HOLT SCHOOLED IN BOMB MAKING

Practiced Work of Destruction In Bungalow on Long Island.

HEALTH POOR, HIS EXCUSE.

Man Who Shot Morgan and Then Ended Life Practiced Target Shooting. Acid Eaten Lead Pencils Used to Stir Deadly Mixture—Match Heads Used in Capitol Bomb.

New York.—Positive evidence showing that Frank Holt, who shot J. Pierpont Morgan and then ended his life in the Mincola (N. Y.) jail, had a secret storehouse for his explosives and that he experimented there with bombs and also practiced revolver shooting was discovered on Long Island.

A little bungalow on the outskirts of Central Park, a secluded hamlet six miles from Syosset and about twelve miles from Glen Cove, is where Holt, under the pseudonym of Totten, conducted his experiments. He left there on the morning of Friday, July 2. That night the capitol in Washington was dynamited, and the next morning the financier was attacked.

Chief Constable McCahill of Glen Cove, who had been scouring Long Island ever since Mr. Morgan was shot, heard that there had been a lot of gossip about Central Park concerning a strange man who had rented a tiny bungalow which stands in a thick clump of pine trees on the outskirts of the hamlet.

McCahill learned this man, tall, smooth shaved and with a receding chin, alighted from a train at Central Park and approached Richard Russell, a resident of the place. He asked if Russell could tell him where he could find Louis Ott, a real estate man of the village. Ott was not about at the time, so the stranger, who volunteered to Russell that his name was Hendricks and that he was an invalid, strolled about the village until the real estate man returned. To Ott he said:

"I am in very poor health, and my doctor has ordered me to a quiet place in the country. I would like a little cottage of some sort where I could have absolute rest and do some literary work. Who owns that small bungalow down there in the pines?"

Ott told him that a Mr. Arnold of Brooklyn owned the place and would rent it. So the stranger, now giving his name as Totten, engaged the bungalow for two weeks. He had with him a suit case the day he talked to Ott.

The few people who live thereabout naturally were interested in the newcomer. They noticed that each day he would start out, carrying his suit case in a way that indicated it was empty. He would return with the bag seemingly weighted down.

The banging of a revolver attracted the neighbors' attention, too, and they saw "Totten" firing at a target, which he placed at various distances ranging from ten feet to 100 yards.

When Constable McCahill heard this story from Ott he and Constable John Thompson of Oyster Bay drove over to Central Park and examined the place. Their first glance at the interior was sufficient to show them that the place had been used as a bomb factory or at least as an experimental laboratory for the making of bombs. About the floors were scattered thousands of match sticks from which the heads had been cut. There were also dozens of full boxes of matches in a complete condition. It will be remembered that in his first confession Holt explained that he used match heads in making the capitol bomb.

Then, too, the constables found several acid eaten lead pencils, apparently used to stir a mixture of some sort of acid, and a tablecloth in which several great holes had been eaten by acid.

SUNDAY'S A "KAY OFF."

For Prisoners in Kansas City Jail Colony.

Kansas City, Mo.—Prisoners who have families and who are confined at the municipal farm at Leeds are to be allowed to go home to spend Sundays with their families, provided they can be trusted.

The Sunday paroles will be granted by J. O. Stutsman, superintendent at the farm. The men who will be paroled will go home after finishing their work on Saturday and will return in time to begin on Monday morning.

The paroles will depend entirely on a merit system. If the plan works successfully it may be extended to trustworthy men who are not married.

Never mind ridicule, never mind defeat, too, is a victory yet for justice.—Emerson.

NEW YORK BOASTS OF BEST ROGUES' GALLERY

Crooks to Number of 10,000 Carefully Indexed.

New York.—This city now has the most complete rogues' gallery in the world. Such is the proud boast made at police headquarters. It took a year for Deputy Police Commissioner Frank A. Lord and Lieutenant John Allen to lift this town into the rogues' gallery leadership, but they have done it, both say.

Crooks, confidence men, murderers, burglars, pickpockets, gangsters, gun men, to the number of 10,000, are now indexed and cross indexed in the modern gallery. Their photographs are on file, also their fingerprints, their Bertillon measurements and a vast quantity of other information concerning them. There are now 150,000 finger prints on record in the gallery, all neatly classified.

At a moment's notice any picture can be found. Suppose a second story suspect is brought in. The detectives turn to the section marked "Burglars," then to the sub-classifications. They read "Burglars—A, left; B, safe; C, plain; D, second story."

The police then look under the proper subdivision where the pictures are kept for the photograph of the man under suspicion.

There are 2,500 pictures in the gallery of "general thieves," men whose talents for gaining dollars dishonestly are too varied to be limited to one particular subdivision. Photographs of 1,500 pickpockets, of whom 300 are women, are on file. In the main the sub-classifications and the cross indexing are innovations.

Deputy Commissioner Lord said that he had been unable to recover all the photographs which were removed during the Waldo regime. Many of them he feels sure he has replaced. When the pictures were taken out the records went with them, and so it will never be known definitely to what extent the vast correspondence with penal institutions and other police departments has succeeded in repairing the losses.

The police rogues' gallery was started here by Police Commissioner James G. Kelso in 1870. Joseph A. Faurot, the present head of the detective bureau, and Sergeant Crow are largely responsible for building up the present gallery. Faurot was sent to Paris twice, once to study the Bertillon system and then to study finger print methods.

PLASTER CAST WEDDING SUIT.

Injured in Runaway, Farmer Weds Despite Crippled Condition.

Salina, Kan.—Miss Mary Elizabeth Seraner came all the way to Salina county from Fayetteville, O., to become the bride of Francis De Sales Schneider, a young farmer near Salina, and even then came near losing out for a delay at least, but she was equal to the occasion, and she is now Schneider's bride.

The promised delay in the nuptial affairs of this young couple was caused by Schneider getting into a runaway accident and sustaining a broken leg, fractured ribs and bruises all over his body, and the sweetheart found him bound in plaster of paris casts so tight he could not move.

The situation was discussed, the young lady hooked up a Salina horse to a buggy and came to Salina, secured the marriage license, engaged the preacher and returned to the farm. The wedding took place that evening.

RADIUM EXPERT SAILS.

Dr. Bissell Will Treat Wounded in London Hospital.

New York.—Dr. Joseph B. Bissell, radium expert in the Bellevue and St. Vincent's hospitals, sailed for England on the Philadelphia.

Dr. Bissell has been invited to do special work in St. Mary's hospital, in London, with radium and radium solutions in the treatment of infected wounds. He will study the methods of radium treatment employed at the Radium institute of London and at similar institutions in Edinburgh, Manchester and Dublin. He has also been invited to visit the Paris Radium institute.

Dr. Bissell has the largest amount of radium possessed by any one person in New York city and is suggested as managing director of the radium institute of this city.

TURKS FALL BY THE THOUSANDS

Sir Ian Hamilton Reports Terrific Slaughter.

MADE UNCEASING ATTACKS.

Hot Fire of Allied Artillery Shatters foe's Ranks—Sir Ian Hamilton Officially Fixes Enemy's Losses In Four Days at 5,000 Killed and 15,000 Wounded.

London.—More than 5,000 Turks were killed and 15,000 wounded in Dardanelles operations from June 28 to July 2, according to an estimate made by General Sir Ian Hamilton, commander of the British forces, in a report made public by the official press bureau. The report says:

"About 2 a. m. (date not given) the searchlights of the destroyer Scorpion discovered half a Turkish battalion advancing near the sea, to the northwest of Krithia. The Scorpion opened fire, and few of the enemy got away.

"Simultaneously the enemy attacked a knot which we had captured, the nullah in close formation in several lines. The attack came under artillery and enfilading rifle fire, the enemy losing life. The foremost Turks got within a few yards of the parapet, but only a few returned.

