BY ABIGAIL ELECTION DAY

May second is the big day for election of a Mayor and town commissioner, here in the burg. . . . As far as we know there doesn't seem to be any threat of competition to the incumbents who are still in their respective offices. The election is wide open, you know, almost anyone can run for the offices. Requisites for the jobs are comparatively small.

Just in case any of you are contemplating aspiring to either the office of Burgess or Commissioner you will have to have your application for same in the town office 10 days prior to election day. This being the 22nd, you can just make it if you hurry. This column would like to express a big thank you to the present officials on a job well done and after becoming familiar with their platform for the future, which contains many local improvements for the welfare of the town, we urge you, public, to give them a large measure of consideration for re-election.

IN ABSENTIA

Things that are very, very conspicuously absent in Emmitsburg:

A florist shop, a jewelry store, camera shop, shop specializing in a lumber mill, fur storage, furniture store, exclusive dress shoppe, camera shop, shop specializing in awnings and venetian blinds, monuments and grave markers, photo studio (we understand that one is to open officially next month), piano and musical instrument shop and an office equipment store.

There you have it. . . . Certainly, the need for new businesses and enterprises is absolutely obvious. Those of you who keep saying—"Well, I'd like to get into business in Emmitsburg, but what field could I get into that isn't already crowded?" Ask yourself that question no more, mister, for surely from the above list you can certainly find one that suits you to a "T."

FLEW—ALMOST

There's been quite a lot of dissension among the owners of liquor and beer establishments, but I think the whole thing is just about ironed out now. . . . It seems that when Louis Cooper and Dick Rosensteel applied for a liquor license recently, they were turned down cold on the basis that Emmitsburg District had its legal quota of such establishments already. The refusal was contested by the applicants, lawyers called in to dig down in the archives of the county and state and see what the rules and regulations on the matter were. . . . Then the validity of social members in various clubs was injected into the argument and the first thing you knew, there was a real free-for-all.

SERVICE RECORD

WILLIAM SELLARS ANNAN

Known to everyone as "Bill." . . . Bill served in the Navy from September, 1943, to May, 1946, trained at Bainbridge, and Annapolis, Md., Cherry Point, N. C. . . . Our Bill really served, didn't he? With a regular Hospital Apprentice, first class, he served for 32 months in the American Theater and received his discharge on May 20, 1946 at Bainbridge. Oh happy day, says Bill. . . . Most of us know that Bill is Mr. Annan's son, and he has one brother, whom you'll recognize by his informal name, Bud, and a sister, Helen Rowland, who married Hudson Rhodes, but gosh, we don't have space or time to tell you the whole family history, so we'll just say that as far as we know, Bill is working for his dad, and hasn't changed.

BASEBALL SEASON GETS UNDER WAY AT HANOVER SAT.

Locals Meet Hanover Here Sunday in Penn-Maryland Opener

The 1949 baseball season will get underway in the Emmitsburg District tomorrow when the local ball squad journeys to Hanover, Pa., for the curtain raiser. Tomorrow's game with Hanover is the initial one of the new season for the Adams County League.

Baseball in Emmitsburg will commence on Sunday when Hanover returns here on Community Field. Sunday's game will be the opener of the Penn-Maryland League.

The locals are presumed to be considerably stronger this year, inasmuch as they have recruited much more young talent than that of last year, and other athletes who had tryouts with the higher leagues have returned much earlier this year.

The Emmitsburg Baseball Assn. has gone to considerable expense this year to insure all those attending the games, of seating space. It is believed that 500 or more can be seated with the new boxseats and bleacher arrangements.

The Club wishes to thank the following boosters of the organization for their generous patronage:

Herbert Roger, Charles Harner, Charles Bollinger, Edward Lingg, John White, Norman Flax, Dr. Cadle, Matthews Store, C. G. Frailey, George Eyster, Edward Houck, Robert H. Gillelan, Houser's Drug Store, Charles G. Gallbell, George Gingell, James T. Hays, Thomas Gingell, Floyd Miller, Arthur Elder, Edward Stull, Dr. D. L. Beegle, Crouse's Drug Store, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Boyle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gartrell, and George Rosensteel.

All players and coaches are requested to be present Saturday at one o'clock at Community Field to make transportation arrangements to motor to Hanover, Pa.

The probable lineup for Sunday's game is as follows:

Player	Position
BUBRICK	CATCHER
ROTH	PITCHER
SITES	1ST BASE
SAYLOR	2ND BASE
SMITH	SHORTSTOP
PAIDAKOVICH	3RD BASE
HOLLINGER	CEN. FIELD

March, 1949, accounted for 743 injured, as against 658 for March, 1948, an increase of 11 per cent, the report pointed out.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

In the romance of family names, it has already been pointed out that your name, your most valuable possession in this world, constitutes an interesting chapter in modern history. Also it has been disclosed that many family names in Emmitsburg have been chosen from the place where your forefathers lived and called home. A number of examples of this fact have already been given such as names indicating a hill or valley or ridge or a field.

