BY ABIGAIL
WORD TO THE WISE—
Those of you who might be considering joining the pyramid clubs that are invading our little hamlet had best take an old woman's advice and give an emphatic "NO" when your friends approach you to sign on the dotted line . . . In the first place, you stand a snowball's chance in Hades of winning anything, and in the second place, you're letting yourself wide open to be nabbed by the law because these so-called pyramid clubs are absolutely illegal and are a direct violation of the Maryland Lottery laws . . . If you recall, some time ago Baltimore was overrun with pyramid clubs and quite a large number of people were indicted for violating the lottery law . . . Do be sensible. Remember Mr. Barnum's favorite quotation, "There's a sucker born every minute" . . . Don't YOU be one . . . And incidentally—if you SHOULD bite, don't say I didn't warn you when the club folds up JUST when your name gets near the top.

MY, MY, HOW THE MONEY ROLLS IN—

The parking meters are going strong now . . . They're in official operation and bringing revenue into the coffers of the Town. There are a few "die-hards" protesting the meters, but on the whole, I believe most of the Townspeople are convinced that it's a good, practical improvement and will make for fairer and better parking throughout the shopping district.

IT'S ALL WHITE TO WEAR WHITE NOW—

Guess you're all aware of the fact that the season for wearing white is officially here . . . You can safely wear your last year's Panama hat or your new spectator pumps now without wondering if you're "doing the proper thing" . . . May 15 was the opening date for whites and panamas; so hop to it! LOOK refreshed and cool in summer white even if you are writing underneath your clothes from the heat.

EVERY "PRO." THERE'S "CON" I GUESS—

I say there folks, you all know we have a club known as the "Booster Club," whose function it is to aid the baseball club with financial and other kinds of support, but did you know we also have its "Counter Club" whom we have dubbed the "KNOCKERS CLUB?" Main function of the club is to ridicule and deride the team, directors and anything else connected with the ball club . . . Truly, members are actually crestfallen and unhappy if the local team emerges from the fray victorious . . . They've nothing to gripe about. They've been robbed of something to talk about. Thank the good Lord there are only three or four such members . . . Everyone else is FOR, not AGAINST a successful season . . . I might add that baseball isn't the ONLY thing these confirmed grippers are always criticizing . . . Anything GOOD or CONSTRUCTIVE about the Town, or any resident thereof, is "meat" for them . . . They're not happy unless they're finding something or someone down. How unhappy and miserable to have no pastime but scandal mongering to occupy themselves. Perhaps a good honest day's work would help these afflicted persons. Think so?

AUTO RACING AT FREDERICK MEMORIAL DAY

Affair Will Be
First Of Its Kind
In This County

FREDERICK, Md., May 27 — Stock car drivers from Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland have entered the stock car auto races at the Frederick Fairgrounds, Decoration Day.

According to Director Sam Nunn, the events have already attracted 17 drivers, and at least 10 more are expected to join the starting field before the entry deadline at midnight, Saturday.

The stock car program, first in history on the local fairgrounds track, will consist of time trials, four 10-lap heat races, a match race, and a 30-lap Memorial Day Sweepstakes. Time trials will get under way at 1 p. m., and the first racing event is scheduled at 2:30 p. m.

The field, which includes many of the leading stock car drivers in the East, is headed by Tommy Coates, Trenton, N. J., second place finisher in a stock car race at Langhorne, Pa., Speedway one week ago last Sunday, and holder of the fastest qualifying time in a 100-mile national championship stock car race at Langhorne early last summer.

Other entrants from New Jersey are Jack Camire, Lee McBride, Wally Campbell, Ken Wagner, Bud Willits and Joe Bresner, all of Trenton.

Hank Stanley, of Richmond, is the only entrant from Virginia, and the Pennsylvania delegation will include Irvin Blatt, Hamburg; Dane Terrell and Bill Turner, Newton; Sam Malachi, Lansdale; Chubby Bieker, Morrisville; Ed Tyson, Langhorne and Harvey McDonald, Wernersville.

The state of Maryland will be represented by Vernon Storm, of Randallstown, and Louis Koop, of New Windsor.

Miss Betty Grace Grimes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Grimes, of Emmitsburg, was awarded the Dorothy Fuller McBride Award at the 38th annual commencement exercises of the Frederick Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses. This award was given to the senior student who, throughout her three years of training, showed the greatest sympathy and skilled technique in the care of her patients.

Those attending the exercises were Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Grimes and son, Fred, Mrs. Carrie B. Dern and son and daughter, Leatta and Paul, Miss Carrie F. Long, Mrs. Raymond Roop, Mr. Murray Roop, all of Emmitsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuss and daughter, Mary, Miss Maude Edwards of Covina, Cal; Miss Louise Shafer and Mrs. Thelma Shafer of Frederick; Miss Allie Forrest of Keymar.

You can cut your grass a little shorter during the active growing periods of spring and early summer than during hot, dry weather.