"The Turks made several heavy bomb attacks during the night, our troops being twice driven back a short distance. Early in the morning we regained these trenches by a bayonet attack. They have since been strengthened. At 5:30 a. m. 2,000 Turks, moving from Krithia into a ravine, were scattered by machine gun fire.

"The operations reflect great credit on the vigilance and accurate shooting of the Scorpion. The Turkish losses in the nullah and ravine are estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000 dead.

"About 10 p. m. on June 30 the Turks again attacked with bombs a portion of the most northerly trench captured by us on the 28th. An officer of the Gurkhas being wounded (not dangerously, as it turned out), the men became infuriated, flung all their bombs at the enemy and then, charging down out of the trench, used their kukris for the first time and with excellent effect.

"About dawn the Turks once more attempted to attack over the open, but nearly the whole of these attacking forces, about half a battalion, were shot down, and a final bomb attack, though commenced, failed utterly.

"Prisoners brought in state that three fresh battalions were employed in the main attack, which was made by personal order of Enver Pasha, the Turkish war minister, who, as they definitely assert, was present in the trenches on June 29. This is confirmed by the statement of an intelligent Armenian prisoner captured on that date. According to him, stringent orders were recently issued that no further attacks were to be made, because if the Turks remained on the defensive the British would be forced to attack and would suffer severely, as the Turks hitherto had suffered, but Enver Pasha when he arrived in the northern section overrode the instructions, and orders were received by the prisoners of the regiment that the Australians were to be driven into the sea.

"On July 2, after a heavy bombardment of our advanced positions by high explosives and shrapnel, lasting half an hour, the enemy infantry advanced, but were driven back to the main nullah, about a mile from our front, by the accurate shooting of the Scorpion.

"The Turkish officers could be seen endeavoring to get their men forward but they would not face the fire and retreated in disorder after suffering heavy casualties. The ground in front of our trenches in every direction can be seen covered with Turkish dead. Patrols sent out at night report that the valleys and ravines are also full of them.

"After checking and counterchecking the reports from all sources I put down their total casualties between June 25 and July 2 at 5,150 killed and 15,000 wounded."

Carp Comes When Called.

Sandusky, O.—Theodore Sharp, a fisherman, claims to be the owner of the only educated carp in existence. Sharp says the carp, which weighs nearly forty pounds and when out of the water resembles to a marked degree a fat hog, will come to him when he whistles, that it will eat out of his hand and that when he is out in a boat will follow him around, swimming close astern near the surface.

PLANNING TO REMODEL ENTIRE CHINESE ARMY

Soldiers Will Be Equipped With Uniform Weapons.

Peking.—China's military forces are to be remodeled from top to bottom. As a first step arms of the line regiments are to be unified.

A most important conference has just been held at the Winter palace, the residence of Yuan Shih Kai. There were present, in addition to the president and his cabinet and the highest ranking military and naval officers, several of the most influential Chinese not officially connected with the government.

Problems of national defense were touched upon in a brief speech by the president, who made it clear that he regards war as the greatest among apparently necessary evils. His words made a deep impression upon those present, and in the discussion which followed there was absolutely single mindedness in endorsing Yuan's position. The conference decided that new docks were absolutely necessary; that the arsenals must be modernized and expanded; that service in the army must be popularized and adequately compensated; that coast defenses must be established and, where obsolete or inadequate, reconstructed, and that naval bases must be provided for north and south China.

The final decision, however, was that of providing for the unification of Chinese armaments. The six army divisions, investigation has proved, use ten or more different types of guns. It is proposed to replace these with one style which will possess the best features of the best modern weapon.

MUSHROOMS FOR FOOD.

Germans Consider Delicacy to Take the Place of Meat.

Hamburg.—As an auxiliary food supply, of which little advantage is taken, mushrooms are being urged upon German epicures, and especially upon Catholics, as substitutes for meat on fast days.

Dr. von Langemann, a Dresden physician, estimates that there are over 200 kinds of mushrooms in Germany. At least one-quarter of these are not only edible, but nourishing and tasty, while only seven can be classed as poisonous toadstools.

The annual crop, if it all were harvested, would run into the millions of marks in value, he believed, and would supply hundreds of tons of food. Already the inhabitants of villages in the vicinity of forests have learned to supply themselves with a valuable food that costs nothing but the gathering.

AVIATION CLASS FORMED.

First Organization of Officers Will Go to Pensacola.

Washington.—Announcement was made at the navy department of the selection of nine officers to form the first organized class in aviation. The officers will be assigned at once to the aviation station at Pensacola for the study of the construction, assembly and repair of aeroplanes and later will learn to operate the machines. Practical shop work will be one of the chief features of the first period of instruction.

Another class will be selected a few months later in line with the policy of the department, supported by appropriations by congress, to expedite the development of aviation in the United States navy.

The officers composing the first class are Lieutenants E. F. Johnson, A. C. Reed, E. G. Haas, R. Paunack, W. W. Corry and Ensigns J. P. Murfleet and W. H. Schofield, all of the navy, and Lieutenants E. T. Evans and A. E. Cunningham of the marine corps.

KANSAS GIRLS HAVE BEAUX.

Wheat Crop Makes Wedding Bells Ring in Smith County.

Smith Center, Kan.—The municipal marriage bureau, organized last spring, is to be abolished. What correspondence could not accomplish the maturing wheat crop has been able to do and well.

There has been an oversupply of women and girls in Smith county, but the coming of the harvest hands has changed all this. Bright young fellows from colleges and universities, east and west, have become interested in the western Kansas girls.

Two weeks' delay in harvest work has given the courtiers ample opportunity to go courting, and there isn't a girl in Smith county now who hasn't at least one beau. Many of them have two or three applicants, and the marriage license clerk is anticipating a rushing business.

WILL CONSERVE WORKERS' HEALTH

Three Score and Ten Heritage of All Men.

BIBLICAL LIFE LINE THE AIM

Many Large Industrial Enterprises Have Developed Just as Efficient Departments of Health as Are to Be Found In Most Advanced Municipalities—Seek Longer Life of Employees.

San Francisco.—The biblical limit of threescore and ten will eventually be the natural heritage of every man, and the railroads are engaged in an earnest effort to bring about this condition as promptly as possible, said Dr. C. W. Hopkins, chief surgeon of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company, in a paper presented to the Academy of Medicine on "The Hospital Organization of the Railway System."

Dr. Hopkins pointed out that many large industrial enterprises had developed just as efficient departments of health as were to be found in the most advanced municipalities and sometimes made even greater per capita expenditure. The railroad physician or surgeon had an especially fine field before him, as the railroads were finding it their duty not only to prevent accidents, but to prevent disease from crippling the efficiency of their armies of employees. "It is now a well recognized fact among the managements of the railroad," he said, "that it is just as important to care for their sick and injured as it is to maintain a certain standard of efficiency or perfection of their rolling stock and roadbed."

In considering the organization of such work he said the first consideration was the proper housing of railway employees, in order that the man could feel well in the environment of a home and be free from worry and anxiety. The next step toward efficiency lay in the direction of physical examination to determine the approach of disease in its incipient stage.

"There should be an understanding with the workmen that this examination is not for the purpose of preparing him for the scrap pile," he said, "but for the purpose of maintaining a condition of bodily health that will materially prolong his working days, together with a higher degree of earning capacity and efficiency."

