KING SERVES AS UNDEROFFICER

Italian Monarch Takes Orders From General Cadorna.

SHARES PERILS OF TROOPS

His Indifference to Danger Admiration of Men. but Source of Anxiety to Generalissimo - When In Midst of Troops, Chrapnel, Forerunner of Other Projectiles, Passes Over His Head.

king of Italy had been made a corporal in the Third zouaves of the French army made a great impression in Italy, the Rome correspondent of Le Temps writes; all the greater, as Victor Emmanuel III. is rapidly gaining on the field of battle the same popularity won by his grandfather, who was always proud of having been named "corporal" after the victory of Palestro.

Although the Italian constitution gives the king the right of peace and war and the command in war of all land and sea forces, Victor Emmanuel has insisted on acting as a simple general, taking orders from the generalis-

During his conversation recently with Peppino Garibaldi he spoke chiefly about Joffre and his generals. Later, while he walked for over an hour in the gardens of Villa Ada with Gabriel d'Annunzio, he asked him everything about the French army which the poet could tell him. However easily, therefore, he could have assumed the part of generalissimo, he has gone to the other extreme and never gives even an opinion unless he is pressed to do so by the generalissimo himself.

"The head of the army is General Cadorna. I am only one of the officers in the service of Italy," are not only the king's words, but they express an actual condition.

The other day the soldiers fighting on the banks of the Isonzo were discussing a telegram which said that the king had shared a dangerous march with the Alpines and had decorated with his own hand a corporal and two privates who had accomplished feats in his presence. The men, believing the king still in the Trentino, were envying the Alpines their luck in having him with them, when a cry arose, "The

And cries of "Long live the king!" grew nearer as the monarch in gray green uniform, without any stripes, appeared on horseback. The enthusiasm was intense. Men crowded round the royal visitor so thickly that his horse could not move.

"What do they want, these brave fellows?" said the king to his aid. "Do they expect me to cry 'Long live the king!' as well? That would be too much.

Then raising his cap in the air he shouted, "Long live the soldiers of

This brought more cheering and more crowds to cheer, until the officers had to order every one to the ranks to give the king room to move.

And off he went to another point of the battle. This royal indifference to danger is the admiration of the troops, but a source of anxiety to the general-

The other day, for example, the king Was in the midst of his troops when a shrapnel shell passed over his head, the forerunner of further projectiles of the same kind. According to the regulations, every man should throw himself flat to give the least possible mark for the bursting fragments. The king seemed to hesitate, but a private near him took him by the shoulder and made him bend down.

Just then the dust thrown up by the shell fell on the king and covered him. The king raised his head, took up a little of the earth that had fallen on him and said, "It is a good omen."

General Cadorna, however, on this occasion was almost angry. He did not, as has been reported, put his king under arrest, but he begged him to remain for at least five days at a cer tain distance from the front. The king quietly replied, "I obey."

Nothing Club Wears a Smile.

Cedar Grove, N. J.-A club has been organized here to give concerts and other entertainments at the county institutions. The badge of the society is "A Smile, to Be Worn on All Occasions." The organization is to be called Nothing club, because its members are pledged to give what they can to make people happy without any material reward.

MAKE ARRESTS FOR MURDER DONE IN 1868

After $90,000 Robbery Bodies Were Thrown Into Well.

Bedford, Ia.-With the arrest of Bates Huntsman, aged seventy, on a charge of murder is revealed a remarkable case of buried treasure, counterfeiting and double murder.

Huntsman was locked up without bail. It is charged that he and others in 1803 murdered a wealthy stockman and his little boy, robbed the former of $90,000 and threw the bodies into an old well. The alleged murderers then buried the $90,000 and it is Paris.—The telegram saying that the through the revealing of this wealth that the strange story has come to light.

Warrants were also issued for Hank Daincote and Samuel and Henry Scribner, charged with the same crime as Huntsman. Henry Scribner has been arrested. The others who are believed to have been associated with these men are dead.

Huntsman was arrested after an investigation by Assistant Attorney General C. A. Robbins.

It was through Samuel Anderson of Lucas, Ia., that the story came to light. Anderson consulted Attorney W. W. Bulman of Charlton relative to starting civil suit against three of the mentioned men, alleging that twelve years ago he was employed by them to dig for treasure which had been buried on a farm near Siam, Ia., at that time occupied by his parents.

He was to have a fourth of the wealth. He said that he had uncovered it, but that immediately he had been driven away at the point of a gun and that he had not received his share of

In possession of these facts, Attorney Bulman started an investigation which resulted in uncovering the double murder in 1868 and the fact that it was supposedly committed by counterfeiters. He laid his facts before At torney General Cosson, who detailed men, and the arrests followed. According to the story plans were made immediately after the murder showing the exact whereabouts of the buried money, but the plans were destroyed in a fire which consumed the house of one of the men now dead.

DOG SAVES THIRTY-EIGHT.

German Captain Spares Boats For Englishman's Bravery.

London.-How the rescue of a dog touched the heart of a German submarine commander has been revealed by the National Canine Defense league. The league has decided to award Captain Robinson a silver medal for brave conduct in saving his wife's dog.

Robinson was in charge of a British vessel, which, ignoring the signal to take to the boats, was shelled and chased by a German submarine. The steering gear was destroyed and the ship compelled to stop. The captain gave Betty, a Pomeranian, to the second officer to put into a boat, but in passing the dog down one of the crew dropped her into the water. When Robinson entered the boat Betty could be seen swimming toward the submarine. Without hesitation the captain jumped into the water and swam about a quarter mile, caught the dog and put her on his shoulder. As the submarine had drawn up to him, the captain laid hold of her in order to recover his breath. The German commander said, in imperfect English, "I made up my mind to blow up your boats because you did not stop your ship, but will not for your saving the little dog."

