Dear Abigail:

This is a letter in answer to your request for advice printed in the Abigail column of the Chronicle, May 20, 1949.

I think the Chronicle deserves great credit for the splendid work they are doing in the Community, but when it comes down to the publicity you have given some of the baseball players, and your article concerning expectant mothers, this is just too much.

As you stated, everyone loves a baby! That is all very true, but don't you know it could and does put some people in a very embarrassing position? Not everyone is so bold as to want their personal affairs splashed on the front page of the paper. If you are doing this with permission, then I suppose it is all right, but I know of cases that you didn't have permission. After the baby arrives safely, then congratulate the parents in your column.

As for your articles on baseball, I think they are very interesting. You have, however, hurt the feelings of some of the players with your "slander." It has caused ill feelings among the players themselves, and sport fans, as a whole. I think the Chronicle owes a letter of apology to these certain boys. (You know of whom I speak.)

I am not a subscriber to the Chronicle, and do not wish to be until some of Abigail's articles have been somewhat censored.

You suggested patterning the column after Walter Winchell. I suggest you pattern your paper after one of the greatest papers in the country, the New York Times, and publish some of your letters of less desirable criticisms as well as complimentary letters.

A READER.

Well, well, and how do you like that for a real red hot "fan" letter? It's surely one that berates me and my column—but plenty . . . Evidently the writer of the above letter had his or her toes stepped on in one of my recent issues, hence the sudden distorted outburst of sympathy for expectant mothers and baseball players . . .

In answer to the nasty cracks made by the writer about publishing events of the future "blessed events," to be exact, I can only say that of all the scientific exploits and discoveries of the most brilliant scientists in the world today, none of them including the magnificent work on the world-famous Atom Bomb can even be compared to the phenomenal conception of the birth of a child . . . Wait till it arrives, then congratulate the parents, you say? Oh no . . . Surely a coming event like that should be HERALDED, not HIDDEN like something ugly and shameful . . .

As for your feeling that certain mothers-to-be are put in "embarrassing positions" by notices like that in a newspaper you're SO wrong . . . On the contrary I've always been informed that the outstanding emotion experienced by prospective parents is PRIDE . . . unlimited . . . unabounded PRIDE . . . Physically it's perfectly obvious to fellow residents that the "bird of happiness" is soon to pay a visit, so why not spread the glad tidings to our out-of-town readers who are also interested in you and what happens to you . . . How about baby showers? Approve of them, don't you? Is that not an announcement just as much as a newspaper notice? . . . The births of kings and queens, princes, peasants and ordinary folks like us all merit heralding—the former condone it, so why not the latter? Surely, a royal birth is no better than our own? . . . ROADS COMMISSION WILL SURVEY COUNTY ROADS

Emmitsburg May Benefit From Increased Mileage Revenue

Equipped with the latest road-measuring devices, a special three-man crew of the Maryland State Roads Commission will start next Monday, June 6, to make the first complete inventory of Frederick County's roads in 11 years.

Not since 1938 has there been a mile-by-mile check-up of the various highways in Frederick County. A survey limited to State roads in 1945 showed 298.99 miles of such highways in Frederick County. In 1947 an inventory of street mileage in incorporated towns, necessitated by a legislative change in road fund distribution, showed a total for Frederick County of 92.85 miles of such streets. The figure for county roads—1,007.48 miles—goes back, however, to the 1938 inventory.

The survey that is to start Monday will require a few months to complete.

The survey crew will traverse the Frederick County roads in an automobile equipped with a special odometer, which records distances to one-one thousandth of a mile; a grade meter, which measures the per cent of grade, and a gyroscopic directional compass which records the degree of curvature of every bend in the roads traveled.

While one member of the survey crew drives the car slowly over the road, the other two crew members record the reading of the special instruments on enlarged road maps, at the same time noting other pertinent features of the road and the surrounding country.

These features include such items as the width and type of road surfacing, the width of the road shoulders, width of the right-of-way and the relative location of all houses, farms, factories, schools, churches, business establishments, mines, drainage structures such as culverts and bridges.

The 11 incorporated towns in Frederick County in which municipal streets will be measured are Emmitsburg, Thurmont, Frederick, Burkittsville, Brunswick, Middletown, New Market, Myersville, Mt. Airy, Walkersville and Woodsboro.

The periodic inventory of its road system is important to any county in Maryland since it is on the basis of mileage, as officially recorded in these surveys, that the counties are given their proportionate allocation of county road funds by the State Roads Commission.

Lutherans Organize Young Adult Class

A League of Young Adult Lutherans of Elias Lutheran Church is in the process of being organized. The pastor, Rev. Philip Bower, has appointed Dr. and Mrs. James Allison heads of the groups of young adults which will be formed in the near future.

Dr. and Mrs. Allison accepted the appointment and are interested in the work. Every young adult between the ages of 25 and 40 is eligible for participation. None under 25 or over 40 will be included.

There will be a gathering of the group once a month. The first gathering for a party and program will be Tuesday, June 14.

CAR HITS FENCE

Harry Strine, Littlestown, Pa., escaped injury last Saturday night when his car skidded near the Square in Emmitsburg and ran into a fence on the J. Edward Houck property.

State Trooper James Stoner said the car skidded on a wet spot when Strine applied the brakes, causing the machine to skid off the street into the fence. No serious damage was done, the officer reported.

