BALK AT MARRIAGE

English Nobility Reluctant to Talk Matrimony With Servian Prince

WARMLY GREETED ON VISIT.

Alexander Makes Great Impression For Himself and His People, but Rumor of a Wife Hunt Causes Many to Place Themselves on Guard Against Any Matrimonial Talk.

London.—Alexander, crown prince and regent of Servia, has been in England hunting a wife. It is rumored, as well as seeking political and financial assistance in recovering his country. He made a great impression and created a warm sentiment for himself and his people. But fathers with marriageable daughters, from King George downward, did not appear anxious to meet any matrimonial advances from the prince. He went to Buckingham palace and was entertained by the king and queen. Prince Albert was delegated to meet him at the station and to see him off when he departed. But Princess Mary did not come in contact with him.

The hesitation manifested by English fathers and mothers of high degree to an alliance with Prince Alexander is largely caused by the uncertainty of his ever sitting upon the throne of his father and the certainty of his living in constant danger of his life if he ever is able to return to Belgrade. It has taken some time for England to overcome its feeling of repugnance to the prince and his father, King Peter having always been held responsible for the murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga, whose deaths removed the obstacles in the way of his own accession, while Prince Alexander was blamed primarily for the assassination of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg. The prince's gallant conduct in the war and the general feeling in England that the British government was responsible for unwisely advising the Servian army to resist the invaders and hold out until the allies sent reinforcements have created a reversion of feeling in his favor.

The government took pains not to involve England in any way with the affairs of Servia except as relating to this war. The prince was the guest of Lord Kitchener, and at York House Prince Alexander met Sir Edward Grey, the secretary of foreign affairs, in a party which included the Earl of Derby and Walter Long, both members of the government. Sir Edward Grey was likewise present at the dinner given in honor of the prince by Lewis Harcourt on behalf of the government. The Marquis of Crewe, leader of the government in the house of lords, presided at this dinner. The Russian ambassador, the Japanese ambassador, the Belgian minister, the Portuguese minister, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Lord Kitchener, Arthur Balfour, Walter Runciman, Lord Robert Cecil, General Sir William Robertson and the lord chancellor were present.

Sir Edward Grey was also upon the platform at Victoria station when Prince Alexander, accompanied by Prince Albert and Lord Kitchener, arrived to take the train for the coast and embark for the continent. The foreign secretary of the British government did not entertain the prince regent of Servia at any official hospitality. And, although the prince regent was accompanied by his prime minister, M. Pashitch, they were not received or entertained by the British prime minister, Mr. Asquith.

Seldom has any visiting royalty ever received in England such a deputation of distinguished men in different walks of life as waited upon Prince Alexander at his hotel.

CHICKENS KNEW HER.

And Kansas Woman Had No Trouble Getting Them Back.

Wichita, Kan.—Mrs. John Matthews, residing on Kelly street, stopped abruptly in front of 312 West Third street one morning lately. Inside a chicken fence were many chickens. Among them were four large White Orpingtons. She observed them keenly.

"Those are mine," she said, satisfied, and then she sought out her husband. Together they went to city court and got out a search and seizure warrant. Then, in company with William Ballard, deputy marshal, they went back again to 312 West Third street, opened the chicken yard gate and walked into the pen.

A woman ran out on the back porch and demanded to know what business the party had in her chicken yard.

"Just came after my chickens," retorted Mrs. Matthews as she called to her "pets." The four big chickens ran up to her, and she picked them up.

"I had 'em marked with blue ribbons," she told the marshal as she lifted the feathers on the legs. Sure enough there were the ribbons!

"Yours!" said the deputy marshal. "But the judge will have to act before you can have them."

ODD TOWN IN IOWA

Farmers Consolidate Interests, Transact Business Profitably.

FOUNDED AND RUN BY THEM.

Though Built Fourteen Years Ago, When Railroad Was Constructed, Fernald Has Population of Only 100, but Air of Mutual Interest Would Please Any One.

Des Moines, Ia.—Out on the prairies of Iowa is one of the most novel towns of the country. There is no bickering between townspeople and rural residents, as is often the case. The farmers for miles around feel perfectly free to go to town without wearing starched shirts and collars. There is an air of mutual interest between town and country which would gladden the heart of any rural life expert. The reason for this is that the town is owned by the farmers themselves.

When he goes to town to buy a bar of soap or a new plow the farmer buys of himself, or rather he is a partner in the store. When he goes to the elevator he sells to his company the grain he has brought in. Perhaps his next stop will be at a bank owned and managed by the farmers themselves.

The town is named Fernald. All of its business enterprises are owned by farmers living within a radius of three or four miles. Though built fourteen years ago, when the railroad was built, Fernald has a population of only 100 and probably will not grow much larger in the years to come, because of the nearness of numerous other towns. But this does not mean that Fernald does not expect to grow and prosper. For the farsighted farmers who own the town do practically all of their trading there instead of patronizing mail order houses or buying in neighboring towns. In fact, the town is just a big social center for the whole community.

The town was founded by the farmers in order to avoid making long hauls in delivering crops to the railroad. A line elevator was built shortly after the town was founded, but it was not until about two years ago that it was purchased by a group of farmers operating under the name of the Farmers' Grain company. H. S. Fleagle, the farmer who put through the deal, was made manager of the elevator. The investment proved a wise one, for in the first year under the new management the elevator paid a profit of 95 per cent on the $5,000 capital.

The Farmers' Lumber company was organized by four farmers with a capitalization of $6,400. Mr. Fleagle also manages the affairs of this company and its $10,000 stock. Another enterprise founded by the farmers was the Farmers' Co-operative Mercantile company. After a brief period of competition the rival mercantile store was compelled to close its doors, leaving the management of the town and its business affairs entirely in the hands of the farmers themselves.

The town's founders then established the Farmers' Savings bank, with a capital of $10,000. The deposits have reached the $40,000 mark in three years. Mr. Fleagle's ability for management was recognized a third time when he was made vice president of the bank.

Fernald is in Richland township, in Storey county. Extensive use of tile has converted the ordinary prairie land into some of the most valuable farms in the state.

CONVICTS FIND NEED OF SAFE.

Sing Sing Welfare League Locks Up Its Treasures.

Ossining.—Charles Gendorf, wire tapper and secretary of the Mutual Welfare league of Sing Sing prison, has installed a big safe in the league quarters to hold the books and treasures safely from the fingers of league members who might forget the honor system and yield to temptation.

First Deputy Sergeant-at-Arms Lutz, for several weeks assistant to Peter Cullen, the sergeant and prison bridegroom, has resigned his post. Sergeant-at-Arms James Green, Cullen's successor, will appoint an assistant to succeed Lutz.

Horse Dislikes Cigarette.

Los Angeles.—A sensitive horse who has a dislike for cigarette smoke attacked Edgar Akers, aged twenty-five, of this city, and bit him on the right hand. Akers was smoking a cigarette near the horse, which was standing at the curb. With an angry squeal the horse seized Akers by the right hand. Akers managed to free his hand, but not until the horse's teeth had torn the flesh from the fingers.

Find Fossil Man In Mine.

Beckley, W. Va.—Miners digging in a coal mine of the East Gulf Coal company unearthed the body of a petrified man. The fossil is a perfect specimen of the human body. It was found several hundred feet below the surface.

SOLDIERS IMMORTAL.

They sleep beneath the daisied sod, And over them we strew White lilies with their hearts of gold And roses bright with dew.

They sleep beside their rusty swords, The blue coats and the gray, Till Gabriel blows the reveille Upon the Judgment Day.

They live within the nation's heart, Each gallant soldier-son Who fought with Lee the losing fight Or marched with Grant and won. They live in every silver star That glitters in the flag, From old Nantucket's light to cold Alaska's farthest crag.

For, lo! the dust of Dixie's dead And stern New England's slain Have filled the cracks in Freedom's wall And made it sound again; And every drop of blood they shed Before the cannon's mouth Cements the ties of brotherhood Uniting North and South.

—MINNA IRVING, in Leslie's.

AFTER ICY BATH HE WALKS IN UNDERWEAR

Fisherman Escapes Drowning, but Goes Four Miles Barefooted to Get Help.

Britton, S. D.—Compelled to walk a distance of four miles to the nearest farmhouse barefooted and clad only in his underclothing was the distressing experience of John Knaak, a Marshall county man, following a disaster which overtook him while fishing on Roy lake, some miles from here.

He was in a boat alone, and when he attempted to make his way to shore the boat, which it developed had been overloaded with nets, sank to the bottom, throwing him into the icy waters of the lake.

He managed to reach a nearby net stake and, clinging to it, divested himself of his rubber boots, oilskins and all his wearing apparel but his underclothes.

After resting for a time he started to swim to shore, some distance away. He reached shore in an exhausted condition, and when he had somewhat recovered himself he started on the painful four mile journey to the farmhouse for assistance.

MEN TALLER IN MORNING.