ROCKEFELLER

For example, John in the field did not always become John Fields or Roger in the field did not always become Roger Fields. Roger and Field might be merged into one word. Taking a prominent illustration, one of the most famous financiers in American history was John D. Rockefeller. That Dutch name meant Roger in the field. At first it was combined and shortened into Rogerfelder or Rogerfelder. Later, to make it sound better, it was further combined into the more euphonious sounding of Rockefeller.

ROOSEVELT

Likewise, one of the most famous families in the political history of America, has been Roosevelt. This Dutch name also came from the home in the field. John in the field of roses became John Rosefeldt. Later it was modified into the better sounding form of Roosevelt.

Therefore, after last week's column on special requests received at the Chronicle Office, we turn again this week to families whose name describes the place of residence or home when the surname was first chosen.

TOWN NAMES

Numerous families chose their name to describe the particular part of town where they lived. The town or village or city has always been one of the most choice places of all to live. Therefore, the part of town in which one resided frequently was indicated by the name chosen. Taking a few examples, John in the west end of town, might become John Weston, or West. John in the east end might become John Easton or Eastman. John in the north part of town might become John Norton or North or Norman or Norse. John in the south part of town might become John Sutton. Likewise John on the broad street or main street might become John Bradstreet. And John on the alley or lane might become John Lane. John in the old house might become John Althouse and John in the iron house became John Isenhower.

WELL NAMES

In the olden days before the public water supply was fashioned and before each family had his own private well, the village well was a most important institution in the community. Many in Emmitsburg can still remember the old village well, a relic of the time when everyone came to the common well for water supply. Many family names, therefore, were derived from the village well. John, who lived at the village well became John Wells, or John Atwell. John at the new well, became John Newell. John at the rocky well became John Rockwell. John at the big well became John Maxwell. John at the well noted for cold water, became John Caldwell. John at the singing well, and many legends arose about the singing well, became John Cantwell. John on the winding road to the well became John Cromwell. John at the church well, became John Halliwell. John at the wide well became John Bradwell. John at the well where the cows were watered, became John Boswell. John at the well where the sheep were watered became John Kidwell, etc.

ROBBERS' LOOT FOUND NEAR THURMONT

Thieves Dump Stolen Safe Into Big Hunting Creek

A battered safe which was found in a wooded area about a half block off the Thurmont-Foxville road, four miles from Thurmont, Sunday afternoon has been identified as the one which was stolen from a business establishment near Martinsburg, W. Va., some time the early part of last month and which contained approximately $1,000 in cash and bonds.

The safe was discovered by Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus, Sr., as he patrolled the vicinity of Big Hunting Creek on the recent opening of trout season. Finding an identification at the site, Phebus promptly reported his findings to the county sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff Paul R. Buhrman went to the scene and assembled the remains of the safe and its contents. The safe was found at the bottom of a steep rocky incline near the road. It was thought the thieves probably pushed the safe over the side in hopes of breaking it open. Where the safe finally came to rest, still intact, was reported well out of sight.

The persons who stole the safe broke into it with the use of sledge hammers and chisels on its bottom, it was thought. After gaining entry, it is believed the robbers took all items of any value and burned much of the personal property held in the safe. Among the personal property was the deed to the property from which the safe was reported stolen. The burned articles were widely scattered.

After establishing possible identification, Deputy Buhrman contacted West Virginia State Police and other officers at Martinsburg. They informed the local office that a safe fitting the description of the one found had been stolen from a business place near Martinsburg.

Officers expressed the belief that the safe was brought to the Thurmont locality very soon after it was stolen and broken into immediately.

PTA Holds Meeting; Next Session May 10

A meeting of the executive committee and chairmen of standing committees of the PTA of Emmitsburg High School was held Tuesday evening in the Firemen's Hall.

Mrs. O. H. Stinson, chairman of the budget and finance committee, announced two events for the remainder of the year. On April 29, an amateur contest will be held in the high school auditorium, and on the 19 of May, a card party will be staged at the high school.

The chairman of the playground committee announced that nearly all the proposed improvements to the playground have been completed.

To improve the stage in the high school auditorium, the Association decided to donate $25 for that cause.

The committee reported that Mrs. Harry Scott was named chairman of the nominating committee.

The next meeting will be held in the high school auditorium on May 10 at 7:30 p. m., when a program will be presented by the Maryland School for the Deaf, it was reported.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES WISHING TO FILE

The Mayor and Commissioners of Emmitsburg announce that all those wishing to file their applications for offices in the Town election must have their notice of intention in the hands of the Commissioners 10 days prior to the day of the election, which this year will occur May 2.

