, North Market street, exploded in rapid succession. Ray, who was standing in the door of Meier's Bakery on the south side of West Fifth street, was struck in the forehead by a bullet from one of the shells.

The Washington County High School Literary Society has accepted the challenge of the Ciceronean Society of the Frederick High School for a joint debate. The first debate will be held in Hagerstown early in December, the subject to be, "That the selection of a wife is more important than the selection of an occupation." The Frederick High School will take the affirmative.

Mountain Fires Under Control.

The Mountain fires which have been raging for several days over North Mountain, beyond Clear Spring, and on the ranges on both sides of the Cumberland Valley are reported to be under control. Much timber has been burned and the sweeping winds drove the flames very near the cottages and places of amusement in the vicinity of Pen-Mar.

MIDDLEBURG.

Hallowe'en passed off very quietly, only the small boy and girl being abroad.

Election day dawned fair and dry and it spelled "Dry" for old Carroll for which all the good people who worked so hard to bring about the desired result feel devoutly thankful. More people were in town Tuesday than have been here for many years all but 11 of the registered voters casting their ballots. One hundred and fifty-five were for "dry" and 90 for "wet."

Misses Lucy Mackley, of Frederick, and Mary Ohler, of Thurmont, spent last Sunday with their grandmother, Mrs. David Mackley.

Mrs. Charles Sherman and three children, of Salisbury, are visiting here this week before leaving for their future home at Redbank, N. J.

Miss Savilla Ritter gave a Hallowe'en party to a number of her friends last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Littlefield are moving back from Frederick this week. They think Middleburg the best place yet.

INFECTED CATTLE IN THE STATE

Dreaded Foot and Mouth Disease Discovered in Washington County.—Quarantine.

Reports have reached the State Live Stock Sanitary Board that there are over thirty cases of the dreaded foot and mouth disease on nine farms in Washington County near Hagerstown. On these nine farms there are in all 177 head of cattle. The farmers who have the infected cattle bought them in Chicago, being what is known as stock cattle, that is, cattle bought for fattening purposes. Chicago has been found to be the center from which the disease has been spread to other States.

Dr. Lawrence Hichman, chief veterinarian for the Live Stock Board, accompanied by a veterinarian from the United States Department of Agriculture, went to Washington county to make an inspection of the infected herds and decide what shall be done to prevent the disease spreading further in this State.

Under the quarantine established by the Federal Government no live cattle can now be shipped from Chicago, this being a move in the effort to stamp out the plague. Cattle infected with this disease, which is said not to be fatal in itself, do not recover but have to be killed as a means of preventing its spread.

To Direct Agricultural Education.

The State Board of Education acting in cooperation with the Maryland Agricultural College has appointed a supervisor and inspector of agricultural departments of the high schools of the State. Prof. J. E. Metzger, head of the Department of Agricultural Education at the College. Professor Metzger recently completed a survey of the agricultural teaching in the high schools of Maryland, which was published in August as one of the free bulletins of the Agricultural College. Both by his knowledge of conditions in the State and his previous experience in the high schools of Minnesota as agricultural supervisor, Professor Metzger is well fitted to direct the systematic development of agricultural education in Maryland high schools.

Printer's Wife Inherits $700,000.

When told that his wife would get $700,000 from the old Price estate in Maryland, Herbert Harris, a linotype operator in a newspaper office in Canton, Ill., said that when he got her share he proposed to first take out a life membership in the International Typographical Union and then donate $25,000 to the Printer's Home in Colorado. Mrs. Harris' father, George Price has been informed that his share in the estate is $4,000,000 which he intends dividing among his five children after keeping a share for himself.

WHAT A MILLION REALLY IS.

An income of $1,000,000 a year is 5 per cent. on $20,000,000. Either amount to the average human mind is virtually unimaginable. A million a year is about $2,740 a day, $114 an hour or $2 a minute, says the Philadelphia Ledger. It is a fifth of what it is said to be costing Germany every day to make war. It would pay a salary of $1,000 per annum to 1,000 persons. It could pay $4 mileage for the whole distance to the moon, or put a girdle of dollars 40 times around the earth. An income tax is paid only by 44 persons in this country whose income exceeds $1,000,000 a year.

Important Week for Farmers.

Maryland week, Nov. 17-22, will be a big time for the farmers of the State and every farmer and his family who can possibly arrange to spend part of that week in Baltimore should not fail to do so. He can see there as no where else the best that Maryland can produce agriculturally, and if his neighborhood is not represented either in the club exhibits or the general display he will go home determined to come again the next year and show the other fellow that he can do as well or better in raising corn or apples, or that his wife can put up the equal of anyone's fruit or that his boy or girl can write an essay that will tell what there is in the Maryland farm life to be proud of as well as the next boy or girl in the State.