May Measure Half an Inch More After Breakfast, Marine Examiners Say.

Washington.—Men are taller in the morning than in the evening, medical examiners for the United States marine corps declare, and the applicant for enlistment who is of medium or small stature has a better chance just after breakfast to meet the height requirements than at any other time during the day.

The disks of cartilage between the vertebrae of the backbone yield considerably to the pressure due to the weight of the body when it is erect and expand themselves while the body is in a recumbent position.

This effect may amount to as much as half an inch in the case of a heavy man, of, say, five feet ten inches in height, according to the marine corps medical examiners.

Girl Born Blind Can See.

Lelighton, Pa.—Born blind, Miss Ida Friend now can see. She has passed her twenty-fifth year. Restoration came by an operation performed at the Wills Eye hospital, Philadelphia, Mrs. Eckley B. Cox, owner of many coal mines, bearing the expense. Surgeons say she ultimately will have excellent vision.

FATE PLAYS STRANGE PRANK WITH SAILOR

After Crossing Ocean In an Open Boat He Loses His Life In River

Lorain, O.—Ludwig Eisenbraun, a German sailor, who was drowned here recently in Black river, was treated very strangely by fate. Eisenbraun was the hero of one of the greatest feats in marine history, achieved when he crossed the Atlantic ocean in a nineteen foot dory.

After encountering furious storms at sea, facing death a score of times in his frail open boat, he lost his life when his hand slipped on an icy rope, which he was using to climb to the deck of a lake steamer on which he was a watchman, and fell back into the river.

On April 11, 1903, Eisenbraun sailed from Boston harbor in his dory, Columbus II. On Nov. 23 of the same year he decked his craft at Gibraltar. Once in a storm his boat was capsize, and he lost water and provisions. He righted the boat, and two days later was reprovisioned by a British steamer.

He steered his craft against a sleeping whale, and the aroused monster nearly capsized him. Eisenbraun had been a sailor on the great lakes for five years. He was forty-eight years old.

MUST RUN TO AVOID KILLING.

Court Rules It's Murder to Stand When Life Is Threatened.

Trenton, N. J.—In an opinion filed here recently by Chief Justice Gumere sustaining a conviction of murder in the second degree the supreme court says:

"A person upon whom an assault is made so violent in its character as to endanger his life or threatens him with serious bodily harm is not justified or excusable in standing his ground and killing his assailant if he can avoid the impending danger by retreating."

The case was that of Nunzio Di Maria of Harrison, who was sentenced to from twenty to thirty years in prison for shooting Frank Barber.

The charge of the trial court to the jury regarding the law of self defense was the only ground for reversal of the conviction. The instruction objected to was that the defendant had a right to save his own life.

Old Man Hobbles to Polls.

St. Paul.—An aged man limped into the voting booth of the Third precinct of the Sixth ward the other day. After he had marked a ballot William Casey, ninety-two years old, confided to the election judges that it was his thirty-fifth time for voting in St. Paul. Mr. Casey came to St. Paul in 1877.

"PLEASE DON'T ROB ME!" HIS PLEA TO BURGLARS

Jeweler Tries New Method to Keep Stock Intact—Has Appeal Published.

Paterson, N. J.—If there is any sporting blood in the veins of the industrious burglars who have made professional visits to Leon Friedmann's jewelry store here at regular intervals it is hardly possible that they can ignore their victim's final appeal.

Double locks, bars, burglar alarms and watchmen having proved equally futile, Friedmann decided to make a personal entreaty to the entire profession of burglars after a visit which cost him $2,000. He wrote this communication and caused it to appear in both the afternoon papers here, on the theory that an up to date burglar must read one of the two:

NOTICE TO BURGLARS. Gentlemen—Members of your profession have called upon us with great profit to themselves of late. We feel that we have done our share toward your support; therefore we would deem it a great favor if you would take your trade elsewhere in future, at least until we can recover from the many losses we have suffered in the past, all of which, unfortunately, are our own. Respectfully yours, LEON FRIEDMANN.

PHONOGRAPH IN BASEMENT.

Machine Sends Music by Cold Air Duct and Heat Registers.

Brazil, Ind.—H. E. Thompson when he wishes music at his home presses an electric button on the wall and from the cold air duct and the registers of the hot air furnace come in succession ten different selections, which are repeated until the electric switch is turned off.

The music is produced by a phonograph arrangement in the basement. A circular table is arranged with ten records around it, all moved by an electric motor beneath the table. In the center of the table, pointing upward into the air duct, is a large plaster of paris horn, which is connected with the reproducing mechanism. After a record is played a cork roller carries the needle to the next record.

VICTIM ON ENGINE'S FRONT.

Thompson Was Held There by His Clothes and Was Not Hurt.

Cedartown, Ga.—A peculiar accident happened at Greenway, six miles west of here. While crossing the railroad track Riley Thompson's buggy was struck by a passing freight train going about twenty miles an hour.

The buggy was torn completely up, the male escaping unhurt. The train stopped, the crew going back to hunt for the occupant of the buggy. They could not find him and came on into town.

Here they discovered Mr. Thompson hanging by his clothes on the front of the engine, none the worse for his experience.

QUIET PLACE FOR WEDDING.

West Virginia Couple Married Amid Mummies and Antiques.

Charleston, W. Va.—With an Egyptian mummy as their only attendant and with thousands of antiques as the background Miss Laura Collins and Isaac Thompson, both of Comfort, Boone county, were married in the state department of archives and history by the Rev. A. J. Larabee of the Church of God, Winfield.

Asked why they chose such a peculiar place for the ceremony, the couple declared it was at the suggestion of the minister, who proposed a quiet place.

JOKE A SLOW BOOMERANG.

Recipient of Note Takes Up Matter and Clerk Loses Job.

Winsted, Conn.—Linus A. Hill, for seven years a clerk in the postoffice in Wallingford, seven months ago sent a letter to a town official calling attention to the fact that the "town clock was on strike."

Hill inserted the joke in a franked envelope. The recipient took up the matter with the postoffice department at Washington, with the result that Hill has been dismissed.

Finds Oxen Handy.

Findlay, O.—The twentieth century rapid mode of traveling by the automobile has nothing on Winfield S. Rader of McComb. He owns a team of oxen, and with them he does nearly all his farm work. Within the past few weeks the team has pulled eight automobiles out of the mud near Rader's home.

Four Children in a Year.

Bristol, Tenn.—Mrs. Rufus Jones of Dante, a coal mining town in Russell county, has the distinction of having become the mother of four children within twelve months. In March, 1915, twins were born to her, and on Feb. 29, this year, twins were again born to her.

400 NEAR AN END

Fast Heading to Extinction, Says Mrs. Herbert Parsons.

BRAINY PEOPLE TOO BUSY.

Dull Ones Unable to Keep Game Going, and as a Result Dynasty is Tottering, Declares Congressman's Wife. Sees Only Fortune Hunters Among Satellites.

Chicago.—After Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons of New York, wife of Herbert Parsons, New York representative, and daughter of Henry Clews, financier, hurried back home, Chicago society folk were wondering if she really meant what she said in an address here recently before the City club.

Mrs. Parsons said society—the Four Hundred—was fast heading to extinction. She advised sociological murder for "society," and, as a matter of fact, she said the homicidal process was already well on the way.

As if that were not enough, she gave it a name which should slay it forthwith if it is subject to mortal wound. She didn't once mention "parasites," but she called it the "gynocratic class"—a woman bossed conclave, on whose bepowdered petticoats clung a few uninteresting men fortune hunters and an even less ambitious male contingent, who cultivated society for the bare sake of the meals involved in being asked out to dinner.

The crumbling of the dynasty she attributed to the following: That people with brains no longer have time for it; ergo, it is losing leaders.

That, being a female organization in the beginning, it would no longer have cohesion when the little talent it possessed to amuse finds vent in woman suffrage, club life, business or sociological work.

The younger girls are demanding the right to select their own mates; therefore they will not frequent "society" where the men are uninteresting.

That an economic age is fast making it intolerably ridiculous.

Mrs. Parsons displayed the humorous deformities of her subject so general at first that her audience, consisting numerous of "society's" limbs, forgot to get angry and was soon laughing heartily—at itself. One or two dowagers got fussy up and left with husbands, who were red and seemed unhappy.

"The society group of any American community," Mrs. Parsons said, "is composed of persons sufficiently desirous to be in the group to pay the entrance fee, so to speak. Comparatively few persons can belong to society without having some source of revenue. Now and then in the larger cities may be found men who get their living by being in society.

"Conspicuous waste is a desideratum if not a requisite of a stable social position. For real estate men, brokers of various kinds, house decorators, architects, portrait painters and drawing room musicians it is good, sound business to be in society.

"Many smart society women eschew love altogether. They are like the saloon keeper who does not drink. But they will flirt, for flirtation means retainers, and retainers mean prestige.