People who have a past to forget should never enter politics.

Married 55 Years Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus W. Eckenrode on Sunday, June 5, will quietly observe their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary. The couple was married June 5, 1894 at a nuptial mass in Holy Trinity Church, McSherrystown, Pa., by the late Rev. J. Leo Brand, S. J.

Mrs. Eckenrode, before her marriage, was Miss Agnes Louise Klunk, daughter of the late Joseph and Catherine Lang Klunk, and was born in McSherrystown on June 30, 1864.

Mr. Eckenrode was born in Littlestown, on March 13, 1864, and was the son of Eli and Eliza Eckenrode.

Three children were born of the wedding. They are Mrs. J. Lester Topper, Catonsville; Edward J. Eckenrode, Hanover; Mrs. Charles Cinegran, at home. There are five grandchildren.

Mrs. Eckenrode is a member of St. Joseph's Academy in McSherrystown and is thought to be the oldest living member of that group.

Mr. Eckenrode was for 30 years employed as farm superintendent at Saint Joseph's College. He is an honorary member of the Brute Council of the Knights of Columbus, being the oldest member of 47 years, and is also an honorary member of the McSherrystown Fire Company, of 20 years' standing.

The Chronicle staff and the many friends of this couple wish them a very happy anniversary.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

Continuing with those who named themselves after their occupation, the column today will begin, as promised last week, with one of the requests received from the Pacific Coast. That is the question with reference to the name of Baumgardner. This is a prevalent name in America found in almost every community of any size. In the telephone directory of Frederick which includes Emmitsburg, 12 families by this name are listed. Westminster telephone directory lists 12 families by this name.

BAUMGARDNER

This is a name of German ancestry. It is a name derived from an occupation of its founder. It is an occupation very prominent in this vicinity. That is an Orchardist or Nurseryman, a grower of fruit trees or one engaged in fruit culture by means of an orchard.

The name is formed in such a way as to describe the occupation, by merging two words into one. The first is Baum.

That is the German word for tree. It suggests that the one who chose the name was engaged in a profession dealing with trees. The other half of the name is Gardner. That means one who cultivates an inclosure. Taken together the name therefore means one who cultivates fruit trees set out in the form of an orchard for the purpose of producing fruit.

DOMESTIC SERVANTS

It is surprising to note how many families named themselves after the profession in which they were engaged at the time. This is true with many names in Emmitsburg. Take, for example, the occupation of the Domestic Servant. In our day this has become almost an obsolete profession in America. But it was not so in the old days, especially in the Old-World, and in many parts of the world today.

In the olden days society was usually divided into about two classes, the aristocracy and the servant class, or the Nobility and those who worked for the nobleman. And working for the nobleman was a respected and worthy occupation, from which numerous family names have come. Most of the work in the nobleman's castle was in the area of the domestic servant, from which examples will now be given and family names derived therefrom.

MARSHALL AND BAKER

John, the chief servant and head of all the servants, would be known as John, the marshal, and eventually called John Marshall. By that he would distinguish himself from all the other servants in the castle by the name of John. In like manner John who had charge of the dining room would become John Butler. And John who had to taste all the food became John Guster, sometimes called Custer. John who had charge of the kitchen became John Cook or John Kitchen. John who had charge of the baking became known as John Baker. And John who did the baking in the King's palace became known as John Crumbacker. John who attended the baron's family became known as John Page. And John who officiated in the baron's watch tower became known as John Keepers.

John who was the door keeper became John Porter or John Usher, John who had charge of the storeroom became known as John, the dispenser, and therefore called John Spence. John who had charge of the rooms of the castle became known as John Chambers. And John who had charge of the treasury became John Chamberlain. John who had charge of the landlord's estate became known as John Stewart. John who had charge of the stables became known as John Groom. And John who had charge of the dispensary became known as John Spittle or John Spittler, from which is derived the word hospital meaning Guest of the Spittle.

Thus it can be seen how numerous are the family names derived from this one common occupation of the domestic servant. Next week other names in Emmitsburg, derived from other occupations, will be considered.

TEAM SNAPS LOSING STREAK; DEFEATS THURMONT SUNDAY

Club Is Strengthened; Split Four Contests Over Four-End

Emmitsburg's rejuvenated baseball team crashed the win columns over the weekend, although it took eleven innings and several casualties in the one affray.

In the Penn-Maryland League game at Thurmont last Sunday, Rothe pitched the locals to their first win, behind good defensive play, 11-8. Among those sidelined for injuries were D. Saylor, Deardorff and Bach. However, D. Saylor will be the only one out of the lineup indefinitely with a strained muscle. It is expected both Bach and Deardorff will be seen in action this Sunday.

After losing to Conewago last Saturday, 8-2, in the Adams County League play, Emmitsburg took Orrtanna into camp for its first win in the morning game Monday morning, 4-3. D. Joy hurled for the Emmitsburg nine. In the afternoon tilt at Bendersville, Emmitsburg lost 10-6, behind the pitching of Smith.

Team Strengthened

With the addition of several new players, it appears the local ball club is on its way to more wins. The defensive play has been strengthened considerably with Bach, Deardorff and Smith. No doubt Smith will be shifted to shortstop, Bach on second, with Deardorff going to rightfield. In addition, it was announced yesterday the services of Kenneth Deardorff have also been secured and he will don a uniform for this Sunday's game.