The Mayorship and one commissioner will be elected this year.

Miss Ruba Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Glass, Emmitsburg Rt. 2, and Recruit Chester S. Shriver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Shriver, Gettysburg, Pa., were united in marriage Saturday of last week at five o'clock in the evening in Elias Lutheran Church, in a candlelight ceremony.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. Philip Bower.

The altar was banked with lilies of the valley and hyacinths. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keilholtz, Washington, D. C., were the attendants. Mrs. Keilholtz is a twin of the bride.

The bride was attired in a pearl grey suit with navy accessories and wore red roses.

She attended school in Pennington Gap, Va., and graduated from Emmitsburg High School in 1943. She also graduated from the West Virginia College of Beauty Culture in 1945 and has been manager of Kathleen's Beauty Salon, Emmitsburg, for the last three years.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Gettysburg High School in 1942 and formerly a representative of the Friendly Insurance Co. of Baltimore, is serving in the army and is attending the leadership school with the 9th Infantry, Fort Dix, N. J.

Anyone desiring this sheet music may obtain a copy by mailing this clipping to the Marine Corps Office, 325 Post Office Bldg., Baltimore 33.

Maryland Poultry Breeders to Exhibit Fowls in Show

Twelve Maryland poultry breeders have entered chicks from their breeding flocks in the 1949 Maryland Chicken of Tomorrow Program.

The objective of the program is to help breeders find strains of chickens which possess superior qualities for meat production in both carcass quality and economy of production.

One hundred chicks, as a sample of the progeny of each breeder's flock, were hatched on April 4. These chicks will be raised on the breeders' farms under their own feeding and management. All chicks are wingbanded with numbers recorded with the Poultry Department at the University of Maryland.

On June 27 when the birds are twelve weeks old, each breeder will select fifteen cockerels as a sample and deliver them to the University, together with weight, mortality, and feed consumption records of the one hundred chicks from the start of the period.

At the University, these sample birds will be dressed and twelve of each lot selected and judged for meat qualities by a special committee of judges selected for this purpose.

TOWN OFFICIALS WILL ENFORCE HEALTH CODE

Solons in Special Session Decide to Make Effective Revised Ordinances

The Corporation of Emmitsburg announced this week that all outdoor privies within the Corporation limits are outlawed by a Town Ordinance and no longer will be permitted to exist. Those owning these accommodations will be required to tap into the Town sewerage system or risk the penalty and a fine, it was said. Also, public eating and places of amusement will be required to provide accommodations for their patrons, according to reports.

The lawmakers, meeting in special session Monday evening, said that two-hour parking will be permitted both on the Square and the main streets.

Those found guilty of parking violations will be first given a white ticket as a warning and upon the second offense a red tag will be placed on the car and a fine of $1 levied against the offender. Those not paying their fines in a specified length of time will be sent a white summons. All fines will be paid to the Mayor, who in turn will place them in the Town treasury.

The new chief of police, Capt. Woodring, was instructed to file daily rest reports, daily offense reports and monthly reports to the Town Fathers. He will maintain his office in the Firemen's Hall. A signal light will be placed at some strategic place on the Firemen's Hall, so as to notify the officer, while he is on his beat, of any thing that occurs while he is absent from the Hall. A telephone is to be installed in the chief's office.

At the meeting it was also announced that parking will be restricted on one side of both Frailey's Alley and Broad Alley.

The meters will go into operation approximately May 1.

After many months of research and correction, the Town Ordinance Book was revised and brought up to date. New ordinance books will be printed in the near future.

The solons are now working on a building code for the Corporation, which when put in force, will be strictly adhered to. This will demand inspection of many projects' plans before they are begun and permits will have to be obtained from the Corporation before tapping into the sewers, etc.

It was reported that the paving of Federal Hill will start in the very near future.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS LIONS' CARD PARTY

A large crowd attended the card party held in Fireman's Hall Tuesday evening. The Emmitsburg Lions Club sponsored the party in an effort to raise funds for improvements to the local playground.

Robert Daugherty, chairman of the general activities, wishes to express his appreciation to all his fellow workers who earnestly aided in making this a successful affair.

The Lions Club thank all who attended and the committees in charge of activities.

Co. was won by Mrs. George Gingell; basket of groceries, donated by Bernard Boyle, won by George Gingell; case of beer, won by John Hollinger. Paul Harner won the 7-tube radio.

FARM PRICE DROP ANALYZED

Farmers along with the rest of the nation, are trying to guess the meaning of the falling prices of the last few months. They remember that the price decline in early 1948 was short-lived. However, a second break in farm prices began last August when record crop production became assured. At the present time, the prices received by farmers are about 11 per cent below last July.