"Two general methods have been in use for some years by forty-two representative railroads of this country, with the general predominance in favor of the hospital organization, where the men themselves contribute a certain monthly amount toward their maintenance. Twenty-four of the forty-two railroads are today using the hospital organizations, some of which were established as long as fifty years ago. This was primarily brought about on account of a certain number of these roads running through a very sparsely settled country, where settlements and doctors were few and far between, and there were no hospitals, and where it was found that men often suffered and sometimes died because of lack of immediate and proper care. By a small contribution by the men they were enabled to receive the proper care by good men and to enjoy the comforts that were necessary toward their well being, and with but small cost to themselves.

"The other eighteen roads employ surgeons and hospitals and treat their men for occupational injuries, paying all bills for such treatment and care without the small monthly assessment contributed by the men. There have been many arguments by learned economists both for and against each method.

"The transportation of consumptives" was exhaustively considered in a paper by Dr. Henry B. Hemenway of Evanston, Ill. Dr. Hemenway said that, although consumptives were prone to travel in greater numbers than any other one class of persons afflicted with disease, humanitarianism, as well as law, would protect them in their desire to travel unless it be shown that their journeys particularly endangered the fellow travelers. The conclusion to which he came after reviewing statistics and laws bearing on the subject was that the dangers involved were comparatively slight and that any attempt at segregation of consumptives during transportation was impracticable.

Seeks Aid of Employers.

New York.—It was announced at the offices of the National Security league that the league has begun a nation wide campaign to induce large corporations and other employers of labor to encourage their employees to join the national guard or naval militia organizations.

GUNNERS CAN TELL KIND OF SHELL FIRED

Many Saved by What is Called 'Artillery Ear.'

Berlin.—The war has developed what might be termed an "artillery ear," especially among the soldiers in this branch of the service, which enables them to judge accurately what kind of shell is being fired at them and whether or not it is aimed at their battery or at some other spot. Many lives have been saved by this gradually developed oral alertness.

The artilleryman, explains an officer who has been in the field for months, is able almost instinctively to tell whether a shell is headed for his battery or not. The men have learned to pay not the slightest attention to a shot that gives off the peculiar sound indicating that it is aimed at some other battery or position. Because of the confusing noise of the artillery's own battery the squad tending it usually is divided into two groups, one of which listens for the shells of the opponents and gives the warning to dive for the shelters back of the guns. The men learn to talk with pauses between each word, listening meantime for the telltale whistle of the dangerous shell. Only in the case of the small field cannon, fired at a range of, say, 2,000 yards, is it impossible to hear the shell in time to dive into the security of the sheltering "understand." Those shells have reached their mark about as soon as the sound of their discharge.

The twelve centimeter, flat trajectory guns, on the other hand, give just enough warning so that the men can make one dive. There isn't one fraction of a second to be wasted, but by quick action the artilleryman can save himself. The big howitzers, however, give nearly half a minute's warning. As the officer puts it, one can hear the shells from these guns and still cut off a slice of wurst and take a swallow from one's field bottle before seeking shelter. The shelter in this case must be a genuine shelter, consisting of about three layers of heavy wood and two yards of earth and stone, else the shelter and artillerymen are gone.

MAIL BY AUTOMOBILE.

Proposed That Minimum Length of Runs Will Be Fifty Miles.

Washington.—"Rural mail service by automobile will begin on a large scale Aug. 2," says a statement by the post-office department. "Thereafter, under orders thus far signed by Postmaster General Burleson, 105 machines carrying mail will traverse more than 5,300 miles of rural post roads daily except Sunday."

"The first dispatch of rural mail by auto was made July 1. Two pioneer routes radiating from Quarryville, Pa., the one 55.1 and the other 56.8 miles long, went into operation on that date. Additional orders are pending providing for numerous other motor routes, and it is probable that many more will be approved in time to become effective in August.

"Preparatory to the introduction of this service wherever it will be advantageous to the rural public, surveys of special needs and conditions in every state are being made. Rapid increase of automobile mileage in the R. F. D. is certain during the coming fiscal year. Prospects are that the rural mail auto will soon be as familiar in the great farming sections of the country as the present box-like rural carrier's wagon. Where roads are good the automobile promises to effect a huge economy of time and labor and vastly to enlarge the postal facilities of the districts served.

"The routes now about to be operated by machine are from fifty to sixty miles long. Time schedules vary from six to eight hours. In some cases the new auto routes represent the extension of present wagon routes, but for the most part they are combinations of two or more routes now served by separate carriers, each with a horse drawn vehicle. In the same or less time than is required to do a twenty-five mile route by wagon the auto will serve a fifty or sixty mile route. The machine will have from four to five times the carrying capacity of the wagon."

SHE WEARS GLOVES NOW.

W. C. T. U. Mortgage Is Cleared, and Woman Is Happy.

Pasadena.—For the first time in twenty-five years Mrs. H. P. Anderson of Burbank put on a few days ago a pair of kid gloves. Mrs. Anderson, who is a delegate to the convention of the Southern California Woman's Christian Temperance union, had resolved that she would wear no gloves until a mortgage on the Los Angeles W. C. T. U. temple was paid.

The debt, which originally amounted to $30,000, was cleared by funds made available from a legacy of $25,000 left by Samuel Little.

JUDGE HAMMOND URNER.

Judge Hammond Urner, of Frederick, was elected president of the Maryland Bar Association at its convention held at Cape May and was one of the speakers at the annual banquet, responding with a brief address to the toast, "Our New President."

Judge Hammond Urner is a native of Frederick county, Md., where he was born December 4, 1868. He is a son of Milton G. and Laura A. (Hammond) Urner, of Frederick, Md.

Judge Urner received his elementary education in the public schools of Frederick, and in Frederick City College. He afterwards entered Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., from which institution he was graduated with the degree of A.B., in 1890. He afterwards received the degree of Master of Arts. Returning to Frederick, he entered his father's office to continue the legal studies which he had commenced during his Collegiate course. Having completed his course, he was admitted to the Frederick County Bar in August, 1891. From the outset he evinced marked ability in the profession which he had chosen, and soon acquired a large practice.

In politics, Mr. Urner has been a Republican. He served as city attorney of Frederick City from 1898 to 1901. In the fall of 1907, he was the candidate of his party for attorney general of Maryland, and carried the county by the largest majority ever polled by a nominee. In 1909, he was nominated and elected chief judge of the Sixth Judicial Circuit of Maryland.

Judge Urner is identified with various institutions of the county. He is a director of the Farmers and Mechanics National Bank, of Frederick City, one of the leading institutions of its kind in the county. He is vice-president of the Young Men's Christian Association, is one of the trustees of the Frederick City Hospital, and is a trustee of Dickinson College. In fraternal circles, Mr. Urner is a member of Frederick City Lodge, No. 100, I. O. O. F., of Frederick; Mountain City Lodge No. 29, Knights of Pythias; and of the Modern Woodmen of America. In religion, he is a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Judge Urner was married, May 3, 1893, to Mary L., daughter of General Joseph W. Floyd, of South Carolina. They are the parents of four children; George Floyd, died March 25, 1903, aged nine years; Joseph Walker, born January 16, 1898; Francis Hammond, born February 23, 1900; and Martin Jonas, born November 16, 1903.

EMMITSBURG WINS AND LOSES

Beats Taneytown and is Defeated at Thurmont.—Games Similar in Many Respects.

Last Thursday Emmitsburg made it two straight from Taneytown in a long drawn-out contest on the local grounds, the score being 16 to 9. Both sides engaged in a lively swatting of the horsehide, the locals getting 17 hits for a total of 28 bases. A. Stokes pitched a splendid game for Emmitsburg, errors by his teammates being responsible for all but two of the visitors runs.

Taneytown again used a trio of pitchers, F. Hitchcock, Koons and Emmitsburg's old friend, Rein Motter—who by the way pitched shut-out ball—doing the mound work. Jack Crapster played a pretty game in left for the Carroll countains. Two fast double plays by the locals was the only "pep" in a rather tiresome game.