"Prudent lovers withdraw as far as possible from society. Elderly matchmakers delight in nothing so much as trading in the marriage market, and young and tractable hearts are their counters. Therefore they suffer the courtship."

THEIR "AT HOME" IN JAIL.

Bride and Bridegroom Accused of Not Telling Truth About Ages.

Hart, Mich.—Albert White a wooing went—the all the way from Colfax township, Oceana county, to Battle Creek. Now he's back and with him the bride he won, but they spent their "at home" period in the Oceana county jail.

Their offense against the peace and dignity of the state, as formally alleged, was that they didn't tell the truth about their ages when they got their license to wed.

The banana peel in the path of love was an angry mother. Albert slipped up and dragged down his bride when Mrs. Mary Decker, who objected to Mamie getting married, heard that the girl swore she was eighteen when she was seventeen, as her mother reckons it. White, who gave his age as twenty, is said to be nineteen.

The families lived on adjoining farms in Colfax. Decker and his family moved to Battle Creek last August.

Thieves Stole House.

Deer Park, Wis.—Herman Larson purchased a farm in the vicinity of Frederic, in Polk county, and last summer built a house there and made preparations to move on the property, which he had been renting to neighbors. The other day he went up to Frederic ahead of his family, expecting to put things in readiness, when he found that the house had been carried off by thieves.

Game Law Violators Fined.

Sixteen persons were arrested by County Constable Deater and fined $10 each, by Justice Eckstein, charged with seining and unlawfully fishing in the county.

The prosecutions were made at the instance of the Frederick County Game and Fish Protective Association which was organized in Frederick city last fall. It is the object of the association to prosecute all offenders of the law and wherever a violation is heard of a warrant for the arrest of the guilty person will be sworn out and placed in the hands of an officer. For years violations of the fish law in various sections of the county have passed unnoticed, but since the organization of the Protective Association the law will be rigidly enforced.

Bishop Corrigan Confers Minor Orders.

The final conferring of minor orders on students of St. Mary's Seminary, Paca street, near Franklin, Baltimore, took place Wednesday in the seminary chapel. Bishop Owen B. Corrigan officiated. He elevated 57 students to the clerical state, conferred minor orders on 47, raised nine to the subdiaconate and five to the diaconate.

Mr. Maurice Boland of Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, was among those who were ordained to the priesthood.

Call For Bird Count Volunteers.

The third annual bird count of the United States will be made by the Bureau of Biological Survey of the department during the breeding season in May and June. In making this survey the bureau will rely largely on persons interested in bird life who agree to act as volunteer enumerators and count the different kinds of birds found in a 40 or 80 acre farm or woodland tract near their homes. The counts thus made by unpaid observers during the last two summers have furnished to the department valuable data on the character, number, and distribution of the bird population.

National Defense and International Peace

Preparedness and Peace and the Engineer

THE United States desires peace, based on justice and maintained with honor. But to insure this kind of peace Americans must know that nations are now defended not alone by fighting men, but by fighting industries.

The Engineers of this country, trained as only American Engineers are trained, hold that truth to be as fundamental as the law of gravity. With the authority of the United States Government more than 30,000 Engineers and Chemists, members of five eminent American scientific bodies, are making for the first time in the history of the Government a minute, sweeping survey of the industrial resources of America. They will go to the factories and mines of the land and with their sole method, efficiency, and their sole motive, patriotism, form a vast, flexible organization, such as the world has never known.

Their work will be the basis for creating in this country a true line of defense in time of war—the ability to produce swiftly, abundantly and with sustained power all the thousand and one elements of modern warfare. Without such production there can be no efficient army and navy.

Military Preparedness: wins the battle. But Industrial Preparedness wins the WAR! Industrial Preparedness involves no huge expenses. Only the KNOWLEDGE of what American industry can do. To KNOW the extent of each plant, the equipment of each shop, the capacity of each machine, the ability of each man. THAT is the essence of Industrial Preparedness. That is the task to which thirty thousand Engineers are pledged.

The Engineers' work will lay for all time the ghost of the "munitions trust" by making it possible to have munitions made in thousands of plants.

This vital work of the Engineers will supply the military authorities in Washington with information never before collected, and it is carried forward without a dollar's cost to the Government. And this advertisement is not paid for. The Associated Advertising Clubs of the World have prepared the copy and the publishers have patriotically responded and printed it without pay for the sake of National Defense and International Peace.

All Americans are asked to strike hands with the Engineers so that America shall learn how to raise up an impregnable wall of defense against a day of trial.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE-ACADEMY

Valley Echoes

Mrs. Loretta Muth Paul, of Catonsville, Md., gave a card party last week, the proceeds of which were added to the Federation fund.

Saturday morning at eight o'clock, a Month's Mind requiem Mass was offered for Mrs. Julia Kalbach Foster; the faculty and students assisted.

We regret that we do not hear more from the older members of the Alumnae. Any communication addressed either to the Secretary of the Alumnae or to the Press Correspondent of the Senior Class will receive space in this column from time to time.

Miss Minnie Hubert, Secretary of the Baltimore Chapter, was hostess at a benefit card party on the afternoon of Wednesday, May 17 and Mrs. L. Bruce Wolcott will receive the members of the same Chapter at her home the last week of May.

Miss Mallie Floyd Miller, '12, who has been spending some time with Mrs. Helen Brickell Ellis, New Orleans, was the guest of Miss Madeline Tuttle at her home on East Beach, Biloxi, Miss. Miss Tuttle is now teacher in one of the Mississippi schools.

"When Greek meets Greek" has no weight when Latin is in question. Now the import of the day is changed: "When Senior meets Junior in Latin." The test was conducted for two hours in the presence of the faculty, every one agreeing in an ex aequo report.

Commencement Week at "The Valley" promises to be the greatest since 1809. Yes, all the girls who were here last year are coming and each one has promised to bring several who failed to attend in 1915. Scarcely a month off, so hurry along the plans. "Here the land is nothing changed, the birds are singing still; the flowers are springing where we ranged, there's sunshine on the hill."

The Tau Sigma Sigma club entertained the school at a lawn party, given on the southwest campus on May eleventh. The evening was an ideal one, the majestic oaks and graceful maples afforded an attractive background for the pennant decorations; two victrolas furnished the dance numbers, the color scheme of the gowns rivalled the opaline tints of the setting sun; the tables were artistically arranged with roses, carnations and sweet peas, the refreshments were served in the daintiest style by French maids.

The merry trill of care-free girlish laughter, the splash of dripping oars on the sunlit, placid Creek, the wafted strains of music from victrolas, all blended to make a pleasant May-day. Saturday was our Retreat holiday, and it certainly was one such as can only be enjoyed by a St. Joseph's girl. The schedule permitted mountain climbs in the morning; one o'clock dinner at the Creek, boating, dancing on the lawn, refreshments of ice cream, cake and fruit in the afternoon; a buffet lunch at six thirty on the home campus. Various tennis sets and hand ball matches completed the order of the day. To the Third Academics must go the hearty thanks for the menus; their efforts in preparing the holiday festival were amply rewarded by the success of the event.

State Bankers in Convention.

The Maryland State Bankers' Association which began its annual session at Atlantic City Wednesday, is one of the largest conventions in point of attendance that has been known for several years. The selection of Atlantic City itself has insured a large gathering and the program is considered one of the best that was ever presented.

Among the representatives present are Joseph D. Baker, president of the Citizens National Bank, Frederick, and Milton G. Urner, President of Mt. Airy Savings Bank, Mt. Airy. Both of the Frederick countians will have a part on the program.

Blight Hits Peach Trees.

The blight known as "yellows" has made its appearance in some of the orchards of peach growers in the Blue Ridge mountain section and, judging from the rapid progress it is making in its spread, hundreds of trees are doomed to quick destruction.

John H. K. Shannahan, 73 years old, of Talbot county, died Saturday at the residence of his sister, Mrs. S. E. Jump. His death was caused by heart trouble.

"The Swiss Hero," by Arthur F. Smith, is an epitome of the inexhaustible flame of natural devotion to fatherland. This beautiful and descriptive operetta was skillfully rendered by the vocal class last Sunday night. Each selection was preceded by an analysis of the part rendered, thus greatly facilitating intelligent appreciation. The whole programme was an artistic combination of word painting and musical interpretation. The noteworthy feature was the clear, concise and charming manner in which the young ladies gave forth their best endeavors to the interested audience. Choruses were the burden of this composition, yet judiciously mingled with these were the plaintive, sympathetic, peaceful and jubilant solos of Hedwig, Bertha, Anna. The storm was a realistic reproduction of nature's powerful forces and it was in this important part that Miss Elizabeth Ewell, accompanist, manifested a careful and sympathetic insight. "The prayer of Peace" was sung with sincerity and seemed eminently fitting for the world today. The finale was a stirring patriotic and triumphal song in praise of Tell.

