HERRICK URGES FARMERS' UNION

Lack of Organization Chief Agricultural Trouble.

PROFITS ARE AFFECTED.

Former Ambassador Declares Farmers Are Unorganized Industrially, Commercially and Financially and as a Result There Are Wastes—Agriculture Isn't on Decline, He Says.

Philadelphia.—Lack of organization is the chief trouble with American agriculture. Myron T. Herrick, formerly United States ambassador to France, recently said in an address before the agricultural conference. Mr. Herrick's topic was agriculture and the laws required for rural credits.

Mr. Herrick held that the farmers are unorganized industrially, commercially and financially and that, as a result, there are wastes and losses that seriously affect the producer's profits.

Mr. Herrick made it clear, however, that agriculture in this country was not on the decline. Man for man, he said, the American farmer is superior to any other, and in some branches he has brought agriculture to its highest stages of development. The shortcomings of American agriculture are traceable to the fact that the farmers have not combined their resources with the view of helping one another, he said. Their greatest need, he declared, is co-operation, and this can be brought about only through a more intelligent and extended use of the association. He suggested that these legislative steps be considered to relieve conditions:

First.—An amendment of the national banking act to permit any national bank that confines its credit facilities to members to be organized as an association without capital stock.

Second.—An amendment of the banking act of each state to permit any kind of bank that confines its credit facilities to members to be organized as an organization without capital stock.

Third.—A law by the nation and in each state to legalize for associations whatever is lawful for corporations—i. e., a regulatory law.

Fourth.—A clause in such law to permit combinations among farmers' associations or small producers' or consumers' associations.

"Such, in substance, are the basic principles of the laws in all countries where rural co-operation flourishes," said Mr. Herrick. "America is too set in the idea that the corporation or partnership is the only means for organizing business or finance and that the association is intended merely for benevolence, thrift and non-profit objects. There is also a widely prevalent idea that co-operation is of a similar altruistic nature. We should disabuse our minds of these false ideas and put the association and co-operation on a practical, economic basis.

"A system of co-operative associations based on co-operative banks is, in my opinion, the best solution of the troubles that beset American agriculture. The combined wealth and earning power of the farmers are so stupendous that they would become self-sufficient if they would consolidate and mobilize their resources through such systems extending from the plains to tidewater. Experience proves that the organized farmer is able to take care of himself. The only way to organization lies through co-operation."

RUNS MOTOR AT 100.

Hardy Scot Receives Instructions and Then Shows 'Em How to Do It.

Burlingame, Cal.—Daniel McClane, a hardy Scotchman, who was married at the age of fifty-nine years and has eleven children and several grandchildren, celebrated his centennial here recently by learning to drive an automobile.

With a hundred years behind him, but still hale and hearty, the old man attracted much attention as he scoured through the streets of the town at the wheel of a motorcar belonging to his daughter, Mrs. D. T. Ambrose.

McClane came to California during the gold rush and has been a resident of Lassen county for many years. He came here for the celebration of his one hundredth birthday.

"Whoop!" exclaimed the centenarian, returning from his joy ride. "I never knew that when I was at the helm of a sailing ship seventy-five years ago I'd be running a craft like this!"

BOY, FIVE, CROSSES CONTINENT ALONE

Tagged, He Travels Only in Care of Trainmen.

Hartford, Conn.—After a four day trip of 3,000 miles from Los Angeles to this city, traveling alone in the care of conductors and porters, five-year-old Elmer Gardner, Jr., arrived here recently and has been busy holding receptions and telling his story at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Ammann.

The boy's father left his home in Los Angeles early in the summer to investigate a new venture in the east, planning to send for his wife and son later should he decide to live permanently in Connecticut. In his absence his wife died, leaving the little boy alone. The boy's father telegraphed $150 to a Los Angeles lawyer, intending that this should be used for Elmer's maintenance until it should be decided whether or not the boy should come east to live with his grandmother.

The lawyer, noting that $150 would be largely spent for the railroad fares between Los Angeles and Hartford, informed the surrogate he had received money with which to send the boy to Hartford, and the court signed the necessary papers.

The first intimation the father and grandmother had of this turn of affairs was when newspapers told of the boy's departure on his trip. This news was confirmed the next day by a telegram.

It was impossible to follow the train movements, and the next heard from Elmer was that he had arrived at Springfield, Mass., and was placed aboard the next train for Hartford. He jumped into his father's eager arms and immediately began a recital about the wonderful sights he saw coming across the country. A tag was fastened in the buttonhole of his overcoat, reading:

"Deliver me to my grandmother, Mrs. Henry Ammann, 46 Lenox street, Hartford, Conn."

PLAN HOLIDAY FOR APRIL 30.

Would Commemorate Inauguration of Washington as President.

New York.—One of the last things done by the late constitutional convention was the approval of a number of recommendations for the enactment of measures by the legislature, and one of the things approved was the suggestion that April 30 be made a legal holiday in commemoration of the inauguration of George Washington as first president of the United States on April 30, 1789.

Delegate Peter Donovan, one of the members representing the Twenty-first senate district in the Bronx, submitted the proposition, doing so on the basis of a letter written him by George J. Clark, a journalist, who urged that just as July 4 was the holiday of American independence and Decoration day was the anniversary of the saving of the Union, so April 30 should be commemorative of national unity.

When the state legislature meets in January one of the two Bronx senators, either Senator James A. Hamilton or Senator John J. Dunnigan, in the upper house and Assemblyman Fertig in the lower, will introduce the necessary bills.

SQUASHES FROM ASH PILE.

Seeds Dropped Aimlessly, Receiving No Attention, Bring Large Harvest.

Franklin, Ind.—As a result of planting four squash seeds in an ash pile early in the summer H. C. Hoffman gathered more than sixty large squashes from the vines. The squashes have attracted the attention of half the people here, as Mr. Hoffman lives only two squares from the courthouse.

The seeds, thrown carelessly on the ash pile and receiving no attention whatever, except an occasional pan of dishwater, grew so rapidly that they soon left his yard, entered the neighbors' yard and then climbed a wire fence and covered it a half block from their planting place.

Mr. Hoffman delivered to all neighbors where his vines had trespassed a large squash. Most of the squashes were more than three feet long and of fine quality.

Thirteen Popular In This Family.

South Bend, Ind.—The thirteenth baby of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Kyle of Mishawaka arrived at the Kyle home recently. The child is a daughter and is the third one of the children to be born on the thirteenth day of the month. Mr. and Mrs. Kyle were married on the 13th of the month.

BRAIN SURGERY CURES TWELVE

Exhibition Shows Wonders of Modern Operations.

PARALYTIC BOY ATHLETE.

Lad Goes Through Feats to Delight of New York Doctors—Some of the Victims Resorted to Use of Faculties When Cysts Were Removed From the Brain—Symptoms Puzzled.

New York.—A dozen children were exhibited recently as wonders of modern brain surgery at the Academy of Medicine at a joint session with the New York Neurological society.

The heads of most of them had been cut open, some on one side only, some on both sides, by Dr. William Sharpe and his assistants at Polyclinic hospital.

The children, who ranged in age from two to twelve years, had suffered from spasmodic paralysis, due to hemorrhage inside the skull. In many cases they had been seized with convulsions soon after birth. In a number of instances the paralysis was not much noticeable until eight months or so after birth.

In cutting into the heads of a large proportion of the cases the surgeon found cysts, which had to be removed. Sometimes the symptoms had been puzzling, and in every case where a hemorrhage was suspected as the cause of the symptoms the eye signs were investigated, and an examination was made of the spinal fluid to corroborate the diagnosis.

Little ones who before the knife explored their skulls were incapable of speech or even of locomotion or movements of the arms were able to talk and laugh and run backward and forward and hold their arms up above their heads like normal children.

One of the children, a boy, who before the operation couldn't walk or talk intelligibly, now goes seven blocks to school twice a day.