Consequently, thirty-eight lives were saved through the rescue of the dog.

TREND OF OCEAN CURRENTS.

Japanese Government Has Thrown 2,000 Bottles Overboard.

Seattle, Wash.-In an effort to determine the flow of currents in the Pacific ocean the Japanese government | Hindenburg with a magnificent carhas thrown 2,000 bottles overboard in pet. On it is woven an exact map of a large area south and east of Japan. The first was dropped on May 30 and marshal's great victory. In the left the last on June 30.

Each bottle contained a request in eleven languages that it be returned to the Imperial Fisheries institute at man and Turkish containing the words: Tokyo with exact information as to the time and place it is picked up.

According to local mariners, many of these bottles will get into Puget sound and some into the gulf of Lower California. In recent years large quantities of wood, both trees and lumber, from Japan, Siberia and the Philippines have been picked up on Puget sound shores. It is believed by many seafaring men that the current from off the Japan and China coast returns to the orient after a great circuit through the Pacific as far south as the Hawaiian group. A substantial reward is offered to the finder of each bottle.

Lansing and "Ham" Lewis Lawyers In Old Suit.

WAS NAMED AFTER SENATOR

It Turned Out to Be Poacher, Russia Captured It, and Owners Became Indignant - Now, After Twenty-three Years, Lansing Must Adjust Case and Senator Pass on His Action.

Washington.-Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois has a fishing smack named for him, and that fishing smack is at present the cause of international complications between this country and Russia. Furthermore Secretary of State Robert Lansing has much more to do with the unraveling of that fishing smack disturbance than the ordinary reader would suspect, and the whole story is being told in Wash ington corridors these days.

1894, 1895 and 1896 "Jim Ham" Lewis was a struggling lawyer in the city of Seattle, Wash. He had gone there from the south to make his fame and fortune. About the same time a little fleet of fishing smacks began to get in trouble in the north Pacific waters. The boats plied up and down the British and Russian coasts along Bering strait, and they poached in Russian and British territory and were straight-

Now the secretary of state, who must adjust the treaty of this subject with Russia, is Robert Lansing, who was chief counsel for the United States end of the controversy before the claims tribunal.

The two men involved have reached eminent places in the world, while their client's case is still in court and the controversies between Russia England and the United States on the general fishing and sealing question are still unsettled and are matters of irritation.

WOMAN SEES A BABY FOR THE FIRST TIME

Born Blind, Thought It Package Until It Moved.

Berkeley, Cal.—There is a young woman in Berkeley who saw a baby for the first time only a few weeks ago. She thought it was a package from which the wrapping had been torn. When the "package" moved she was astounded.

She is Miss Tomsyna Carlyle, aged twenty-one. After darkness, due to blindness at birth, Miss Carlyle is able to see today. Her sight is the gift of a woman of means, whose name is with

This woman was born blind, too; but, her sight having been restored by an operation, she has gone of recent years among blind institutions seeking young women afflicted as she was, furnishing money for the operations.

Miss Carlyle is a graduate of the Wisconsin normal school and is attending the University of California here where six months' more work will bring her another degree.

Highly educated, she cannot read printed English, having heretofore studied the raised point system of the blind. She is taking lessons in reading. The baby was ore of the never ending series of wonders she saw after the surgeon's knife brought her from the world of darkness into the world of light.

Telling for the first time of her impressions when she saw objects previously known only by the sense of touch or sound, Miss Carlyle said:

"I was on a street car when a womin got on with a baby in her arms. I had never seen one before and did not know what it was. I thought it was a package from which the wrapping had been torn.

"When the baby moved I was dumfounded. But then I saw the face clearly and recognized the features of a human being. And I knew I was ooking for the first time upon one of the most precious things on earth."

Her surprises, said Miss Carlyle, began immediately after the bandages were removed from her eyes following the successful operation. She saw fingers for the first time. They seem ed much longer and fatter than she had supposed.

Colors made a great impression on her, and it required considerable instruction before she could distinguish them. Colors in foods rendered eating difficult.

food before," said Miss Carlyle. "For a time I hardly felt like eating as I seemed to be eating colors."

TREATMENT OF WAR SHOCK.

London Surgeon Addresses American Institute of Homeopathy.

Chicago .-- Treatment of "war shock," one of the newest afflictions known to medical science, was brought to the attention of the American Institute of Homeopathy at its convention here.

Dr. James Pearson of London, a surgeon attached to the Anglo-American hospital, the homoeopathic war base in Paris, in a paper on the work of physicians in the European war, wrote that 'war shock" had caused much temporary insanity among the soldiers.

"One of the great problems has been the treatment of the new disease." Dr. Pearson wrote. "It is an undefined but real ailment, due in a large part to the terrible and incessant noises of gunnery and the generally acute excitements and emotions accumulating and impressing themselves on the nervous system. Quiet and sleep are the great need of these men, but it is hard to get them in a condition where they can

"A most remarkable medical development is the way soldiers are able to stand up to their waists in icy water for stretches of thirty-six hours without visible injurious results. 'Trench foot' has been much in evidence, but it is almost incredible how splendidly the mass of men went through the experience."

Deer Wrecks Hat Window.