The Vestal play, "Patricia," was successfully given by the academic classes of Interpretative Reading, Thursday May 11. The manner in which the students portrayed this somewhat heavy drama is well worthy of commendation. Talent and careful preparation were evinced throughout and the histrionic abilities of the players warrant superior results for the future. Flavia, Octavia, Patricia and Empress Augusta were the leading characters. Miss Linthicum portrayed the villainous character of Flavia and revealed the duplicity and treachery for which she was known; in the final act grace touched her heart and brought her to God. Miss Lillian Long took the part of Princess Octavia, her graceful manner and clear enunciation gained praise on all sides. "Patricia," a docile child full of loyalty for the faith of Christ, was the heroine of the evening; Miss Frances Flynn the talented elocutionist admirably impersonated this character. The role of the Empress was taken by Miss Anna Mulholland who, with strenuous and haughty demeanor, fully displayed the hatred of the pagan Queen for the Christian faith.

The programme follows:

Piano Duo, March from Lohengrin, Wagner, F. Delone, A. Sheahan. Patricia.—Act. I.—Garden at Baja; Vocal Solo—Easter Morn, Shelly, M. Kraum, Violin, N. Miller; Act. II—Palatine Palace, Rome; Piano Duo, Edelweiss, Lange, Z. Bresnahan, M. Vickers; Act. III—Apartment of the Palatine Palace; Piano Duo, Le Sourire de Mai, Depret, op. II, F. Flynn, P. Connor; Act. Dry Forces to Open Headquarters Soon.

"The United Dry Forces of Frederick County," which will conduct an active campaign to make the county dry at the election next fall, will open headquarters in Frederick about June 1. While no location has been selected, the headquarters will likely be on Court street.

The executive committee has appointed J. Travers Thomas campaign superintendent of Frederick district. The various campaign districts include one or more of the county election districts. A committee will be appointed to look after the work in each campaign district under the direction of the superintendent. The work of the campaign will be directed from the central headquarters in Frederick.

Another Hotel For Hagerstown.

That a general hotel, of at least 75 rooms, and possible 100, and not a family hotel, as originally planned, will go upon the site of the Conner property West Washington street, Hagerstown, recently purchased by Clarence Keedy, Hagerstown, was the statement made by Mr. Keedy.

Big Crop Expected From Peach Belt.
 Blossoming time brought about much encouragement from the fruit growers of the great apple and peach belt of Pennsylvania and conditions in early May were very favorable for good crops according to figures just announced by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The May reports from the crop correspondents show that sixty-three per cent. of a normal yield of peaches can be expected throughout the State, but in Franklin, Adams, Cumberland, York, and Lancaster counties where a major portion of the peach crop is grown conditions are much better than a month ago and indications point to at least three-fourths of a normal yield.

Prospects for good fruit crops throughout the State are very bright. Cultivation and care of apple orchards has brought about an improvement and the May figures indicate 91 per cent. of a normal crop compared with 90 per cent. at this time a year ago. Indications for normal yields of other fruits are as follows: Pears, 88 per cent.; plums, 79 per cent.; cherries, 89 per cent.; and apricots, 74 per cent.

First Crop of Hay in County Mowed.
 The first crop of hay harvested in Frederick county this year has been cut by George Mort, Lewistown. Last Saturday Mr. Mort mowed comparatively a large crop of alfalfa. Neighboring farmers and travelers found considerable interest in the proceeding, because of the early season. The hay was stored in the barn on Monday prior to the beating rain, which followed on Tuesday.

MRS. McLEAN, PROMINENT LEADER DIES.

Daughter Of Late Chief Judge Ritchie, Of Frederick, And Former President-General of D. A. R.

Mrs. Emily Nelson Ritchie McLean, wife of Donald McLean and eldest daughter of the late Chief Judge Ritchie, died Friday at the Church Home and Infirmary, Baltimore, after an illness of more than six weeks. While her death was not unexpected, it was received with a feeling of sorrow by all who knew her.

Mrs. McLean was born in Frederick in 1852 and while her married life was spent in New York, where her husband is a well known attorney-at-law, she kept constantly in touch with the home of her childhood. She was educated at the Frederick Female Seminary.

Upon the formation of the Daughters of the American Revolution in 1890 she became a charter member and was elected regent of the New York Chapter. She held the office of regent for ten years until her election in April 1905 to the Presidency-General of the National Society.

Besides her husband she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John de B. W. Gardiner and Mrs. Edward A. Gill Wylie, of New York.

The following sisters and brothers also survive: Mrs. William H. Purnell, of Chicago; Mrs. William Bouldin, East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. William Floyd Seward, Miss Anne Meredith Ritchie and Mrs. Edith Scott, Washington; Mrs. Allen Richard Boyd, Philadelphia; Mrs. Daniel F. Banks and Mrs. Justus Dunott, Baltimore; Mrs. Albert Ludlow McKiel, in the West; Mrs. D. Charles Winebrener, Mrs. Samuel G. Duvall and Miss Willie Ritchie, of Frederick; Albert Ritchie, New York; John Ritchie, Washington, and Rodger Nelson Ritchie, in the West.

The funeral was held, Monday afternoon, at All Saint's Episcopal church, Frederick. Interment was made in the family lot in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Reformed Class Meet at Adamstown

The ninety-seventh annual meeting of Maryland Classis of the Reformed Church opened last night in Trinity Reformed Church, Adamstown, and will close on Monday evening. Rev. John D. Thomas is pastor of the church.

During the sessions the evenings will be devoted to educational, missionary and religious interests of the Reformed Church. The time intervening the devotional services will be devoted to the transaction of business. Rev. E. L. Higbee, pastor of the Reformed Church, this place, is attending the session.

Sixty Years In The Order

On Thursday, May 11, Sister Clotilda celebrated her sixtieth anniversary as a religious in the order of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul. She has been connected with St. Vincent's Female Orphan asylum in Albany, N. Y., for forty-five years. Sister Clotilda is a native of Scotland and was brought to this country when a young child. At the age of eighteen she entered the Order of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul at Emmitsburg, Md. During the Civil War she served as a nurse.

8,000 Notices to Furniture Owners.

Approximately 8,000 notices have been sent out by the county commissioners to residents of the city and county informing them to appear at the office of the commissioners and show cause why their household furniture should not be assessed under the Legislative act of 1916, which repeals the household furniture exemption act of 1914. Those who have acquired no furniture since 1914 need not appear, as they will be assessed at the former figures.

All Honor Sacred Dead.

"The entire nation lifts its hat on Memorial day to the revered dead; the entire nation lifts its heart to the Almighty who made and has kept the American people a nation. The entire country looks upon the wonderful outcome of the sad strife and marvels at the deeper purposes of Providence in the ordering of the life of the nation. Flowers will decorate all graves, flags will lift their miniature folds above them, prayers will sanctify these places of rest and rejoicing will place its crown upon the memories of the dead."

Brooklyn Bridge was 33 years old Tuesday. It has brought the city about $25,000,000 worth of revenue in nickels in that time. Since other bridges like it have been opened the revenue has not been so great. There are now so many bridges like Brooklyn Bridge that it has to be singled out for the curious stranger in New York.

Somewhere in France

"A volunteer is wanted to find the position of the enemy, who will answer this call?"

A tall young Frenchman, Jacques du Vairre by name, Lieutenant of the 4th Cavalry, stepped forward, saluted his superior and answered, "I will!"

"Will this war ever cease," mumbled old Suzanne as she made her rounds to see that the bolts were well fastened. Suzanne was all that was left to care for little Annette du Vairre, who had lost both mother and father during the past year, and whose only brother Jacques was now in the field.

"Click-click-click—Annette drew the bed clothes more tightly around her.

"Annette, don't be frightened, it's only Jacques!"

"Oh," cried Annette as she recognized Jacques' voice.

"Sh-do not speak so loudly, dear! Brother is out for his country and he must not be caught." You know the Germans are hereabout in great numbers.

"But I'm so glad you've come, Jacques."

"Yes I know, dear," he responded nervously, "I was worried about you, so I stopped in as I passed by; I've been successful, baby and—but I must not talk now. I'm glad you are alright, Annette, Good-bye; Mignonne, no one must know that I have been here, you won't tell any one, not even Suzanne. You'll promise me that, won't you Annette?"

"Yes, I promise not to tell any one! Good-bye!"

And then Jacques with difficulty tore himself away from his dearest treasure on earth.

An hour later Suzanne's voice awakened Annette with—

"O Annette, Annette! Wake up!"

"Here they are," said a gruff voice.

"Come along we'll get him." And six men filed into the room and began searching it.

"Where is that man, woman?" asked the captain.

"What man?" questioned Suzanne.

"That French soldier; you needn't try any of that innocent stuff with me."

"Mon dieu, no one has been in here, I swear it, sir! Don't you cry, Miss Annette."

"Well," he turned to Annette, "And what are you crying for? Guess you know who I mean," he said as he noticed the child's worried expression.

"Say men; search the house!"