Agricultural economists at the University of Maryland have this to say, "The mid-winter break in prices last year was followed by a third round of wage increases, a reduction in income taxes, and larger government outlays for defense and foreign aid. These resulted in a price climb and almost complete recovery by mid-July."

However, in discussing the present decline, they say, "Another upsurge in economic activity similar to last year, does not appear likely." But they emphasize that the outlook does not indicate a severe decline. "We have many props to business and agriculture that did not exist in previous boom period," they state.

Their prediction is "if 1949 is another year of high farm production, a further downward pressure on farm prices can be expected during the last half of the year."

"There is every indication of another bumper wheat crop. Prospects also are for large acreages of feed grains. In view of all these factors, farm income in 1949 will not be as favorable as last year. The decline in net income will be even greater than in the gross because farm costs are not expected to drop much."

Their recommendation is, "Do everything possible to lower costs of production."

KEILHOLTZ—GOOD

Miss Bessie Marie Good, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Good, Littlestown, Pa., and Grier LaVerne Keilholtz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grier J. Keilholtz, Keymar, were united in marriage at the Grace Lutheran Parsonage, Gettysburg, Pa., last Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. J. M. Myers, pastor of the bride. The double ring ceremony of the Lutheran Church was used.

Fred Wilhide, Keymar, was best man, and the maid of honor was Miss Eleanor Spangler, Littlestown, Pa.

The bride wore a gray wool suit with navy blue accessories and a red rosebud corsage, and the maid of honor was attired in a gray gabardine suit and wore a pink rosebud corsage.

The bridegroom attended Taneytown High School and is at present employed on his father's farm. The bride is a graduate of Littlestown High School in the class of 1948 and is employed in the high school office.

HEALTH COLUMN

SPOTTED FEVER

In early spring, and summer, ticks come out of their winter hiding places and people who are bitten by infected ticks come down with spotted fever (commonly known as tick fever). Until 1930 the disease was known only in the western part of the United States, particularly in the state of Montana. Though more cases are being reported each year it is not thought that the disease is spreading—rather more physicians are becoming familiar with the disease.

Your health department receives a number of inquiries each year about spotted fever, and the following questions and answers have been compiled for your information.

Q. Is there any vaccine for the prevention of spotted fever?

A. Yes. The scientists of the National Institute of Health have discovered and perfected an effective vaccine for the prevention of spotted fever. The vaccine is recommended for those living in infected areas and who are heavily exposed to ticks. Two types of vaccine are now being used:

(a) The vaccine prepared from crushing ticks and available through your doctor, local health department, or from the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md.

(b) Commercial vaccine prepared on chick embryos. This is available at your druggist through your physician. Persons known to have an allergy to eggs should not be given this type of vaccine.

Q. Is there a specific treatment for Rocky Mountain spotted fever?

A. Yes. Two new antibiotics, named ariomycin (now available to your physician) and chloromycetin (not yet available commercially), have been used effectively in treating the disease.

Q. I have just removed a tick from my body. Is there any danger of my having Rocky Mountain spotted fever?

A. There is danger of acquiring spotted fever if the tick is attached to the skin and has fed for 6 to 8 hours or longer. Feeding ticks attach themselves to the body and are hard to pull off. The head may even be embedded. If the tick is stuck, it is probably feeding. The danger of infection is very much less if the tick is removed before it attaches itself or within two to four hours. It follows, then, that anyone exposed to ticks should be examined carefully at least once a day to find and remove ticks. Children playing in uncleared land during the tick season, campers, pickers, fishermen and those who work in tick-infested areas should have this daily inspection.

Q. How can I tell if the tick I have just removed from my body is infected?

A. There is no way for an individual to find out whether or not a particular tick is infected. Laboratory tests which can be made would not be completed before the disease developed if the tick were infected.

Q. What is the best way to remove ticks?

A. With a small forceps or eyebrow tweezers, or a small piece of cotton, taking care not to crush the tick because if it is infected and full of blood, the blood may be infectious.

Q. Several cases of spotted fever have occurred near my home. Should I sell my house and move elsewhere?

A. No, since ticks exist in most parts of the country and where there are ticks, the possibility of acquiring the disease exists.

Q. I have been bitten by a tick. How and when will I know if I am contracting spotted fever?

A. The attack may come on suddenly from four to 12 days after the tick bite, with fever, restlessness, severe headache and insomnia. About three or four days later a skin rash appears, at first noticed as small, distinct, pinkish spots and usually breaking out first on the arms and legs, especially around the wrists and ankles. This rash may later cover the entire body. Headache and restlessness are most marked. Delirium sometimes occurs. This is a serious, acute illness, and a physician should be called at the first appearance of symptoms.