New London, Conn .- A buck deer appeared in New London and after doing much damage was killed. 11e jumped through a window in a millinery store and proceeded to wreck it. Two policemen and Eugene McCann, manager for Commodore Morton F. Plant's base ball team, followed it and attempted to "shoo" it out. Instead of being "shooed," the deer showed fight, and all three men were injured before it was killed

LAND OF PROMISE

British See Great Possibilities In Immense Territory.

MINERAL RESOURCES RICH.

Diamond Fields Form Treasure House and Big Quantities of Precious "Stones of Fire" Still Lie In Sands of Namib-Copper and Copper Ores In Increasing Quantities.

Cape Town, South Africa.-Much speculation has been indulged in as to the value as a possession of the immense territory of German southwest Africa, wrested by the Union of South Africa forces, under General Botha, from the Germans, who had occupied it since May, 1883. Six times the size of England, being about 322,450 square miles in area and including Ovamboland, Damaraland and Great Namaqualand and sparsely populated, it has been described as a wilderness, with a fertile tract only here and there.

A South African authority described recently in the Cape Times its dominant physical features as follows: "A slowly rising, sandy coast belt; a high interior plateau, broken by isolated mountain ranges and stony kopjes, and a gently falling eastern strip of sandy country which merges in the level expanse of the Kalahari desert. The average height of the uplands is about 5,000 feet. The climate on the whole is healthful and eminently suited for Europeans, though malarial fever is prevalent in the subtropical north. Before the war it supported a white population of 14,830 people, with some 250,000 natives."

The territory's three great natural sources of wealth are minerals, pasture land and agricultural land. Says the authority above quoted:

"The mineral wealth has been the since 1908, and it is certain to be an important factor in the future development of the country. The diamond Conception bay (100 miles south of plied from Newcastle." Swakopmund) to Angras Juntas, a dis tance of about 260 miles, but they are BROTHERS IN LEGISLATURE. intersected in many places by hills and ridges and tracts of worthless sand. The various producing companies, the great majority of which are German. hold a fifty years' lease from the German Colonial company, and together before the war broke out they employed about 5,000 natives and colored men. From 1908 to the end of 1913 gems to the value of $35,522,000 had been recovered.

"How long will these fields last? The experts differ, as owing to the vast extent of the country over which the diamondiferous gravel is scattered and the varying depths of the deposits it is extremely difficult to estimate the life of the fields. The period has been variously put at eight, fifteen and twenty years. New deposits may be discovered, although extensive prospecting operations have not resulted in any finds for some time. Volcanic "pipes" containing the well known Kimberlite have been found in the Gibeon, Bethany and Keetmanshoop districts, but careful tests have shown them to be barren of diamonds.

Next to the diamond fields the copper mines rank in importance. The value of the copper exported in 1913 was $1,982,180. In the opinion of experts there is no doubt that the country will supply copper and copper ores in increasing quantities for many years to come.

Prospecting work has been done in connection with gold, tin, iron, lead, sulphur, etc., but the results have been somewhat disappointing, although immense deposits of iron and tin ores are known to exist. A seam of coal has been found, and the Germans had begun to exploit immense layers of white and colored marble of excellent quality.

The second source of wealth in the territory is the pasture land. William Macdonald, the South African agricultural expert, who visited the colony a couple of years ago, described it as a land of enormous agricultural possibilities, destined to become one of the finest ranch countries in the world.

CANARY ISLANDS HARD HIT BY WAR

Exports Have Fallen Off at an Alarming Rate.

New York .- That the European war has proved a severe blow industrially to the Canary islands was the statement made by Homer Brett, United States consul at Tenerife. Mr. Brett, who has been transferred to La Guaira, Venezuela, was a visitor at the branch office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in the custom house.

"The war," said the consul, "has forced a great interest in the Canaries in everything American. Previous to the outbreak of hostilities the islanders bought practically all of their flour from England, most of the commodity being shipped from Liverpool. Now they have turned to the United States for this breadstuff, and increasing quantities are being received there. At present only American automobiles are being imported, and the natives speak highly of the makes already introduced.

"Up to the beginning of the war the Canary islands had an annual export trade of 7,000,000 crates of bananas, 5,000,000 boxes of tomatoes, 1,000,000 boxes of potatoes and 400,000 crates of onions. A large part of this trade went to southwestern Europe, but the war has placed a blight on all this business. Before the war the islanders depended upon the Scandinavian countries for all of the crate material used in packing the fruit and vegetable products. This wood is no longer available to any extent, and inquiries are now being made in the United States for shooks. The packers must have this material and are looking to this country to come to their aid.

"Another serious handicap in the islands is the shortage of fertilizers. Up to the start of the war the bulk of fertilizer was imported from Antwerp, and a lesser quantity from London. This was principally Chilean nitrate. most considerable source of prosperity This trade has, of course, been greatly upset, and when I left Tenerife they were negotiating with American firms for needed supplies. Three Messrs. Arnold Making Laws For State of Georgia.

Atlanta, Ga.-There are three brothers in the Georgia house of representatives, all residing in different counties and different sections of the state.

The brothers are Representative Nat. D. Arnold of Oglethorpe county; Representative R. J. Arnold of Henry county and Representative O. H. Arnold, Jr., of Clarke county.

Nat D. Arnold is fifty-seven years of age and the eldest of the three. He lives at the old home at Lexington, Oglethorpe county, and is in the banking business.