Emmitsburg is host to McSherrystown here Sunday afternoon, game time being 2:30. McSherrystown has come up with 3 wins and two losses in the Penn-Maryland League play.

Saturday Game At Gettysburg

In the Adams County League, Emmitsburg travels to Gettysburg Saturday to play Gettysburg on the college grounds. Game time, 2:30.

Game Tuesday Night

The twice postponed game with Harney because of inclement weather has been scheduled again for Tuesday night, June 7, on the Firemen's Field. Game time will be called for 6:15.

BOOSTERS' CLUB

Business Manager Norman Flax announced this week the following names have been added to the Booster Club: Neighborhood Service Station, Wagerman's Lunch Room, William Rowe, Robert Gillean and Charles Harner.

POTOMAC EDISON CO. HONORS LOCAL CITIZEN

CHARLES F. TROXELL

Mr. Troxell was honored Friday night in Hagerstown by the Potomac Edison Company when he was made a member of that firm's twenty-five-year membership club.

The Potomac Edison Company's honorary organization, the Quarter Century Club, took in 47 new members Friday night at their annual dinner meeting. Held in the ballroom of the Hotel Alexander, Hagerstown, the meeting was conducted for those PE members who have been with the company 25 years or more.

A local resident who received a 25-year pin and a certificate was Charles F. Troxell, Emmitsburg.

Awards were also made to those who had been associated with the Potomac Edison System for 30, 35, 40, and 45 years.

Following the dinner and entertainment, R. Paul Smith, president of Potomac Edison told the 267 Quarter Century Club members, "To those who have met the high qualifications of this organization in the past, and now comprise its present membership, and to those just qualifying tonight, I extend greetings and congratulations. You can well hold your heads high, proud in the knowledge that you have set an example that those of us following after may well attempt to equal."

New Race Track Opens At Oxon Hill, Md.

Beautiful new Rosecroft Raceway opened last Friday night to an estimated crowd of 10,000 people. The new track is owned and operated by Mr. William Miller and son, Washington furniture tycoon.

During the first week of its existence, the new harness racing track grossed over $1,000,000 through the pari-mutuel windows and an estimated attendance of 50,000 viewed the eight races held nightly at 8:15 at the raceway located at Oxon Hill, about five miles outside of Washington.

Among the harness trotters and pacers is the Eyer Bros. Stable, operated by Joseph and William Eyer, well-known Thurmont sportsmen, and so far the boys have made a grand showing.

PTA DANCE TONIGHT

Emmitsburg High School PTA is sponsoring a dance for the students and their friends tonight in the high school auditorium. Music will be furnished by Gene Frock and his orchestra from Westminster.

The association has expended a great deal of effort towards making these dances successful and it is hoped the committees in charge will receive cooperation from the students and their parents in continuing to sponsor affairs of this sort for the youths of our Town.

The sacrament of baptism was administered on Sunday, May 22, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church by the Rev. Michael O'Brien to the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shields. The child received the name of Mary Diane and the sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Topper, aunt and uncle of the infant.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Parker, near Town, was baptized and received the name of James Lee. The sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott. Mrs. Parker is the former Kitty Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simpson.

NO DECISION IS REACHED IN LIQUOR HEARING

Three Attorneys Represent Applicants For Off-Sale License

Up until Thursday night no decision to the appeal of Louis Cooper and Richard Rosensteel for an off-sale liquor license in the Emmitsburg District was reached by Liquor License Commissioner G. Cleveland Trout.

After listening to five hours of testimony and arguments from an array of counsel in the Circuit Court room in Frederick last Friday, the Commissioner took under advisement the second application. The Commissioner had previously refused a license, holding there was no need for a third such license in this district.

A petition signed by 251 residents of Emmitsburg District in behalf of the applicants was presented and was subject to two interpretations from rival attorneys. Those for the applicants pointed to the petition as a directory from the signers, "some of the best people in Emmitsburg," to grant the license because present accommodations were inadequate. E. Austin James, attorney for the protesting residents, said that it was a petition not to deny a war veteran an opportunity to get into business.

Claim Population Increase

Attorneys for the applicants contended that the population of Emmitsburg District is now 5,000, holding that there are at least 4,500, which would justify the granting of the license within the Commissioner's rule, which limits one such license to each 1,500 residents. There are two Class A licenses in Emmitsburg District now.

Several witnesses were produced to show that the two liquor stores in Emmitsburg now are not adequate to properly serve the public. The new store, it was argued by Mr. Storm, would bring customers down from Pennsylvania to help swell Maryland income from alcoholic beverages.

Benjamin B. Rosenstock and Alton J. Bennett were associated with Mr. Storm as attorneys for the applicants. Francis Petrott joined with Mr. James as a "friend of the Commissioner" as counsel for the protesters. Mr. Petrott said the Frederick County Liquor Dealers Assn., which he represents, has opposed the granting of the new Class A license in Emmitsburg. T. West Claggett Jr., represented the Commission.

Mr. James announced that he may wish to present an additional witness next week. No date was set to hear the additional witness, if called.

High School Alumni Dance Saturday Night

The Emmitsburg High School Alumni banquet will be held tomorrow evening, June 4, at seven o'clock in the Lutheran Parish Hall.

Following the banquet the alumni and their guests will attend a dance in the high school auditorium at nine o'clock. Music will be furnished by Cliff Russell and his orchestra from Harrisburg.