One little child that formerly was always huddled up, with its head bent down almost to its feet, trotted proudly before the surgeons, some of whom stood on chairs in order to get a better view.

In none of the cases shown at the meeting had there been any convulsions or backward symptoms since the use of the knife. Out of over 170 operations, according to the Polyclinic professor, there were only twelve deaths, and there were special reasons to account for them, including extreme emaciation in a number of instances when the skull was cut open.

One of the children was a boy of twelve, who, from being a helpless paralytic, had been taught by Dr. Bess M. Mendenhall to use one muscle after another until he has finally got almost as much control over himself as a professional athlete. The process of teaching him went on daily for more than six months.

The boy was stripped, and then on a mat he went through practically all the contortions of a wrestler, bending his body backward, forward, sideways, twisting his trunk, raising his arms, flexing his legs and rising from the mat by the use only of his leg muscles.

Dr. Alfred S. Taylor showed two young men who had been restored to health by opening their backs and removing spinal cord tumors.

Dr. C. Burns Craig, who served with the American ambulance service in Paris, told of the injuries to the peripheral nerves produced by modern warfare.

Few soldiers survive bayonet wounds, added Dr. Craig. They die either from shock or loss of blood.

FINDS VIPER IN CUPBOARD.

Farmer's Wife Scared by Reptile Coiled on Plates.

Bedford, Ind.—When Mrs. Ollie Marks, wife of a farmer near here, was setting supper a few evenings ago she reached into the china cupboard for a plate. She was almost "scared out of her boots," she said afterward, to find a spreading viper coiled on a pile of dishes.

As she did not wish snake for supper, she screamed until her husband came and killed the reptile. The snake was three feet six inches long.

Canary Bird In Jail.

Bellefontaine, O.—A gymnasium has been provided in the Logan county jail for the pleasure of the prisoners. Sheriff George Smith, feeling that the men needed some other form of recreation than reading, has put in the equipment at his own expense. Mrs. Smith, the sheriff's wife, has placed two canary birds in the jail to help divert the minds of the prisoners.

GIVES HIS WANT AD. BRIDE $300,000 CASH

Aged Man Wins Georgia Wife, Twenty-eight, by That Course

Atlanta, Ga.—William H. Burden of New York, who was married here recently to Miss Lulu Douglas Thomson, won his bride by means of a want advertisement.

Mr. Burden is seventy-six years old. He has been a widower for several years and has adult grandchildren. The bride is twenty-eight years old. It is generally reported that Mr. Burden settled $300,000 on her just before the wedding ceremony.

The bride is a niece of the late W. S. Thomson of Atlanta and of Mrs. Leonidas F. Scott of Decatur, with whom she has made her home since childhood. She got a substantial estate after her parents died, but most of this was spent on her art studies in Philadelphia, and she recently began to consider earning a livelihood by her own efforts.

A girl friend in Georgia ran across an advertisement which appeared to ask for a companion. The friend answered it, but after a letter or two was told that she "did not suit."

"You try it, Lulu," the friend suggested. So Miss Thomson wrote to the advertiser, received a paper with questions to be answered, filled them out and returned the paper. Apparently she "did suit," for the next mail brought a letter from Mr. Burden, who had been the anonymous advertiser.

Mr. Burden came to Atlanta and pushed his suit so successfully that he won Miss Thomson. The marriage, however, was opposed by Mr. Burden's children and grandchildren, who live in Macon, Ga., from which city Burden went to New York several years ago.

The first news of Mr. Burden's intended marriage which reached the ears of his relatives in Macon, a friend of the family said, was that the aged man went to his bank in New York and drew out $300,000 in cash, tucked it into a grip sack and left for Atlanta.

Mr. Burden's children came to Atlanta from Macon and tried to stop the marriage, even begging Miss Thomson not to wed the aged man. Both Mr. Burden and Miss Thomson, however, insisted that their marriage concerned only themselves. After the ceremony the couple left for New York, where they will live.

WIRELESS SICKNESS NOW.

Travelers at Sea Affected by Telephone Development.

Philadelphia.—"Wireless nausea" is the newest illness reported and has only come since the wireless telephone with its almost unmeasured voltage current projected through space has become an established thing. The discovery of the phenomenon was the result of travelers on shipboard becoming nauseated at sea when there was no perceptible dip to the vessels on which they were traveling.

The matter was reported to the Aero Club of Pennsylvania, and one of its members was sent aboard a coastwise liner to investigate. When the influence began to be felt the wireless apparatus was set and an extremely high potential such as is used at Arlington was discovered in the atmosphere.

THIS CLOCK STILL TICKS.

Wheels Are Made of Wood, and It Is a General Guide.

Asheville, N. C.—Charles Bolick of this city is the possessor of an old clock, still running, although its wheels are made of wood, and its history can be traced back for over forty years. Besides giving the time, the clock has passed in the back some statistics. From this clock it is learned that in the year 1812 the postage rate for a single letter for a distance not exceeding 30 miles was 6 cents; over 30 miles and not exceeding 80, 10 cents; over 80 miles and not exceeding 150 miles, 12½ cents, and for a distance of 400 miles, 25 cents.

North Carolina in 1812 contained 638,820 people and the United States 9,625,730. Judging from this record in the back of the clock it must be at least 100 years old.

HURLS ALIMONY ON PORCH.

Akron (O.) Man Gets Lessons in Proper Way to Pay.

Akron, O.—Probation Officer Switzer recently gave Harry P. Hood instructions as to the proper way to pay $5 a week alimony he was ordered to give his wife.

Hood tied up $4.50 in a small package and threw it upon the porch of his wife's home. Mrs. Hood asked Switzer to make Hood give up the additional 50 cents and added that it would be more satisfactory if in future the money was paid through the court.

HOSPITAL WORK HELPS CZARINA

Care of Soldiers Cures Her of Melancholy.

JOY IN IMPERIAL HOME.

Fear Which Was Held in Close Intimacies of Court Circles That She Was Drifting into Hopeless Insanity Now Dispelled—Her Two Daughters Also Are Actively Engaged.

Petrograd.—If the war has brought unspeakable horror to the Russian people it has also brought comfort to the imperial household of the czar. Prior to the war it was no secret that the czarina suffered from a marked form of melancholia with other mental peculiarities. The fear was held in the close intimacies of court circles that she was drifting into hopeless insanity.

But since the czarina and her two daughters, the Grand Duchess Olga and the Grand Duchess Tatiana, have entered actively into their work as Red Cross nurses the word has gone throughout all the Russia that the mental sickness of the czarina has been cured.

To her constant and self-sacrificing labors in the court hospital at Tsarskoe Selo, the village where the famous summer palace of the czar is located, is credited the relief which has come to her mentally.

The czarina and the grand duchesses took a thorough course in training in the care of the wounded soldiers. The czarina threw herself into the organization of the hospital with enthusiasm and had it equipped in the most perfect manner.

It was placed under the direction of the Princess Gedeoye, one of the highest nobility and who has won a national reputation in Russia as one of the foremost women doctors. The czarina, with her daughters, works at the hospital every day from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. and often later.

So impressed are they with the seriousness and the humanity of their services that they often return in the evenings, and when they have dangerously wounded patients they stay all night. The czarina has also equipped a bath train and presented it to the soldiers in the field.

The court hospital has accommodations for 200 soldiers and thirty officers. The regular nurse's uniform which the royal nurses wear is made of white with a red cross on the left arm. The example of the czarina and her daughters has induced many women of the Russian nobility to devote themselves to Red Cross work.

Some of them have turned over their residences in Petrograd as well as their estates in the country to the soldiers for hospitals. The Grand Duchess Olga is twenty years old and her sister, Tatiana, seventeen. Both of them have been gazzeted colonels of two crack cavalry regiments in their father's service.

FINDS DIET CURES CANCER.

London Doctor Reports Seven Complete Recoveries With Nature's Aid.