Dr. R. J. Arnold is fifty-one years of age and lives at Hampton, in Henry county. He is a practicing physician. O. H. Arnold, Jr., is forty-six years of age and lives in Athens and is engaged in the manufacturing business.

Nat D. Arnold has served off and on some eighteen years in the state legislature. Dr. Arnold is now serving his second term and was elected both times without opposition. O. H. Arnold, Jr., is serving his first term.

The father of the three brothers was O. H. Arnold, Sr., of Lexington, Oglethorpe county, who served in the legislature in 1887 and 1888.

There is still another Arnold in the house, Zach, from Clay county, who is a cousin of the three brothers.

DANVILLE'S STORY.

Keeps 'Em Awake These Hot Summer Nights.

Danville, Ill.—Residents of Collison, near here, are telling fish stories about a large fish that has avoided capture in the Middlefork river for some time. Silas Harbaugh, a veteran fisherman, says he saw this large fish-large having the meaning of almost endless proportions—floundering in shallow water. He jumped into the stream, determined to catch the fish. He threw his arms about the monster, he says, and was soon hurled into deep water and compelled to let go his hold or be drowned. One man is said to have encountered the fish a few days ago in a hole in the creek bed. He stroked the back of the fish, which seemed to be asleep. His courage failed him, however, and he swam to land without tackling the fish. Determined to make the catch of the wason, Harbaugh was seen going to the river the other day carrying a large hook shaped like a fish hook, but nearly two feet long. He said he intended to fasten the hook in the gills of the fish and then use a windlass in landing his catch.

THE CHRONICLE will be independent in politics, progressive in spirit and a champion of what it conceives to be right. Its columns will always be open for a dignified discussion by the people of any subject that may seem to them interesting, or that may in anywise be a benefit to the community at large.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertiland productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Unit ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly the limestone quality, and the of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and and is one of the best farmed and and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians. The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites availabe. If you contemplate changing your place of residence-come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County,

Rather strange it is also that the Sun ignored the question or was not in position to give reliable data concerning the number of these saintly women, working for God and

> The fact is that in every war since St. Vincent's time these Sisters have played a most important part. Theirs has been the unselfishly assumed duty of caring for the wounded and the dying, and to-day-although little or no credit is given them in the public press containing dispatches from the scenes of war-there are no less than three thousand Sisters in the hospital corps of the Teutons, one thousand with the Austrians and five thousand French Sisters actively engaged within the lines of the Allies. In addition to this every one of the houses of this order in France has been put at the disposal of the government, the Mother House in Paris now being used as a hospital for wounded French

> We do not wish in any manner to detract from the splendid efforts of the Red Cross Society, so frequently referred to, but in simple justice to these Sisters whose order was established years before the former was ever heard of, we give the facts in reference to their present noble achievements and at the same time add with thousands of others our humble thanks to God that the world and humanity have the practical, the heartfelt, the tender ministrations of these Angels of

A RURAL SCIENCE SCHOOL FOR MINISTERS.

To thoroughly understand rural life and to be sympathetically in touch with it at every point is the demand now being made on the headed man. All tonics and hair country clergyman. Country life restorers, it is said, are to be has as many problems and, proportionately, as complex problems as city life has, and just as the urban cleric finds it necessary to be many sided, to be keenly cognizant of all that is essential to the material interests of those to whom he ministers spiritually, just so does the rural pastor now feel it incumbent upon then, take away this last modihim to know intelligently and cum of consolation from a class specifically about every phase of those activities that make up the real life of his people. With the intent and object of familiarizing the country minister with all such subjects there will be a Conference and Ministers' School held at College Park July 26 to Aug. 6. Men and women of national reputation will be present and will speak on innumerable topics that have to do with farm and country. This important gathering, and it is very important, is designated as "Maryland's first school held on a non-denominational basis, with courses in the rural sciences, and planned explicitly for minis-

A COUNTY DEMONSTRATOR.

Why not a farm demonstration agent for Frederick County? What is at the bottom of the antagonism against the employment of an expert to better the condition of that tremendous industry which is the foundation of this county's and this country's welfare? Is it expense?

These are not one-man questions: farmers and business men in every district are wondering why a move so beneficial to all classes to all branches of business should be checkmated—why the enthusiasm and ardor of the younger generation, coming farmers, should be dampened, killed, after having been so interestingly and satisfactorily aroused.

For years, and especially during the last few years, has the Government, and have the States individually been urging upon the people the necessity for keeping the boy on the farm, giving him some incentive to remain at home. To further the boy's interest, to show him how the farmer of to-day and he, the agriculturist of to-morrow, may utilize land to greater advantage, how better crops and larger crops may be obtained when scientific and tested methods are used-all this has the Government been trying to do.

To co-operate with the Government in this beneficent plan has been the aim of the many State agricultural colleges and experimental schools, and as a practical demonstrator, who is at the same time a guide, a counsellor and an encourager is deemed an essential factor in perfecting the propaganda for farm-product increase, is it not poor policy to retard advancement, to stand in the way of general progress?

AND now they are going after do not know.—Life. the last hope of the poor baldconfiscated and condemned. Nine-tenths of those who are minus a full suit of hair hang on to tonics, not so much because they actually believe in the efficacy of them, but because there is a certain amount of encouragement in having the barber discover a "new growth." Why, that so sorely needs it?

THERE appears to be an undivided opinion as to the lack of judgment displayed by the prison authorities in regard to the incarceration of Leo Frank. The prejudice, the bitterness apparent during the trial, the feeling displayed against Governor Slaton and above all the intense enmity shown Frank by his prison mates -these facts render the action of those in charge of the unfortunate and much persecuted Jew positively culpable.