Friends are invited to attend this dance and join in the gaiety. Dress will be informal.

TO GIVE CONCERT

The Emmitsburg High School Glee Club will present a Spring Concert Monday, June 6, in the high school auditorium.

The glee club, under the direction of many varieties of music. It was announced that there will be no admission charge.

NEEDED—A SPONSOR

It is the primary duty and obligation of every citizen and civic organization of a community to make provisions for the adequate care, protection and education of its younger charges. Unfortunately, this duty has been sadly neglected in Emmitsburg.

Many youths of the town, between the ages of 12 and 16 find themselves at a loss, especially during the months when our schools are closed, to spend their leisure time in an advantageous manner. Consequently they roam the streets and eventually become charges of the courts, or even worse, commit felonies.

Summing up the local situation, one readily diagnoses that the boys really do not have an appropriate manner in which to occupy themselves. Aside from movies, bowling (these take money which some can't afford) and a little swimming, there is no other organized sport for them to participate in and the resultant factor is idleness—and perhaps trouble.

In many neighboring towns—many smaller than Emmitsburg—civic organizations, especially service groups, have found the solution to their juvenile problems by maintaining junior ball teams. These clubs not only solve the idleness element, but provide an education in sportsmanship and are beneficial to the health of the growing youngsters.

Investigation of these groups prove to us that the minor expenses entailed in maintaining them are a worthwhile investment. The Emmitsburg Baseball Association has generously announced that it will lend any equipment it has, to the cause, which eliminates a major portion of the expense. Jack Rosensteel has unselfishly proffered his time and talent in stating he is willing to manage the team. With the elimination of these perplexing obstacles, one more item remains to be clarified—sponsorship.

The two local service organizations, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, have in the past, performed outstanding service to the country and community and we believe they will see the wisdom in sponsoring this movement to form a local Junior Legion team. Many of these members have sons that are eligible to participate in the National Pastime. It would, indeed, be a valuable public service to the community.

OVER 200 CASES OF CANCER REPORTED IN COUNTY

In the months from January 1, 1948 through March 31, 1949 a total of 202 cancer cases in Frederick County were reported to the Frederick Health Department but this is estimated to be merely 78 per cent of the existing cases of the disease. Figures indicate that progress is being made in bringing sufferers from cancer to medical aid as physicians in private practice, hospitals, health departments and volunteer groups work together to educate the public in facing the cancer scourge.

Frederick County with Harford, Washington and Montgomery is the site of demonstration work in the field and Dr. P. F. Prather, acting health officer, reports that for the 15-month period ending Mar. 31, 800 cases of malignancy were diagnosed or treated in the four counties. However, on the basis of county death rates in relation to population it is estimated that an additional 700 diagnosed cancer cases, under medical care, have not been reported for inclusion in the statistics.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Maryland gardens are outdoing themselves this spring and early gardeners are already enjoying the fruits (or vegetables) of their labor. That means that spring canning has arrived, so that now is the time to give your pressure canner a good going-over before you begin to can.

Remember that success in cooking and canning, depends largely upon the accuracy of your gauge. If it doesn't register properly, the food you're canning may be over- or under-processed. So check the gauge for accuracy with a master gauge at least once a year—or any time that the indicator fails to return to zero.

Keep that safety valve in good working order too. The main purpose of this valve is to permit steam to blow off automatically if pressure rises beyond the safety point. It protects against overheating and exploding, preventing what could be a horrible accident.

Other musts pointed out are, clean the petcock—it has to be clean to work freely. If the canner has a rubber gasket, test it for tightness. You can do this by heating some water in the canner, with the cover on and tightened. If the steam escapes along the sides, there's something wrong with the gasket. In that case, you'd better find out what, or get a new one—right away. For if there is a leak, the pressure never will build up to the desired point, the water will boil away—and you'll be in trouble.

Persons with symptoms were referred for medical examination and one cancer diagnosis in the group established.

As routine procedure, a health department nurse contacts each physician reporting a case of malignant neoplasm to determine if public health nursing service is desired. This includes showing the patient and the family how to carry out the physician's instructions, assisting in providing transportation to medical facilities arranging for the care of the advanced cancer patient, and rendering other services that the physician considers necessary.

Don't be too rough with a pessimist. Some of them are that way because they backed an optimist.

Dick Harp and his 13-piece orchestra, well-known in this area for their appearances at Camp Detrick, Shepherd College, the Hotel Alexander and the Alsatia Club in Hagerstown, and many club and society dances, will appear each Wednesday night beginning June 1 at Braddock Heights Park, and will play special holiday dance sets there on July 4 and September 5.

The Harp organization will feature Ray Birely as vocalist, and Trombonist Phil Lester, formerly with Les Brown's Orchestra. Lester, now a music teacher in Washington, played with the nationally-known combination until six months ago.

Playing weekly at the cool Braddock pavilion, Harp's Orchestra will also star Bill Fisher, tenor sax player, who was the leader of the famous Twenty-Ninth Division Band during the last war. Most of the orchestra members are veterans and have been playing with Harp since '47.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

GRAIN

Summary for Maryland
The wheat market in Baltimore weakened during the week ended May 27, with prices averaging 4 cents per bushel lower. Corn markets held fairly steady. Barley prices were slightly higher than last week. Soybeans, contrary to the national trend, declined sharply as much as 12 cents per bushel on the Baltimore market. Hay markets held about unchanged.