London.—Seven patients suffering from cancer have been completely cured "by assisting nature's efforts," according to Dr. Robert Bell, head of the cancer research department of the Battersea General hospital.

"We have," Dr. Bell recently said, "been able to demonstrate beyond doubt that the healing power of nature, if sufficiently assisted by regulating the diet regimen of patients, together with the administration of therapeutic agents, has proved in many instances quite competent not only to overcome the disease, but to bring about complete recovery."

"HOW DRY I AM!"

With Piano It Makes Trouble For Scotty In "Dry Town."

Des Moines, Ia.—When A. H. Day, chief of the "booze hunting brigade," accompanied by Night Captain Weaver and two officers, visited the home of Scotty McClure in search for liquor, for a time he imagined that he had been misinformed. All searched high and low, but found no booze.

Scotty insisted that he was a law-abiding citizen. The raiders were about to leave when some one thought of the piano.

"Has the instrument been tuned lately, Scotty?" inquired one of the officers. "Why—er—yes. Oh, yes, it's all right. Plays fine," Scotty replied.

"D'ye ever play 'How Dry I Am' on it?" inquired Weaver, as he pressed his foot against the pedals. Before Scotty replied a panel beneath the keyboard was pushed open, revealing twenty-one pints of whisky.

OFFSPRING OF ALIEN PARENTS HARDEST

Figures Show More Deaths Among Native Population.

New York.—Children under five years old who are born in this city of native parents die more quickly than children whose parents are foreigners, according to figures for 1914 made public recently by the health department. The compilation, which was made under the direction of Dr. William H. Guilfoyle, registrar of records, shows that out of every 1,000 children of native white parents forty-four boys and thirty-five girls do not reach their fifth year, whereas on the same basis thirty-nine boys and thirty-two girls who are the offspring of foreigners die in early childhood.

The infant mortality figures for the native population are swelled to a greater proportion when the records for negro children are considered. Among this class 112 male babies and ninety-five female die out of every 1,000. Added to the statistics for whites, these figures give an average of seventy-eight boys and sixty-five girls.

In the opinion of Dr. Charles F. Bouldan, director of the bureau of public health education, the foreign mother is more apt to remain at home and look after her child than the native mother, who is called away by a greater number of social duties. Although the native mother can read magazines which treat of the proper upbringing of children, Dr. Bouldan pointed out that the health authorities come into more personal contact with the foreign mothers.

The mortality among native white children, arranged according to the birthplace of the mother, gave the following results: Native mothers, 30 per 1,000; English, 26; German and Austro-Hungarian, 25; Swedish, 22; Russian and Polish, 20; Irish, 32; Italian, 33 and French, 35.

Among the babes of negro parents the only disease group that approximated the figures for white native children was that of the contagious diseases. All their causes of death, especially the respiratory, tuberculous and congenital, exhibited a mortality much higher than among the whites.

FEEDS PIGS WITH SNAKES.

Gives Pork a Better Flavor—Wondering if Reptiles Are Cause.

Elizabeth, N. J.—Elmer Reichard, a farmer, who lives near Galloping hill, has discovered that feeding pigs on snakes imparts a delicious flavor to the pork. Reichard's farm is in the wooded region between Roselle and Elizabeth and is infested with snakes. Reichard determined to eliminate them. As a preliminary step he bought several specimens of a breed of small black pigs. These he turned loose in the woods.

Reichard received a surprise a few days ago in the form of a letter from a New York restaurant, which, after several weeks, had succeeded in tracing to Reichard a shipment of pork which had caused much favorable comment by patrons. It appeared that the pork had gained a peculiarly rich, gamey flavor, and the restaurant proprietor contracted with Reichard for all the pork he could raise.

The growing scarcity of snakes has forced Reichard to search for substitutes. He is hopeful that he may be able to prove that the peculiar taste of the meat does not come from the snakes, but from various roots which he has observed the pigs eating.

PIONEER IN NEED.

Discoverer of Finlayson River Files Application For Pension.

Seattle.—John Finlayson, aged 103, discoverer of Finlayson river and Finlayson lake, in Yukon territory, has applied to the board of trustees of the Pioneers' home at Sitka, Alaska, for a pension under the Alaska territorial law providing for aged pioneers.

Finlayson prospected and mined gold in California and Oregon until he was sixty-six years old, then went to British Columbia and Yukon territory and explored large areas into which white men had never penetrated.

He retired with what he supposed would be enough money to care for him all his life, but had not expected to attain such a great age, and the years have now exhausted his hoard.

His Ashes In Parcel Post.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—The ashes of A. Ninomiya, a Japanese who died here several days ago, have been started for Japan by parcel post. Shortly before his death Ninomiya requested that his body be cremated and the ashes sent to Ehima, Japan, where he was born. The ashes were placed in a metal receptacle, which was hermetically sealed.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE--ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

On November 18, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Cushwa visited their daughter, Miss Christie Cushwa, class of '16.

Mrs. J. Ledlie Gloninger has returned to "Valley View" after a month's stay with her daughter, Mrs. Marie Gloninger Rial in Pittsburgh.

Miss Kathryn and little Grace Gloninger students at St. Joseph's and Miss Dorothy Gloninger of Mt. de Sales Academy, Catonsville, Md., spent Sunday with their mother and are anticipating with eager delight a similar pleasure over Thanksgiving.

Rev. W. M. Maddock, C. M., called upon the seniors during the past week and gave them a short talk on Religion and Rhetoric with the promise of an account of his recent trip to California and the scenes of the Exposition. All are looking forward to this treat with great expectations.

Mrs. Clara Douglas Sheeran and Miss Margaret Sackley, representing St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, left with the Baltimore delegation from the Catholic colleges and academies of the diocese to the convention of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae in Chicago, on November 26, 27 and 28.

This week the student body attended the first of a series of Stereopticon Lectures which are to be given at various intervals during the fall and winter evenings. Views of the industrial, social and religious life of the Japanese were thrown upon the screen, then followed slides of the Exposition and other natural scenes of our own beloved country. With each picture was a reading which increased our knowledge of history, a picture of civilization.

St. Joseph's girls made great plans for Thanksgiving. Many parties were arranged to bring happiness to those who remained at the college while others journeyed homeward to join the family circle. Miss Margaret Bresnahan accompanied Miss Margaret Rohrbach to her home in Frederick; The Misses Caroline O'Gorman, Gertrude McManus, and Pauline Staley were the guests of Miss Mary A. Rogers '15 at McCulloch Street, Baltimore, Md. Miss Rose Martin was chaperon to the second academics to the home of a classmate Miss Pauline Smith, of McSherrystown.

Athletics are in maximum bloom at the college. Every recreation competitive games are indulged in by the different classes. Indefatigable vigor and animation is displayed by both teams and exciting moments when critical points are to be decided are frequent. Not only the participants enjoy the games but many onlookers crowd around the field for amusement. Intermissions are rare as a number of games are being played on the various sections of the campus thus affording a constant scene of activity. Many teams, games and races are popular among the stu-

William A. Barton Dead.

William A. Barton, of Johnsville, and a Democratic candidate for the judge of the Orphans' Court at the last election, died Saturday afternoon of typhoid fever. He had been a farmer all his life until a few years ago, when he retired. He was 65 years, 5 months and 1 day old. Mr. Barton was born in Mechanicstown district in 1860.

While not taking an active part in politics until the last few years, Mr. Barton has been a staunch Democrat, and was one of the successful nominees of his party at the past primary. While he was not elected, he received one of the largest votes of his party.

By his marriage to Clara Ogle, daughter of the late Benjamin Ogle, Mr. Barton leaves the following children: Mrs. Luther C. Putman and Grover C. Barton, Walkersville; Benjamin and William Barton, Johnsville; Misses Durie, Bessie and Leotto Barton, at home. Two sisters and two brothers survive—Nelson Barton and James Barton, Hagerstown; Mrs. Louis Troxell and Mrs. Charles Troxell, near Loys.