THE kill-beetle and the suicide bee have returned again. Now for the annual speed-bug epidemic and the mad dog scare.

Speed of Waterfowl.

Waterfowl have great powers of flight. The canvasback duck covers from 130 to 160 feet a second. The blue winged teal and the green winged teal, the bluebill and the redheads are only a little slower. Mallards, pintails, wood ducks, black ducks and others can easily fly faster than a mile a minute. Even such large birds as cranes, swans, pelicans and geese can fly at a speed of more than 100 feet a second.

The speed of waterfowl has often been measured with great accuracy. Two men take positions on a duck pass a measured distance apart. The first man carries a stop watch and a gun. the second a gun only. As the fowl pass the first blind the timer shoots in order to frighten the birds into full speed and starts his watch. As the ducks pass the second blind the man there fires a shot, and the timer stops his watch. The usual length of the course is a quarter of a mile, although a mile "track" is sometimes used.-Youth's Companion.

A Lasting Window Polish. There is an art in washing windows, and if they are properly polished the operation need not be repeated for a long time. A really good polish will survive several rainstorms and will only require the dust to be removed occasionally with a dry cloth. The inside of the windows should be washed with tepid water, without soap or powder of any kind, rubbed dry with chamois and polished with cheesecloth. A solution for cleaning the outside should be made from one ounce of pulverized whiting, one ounce of grain alcohol, one of liquid ammonia and a pint of water. Spray the window with clear water to remove surface dirt, and apply the solution with a soft cloth. Let this dry on. Afterward polish with cheesecloth or tissue paper. If the glass has been badly scratched a filling may be applied. This consists of an ounce of white wax dissolved in turpentine. It should be applied before the polishing.-Washington Star.

Questions.

There are many different kinds of questions, but, roughly speaking, they all may be included in the following three divisions; first, those which can be answered; second, those which may be answered; third, those which should not be answered. Illustrating the first division are those questions which others never ask of you and those which you never care to hear others answer; the second includes questions which are pointed, private, public, perplexing and political; in fact, any questions which simpletons assert cannot be answered; the third division, questions which should not be answered, includes what? Well, that is a question which should not be asked.

Some people ask questions because they wish to know more; some ask them because they desire to show what they already know, and some ask them because they want to show what others

A Matter of Temperature.

Hospitality is a good deal a matter of latitude, I suspect. The shade of a palm tree serves an African for a hut His dwelling is all door and no walls Everybody can come in. To make a morning call on an Eskimo acquaint ance one must creep through a long tunnel. His house is all walls and no door except such a one as an apple with a worm hole has. One might very probably trace a regular grada tion between these two extremes. In cities where the evenings are generally hot the people have porches at their doors, where they sit, and this is, of course, a provocative to the interchange of civilities. A good deal which in colder climates is ascribed to mean dispositions belongs really to mean temperature.—Holmes.

Soap Substitutes In Japan.

Soap is a comparatively recent importation into Japan. However, what the Japanese lacked in substance for oosening the dirt they made up in "elbow grease." Most often they used a powder or flour, among the most common cleansers being the bean, rice and bran. The women of old Japan used a kind of seaweed for shampooing the hair. They gathered it from the rocks and dissolved it in warm water.

Further Information Wanted. "Did you tell that man at the door that I was not at home?"

"Yes, ma'am." "What did he say?"

"He asked me when you would be." "And what did you say then?" "I told him to wait and I'd come up and ask you."-Detroit Free Press.

The name "Siam" is supposed by some pretty good authorities to be de rived from a Malay word, "sajam, brown. Both Siamese and Shans call themselves "Thai"-that is, "the free."

A Real Want.

Clerk-This is the best burglar alarm made. The burglar no sooner enters the house than it alarms the residents Customer-Haven't you got one that will alarm the burglar?-Exchange.

Hardly Ever.

"Mamma, is 'man' a noun?" "Yes, my dear."

"A proper noun?" "Hardly ever, dear."-Houston Post. Farragut's Way.

While preparations were being made for the attack on New Orleans, the navy department came into possession of a complete set of plans of the defenses of that city. Not only were the positions of the forts laid down, but, also, the submarine mines, as well as the system of torpedoes, and the reserve of war vessels which were to cooperate with the land batteries. No time was lost in sending it to Admiral Farragut, but no acknowledgment ever reached the navy department. Meanwhile the passage of the forts was effected. New Orleans captured, Admiral Farragut in due time went north. Proceeding to Washington, he at once called at the navy department, where he received hearty congratulations upon his brilliant successes. While he was in the department a prominent official referred to the plans of the defenses of New Orleans and asked the admiral if he had ever received them. 'Yes," he replied, "I received the plans, but on examination I found out that, according to them, New Orleans could never be taken. So I tore them up and threw them into the waste basket."-Argonaut.

No Longer a "Corn Belt."

The "corn belt" used to be a strip of country running generally from Pennsylvania to Kansas, and including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and the southern half of Iowa.

But the fashion in belts is changing, as all fashions are liable to do. The corn belt is spreading itself out. It goes further east and further west, and most emphatically it is moving to the north and south. Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and even the Dakotas and Montana are now in the corn belt. The southern states are knocking at the door. Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas are showing that a hundred bushels to the acre is nothing to them.