National Summary
Wheat markets became more active following the expiration of futures, and by May 25 cash prices had regained most of the losses of the previous week, reports from the Department of Agriculture indicate. Open market offerings of wheat were small despite considerable increase in movement since most of the receipts were being applied on the Commodity Credit Corporation's contracts. Milling demand broadened as a result of some improvement in the flour business. Corn markets held fairly steady with little change in price. Marketings continued relatively small, but were about in line with trade needs. Oats were individually weak due principally to most liberal offerings and the nearness of the new crop. Prices were down as much as 7 cents per bushel at some southwestern markets. Barley held about unchanged to 3 cents a bushel lower. Grain sorghums were up 3 to 5 cents per hundred pounds as a result of an active demand and light offerings. Rye was down about 2 cents per bushel and there were no quotations on flaxseed. Demands for soybeans were fairly active and prices were steady to slightly higher.

FEED MARKET

Summary for Maryland
Prices of most feeds held steady on the Baltimore market for the week ended May 27. Distillers' dried grains advanced over 2%—an increase of $2.34 per ton. The alfalfa meal market weakened further with a sharp drop of more than 10% noted in the price of 17% dehydrated alfalfa meal on the Baltimore market—

$6.63 per ton less than last week. Sixteen per cent dairy feed decreased $2.17 per ton—over 3% less than last week's average on the Baltimore market.

The broiler-feed ratio for Maryland producers showed a slight upward trend for the week May 20 through May 26. Broiler prices averaged 25.4 cents per pound and 20% broiler mash on Lower Eastern Shore averaged $94.50 per ton. On this basis one pound live weight broiler would buy 5.4 lbs. of feed as compared with 5.2 lbs. last week.

National Summary
A sharp drop in wheat millfeed prices to a more normal relationship with other feeds was the outstanding feature in the feed market during the week ended May 24. Improved pasturage, liberal supplies of feed grains, and a material slackening in demand following the sharp price gains of recent weeks were principally responsible for a decline in the millfeeds. While the lower prices for bran and middlings had a weakening influence on the market for other feeds, declines in most of the other feeds were relatively small. Corn feeds were unchanged to about a $1.50 per ton lower. Oilseed meals were steady to about $1.00 per ton under a week ago. The principal feed grains were about unchanged to 75¢ per ton higher.

Supplies of byproduct feeds the first half of the 1948-49 season are the largest of record and totalled over 8½ million tons. In relation to grain consuming animal units supplies are somewhat larger than last year and 15% above the average for the war years. Record output of oilseed meals more than offset smaller supplies of wheat millfeeds. With large supplies of feed grains and byproduct feeds, feedstuff prices thus far this season have averaged 25% under the same period last year. Feeding costs have declined more than livestock, dairy and poultry products, with the result that feeding ratios are more favorable than a year ago and are either above or near the average.

sequently, whether or not my antagonistic "fan" approves I shall not only sing the praises BEFORE but also AFTER the little tyke has opened its eyes to the light of the new world . . . So I shall continue publishing Mr. Stork's impending visits. If there should possibly be any prospective parents who are desirous of my NOT publishing their names, a word by phone or letter to me will certainly do the trick . . . Unless I hear from them I shall take silence as consent . . . As far as I can recall the CHRONICLE has never published any article that they were specifically requested NOT to . . . We try to be fair, too, you see . . .

As for your opening paragraph about my "request for advice" in May 20 issue, I believe you will find that you misinterpreted and misread the article written by me . . . I did not ask for ADVICE . . . I have been writing this column long enough to know what I CAN, CAN'T, SHOULD, and SHOULDN'T write, and what's legal and what's illegal . . . If you will re-read May 20th issue, you will find I said, "Readers, wouldn't you like to send in little tips for my column." There's a vast difference, you see, between news tips and advice.

I did most emphatically NOT say I would like to pattern my column after Walter Winchell . . . Abigail and her predecessors has had her own pattern for years and I see no reason to change her style now . . . I merely stated that if other columnists like W.W. and Jimmy Fidler can publish Blessed Events, why not I?

And now—I'm quite sure you overestimate the damage done to the morale of our ball players and fans by criticism . . . Real sportsmen would survey the situation, and if the shoe fits, well then, they try to rectify the situation, and are better men for it . . . I believed when I wrote as I did that we have fellows of that caliber on our ball club, and I STILL do even after receipt of your letter . . . If perhaps one of them is a sniveller (who knows it may be YOU who wrote the above complaining letter) well, all I can say is he should never have been on the team in the first place . . . if that's as much of a sportsman as he can be . . . No, I don't think an apology is in order, because frankly our ball club is improving tremendously, shall we say, IN SPITE of my remarks. I'm most grateful proud of them . . . Most of the fellas can really "take it." There is more harmony among the players than before . . . THIS from several players themselves.

So you're not a subscriber, and you don't intend to be . . . Well, frankly, that's o.k. with me . . . You see I can't help but wonder why you've been reading Abigail for so many months, possibly years, and only just now got your dander up . . . Up to now you apparently approved of the column . . . Hmm, As I said in my first paragraph, could I have stepped on your toes in my recent issues?

EDITOR'S NOTE: You realize, of course, that ordinarily you would not be granted the courtesy of a reply since you very apparently didn't want to sign your name, either from shame or some other reason, but I want you and my readers to know I want to be a sport. However, in the future, I shall make no replies to or publish any letters that are anonymous.

