Fill In Picture Puzzle No. 6

WELL, we said that in No. 5 picture you would draw a queer looking animal and you did. It is the doublest mal, and you did. It is the donkey. The donkey has many uses, but his greatest use is in the mountains. He is such a sure footed brute that he can carry things up the most dangerous mountain passes. He is as valuable in the mountains as the camel in the desert. When you start your pencil this time from No. 1 to 2, 3, 4, etc., you'll draw a flerce looking creature.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Bullfrogs' Moss Pond.

Give the Signal.

"W MUST tell you," said daddy to Jack and Evelyn, "about the regatta the bullfrogs gave on Moss pond. Moss pond was a beautiful pond down in the valley, surrounded by huge trees and lots of small shrubbery. It was called Moss pond because for miles around there was nothing but moss. In the pond there were huge rocks, which were covered with moss also. "In the mornings Pappy Frog would get up on top of the highest rock and give his signal, which was 'Goog-a-rum, goog-a-rum!' for Mother Frog and all the neighbor frogs to get up. And what time do you suppose, children, Pappy Frog got up? Sometimes he would get up as early as 3 o'clock, and, oh, it would make the neighbor frogs so mad! Of course Mother Frog and the little frogs didn't dare get mad because Pappy Frog was so severe. "The morning of the regatta Pappy Frog got Mammy Frog and the children to help him decorate his boat. He was very quiet about it, as he didn't care to wake up the other frogs that morning, for he was extremely selfish and wanted his boat to look much finer than theirs. Of course all the other frogs expected Pappy Frog to awaken them, and when they did wake up, very late, weren't they mad at Pappy Frog! But they had no time to waste in telling him so, for they had to hurry and scamper to get their boats ready. "At last all was finished, and an enormous gathering was present. There were the moles, the toads, the squirrels, a few of the snakes-Mr. Copperhead, old Blacksnake and Mr. Gartersnake, for he was a neighbor-and the

"The frogs had built a bridge across the pond so the more favored of the guests could witness the regatta to better advantage.

"Then began the sports. There were sailing races, canoe races, high diving, swimming races, tub races and obstacle races. But so many of the little frogs fell overboard in the boat races that most of the time was spent life saving. "Pappy Frog was very proud of himself, because naturally his boat looked the best of all, and even after the races were over he sailed up and down the pond to get admiration.

'The mother frogs had prepared a very fine banquet for all the guests, and the frog who had won the most races was put in the center of all, while the other frogs and guests stood up on their hind legs and danced around the victorious one.

"Pappy Frog did not feel hurt because he had not won the big prize, as he hated 'stupid races,' as he called them, and all he cared about was the looks of his boat and of himself. So he, too, joined in all the praise for the prize winner, and the regatta was voted a very jolly affair by all the guests."

FREDERICK COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertility and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoctin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and productive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Maryland Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

How many a tense situation is relieved by simply tracing the comical rather than the tragical current. Stop. Look, Listen, might be a good adage for one in a temper! Consider how ridiculous it is to fly into a passion on account of trivial happenings. Some one has aptly said "When in anger, look into a mirror; the absurd expression and contortions of the countenance will compel you to laugh."

EDUCATION AND FARMING.

Every year there is an increase in the number of preeminently successful farmers. Every census shows the rapid progress of educated farmers. Success in farming doesn't "just happen" these days; it comes to men who apply brains to the tilling of the soil—brains developed and properly directed in school and college courses. That's why we find statistics showing "that high school graduates make their farms pay twice as well as men who have not been thus educated, and the college graduates make three times as much off their farms as do the high school men." Many, by the way, who just work (?) on farms might absorb this bit of wisdom: "A lot of What salt is to food humor is fellows could own farms if they CAPRI, A TWIN HUMPED CAMEL

ORIENTAL COURTESY.

An Ameer's Nice Choice of Words In Speaking of a Fall.

A good horseman may be thrown from his horse, under some circumstances, with little or no reflection upon his skill. The accident may have been excusable, even inevitable, when all the details are known; but as casually related the excuses frequently disappear, and the fall, with its ignominious suggestion of incompetency, alone remains. Lady St. Helier, in telling of the deep admiration and repard entertained by the Ameer of Afhanistan for Lord Kitchener, gives a ittle anecdote of the oriental's instant erception and avoidance of the possibility of any humiliating implication for his friend.