The corn belt in the future will extend from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, and it will reach to the Rocky mountains, if not beyond. It is no longer a belt, but a section, comprising almost the entire arable portion of the United States, and may even include the deserts and the mountains to a limited extent.—Farm Life.

Age of Granite.

It used to be thought that granite was the oldest of all rocks and that it formed the globe's first crust. Now, however, geologists believe that granite may be of any age or epoch. The granites found in Germany and the Vosges mountains of France date from one period of the world's history, those found in the British Isles from an entirely different period and those found in the United States from still other periods. Enormous pressure, combined with heat and water, must have been necessary to produce granite. Some scientists declare that the granites in the highlands of Scotland must have been formed when 60,000 feet of overlying rocks were piled above them and that those of Cornwall required 40,000 feet of rock pressure. In other localities it is estimated that the pres sures under which granite consolidated must have been equal to that of an overlying mass of rock nine miles in thickness.-New York American.

Investment and Speculation. fishing rod or a rose tree or laying down a cellar or setting up a library either he knows what he wants, where to get it and what to pay for it or else he takes earnest counsel with his friends and with the most trustworthy professional advisers that he can find and uses all the wits that he and others can bring to bear on the subject in order to make sure that his purchase is prudently conducted. He attends sales, rummages in shops and discusses the matter in his club until he and it are voted a nuisance. If only half as much time and trouble were devoted to the careful selection of investments there would be fewer bad companies, unscrupulous promoters and ornamental directors, the world would be very much richer, and its riches would show less tendency to gravitate into questionable hands .-

It stands by my chair at meals and gives me an appetite for just the right food in just the right quantities

I want symptoms. I want to be put to bed and petted. I want to come back to convalescence with brews and potions and soft cool fingers and dark rooms and sweet flowers to beguile me I want to be sick!-H. S. Haskins in Smart Set.

Our Schools and Our Flag.

The national pledge for our flag was recommended by the American Flag Day association. The pupils, standing with right hand uplifted, palm upward, to a line with the forehead, in the attitude of salute, repeat the pledge in these words: "I pledge allegiance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands. One nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." At the words "to my flag" each one extends the right hand gracefully, palm up ward, toward the flag until the end of the pledge; then the hand is dropped to the side. Children in the primary grades are taught to repeat a shorter pledge in these words: "I give my head and my heart to God and my country. One country, one language, one flag."-Philadelphia Press.

Accidental Inventions.

The ancients believed that there was a certain kind of mineral substance in existence by means of which all the common metals could be turned into gold. This supposed substance was called the philosopher's stone, and the alchemists of classic times and during the middle ages spent much time and labor in search of this wonderful sub-

Of course, since nothing of the kind ever existed, it was never found, but it is worth remembering that some of the most notable inventions were discovered in this wide search. It was in looking for the philosopher's stone that the German chemist, Botticher, stumbled upon the secret of making the beautiful Dresden porcelain. Roger Bacon, in the same way, discovered the composition of gunpowder. Geber found the properties of acids; Van Helmont discovered the nature of gas, and Dr. Glauber found the secret of making the salts which now bear his name.-Columbus Dispatch.

Printers and High Hats. In no trade, writes a correspondent, has the fall from favor of the top hat been more marked than among printers. The old time compositor-the "case hand," as he is now termed to distinguish him from the linotype operator-never forgot that he was the aristocrat of the labor world, entitled, as he proudly claimed, alone among old time craftsmen to wear a sword, the mark of the gentleman. A quarter of a century back top hats were common wear in printing offices. They are found still in quiet backwaters of the trade. But what would happen if the linotype operator came to his "mangle" nowadays wearing one? He would probably be pelted to death with "slugs." If he owns one he keeps it for funerals, christenings and weddings, One hat I know of has already committed polygamy, having been freely loaned to bridegrooms whose wardrobe was minus the hat of state.-London

Voices of Animals.

Chronicle.

There is a chapter in the natural history of animals that has hardly been touched upon as vet and that will be especially interesting with reference to families. The voices of animals have a family character not to be mistaken. All the canidae bark and howl -the fox, the wolf, the dog-have the same kind of utterances, though on a somewhat different pitch. All the bears growl, from the white bear to the small black bear of the Andes. All the cats meow, from our quiet fireside companion to the lions and tigers and panthers of the forest and jungle. This last may seem a strange assertion, but to any one who has listened critically to their sounds and analyzed their voices the roar of the lion is but a gigantic meow, bearing about the same proportion to that of a cat as its stately and majestic form does to the smaller, softer, more peaceful aspect of the cat.—Agassiz.

A simple enlarging machine may be made of an oak board seven-eighths of an inch thick, and a little wider than the camera with which it is to be used. A box is built on one end of the heard with an opening the siz of the camera in that side of the box which faces the other end of the board. A thirty-two candle power bulb backed with a reflector is mounted in the box behind the opening. A slot is made in the baseboard, running from the box to the other end, and a moving upright, with a block and set screw running in the slot, is provided to hold the printing paper on which the enlargement is to be made. In order to make an enlargement of a negative the plate (or film inclosed between two pieces of glass) is mounted in the usual place in the camera, the lens is opened and the light turned on.-Technical World.

Telling the Age of a Fish.

The age of a fish can be determined with accuracy by inspection of the otoliths, or bony concretions, which are found in the auditory apparatus. These otoliths increase in size during the entire life of the fish, each year adding two layers, a light colored layer formed in summer and a dark laver formed in autumn and winter. The alternate layers are sharply contrasted and very distinct, so that there is no difficulty in counting them. The number of pairs of layers is equal to the number of years the fish has lived .-Scientific American.