Luncheon with Wendy Warren

I guess I'm just lazy when it comes to luncheon interviews. I like the ones close to CBS, so I can leave after my "Wendy Warren and the News" broadcast at 12:15, and be at the restaurant in a matter of minutes. Today I took vivacious Betty Winkler, star of CBS's "Rosemary", to Louis and Armand's, which is directly across from CBS. But I'm beginning to run out of close ones . . . maybe I should save a few for a rainy day. For a small restaurant, Louis and Armand's is almost "plushy". We took a table right in the middle, where we could scan the predominantly radio crowd, and spotted a lot of friends. The food is excellent, with a strong emphasis on sea foods, and a superb chef's salad, which was what we both ordered.

Betty Winkler, as you probably know, has the rare good fortune to be part of a husband-and-wife team . . . on a daytime serial! Betty first met her husband, George Keane, when he auditioned for, and landed, the part of Bill Roberts on "Rosemary". It wasn't too long before wedding bells rang on the program for Rosemary and Bill . . . but the courtship must have been mighty realistic, because Betty and George were married in real life soon afterwards!

Betty Winkler

Betty was born in Berwick, Pennsylvania, and a few years later her family moved to Akron, Ohio, where 4-year-old Betty first showed her histrionic talent in a blackface song routine at a local entertainment. Along with her first year of kindergarten, Betty plunged right into dramatic lessons and piano instruction. With such an early start, it is not surprising that when she graduated from Hyde Park High School in Chicago, Betty was engaged as a member of the Cleveland Playhouse Repertory Company, and played leads with the troupe for a year in Akron and surrounding cities.

Then, about 1937, came radio, and Betty Winkler started right out playing leads in such programs as "The Trial of Vivian Ware", "Girl Alone", "Abie's Irish Rose", and now, "Rosemary".

In addition to their radio work, Betty and George belong to Actors Studio, a select experimental acting group headed by two of Broadway's top people, Director Elia Kazan and producer Cheryl Crawford.

As we sipped our coffee, I asked Betty what difference success has made in her attitude toward her work. "It's wonderful," said Betty. "I used to have to spend all my time getting ahead. Now I find that I have much more time to devote to some of the things I have always wanted to study . . . music, art, psychiatry . . . and even cooking! Then, with a twinkle in her eye, Betty added, "I'd love to have you come for dinner some night." What could I do? My hand was forced to reach for the check.

ADMINISTRATION PLANNING MANY NEW BENEFICIAL PROVISIONS IN SOCIAL SECURITY PROGRAM

Growth of the old-age and survivors insurance system in the U. S., as just reported to Congress in the 1948 Federal Security Agency annual report, is reflected in this area by data from the Hagerstown social security office. William J. Lanahan, manager, stated today that as of June 30, 1948, when data in the agency report was compiled, there were 2,566 people in the three counties served by the Hagerstown office who were receiving $43,013 monthly in old-age and survivors insurance benefits. He said that by the end of April, 1949, these figures had mounted to an estimated 3,000 people receiving $50,000 monthly, or a general rise of about 16% during the 10-month period.

The Social Security Administration section of the report showed that in the United States on June 30, 1948, there were 2,163,000 persons receiving monthly benefits amounting to $42,000,000. These Federal insurance benefits go to insured, retired workers over 65, their wives if over 65, and their dependent children, and to the widows, children, and dependent parents of insured wage earners who have died.

Interim reports which have been prepared show that by April 30, 1949, the number of these insurance beneficiaries had climbed on up to 2,480,000 men, women and children getting benefits at the rate of $49,750,000 per month. As the report showed "The social security programs . . . operated during the fiscal year 1948 in a setting of full employment, a record peacetime production of goods and services, and rising prices . . . Earnings were higher, and the aggregate volume of savings increased."

The Social Security Administration's section of the report, covering operations of the Children's Bureau and the Bureaus of Public Assistance, Employment Security, and Old Age Insurance, is being received with special attention this year because of several proposals for changes in these programs now under study in Congress. Under mandate from Congress to submit recommendations for needed revisions in the law, the Administration proposed in the report, with respect to old-age and survivors insurance, that:

- 1—Coverage for wage earners be extended to farm people, the self-employed, domestic workers and most other gainful workers now excluded;
- 2—The rate of benefits be substantially increased, from the present maximum for a family of $85 up to a possible $150. Most beneficiaries, present and prospective, would have their monthly payments increased 70% or more.
- 3—The age of eligibility for women to receive benefits be reduced from 65 to 60.
- 4—Beneficiaries be permitted to earn as much as $50 per month in employment without losing eligibility for their monthly payments. The present limit is $14.99 per month.
- 5—A worker's earnings up to $4,800 per year be subject to tax—and corresponding credit toward benefits—rather than the present limit of $3,000 per annum.

The Social Security Administration also urged enactment of a system of cash benefits for disabled insured workers. This plan, integrated with the present old-age and survivors insurance, would provide monthly benefits on a similar basis when a worker incurred a period of extended disability or was permanently disabled.

A total of 76.9 million living wage earners had earned some wage credits under the system by January, 1949. The study shows that of these 36.8 million persons were fully insured, including 11.6 million who are both fully and permanently insured. An additional 5.7 million persons have worked long enough to be currently insured, for protection of their families.