The funeral services took place on Wednesday, Rev. Guy Bready, of Taneytown assisted by Rev. Samuel Repp, of Johnsville, officiated. Interment was made in Mt. Hope cemetery, Johnsville.

dents while basket-ball, relay and long ball seem to be the favorite.

The school is indebted to the junior academics for affording the opportunity of a demand and the enjoyment of a good school paper. "Progress will out" has derived ample proof from the genuine thoughtful and pleasant tone which characterized the October number of the "Halcyon."

It is composed of original poems and writings; we mention a few: Hallowe'en and Regina Angelorum, poems; Chee-wha, a short story, Editorials, Social Page, Household Hints, and Sunny Side or Fun Making section.

Just as soldiers and ammunition are needed for the belligerent nation to carry on a successful war, so in our college, the support and appreciation of the students as well as of friends is required that the "Halcyon" may receive the required aid which will enable it to continue and prosper.

"Neve minor neu sit quinto productior actu fabula" from all perspectives would appear to be the slogan of the Senior Class of Interpretative Reading. This fact together with the talent skill and sincerity evinced in production of "Christine" gained for the cast a triumph in the Thespian art.

Every character was depicted and interpreted to the most minute detail, with attention to the costuming and scenic effects. "Christine" Miss Gertrude McManus, gently glided through the acts in the graceful flowing bridal robes of the XV century. "The Heir of Miolan," Miss Pauline Staley, mailed from plumed helmet to shining spears, gallantly fought and conquered his rival and enemy. "The Wizard Knight," Miss Margaret Rohrbach, was enveloped in the umbrian cloak and trappings of his nefarious lineage. "The Baron of Miolan," Miss Caroline O'Gorman, and "The Dauphine," Miss Margaret Bresnahan, staunch protectors of the Cross and "Fleur de Lis" brought before the spectators, the robes and armor of the French nobility; while through the course of the play fair maidens of Provence bearing lovely flowers and caroling orisons of affection, dashing knights, fresh from the "Tournee" pious hermits hoary-haired, and page passed through the evolving scenes.

Listening to the Troubadour, for the whole tale is supposed to be his song, and following in spirit his every word, the audience found themselves far removed to the Middle Ages, transported from the busy twentieth century to the days of chivalry. Here is the Rhine, there the Isere flows. They beheld the Grande Chartreuse and saw in the distance the awful Pilate's Peak. They were conducted through great ancestral castles of Savoy, they saw the forests and pleasure fields of Provence, the mailed knight, the barbed steed, the Provencal singer, the exciting Tournament and all were described in language full of beauty, grace and music as only an author like Miles could portray.

Conduct For Daughters.

A Harrisburg minister has presented the following ten rules of Conduct for Daughters:

I—Thou shalt not delude thy mother.

II—Thou shalt not surrender thy modesty for the favor of unprincipled men.

III—Thou shalt not run wild and fall into the whirlpool of fashion and plunge thy family folk into the hopper of the nervegrinding mill.

IMPORTANCE OF THE LETTER "E."

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "E" is the most unfortunate character in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. But we call his attention to the fact that "E" is never in war, always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life, no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect and without it there would be no editors, devils nor news.—Exchange.

Maryland Free From Dread Disease.

Maryland has practically recovered from the effects of the epidemic of foot and mouth disease among cattle and hogs which started about this time last year and extended well into the spring.

H. B. Noll member of the State Live Stock Sanitary Board is now engaged in inspecting all sections of Maryland that were put under quarantine and where infected animals were killed.

Mr. Noll has completed the survey of Washington, Montgomery and Frederick counties, and reports that practically all of the farmers in those districts have replaced the lost stock with healthy animals. The same conditions are expected to be found in other portions of the State which Mr. Noll will visit this week.

No indications of the disease have been found anywhere for the last five months.

THE NOVEMBER MOUNTAINEER.

Mt. St. Mary's Students Upholding High Standard of College Journalism.

The current number of The Mountaineer shows that the high standard set by the editors of Mount Saint Mary's College student publication in the October number will be maintained throughout the year. It is replete with critical essays, verse and fiction, while the regular departments—the editorials, the book review and local pages—contain timely, well-informed and interesting matter. It is a wholesome sign to note the new names constantly appearing in the index of articles showing that an impetus is being given literary taste at the Mountain and that the outlook for available material is more promising every day.

Six Years of Prohibition

THAT'S what this State has suffered. The demand for intoxicating liquors as a beverage has not decreased but has greatly increased. Where there is a demand for a thing it is not hard to find means of supply. It is common knowledge that under prohibition the saloon has been replaced by the "drug store," the "hole in the wall," the "blind tiger," the "boot-legger" and the "blind pig."

Temperance means drinking moderately of healthful beer—not teetotalism. Temperance is the platform upon which I make this campaign—temperance and the consequent restoration to our citizens of their inalienable right to drink moderately, openly.

MOUNT SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE

Terrace Talk

Prof. Emile Samra is conducting a special class of French every day. The session is from 1.00 to 1.30 and is attended by seniors who want to do particularly well in French composition.

Prof. Clarence Sousley, head of the department of mathematics, motored over to Gettysburg on Saturday with Thomas Rohrbach, of Frederick, Md., to see the game between Mount Saint Mary's eleven and the Pennsylvania College.

The minstrel show, which was scheduled to take place on Dec. 8, has given place to a musical comedy. Prof. Braun, head of the department of music and official organist of the college, has been confined to his home for a week on account of illness. It is expected that he will be able to be about next week for the rehearsals incident to the musicale.

A bronze tablet was presented to the junior class on Thursday, recording the patronymics and performances of members who had taken part in the track meet on October 27. The plaque is about 2 feet square. It hangs in the alumni room and bears testimony to the winning work of Capt. Frank P. Rodgers, Emmet H. Gallagher, John L. Rice, and Williard Wilmington Grubb.

The lectures in Physics have been pointed and popular. Prof. John W. Rauth has considerably augmented the resources of the department, and now employs stereopticon views to illustrate important points of his discussion. His classes in qualitative chemistry are progressing rapidly, many of the students devoting additional hours to experimental work in the laboratory.

Mr. William Fitzsimmons, '18, motored to Baltimore on Tuesday to spend the Thanksgiving recess with his parents. Only those who live in Baltimore or thereabouts leave the college at Thanksgiving time. This is the "busy season" at the Mountain and there is little time for relaxation between now and the holidays of Christmas.

Basketball practice will begin in earnest after the Thanksgiving recess. Prospects are unusually bright for a winning season. The first game is scheduled for December 4 with Baltimore Polytechnic Institute. Last year the Mount annexed 17 out of 20 contests and divided the honors for the State championship. In the last two seasons on the home court the Mountaineers were defeated in only one contest out of 34, and that reverse was suffered by a one point margin.

Mr. John C. Kelly, 16, editor of the Mountaineer, has an editorial in the November number on "The Old Mountain." "To look back over the record of the school since the opening of the present century," he says, "is to review a most remarkable period of progress. * * * The year, 1902, marked the erection of the fine gymnasium building, 1907, the new seminary building, and 1910, the new college church. The minim building will shortly mark the completion of a group of four structures, each made necessary by the continued growth of the school. The short period, little more than a decade, in which all this has been accomplished, bears testimony to the efficient management of the authorities. The friends of the college will rejoice in this new evidence of prosperity. What has been done at the 'Old Mountain' is but a prelude to greater and better things to be done at 'The New Mountain.'"

Mr. George Eberlein, of Hatfield, Mass., arrived in Emmitsburg yesterday and is stopping at Mount Saint Mary's College with Coach John L. Day. Mr. Eberlein was graduated from Syracuse University in 1912. He made his major studies there in physics and chemistry, and is now teaching these subjects and acting as football coach and athletic director at the Park Ridge high school. He has succeeded, in his first year in turning out a championship team.