NOTICE

If the parties concerned do not make immediate restitution of the two parking meter stands and heads which were stolen last week from their positions on E. Main St., legal proceedings will be started at once.

The parties are known and are asked to return the meters to the rear of the Fireman's Hall. If this is done at once, there will be no prosecution. These meters are valued at $130 and the expense has to be borne by the Corporation of Emmitsburg.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN
Your name is far more than a word or sound. It gathers up all the lore with which the past has enriched it and comes to you as a treasurer of infinite value.

Today's column continues the names derived from a trade or occupation, begun last week. As promised the first name to be considered today is Stull in response to a request received from Baltimore recently.

LOST NAMES
The origin and meaning of this name is uncertain. It appears lost in the mysteries of the past. It does not occur in any of the Rolls of the Middle Ages so far as this writer has seen. Nevertheless an attempt will be made to piece together the few facts known and there from draw a conclusion. In doing so, this writer claims no infallibility in any conclusion he may reach. It is always possible to be mistaken.

While the origin and meaning of most names are quite certain and can be given as an accepted fact, there are a few names that seem completely lost in the uncertain past. In such cases, and these cases will be mentioned as they occur, this writer will attempt to piece together what is known and draw a plausible conclusion concerning what probably happened.

STULL
The family name of Stull appears to have been derived from the building trade and therefore probably means carpenter. In support of this conclusion the following facts are submitted. In Russia the name was

RETURNS FROM FLORIDA
Mr. Ralph S. Sperry, who has been wintering at Bradenton Beach, Fla., returned last week to his home on S. Seton Ave., accompanied by Mrs. Sperry, who flew down to make the return trip with him.

TANEYTOWN DIAL PHONE JOB IS COMPLETED

Culminating months of preparations and work, Taneytown's new dial telephone system was placed in service at 12:30 p. m., Wednesday by the C. & P. Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

The company said construction of new office building and the installation of dial equipment, outside cable and wire and new instruments required an expenditure of more than $92,000.

It is understood that Emmitsburg's antiquated and heavily-overtaxed system will be next on the telephone company's program for conversion to the modern dial system.

Labrador is expected, in the near future, to produce more than 10,000,000 tons of iron ore every year.

called Stolar and meant Carpenter. From thence the name came to Germany and there was called Stolle to designate the work of the mine carpenter. From Germany the name came to England and there was called Stull. From it the name of Stuller is derived. In England the name was used to designate the work of the carpenter or engineer who installed the strong supporting timbers and pillars in the mine to keep the walls and ceiling from caving in.

As such the name came to take on the characteristic of strong support and enduring foundations like that of the legendary Titan by the name of Atlas who supported the pillars of Heaven on his shoulders.

RECENT NAMES
That fact that the name did not occur in the old rolls, so far as this writer has seen, would seem to indicate that the name may be of recent origin. And that the family, in choosing a name by which to call themselves, looked back to a worthy forefather who was a mine carpenter and building engineer in the construction of the stull. In recognition thereof, they chose to call themselves by that honorable name and forever after be known as Stull.

A letter has been received from the Pacific coast by air mail expressing interest in this column and asking about the names of Storm and Baumgardner. This request is welcomed and will receive attention in the near future.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

SET NEW TRACK RECORDS
In the annual, county-wide senior and junior high school track and field meet held at Frederick High School Tuesday, new marks were set.

A new distance was measured in the running hop-step and jump, when "Bo" Cadle, FHS, stepped off 38 feet, 9 1/2-ins. in the top class of boys weighing over 135 pounds. "Bo" is the son of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Cadle of W. Main St.

In the standing broad jump for seniors, Peninah McNair, EHS, jumped 8-ft. 1-in. to better the previous record by an inch. Peninah is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McNair.

Carrie Hahn, EHS, looped a tenth-second off the 50-yd. dash mark, to 6.7 secs.

PINBALL MACHINES MUST BE LICENSED BY WEDNESDAY

Fee Is Set At $50; Revenue Is Divided To Hospital and General Fund

Clerk of the Circuit Court Ellis C. Wachter said this week that he is prepared to issue pinball machine licenses in compliance with provisions of the local law enacted at the last session of the Legislature.

The law requires the Clerk of the Court to prepare application and license forms as well as provide the metal tags which are to be attached to the machines. These are now available, Mr. Wachter said, and applications may be filed during office hours.

The law requires that owners of pinball machines must pay $50 a year for a license and those who own and operate three or more pinball machines are required to pay $500 a year. The licenses will expire April 13 each year, according to the provisions of the new law. Licenses may be transferred under the law upon application to the Clerk of the Court.

Become Effective June 1

The licenses will be required on and after June 1, Mr. Wachter said, and the first ones will be pro-rated on an 11-month basis. So, instead of paying $50 or $500 as the case may be, the licensees will pay eleven-twelfths of those amounts.