Mr. Lanahan said that benefits being paid here highlight the family protection offered by old-age and survivors insurance, as emphasized in the report. At this time, he said, approximately 58% of the local beneficiaries are children and mothers with children in their care. The remaining 42% are insurance beneficiaries of 65 years of age or over.

EGG-ALLERGIC PEOPLE RECEIVE NEW BENEFIT FROM IMPROVED RECIPE

At last comes a bread to bake at home that is all right to eat even though one is allergic to eggs, wheat and milk. "All right to eat" is actually understatement because banana rye bread is a delicious bread with a tender crust, fine grain, and delightful flavor. The mashed ripe bananas used in the bread help to keep it fresh and moist for several days. Bananas are mashed easily by peeling the bananas and slicing them into a bowl, beating with a fork, rotary egg beater or electric mixer until smooth and creamy.

Banana rye bread is a unique bread to make at home that people allergic to eggs, wheat and milk will thoroughly enjoy. It is delicious as a plain bread, makes excellent sandwiches and usually good toast. When the bread has been baked and cooked, it should be stored in a clean, well-aired covered container in a cool dry place.

Banana Rye Bread

(Suitable for persons allergic to eggs, wheat and milk):
2 cakes compressed yeast; 3 tablespoons lukewarm water; 1 tablespoon salt; 1½ tablespoons sugar; 3 tablespoons melted shortening, (not butter); 2½ cups mashed ripe bananas* (5 to 6 bananas; 5¼ to 6 cups rye flour.

*Use fully ripe bananas . . . yellow peel, flecked with brown.

Dissolve yeast in water. Mix together salt, sugar, shortening and bananas. Add half the flour and beat until smooth. Beat in the dissolved yeast. Add remaining flour gradually and mix well. Turn dough out onto floured board and knead about 8 minutes, adding just enough additional rye flour to prevent sticking. Place dough into lightly greased bowl. Cover and let rise until double in bulk (about 2 hours). Turn out again onto floured board and knead lightly about 2 minutes. Shape dough into 2 loaves. Place into lightly greased pans (8x4x3 inches). Cover and let rise again until double in bulk (about 1 hour). Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) 5 to 10 minutes, or until crust begins to brown. Reduce temperature to 350° F. and bake 35 to 40 minutes longer, or until bread is done. Remove from pans. Brush top crusts with water. Makes 2 loaves.

Important: For 1 loaf, use ½ of each ingredient listed.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carroll and children of Catonsville, spent the weekend visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Norris.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones and daughter spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shorb.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hofsteter, Mt. Rainer, visited several days with Mrs. Hofsteter's mother, Mrs. Albert Adelsberger, S. Seton Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Seiss gave a Sunday dinner for Mr. and Mrs. William Bollinger and son, Charles and family at the home place.

MALARIA

One of the most important medical achievements to come out of the past war was the increased knowledge of preventing malaria and the development of new drugs for treatment of the disease.

Despite the great progress made against malaria, it is estimated that the disease still causes 5,000 deaths in the United States annually. But this rate is bound to decrease because of the improvements made in anti-malarial drugs and development of new ways to get rid of malaria mosquitoes as the result of intensive wartime and postwar research.

There is only one way that a person gets malaria, and that is from the bite of an infected female anopheles mosquito, which transmits the germs from one person to another. No one can catch malaria from another person directly, not even from a person seriously ill with malaria.

Since this is true, one of the best ways of preventing malaria is by control of the mosquito which spreads it. This means the community's prompt action in draining and disinfecting areas where that mosquito might breed—swamps, damp ground and pools of excess rain water. Great success has already been attained in this and other countries by spraying DDT and other insecticides on mosquito-infested areas.

There are several kinds of malaria. The most common form is the type with attacks recurring every other day. Symptoms of an attack include chills, fever and sweating, and a general feeling of being ill. The attacks leave the person weak and unable to do a good day's work. Proper medical care usually makes the attacks disappear, although some time after treatment has been stopped a relapse may occur, requiring another course of treatment.

Whenever the symptoms of malaria occur, the doctor should be consulted. The newly improved drugs are more helpful than ever to malaria patients, both in initial and recurring attacks, but they must only be taken on medical advice and under medical supervision.

Malaria still takes an enormous toll of lives annually in many nations, especially in tropical climates. But as our advances in anti-malarial drugs and in control measures against the anopheles mosquito are adopted in more nations, deaths from malaria will greatly decrease.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Sweet potato growers are to have the price of their crop supported at an average of 80 percent of the July 1, 1949 parity price. This is 10 per cent below the support given last year based on 1948 parity.

In making this announcement for the benefit of Maryland growers, Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, said that dollar-and-cent support prices for the 1949 crop will be announced as soon after July 1, as possible. The price will be based on U. S. No. 1 grade sweet potatoes packed in new containers and loaded in carlots or trucklots. There is to be no separate price for U. S. No. 1 grade since sweet potatoes making this grade generally sell in commercial markets at more than the support price.

Puerto Rican and Nancy Hall sweet potatoes will be supported at higher levels than other varieties, according to Mr. Blandford. Golden and Jersey varieties will be supported at 20 cents per bushel less than the Puerto Ricans and Nancy Halls, and other varieties will be at 50 cents per bushel less. Support prices, terms and conditions for support prices on U. S. Grade No. 2 grades will be announced later if need develops in any area.