Before his present appointment Mr. Eberlein taught English and biology at the San Juan high school, San Juan, Porto Rico. While there he perfected his knowledge of Spanish which he had studied for several years at the University of Syracuse.

Mr. Eberlein will spend several days of the Thanksgiving recess with Coach John L. Day at the Mountain. He had heard a great deal about Emmitsburg, he said, and still more about Mount Saint Mary's College, and nothing but a visit to these parts would satisfy him.

Mount Saint Mary's football team was defeated by their old rivals of Gettysburg College on Saturday. The score was 18 to 0. The closeness of the game, however, is not indicated by the score, for the Mountaineers offered the most stubborn defense of the season, but the breaks were against the team. Poor punting on the part of Mount Saint Mary's team was directly responsible for two touchdowns. They held the Gettysburg eleven whenever the latter threatened their goal line, but when they went to punt out of danger a strong wind carried the ball behind the kicker in two instances. It was then easy enough for their opponents to rush the ball over for touchdowns.

The Gettysburg game brought to a climax a season that began inauspiciously for the Mountaineers Handicapped in the first place by the abolition of the sport in 1914, and in the second by the graduation of six of the "stars" last June, the Mountain men found it a difficult task to mould together green and inexperienced candidates for the opening contest. Gradually, as the team developed, the new material would produce a star in each game. In the past three games the Mountain team exhibited rare form, and the work of the men in the Gettysburg game elicited the appreciation and applause of rivals and friends. Several of the squad will be lost to the team in June, but as all the other members will return in 1916 to Emmitsburg, Mount Saint Mary's will doubtless have the best and most representative team in her history.

Mount Saint Mary's football men who won their "M" in the game with Gettysburg, met on Saturday and elected John L. Sheridan, of Troy, N. Y. the captain for next year's Varsity eleven. The vote was unanimous in favor of Sheridan and a just recognition of his valuable services to the team during the season just closed. Sheridan did not play with the Mountain team during the entire season on account of parental objections. Troy relenting, however, the Trojan entered the contest again, and from that time the Emmitsburg lineup was considerably strengthened.

Sheridan should pilot one of the best elevens in the State next fall. Whatever may be said of the poor showing at the beginning of the season, the team certainly developed rapidly towards the close. Starting the fall campaign with only four veterans and handicapped by the lack of experienced players from last year's layoff, the Mountaineers made as good a showing as could be expected. Two decisive defeats were inflicted on them at the hands of St. John's and Johns Hopkins, but after that the team took a decided brace. Green matter developed rapidly and a star or two would rise out of every contest. It was then only a matter of unification and better team work. In the Delaware and Gettysburg contests the men displayed rare form, and had they obtained the breaks in those games the score would have been on the right side of the ledger for Mount Saint Mary's.

Captain Carroll, Dwyer, Kelley, Talbot, Haltigan and Long played their last game on Saturday for the Mountain team. These men are members of the class of '16. Only the first two were on the Varsity lineup in the closing game of the season. The entire back-field consisting of Sheridan, Killgallen, Mullaney and Cashman should be intact in 1916 together with Stohlman, tackle, Mulhearn and Miller, guards, Zitzman, center, Allen and Cahill, ends, and Grimes and Rodgers in the backfield. This nucleus with the addition of the reserve squad and material from Coach Cogan's juniors will undoubtedly give Mount Saint Mary's one of the best teams in her history.

The close of the Varsity football season was marked by a "battlette" on Echo Field between Captain Kinchley's Cogan-coached eleven and Michael Fesenmeir's famous little fellows. The teams were well matched, seventy-eight pounds of pep and poise being evenly divided. For forty full minutes they tore and tumbled, and showed the Varsity what they would do to Delaware and Gettysburg. They had real regulation uniforms, wore big numbers on the backs of their jerseys, knew all about the signals, and at forwards passed the pigskin in a way that showed they knew the game. The speedy little ends received the ball and clung to it, as someone used to say, with the tenacity of an octopus. It was all very engaging and very exciting. A picture man from Westminster was there, and he went away with his pocket full of films.

Mr. Cogan has coached the minims all season. He is full of enthusiasm himself and knows how to pass it on. Every day he has had a large squad at work on the field, but no one knew until Sunday what wonders he had worked with the wee ones. His first team on the junior side has closed the season without sustaining a single defeat. Any high school in the country would have reason to be proud of them. No wonder there's a fine new building going up for the minims on the junior side.

CHAMMOIS SKIN DANGEROUS FOR STRAINING GASOLINE.

Liability to Generate Enough Static Electricity to Explode Liquid.—Grounded Funnel Makes It Safe.

"It is a strange fact that not one motorist in a dozen knows that he is literally taking his life in his hands when he pours his gasoline through a funnel in which he has placed a chamois skin to act as a strainer," said Fire Chief Ross Brooks of Oklahoma before several city hall officials a few days ago in an impromptu lecture, unofficially entitled "Flirting With Death," in relation to what Chief Brooks considers that most fatal combination possible in the automobile world—that of straining gasoline through chamois skins.

Chief Brooks declared that the reason of the destruction to life and property so often resulting from the straining of gasoline was due to the fact that gasoline and chamois do not get along together, but are "incompatibles." Static electricity is formed by the friction of the gasoline passing through the chamois, which a careless motorist may generate into a spark, causing a frightful explosion, which has several times occurred in the midst of a party of motorists, and the cause of which has until recently remained a mystery. "So long as the funnel fits tightly into the mouth of the tank there is no danger," declares Chief Brooks. "That carries a ground which keeps the electricity from gathering into a dangerous amount in the funnel. But when the funnel is held in the hand, or is separated from the conductor, in this case the metal tank, it becomes charged with one of the most powerful and deadly agents in the world electricity. In many cases the motorist goes on his way, not knowing that he brushed elbows with death.

"Formerly somebody was supposed to have inadvertently struck a match, when these sudden explosions occurred, but now investigation shows that the true reason is due to the fatal oversight of using the chamois skin in a suspended funnel.

"The moral of the whole thing is, never, under any circumstances, put gasoline through a chamois skin. The danger always exists, for electricity is a peculiar agent and it is an impossibility to know when the funnel being used so innocently by the ignorant motorist has received its maximum capacity of the static current."

St. Cecilia's Club Entertains.

The members of the "St. Cecilia's Club" of St. Euphemia's School rendered an entertaining and well-prepared program, on Monday afternoon at three o'clock, in commemoration of the feast of St. Cecilia, patroness of Ecclesiastical Music.

The following programme was received by an appreciative audience consisting of Rev. J. O. Hayden, the Sisters of Charity and a select number of pupils: Hymn, St. Cecilia's Class; Duet, Le Depart, Misses M. Welty and M. Jennings; Handel, Reading, Miss Francis Kerrigan; Song, "The Irish Doll," Miss M. Spalding; Innocence, Miss Helen Rider; Duet, Il Corricolo, Misses M. Saffer and E. Mitchell; St. Cecilia, Reading, Miss Agnes Rosensteel; Fairy Pool, Schottische, Miss Dorothy Roddy, Salut A Pesth, Marche Hongraise, Miss M. Saffer.

Following this delightful intertainment, Father Hayden congratulated the members of the club and expressed the wish that these musicals might be continued. In this he was joined by the entire audience.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

Resume of Events as They Happen Throughout the Various Districts.

The expenses of the Republican party in the past election, according to the statement of Millard N. Nusz, treasurer of the Republican County Central Committee, were $3,161.33. The expenditures equalled the receipts, so that there are no outstanding obligations.

Much damage was done to the lines of the C. & P. Telephone Company, in the wind storm of Thursday and Friday. It is reported that hail fell in the vicinity of Yellow Springs and Lewistown. Not only did the storm do damage in Frederick county but in Washington county it wrought much havoc to telephone and telegraph lines.

The Ford automobile of Chester Joy, of Graceham slid from the highway at "death curve" west of Braddock Heights on Sunday and turned turtle. The occupants of the car, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Joy and three children, and Mr. Hubert Joy, were pinned beneath the machine for about ten minutes. The accident was caused by a break in the steering gear. The entire party escaped with a few bruises and cuts.