Lord Kitchener had suffered a severe accident that resulted in a leg so badly broken as to necessitate several veeks' complete rest at the time, and later, two months' furlough in Engand, and a resetting of the bone. One of Kitchener's staff gave the news of his misfortune to the ameer during a reat tiger hunt at Gwalior. "I told him," the officer wrote Lady St. Helier, "that the chief had a nast fall at Poona, his horse tumbling down an embankment. He immediately asked for a piece of paper and wrote a elegram of sympathy in Persian. He handed it to Sir Henry McMahon and asked him to send it off immediately. Sir Henry wrote it down in English, but when he came to the words 'to hear of your fall from your horse,' the ameer instantly corrected him, saying: "'No, no! Not from your horsewith your horse; in Afghanistan-big Island Richly Dowered For Artist, Historian and Geologist.

Capri, a great twin humped camel of an island, kneels in the blue just off the Sorrentine peninsula. From the "So many educational problems sway backed huddle of white, pink, blue, cream and drab houses along the large harbor up the breakneck road to the fascinating town nestling among the hills, white roofed and Moorish, and on, still higher, by the winding road or up the nearly perpendicular flights of rock stairs which furrow the frowning crag with their sharp, zigzag outlines to Anacapri, 500 feet or so bove, every step of the way breathes the pride and splendor and degradation of the island's greater days. Here a cyclopean mass of shattered masonry in the warm emerald water tells of a Roman emperor's bath, yonder on a chimney-like cliff the sinister ruins of a stout castle keep whispers of ancient garrisons and pirates not armed with automatic rifles or high powered artillery, and here, overlook ing the sea, the vast ruins of a villa recall "that hairy old goat" Tiberius and his wastral voluptuousness that turned fair Capri into satyrdom.

Capri today is richly dowered for sightseer, artist, historian, antiquary and geologist. On every hand are shaded walks and sequestered bowers in the thick groves of orange and lemon, laurel and myrtle, wild backgrounds of tumbled rock, titanic rifts in the coast into which the sea has thrust long, insidious blue fingers.-National Geographic Magazine.

Her Fame.

The Duchess of Westminster has the reputation of being the wittiest woman in society. The duchess tells an excellent story about an ex-shah of Persia who was very fond of paying complinents to English ladies.

When the Duchess of Westminster vas presented he greeted her heartily. 'I have heard much about you," he said. "Your worthy name is well known ven in my country.'

The duchess was surprised at first, then a light dawned upon her. "Gracious me, I do believe he mistakes me for Westminster abbey!" she said. What was more, she was right.

TORTURE IN TRIALS.

This Barbarous System Was Used In Europe For Centuries.

The use of torture in order to elicit information from persons accused of crime, barbarous as it is, was little practiced before mediaeval times. Under Greek and Roman law torture was only allowed upon slaves, though in the latter days of the empire it was employed against free citizens if they had been accused of treason to the emperor

It seems to have become part of the law in Europe about the thirteenth century. From the fourteenth century downward torture was a part of the legal system of most European coun tries. The Italian municipalities used it to a very large extent. In German elaborate apparatus existed for its in fliction in the dungeons of the feudal castles and in the town halls of the at was used in the prisons of Ger many when the philanthropist Howard visited them in 1770. In France it was part of the law until abolished by the evolution, and in Scotland it was used until the reign of Queen Anne. The use of torture seems never to have been wholly sanctioned by the law of England, although it was used frequently by order of the king in the Tudor pe riod. The royal council claimed the power of directing torture warrants against state prisoners in the tower, and under James I. and Charles I. torture was resorted to in state trials.-Chicago Herald.

AN OVERWORKED WORD.

This Writer Suggests That "Very" Be Given a Long Rest.

There is a word that once possessed a vigor and a power that is altogether "Verily, verily"-"in truth, in truth," Now it is "very," and, though it still means "in truth," it has become so weakened by usage that it conveys no force whatever.

You meet men on the street and say, "It is a very fine day." What do you mean? Probaby you mean, "How do ou do?" What you have said is simply a salutation. But if you should say to me, "It is a fine day," you prob ably mean it is a fine day. That little word "very" has been so weakened, so frayed at the edges, that it harms rather than helps its companions.

So, gentle reader, I would say to you if I had arbitrary power over your speech, "This week I will allow you only two 'veries,' " and, though for a time such restraint may make you self conscious, yet it will force you to grope about for musty treasures in the store house of your memory and furbish up old adjectives and adverbs, even drive you now and again to a careful ap praisal of your best slang, and when this temporary self consciousness shall pass not only your vigor of speech, but your exactitude and clarity of thought will be the better for it. That is a gain that will be worth all the sacrifice .-Burges Johnson in Century.

Fealty of Partners.