ACP offices will have complete details about the program.

If acreage allotments and marketing quotas become necessary next year for certain crops, such as wheat, the individual farm allotments will be set by the farmer committees. This was announced by Mr. Blandford.

"This is a vital point in the nation's agricultural program," he declared. "When farmers are producing more of a commodity than can be marketed and ample reserves have been built up, they know that adjustments should be made. But as individual farmers they are helpless in making the necessary adjustments. Each farm has been laid out to grow particular crops. Machinery has been accumulated to grow these crops and on most farms it is not possible for the farmer to shift his entire farm from one crop to another."

"Farmers are aware of this but without a farm program which provides a means for unified action there is no means of assuring desired results. Under the program the acreage that is needed to assure abundance without wasteful surpluses is divided equitably among the farmers of a community, a county and the country as a whole. No one is better able to set up the individual allotments for a farm than the elected committeemen," Mr. Blandford maintains.

He explains that the committeemen are farmers, that they know the problems confronting their neighbors, and are elected each year by the farmers affected by the allotments they set.

Farm Storage Important
Each farmer is responsible for the storage of crops to be put under price support, according to Mr. Blandford, who this week warned Maryland farmers of an expected shortage of storage space this fall. He explains that the carry-over of the 1948 crop grain plus the anticipated bumper crops this summer may create a storage difficulty.

"Farm storage is an immediate step that farmers themselves can take for their own protection," he emphasized. "In most years, it is good business to have an adequate volume of farm storage, but this year—and probably for the next few years—it is especially important."

He urged farmers to get in touch with their county agents or with the Agricultural Engineering Dept. of the University of Maryland for suggestions on construction of adequate storage.

LACERATES FINGER

PEDESTRIANS ARE MOSTLY TO BLAME IN INCREASED WALKING FATALITIES

There is not a single instance on record in Maryland where a driver of a motor vehicle has intentionally struck a pedestrian, but there are many instances where drivers have jeopardized their own life and safety, and the lives and safety of their passengers, in avoiding negligent pedestrians.

The tragedy of a pedestrian death is not exclusively confined to the family of the victim. The driver who kills a fellow human being cannot shrug it off as an unfortunate incident. The memory will live with him always. It will become dormant, perhaps at times, but will be revived each time he hears of a motor vehicle fatality.

The solution of at least 74% of the pedestrian accidents will arrive when the negligent foot traveler realizes that if he's hit it's 95 to 5 odds that he will be killed or injured.

You just can't take a chance that isn't there!
Be a warm, living human being, not a cold statistic.

Illegal Possession Of Fawns Can Bring Fine

The attention of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission is being called, at this time of the year, to the fact that many persons in Maryland are picking up and holding in captivity, in an attempt to raise, recently-born fawns. Uninformed persons are of the opinion that these little animals have been deserted by their parents which is not the case; if let alone, the mother will return and care for her offspring. In her wisdom she remains away from her fawn as a means of protection from dogs and other enemies. These fawns should be left unmolested.

Incidentally, it is unlawful to possess deer and other game during closed season, dead or alive, unless a proper permit is obtained from the Commission. An application to possess a fawn picked up in the woods will not receive favorable consideration. Penalty for unlawfully taking or possessing a fawn under Section 83, Article 99 of the Maryland Code, is a fine of $100.

The Commission requests the co-operation of the general public in this, as the practice is injurious to our deer herds. The game wardens are instructed to seize and confiscate illegally obtained deer fawns. If it is found necessary, prosecutions will be instituted to put a stop to the practice.

HOKE—SWISHER

Before a background of palms, candelabra and vases and baskets of white gladioli, snapdragons and carnations, Miss Mary Maxine Swisher, daughter of John F. Swisher, Harrisburg, Pa., and the late Mrs. Cora Swisher, and Francis Rowe Hoke, Lorain, O., son of Mrs. Sarah Hoke, Emmitsburg, and the late Charles Hoke, were united in marriage Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock in the Lutheran Church, Waynesboro, Pa.

The Rev. Dr. B. Clinton Ritz performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of only the immediate families.

The bride's brother, Franklin Mitchell Swisher, Portsmouth, N. H., gave her in marriage. The bride wore an aqua street-length dress and natural accessories. Her hand bouquet of stephanotis and light tan orchids, draped with a lace cord swisher.

The couple was unattended. For her sister's wedding, Mrs. Ralph Whisler, chose a light blue print dress and orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore an orchid on her toast dress. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Lawrence Deatrich.

White candles and daisies decorated the tables at the reception after the wedding in the Anthony Wayne Hotel. The central table was appointed with the bridal cake, surrounded with a ring of greens interspersed with daisies. When the couple left for an unannounced wedding trip, the bride was wearing a blue and white ensemble with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. After June 15, they will be at home at 2147 E. Erie Ave., Lorain, O.

The bride is a graduate of John Harris High School, Harrisburg, Pa., and of the Harrisburg Hospital Training School for Nurses. She also attended the University of Pennsylvania and Lebanon Valley College and served as a flight nurse for 38 months. Mrs. Hoke has been school nurse in Washington Twp.

Her husband attended Mt. St. Mary's College and is a graduate in engineering from Gettysburg College. He served with the Army for 34 months with overseas duty in the ETO. He is now an engineer with the National Tube Co. in Lorain.

Less speed and more courtesy in your driving will help.