A medical survey will be made of the schools of Frederick county by a department of the United States government, according to information received Monday. This survey will be made without any expense to the county. It will be conducted to reveal the exact physical conditions of the children who attend schools in this county. This is the first medical survey to be made in any county in Maryland. Dr. Taliford Clark, of Washington, will inaugurate this work.

Acting on the suggestions and recommendation of the grand jury to the effect that the basement of the Court House was in an unsanitary condition the county commissioners have awarded a contract for the installation of new equipment in the basement lavatories. The contracts for the work were given to Edward Ebert, Frederick.

One of the land marks of Frederick, the Episcopal graveyard, a family burying ground of the most famous personages of Maryland, was on Monday sold to G. L. Hughes. The plot where until about two years ago the first governor of Maryland, Governor Johnson, rested, will soon be utilized for commercial purposes. Some of the largest plants of this section may be located on this ground.

The Grammar School pupils of Frederick city and county, boys and girls, are asked to decide what are "The Five Best Things in Frederick," and the High School Students of Frederick and the county, "The Five Greatest Needs of Frederick." Prizes, amounting to $25, which will be given by The Frederick News, will be awarded to those who send in the best answers. The following prizes are offered for the best letters sent in by the grammar school pupils:

- For the best letter, $4.
- For the second best letter, $2.
- For the six next best letters, $1, each.
- For the best answers from High School students, these prizes are offered:
- For the best letter, $5.
- For the second best letter, $3.
- For the five next best letters, $1 each.

The contest will close at six o'clock P. M., December 10. All letters must be received by that time to be eligible.

Plans are being laid by the Anti Tuberculosis Society of Frederick county, for the observance of Tuberculosis week and the sale of the Red Cross Christmas seals. Last year $2,320,000 was realized from the sale of the seals throughout the United States.

The recent election cost the Democrats in Frederick county $3,205.34 according to the report of John W. Humm, treasurer of the Democratic county central committee.

In compliance to orders from Col. Charles A. Little, commanding officer of the First Infantry, calling for an election of First and Second Lieutenants, F. Lester Smith and Paul E. Marsh were elevated to these offices at a meeting of members of Company A in Frederick, Monday night.

New Troop At Thurmont.

Rev. S. E. Rose, pastor of the M. E. church, of Thurmont, and also pastor of the M. E. church, this place, is organizing a boy scout troop in Thurmont. About twenty-five boys have already expressed their willingness to join the proposed troop.

Buffalo is to have a new high school to cost $705,998.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

A PUBLIC DUTY.

If some of the thousands of persons who protest in horror against the death of a malformed infant in Chicago will now display as much interest in preventing deaths of thousands of perfectly formed children through carelessness and poverty, the brief life of the Bollinger baby will not have been in vain.

The above advice of the Philadelphia North American is timely. There are any number of neglected children—adults, for that matter—in the cities who could have been helped physically had a little bit of thoughtfulness, a little public interest a little bit of generosity been displayed before it was too late. To foster this care, this interest, there used to be a law in Paris (no doubt it obtained until the outbreak of the War) that no malformed child should appear upon the streets.

Even cities of limited population have splendid free hospitals nowadays, on the staffs of which are surgeons of undoubted skill. There is no excuse, therefore, for much of the suffering or the many cases of neglect that are literally foisted upon the public. There is also much need of thoughtfulness, as the North American suggests, for children who are perfectly formed and who, through absolute carelessness, are allowed to become invalids, chronic sufferers or worse. Both classes need the sympathy and attention of the public—of the public authorities in particular. May the Bollinger case hasten this interest.

THE MARSHALL CASE.

Just such crimes as that of which the Marshalls in Talbot county are guilty makes the thought of lynching come uppermost in men's minds—even men who, under ordinary circumstances, are sticklers for the "due process of law." To discover a system of mental torture, starvation and general inhuman treatment of the kind inflicted upon the Marshall girl; to catch the culprits "red handed" and on the very scene of action and to refrain from administering summary and severe punishment calls for a high order of self-restraint. This the neighbors of the unfortunate girl and the populace of St. Michaels must possess. Perhaps they are to be commended for it; but the facts surrounding the case depict a phase of cruelty so rare, so abhorrent to every human instinct, so counter to all that is normal that one must conclude that the parents of the unoffending, helpless victim (the word parent seems debauched in its use in this connection) are either mental and moral degenerates or wilful fiends. In the one instance pity, though begrudgingly bestowed, should no doubt be manifested toward the perpetrators; in the other, the wish, the devout hope, that their punishment may be of a kind similar in every way to that imposed upon Grace Marshall, must inevitably arise in the hearts of all who have read the pitiful tale.

"If President Wilson should call for troops today I could recruit an entire army in every one of the 435 congressional districts before this time next week, and there wouldn't be any question of Democrats or Republicans or Bull Moose, but only which would enlist first," says the Hon. Champ Clark. There you are! Some recruiting officer, that Champ. What wouldn't Kitchner give him were he to lend his services to England. That being out of the question, why not a U. S. Preparedness Bureau with the redoubtable Speaker as Field Secretary?

THE family and friends of the little winner of the essay medal in the Maryland Week contest, no doubt feel very proud. By every right they should feel proud. And so should the teachers of the Emmitsburg Public School. Miss Rowe is heartily to be congratulated in carrying off the prize, and Emmitsburg district is also to be congratulated in having among its school pupils a scholar of Miss Rowe's ability; especially one who is withal so modest.

GERMAN spies in every fact'ry, Teuton agents everywhere, aggravating acts and threat'nings like "resent it if you dare"! These are things that make the blood boil when the situation's bared, but we've got to grin and take it, just because we're unprepared.

STONE is being hauled into town for repairs to the State road—a good opportunity to secure a sufficient amount to level up some of the holes in our streets. They need at least some attention. The best evidence of this is just after a rain.

"H. P. EARL of Toledo, recently fell heir to an Alsace estate said to be worth $11,000,000"—Equal to about 30 cents at the present rate of Alsace exchange.

A DOUBLE and a mutually beneficial purpose would be served should the warring nations secure bums instead of bombs in this country.

DID you really give thanks? Or did you stuff yourself full of turkey and mince pie and talk about your neighbors?

"PROBLEMS In Pork"—How to make the contents of the bar'l go round among the "faithful," probably.

"IN Wielieka, near Cracow, there are houses all made of salt"—A Lot of pillars, no doubt.

"ROBBED In Market"—Common occurrence, isn't it?

Trivial Annoyances. It is surprising how trivial are the annoyances which suffice to make some men miserable. A lump of soot falling on a man's linen, a beefsteak overdone, losing a railway train by forty seconds after running himself out of breath, a visit from a bore when he is overwhelmed with cares, the rasping of his nerves by a hand organ when he is weary, inclined to headache or trying to sleep; even the want of a pin or a shirt button flying off at an unlucky moment, as when he is dressing for a dinner party and has scant time in which to do it—all these are annoyances which sorely try a man's patience and chafe and vex many a person more than a serious misfortune. Alexander Smith goes so far as to say that if during thirty years all the annoyances connected with defaucating shirt buttons alone could be gathered into a mass and endured at once it would be misery equal to a public execution.—New York Telegram.

Water and Pure Water. Pure water is nothing more or less than a chemical curiosity. Even when distilled it cannot rightly be considered perfectly pure. Mineral matter is the most common foreign substance found in "Adam's ale." This is largely owing to the fact that all water passes through rock and soil at some time or other. In moderate quantities these mineral salts are quite desirable, as they are particularly needed for our bones and muscles. When water is distilled these mineral substances become detached; hence distilled water is useless for drinking. But if more than a hundred grains of such salts as magnesium or sodium sulphate are contained in a gallon of water it should then be regarded as a mineral beverage rather than a good drinking material. The importance of water can be well realized when we consider that the very elasticity of our muscles, cartilages and tendons is due to the amount of water that these tissues contain.—Pearson's.