The game was well attended and the fans welcomed the return of Mr. Thompson as umpire. The line up follows:

Thurmont Takes Opener.

The first game of a series with Thurmont was played at Thurmont on Tuesday—having been postponed a week on account of injuries to Thurmont players. The contest was absolutely listless and when it was over everyone witnessing it was glad. The score was 14 to 7, in favor of the natives.

Inability of the visitors to hit Root safely is what gave Thurmont the victory. A jungle-dump-lumber-yard-swamp outfield accounts for the large score. The infield was rough and weed-covered, while the rest of fair territory had a half-cut hay crop standing on it. This condition of the grounds is not given as an excuse for Emmitsburg's defeat, although it did work to the disadvantage of the latter who are accustomed to playing on one of the fastest amateur ball fields in the State. Hits that should have been but singles went for two and three bases, scoring runs in such an easy manner that the game became uninteresting.

The Emmitsburgians who hit the ball during the eight and one-half long innings were so few that they deserve special mention. Chic Rosensteel singled the first time up and landed on the pellet for the circuit in the sixth, after two were out and none on (of course). The drive was perhaps the longest ever made on that there field, sailing about 20 feet over the left fielder's head. Rounding first base Rosensteel tripped and fell hard, but he had time to get up and limp around the stations, for the ball hadn't been down twenty minutes after the doctor dressed Rosey's bleeding arm.

Sam Annan also distinguished himself with a single and a homer. The latter came with a man on and two down in the fourth. George Rosensteel made the other hit of his club, a two-sacker scoring Sam from second.

Every man of the locals line-up hit except Roy Creager. Leo Creager got four singles out of six trips while Bill Inglesie, of Westminster, and Freeze got three bingles each; Eddie Creager, Kelbaugh and Root each had a single and a three-bagger of the lost-in-the-bushes variety. A. Stokes, W. Rosensteel and Sam Annan faced the Thurmont lineup with about equal success. A study of the box-score and summary will give further details. The score:

HARD, COLD FACTS.

Below are enumerated five vital reasons why Doctor Austin A. Lamar, of Middletown, is the logical Republican candidate for the nomination of Register of Wills at the coming primaries. Look them over carefully. Mr. Voter, and after giving them your careful consideration, ask yourself the question, whether or not Doctor Lamar deserves your loyal support. Theory is all that is required where facts cannot be obtained, but in this case we are able to place before the eyes of all county voters an open, straightforward statement of what Doctor Lamar is and of what he has done for the Republican party in the County.

FIRST:—

Doctor Lamar is a loyal Republican, as was his father before him. Very few Frederick County men can offer to the voters as complete a list of sacrifices made, time consumed and money spent for the good of the party as can Doctor Lamar. He is more than a mere Republican—he is a hard, earnest Republican worker.

SECOND:—

Doctor Lamar has political ability. He has played an active part in a number of campaigns, and has given valuable and substantial aid to his party in the County. He is a thorough student of political economy and a practical, all around politician.

THIRD:—

Doctor Lamar has business ability. He has had a professional career of a great many years and his work has been more than a success in every particular. As a physician, he has built up one of the largest practices in Middletown Valley, and has shown himself to be an excellent and capable business manager.

FOURTH:—

Doctor Lamar possesses all of the excellent qualities of a good officerholder, and none of the disagreeable features of a bad one. He is a man of steady habits and is accustomed to a strict attention to the business in hand. He is an economist and a man who would undoubtedly save money for the County. When he undertakes a matter he is accustomed to continue working until he has either pushed the affair through to a successful finish or has proved it impossible of achievement. He is not a quitter. He is not a figurehead. He is a worker—a worker of the highest type. He is a man of responsibility and a man whom the people can trust in charge of their affairs.

FIFTH:—

Doctor Lamar, in addition to possessing all of the above qualifications, has been a lifelong resident of Middletown Valley. This is the qualification upon which the Doctor wishes to lay the most stress. Last week figures were given from two different elections to show that Middletown Valley has been the County's most loyal Republican stronghold. Figures do not lie, and those figures were most convincing. They proved, without any further doubt, that Middletown Valley deserves to be given the office of Register of Wills, and hardly a Republican in the entire county can concede otherwise. As Doctor Lamar is a valley citizen, he should receive an enormous Republican vote, and he undoubtedly will if the County voters carefully consider his qualifications for the office.

Read these facts over again, Mr. Voter, and give them your unbiased, personal attention, and then Doctor Lamar asks you to give him the support which you think he deserves. Published by Authority of Advertising Manager. adv July 16-17

Will Conserve Workers' Health.

(Continued from page 1.) If the federal government were to undertake restriction of the travel of consumptives in the United States, he said, it could do so only if the nuisance were very real. One thing to be considered, he said, was the fact that most cases of tubercular infection occurred during childhood and that the large proportion of travelers were adults. Again, if there were special dangers to the traveling public we should find passenger brakemen and conductors showing a higher consumptive rate than similar employees on freight trains. But the reverse is the case, he said, and quoted a number of authorities to that effect.

YOU CAN SHARE IN THE GREAT SAVING On Commercial Fertilizers By The Use Of

CRIMSON CLOVER Read Farmers Bulletin No. 519 on Crimson Clover. It's Free. Address U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. A bushel of Crimson Clover Seed sown on four acres of ground will increase the succeeding yield of Corn or Cotton about the same amount as would a ton of complete fertilizer applied at the rate of 500 lbs. per acre. A good stand of Crimson Clover turned under will ordinarily double the yield of the crops which follow. The physical condition of the soil is also materially benefited. The Sandy Soils are increased in Humus and Nitrogen Contents. The stiff, heavy clay soils are rendered more pliable. Crimson Clover makes an excellent grazing crop, hay, ensilage and pasture for all classes of live stock. Milch cows make considerably more milk when pastured on Crimson Clover. It is also valuable as a honey plant, furnishing an abundant supply of nectar in the spring. Crimson Clover is valuable as a Winter Cover crop. It is especially valuable in orchards where it is generally plowed under as a green manure crop. The plants retain for the use of the trees the following season much of the plant food which would otherwise leach out of the field during the Winter and early Spring. A good stand of Crimson Clover not only reduces the erosion and the gullying of the fields, but under such fields, the blowing of the soil by the wind is greatly lessened. The Plants also serve to hold the snow to a greater extent than if the field was left bare during the Winter. More and more each year farmers are realizing the importance and great value of Crimson Clover. Bolgiano's "Gold" Brand Standard Crimson Clover is exceptionally fine. It has large well matured plump light golden berries. If you want the best Field Seeds of any kind always insist on getting Bolgiano's "Gold" Brand Standard Clovers and Grasses. We Offer Enormous Stocks Cow Peas, Winter Vetch, Sudan Grass, Timothy Seed, Red Clover, Alfalfa, Alsike, Red Top or Horis Grass, Pure Kentucky Blue Grass, Orchard Grass, Winter Oats, Tall Meadow Oats Grass, Millet, Permanent Pasture Mixture, Dwarf Essex Rape, all varieties of Turnip Seed, including Cow Horn Turnip, Southern Seven Top, Yellow Globe, Etc. Cabbage, Kale, Spinach, Winter Radish. We both buy and sell Fancy Seed Wheat Send Samples. Instruction Books Free. Send for our large Garden, Field and Flower Seed Catalogue, also our 24 page Poultry and Poultry Supply Catalogue, containing valuable information for all Poultry Raisers. Five Dollars in Gold. For the largest and best developed Red Top White Globe Turnip grown on or before November 15th 1915. This is the handsomest and most profitable variety. It is a large, rapid-growing sort, with globular shaped roots, flesh pure white. The skin is white and purple. The under portion being white and the top bright purple. Send us ten cents in stamps, mention this paper and we will send you a large package of this wonderful turnip so you can enter this contest.

A TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT

Series of Interesting Letters from Rev. J. M. Barry, Formerly of Emmitsburg.

I am wonderfully impressed with the business swing of Buffalo, some few years since it was running race with Washington around the two hundred thousand—now it has forged ahead beyond all natural growth and has reached nearly a half million. It is called the Queen City of the Lakes, enjoys 1200 acres of public parks and twenty-one miles of shaded boulevards. It is increasing at the rate of fifteen thousand a year.

Its manufacturing plants are multiplying at the rate of one hundred a year. Now, why this marvelous expansion? First its location. One of the gate-ways between East and West; secondly access by water and rail; thirdly Niagara Electric power has been perhaps the greatest boom—then cheap material. Iron from the Masaba Range on Lake Superior, lumber from the thousand of miles of lake front, until it ranks as the greatest lumber market in the world. It has 80,000 working men and turns out $325,445,000 worth of finished goods annually. It has seventeen railroads entering, which handle three hundred and twenty eight freight, and two hundred and fifty-two passenger trains daily. Ten steamship lines offer further shipping facilities; hence it is one of the world's ten greatest ports. And in the near future, when the barge canal to New York is completed for steamers of two thousand tons it will have a new and powerful lift ahead. New York state is spending $130,000,000 on this project.

I found her keeping pace in religious matters. Sixty Catholic churches within city limits—with schools, academies, and asylums in great numbers. I celebrated Holy Mass this morning at 6 in the old Cathedral, a fine stone structure, seating several thousand, where my dear old class mate, Mons. John Biden, is rector: But the gem and pride of the city is the immense basilica in white marble to the tops of the two high towers—the new Cathedral. A splendid gothic transept church of great height and beautifully located at the corner of Utica Stand Delaware Ave. It has cost thus far a million three hundred thousand dollars. You will conclude that I am enthused over this city's development, and you will be right. I came up here forty years ago to college, and can now see what is happening. We have just now stopped in Erie and we strolled up the hill to be astonished beyond expectation with a splendid church property under the patronage of St. Patrick, church, school, rectory representing three hundred thousand dollars all erected within the last fifteen years by the Fathers Conley, four brothers all priests and all at the same church. Two sisters, I am told are in the convent in Buffalo. So you see a little travel opens one's eye to the work of God that is going on. I did not get to see or know much concerning the city in general, but may pick more points up later.

A terrific thunder storm assailed us last night, but I slept the sleep of the just and heard it not; but, being an early riser, I caught it. The lake was still in violent agitation, and walking abroad at a high-stepping gait. Luckily we docked in Cleveland just as the horn sounded for breakfast. I spent the morning in the city, as we left at noon, but did not see enough of it to do it justice. What I did see, say this. It has grown too fast to take care of itself; hence whole miles of small wooden homes with filthy yards and unpaved streets are the result. An immense city numerically, being a head of Baltimore, splendidly located for manufacturing, elegant railroad and water facilities, a perfect mecca for shoppers who come by a wonderful system of trolleys from nearly all over the great state of Ohio to the splendid square in the heart of the retail district.

The Cathedral is just an old parish church, but centrally located and needs to come into the twentieth century with a new suit. There are nearly seventy churches and chapels, showing faith strong, and I am told that they preach the gospel in many foreign languages, even a "Croatian" church was pointed out to me by Father John Bell, a pupil of mine thirty-two years ago on whom I called. There must be great manufacturing energy and money as is proven by its rapid strides in growth. I found a 3 cent car fare. I did not find beautiful Buffalo.

Now some word concerning these stupendous bodies of fresh water called the great Lakes. They vary in depth from 1009 feet of Superior to 210 feet of Erie. The bottom of four of them is below the sea level. Superior 407 feet below, Michigan 297, Huron 221, Ontario 259. From this your mind may conjecture the immensity of water they contain.

Detroit figures up her population around a half million like Buffalo, while Cleveland goes it better. But Detroit claims 110,000 employees, which is many more than her sister city. The city is claimed to be one of the most beautiful cities in the U. S. The city is encircled by a boulevard 150 feet wide, twelve miles long. She makes 60 per cent. of America's automobiles. Twelve years since Henry Ford established the first automobile plant in the city.

More vessels pass through the Detroit river and carry more freight into the harbors than that of New York, Antwerp and Hong Kong combined and these are the largest sea-ports in the world. The freight in tons amounts to nearly 80,000,000. We passed many freighters thus far, loaded with we know not, but identically built, something unique. A very long steamer almost level with the water when filled from the cabin dwelling of the owner rising in the front to the smoke-stack and power-house with steering apparatus in the bow—so constructed that the waves may roll over the tightly closed hatches without damage to anything. The hull of metal, cabin and power-house of wood neatly built and nicely painted. Their capacity seems enormous. I think them destined in the near future to pass from Buffalo or Tonawanda just down the Niagara River through the Erie Canal to New York; thus exchanging the products of Canada and the West with the goodies of the outside world and East with one handling of freight. Oh! how may we expect the railroads to oppose that day!

July 6th., six o'clock saw me at the Detroit University, celebrating Holy Mass in the Jesuit community chapel. Our vessel docked at 8 last night and most all our large crowd were ready to see the city by electric light and what a sight it was. Friends from Baltimore met us at the wharf, and piloted us to the great "Cadillac" Square not far away. Here is a mighty plaza with Statue, parking, public buildings, hotels, &c., of splendid architecture, dimensions, and materials, acting as the hub of a peculiarly laid out city. From this hub run wide elegant boulevards, I did not count them, let us say ten at all angles like the spokes of a wheel, sending trolley cars galore into this center of all life, business, law, and order; hence you form some idea of the hustle, bustle, and animation, especially on the 5th of July 1915. The streets run at right angles like a checker-board, but don't you see the diagonals making short cuts home for everyone? We did not see churches and Catholic institutions in much evidence although I see something like forty five churches mentioned in the Almanac. At 7.30 this morning a fine large auto with a splendid chauffeur awaited us at the steamer which we had engaged the night previous. Up to the Post Office we rolled to be disappointed, nothing doing.

Off we put over the most interesting part of city to Ford's great plant. I expected to find this out in the country, but no, right on the great Woodward ave., in the No. 1500 block. We stopped, were ushered into a large lobby, with all the accommodations of a splendid public building, a smiling, bowing, handsome gentleman, welcomed us and gave each a card to fill out, with name, address, choice of auto, etc. In two minutes the crowd was turned over to a guide who led us into the mighty plant where 12,000 men were busy. We struck the raw material passing down long, wide, elevated gutters to the next man at his lathe or machine to be passed on by him until finished, when it was transported to that part where formation was taking place. Each department had its lavatory and after this group of men hung their coats on a long rack that was pulled up out of reach and covered against any dust that might appear, but what struck me most forcibly was the absolute cleanliness of the entire plant although throbbing with mechanical energy. Thus we followed the pieces until you could commence to see the engine, the motor, the truck, the wheels coming down a chute from another story, tire on ready to be adjusted to the hubs, then tank went on, was filled with gasoline, and a completed truck was pushed a few feet to the hub tester where the wheels ran round in sunken revolving grooves to test the suppleness of the axle. While this was happening a man picked up a hanging hose and filled the radiator and before you could take all this in a chauffeur jumped on, sat on the tank and off spun a living thing active as a deer.

It was the most astonishing, at the same time amusing thing to see them thus, so recently put together run out of the building and recalled my first experience as a baby boy nearly sixty years ago, when a harvester placed a partridge egg in my hand, and before I could admire it, asunder went the shell and a little bird jumped out and ran away from me. Now, here comes another amusing sight. Finished bodies come sliding down an incline, are picked up before they reach the ground, a truck runs in under, chauffeur jumps off, two men swing the body into position, loosen the hooks, and up they go for another, chauffeur jumps in, and as quick as thought off goes the completed thing to be shipped in the train of cars that stand there waiting to be loaded.