"Realizing that all flesh is grass, and being possessed naturally of a mean disposition, the same having been considerably aggravated by the prods that, Fate, Luck and kin-folks have from time to time bestowed upon me," grimly grumped the Grouch. "I am contemplating making my will. I intend to build it piece by piece, adding, as they occur to me, such bits as promise to increase the complications of the document and augment the obfuscation of the beneficiaries. My first rough draft will probably read somewhat as follows:

'I, Timrod Totten, being of sound mind-in proof whereof I point with pride to the fact that, having noted with pain how such schemes usually work out, I have successfully resisted all attempts in the part of my loving relatives to bamboozle and cajole me into making over my property to them in return for the promise of a good home and a tender coddling for the balance of my natural life-I give, bequeath, devise and fork over, to certain of my kinspeople, whose names I shall later fill into this document, whatever is left of my possessions after my various other bequests shall have been satisfied, and to their heirs, assign and-so-ons, to have, hold, grab and clutch, to use, squander, squabble and fight over, about and around, world without end, for all I care.

'To Mrs. Henrietta M. Peck, nee Medlicott, society leader, club-lady, and defender of the faith generally, who long ago firmly and thrice rejected my proposals of marrage, I bequeath the sum of three hundred dollars and my profoundest thanks; and to her husband, Henry Petty Peck, who cut me out, in return for which I then darkly thought of pushing him into a well, I give three hundred dollars and my warmest sympathy.

'To my second-cousin, Dorcas Stang, I leave the sum of two hundred dollars, providing that my funeral be held in and from her frontparlor, with the window-blinds flung wide open and the glad sunshine streaming in on the carpet, realizing the keeness of the long baffled yearn of the neighbors to invade the sanctity of that dank and clammy retreat, an! believing that their pleasure will just about offset her pain.

" 'To the able editor of the Weekly Clarion I leave the sum of fifty dollars in consideration of the boon that he write as truthful an obituary of me as his long practice of journalism will permit, stating that I was not much better or worse than the average man, and on no account referring to me as "the Hon." " 'I leave in trust the sum of fourteen hundred dollars, for the purpose of erecting on my lot, at the southwest corner of Main and Bayberry Streets, a stone monument, or shaft, sixteen feet tall, four feet square at the base, and of appropriate size at the top, and opposite to this monument and facing it, at a distance of twenty feet, another shaft of like material, height and dimensions, both as enduring expressions, of my sympathy for two of the most abused, even mythical gentlemen that ever existed-who have been maligned, traduced, slandered and villified from antiquity clear down to now, and unmurmuringly endured it all.

" 'One of the monuments shall bear the inscription, deeply writ:

"Erected to the Memory of John Doe, By his only Friend, Timrod Tot-

" 'As my executors I name my inveterate enemies, Laban Lattimer, Geo. W. Swank and Joel Judson, certain of their immovable honesty because of the fact that they have hated me as unswervingly for twenty-seven years as I have hated them. I select them as my executors because of the fun they will have with my heirs, and the fun I am now having in anticipation of the fun my heirs will have

th my executors.' "I intend to add from time to time other bequeaths and various codicils, with instructions to the lawyer to pepper them in where they will be the most effective, at the same time expressing my regret that I cannot be here to enjoy the sounds of deviltry by night which my last will and testament may be confidently expected to produce.

THE LIMIT.

The car rushed merrily along through the country wilderness. The soft summer breezes tossed the clinging curls of the lovely maiden on the outside seat. Suddenly she bent her queenly head and her eyes fell for an instant on some passing object. She sat up, partly turned, and remarked with decided emphasis: "Well, that's the limit!"

At her words the young man seated close by looked about sharply. On his handsomely chiseled features there was a distinct expression of annoyance. Never had he heard his beautiful fiancee use any form of slang be-

"The fare limit," replied the beautiful girl. "It was so designated by a giant boulder which we passed but a

A PERSONALS.

It is the aim of THE CHRONICLE to publish as many personal and social items as possible, but it frequently happens that those who have guests visiting them, and those who entertain, fall to send a list of their friends, or an account of these events, to this office. Readers who live at a distance are always interested in what is going on "at home," and for that reason, if for no other, this column should be filled every week. It is of course understood that anonymous contributions will not be published. Names of persons furnishing items will be withheld.

CHARGE FELONIOUS ASSAULT.

Thomas Little, Drinking, Attacks Miss Mary Barry on State Road Near Old Bridge. - Held For Grand Jury.

Thomas Little, who lives near Mount St. Mary's, was given a hearing yesterday morning before Squire M. F. Shuff on a charge of alleged felonious assault upon Miss Mary Barry, who lives about a mile from Emmitsburg on the state road. The alleged attack took place on the highway near the old covered bridge, Wednesday evening about six-thirty o'clock. Little, who was drinking heavily had been following Miss Barry for some distance along the road. Becoming alarmed at the man's actions, Miss Barry turned and remonstrated with him, whereupon, it is said, Little seized her and forced her to the side of the road. Miss Barry managed to break away from the fellow by choking him and beating him on the head with an umbrella she was july 17-14

Baltimore's Best Store is a Pleasant Place in Which to Shop In Person or by Mail

Can't you "sense" the atmosphere of a store the moment you enter it?

People tell us they like to shop here because it is a friendly store-because they find not only splendid merchandise and fair prices, but they find also cordiality, c urtesy and helpfulness.