"Deed sir,"

"Hush, woman! Now child, tell me where he is and I'll give you this new gold piece."

"I don't know, sir."

"Come, come child, tell me," he cried impatiently.

"I don't know, sir."

"You do know, and I'll make you tell me." He raised his gun as if to fire.

"Now tell me or I'll shoot," supplementing his words with the deadly click, click of the gun lock.

"I told you sir, I do not know."

"Captain we've search the house and he's not here. The snow is falling so fast that the tracks are covered and"—

Bang!!! In the dark bed room he had tripped over the rug and thus struck the captain's shoulder, discharging the gun.

"My God, man! is the child shot?"

A young German soldier rushed forward and took the little form into his arms.

"Good-bye, Jacques, I didn't tell—God—bles-y—" and the blue eyes closed forever.

ABOUT ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

The Weekly Chronicle desires to call attention once again to the fact that unsigned letters cannot receive attention from this paper. They cannot be printed, and it is obvious they cannot be answered. It is not sufficient to sign initials. In order to insure attention letters must bear the full name and address of the writer.

The Chronicle receives letters each week which it would be glad to print, except for the fact that the name of the writer is not known.

The name of the writer will not be published; it is required simply as evidence of good faith.

War Debt Still Increasing.

On August 1, according to a London financial expert, the debts and annual interest charges of the leading belligerents will be as follows: Germany, $16,000,000,000, carrying $762,500,000 interest; Russia, $15,000,000,000 with $725,000,000 interest; France, $14,600,000,000 with interest of $625,000,000 a year; Great Britain, $13,050,000,000, bearing $550,000,000 interest. In all cases the annual interest charge at the close of the war will not be far from the total annual expenditures, including interest, before the war occurred.

Several Mountain Fires.

Destructive mountain fires were raging in the vicinity of Winksville and in the third range of timber back of Ardenstville, Sunday burning over many acres of valuable timber and causing considerable loss. It was with extreme difficulty that the fires were gotten under control and finally extinguished.

Late Sunday night other large conflagrations were raging fiercely over large tracts of heavy timber in the vicinity of Goodyear and illuminated the heavens for many miles around.

The Country Editor is Close to the Life of His Community.

The country newspaper publisher more than any other man is the one whose finger is on the pulse of the community life about him, who hears the heartbeat of his neighbors, whether that heartbeat be in joy or in anguish, and who sees their tears of joy and of laughter.

It is these things that bring him close to the life of those about him, that give him a better understanding of men and give him the knowledge and the ability to help solve the problems that confront the community, be these problems matters for the individual or for his neighbors generally.

If the publisher or editor of the great metropolitan paper would know how the day of the country publisher is passed, let him read the following words from the Oakley (Kan.) Graphic:

This newspaper business is a great game. Just in the midst of an obituary of a dear friend, and when hot tears threaten to flow down and blot out the words you write, there breaks through the office door the radiant face of the daddy of a new boy. Tears and joy mingle in the same breath, and the giving and taking away of life are recorded on the same page.

Before you have finished the obituary the breezy advance man for a comedy show pops in and asks you to write a scream for his Forty Fat Frolicsome Fairies and how joyous they are. Before you have done with the kind words about your departed friend, the joy over the new baby and finished the showman's ad. a fellow sneaks in to ask you to suppress the story of the fight that he was mixed up in. Then after putting all the lace and trimmings on the bride's wedding gown, dressing the groom in the conventional black and starting them off with congratulations and best wishes, you turn again to the tear side of life and write, "But the stately ship moves on the haven under the hill, and, oh, for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still."

Then comes a lull, and the old typewriter is content to record the commonplace facts, knowing that just around the corner and each awaiting his turn stand Joy, Grief, Sorrow, Mirth, Sarcasm, Wit and Laughter.

Small wonder, then, that the newspaper man brings to his business a devotion that is not found in any other walk of life.—American Press.

Lutherans Plan For Picnic.

To make the plans for the annual Lutheran reunion at Pen-Mar on Thursday, July 27, the committee met at Gettysburg. Dr. G. W. Enders, of York, chairman for the past thirty years, presided at the session, and it was decided to invite several senators and congressmen to make the addresses, together with prominent Lutherans. The Loysville Band will furnish the music with a chorus choir and quartet. The full program is to be announced later.

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the production of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Lingano Hills and the Catocin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland—the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State—there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatched; the climate is notably healthful; its water—pure mountain spring water—cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary—with an enviable reputation extending over 106 years—is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies—equally as noted during its 105 years of splendid achievement—is also here.

There are excellent Schools—Public and Parochial—in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liverys, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites available. If you contemplate changing your place of residence—come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Each recurrence of Memorial Day brings a new meaning to the generation that is. Once there was a North, a South. Today these words but signify location, points upon the compass. Once these names of demarkation had linked to them in bitter association two colors—blue and gray. The mention of each or either stirred up a bitterness, keen and lasting. Today these colors recall but tender memories and noble deeds to intermarried sons and daughters of veterans who fought on either side. Once there were reunions under separate flags. Today there are real reunions an intermingling of Union and Confederate heroes, under one flag, and all recognizing but one country. And the hearts of those who are left—so few in number and with thinner ranks each year—beat in unison the name of "Brother." No longer are they brothers in arms—each a brother on his side—but brothers in the truer, the larger sense, brothers in unity of purpose and ideal, one in love of country and with a single hope and thought—that country's welfare.

Yes, all are brothers and on Memorial Day

"Over the new-turned sod
The sons of our fathers stand,
And the fierce old fight
Slips out of sight
In the clasp of a brother's hand.
For the old blood left a stain
That the new has washed away,
And the sons of those
That have faced as foes
Are marching together today.

Oh, the roses we plucked for the blue
And the lilies we twined for the gray
We have bound in one wreath,
And in silence beneath
Slumber our heroes today."

If the attitude of the State motor vehicle authorities is to be that of "get all you can, soak everybody who owns a car or truck or motorcycle every time you get a chance and on the slightest provocation," owners of these vehicles will be continually in hot water; they will be made to feel that they are common prey against whom there is a prejudice, and motoring will become a nuisance rather than a pleasure.

AND Roosevelt still stands in the spotlight, slambanging the monstrous base drum, loud shouting "this great country needs me," (his hearers remain deaf and dumb), but the greater the noise from his lung box, the longer the jibes from his pen, more insistent the verdict goes forward, "we don't want you, Teddy, again."

"EMBARGO Put on Macaroni."—Chance here for American ingenuity. Let's get a bill passed making it imperative to spell the name of that Italian staple, "Mc-Eroney" and then promote a Celtic company to manufacture it over here? We'll beat 'em at their own game.

SOON all college Daniel Websters will appear upon the stage, handing out big chunks of wisdom greater than in any age. Soon the girls, graduating, will in earnest tones essay, all the ills the world is heir to quickly to dispel away.

"In a German typewriter each letter is pointed out by a lever with the left hand, then printed by keys used by the right."—Aha! Now we know what caused all the delays in answering those American notes.

"ACCORDING to a Russian scientist excessive talking is a dangerous disease."—Usually fatal when done through the hat. It has been observed, too, that some say what they think and very many talk without thinking.

"CORK platforms have been invented to add to the comfort of traffic policemen in wet streets."—What loyal Irishman wouldn't feel more comfortable with a bit of the old country under his feet?

WHOEVER saw a deacon with a hot-box elbow from "passing the plate?" Or a church member, from overactivity in getting his coin in?

"CHILDREN'S spring coats are checked."—So are men's, but the difference is that men have to tip the girls for doing the checking.

LIVES of great men oft remind us, as the autos fly around, of the "joy rides" they are missing while they're sticking under ground.

WHAT has become of our German friend Jag-on—or is it Jagow?

"CAVALRY On Bandit's heels."—Some heels, those!

TRAINED ARMIES.

To a nation which depends for the most part upon raising its forces after the outbreak of war the length of time required to bring a new army to a state of efficiency is a fact of primary importance. For unless it has sufficient force to withstand the enemy until the new armies are capable of action it is doomed to defeat.

Our own history furnishes clear information on this point. During the Revolutionary War, although preparations on the part of the colonies began as early as 1774, with numbers greatly exceeding those of our opponents we suffered a series of defeats without a single victory, until the end of the year 1777.

The history of the first year of the War of 1812 does not disclose a single American victory. The uninterrupted series of victories to the credit of our army in the Mexican War were not won by untrained troops. In the Civil War not a single engagement of any magnitude was fought for a year after its outbreak. The minor engagements of the first year of the war, including Bull Run, do not justify the conclusion that material results can be accomplished with untrained troops.

In all these cases there elapsed a period varying from six months to one year before the troops were capable of effectively participating in active operations. This period may, therefore, be taken as the time required for converting our potential resources into actual power.

The present European war has brought out, perhaps more clearly than any previous conflict, the difference between potential resources and actual military power. It also throws some light on the process by which latent resources are converted into actual power.