The supply of frozen fruits is somewhat less than that of last year, except for strawberries. Holdings of that popular fruit are nearly double those of a year ago.

LEGION HOME RECEIVES ANOTHER FRONT ADDITION

The American Legion completed another step in renovating the front of their building with the addition of a modernistic blue and gold raised letter sign.

The sign extends across the front of the building with the Legion insignia centered, and covers the space which was left vacant after the application of attractive Form Stone.

The sign was built and erected by U-Otto-C Wiegand, Frederick.

COUNTY TALENT WILL BE TELEVISED MONDAY

Probably the first group to entertain from Frederick County over television will be staged Monday night, April 25.

The group of musicians consist of Ray Birely, Blue Ridge Summit; Merhl Stull, Lewistown; Briggs Phillips, Joe Miller and Charles Stull, of Frederick, have planned several skits and will provide musical entertainment for half-hour over a Washington station.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

A fourth factor is to be taken into consideration in judging pastures in Maryland's first Greener Pastures Contest, according to Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland Administration State Committee. "We are going to give special emphasis to seasonal distribution of pasture as well as to quantity and management," he explains.

Specialists at the University feel that pasture crops should provide feed throughout more of the year than is frequently the case on Maryland farms today. Consequently, considerable weight will be given in the judging to the score for seasonal distribution.

Mr. Blandford also urged farmers to get complete information about contest rules and entry blanks from the local ACA offices. "The certificates are worth working for," he declares, "but the new knowledge every farmer can gain, and the satisfaction for those who win make the contest an event of interest to all livestock and dairy farmers."

Any farmer in Maryland except members of the State PMA Committee is eligible if he has at least 15 acres of pasture. In the event that a farmer enters a farm in the contest, all of the pastures on the farm will be judged. The same farmer may enter the pastures on more than one farm in the contest. (A farm is defined as a unit under one management and worked with the same workstock and equipment.)

Bean Price To Be Supported
The price of soybeans is to be supported for the 1949 crop, according to Joseph H. Blandford, Chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee. The support level for soybeans grading U. S. No. 2 and containing not more than 14 percent moisture will be 90 percent of the Comparable price for all soybeans on September 1, 1949. Premiums and discounts will apply to other grades.

"This is an important announcement for growers on the Eastern Shore who want to substitute soybeans for some of their potato acreage," Mr. Blandford said. "To be eligible for loan or purchase agreements, the soybeans must grade U. S. No. 4 or better and must not contain more than 14 percent moisture. A premium of one cent per bushel will be applicable to green and yellow varieties. A discount of 19 cents per bushel has been set for black, brown, and mixed varieties."

Loans and purchase agreements will be available to producers from time of harvest through January 31, according to Mr.

Nearly Two Million Persons Enroll This Year In Federal Program

An estimated 13,200,000 workers had permanently insured status under the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance program on January 1, 1949, according to an announcement this week by William J. Lanahan, manager of the Hagerstown field office of the Social Security Administration.

Mr. Lanahan said that this was an estimated increase of 1,900,000 permanently insured workers over the figure of one year ago. These workers can, regardless of their future employment, qualify for primary insurance benefits when or after they reach age 65; in the event of their death, their survivors can qualify for monthly benefits or lump sum death payments.

At the beginning of 1949, slightly more than 1 out of every 3 fully insured workers was permanently insured. As the program matures, Mr. Lanahan explained, the permanently insured group will constitute a growing proportion of the entire fully insured population. A wage earner is fully insured if he has been paid $50 or more in covered employment in at least half the number of calendar quarters as there are between Jan. 1, 1937, and the quarter in which he becomes 65 or dies. In no case can a worker be fully insured unless he is credited with at least six quarters of coverage.

Once a worker has acquired 40 of these quarters of coverage, Mr. Lanahan said, he is fully insured for life even if he does not acquire any more.

Are some of your lampshades becoming dingy and drab? Here are a few helpful suggestions:

Dust the shades at least once a week. Use either the dusting attachment of the vacuum cleaner or a soft brush. Parchment can be sponged off with a damp cloth, but protect the pasted edge from dampness as you work.

Dry cleaning is necessary for hand-painted silk, pasted or glued silk or rayon shades, linen, chintz, homespun, and cork shades. Plastic shades can be washed if the trimming is removed first. Metallic paper shades may be cleaned by applying a mixture of 10 parts mineral oil to one part turpentine with a soft cloth. Wipe off thoroughly.

Silk or rayon shades may be washed if the seams and trimmings are color-fast and sewed, not pasted on. First, brush off the dust. Then scrub the rims with a soft brush dipped in soapsuds. Immerse the shade, finally, in lukewarm rich, mild suds. Dip it up and down quickly until clean. Rinse several times by dipping up and down in clear, lukewarm water.