Ghost of the Castle. Hurstmonceaux castle, about the "restoration" of which antiquaries appear to be perturbed, is strictly a fortified mansion—what Cromwell called "a strong house"—rather than a castle and probably the only English stronghold since Roman times that was built of brick. It once possessed the tallest and noisiest ghost in Europe. He was nine feet high and used to stride along the battlements on stormy nights beating a big drum. Some kill joy skeptic seems to have discovered that this ghost was really a gardener signaling to Pevensey smugglers, with whom he was in league. Whoever he was, he achieved dramatic immortality through being introduced into a play by Addison.—Westminster Gazette.

The Marriage Yoke. The dull boy in the class unexpectedly distinguished himself in a recent history examination. The question ran, "How and when was slavery introduced into America?" To this he replied:

"No women had come over to the early Virginia colony. The planters wanted wives to help with the work. In 1619 the London company sent over a shipload of girls. The planters gladly married them, and slavery was introduced into America."—Youth's Companion.

Charles Lamb and May. Charles Lamb did not like May. Here is a fling of his against the merry month: "I do not mind the utmost rigor of real winter," he wrote to Bernard Barton, "but these smiling hypocrites of May wither me to death. * * * What lies you poets tell about the May! It is the most ungenial part of the year, cold crocuses and cold primroses; you take your blossoms in ice—a painted sun—"

"Unmeaning joy around appears, And nature smiles as if she sneers."—Westminster Gazette.

Evidently He Was. "Larceny" was the word given out, and one man taking the examination tried to peep at the next man's paper to see how he spelled it.

"What are you up to?" demanded the examiner sharply. "I don't quite understand the word, sir." "I think you did understand it. And, furthermore, I think you are trying to use it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

DUST CLOUDS OF ALASKA.

Volcano Ashes Make the Hills Appear to Be Snow Clad.

As we approached Kodiak strange dark clouds were seen obscuring the horizon at several points, one of which was so heavy and black that it resembled smoke from a great forest fire. Captain Jensen startled us by explaining that this was dust blown by the stiff breezes from the lofty hills all about us. These hills seemed covered with snow, but the whitish deposit proved to be ashes rained down several feet deep upon all this section during the eruption of Mount Katmai in June, 1912. Katmai is still smoking.

The sun looked like a dull silver dollar as it shone through the ash mist. The dust cloud was so thick that it held our steamer up for four hours until the way was clear. Passing your hand over the rail of the boat, you found your fingers streaked with the impalpable gray powder. When we landed at Kodiak we found piles of soft gray ashes and large and small pieces of light, friable stone, like pumice stone, which had been thrown out by the volcano. The explosion of the volcano was heard at Valdez, 400 miles away from Kodiak, and sounded like a cannonading. It was followed by a head-ache of fine ashes in Valdez.

In Kodiak the ashes covered everything. They half buried Colonel Blodgett's big cannery on the dock and put him temporarily out of business. They completely filled up a pond four feet deep which had been the skating resort for many years of the children of Kodiak.—John A. Sletcher in Leslie's.

CORE OF THE EARTH.

Its Form a Mystery, but the Globe, as a Whole, Is as Rigid as Steel.

The theory that the crust of the earth is only a few miles in thickness and rests upon an intensely heated molten interior is no longer tenable. It is now known that the earth, as a whole, possesses a high degree of effective rigidity, as great as if it were composed throughout of steel. It is no doubt true that the interior of the earth is in an intensely heated condition and that it appears to possess some of the qualities of a fluid. At the same time it behaves in many respects as a solid.

Professor Milne concludes from the velocities of seismic waves at different depths that the materials and general characters of the crust of the earth that are found at the surface may extend to a depth of about thirty miles, but beyond that the material seems to merge into a fairly homogeneous nucleus. This state probably extends to a depth of six-tenths of the radius, but the remaining four-tenths form a core which differs in its physical and possibly its chemical constitution from the outer portion. What the state of this nucleus is must be a matter largely of conjecture until we have a fuller knowledge of the state of matter when subjected to the vast pressure such as exists within the earth's interior.

Additional evidence that the earth, as a whole, is at least as rigid as steel is furnished by a study of tidal phenomena and also by the variation of latitude.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Squaring the Circle.

The origin of the problem squaring the circle is almost lost in the mists of antiquity, but there is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews. There is also a claim, according to Hone, that the problem was solved by a discovery of Hippocrates, the geometer of Chios—not the physician—500 B. C. Now, the efforts of Hippocrates were devoted toward converting a circle into a crescent, because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radiuses in a circle is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of junction. This is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates" and is, like glauber salt out of the philosopher's stone, an example of the useful results which sometimes follow a search for the unattainable.

A Bearded Freak.

One of the earliest of the American bearded freaks was Louis Jasper, who lived in southern Virginia at about the time of the close of the Revolutionary war. His beard was nine and a half feet long and correspondingly thick and heavy. He could take his mustache between his fingers and extend his arms to their full length, and still the ends of the mustache were over a foot beyond his finger tips.

Appealed to Him.

"I liked the rotunda of the capitol at Washington," said the fat man. "As to why in particular?" "It was several hundred feet in diameter, one of the few apartments I was ever in where I didn't feel that I was taking up too much room."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Barbados.

Agriculture is the chief pursuit in Barbados, and without doubt the island is the most intensely cultivated spot in the West Indies. Sugar is the chief crop and has been from time immemorial; tobacco is grown slightly, fruit hardly at all.

Severe Critics.

Alice—I like Tom immensely, and he's very much the gentleman, but he does like to talk about himself! Grace—Yes, dear, your knight hath a thousand 's.—Boston Journal.

The Result.

"His wife made him." "She did, and when she tried him on the community she found he was a misfit."—Baltimore American.

CHANGED ONE LETTER.

How a Serious Political Crisis in Canada Was Averted.

At the period when British Columbia was threatening to withdraw from the Dominion of Canada because the Carnarvon settlement had been ignored by the Mackenzie administration the late Lord Dufferin took part in a public function in Quebec.

While the procession was moving through the principal streets a gentleman, breathless with excitement, hurried up to his excellency's carriage to say a "rebel" arch had been placed across the road so as to identify the viceroy with the approval of the disloyal inscription thereon.

"Can you tell me what words there are on the arch?" quietly asked Dufferin.

"Oh, yes!" replied his informant. "They are 'Carnarvon Terms or Separation.'"

"Send the committee to me," commanded his excellency. "Now, gentlemen," said he, with a smile to the committee, "I'll go under your beautiful arch on one condition. I won't ask you to do much, and I beg but a trifling favor, I merely ask that you alter one letter in your motto. Turn the S into an R—make it 'Carnarvon Terms or Reparation'—and I will gladly pass under it."

The committee yielded, and eventually Dufferin contrived to smooth over the difficulties and to reconcile the malcontents.

SENSES OF TREES.

Something Almost Human in Some of the Plants' Actions.

Mr. James Rodway, who is the curator of the British Guiana museum and an eminent botanist, declares that plants have at least three of our five senses—feeling, taste and smell—and that certain tropical trees smell water from a distance and will move straight toward it.

But trees not in the tropics can do as well. A resident of an old Scotch mansion, says a writer in the Scotsman, found the waste pipe from the house repeatedly choked. Lifting the slabs in the basement paving, he discovered that the pipe was completely encircled by poplar roots. They belonged to a tree that grew some thirty yards away on the opposite side of the house.

Thus the roots had moved steadily toward the house and had penetrated below the foundation and across the basement until they reached their goal, the waste pipe, 150 feet away. Then they had pierced a cement joining and had worked their way in long, tapering lengths inside the pipe for a considerable distance beyond the house.

There seems something almost human in such unerring instinct and perseverance in surmounting obstacles.