A sterilizing plant prepares the water and pumps it into three gallon bottles that are placed one for so many men.

The machinery is the most varied and intricate I have ever seen. The power, which must be enormous, is supplied from another structure. We saw small ovens white with heat to prepare certain metal pieces which were to go soft under the mighty stamps for shaping, but what that fire was, I did not learn. No dirt nor smoke from it, I repeat, the immense factory was free from dust, grime and odors. Ten sharp fanned us all back aboard and up the river we sailed past beautiful Belle Isle; thence on the scenery was too interesting to miss. All sat on the upper deck taking it in. We sailed through the "Flats" finally passed Port Huron with its large elevator, with Sarnia across. This latter is of some importance, as we noticed a number of tanks suggesting crude oil and a new refinery, also a boom containing thousands of logs awaiting their turn up the incline to the saw mills. Great quantities of lumber was here piled awaiting water transportation.

On the Michigan side we passed two salt refineries and the derricks over the wells whence the salt water is pumped. At 3.30 P. M., we entered Lake Huron, and found it throughout as calm and clear as a mirror. Morning found us at Mackinac. A quotation will prepare you for our drive of nine miles around and over the island. "It is known to me as the wildest and tenderest piece of beauty that I have ever seen on God's earth."—Harriet Martineau. Four hundred inhabitants weather the storms of winter, ten thousand visitors enjoy its beauty in summer. Here is a commentary in brief, Fort Mackinac, Fort Holmes, Grand Hotel, Old Mission Church two hundred years into the past, the new church all in full view from deck as we approach. St. Ignace, across the channel, the home of Fr. Marquette's, S.S.J. labors and his burial place. He died on his return trip from the mouth of the Arkansas into the Mississippi on the banks of the Michigan river, ever since known as the Pere Marquette. He died at the early age of 38 in May 1675, remains brought to St. Ignace in 1677. The points of beauty on Mackinac are its primeval forests of arbor-vitae, spruce, pine, juniper, birch, maple, hazel and oak. Its rock formation lends wonder, Arch Rock 149 feet high, Sugar Loaf a huge cone rising 90 feet amid the forest growth, Lover's Leap is a solitary pinnacle rising 145 feet, Chimney Rock 175 feet high, Devil's Kitchen, Skull Cave in which Alexander Henry, the fur merchant hid during the Indian massacre. Again we enjoyed all the freshness of spring flowers, which were a perfect revel of variety and color, cherries just formed of blossom. It recalled my trip up the Regi in Switzerland where we left cherries ripe on Lake Luzerne and up the cog-wheel trolley until the trees were just coming in blossom. The young spruce and arbor-vitae trees were the prettiest things in tree life I have ever seen. The sweet briar roses, daisies, buttercups and many other wild flowers lent delightful color and perfume to the scene.

Evening brought us to Sault St. Marie with its splendid triple lock around the Soo rapids. We all enjoyed a stroll here, visiting the large church, post-office, locks with the pretty adjoining park. After seven o'clock dinner we entered the lock, rose some twenty feet, and off we sailed into Lake Superior, not immediately but around by Detroit some distance to the Lake. Thursday morning found us in Marquette, but no time for holy mass. A fine little elegantly built city of 12,000 with street cars, latest drinking fountains, sprinkled street, fine buildings. We visited St. Peter's church, an elegant large granite structure, richly appointed and consecrated, with one of the finest parish school buildings in same material occupying another square, that I have ever seen. We also visited St. John's French church not quite so pretentious.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg. No people are more wide-awake, more knowledgeable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

THE STATE ROAD BETWEEN EMMITSBURG AND THURMONT.

If Mr. Weller, Republican aspirant for the governorship, desires to add one more feather to his cap he will get busy on the State road between Emmitsburg and Thurmont.

rock; it is full of ruts; its surface is ragged with sharp-edged stones; the elements have played havoc with its course.

To talk about lack of appropriation may be satisfactory to the Good Roads Commission; talk of this kind is a splendid excuse-exhaust from the Commission's point of view, but to try to escape responsibility for actual repairs to a very much traveled road like this is folly.

The entire stretch needs to be rebuilt. No doubt it will be sometime; but the all important point is this: immediate repairs are necessary, and they can be made if the Commission so elects.

Obviously the Good Roads Commission will do nothing at this time unless the matter is brought to their attention in a forcible, earnest manner. This means cooperation and action on the part of property owners and constant users of this particular road—chiefly owners of motor cars.

MARYLAND IN NATIONAL POLITICS.

Histories, or historical works, of the text-book variety, filled with dry facts and threadbare statistics, are, at best, poor reading. Histories of the all-embracing kind are too voluminous, too tiresome, to enchain one's attention; both are unsatisfactory.

So entertainingly written is Mr. Essary's book that having read it one feels that, arm in arm with the author, one has been personally introduced to all the noted characters referred to, has chatted with them, has been a guest at their hospitable homes.

Not until one has read "Maryland in National Politics" does one realize how little one really knew before of the warp and woof of this State's interesting and important story in respect of its association with and its influence upon its sister States.

NEARBY FARMS.

Intelligent farming is the order of the day. No longer does the tiller of the soil follow blindly in the footsteps of his great grandfather. He reads, he experiments, he observes and tries out plans and methods that have made others successful. In a word, he is wide-awake. You have noticed this in men around you, you could not have failed to do it, for on nearby farms the change from the old to the new is marked.

A CONVENIENCE that Emmitsburg lacks and sorely needs is a public hitching place—a shed with racks and drinking troughs where all teams may be hitched in safety and without causing any inconvenience either to owners of vehicles or to residents of the town.

"CAPTURE of Champagne Trench"—Great Scott, what glory. The commander of that expedition ought to be decorated with the order of the Imperial Cooler and be pensioned for life. A champagne trench,—oh to think of it, oh to drink of it. War isn't so bad after all.

DON'T be a sapper and take energy, good cheer and encouragement from your fellow man and give nothing in return.

AND strange to relate General Hurt-her is not opposed to woman suffrage.

The stomach of a camel is divided into four compartments, and the walls of these are lined with large cells, every one of which can be opened and closed at will by the means of powerful muscles. When a camel drinks it drinks for such a long time you really think it never meant to leave off.

The "Fins" of a Submarine.

There are few persons outside of the navy who have ever seen a submarine's "fins" in action. The modern submersible craft built for the United States navy are all provided with these lateral rudders, but when the vessels are at the surface or moving in a level plane under water the fins are folded back into recesses in the sides of the hull.

The Amateur as Bootmaker.

In the early days when Tolstoy adopted manual labor as a religious duty he took lessons in bootmaking to occupy him during the long winter evenings.

Lawrence Barrett's Romeo.

Irving contributed to the gaiety of a supper a story about Lawrence Barrett. One night Barrett and his old friend, Edwin Booth, met at their club in New York.

The Caged Emperor.

After Elba Napoleon became a bogey to the whole world as well as to the British government, which had the guarding of him. "Lord Bathurst believed," says Norwood Young in "Napoleon In Exile: St. Helena (1815-1821)," "that Napoleon spent his time in concocting plans for escape."

Thrifty Turks.

The Turk is invariably a brave man when he is in a subordinate capacity. Directly, however, he becomes one having authority he turns to speculation.

Sidestepping a Query.