Various estimates have been made of the potential revenue to be produced by the new licensing law. Half of the revenue is earmarked for Montevue and Emergency Hospital; the other half will go into the county general funds.

NO 'GREEK GIFTS'

The Soviet bid for a deal on the Greek war, which follows recent feelers from a Greek rebel minister, may be a sign that the Kremlin is weakening in its drive to capture Greece from without. But that should not tempt this country to compromise.

In recent informal talks with the Russians, details of which the State Department revealed over last weekend, both American and British spokesmen insisted that the basic issue in the Balkans is the aid and comfort which Greece's neighbors to the north have been giving Greek rebels. The United Nations long ago found that Albania, Yugoslavia, and Bulgaria have been violating Greece's borders. The General Assembly has branded this twilight aggression as a threat to the peace.

To date, Russia and her satellites have boycotted all UN efforts to settle the matter, arguing that the UN is meddling in purely internal affairs of Greece. However, by proposing settlement terms to the United States and Britain, the Kremlin admitted in effect what has been obvious all along—that it is qualified to speak for the Greek rebels and is indeed directly behind their campaign.

Among the steps which the Russians named in their offer is prompt withdrawal of all foreign military assistance from Greece. That, as it stands, is a trap. Such would require the United States to cease aiding the Greek army with weapons and advice, thus pulling the pin on the legal Greek government and leaving the Soviet bloc master of the field.

Actually, the proper forum for any discussion of the Greek-Balkan question is the United Nations, which has a special committee to handle the matter. Furthermore—and this must be stressed—the United States cannot join in any peace talks to which the Greek government is not a party.

Our State Department has wisely set the above conditions in turning down the Soviet overture. Let Russia give some real evidence that she is prepared to meet them and call off the war dogs of her satellites—especially those of Albania and Bulgaria—and this country will be ready to consider a settlement.

HEALTH COLUMN

SCARLET FEVER

Scarlet fever, a communicable disease that can lead to severe complications, gets its name from the red rash which usually accompanies it.

Scarlet fever is caused by a tiny germ known as the "hemolytic streptococcus"—one of the same family of germs which causes streptococcal sore throat, erysipelas and other infections. As a matter of fact, streptococcal sore throat and scarlet fever are synonymous except that some people having streptococcal sore throat develop a rash. This is known as "scarlet fever." Others have only the sore throat without developing a rash.

Although spread most frequently from person to person, scarlet fever may also be contracted by people who drink raw, unpasteurized milk from a cow with an udder infected with human hemolytic streptococci. Milk may also be infected by an infected person.

The disease strikes most frequently in winter and late spring, and most cases occur in children between six and 10 years of age. Many years ago, almost every case of scarlet fever was a severe one, and many children died of it. The disease now seems to occur more frequently in a milder form. Furthermore, we have learned more about preventing its spread and caring for its victims, so that the number of deaths from scarlet fever has been greatly reduced.

However, scarlet fever is still highly contagious and the many complications it may cause—ear infections, inflammation of the tonsils or of the joints, and damage to the heart—may be severe. The first symptoms of the disease include sore throat and often nausea, vomiting, and a chill. The pulse quickens and the temperature rises rapidly, sometimes to 104 or 106 degrees.

When a rash does develop (the "scarlet" fever), it usually comes between 24 and 48 hours after the onset of early symptoms. The bright red rash usually comes first on the neck and chest, and then spreads rapidly over the body.

The doctor should be called at the first sign of any early symptoms that may mean scarlet fever, so that he may prescribe treatment which will ward off complications. If complications do occur, prompt medical care reduces their severity.

Since scarlet fever is easily spread, the doctors will suggest precautions to be taken in a household where a person has scarlet fever to protect other members of the family.

Pictured here is the latest addition to Braddock Heights Park—a new 12-car ferris wheel. All ready in operation, the giant wheel will be officially "open for business" on May 30, the Park's opening date for the 1949 season.

Braddock Heights Park will open May 30, it was announced this week by park officials, and will feature as one of its main attractions this year a new, giant, 12-car ferris wheel.

In addition to the huge wheel, Braddock has installed a new kiddie ride, and all the attractions for which the hilltop playground has been famous have been completely overhauled and repainted.

Dick Harp and his orchestra from Hagerstown have been engaged to furnish music at the Park dance pavilion. There will be dancing opening night and every Wednesday evening thereafter for the remainder of the season. Special holiday dances will be held July 4 and Labor Day.

RULES AND REGULATIONS, IF OBEYED, WILL DIMINISH PEDESTRIAN FATALITIES

Some states have fewer pedestrians killed in traffic than others. Why? Their pedestrians have learned to cross at intersections on green lights, and to obey other regulations made expressly for their benefit. In the absence of protective physical improvements at intersections by road engineers, individual common sense judgment was always the guide.

Pedestrian accidents in Maryland present a big and very serious problem when they develop to a point where they represent 43.3% of all fatal accidents in the State.