Dry the shade as fast as possible. Absorb excess water by patting with a turkish towel. Use an electric fan to speed drying, rather than heat or sunshine. For even drying, turn the shade around and around and upside down often.

Don't forget to clean your light-bulbs at the same time. Dust and grime here cost you money, because you don't get the full amount of light you're paying for. Turn off the current and remove the bulbs. Wipe them with a damp cloth without wetting the metal section, dry carefully and replace. Bulbs that look dark after cleaning should be replaced with new ones for true economy's sake.

MAHONEY IS SEEN AS GUBERNATORIAL ASPIRANT

The following article is republished by special request by a subscriber. It appeared in the Baltimore News-Post under a byline of James A. Newell.

This man Mahoney—I am now referring to George E.—seems to do a good job at whatever he turns his hand to.

Here is a man—a young man, as we oldsters consider youth—who has been diligent in his own business of which, from all accounts he has made a success.

Indeed, a success story might be written of this Baltimore boy, who has risen to affluence, but not to arrogance, for he is the most democratic soul you might wish to meet.

The Mahoney biography has had however, a more capable Boswell. Some phases of his career, largely in connection with his endeavors in behalf of horse racing, have been previously set forth in this newspaper in articles by Alexander Gifford.

George Mahoney, having made a success of his own affairs, became very much interested in racing. He wanted to become a member of the State Racing Commission. He wanted, further, to become its chairman.

In this ambition it seems he was thwarted for a time by influential personages who may have thought that Mahoney was rather too dynamic a person for this job and that he might be inclined to disturb the established turf hierarchy.

However, after a time and by appointment of his boyhood friend, Herbert O'Connor, then governor and now Senator, he attained his ambition.

His efforts in behalf of racing and the race-going public, his endeavors to weed out crookedness and to improve the tone of the turf, have often been related.

Mahoney did a good job as Racing Commissioner. (He also made enemies, evidence that he certainly was not a do-nothing chairman.

Active in Cancer Drive

More recently Mr. Mahoney has been identified with one of the most benevolent and humanitarian of movements, the cancer drive. Into this work he has plunged with characteristic vigor and intensity of purpose.

There has long been talk in political circles that Mahoney may run for governor.

Whether there is basis for this talk or whether it's just idle gossip, is not known. Mahoney hitherto has charted his course wisely; the decision in this new matter will be his.

If he runs, he will be up against Lane in the Democratic primary.

The governor is building a primary organization. But there are dissident elements in the party, elements which until recently were powerful.

In two primary races they picked the wrong horse. In Mahoney—a popular entry, should he start—they might pick a winner. Who knows?

Miss Emily Adelsberger and Mrs. Paul Hoffsteter spent several days visiting their mother, Mrs. Albert Adelsberger, this week.

Miss Anna Sanders spent the week-end visiting friends in Rhode Island.

Mrs. M. Gloninger Rial has returned to her home at Clairveaux, from Washington.

SHORT STORY
Susan's Suspicion
By EMMIE BELL PORTER

SUSAN shut the French door and held her hand over her eyes. She had distinctly heard her best friend, Phoebe, say: "Roy dear, we really should confess to Susan . . . even if she is your wife, you must realize that she is no child!" Roy's darkly handsome face was bent over the chair where Phoebe reclined gracefully, one arm thrown carelessly over the cloud of dark hair which framed her delicate, heart-shaped face. Her blue eyes were fixed on Roy's troubled brow and one slim white hand rested fleetingly on his brown one.

She knew by the uncomfortable look on both faces as she entered that the conversation had not been finished.

The clock chimed, breaking the silence. "Gosh!" exclaimed Roy, "I really must dash!" Excusing himself he hurried up the stairs.

Susan tried to make her voice casual. "Too bad Roy has to go away so quickly on this business trip. He does hate to travel anyway . . . and having to leave on such short notice has really upset him."

AFTER bidding her good-by, Susan hurriedly joined her husband in the bedroom. Roy's usually calm face was flushed. Hastily he crammed pajamas into an open bag, as he anxiously asked, "Susan, are you sure you will be all right, staying here alone?"

"Of course," answered Susan flinging herself into a chair.

Roy's dark eyes were suddenly shadowed with pain. "Dear" he murmured, laying his arm lightly around her shoulders, "Dear, I want you to always remember . . . no matter what happens . . . I've always tried to be a good husband to you."

"Why Roy," laughed Susan as she blinked back sudden tears, "Darling! You sound as if you were going away forever, instead of just several days." She laid her hand caressingly on the broad dependable shoulders. "We have had a pretty swell life together in the two years we've been married haven't we?"

Roy tipped her head back and passed his hand over her features. "Yes, dear a most wonderful two years!" He pressed his mouth briefly against her cool lips and was gone . . . down the steps into the waiting car.

