GOVERNOR HARRING- cheer you today as you enter into the TON'S ADDRESS.

Today will be memorable in the historical annals of our state and city, for we meet to do honor to that' first contingent of the National Army that is to go forth from our borders to do or to die for the maintenance of our national honor and the perpetuation of that form the immortal Lincoln as a government of the people by the people and for the people. You have been selected-you have been drafted by your governmentinto the service. It is a duty. It should be an honor to serve.

There is no disgrace in being drafted. All of us owe equal allegiance to the flag. Our country protects and defends the rights of us all alike and no one is more in honor bound than another to give himself up entirely to his country's service. Therefore the plan of the selective draft is an honorable solution of a national responsibility, especially in a nation which like ours of. fers an, equal and free opportunity to each of its citizens in life's battles.

Therefore, gentlemen, these citizens who have gathered here, and those responsible for this parade or demonstration want to do you honor-want to show to you their full confidence that the honor of the state and nation is safe in your hands. And when we do this we do not want to minimize in the least those brave boys who are already in the colors, who have volunteered their service in this hour of our country's peril.

There is enough glory for all. Each in his way has responded to his country's call. And when you go forth remember the eyes of all Marylanders will be upon you. Our proud traditions must not be lowered. The rich heritage of the past in military renown and mediate development. glory must not and will not suffer at our hands. service of your country in this hour of her conflict as the message of President Wilson. "The eyes of all the world will be upon you, because you are, in some special sense, the soldiers of free dom. Let it be your pride therefore to show all men everywhere not only what good soldiers you are, but also what good men you are, keeping yourselves fit and straight in everything, and pure and clean through and through. Let us set ourselves a standard so high that it will be a glory to live up to it, and then let us live up to it and add a new laurel to the crown of America."

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR A STRONG JUNIOR TEAM AT MT. ST. MARY'S The Football Squad Will Get Right

Down to Hard Work as Soon as The Boys Return.

With the return of the students next week the members of the Junior football squad will get right down to work. The outlook for a strong team has never been so bright. Only a few of last year's winning aggregation will go over to the Senior side and nearly all the rest have signified their intention of returning on time.

Tony Friday, last year's sensational quarter-back who left school last spring will return on time. Last fall Friday proved himself a star of rare ability. He has all those qualities which go to make up an ideal grid-iron warrior, and which are seldom found united in any one individual. His presence at the of government so grandly pictured by helm will strengthen any combination a hundred per cent.

Other back field men from last year will be Hollern a "vet" of many games; Slattery, a new man developed last year, who shows great promise; Joe Hartl a punter and drop-kicker of abilseason.

Fisher and Miller who played end last year are both well able to take care of the wing positions. Miller 1s already a star and Fisher has all the ear marks of a fleet, competent end and with last Sand Fairies, 'but anyway, you've got season's experience behind him will no doubt prove himself one of the fastest and most efficient men on the squad.

In the line are Alfred and Annin both strong, aggressive centers, one of whom will probably be shifted to tackle. Silling or McNally will probably be moved from guard to play the other tackle. George Sullivan played in many posi tions last year, mostly in the line, but hard.' with his speed and tackling abilities it is not at all unlikely that he will be used in the back field or at end.

Costello will again manage the team but will be unable to play on account of weak knee.

LATE MR. SANDMAN.

"Mr. Sandman," said Daddy, "was late on his rounds." "Oh, dear," said Nancy, "we are so fond of your Stories, Daddy, but we hear so much about Mr. Sandman." "Seems to me," said Dick to Nancy,

"that you are not so very polite." "Maybe not," she said, "but you know Grown-Ups are always saying "The Sandman must be around, and it's time for the Children to go to bed?" "Ah," said Daddy, "but I shall tell you something more about Mr. Sand-man than that." "Of course, you will," said Nancy.

was Daddy telling this Story. The very name Sandman just suggests so many People!" commenced his story : "One evening Mr. Sandman had been to a Party given for a conference. The aid rode away, by the Sand Fairies. You know that and presently the generals began to Mr. Sandman is supposed to have some ride up to the cabin and join their comvery magic, wonderful sand which he throws into the Children's eyes. They very soon after he has thrown his Magic Sand they begin to rub their Eyes and grow very sleepy. And that is how he got his Name.