A member of the New York supreme court, reproving a New York firm of architects for canceling an agreement, says, "Authorities unanimously agree that there is scarcely any relation in life which calls for more absolute good faith than the relation of partners. Also, "A purer and more elevated morality is demanded of partners than the common morality of the trade. The meaning is that an individual who transacts business for himself may look out solely for himself, while a partner must never consider his own advantage apart from that of his associates.-Exchange.

SWISS CHEESE STONE.

Material of Which Native Houses In Bermuda Are Built.

When a native of Bermuda decides that he wants to build a house he goes to some quarry where the soft, rich, creamy coral sandstone has been stripped of its thin earth covering and be gins sawing. He or some one employed by him, with a long, coarse toothed saw, cuts out blocks of stone measuring about two feet long, one foot wide and six inches thick. As soon as he has quarried enough of these blocks he allows them to stand in the open air for a few weeks to harden, for when first cut they are as full of holes as a Swiss cheese and almost as soft. The hardening period over, the blocks are placed one on top of another to form the walls and one beside another on a supporting framework, overlapping a little at their upper and lower edges. to make the roof.

When the building has been erected the Bermudian covers his outside walls and roof with a thick coat of whitewash, which hides all the cracks and joints and holes in the stone and gives the house a smooth, beautiful finish which is very pleasant to the eye and just as pleasant to the sense of touch. Even the big chimneys, the porches and the fences are built of the same stone.

These white roofs have another important office. for the rain that falls upon them as it runs off is caught and led into cisterns. It is easy to under stand how important this is when one learns that there are no streams or wells in Bermuda and that the islanders are thus entirely dependent on these cisterns for their water supply.-Joseph Lauren in St. Nicholas.

YANKEE CURIOSITY.

How Ben Franklin Used to Save Time and Avert Questions.

The Yankee is proverbially inquisitive, and Charles H. Sherrill recalls in "French Memories of Eighteenth Century America" some amused comments reported by the Marquis de Chastellux, which show that the reputation was well deserved more than a century ago.

"He says," declares Chastellux, repeating a traveler's tale, "that the Americans are the most inquisitive people he has ever seen. Their curios ity is pushed almost to impropriety. When he asked his way they only an swered, 'You apparently come from Philadelphia.' When almost famished he asked for food. Instead of serving him they said: 'You seem to be in a great hurry. Is there anything new in the north?

"He also relates that Mr. Franklin (who possessed a sense of humor in addition to that habitual calm which so surprised the Europeans), whenever he was traveling in Connecticut, a section noted for its curiosity, was accustomed on entering an inn to call all the family together and announce in a loud tone: 'I am Benjamin Franklin. I was born in Boston, and I am a printer by trade. I am coming from Philadelphia, and I am going back there at such and such a time. I do not know anything new, and now, my friends. will you tell me what you can give me for supper?

Modest Blackmore.

That the author of "Lorna Doone" was one of the best fruit growers in England is brought out by Hildegarde Hawthorne in an article on Blackmore which she contributes to St. Nicholas. Indeed, it was of his fruit that he loved most to talk, according to Miss Hawthorne. Of his writings or of himself at all it was very difficult to get him to say a word, for he was shy and modest to a high degree. If you tried to make him talk about his books he would always slip quickly away to something about peaches or nectarines or plums, or he would ask you to come out to see his garden and wander there happily, pruning shears in hand, pointing out his prize fruits and telling you just what must be done to bring each type to perfection.

All Happens In a Second.

A second is the smallest division of time in general use, and when we consider that in one year there are about 31,558,000 of these periods it would certainly seem as if it was enough for all practical purposes. But, after all, a good deal can happen in a second.

A light wave, for instance, passes through a distance of about 186,000 miles in this length of time. The earth in itself moves in its orbit at a rate of about twenty miles a second.

A tuning fork of the French standard vibrates 870 times per second to produce the note A on the treble staff.

Saving Talk.

"Do you believe in telepathy?" "You mean," responded Miss Cayenne, "the art of communicating thought without audible speech?" "Something like that."

"I am not sure whether it could be made to work or not. But I know a number of people who ought to try it."-Washington Star.

LOCAL SCHOOLS PIONEERS IN JOHNSON MEMORIAL MOVEMENT

Meeting To Be Held In Frederick Tomorrow.—Enthusiasm Has Taken Firm Hold.