And Yet They Say Authors Are Poor.

Authors may not now spurn the offer of money for their work, but they really do sometimes fall to cash checks, according to the cashier of the Century company. "I don't know what they do with the checks," he said in complaint to a friend the other day, "unless they frame them. Though acknowledgments have proved the receipt of the checks, I am always carrying on the books corresponding accounts that I can't close up for months, sometimes years. I remember especially one check issued to a famous actor and author. He died a number of years ago. The check was made out anew to the estate. Still it is uncashed. There is more than one author I'd bless if he—it is usually he—would only go and get his money."

Ready For the Worst.

"A woman in a parish where I lived," said an English clergyman, "used each day to prepare herself for the worst. I was complimenting her one day on the extreme tidiness of the house even early in the morning.

"Yes," she said; "I always likes to 'ave my bedrooms done hearily, for, as I allus sez, you never knows what may 'appen. 'Ow soon one of the children may be brought 'ome in a fit or with a broken leg, and, as I allus sez, it don't matter what 'appens, so long as you've got a bedroom to put 'em into.'"—Cornhill Magazine.

Chivalry.

"Do you know," said the particularly well groomed and elaborately vivacious lady in the full bloom of her second youth, "that I have the most wonderful gardener in the world—the tenderest hearted not only of gardeners, but of men? He has always made me up a very special bouquet on my birthday and presented it to me in person. But ever since I was thirty—well, he's only given me a birthday bouquet every third year."—New York Post.

Heroes and Villains.

Our Daily Special.

We all like to see the stinger get stung.

Luke McLuke Says:

One reason why a woman knows that a man hasn't any sense is because he imagines that giving a baby things to eat is the way to feed it.

Some men try to butt street cars off the track and other men bring company home to dinner when their wives do not expect anybody. And the result is about the same as far as the men are concerned.

A boy imagines that it must be fine to be a man and not have to explain to your mother why you were out so late. But later on the boy gets married and has to do more explaining to his son's mother than he ever did to his own mother.

After a princess learns that Chopin is "Chopang" and the Cello is "Chello," she is amazed and shocked at the large number of common ignorant people to be found in this country.

You may not be able to hire or bribe a man to do a fool thing. But you can always get him to do it by daring him to do it.

Virtue is its own reward and honesty is the best policy. But if Ananias had been a truthful citizen he would have been forgotten the day he died.

We'll all pretend to admire a strong will, but wouldn't you hate to be married to one?

It is a cruel thing to say, but in most big cities Sunday is first day.

WHEAT SMUT INJURES QUALITY OF YIELD.

Should Be Controlled By Treating Seed With Formalin.

NICHOLAS SCHMITZ, Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Stinking Smut in wheat has proven itself to be a serious disease in many sections of the State, often causing as much as 25 or 30 per cent. damage, and a decrease in price of the wheat of from 10 to 15 cents per bushel is not uncommon. This smut spreads by the threshing machine and by otherwise handling the grain.

The treatment for Stinking Smut is simple. Before commencing the treatment, remove all unbroken "smut balls," and since these balls are much lighter than the sound grain, thorough fanning will usually do this. But if not, then the grain should be poured into a barrel of cold water and thoroughly stirred so that all the balls will come to the surface, where they can be skimmed off.

To treat the seed for this smut, buy from a druggist guaranteed formalin (40% solution of formaldehyde), and pour one pint of it into 40 or 50 gallons of water and mix thoroughly. This amount of solution should be enough for treating 40 or 50 bushels of wheat.

Spread the seed out thinly over a floor and apply the solution with a sprinkling can or with a spray pump throwing a fine spray. While the solution is being applied the grain should be stirred constantly with a hoe, shovel or garden rake, until every grain is thoroughly wet. About 3 quarts of the solution is required for 1 bushel of seed. After the grain is thoroughly wet, it may be put in a pile and allowed to remain for about 12 hours or more. A good plan is to treat the seed in the evening and let it lie in the covered pile until morning.

Treated seed may be sown the following day after it has been spread out to dry, or it may be thoroughly dried and kept indefinitely. If sown soon after treatment the drill should be set to sow from one-fourth to one-third more than for a normal seeding of thoroughly dry seed.

It must be remembered that a lot of smutted wheat will always leave some of the smut spores wherever it is placed, whether this be in bins or sacks. Therefore, treated seed should never be put back in bins or sacks which previously contained smutted seed. If it is necessary to place the seed back into infected sacks they should first be dipped into the formalin solution. Before sowing it is also advisable to thoroughly disinfect the drill by spraying with the solution. Seed treated with formalin is not poisonous to stock, but it is never advisable to feed it.

HAVE YOUR PULLETS IN SHAPE FOR WINTER LAYING.

ROY H. WAITE,

Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

It soon will be too late to get your pullets in shape for winter laying. A pullet started off in good shape just before cold weather sets in is pretty apt to keep on laying all winter if she gets at least reasonable treatment.

If, however, on the other hand cold weather strikes them before they are in shape to lay, they will have two things to do aside from laying, viz.: growing and maturing and also keeping warm. It is also well to keep in mind the fact that at this time natural feed is beginning to get scarce and that this is just the time the pullets require animal matter with which to finish out their bodies and start up the egg machinery. Bugs, worms and insects are not so plentiful, therefore, it is well to offer some animal feed as a substitute. If you cannot get anything else, commercial beef scrap can always be purchased. The following simple mash kept before them in hoppers or shallow troughs will help wonderfully to round the farm flock into shape:

Bran200 lbs.
Middlings100 lbs.
Corn Meal100 lbs.
Beef Scrap100 lbs.
Salt 2 1/2 lbs.

Much interest centers in the Maryland Week Club Exhibit Contest. Any organization in the State, such as, farmers' clubs, subordinate granges and local farmers' associations are invited to make a representative exhibit of all products for which premiums are offered in the Club Exhibit Class.

The prizes are: First, $150; second, $100; third, $75, and fourth, $50.

Several organizations have already requested of the Secretary, T. B. Symons, College Park, reserved space, and it is believed that this class of exhibits will excite more interest than ever before.

Every community should plan to be represented in this State-wide exhibition. Every farmer and home-maker should plan to attend the show and meetings.

The students living in the state of Pennsylvania, will be traced by local health officers, while the state health officials of New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia have been notified to look out for those residing in those states. The remainder of the students will be kept under observation for 10 days at Gettysburg. The patients have been isolated.

MT. ST. MARY'S ITEMS.

Messrs. Joseph and John Kelly are visiting in Waynesboro, Pa. The Oyster supper held at St. Anthony's last week was a marked success. It is with sorrow and regret that we make the following announcement: Our old and faithful friend Larry Dielman is about to abandon his home near the College. For the past few months Larry has been failing in health, and only a few days ago he was advised by his physician to give up the store-business. Larry has consented and will in the future make his home near Thurmont, with Mr. Frank Roddy. Larry will sell his personal property on Dec. 4th. In speaking to a reporter the other evening Larry was asked if he was going to play the flute on the hill side this Xmas. He at once replied: "If I am at all able you will hear me. WAR ORDER FOR EMMITSBURG.

Emmitsburg is to have a new industry, a munition plant. It is to be located on Turtle Run where a factory covering fifty-two acres will be built and in which there will be manufactured for the use of the Allies an invention of Admiral Bushman, retired. This invention, which has been passed upon by the Board of Strategy, of Harney University, is called by the originator of it the "Mud Marine." It consists of an explosive shell made of mud and turtle eggs. This shell is shot from a torpedo gun with force enough to propel it a distance of 96 1/2 miles under water, its object is to destroy the powerful submarines now being used by the Germans. The mud shell clouds the water, entirely enveloping the object attacked and on striking the vessel the eggs are released in such a manner as to make the submarine "turn turtle." Admiral Bushman is very reticent about his contract but admits that it involves a large amount of money. This amount, it is understood, will be paid by checks on various banks of Turtle Run.