"But on the evening of the Party with the Sand Fairies, Mr. Sandman did not want to leave.

"'I'm having such a good time, you know,' he said, 'that I don't want to attend to work-no, not in the least bit." "'WCl, why don't you let the Chility and Molascolya who also won his dren stay up longer tonight than ususpurs last season and should be a strong al? It's a nice, warm night, and they factor in the back field this coming don't like to go to bed so much when it's warm.'

> "'Oh,' said Mr. Sandman, wearily, they never like to go to bed, until I make them so sleepy they can't help themselves.'

"'Maybe you're right,' laughed the a very good opinion of yourself.'

"'No more than I deserve,' said Mr.

"'How about another game?' asked the Sand Fairies.

"'Yes,' said Mr. Sandman, 'I do believe I will have another game. I'll take your advice and let the Children wait until I have had a good old Frolic. Sometimes I think I work too

"'Yes,' agreed the Sand Fairies. 'Everyone needs a rest and a Holiday once in awhile.'

"So Mr. Sandman and the Sand Fairies Played and Laughed and had many a Frolic. You would have been surprised if you could have seen old Mr.

Anna Pavlovna was a Russian girl who lived near the border between Austria and Russia. Her father and brothers were in the Russian army fighting against the Germans and Austrians while Anna and her mother remained in their cabin home endeavoring to extract a living from the little patch of ground which surrounded it. There came a time when the Russian army was driven back past their cabin and in due time an Austrian army advanced, taking up the position which had been held by the Russians. One day a general, followed by a member of his staff, rode up to the cabin. Dismounting he went in and looked about "I almost forgot for a moment that it him. The cabin had but one story, but there were three rooms-a living room, a kitchen and a dining room. Going

It is nearly always cold in Russiado not see him throw it, and they do that is, where this part of the great not know just when it happens, but world's war was going on, and Anna was directed to make a fire in a big stove that stood in the room. This she did, and the aid moved a table in the center of the room on which he spread maps. When half a dozen officers had joined the commander the door of the room they occupied was closed.

For three hours the men talked over a plan of attack for the next day. There was not the trench fighting in Russia there was in the west of Europe, and the attack was to be more like such warfare has been in past times.

At 10 o'clock in the morning one of the generals was to attack the Russian right flank. As soon as re-enforcements of the enemy had been drawn to that point another attack was to be made on the left flank. This was to be the main offensive, and the ground on that side being disadvantageous for the Russians, the attack there was to be persisted in till the flank was turned. Then a third bolt was to be launched on the center.

The commander took a pencil and a bit of paper and noted all these points, elaborating them so that there would be no mistake. This paper he gave to the aid with instructions to make a copy of what he had written for each one of his subordinates, that there should be no mistake through failure of memory. This was done. Then the commander called for the paper on which were his instructions and, that it might not fall into any one else's hands, opened the stove door, noticed that the fire within burned brightly, tossed the paper in and closed the door. Then the officers left the cabin and rode back, each to his own headquarters.