SUSAN slept fitfully and at eight o'clock was debating with herself whether it was worth the trouble to go down and make coffee, when suddenly and terrifyingly the doorbell rang. Susan fled down the steps with terror tugging at her heart and threw the door open to a wearily looking Phoebe who stood on the steps smiling through her tears. "Phoebe," gasped Susan. "Phoebe, what—Why—is anything wrong?"

"No darling," soothed Phoebe. "Everything is very much all right . . . very much so!" she repeated mysteriously. "I have something for you." She held out a folded piece of paper to Susan. "Here, take this. I'm spending the day with you . . . read the letter, then come on up and I'll answer all your questions then."

As one in a dream Susan sat down weakly and read:

Dearest Dearest Susan: When you get this letter the operation will be over and everything will be perfectly all right. I found out only today that I would have to have an emergency operation and conspired with Phoebe to keep it a secret from you . . . knowing how much you love me and worry about me at the slightest excuse, I wanted to spare you the suspense and the worry. This was one decision I had to make alone . . . as I was only given a fifty-fifty chance to pull through . . . and I felt it was unfair to ask you to help make a decision of that kind. Phoebe has her instructions to give you this letter when and if the operation is a complete success. Remember, I love you,
Roy.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS OF THE UNITED STATES

This is the Golden Jubilee Anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Those Spanish-American War veterans who organized the first units of the V.F.W. did so with a definite and far-reaching purpose in mind. That purpose was born of necessity—of compassion for their comrades who had undergone unusual hardships in America's first major war against a foreign foe.

For these men who returned to their homes, fresh from their triumphs on the field of battle, there was no bonus, no nationwide chain of veteran hospitals, no government life insurance, no pensions, no G.I. Bill of Rights. These volunteers who had fought so gallantly in strange lands and on hostile seas, came home to find the American people were not greatly concerned about the problems of returning veterans. From the moment they received their discharge papers, they were on their own.

The founders of the V.F.W. were disturbed and deeply distressed by this lack of consideration for their comrades. But, determined as they were to do something about it, they realized fully that they could accomplish little as individuals. Only by raising their voices in unison could these "forgotten men" hope to be heard by the people—and by their representatives in the legislative halls of their states and their nation.

But, there was another far more compelling and unselfish reason for the bringing together of these veterans. It was inspired by the experiences of the men who had fought our first first-scale war beyond our own shores. The war against Spain had been waged with inferior equipment, with food that often was unfit for human consumption; poor medical facilities, and with men who, though their courage was unsurpassed, were woefully untrained.

More than any group of Americans, these men recognized the tragedy of being unprepared for war. They were deeply conscious of the suffering and losses in human lives that an untrained and poorly-equipped army must endure.

There were many leaders throughout the nation who foresaw the need for an organization composed of overseas veterans. The same basic idea was claiming the attention of veterans in several parts of the country. In Pennsylvania, Colorado, Ohio, New Jersey, and other states, similar-minded veterans were banding together—eager to give their combined support to the patriotic objectives which were common to all.

Finally, when the clouds of the first World War were settling over Europe, these scattered groups realized that they could be a better force for the good of America if they would combine their efforts. As a result, delegates from the several groups assembled in Denver in September, 1913. After much deliberation, they voted to merge all the groups into one single nationwide veteran society to be known as the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Throughout the succeeding years, the Veterans of Foreign Wars won the respect of the American people as the "Gold Chevron organization" because its members have earned the right to wear gold chevrons or bars, the U.S. Army badge of overseas service in time of war.

The V.F.W. has carved a permanent place for itself in our nation's history by serving in peace as well as in war.

Today, the Veterans of Foreign Wars comprises more than ten thousand Posts, or local units, in communities throughout the nation, in its territories and possessions, and in several foreign countries. There are, in addition, some seven thousand Ladies Auxiliaries.

Much of the legislation which has been enacted by the Congress to provide benefits for the men who fought our wars, and for the survivors of those who failed to return, stands as a monument to the untiring effort and sacrifice of our membership.

With our entry into World War II came a new challenge for service. The record of the V.F.W. was already favorably known to the youth of America. As a result, the nation's new army of overseas fighting men flocked to our ranks, increasing our numerical strength six-fold.

The so-called G.I. Bill of Rights for World War II veterans embodied the basic principles of many separate laws previously sponsored by the V.F.W.

One of our chief functions as an organization is maintenance of a National Rehabilitation Service. This service, operating in all of the 48 states, is supported largely by funds raised through the annual sale of V.F.W. Buddy Poppies.

Another V.F.W. activity of which we are very proud is our National Home, at Eaton Rapids, Mich., for the widows orphans of our comrades.