The mother teaches her baby child to walk at an early age and during this training a sense of balance is attained while the legs grow steady and strong. When assistance is no longer required, the training period is over. The child walks into healthy adulthood and, in more cases than we like to think about, into the path of an oncoming car.

A list of rules for pedestrians have replaced the early training of the mother. These rules have been given wide publicity by safety organizations and police departments, and represent an absolute guarantee of safety for the pedestrian, if adhere to.

- 1—Observe traffic signals.
- 2—Cross streets in pedestrian lanes when possible.
- 3—Look in both directions before crossing a street or highway.
- 4—Do not leave the curb when you will interfere with vehicular traffic.
- 5—Do not stand in a street waiting for a signal to change.
- 6—Look in both directions before stepping from behind parked cars.
- 7—Do not stand in a street or on a roadway to solicit a ride.
- 8—Always walk on the left side of the highway facing oncoming traffic, and step off the pavement when a motor vehicle approaches.
- 9—Never walk on the highway where there is a sidewalk or pathway.
- 10—Always wear white or light clothing, or carry a light when you walk on the highway at night.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

FEED MARKET

Summary for Maryland

Prices of feed on the Baltimore market weakened somewhat during the week ended May 20. Meat scrap was the only feed showing a noticeable increase on the Baltimore market.

This week's broiler-feed ratio of 5.2:1 was the lowest Maryland broiler producers have experienced since the ratio was first calculated 14 months ago. A ratio of 6 to 1 is probably the break even point for the average producer. Broiler prices last week averaged 24.9 cents per pound and 20% broiler mash on Lower Eastern Shore was $95.06 per ton.

National Summary

Feedstuff markets continued to strengthen during the week ended May 18, according to reports to the Department of Agriculture. Wheat mill feeds were independently firm and prices of bran averaged about $3.00 per ton and standard middlings and shorts $1.75 per ton higher. Soybean meal was scarce and prices were up as much as $2.00 per ton at some markets. Cottonseed meal was unchanged but linseed meal was lower. Most other feeds, with the exception of alfalfa meal, were about unchanged. Demand was active for feed for immediate delivery, but buyers generally were cautious about making commitments for deferred shipment. The seasonal increase in the use of poultry feeds was reflected in increased purchases of bran and other ingredients by formula feed manufacturers.

Heavy output of oilseed meals this season brought the total production of feedstuffs to near record levels despite smaller output of wheat millfeeds and alfalfa meal. Production of feedstuffs, October through March, this season totaled 8.5 million tons an increase of 200,000 tons over the same months last season.

GRAIN MARKET

Maryland Summary

Grain markets in Baltimore were steady to higher for the week ended May 20. Wheat and corn prices were steady during the past week. Soybeans, following the national pattern, were 9 to 11 cents per bushel higher than a week ago. There was very little activity in the barley market. New crop barley will probably move in about 2 or 3 weeks.

Support prices for Maryland '49 crop barley are as follows: U. S. No. 1 stored in terminal warehouses in Baltimore or Philadelphia, $1.43 per bushel stored on the farm, $1.26 per bushel. This Baltimore price compares to $1.49 for last year and the $1.26 figure to $1.32 on the 1948 crop.

Support prices for Maryland oats of the 1949 crop have been announced at 78c per bushel for farm stored oats grading U. S. No. 3 or better. This rate compares to 79c, the support figure on 1948 crop oats.

Support prices for Maryland rye of the 1949 crop have been announced at $1.61 per bushel in Baltimore and $1.44 per bushel on farms in the counties for No. 2 or better.

National Summary

Grain markets continued unsettled during the week ended May 10. Wheat prices fluctuated over a rather wide range and were down 5 to 7 cents per bushel at most markets compared with a week earlier. Sharply larger receipts, more favorable prospects and small milling demand were the principal weakening influences. Rye gained about 6 cents per bushel due principally to the small offerings and increased allocations for foreign shipments. Corn and oats held steady but firm with little change in price. Marketings were only moderate but were about in line with trade needs. Barley was unchanged to slightly higher for the marketing qualities. Soybeans were 6 cents per bushel higher than a week ago. Farmers appeared to be holding their soybeans for higher prices. Crushers were only taking supplies for current needs.

MEAT CUT Quiz

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. It is a flank steak.

Q. Where does the cut come from, and how is it identified?

A. It comes from the flank section of beef. There is one flank steak in each hind quarter. It is an oval shaped, boneless, flat steak weighing from 3/4 to 1 1/2 pounds. The muscles run lengthwise so the meat is "scored" to make it more tender.