The meeting in Frederick last week to form the Thomas Johnson Memorial ter, 1 Wilson mash mixer, 1 feed chop-Association stirred up plenty of enthusiasm. From present indications the movement will gain fresh momentum as subcommittees are chosen and women's auxilliary committees are formed. There seems to be no doubt about the ity. idea of the too-long-neglected first Governor having recognition. "It's the right thing to do; it ought to have been Phone. 69 or 43F3 done long ago," is the sentiment. This, all agree, will be more and more apparent as the movement takes definite shape and details are gradually unfolded. Some of this detail will no doubt be worked out at the meeting of the Executive Committee to be held in Frederick to-morrow afternoon.

Federal Fund To Build Ten Roads.

Ten pieces of road covering nearly 100 miles are to be rebuilt with $660,000 which Maryland will receive as her allotment of the federal aid road funds. Construction of the new highways will cover a period of nearly five years.

The State Roads Commission in compliance with a request from the federal Department of Agriculture, decided upon the roads which are to be built with the Maryland allotment.

The roads to be built and the specific routes and distances are as follows:

1. Road leading from the eastern lim-Mr. and Mrs. Howard Colliflower and its of Frederick, including the Washington turnpike as far as the Monocacy River bridge, the Buckeystown turn-Mrs. Freshour of Thurmont, visited pike and the road near Dickerson to connect with the improved state road at Dawsonville, a distance of approximate-

Such larders frequently contain enough mice or other prey to bridge over a period of a week or more. With the exception of the burrowing owl it is probably the most insectivorous of the nocturnal birds of prey. It feeds also upon small mammals, birds, reptiles, batrachians, fish, spiders, crawfish, scorpions, and earthworms. Grasshoppers, crickets, grounddwelling beetles, and caterpillars are its favorites among insects, as are field mice among mammals and sparrows among birds. In Montgomery county an associalow tree considerable quantities of tion representing 565 cows, distributed through 19 herds was organized last spring, and is now being followed by a second organization to meet the needs of the dairymen who could not be included in the first association. Similar developments are being reported in other milk producing counties and are proving most beneficial in welding the dairy interests and in making a better grade of product possible. Dairymen are realizing more and more that their demands for higher prices must be supported by facts tending to show that they are producing milk as economically as is consistent with reasonable sanitary requirements. The owl should be encouraged to stay near | cow testing association and the County Demonstration Agent are opening the way to more efficient milk production and fairer returns. The dairy man who is not a member of a cow testing association has no one but himself to thank for poor returns for his capital and labor if he has not read the Agricultural Experiment Station bulletin on Cow Testing Associations.

The Successful Beekeeper.

College Park, Md., Feb. 1.-In a recent correspondence course on bee keeping issued by the State College of ure, the writer, E. N. Cory, says of beekeeping in Maryland, "More bees should be kept in the State, but only those persons willing to care for and manage them properly should think of taking up this profitable line

Bees demand a great amount of study, thought and sympathetic care in their successful management. The qualifications, therefore, of the beekeeper, who would be successful, should be considered with great care.'

"In the first place, studious habits are essential. Though the literature of beekeeping is a vast storehouse of information about the life processes of the bee, the underlying causes of many of the activities of the colonies are little understood. Study of bees, themselves, and the literature pertaining to them are the cardinal points in

"Energy is the second qualification. Without a study, however, much energy may be wasted in unprofitable lirections. The performance of the proper operations at the right time is of vast importance. Sometimes it may seem that a thing may be put off, but you may be sure that everything that Is to be done in the apiary has a definite time for its accomplishment, that will not admit of delay. Putting on supers a day too late may make a pig difference in the amount of comb noney produced.

"Patience is another valuable attribute. Things are sure to go wrong at times. The honey flow may be bad for several years at a stretch. Patience therefore is of great importance. "Though these attributes are necessary, they may be developed one or all, by the mere association with the bees, the most energetic, patient and careful workers in the lower animal kingdom."

Prepare to keep an account of the year's business. Open an account book. Transcribe the farm inventory onto this book. Keep a daily account onto this book. Keep a daily account of receipts and disbursements. If time permits carry separate accounts age. Send 10 cents to this office, giving with the more important phases of the farm operations, such as dairying, an additional two cent stamp for letter noultry products, hog raising and the postage. Separate accounts should be carried with each farm laborer and with the neighbors and others with whom continuous transactions are made.—From Lessons in Elementary Agriculture, issued by the Maryland State College of Agriculture.

There is always a demand for the morning gown that is at once comfortable and becoming. This one is closed with a single button and buttonhole, and one front is so generously lapped over the other that there is no danger of parting.

It takes very pretty lines, and the design is a good one for wash material. The gown is made with a five gored skirt that is joined to a simple blouse by means of a belt. Both fronts are finished so that either side can be lapped over the other.