As regards the potential element, this process may be summed up in one word: "training." It is evident to any one who has given the matter serious thought that any number of men assembled for action and armed with any weapon whatever do not necessarily constitute an efficient military force; hence armed mobs, even when their numbers were greatly superior, have always been helpless when confronting organized military forces. Only a force trained and disciplined for a long time is capable of the unified action necessary to success. This is the lesson taught by the present world conflict and our own military history.

GOOD ROADS THE GREATEST BENEFACATION.

(Contributed.)

Good roads are conceded by all to be one of the first requirements for a successful business and farming community. The building of an adequate system of public highways can not properly be regarded as merely necessary for the handling of traffic, but it is also essential for the prosperity of the people and the development of our country. Our present day civilization seems to follow good roads, just the same as our early settlers followed the streams which in those days carried the traffic. Good roads are the arteries of the life of a community, through which the current of traffic flows, and on their condition often depends the profit or loss to the manufacturer, business man and farmer. It is, therefore, highly important that the unsettled country be opened up and made more accessible, attractive and profitable by the extension of good roads.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission shows that the annual freight and express bill of the people of the United States is about $2,500,000,000. This is an average of about $125 for each family. Therefore, practically 20 per cent. of the total cost of living to the average family goes to pay freight and express charges, which clearly shows the greatest waste and loss to every family in the country. Good roads will reduce this unreasonable cost of transportation.

The Government is also peculiarly interested in public roads; good roads are most essential to the conduct of military operations. This recent operations in the European War have most forcibly demonstrated. Ad summa: good roads are a universal public benefaction.

Our school system is intimately bound up with good roads. The percentage of pupils attending schools located on bad roads is far below the percentage attending schools located on good roads. In fact, it has been demonstrated that in the States with improved roads the average daily attendance is 78 per cent. while in the States with unimproved roads it is only 59 per cent.; hence the whole system of common-school education may be revolutionized through the medium of good roads.

Frost Cracks.

In the annual lists of earthquakes registered at the Harvard seismographic station occasional shocks occurring in winter are noted as due to "frost cracks"—i. e., the sudden opening of fissures in the ground, resulting from freezing. The late Professor Shaler in one of his lectures mentioned the occurrence of a sensible shock at Cambridge some forty years ago, which he traced to a crack in the frozen ground. An apparent earthquake near Akron, O., probably due to a frost crack, was described in the American Geologist, Vol. 1, 1888, while another, which caused a mild panic at Attleboro, Mass., was reported in the Attleboro Sun of Jan. 23, 1903. Professor Woodworth says that "this idea of frost cracks is very widespread in New England as an explanation of many small shocks coming at a time when the frozen ground is known to have cracked open."—Philadelphia Press.

Your Old Age Pension.

The average man in this country is spending every dollar he earns, and the consequences are he is facing poverty. It is an everyday occurrence to hear of some man who in his younger days had saved money dying penniless in his old age. Ninety per cent of the men of today who have attained the age of sixty-five years are depending for support either upon public charity or their children.

These figures are alarming. Start today to accumulate a fund for old age with a very little self denial. Open an account in a savings bank and deposit regularly every month one-tenth of your salary for ten years, and the result at 4 per cent will be as follows:

Monthly deposit.	One-tenth deposited.	Int. in 10 years	Am't. saved with int. in 10 years
$40	$4.00	$380	$420
50	5.00	475	525
60	6.00	570	630
75	7.50	712	787
100	10.00	940	1,040

Through the above saving method you would not be compelled in old age to depend upon public charity or relatives.—V. M. Powell in New York World.

A Narrow Escape.

It was the woman's first visit to the cinematograph. For a long time she gazed in silent awe at the wonders of the screen, where all sorts of impossible things took place. She could hardly believe the evidence of her own eyes. These things were real—they were actually happening. She stared with goggling eyes as miracle succeeded miracle.

Then a motorcar appeared on the screen, coming into sight in the distance and racing along a country road at about a mile a minute, straight out of the picture at the audience. Catastrophe seemed inevitable, and she shrank back in her seat. Then, just at the critical moment, it swerved aside and dashed out of sight.

The old woman rose firmly to her feet, ignoring the protests of those behind her. "Come along, Annie," she said to her youthful niece. "It ain't safe here. That thing only missed me by a few inches."—London Answers.

The Accident Map.

On the walls of a room at police headquarters in New York city are large maps of the five boroughs. These maps are covered with many large and small pins of various colors. Each color denotes a particular kind of accident. The large headed pins represent fatal accidents and the small ones minor accidents. For example, a large white headed pin represents a fatal automobile accident, while a small one of the same color represents a similar but not serious accident. In the same manner a large green headed pin indicates a fatal trolley car accident. The map of Manhattan shows that a long stretch of Fifth avenue has an almost continuous line of accidents. The Thirtieth precinct shows a greater number of accidents than any other. This precinct contains Delancey street, with the approach to the Williamsburg bridge and many narrow east side streets.—Safety Engineering.

Seven Wise Men of Greece.

The seven wise men of Greece were Thales of Miletus, Periander of Corinth, Cleobulus of Lyndus, Chilo of Lacedaemon, Solon of Athens, Bias of Priene and Pittacus of Mitylene. Some fishermen of Miletus sold a draft of fishes to a bystander. When the net was drawn in it contained a golden tripod, and the purchaser claimed it was his, while the fishermen contended that they sold only the fish that might be in the net. The dispute was referred to the oracle of the Delphi, who awarded the tripod to the wisest man in Greece. Thereupon it was taken to Thales, who declined it and suggested that it be given to Bias. He in turn refused to accept it, and thus it was successively declined by all the seven, and they were thereafter known as the seven wise men of Greece.

Unversatile Nature.

Marie, the eight-year-old hopeful of a certain household of this city, was seated at the breakfast table one morning. As usual, eggs were served. Now, either Marie was not hungry or she had grown tired of the inevitable bill of fare, for very earnestly she lifted her eyes to heaven and exclaimed: "I wish to goodness hens would lay something besides eggs!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Blessed Ignorance.

Grubbs—Do you think that Blinks knows what he is talking about? Stubbs—I suppose so, but I'd like to bet something that after he concludes one of his harangues he doesn't know what his listeners are talking about.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Used to Lather.

"Your meringues," says the mistress, "are so delightfully frothy and light. How in the world do you get them that way?" "It's the new butler, mum," explained the cook. "He used to be a barber."—Buffalo News.

Has To.

"How is this, Jones? They tell me your son is in the big cities hitting all the high places." "So he is. He's a steeplejack."—Baltimore American.

Premonitory.

Junior—So you didn't propose to her, after all? Weed—No. And I'm not going to. When I got to her house I found her chasing a mouse with a broom.—Puck.

It is impossible to be just if one is not generous.—Roux.

Shooting a White Chamois.

A stuffed and mounted white chamois buck that rests in the court museum at Vienna is directly connected, through tragic superstition, with the beginning of the great European war. A white chamois—which is really not so snowy as the word implies—is so much of a rarity that throughout the Austrian Alpine region superstition attaches to the slaying of it. Whoever kills such an albino, say the huntsmen and mountaineers, dies within the next twelve months.

This particular chamois was shot on Aug. 28, 1913, by the Archduke Francis Ferdinand, accompanied by his wife, near Bluehubach, in the Salzburg Alps. When the game was lying at her feet the professional hunter, kneeling over it and calling attention to the whitish tint of the fleece, told the heir to the Austrian throne of the current belief. But Francis Ferdinand merely smiled. Ten months later exactly he was murdered at Sarajevo.

The Device on Turkish Stamps.

The curious symbol in the center of Turkish stamps, an intricate and mysterious device, is the "toughra," or signature of the sultan. It is said to owe its origin to Sultan Murad I., who was unable to write his name. St. Nicholas quotes from an article on "What Philately Teaches" as follows: "He (Murad I.) signed imperial decrees by dipping his fingers in ink and placing them on the documents with three fingers close together and the little finger and thumb extended. In the course of time this was adopted and, so to speak, consecrated as the signature of the sultan. It was also elaborated and arranged to form a written phrase, while preserving in a general way its original form. The toughra contains certain characters which are permanent and minor ones which change. The latter are the names of the sovereign and his father." Mystic significations in course of time have become associated with this toughra.

Origin of the Name Siberia.

In 1582 Yermak, a Cossack chieftain, with a band of warriors "chosen for their bravery rather than for their morality," set out to chastise and subdue a powerful Tartar tribe east of the Ural mountains. When Czar Ivan IV. heard of it he was badly frightened, for he feared to stir up the fierce Tartars. He frantically sent orders for the expedition to return. But it was too late. Yermak and his men had already crossed the mountains. When they approached the city of Sibir, the stronghold of the Tartar chief, they found an army thirty times as large as their own awaiting them. But they were far better equipped with arms and ammunition than were the Tartars and administered to them a crushing defeat. Sibir was captured and became the nucleus of the expansion of the Russian empire in Asia, giving its name to the new country—Siberia.