Q. How should this cut be prepared?

A. The flank steak is braised. It is often cooked with a stuffing. To braise, dredge the steak with seasoned flour and brown it on both sides in a little hot lard. Add 1/2 cup of water or other liquid and cook the meat, covered, at 300°F. for 1 1/2 hours or until the meat is tender. For flank steak fillets, cut the steak into 1 1/2 inch strips, roll, fasten with skewers and braise. For stuffed flank steak, spread the meat with a stuffing, roll it, and fasten with toothpicks, metal skewers, or tie with a string. Brown the stuffed meat on all sides in a little hot lard. Add liquid, cover and cook the meat for 1 1/2 hours in a moderate oven (300°F.). realized. By mail and special delivery, another $165 was sent to the Frederick committee.

The county quota was set at $4,600. The campaign was originally scheduled to close May 1.

Frederick County was unofficially designated as the first of Maryland counties to exceed its quota in the National Cancer Society drive.

Emmitsburg far exceeded its quota by raising approximately $280.

SHORT STORY
The Difficult Date
By EULALIE WEEKS

WHY was she on this train? Why was she taking this trip that was bound to end in heartbreak? "The scenery in this part of the country is lovely, isn't it?"

Sheila turned to the little person beside her. Certainly there was nothing outstanding about her companion, except perhaps a pleasant expression. Sheila was surprised to hear herself asking, "Do you like travelling by train?"

"Oh, yes, replied the woman. "I like watching the outside and the inside both. People are all so wonderful."

Suddenly Sheila felt like keeping the conversation going. "I bet you know a lot about people?"

"I like to think I do. I guess about them and wonder where they are going and why?"

"Where do you think I'm going, then, and why?"

"I'm not sure. At first I thought you were going home to visit your folks for the week-end but you're not happy enough for that. I do think, though, that you're going some place that has some connection with your home."

"Why do you think that, Mrs. er... I'm sorry, I don't mean to be rude!"

"My name isn't Mrs. It's Miss Dolly James. Even' one calls me Miss Dolly."

"Oh," continued Miss Dolly. "I know you're familiar with this country because you never glance back or ahead. You seem to know everything that's coming next."

"That's right. I've made this trip to Ganesville pretty often but not very lately. There's no one there for me to visit any more."

"I'm sorry."

The sympathy in Miss Dolly's voice seemed to be all Sheila needed. "Four years ago today I said goodbye to Dannie Ross on the little platform at Ganesville. Dannie had things figured out pretty well. He didn't think he had any right to tell me how he felt about me then but he said that if he ever came back and I wanted to hear how he felt, he'd meet me on that same platform in four years' time and tell me."

"So you're going to meet him?"

"I'm going to Ganesville."

"Didn't he come back?" was the soft inquiry.

"Yes, he came back, Miss Dolly. "I'm afraid I don't understand."

"Well, it's simple, really. Dannie came back and the very sight of him thrilled me so that I was on top of the world but Dan said he thought I had changed a lot. He said I was sophisticated and cuffed and he paid me lots of lovely compliments but he never once mentioned the subject we discussed."

"He likes the city?"

"He never used to. He always said he wanted to come back and own his own shop and raise a family in the country."

"But you don't want to any more?"

"Of course I do! I'm the same girl inside that he left four years ago. I want the things now that we both wanted then but he doesn't seem to want to find that out."

"Yet you're taking this trip today?"

"I just had to. I promised. But it's no use."

"What makes you think it's no use? Don't you believe he'll be here to see if you have changed or not?"

"I did until last night. We were all at a party and I kept listening for him to drop some hint about our secret date for today but right in front of me I heard him make a date to play golf this afternoon."

"You'd better powder that nose yours. We're nearly to Ganesville."

The tapping at the window attracted her and as the train started slowly to move, she could make out Miss Dolly's words:

"He had to be sure! He had to be sure!"

Sheila's puzzled thoughts about the little lady's last words were interrupted. Two strong arms enfolded her.

"Dan, oh, Dan! How could you?"

"Sheila, dearest," she heard him say, "I had to be sure. I had to be sure..."

A lush range is almost a 'must' for a poultryman raising layers or breeders if he wishes high quality birds at lowest cost.

WORMING OF FLOCK IS CONDUCIVE TO BETTER PRODUCT AND HIGHER YIELD FOR FARMER

How early do chicks get worms? That is a question which poultry raisers in every part of the country often ask. The answer cannot be final, since the occurrence of worm infections in chicks varies with the climate, weather, and other growing conditions.

Usually, however, growing chicks are not troubled with worms much before six or eight weeks. Since this is the usual time at which birds are allowed outdoors in most sections, there seems to be a definite connection between running outdoors and acquiring worm infections.

Are Worms Dangerous?

Again, in the matter of virulence (or strength) of the worm infection, there arises a question: How much damage do worms do? They may do considerable physical damage to the fowl if allowed to progress to the heavy-infection stage. Poultry can tolerate a few worms, but when the parasites start sapping the birds' strength, ruining feed utilization, and causing stunting, it is necessary that they be eliminated.

The examples of progressive poultry-raisers in areas where such worms as the large roundworms (Ascaridia gallinae) and the cecal worm (Heterakis gallinae) are prevalent provide a good guide as to what course to follow. These raisers usually treat their flocks at an early age—six to eight weeks—and they maintain regular worming programs throughout the growing period.