Rural Telephones.

The telephone is one of the most profitable business agencies that the farmer can employ. It affords him facilities for keeping in constant communication with the markets, provides a sitting room for the community where the families can assemble and discuss the events of the day without the inconvenience of travel or loss of time, and in sickness and emergencies, it renders a divine service.

Maryland farmers should encourage the building of telephone lines. Local co-operative companies can be formed and country lines built at small expense.

LOYS AND VICINITY.

Womens' & Childrens' Coats

DISTINCTIVE STYLES

ATTRACTIVE PRICES

THE very sudden lowering of the mercury behooves those who have not yet bought the Winter Coat—that it cannot be deferred much longer. Our present stock is now at its best—so why wait? It embraces such wonderful garments as are made by the "Wooltex" organization—and others whose makings compare with the "Wooltex."

Coats for every form and size, from the wee tot to the child of kid age, the Junior Miss and Women of any size from the smallest up to 50 inch bust.

Our stock is so comprehensive and our values so good that we not only meet your ideas as to style and quality—but will probably give you more for the money you desire to spend than you'd expect.

Do not shiver with cold until January with the expectation of lowered prices then—but buy now, before the choice is narrowed—and have the pleasure out of it that comes in its use during the Fall months.

BOLGIANO'S Perfect Seed Potatoes

The United States Agricultural Department places their Tag of Inspection and Approval on every sack of SEED POTATOES Purchased from J. BOLGIANO & SON.

CERTIFICATE OF QUALITY.

This is to certify that I have had charge of all the Seed Potatoes grown for J. Bolgiano & Son, during this growing season. I have been with them since April 15th; looked after the selecting of their seed and the treating of the same, have also had charge of the spraying during the growing season. There was nothing planted but the very best selected seed, and nothing has been left undone to have them right. The crop is now being harvested, and the results of my work are most satisfactory. We are harvesting one of the largest crops ever grown in Annapolis County, Maine, and of the finest quality, free from any disease and true to name. I spent some time in Washington, D. C., with the Horticultural Board before coming here and their ideas of producing FIRST CLASS SEED have been carried out to the letter for J. Bolgiano & Son.

FABLES IN SLANG

GEORGE
ADE

The New Fable of the Night Given
Over to Careless Revelry.

All those who had Done Time at a certain endowed Institution for shaping and polishing Highbrows had to close in once a Year for a Banquet. They called it a Banquet Because it would have been a Joke to call it a Dinner.

The Invitations looked like real Type-Writing and called upon all Loyal Sons of Old Bohunkus to dig up 3 Sesterces and get ready for a Big Night.

To insure a Riot of spontaneous Gaiety the following Organization was effected:

Committee on Invitation.

Committee on Reception.

Committee on Lights and Music.

Committee on Speakers.

Committee on Decorations.

Committee on Police protection.

Committee on First Aid to Injured.

Committee on Maynew.

Committee on Liquid Nourishment.

Each Committee held numerous

Meetings, at the Call of the Chairman, and discussed the impending Festivities with that solemn regard for piffing

Detail which marked the Peace Conference at the Hague.

The Frolic was to be perpetrated at a Hotel famous for the number of Electric Lights.

The Hour was to be 6:30 Sharp, so that by 6:45 four old Grads, with variegated Belshazzars, were massed together in the Egyptian Room trying to fix the Date on which Dr. Milos Lobsquoset became Emeritus Professor of Saracenic Phlebotomy.

Along about 7:30 a Sub-Committee wearing Satin Badges was sent downstairs to round up some recent Alumni who were trying to get a running Start and 7:45 a second Detachment was sent out to find the Rescue Party.

Finally at 8 o'clock the glad Throng moved into the Main Banquet Hall, which was a snug Apartment about the size of the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, done in Gold and various shades of Pink, to approximate the Chambermaid's Dream of Paradise. The Style of Ornamentation was that which precipitated the French Revolution.

Beside each Plate was a blonde Decoration named in honor of the Martini Rifle, which is guaranteed to kill at a Distance of 2,000 Yards. The compounding had been done in a Churn early that morning and the Temperature was that of the Room, in compliance with the Dictates of Fashion.

Those who partook of the Hemlock were given Courage to battle with the Oysters. These came in Sextettes, wearing a slight ptomaine pallor. On the 20th Proximo they had said goodbye to their Friends in Baltimore and for Hours they had been lying naked and choked with thirst in their little Canoes and now they were to enter the great Unknown, further sacrifices to the Votaries of Pleasure.

Luckily the Consomme was not hot enough to scald the Thumbs of the jovial Stevedores who had been brought in as Extras, so the Feast proceeded merrily, many of the Participants devoting their spare Moments to bobbing for Olives or pulling the Twine out of the Celery.