Later in the day Anna went into the living room to make it tidy after the occupation of the officers, who had left the dirt from their boots. She swept the floor, rearranged the furniture an taking up the sweepings in a dustpan, opened the stove door to throw them. Near the front of the stove lay a bit of paper, or rather fragment, for one-third of it had been burned. Anna took the paper out of the stove and saw writing on it. A very little of the writing had been burned. It was in the German language, so the girl could not understand what it was, but though she was only a peasant with little or no education, she surmised that it might be of importance to the Russian military commander. She showed the paper to her mother, who, though she could not decipher the writing on it, agreed with her daughter that it might be of service to their countrymen. But when Anna proposed to try to make her way with it through the Austrian lines the woman could not at once consent, for she knew that if Anna were caught with it on her she would be killed at once. The problem with Anna was how to conceal the paper. She finally decided to tear off all but the writing and roll it into a little ball. She would carry the ball in her mouth and if necessary would swallow it. She left the cabin at nightfall to try so different from any other that they and steal her way through the lines. did not know some of it was going She spent much time searching for a point where the line was thin, but failed to find such a place. But the soldiers slept, and by crawling through bushes she eluded them. #### FREDERICE COUNTY.

Frederick is next to the largest of the counties of Maryland. In population and wealth it ranks next to Baltimore county. In the fertil-ity and productiveness of its lands it ranks among the first in the Union, and especially in the produc-tion of wheat. The area of this great county is 633 square miles. The great body of the people are of German, English and Scotch-Irish descent, the progeny mostly of the early settlers. The land is mostly of fine limestone quality, and the greater part of the county is a valley of rolling lands lying between the Linganore Hills and the Catoc-tin Mountain. This splendid valley is drained by the Monocacy river, and is one of the best farmed and most highly improved and we have most highly improved and produc-tive areas of the Union. The great crops are wheat and corn.—Mary-land Manual issued by Board of Public Works.

THE BOYS FROM HOME. A fine spirit pervades the squad that represents Emmitsburg in Co. A, (Frederick) M. N. G. Talks with the boys have demonstrated this. They have been coming home for the week end, some of them regularly, and the good folk of this district, who are proud of them, have had ample time to "size them up," to note their soldierly bearing and to gain from their conversation just what impressions they have. #### EMMITSBURG.

In all Western Maryland-the beauty spot and the garden spot of the State-there is no town more attractive than Emmitsburg.

No people are more wide-awake, more knowable, more courteous to strangers than Emmitsburgians.

The location of Emmitsburg is ideal; the surrounding scenery is unmatchable; the climate is notedly healthful; its water-pure mountain spring water-cannot be surpassed. It is within easy access of Baltimore, Hagerstown, Frederick; eight miles from the National Battlefield at Gettysburg, near to the Mountain Resorts, and is surrounded by fertile farms and productive orchards.

Mount Saint Mary's College and Ecclesiastical Seminary-with an enviable reputation extending over 108 years-is located here; St. Joseph's College and Academy for young ladies-equally as noted during its 107 years of splendid acheivement-is also here.

There are excellent Schools-Public and Parochial-in Emmitsburg; two sound Banks, five Churches, a live Newspaper, modern Hotel accommodations, adequate Fire Department, progressive merchants, splendid physicians, good liveries, auto garages, many fraternal organizations, good railroad accommodations. There are four or five mails a day, telegraph, express and telephone service connecting all points; electric light and power, oiled streets.

There is business to be had in Emmitsburg; there are Factory Sites availabe. If you contemplate changing your place of residence-come to Emmitsburg, Frederick County, Md the results of a young and vigorous queen. Usually a queen's best efforts are limited to the first two years of her life, consequently it is advisable to requeen consistently every two years where honey production is the main business. A young newly-mated queen will produce quantities of vigorous workers, a condition which is highly desirable in the fall when the older queens are so apt to check their brood rearing.

therefore, to requeen. New queens may be purchased from some reliable dealer or raised in the home apiary, Care should be used in their introduction to avoid loss as it is a bit difficult to secure the acceptance of a new queen at this time of year. The beekeeper should acquaint himself with the best methods of queen rearing and introduction so that he may take every opportunity to produce a few queens every year thus cutting down the expense of buying from queen breeders.

Colonies headed by these young prolific queens will develop a great number of young bees late in the season capable of successfully withstanding the winter and living long enough in the spring to rapidly build up the colonies for the honey flow.