Flock Worm Treatments

Various chemical wormers have been used for many years on wormy poultry. The best of these (since it is the most widely-used) seems to be the nicotine-phen othiazine combination for large-roundworm and cecal-worm removal. Nicotine has been used for many years against large roundworms, and phen othiazine is an unbeatable drug for removal of the cecal worm.

These two drugs are obtainable either straight or in commercial combinations. They can be easily mixed in a flock's mash to provide a quick, convenient, economical worming treatment.

NOTED VIDEO AND RADIO PREACHER WILL APPEAR AT FOREST PARK, HANOVER PROGRAM

Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux, who is well known the country over as the Happy Am I Preacher, is coming to Forest Park, Hanover, Monday, May 30, afternoon and evening, rain or shine, with his famous Happy Am I Choir of radio fame. The Elder, in addition to being on the radio for about 18 years, is one of the oldest radio evangelists in America. He is known from coast to coast for the sunshine and cheer he brings to his hundreds of thousands of listeners every Sunday morning and Friday night.

The Elder styles himself in character as general of the International Forces of Right Against Wrong, who has declared war on the devil. He and his choir draw crowds wherever they go, that aggregate from 10 to 20 thousand persons.

He drew between 10 and 12 thousand people at his last performance at Hanover. The text for the 2 p. m. service will be a Memorial Day sermon, "Where Is the Dead?" At 7 p. m., the text will be "Jesus Christ Is Not a Jew." The Elder proves all that he preaches by the Bible. He makes things so plain that even a child can enjoy his preaching. For two years he has been on television. He is the only preacher in America that has a regular program on television. Life magazine recently carried two pages of his services.

Farmer's Wife — It was good of you, doctor, to come all the way out here to see my husband.
Doctor — Not at all—I had a patient down the road and thought might as well kill two birds with one stone.

TOO CLOSE TO HOME
 Aunt Becky was punctuating the Negro preacher's sermon with "Amen! Amen! . . . Praise de Lawd! . . ." as he lit into every sort of sin from murder to card playing. Then the parson moved on against gossiping and Aunt Becky exclaimed to her neighbor indignantly, "Dar now! He's done stopped preachin' and gone to meddlin'!"

Short Shifts
 "You're not the same baby sitte we left here at seven with our Rub Mae," gasped the matron, comin' in at midnight.
 "No, I'm not," replied the girl calmly. "Marcelline, the sitter you hired, had a special phone call an her sister took over for her at 8:30. Then her sister got a call and I took over at 10:15. And if you hadn't come soon there would have been neighbor on the job."

How to Hurt
 On the bus, two giddy young things were discussing men.
 "Tell me, Marjorie," said the sophisticated one, "what do you do if a man persists in asking for dance—and you hate him?"
 "Tell him your card's full," answered the knowing one.
 "Is that all?" asked the first.
 "Oh, goodness, no," said the smart one. "Say it is—and then let him see it isn't."

Communication
 Employer — Youth has always called to youth.
 Manager — Yes, and generally I office hours on a city phone.

A Wild Country
 Charles M. Schwab, while getting some steel contracts in Great Britain once, was asked concerning a young man who had been with him on a previous visit.
 "I'm sorry," replied the steel magnate, "but he was killed by a revolving crane."
 "My word," gasped the Britisher in flabbergasted amazement. "What fierce birds you have in America."

Delicate Hint
 A stout lady got on the street car and put a parcel of sausages beside her. A young man in plus fours got on at the next stop and sat down on the edge of the parcel.
 Turning to him she said, "Excuse me, but do you play golf?"
 The young man, somewhat taken aback, said he did.
 "Well, would you mind getting off my links?" asked the lady.

MOSTLY SELLING

An artist confesses he put ten years' work into a picture he has just sold. Nine of them are said to have been devoted to selling.

LABOR SAVER
 Two domestic employees were talking over their individual problems in connection with their work. Said one to the other:
 "The lady I work for says I should always warm the plates for our dinner guests. But that's too much work, so I just warm hers and she never knows the difference."

Just Testing Them
 The nice old lady smiled at the little girl who had been left in charge of the cake shop.
 "Don't you sometimes feel tempted to eat one of the cream puffs, my dear?" she said.
 The little girl was quite shocked. "Of course not," she replied. "That would be stealing. I only lick them."

SPORTS CLUB PLANS LAKE

Excavation has been completed for a lake on the Taneytown Rod and Gun Club grounds. When the lake is filled about three acres will be covered with water and the water will be stocked with fish. A pier has also been erected to accommodate about 35 fishermen. The club has planted about 3,100 white pine and spruce trees.

