INCORPORATED TWICE
How and why Mr. Coe ever became president of the Penn-Maryland League this past season, after having headed it for the past several seasons, will always remain a mystery to me, but brother, after the fine display he gave at the meeting held Monday night in Thurmont, I'm quite sure he's serving for the last time as president of any league in which Emmitsburg is to be a member in the future. I say Emmitsburg particularly, because we seem to be most vitally concerned in the latest issue turned up by the venerable Mr. Coe. However, Emmitsburg is by no means the only member of the league that has become completely and thoroughly disgusted with Mr. Coe's tactics. . . . They're so fed up in fact, that since certain other members of the league seem to approve of his methods, it has been decided to slash all relationship with the Penn-Maryland League and form a new circuit with some other teams that really go in for baseball in the right way with no petty prejudices, no sportsmanship and no desire to cause trouble and dissension at the slightest pretext.

Latest stroke of Mr. Coe's dictatorial "genius" was the sudden decision that Emmitsburg as far as he is concerned, is at rock bottom. . . . circuit by reason of his having taken every single, solitary game from us, whether we won, lost or drew a tie. . . .

No, you're not seeing things, sports fans, it's quite true. Emmitsburg's games have all been forfeited on various grounds, but particularly because of the so-called "questionable eligibility" of two of its players, Roth and Paidakovich. Mr. Coe has an affinity for applying the rules and bylaws of the league only as far as it suits his purpose. . . .

So, as I said before, you can just bet your bottom dollar that next year Emmitsburg will not be listed in any league that Mr. Coe pilots. Next year should find us in a larger league with no stupid mileage restrictions, with larger towns, better teams that it will still be amateur, and you, but a much better breed of baseball.

CONGRATS

Congratulations to the Wales Rightnours on the little male image that made its arrival at their home last week. . . . Also the James Adelsbergers are no longer a twosome. An infant son has increased their little group to a threesome.

REFURBISHMENT

The Fire Hall looks wonderful with its new brick front, huge white double doors, clear, highly polished hardwood floors, etc. . . . The improvements have transformed the building from a very old one to a fine, modern looking edifice. Congratulations, frenem! A word of praise would be very appropriate for Mr. Ralph S. Sperry, who worked very diligently in overseeing the job.

GETTING ANXIOUS, C & P

Dial phones, dial phones, where art thou? Emmitsburg residents are straining at the bit. Couldn't you sorta step up your installation a bit?

WANTED!

Two pairs of boxing gloves for local pugilists before Sunday's baseball game. Men's size, leather pliable enough to squeeze between bars of umpire's mask.

ENTERS HOSPITAL

Mr. E. L. Annan, Jr., was admitted Thursday afternoon to the Annie M. Warner Hospital, Gettysburg to undergo an operation in the near future.

SILVER SPRING MAY BE SECOND LARGEST CITY

Movement To Incorporate Maryland
City Is Under Way

Silver Spring, Montgomery County, may become the second largest city in Maryland.

A survey which will compare advantages of becoming a city with those of remaining unincorporated is now being conducted by Dr. Joseph Ray, head of the Bureau of Public Administration, University of Maryland.

The survey is expected to be completed in September and will be placed before 72,500 residents of the Silver Spring area through the Montgomery County Council.

The decision to make the survey was formed in March, when the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Silver Spring brought the matter before all civic groups in the area.

After approval of the plan by the County Council, it was decided to have Dr. Ray proceed.

G. Gregg Everngam, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Incorporation Committee said he understood the University Bureau of Public Administration would not release information on the survey until it is completed. He said the survey was being made at no cost to the community.

Majority In Favor

Mr. Everngam said the majority of public opinion in the Silver Spring area is believed to be in favor of incorporation. He said the people in the area object to carrying the tax load for the upper county and, in particular, object to "reporting to Rockville" when the community, if incorporated, would be large enough to stand on its own feet.

As an indication of the general interests in municipal government in the area, he pointed to the fact that recently 25,000 votes were cast out of a possible 60,000 to 70,000 votes to elect an honorary mayor and City Council for Silver Spring's annual promotion, "Shop Silver Spring Week."

The greatest opposition to turning Silver Spring into Maryland's second largest city, Mr. Everngam said, comes from real estate operators, who object to "double taxation." But the majority of the people who own property, he said, do not object to paying both city and county taxes because they believe the advantage of being able to settle municipal problems through a home government will be worth the money. The people here, he said, object to building county roads with money that should be spent in Silver Spring.