Fragments of Guineas.

Few geographical names have in turn swollen and shrunk in importance as "Guinea" has. Originally this or something like this appears to have been the name of a forgotten little town and "kingdom" in the Niger region. Then the name expanded in European use to signify everything from the coast opposite the Canaries to the boundary of Southwest Africa and gave us not only the coin called after its gold and the guinea fowl, but also, by a natural error, the "guinea pig"—really the Guinea pig from South America. Now those tiny fragments, the Spanish, Portuguese and French Guineas, alone preserve the name on the map, together with the gulf.—London Chronicle.

The Boy of It.

A boy wanted a dog, and the rich uncle said:

"Well, Eddie, suppose I give you $200 for a dog. Would you spend that whole sum in one dog, or would you buy a pretty good dog and put the rest of the money in the savings bank?"

"Well, uncle," replied Eddie, "if you leave it to me I would buy 200 one dollar dogs."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Winning Success.

As a matter of fact, the world owes a man nothing that he does not earn. In this life a man gets about what he is worth, and he must render an equivalent for what is given him. There is no such thing as inactive success.—Dr. Russell H. Conwell in American Magazine.

Benevolence.

There cannot be a more glorious object in creation than a human being, replete with benevolence, meditating in what manner he might render himself most accepted to his Creator by doing most good to his creatures.—Fielding.

BUDGET OF COUNTY NEWS

Work on the new Frederick postoffice will begin this year. This is the announcement contained in a dispatch from Washington, which also states that in the Sundry Civil Bill reported to the House of Representatives last Friday the sum of $36,000 is appropriated to carry on the work. The total amount of appropriation carried by the bill is $127,237,221, the smallest amount for building work appropriated by the government in years. The building will be erected on East Patrick street at the corner of Chapel alley, the site having been purchased by the Government several years ago. Several properties are included in the site. Altogether the sum of $150,000 has been appropriated for the Frederick office, so that a handsome building and one that will meet the needs and demands of a growing office, should result.

Argument on the demurrer filed by Frederick city to the bill of complaint of 515 petitioners to enjoin the Mayor and Board of Aldermen of Frederick from awarding contracts to build a city electric lighting plant was concluded before the Circuit Court for Frederick County Saturday afternoon. The case was heard by the full bench, Chief Justice Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Glenn H. Worthington and Edward C. Peter. The bench held the arguments under consideration and will later hand down a written opinion.

Sunday's mammoth turnout of motorists and tourists netted about 40 or 50 arrests for violations of State laws. As many notices will be sent out to violators explaining the offense chalked up against them and the fine.

"Yes" said Commissioner of Motor Vehicles E. Austin Baughman Saturday night, "we are trying to enforce the laws. There is an extra supply of deputies out patrolling the State roads and they will be shifted from one section of the State to the other, so that they can work without being known. We don't want to be nasty about it, but these laws must be enforced. By that I mean acts covering minor offenses must be observed just the same as those drafted for the more serious offenses."

William Harris, alias Johnson, suspected of the murder of Emanuel Stratton in Frederick, fourteen years ago, and who has been awaiting trial since winter was given his freedom this week. Considerable doubt existed, it is said, if Johnson or Harris did the shooting.

A near epidemic of robberies has been reported at Catocin within the past week. The store of R. C. Mercer was entered and a quantity of tobacco, cigars and eggs were taken. The night previous, the spring house of David Fry was broken into and a ten gallon can of milk was stolen. Three boys were arrested and charged with the robbery. A fourth companion escaped.

Attempting to make room for other passing automobiles, the five passenger car driven by Gail Cutshall, of Woodsboro, went too far to the side of the road near West Friendship, on the Baltimore Frederick State road Sunday, and turned partly over. The four occupants of the car escaped injuries, with the exception of one of the young ladies, who received scratches. When the auto left the road, it struck against a fence near the embankment which prevented its turning completely over.

The county commissioners Monday afternoon voted for an extension of the Finger-Board-Leichenstein Distillery road. The proposed State aid road link is about one and a half miles in length and is the last half of a three mile stretch.

The mad dog scare which developed in the vicinity of Johnsville several weeks ago has not entirely blown over. Within the last week, several dogs showing signs of rabies have been shot. A remarkable feature of the scare is that as far as is known very few cattle and horses have been bitten.

An effort will be made by the Frederick county school officials to have the medical survey of county schools which has been in progress for the past several months, completed next fall. While many schools have been visited and inspected, and thousands of children have been examined the survey, which will stop at the close of schools, will not be completed. As previously explained the object of this survey is to test school children mentally and physically, and at the same time point out defects in school sanitation, lighting, ventilation and heating. The information obtained from this survey, which is the first of this character to be conducted in the State, will be given to the United States Government, the State Board of Health and to the local health boards and officials.

Rev. Dr. Abdel R. Wentz, well known in Emmitsburg, has been appointed to fill the chair of Historical Theology at the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, to succeed Rev. Dr. Luther Kuhlman.

The Middle Conference of the Lutheran Synod, of Maryland, convened in Grace Lutheran Church, near Woodsboro, Md., May 22-24. The Pastor of the local Church, Rev. Charles Reinwald, D. D., and delegate Mr. J. E. Grimes, were in attendance.

The first annual commencement of the Junior High School of Emmitsburg will be held in the High School auditorium Friday evening, June 2, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. E. L. Higbee will address the graduates. The graduates are Miss Estelle Houck and Mr. Harry Dubel.

Last Saturday night in Emmitsburg was one of the busiest in months. People came to town early and stayed late. By 9 o'clock every available hitching post was in commission, and automobiles were very numerous. The large crowd of "joy seekers" was orderly and no arrests were made.

The main house and buildings at "Bella Vista," the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. C. O'Donoghue, have just been painted pure white, making the entire group more distinctive and adding much to the attractive appearance of this delightful country home. "Bella Vista," in its charming setting is one of the prettiest places on the State road and is much admired by everyone.

Among the real estate transfers in the county this week were the following: Albert P. Adelsberger and wife, to William C. Brenaman, real estate in county, $500.

William C. Brenaman and wife, to John W. Wagerman and Eugene E. Zimmerman, real estate in county, $500.

Charles M. Rider and John Rosensteel have gotten together a baseball nine composed of Emmitsburg youngsters and they are very anxious to arrange games for their "Midgets"—that's the name of their club. Emmitsburg has always had plenty of baseball material, but the "Midgets" it is said are the "real thing." They will probably make their first appearance in a match game on June 1st.

ARE RESPONDING GENEROUSLY

Citizens of Emmitsburg Take Keen Interest in Campaign for Oiled Streets.

Miss Estelle Codori, chairman of the Soliciting Committee in the interest of street oiling, reports subscriptions amounting to over three hundred ($300) dollars, part pledges and part cash.

The committee, composed entirely of ladies, is making a very systematic canvass and all the members have been indefatigable in their efforts. They report that they have generally been graciously received and that with the exception of a very few the people of the town have responded and have expressed themselves as being in full accord with the idea.

Many who are not residents of Emmitsburg, but who motor or drive to town often, have also generously contributed to the fund. They have shown a very kindly spirit and, as they use the streets, are anxious to have them in good condition.

The Committee and the townspeople appreciate the good will of their out-of-town friends and they respectfully encourage others who have not yet contributed to leave their contributions at the Banking House of Annan, Horner & Co., or at the Emmitsburg Savings Bank.

ASCENSION DAY

Two Games of Baseball to be Played on Local Diamond.—Collection for Street Improvement Fund.

On Thursday June 1, Ascension Day and a holiday, two games of baseball will be played on the local diamond.

The first game at 10 o'clock will be between the "Emmitsburg Midgets" and a picked nine from this vicinity.

The afternoon game will be at 2 o'clock. It will be a fight-to-the-finish battle between two classy teams now being organized for this occasion. Messrs. Charles Rider and John Rosensteel have these games in charge and the athletic element of the district and all the local and nearby "fans" are keen for the onslaught.

Everybody will of course want to see these games, especially as the collection taken up at each will be applied to the fund being raised for repairing and oiling the streets.

As this is the first baseball event of the season and as the cause is such a good one it is hoped that a great many will attend these games.

It has been learned that several scouts from the big and minor leagues will be on hand to pick up a possible "Ty" Cobb or Walter Johnson as it is understood several players with ability equal to these well-known stars will be in the line-up on Ascension Day.

FESTIVAL, HAGERSTOWN CHORAL SOCIETY.

On Thursday and Friday, June 8 and 9, at the Maryland Theatre, Hagerstown, the Hagerstown Choral Society and Concert Orchestra Club will hold their Third Annual Music Festival. There will be a different programme each night. Olive Cline, leading soprano of the Victor Opera Company and Edythe Marmion Brosius, Harpist, will appear and the Choral Society will sing choruses by Mendelssohn, Owsen, Chillinor, Elgar and Coleridge-Taylor with an augmented Orchestra of forty musicians.