NOTED SCIENTIST PROCLAIMS CONQUERING OF POLIO VIRUS IS NEAR AT HAND

The conquest of infantile paralysis is now within sight, Alton L. Blakeslee, noted science writer predicts in a pamphlet published this week by the Public Affairs Committee, Inc., of New York.
 "No one can predict just when the victory will come, or in what way," he adds, "but medical science is making such progress that there is real cause for optimism."
 Such striking progress has been made in treatment during the past 10 years that only about 15 to 25 per cent of polio victims are now "left more or less severely handicapped. . . . Forty to 60 per cent of the children or adults who get the illness in recognizable form will recover completely, or almost completely, without any visible evidence of paralysis."
 Scientific study of means for preventing the disease has been slower, Mr. Blakeslee admits in the 20c pamphlet "Polio Can Be Conquered," but he lists a number of recent developments that appear to carry great promise. Monkeys have been inoculated against polio safely and effectively, he points out. Unfortunately, the vaccine does not protect the monkeys against all strains of the virus and thus could not offer satisfactory protection for humans.

tips for parents in the event that infantile paralysis breaks out in epidemic form in their neighborhood. Parents are urged to:
 1. Watch for the symptoms that may be weathervanes of polio: A tired feeling, headache, nausea, upset stomach, pains or stiffness in the muscles, or a fever. A big part of the victory in polio is immediate rest and immediate treatment.
 2. Avoid crowds. There is no way of telling who has the virus, who is becoming sick, or who is a healthy, unaffected carrier.
 3. Keep children from becoming overtired or chilled.
 4. Do not let children swim in polluted waters. Attacks of polio have followed such experiences.
 5. Keep clean. Make sure that the children wash their hands before eating.
 6. Keep garbage covered and screen the house against flies.

the camel that broke the man's back

Remember the old story about the merchant and the camel? It was a cold night, and the camel begged to warm his nose—only his nose—in the tent. Then what happened? Little by little, the camel inched in his shoulders, his front legs—until he took over the whole tent. And the merchant was out in the cold.

That's how government agencies are inching their way into the electric business. First, public funds were set aside to build dams—for flood control and navigation. Then it was argued that the water behind the dams could be used to make electricity.

That led to the building of power lines, and then to more dams, more lines, and so on. Now these same agencies want more millions of dollars to build fuel-burning power plants—which have nothing to do with floods or navigation at all.

Yes, the camel of State Socialism is creeping farther and farther into the tent of the electric business. What it is doing here it can do in other industries. For when a government can enter one business in unfair competition with its own citizens, it is but a short step to entering all businesses—and eventually taking over all businesses.

Like the camel and the tent. What business are you in? This can affect you, too. Write your Congressman about it.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Sing a song of Springtime. And almost as welcome as Spring is the tender young asparagus now in season. Right around the calendar, of course, you can buy it canned. In a normal year, fresh asparagus is available from late winter through June, but in this region, it is really abundant only from late April through mid-June.

When you shop for asparagus in the weeks ahead, remember that freshness is a crucial factor in flavor and texture. This vegetable ages very quickly after it's cut. The tips spread, the stalks become tough and woody. So watch out for asparagus with wilted look and spreading tip. Be wary, too, of angular stalks—they also may be tough and stringy.

Good asparagus must be tender and firm, brittle and easily broken. And the entire stalk should show this tenderness, with the exception of an inch or two or the base. The color of the remainder should be a light to dark green.

If you find you have slightly wilted asparagus on your hands, try placing it in water. This may help to freshen it, but such asparagus spears are usually watery and only the tips will be edible.

You'll probably want to boil or steam some of this fresh asparagus, and serve it with melted butter or a special sauce. Use it, too, in appetizing spring salads. Or on a delectable vegetable plate, keeping good company with cheese sauce, sliced tomatoes, and browned potatoes. Another suggestion for a delicious and satisfying luncheon dish is an asparagus omelet. This looks especially attractive served with sliced tomatoes, cottage cheese, and potato chips.

OFFICERS OF NEW NATIONAL CITIZENS GROUP

Prominent Laymen Form Commission To Help In Public School Crisis

Aroused by the continuing nationwide crisis in the public schools, a group of prominent men and women have formed a National Citizens Commission for the Public Schools which will work for concerted action by citizens in their local communities, it was announced May 16. The Commission has received initial financial support from the Carnegie Corporation and the General Education Board.

Dr. James B. Conant, President of Harvard University, hailed it as "potentially the most important move for the advancement of public education taken in the last fifty years."

The Commission is composed exclusively of laymen, many of them outstanding in business, labor, law and publishing. Its twenty-eight initial members are convinced that because of the problems of the times, public schools have never before been so important to the nation.

The Commission is the first organization of its kind established in this century to devote itself to the public schools. It plans to act as a clearing house of information on public school problems for local groups, and to cite outstanding examples of community action for the improvement of public schools.

The Department of Interior has announced the opening of 50 individual farm units for home-stead settlement on the Bureau of Reclamation's Riverton Project in Central Wyoming.