The Fish had a French name, having been in the Cold Storage Bastille for so long. Each Portion wore a heavy Suit of Armor, was surrounded by Library Paste and served as a Tee for two Golf Balls billed as Pommes de Terre.

It was a regular Banquet, so there was no getting away from Filet de Biff aux Champignons. It was brought on merely to show what an American Cook with a Lumber-Camp Training could do to a plain slice of Steer after reading a Book written by a Chef.

Next, in accordance with honored Tradition, a half-melted Snowball impregnated with Eau de Quinine.

Just about the time that the White Vinegar gave way to the Aniline Dye, a nut-headed Swozzie, who could get into Matteawan without Credentials, moved down the Line of Distinguished Guests asking for Autographs. His Example was followed by 150 other Shropshires, so that for the next 30 Minutes the Festal Chamber resembled the Auditing Department of a large Mercantile Establishment.

During this Period the Department of Geology in the University was honored by the appearance of a genuine petrified Quail. And the Head Lettuce carried the Personal Guarantee of the Goodyear Rubber Co.

Between the Rainbow Ice Cream and the Calcareous Fromage, a member of the class of '08 who could not Sing arose and did so.

Then each guest had to take a Tablespoonful of Cafe Noir and two Cigars selected by a Farmer Student who had promised his Mother never to use Tobacco.

It was now after 10 o'clock and time to go Home. Those who had started to tune up along in the Afternoon were dying on the Vine. Others, who had tried to catch even on the $3 Ticket, felt as if they had been loaded with Pig Iron. Up at the Long Table enough Speakers to supply a Chautauqua Circuit were feeling of themselves to make sure that the Manuscript had not been lost. Each thought that he was the Orator of the Evening.

The Committee had put on the Toast Program every one who might possibly take Offense at not being Asked.

Also they had selected as Toastmaster a beaming Broncho whose Vocal Chords were made of seasoned Moose-Hide and who remembered all the black-face Gravy that Billy Rice used to shoot across at Lew Benedict when Niblo's Garden was first opened.

After every 30-minute Address he would spend ten minutes in polite kidding of the Last Speaker and then another 10 Minutes in climbing a Mountain Height from which to present the Next Speaker.

Along about Midnight the Cowards and Quitters began crawling out of Side Doors, but most of the Loyal Sons of Old Bohunkus propped themselves up and tried to be Game.

Before 1 o'clock a Member of the Faculty put them on the Ropes with 40 Minutes on projected Changes in the Curriculum.

At 1:30 the Toastmaster was making Speech No. 8 and getting ready to spring the Oldest Living Graduate.

Protected by all the Gray Hairs that was left to him he began to Reminisce, going back to the Days when it was considered a Great Lark to put a Cow in the Chapel.

The Toastmaster arrived home at 3 a. m. and aroused his Wife to tell her it had been a Great Success.

MORAL—If they were paid $3 a Head to stand for it, no one would attend.

The New Fable of the Young Fellow Who Had No Father to Guide Him.

Once there was a Boy who had been told twice a Day ever since he could remember that if he started to go into one of those Doggeries with Swinging Doors in front and Mirrors along the Side, a Blue Flame would shoot out and burn him to a Cinder.

Also he had been warned that every Playing Card in the whole Deck was a Complimentary Ticket admitting one to a Hot Griddle in the Main Parquette of the Flery Furnace.

And every little Paper Cigar was another Spike in the Burial Casket.

With seven or eight Guardians trailing him Day and Night to keep him away from the Lures of the Wicked World it looked like a Pipe that he would grow up to be the Dean of a Theological Seminary.

Across the Street lived a poor unfortunate Lad whose Father was making the futile Endeavor to take it away faster than the Revenue Officers could put Stamps on it. He was the original Blotter. When they were trying to pry him away from it he would take a chance on anything from Arniea to Extract of Vanilla.

According to all the Laws of Heredity the only Son was cast for the Part of Joe Morgan.

He is now the Head of a Mail-Order House. When he sees a Corkscrew he pulls his Hat firmly over his Ears and runs a Mile.

The Graduate of the Lecture Bureau may be found in a Swagger Club any evening with a Bourbon H. B. at his Right, a stack of Student Lamps at his Left and Two Small Pair pressed closely against his Bosom.

MORAL—The Modern Ambition seems to be to vary the Program.

No Chance for the Real Thing.

The young man brought some verses to his father.

"Father, I have written poems."

"What! Let me see them instantly."

The father read them over carefully, the tears slowly welling to his eyes as he did so.

Finishing the last one he threw down the manuscript, folded the boy to his breast and sobbed:

"Oh, my poor, poor son!"

"Are they so bad as that, father?"

"Bad! They are excellent. They are real poetry. My boy, my boy, you will starve to death!"