The second night, the Stanley Quartet of New York, Louise McMahon, soprano; Flora Hardie, contralto; Joseph Mathien, Tenor; James Stanley, bass; with Eleanor Stanley, accompanist, will appear in a recital. Their programme will consist of solos and ensemble numbers. The Society will sing, A Goring Thomas' "The Swan and The Skylark."

These two concerts, under the direction of C. H. Roderick and LeRoy Watkins, conductors, are being looked forward to with keen delight by the people of Hagerstown and places within a reasonable distance and it is said that many auto parties will motor to Hagerstown to hear these splendid musical organizations.

In a Large Confirmation Class.

Master Hoke Rosensteel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Rosensteel, of Baltimore, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Hoke, of Emmitsburg, was one of the class of 220 children and 45 adult converts to the Catholic faith to be given the Sacrament of Confirmation by Bishop Owen B. Corrigan, at St. Gregory's Church, Baker and Gilmor streets, Baltimore, on Sunday afternoon last. Early in the day the lad received his first Holy Communion from Bishop Corrigan's hands. As he was also baptized by this prelate he has thus far received three Sacraments from Bishop Corrigan of which fact he is very proud. Master Rosensteel attends St. Gregory's School, conducted by the Sisters of Mercy, and has established a record for scholarship.

Memorial Day Locally.

The usual custom of placing flags and flowers on the graves of deceased veterans by the members of the local G. A. R. will be observed this year on Monday May 29, if the weather is favorable and if not on Tuesday, the 30th. On Saturday, May 27th the members will go to Thurmont to take part in the Memorial Day service in the Town Hall at which Harry H. Humerehouse Esq., of Hagerstown will make the address.

Interested In Forming Grange.

There was another meeting last week in the interest of a Grange for Emmitsburg district. At a former meeting application blanks were distributed with the idea of getting the signatures of farmers in this vicinity. Although many have signed, these blanks have not yet been turned in. It is expected that those who are soliciting for members will shortly report and that another meeting will be held at which the organization will be effected.

DEATH OF GENERAL VANDIVER

Prominent in Politics.—Chairman of Democratic State Central Committee and Treasurer of Maryland For Many Years.

Gen. Murray Vandiver died at 1.45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at his cottage near Blue Ridge Summit.

With him were his daughter, Dorothy, and his son, Robert M. Vandiver; his physician, Dr. Victor S. Cullen, and his two secretaries.

Mr. Vandiver was Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee since 1897 and Treasurer of the State from 1900 until 1916. He started out in politics as a reformer in 1876. He returned to the Legislature in 1878 and again in 1890, and finally in 1892 when he was chosen Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Mr. Vandiver was a delegate to the National Convention that named Grover Cleveland as the Democratic candidate for President. This was Cleveland's third nomination and he was elected President for the second time. At that time Mr. Vandiver was secretary and treasurer of the Central Committee. Following this he became active as the nominal head of the Democratic State Organization.

In money matters he was regarded as the soul of honor—$99,000,000 handled and not a cent astray. This was the slogan of his friends when the fight was made to have the General quit as State Treasurer. As it was held the office 16 years, thereby establishing a record for length of service in that position.

Middletown High School Wins Contest.

All records were smashed by the Middletown High School last Friday afternoon in the annual typewriting and shorthand contests of the high schools of Frederick county.

Teams representing the following schools participated: Boy's and Girl's high schools, Frederick; Brunswick High School, Thurmont High School and Middletown High School.

The highest individual record was made in typewriting by Albert Beachley, of the Middletown High School, with 80.9 words, net, per minute, for 10 minutes; second place was won by Arthur Doll, Frederick High School, with 65.9 net words; third and fourth places were won by Hugh Bowlus and Harold Toms, respectively, both of Middletown High School.

In the shorthand contest Frank Koogler, of the Middletown High School, won first place; C. A. Rice, Frederick High School, was second, and Albert Beachley, Middletown High School, was third.

ACROSS THE LINE

Fire, which originated in the blacksmith shop of the Acme Wagon Company, Emigsville, four miles north of York, Pa., Saturday night caused damage estimated at $50,000. The plant was almost entirely destroyed. Lack of water caused a call to be sent to York for assistance.

The most disastrous fire which has happened in the Blue Ridge resort section since the destruction of the Blue Mountain House several years ago, occurred between midnight and two o'clock last Thursday when the Vance Hotel and the Highfield post office were burned to the ground, the Western Maryland station badly damaged, several stables partly burned, and other properties endangered. Mr. Vance, it is understood, had some insurance. It is not yet known whether or not he will rebuild. His hotel was a convenient stopping place for travelers who had a short stay at the junction point of the railroad. It is within a stone's throw of the Ruth dwelling which was burned three weeks ago.

Sheppard and Myers sold at public sale the buildings known as the Ephraim Bollinger property situated along the Hanover and Littlestown turnpike, three miles west of Hanover. The purchasers were as follows: house to S. L. Johns for $35, summer house to Elias Resh for $9.50, chicken house to C. B. Stoner for $10, barn to E. J. Wentz $40.25, hog stable to Henry Shaffer for $5.50, frame shed to Henry Shaffer for $2.50, sheds attached to mill and water truck for $21.00, mill to E. R. Leese for $61.00.

But ten of the sixteen young men who graduated as Lutheran ministers at the Theological Seminary on last Thursday evening have accepted pastorates. Usually, a larger percentage of the graduating class has decided upon their places of work before the commencement exercises.

The class last year numbered twenty two but this was larger than the customary graduating class. The course consists of three years work and there were but seven men in attendance during last winter that will comprise next year's graduates. There were just twelve taking their first year's work in the past term.

Twenty-two girls are in the graduating class at Irving College, Mechanicsburg, and will receive diplomas at the close of the celebration of the end of the sixtieth year since the famous women's institution was founded. Sunday Dr. A. R. Steck, of Carlisle, head of the board of trustees, delivered the annual baccalaureate sermon. The commencement exercises were held last evening.

Mrs. Catharine Riedel, owner and proprietor of the Berkley Heights Cottage, Highfield, Md., died Thursday after a short illness. She was 81 years of age. She was born in Germany and came to this country many years ago and spent the early part of her life in Baltimore. She leaves one daughter (Miss Emma Riedel). The body was taken to Baltimore Sunday morning for burial.

E. B. Snyder, of Hagerstown, has sold his 250-acre fruit farm containing 5,000 trees on Jacks Mountain, Adams county, Pa., to a syndicate composed of New Jersey and Pennsylvania capitalists for $35,000.

THE ROADSIDE TREE LAW.

Its Provisions But Slightly Affected by Recent Legislation.—Enforcement
Still Guarantees Shade Tree
Protection.

At its last legislative session the Maryland General Assembly enacted an Amendment to the State's Roadside Tree Law as passed by the previous Legislature. This Amendment carried a minor modification of the State-wide Law that trees belonging within public rights-of-way shall be handled as such, not cut down or indiscriminately trimmed to satisfy the whim of anyone who happens to object to their being beside the roadway, whether the objector were the abutting householder, a professional trimmer, or someone whose wires were in the way of the trees.

The exception states—"That trees standing within the right-of-way of unimproved public roads which have not been surfaced with either stone, shell, gravel, concrete, brick, asphalt, or other improved surface may be cut down and removed by the abutting landowner for his own use without first obtaining a permit." This passage, taken verbatim from the Law, defines clearly and exactly the only change made by the Legislature of 1916 since its passage by the body of 1914. This exception was inserted at the instance of the Board of Forestry, which must enforce the Law.

BROWN THRASHER
(Toxostoma rufum)

Length, about eleven inches. Brownish red above, heavily streaked with black below.

Range: Breeds from the gulf states to southern Canada and west to Colorado, Wyoming and Montana; winters in the southern half of the eastern United States.

Habits and economic status: The brown thrasher is more retiring than either the mocking bird or catbird, but like them is a splendid singer. Not infrequently, indeed, its song is taken for that of its more famed cousin, the mocking bird. It is partial to thickets and gets much of its food from the ground. Its search for this is usually accompanied by much scratching and scattering of leaves; whence its common name. Its call note is a sharp sound like the smacking of lips, which is useful in identifying this long-tailed, thickset-haunting bird, which does not much relish close scrutiny. The brown thrasher is not so fond of fruit as the catbird and mocker, but devours a much larger percentage of animal food. Beetles form one-half of the animal food, grasshoppers and crickets one-fifth, caterpillars, including cutworms, somewhat less than one-fifth, and bugs, spiders, and millipeds comprise most of the remainder. The brown thrasher feeds on such coleopterous pests as wireworms, May beetles, rice weevils, rose beetles, and figeaters. By its destruction of these and other insects, which constitute more than 60 per cent of its food, the thrasher much more than compensates for that portion (about one-tenth) of its diet derived from cultivated crops.