MARRIAGE LICENSE ISSUED

A marriage license was issued in Frederick to Earl L. James and Barbara V. Ott Coyle. The marriage took place last Thursday evening.

"Professional educators, many conscientious school boards, the Parent-Teacher Associations, and other groups are working hard for better public schools," Roy E. Larsen, president of Time & Life and chairman of the group, said. "But the problems of public education are so broad that they concern all of us, and it is time for all of us to understand and do something about them."

Headquarters of the Commission will be at 2 West 45th Street, New York City. When the group is fully expanded it will have sixty members.

The initial twenty-eight members of the new Commission are: Mrs. Barry Bingham, V.P. Louisville Courier-Journal and Times; Stuart Bradley, Mem. Exec. Ed. Louisiana Education Foundation, New Orleans; James F. Brownlee (Vice-Chm.), Chm. of Business Education Committee, Committee for Economic Development, Fairfield, Conn.; John Cowles, Pres., Minneapolis Star and Tribune; Edward R. REWARD FOR REALISM: A former court reporter in New York called Hoyt Allen, director of CBS' "Perry Mason," to say that he has suddenly become an ardent "Perry Mason" fan. He listened to the show for the first time during the recent court trial scene, and was amazed to hear a show that followed court procedure so faithfully. Small wonder! Erle Stanley Gardner, creator of the "Perry Mason" character, is himself an able lawyer, and an acknowledged expert on criminal law, often being called in on unusual or particularly puzzling cases. Irving Vondig, who writes original radio scripts especially for the CBS program, has also studied criminal law extensively, and used to be a crime reporter in the City News Bureau in Chicago.

"Perry Mason" as played by John Larkin

After a recent telecast of NBC's "Who Said That?", guest Paul Winchell, the famed ventriloquist, started to put Jerry Mahoney, his saucy dummy, away in an aluminum suitcase. Apparently unseen by Winchell, a small girl had come out of the audience and was gazing at Jerry. "Wait a minute!" shouted the dummy. "Don't put me away yet, there's a girl over here I want to see."

Mutual's "Juvenile Jury" kids are just back from a short ski vacation in Ste. Adele, Quebec. They were all thrilled by the plane trip, but the two stories we liked best were about six-year-old Elizabeth Watson. The plane had been in the air only a few minutes, when Elizabeth's small voice piped up: "Mr. Pilot . . . have we passed Mars yet?" Before the group landed, she asked permission to wire home. She wanted to ask her mother if she could marry the handsome co-pilot. But then, only two short days later, Elizabeth exercised the traditional prerogative of her sex: she broke her "engagement" in favor of the equally handsome photographer who took the trip with them.

Sheriff To Co-operate With AA In Curing Drinking Prisoners

Rehabilitation of alcoholics held in the county jail on drunkenness or other charges may be facilitated by co-operation between county officials and Alcoholics Anonymous as a result of discussion during the conference of the National Jail Association members in Baltimore last week.

Sheriff Guy Anders, who attended, brought back the idea which may, he thinks, do much to remedy the county's problem with alcoholics.

Other communities have found success in a plan through which AA members work in groups or individually with prisoners, not only during jail terms but after release. Statistics establish that 60 per cent to 75 per cent of all jail populations are alcoholics, either arrested on drunken charges or as an outgrowth of drinking, and their care and rehabilitation represents one of the most perplexing problems confronting penologists at present.

The AA plan is proving workable in Baltimore, the warden there told the conference, and while results are not 100 per cent progress is being made.

Also subject of panel discussion was Maryland's system of care for the aged. Representatives from Pennsylvania described experiences there with centralized hospitals which some years ago replaced the county homes and almshouses. Instead of improving the local situation, the consolidation made it much worse, Pennsylvania delegates declared, for now county jails are made a catch-all for homeless old persons, those suffering from senile dementia and other disabilities of age. As a result prison authorities are increasingly perplexed to find accommodations for prisoners. The consensus was that Maryland's present county home system is preferable.

While admitting conditions in mental institutions are poor, the officers agreed that Maryland's hospitals are no worse than those in other states. However, the country's increasing number of mentally ill complicates administration of county jails because a number of them must be housed there pending commitment and proper hospitalization.

Local Fishermen Warned Against Snagging Suckers

A strong anti-snagging law, passed by the recent session of the Legislature, becomes effective on June 1, it was announced this week by Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Phebus, Sr.

The law, which reads in part: "It shall be unlawful to engage in the practice of snagging fish by means of hooks," provides a fine of from $10 to $25, plus $5 for every fish unlawfully taken.

Phebus said the law will apply mostly to the northern section of Frederick County, where fishermen practice snagging. The warden said he warned several Emmitsburg fishermen recently regarding sucker snagging on Toms and Friends Creeks.

The new law will not affect the snagging of fish in the tidal section of the Potomac River at Chain Bridge, since that part of the river is located in the District of Columbia.