"When dat uppity collid man tried to stah a 'spute wid me," stated old Brother Cuddyhump, "by axin' if de world is round, like some folks say 'tis, why de doose don't de people on de yudder side drap off, I says to him: 'Putt it in writin', sah; dess putt it in writin', and I'll consider yo' distention.' And dat sho' took de gas out'n his b'loon! Uck, dat ignunt nigger kaint write, and I kaint read if he could."

Piano and Violin.

It is undoubtedly true that between the piano and the violin the latter is the harder instrument to master. The piano is much more of a machine than the violin, and its technique as compared with that of the violin is very much easier to get hold of.

The Psychological Moment.

"Now's the time to spring that new gown on pa." "Why? Is he in a good mood?" "The best. I just heard him bragging that he played the best golf of his life yesterday afternoon."—Detroit Free Press.

How Many Years Left?

If you want to know how many more years you are likely to live—according to the law of average, that is—study the following formula: Take the figure 80. Deduct your present age.

Moon Signs.

The moon plays an important part in sign telling. I know several old ladies who regulate all their household affairs, and even the conduct of life, by this luminary. All kinds of weather hang upon the changes of the moon.

Reforming a King.

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is extremely democratic, and it was the remark of a workman that first led him to be so. Formerly he was very reserved and was not often to be found mixing among his people.

Swiss Have Mercantile Navy.

Long before Germany was to be reckoned with as a sea power Switzerland possessed a fleet equipped for warfare. Eight hundred years ago on all the larger Swiss lakes armed galleys were maintained by the rival cantons.

What She Had She'd Hold.

It was the happiest moment of their lives. He had just proposed, and she had grabbed—er—accepted him. Then he took a tiny leather case from his pocket and slipped a sparkling circlet on her finger, while she beamed with pride.

The Other Way.

A compositor once set up the word "doughnut" so that it read "donut." "Don't you know how to spell better than that?" asked the foreman.

Distressed Him.

"You called me a boneheaded jelly-fish!" "Yes." "Well, I don't care about your opinion; but, for heaven's sake, don't mix your metaphors!"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Willie, did you see my new shaving brush?" "Yep; mom is using it to repaint the birdcage."—Columbia Jester.

What punishes a lie almost immediately is the necessity of defending it by other lies.—Ethel Augier.

A Cure That Faltered.

Samuel L. Clemens used to relate on the lecture platform a comedy of courtship that might well have served to illustrate his dictum that there are three kinds of funny stories—the witty story, which is French; the comic story, which is English; and the humorous story, which is American—and that the latter is the only hard kind to tell.

Husks of the Prodigal Son.

It appears that the "husks" (siliqua in Latin) which were fed to swine in the east and to which the prodigal son was finally reduced were nothing more nor less than the large, podlike fruit of the carob tree, whose botanical name is Ceratonia siliqua.

Ape the Three Monkeys.

In Japan almost every house has a statue of three monkeys. The hands of one are over his eyes, those of another are over his ears, and those of the third are over his mouth. See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil, is the interpretation of them.

Tall Hats of the Past.

In spite of statements made to the contrary, tall hats were invented long before 1813. A Mr. Toft of Tottenham, who died in 1767, left £50 to the governors of the Tottenham free grammar school, the interest of which was to be devoted to the purchase of three tall hats as prizes for the three best boys.

His Qualifications.

"So," said the old general, "you think you would make a good valet for an old wreck like me, do you? I have a glass eye, a wooden leg and a wax arm that need looking after, not to mention false teeth, etc."

What We All Think.

"I'm glad to know that you liked my sermon," said the minister to an enthusiastic member of his flock.

Assuming Responsibility.

"This poem of mine," declared the poet proudly, "is strictly and entirely original." "It is kind of you to say that," said the editor. "It relieves somebody else from a great responsibility."—Somer ville Journal.

Small Cyclone Strikes Hagerstown.

A small cyclone struck the southeastern suburbs of Hagerstown last Saturday afternoon, and while it did little damage, it played some unusual freaks. Trees were entirely denuded of leaves and large limbs were wrenched off. A boy was picked up bodily, carried 10 or 15 yards and set down on his feet uninjured. Women passing along the road were compelled to hold to trees to prevent being lifted off their feet. Fences were raised in the air and scattered. The storm was of short duration.

Three A Minute.

Last evening about 7.15, three run-ways occurred on Main street within one minute. The first one was a team belonging to the Slagle grocery store. This was stopped by Mr. J. Stewart Annan. Second was a loose horse belonging to E. E. Zimmerman. The animal came up town at two-terclip scaring everybody—also the express team of the Emmitsburg Railroad. Three a minute but no damage.

MRS. DOROTHEA NECK.

Emmitsburg's oldest citizen, Mrs. Dorothea Neck, died last Saturday afternoon at her home on East Main street, at the advanced age of nearly ninety-three years.

Mrs. Neck (nee Miss Dorothea Bats) was born in Germany, October 16, 1822. She came to America in 1845 and was married to the late John Neck in St. Alphonsus' Church, Baltimore, the day she landed in America. Prior to coming to Emmitsburg in 1853 she spent six years in Baltimore. The remaining years of her life were spent in and near Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Neck is survived by three sons, Rev. James H. Neck, of Baltimore, Mr. John C. Neck, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. Joseph F. Neck, of this place. Four daughters also survive: Sister Aldegonda Neck, of New York City, Sister Adele Neck, of McSherrystown, Pa., Mrs. Mary C. Slagle and Mrs. Barbara Stouter, of this place.

A solemn Mass of Requiem was celebrated in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, of which she had been a devoted member for nearly sixty-two years, on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Her son, Rev. James H. Neck, was celebrant, Rev. C. J. V. Eckles, deacon, Rev. Father Rodrigues sub-deacon. In the sanctuary were: Rev. Father Randolph, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mgr. B. J. Bradley, Revs. J. C. McGovern, and P. J. Gallagher, of Mt. St. Mary's College, Rev. George Traggerer, of St. Anthony's and Rev. J. O. Hayden, of St. Joseph's Church. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

In his sermon, Father Hayden, pastor of the Church, paid a high tribute to the deceased. He spoke of her long life of steadfast devotedness to the Faith, of the honor that was her's in having two sons in the holy priesthood and two daughters as Sisters in the service of God. He referred touchingly and feelingly to Mrs. Neck's all-abiding trust in her Maker, of her devotion to her family and unflinching duty to the church, and of her willing and trusting dependence in the decrees of Divine Providence.

Mrs. Neck, said Father Hayden, always instilled in the minds and hearts of her children a kindly and charitable love for the poor and to this training he ascribed the reputation held by her son, Rev. James Neck, of Baltimore, for his unswerving loyalty to and consideration for the poor, the unfortunate and oppressed. It is not unnatural, said her pastor, that piety should have been characteristic of the deceased, for repeatedly she said, that from her ninth year she had longed for Heaven.

Egg Thieves Are Busy.

Egg and chicken stealing has again broken out in the vicinity of Thurmont. Five crates of eggs were stolen from Ross Eyles, a huckster, last Friday night. The track of a one-horse spring wagon had been followed to the Blue Ridge Summit lane, and it is now thought that the thieves are hiding in the mountains. For a number of weeks egg stealing has been going on in Waynesboro. Three weeks ago the stable of John Peiffer, of Waynesboro, was broken into and eight crates of eggs were stolen.

BALTIMORE'S BEST STORE

Hochschild, Kohn & Co.

Howard and Lexington Streets

Baltimore's Best Store Offers Absolute Security with Every Purchase

Whatever you buy at Baltimore's Best Store is returnable, within reasonable time, for refund or exchange, if you are not entirely satisfied with it.

This is not new. It was part of our policy when this store opened, nearly eighteen years ago, and it has been carried into effect every business day ever since.