In addition to the fact that our stocks are the largest and best selected in Baltimore, that our prices are always reasonable, and usually lowest on similar grades of merchandise, and that every article sold is subject to return if unsatisfactory, there are a number of other very good reasons why you will like to do your shopping here.

Insurance Company Fails.

The Grangers Mutual Fire and Storm Insurance Company of Carroll County has gone into the hands of receivers. The company, of which Luther M. Bushey, of Sykesville, Md., was president, was incorporated in 1906. It was a mutual concern, composed principally of farmers of Carroll, Frederick, Baltimore, Howard and Montgomery counties. Numerous losses were sustained and assessments levied upon the policyholders were not collected in full. In Miss Mary Weant spent Sunday with consequence, claims have accumulated against the company. Last fall an examination of its affairs was made by the State Insurance Department and the receivership proceedings followed.

CRIMSON CLOVER

Read Farmers Bulletin No. 579 on Crimson Clover. It's Free. Address U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.
A bushel of Crimson Clover Seed sown on four acres of ground will increase the succeeding yield of Corn or Cotton about the same amount as would a ton of complete fertilizer applied at the rate of 500 lbs. per acre. A good stand of Crimson Clover turned under wil ordinarily double the yield of the crops which follow. The physical condition of the soil is also matertally benefited. The Sandy Soils are increased in Humus and Nitrogen Contents. The Stiff, heavy clay soils are rendered more open and friable.
Crimson Clover makes an excellent grazing crop, hay, ensilage and pasture for all classes of live stock. Milch cows make considerably more milk when pastured on Crimson Clover. It is also valuable as a honey plant, furnishing an abundant supply of nectar in the spring.
Crimson Clover is valuable as a Winter Cover crop. It is especially valuable in Orchards where it is generally plowed under as a green manure crop. The plants retain for the use of the trees the following season much of the plant food which would otherwise leach out of the ground during the Winter and early Spring. A good stand of Crimson Clover not only reduces the erosion and the gullying of the fields, but on sandy fields, the blowing of the soil by the wind is greatly lessened. The Plants also serve to hold the snow to a greater extent than if the field was left bare during the Winter. More and more each year farmers are realizing the importance and great value of Crimson Clover.

ALFALFA REQUIRES WELL PRE-PARED SEED BED.

Soil Should Be Worked Free From Weeds and Properly Inoculated.

NICHOLAS SCHMITZ, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Alfalfa requires more than any other farm crop, a thoroughly prepared seed bed for successful germination and early growth. Sowing alfalfa upon loose, freshly plowed land will, even under the most ideal weather conditions, result in little beyond dismal failure.

A GOOD GROWTH.

An ideal seed bed is one obtained by plowing the land in the fall, then in early spring harrowing it until the surface is smooth and thoroughly pulver ized to a depth of about 2 inches. Hence, where alfalfa follows small grain, a clover, or timothy sod, the land should be plowed as soon as possible after the crop has been removed, thus allowing plenty of time for at least one or two good soaking rains to settle the soil well before seeding time. It must be remembered that frequent surface workings between the time of plowing and seeding are absolutely necessary to conserve moisture kill weeds, and properly pulverize the

Unless the land has grown alfalfa or sweet clover successfully within the past five years, it will be necessary to inoculate. The most efficient method of inoculation is to cover the field from 200 to 500 or more pounds of soil taken from a successful alfalfa field or from where sweet clover is growing.

The soil for this purpose should be taken spade deep and applied before sowing the seed. Usually it is better to do this just before sowing, but good results may be expected if applied a week or two before seeding. At all times the soil should be harrowed in immediately after applying to prevent the injurious effects of sunlight. A few hours of exposure may kill all the inoculating bacteria.

The manner of applying the soil depends largely upon the convenience with which it can be secured. When near at hand, in unlimited quantities the easiest way of applying is with the manure spreader or from the back of a wagon with shovels. When the pantity is limited then scattering by hand, the same as sowing seed, is the most economical as well as the most effective way of applying.

The rate of seeding should be 25 pounds per acre. The seed should be sown by itself; never with a nurse crop. The method of seeding may be broadcasting by hand or with one of the various makes of machines on the market for that purpose. The seed should be covered to a depth of about 1/2 inch, and for doing this no implement is better suited than a spike tooth harrow with the teeth slanting back, or a weeder.

TRAP NESTS ARE HELPFUL BUT NOT ESSENTIAL TO THE POULTRY KEEPER.

ROY H. WAITE, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Trap nests have been used for years and there are, I am tempted to say, hundreds of different designs in use today. Notwithstanding this fact trap nests are still a novelty to many poultry raisers.

While trap nests have their use they are not so necessary in the poultry house as some would have us believe The most important use for the trap nest is to enable the breeder to get an exact knowledge of the parentage of his birds. If he mates up several females with one male about the only way he can keep the eggs laid by each bird separate is by using the trap nest. He can then hatch these eggs from different hens separately, mark the chicks and find out which mating produces the best results.

Another use is in breeding for egg production. By getting a line on the number of eggs produced by the females in the breeding pen and knowing the ability of the male to produce high laying pullets it is possible to plan the breeding so as to build up the egg laying abilities of a flock.

I am afraid, however, that trap nests will never be popular with the smaller producers. The disadvantages are many. A large amount of time and attention is required to look after them. If yearly egg records are kept it is necessary to make the rounds of the nests several times a day. Hens know no holidays and it is just as necessary to attend them Christmas, New Year's, or Fourth of July as any Md. other day.