Through its Department of Americanism, the Veterans of Foreign Wars carries on a continuous campaign to preserve and extend the principles of democracy. Our Americanism Department conducts a year-in, year-out drive to expose the evils of communism and other subversive doctrines. It sponsors and encourages community-service projects of all kinds.

The fighting men who compose the Veterans of Foreign Wars are the most ardent champions of preparedness. We have asked Congress to set up a defense system that will be adequate to cope with any sudden emergency.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars is holding high the banner of human liberty, of justice, of peace and understanding among all the peoples of the world. We are carrying on the crusade that had its beginning fifty years ago. We ask no more than that the American people—and the free peoples throughout the rest of the world continue to work with us—to pray with us—to die with us if need be—to preserve the God-given heritage of freedom and happiness and peace.

National Safety Council Urges Inspection For Automobiles

In line with the traffic safety of the National Safety Council being conducted this spring, motorists should give their automobiles a thorough safety checkup. A thorough examination of brakes, tires, wheel alignment, steering, glass and lights can easily mean the difference between life and death on the highway. A preliminary examination of these potential danger points on the car can be made by the motorist himself.

E. L. Harrig, director of service for the Chevrolet Motor Division, told how to ascertain whether they are functioning properly:

BRAKES—If you can push the brake pedal to within one inch of the floor it should be inspected. If the brakes pull the car to either side when stopping they should be inspected and brought up to standard. If, under customary driving conditions, it takes you longer to stop than previously, this also is a danger signal. Have the brakes inspected.

TIRES — If they are worn smooth they will skid more easily. If irregular wear spots show on some tires, it is an indication of improper wheel alignment. It is well in any case to have wheel alignment inspected in a regular service department.

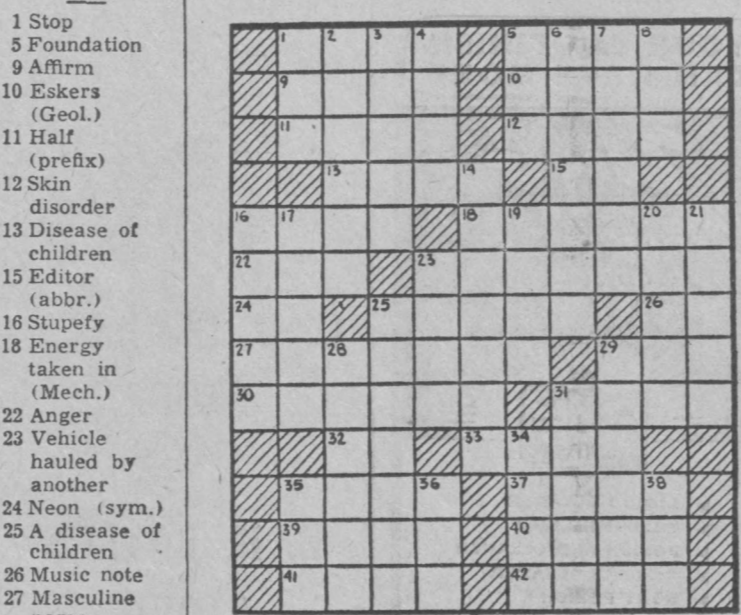

STEERING—If there is more than an inch or so of play in the steering wheel, or if the front wheels are slow to react to a turn of the steering wheel, this feature should be inspected and brought to standard.

GLASS—Check windshield and all windows for discoloration which sometimes is found in old cars. If your vision in any direction is restricted by faulty glass it should be replaced for protection of passengers and other cars. Never drive with a dirty windshield.

LIGHTS — Make certain that both headlights burn on both upper and lower beams, and that tail and stop lights are working. Stand in front of the car with headlights on the lower beam and be certain that they do not blind approaching motorists. Keep headlight and tail light lenses clean at all times.

Maryland Markets

GRAIN MARKET

Summary for Maryland In Baltimore, free wheat is scarce and prices are firm with last week's close. Nearby corn plentiful and prices remain steady with those of a week ago. Soybeans about dried up, no price changes. Hay prices declined slightly.

FEED MARKET

Summary for Maryland Wholesale feedstuffs prices nationally continued to advance during the week ended, despite abundant supplies of feed grains and lower prices of corn. Feed grains, nationally, on the other hand, declined slightly but are still somewhat above the season's low in early February. In general, the Baltimore wholesale trend followed the national pattern. The increased costs of feedstuffs reflected principally an advance of $2.00 to $5.00 per ton in wheat millfeeds on the Baltimore wholesale market. Corn by product feeds held firm. Oilseed meal prices showed some variation.

A low organic level in the soil is partly responsible for erosion, soil crusting, soil compaction and poor drainage.

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Martin spent the week end with relatives in Staunton, Va. Fruits frozen with sugar to be used in pies and cobblers should be thawed just enough to spread.