It is this which makes this store an especially pleasant place to deal with by mail. With the best intentions in the world, you may order something and find that it is not what you want, or we may send you something which, upon examination, you find is not fully satisfactory. It is good to know that you are dealing with a store that "money-backs" its goods without question or argument.

ACROSS THE LINE

The salaries of 103 postmasters were adjusted July 1, according to increase or decrease of business. The Peace Celebration at Gettysburg ran the receipts from July 1, 1913, to July 1, 1914, to $22,839.33 and from July 1, 1914, to July 1, 1915, they fell to the normal amount of $19,653.28, and on that basis the salary of Postmaster Duncan was decreased from $2700 to $2500. The salary of the Littlestown postmaster was increased from $1500 to $1600.

The work of re-capping the piers of the Philadelphia and Reading bridge at Harrisburg is under way with a force of about twenty-five men. The old stone tops which have been weakened by long use are being removed and concrete tops built. The amount of replacement varies from five to fifteen feet in depth, according to the condition of the piers. This work is done without interfering with the movement of the trains and requires skillful engineering.

The first step in a movement to give Gettysburg better streets was taken by the borough council last Tuesday evening, when they passed a resolution looking toward a request to the State Highway Department for the construction of a State-aid road on Chambersburg street from Washington street to Centre Square, and on Baltimore street from the Square to Steinwehr avenue. The plan would provide that the State pay half of a 16-foot roadway, the borough the remaining half. The entire width of the street would be paved with the same material and the trolley company would be expected to pay for eight feet, the remainder to be divided among the property owners and the borough. It is estimated that it would cost property owners from 80 cents to $1.00 per front foot.

PROPER THINNING MEANS MORE REGULAR YIELDS.

Insures More and Better Fruit and More Frequent Bearing.

S. B. SHAW, Maryland Agricultural College and Experiment Station.

Systematic thinning is a phase of fruit growing often advocated but seldom practiced. It is an operation requiring considerable "nerve" on the part of the grower, but results soon show the benefit derived from what at first seems to be rather drastic treatment. The thinning of fruit may be regarded as a form of training equally as important as pruning.

In most instances trees are pruned to bring about the best possible development of growth as regards the arrangement of limbs and general placement of fruiting wood. Proper thinning brings about the normal development of fruit, both as to size and color. It also permits of a more thorough distribution of spray material for the prevention of injury from insects and diseases. It is almost impossible to completely spray fruits that touch each other.

Thinning not only causes the development of much finer fruit, but it is a means for conserving the energy and vitality of the trees. Orchards that bear heavily one year do not, as a rule, produce much fruit the following year. While trees are producing a crop of fruit they are also forming buds for the next crop. Overloaded trees cannot well develop a proper number of fruit buds for the following year, consequently many trees perform each function in alternate years.

In some sections systematic thinning has come to be regarded as an indispensable practice in successful fruit growing. It costs but little, if any, more to thin at the proper season, than it does to pick the same fruit at harvest time. In addition there will be a higher percentage of good fruit, and more assurance of securing a crop the next year. The best time to start this work is after the season for the "June Drop" is safely past. The sooner excess fruit is removed after this, the better will be the development of the remaining fruit.

The ideal method of thinning is practically the same as in harvesting. Hand-picking is most desirable as it causes less injury to the fruiting wood. Another advantage of this method is that the best developed fruits can be left on the trees. For most ideal results fruits should not be closer than from four to six inches. When first thinned to this distance they may appear very scattering and the prospects will not look at all good for a profitable crop, however, if the average size of the fully developed fruit will be kept in mind it will soon become evident that a normal crop can be expected.

From present prospects, it is evident that there may be a large peach crop this season. Those growers who have carefully sprayed the fruit, and who will now systematically thin the same, will be the ones who will, in all probability, get the most of their crop. The prospects do not seem at all good for the profitable sale of small, undersized, unsprayed fruit. This may also hold true with apple growers, but on account of the outbreak of blight they may not have to do so much thinning.

SECOND SPRAY FOR CODLING MOTH SHOULD NOT BE NEGLECTED.

T. B. SYMONS, Maryland Agricultural College. The second brood of the codling moth appears about July 1st. Unless the first spraying, when the bloom fell, was exceedingly thorough, a spraying with arsenate of lead should be applied at this time. More important though than the arsenate of lead treatment for the codling moth is the application of Bordeaux mixture to prevent Bitter Rot and other diseases developing when the fruit is maturing. The combination spray recommended for this time is: Copper Sulphate 4 lbs. Lime (burned) 5 lbs. Water 50 gals. Arsenate of lead 2 lbs. The spray solution is cheap and it only requires a little extra pains to secure a good crop of clean fruit.

The best time for seeding alfalfa in all of Maryland, excepting the mountain section, is between August 1st and September 1st; preferably between the middle and last of August. In the mountain section seeding may commence after June 15th, but usually it is better to wait until about the middle of July. Nothing is gained by spring seeding, for little or no hay is obtained that season, because weeds usually crowd out the young alfalfa plants during the hot summer.

TO SECURE EGGS IN WINTER

Hens Have No Particular Laying Season—Do Well in Cold Weather if Given Attention.

If followed carefully, the hints given below will insure a satisfactory supply of eggs during the winter:

Never exposing the fowls to blustery, snowy weather, remembering that a cold, uncomfortable hen cannot be expected to be a profitable one. Therefore the houses must be of generous size. Early hatched pullets. Strong, healthy yearling hens. Roomy, comfortable, well-ventilated houses.

Regular feeding of food rich in nitrogenous qualities. Scratching sheds and the fowls made to hunt for the grain among the litter. Each year breeding from the strongest and best layers and never inbreeding.

Using trap nests by which the drones can be detected, so as to give the room and feed to the workers. Never overfeeding, but given just as much as they will readily eat up clean and not waste or allow to sour. Never exciting hens, but rather keeping them tame so that they will have confidence in the feeder and not become scary.

Keeping the houses perfectly clean and cheery, so that good health may be maintained, and that lice may be discouraged in making their headquarters about the premises.

Never overcrowding the flocks, as small families will do more work. It is better to keep 15 hens in a house built for 25 than 25 in a house only big enough for 15.

If these warnings are carefully heeded there will be no difficulty to secure winter eggs. Hens have no particular laying season; they usually lay best in warm weather because conditions are better—it is up to the poultry man to supply these.

WINTER PRODUCERS OF EGGS

Question of Keeping Old Hens During Cold Weather Season Should Be Decided by Conditions.

The hen more than a year old is not a winter producer of eggs. Why this is so it is doubtful if anyone can tell. The pullet produces the winter eggs, but as she gets older, her season of egg production is later. The question then is whether it is profitable to winter the hen two years or more old. The answer is yes, if one has a good market for eggs in the spring and summer, even though you buy the food, and decidedly yes, if one grows the food for the fowls. If the market in the spring and summer is not good, then it will not pay to winter the old hens, so that, after all, it is not a question of management, but one of being governed by conditions. In feeding the old hens during the winter, economy must be practiced, and the best way of doing this is to have all these hens by themselves and feed them a light ration.

POULTRY NOTES

Poor stuff always encounters a glut. Ship dressed male birds in separate packages. Warm quarters and the right ration will bring out the eggs. Never pack dressed poultry until all the animal heat is out of the bodies. A light morning feed for the flock is best, because it keeps them hustling through the day. A tablespoonful of baking soda placed in the water two or three times a week will prevent bowel trouble. During the winter months, or while fowls are confined, supply them with suitable grit, charcoal and green stuff in addition to the regular grains.

A pullet is in the pink of show condition just before she lays her first egg; laying dulls the plumage, takes away the brightness and sheen, and affects the shape. Don't let the pullets that are to be shown come to laying. This can be put off by changing such pullets from house to house, and by feeding a maintenance ration only.