If Silver Spring is incorporated and becomes Maryland's second largest city, its population will exceed that of Cumberland by approximately 3,000.

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Floyd Woods was admitted as a patient at the Annie M. Warner Hospital in Gettysburg on Monday.

New Series For Farmers

Beginning next Friday, Frederick Block, Gettysburg, Pa., will write a series of articles to be featured in the Emmitsburg Chronicle—"Poultry Pointers."

Mr. Block is a graduate from Georgia University and majored in Poultry Husbandry. He is agriculture instructor for veterans in Gettysburg. Before he was employed as a poultry specialist for the Wise County Vocational School, Decatur.

Mr. Block gained practical knowledge working for the comical college poultry farm in Athens as undergraduate and also worked after his Army discharge some time for the Runnemeade Farms in California, one of the largest poultry farms in the world with several 100,000 housed birds.

BALL PLAYERS RULED INELIGIBLE AT MEETING

Local Club Is Considering Withdrawal From Penn-Maryland League

The Penn-Maryland Baseball League met Monday night in Thurmont Fire Company's Hall with a full representation of the affiliated teams.

The meeting was hotly discussed by delegations from Emmitsburg and Littlestown, who were opposed to many of President Ralph Coe's decisions. During the tense session it was thought many times that the affair would mean the disintegration of the circuit.

Emmitsburg was stripped of every win it had so far this season and plunged into the cellar of the league with 15 losses and no wins.

Before the meeting began it was thought that Emmitsburg would lose four games that it was notified were forfeited, but when President Coe wiped out every game played this season the local delegation was at a loss to explain the action of the prey.

Reason of the forfeiting of the four games was the use of ineligible players, namely Rothe and Paidakovich, but for the taking away of the remainder of the contests, no reason was given.

Shortly after this unprecedented action by the league officials, the use of Weaver on the Littlestown squad was taken up. It was decided by President Coe to take five games away from Littlestown and not permit Weaver to participate the remainder of the season. This move knocked the Pennsylvanians out of the playoffs and placed them one step ahead of the cellarites—Emmitsburg. The Littlestown delegation walked out of the meeting. There was no threat of withdrawal made by them.

Bernard H. Boyle, local merchant and a director of the Emmitsburg baseball club, requested the reading of the financial statement and was politely told there was none available at this time. The local delegation allegedly accused the officials of the Penn-Maryland League of inefficiency and maladministration.

Those from Emmitsburg attending the session were Bernard H. Boyle, Carroll Frock, Edward Lingg, John White and C. A. Elder.

Thurmont contested the eligibility of Paidakovich and the remainder of the league opposed the use of Rothe. It is believed that Emmitsburg will relinquish its berth in the Penn-Maryland League at the close of the season this Sunday.

Toll Gate Claims Another Victim

Toll Gate Hill was the scene Saturday night of a collision between two cars. The accident took place shortly after midnight.

State Trooper Hy Brown, of Thurmont, who investigated the collision, said the car driven by Edgar Wastler, East Main St., Emmitsburg, collided with a car supposedly operated by Martha E. Smith and owned by Payton M. Shealer, Lonisa, Va.

Neither party was hurt bodily but damage to the Shealer car was estimated at $250 and the damage to Wastler's car at $150.

Wastler was charged with failing to keep to the right of the center of the road.

DEED RECORDED

A deed was recorded in the clerk's office for the sale of a property on the east side of Carroll St., in Thurmont, from Mrs. Lola B. King and others to Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Rippeon, consideration being around $7,500, according to revenue stamps.

TO ENTER NURSING

Miss Mary Lou Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Miller, Center Square, has accepted a position at Graeffenburg Inn until September, after which she will enter Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, in the field of nursing.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

Having called the roll of the political dignitaries of Emmitsburg charged with the civic leadership of the town, we next turn to another important group of men. These are the merchants who serve the community. Few, perhaps, ever stop to consider what a splendid service these benefactors render to the people. Perhaps the merchants themselves usually interpret the meaning of their profession in terms of profit derived therefrom. But beyond this elemental motive they may think of themselves also as public servants bringing the good things of life within easy reach of their customers. And the people also would do well to think of their merchants as useful instruments of public service.

Just because the merchants make the goods of life so easily available to all they have always occupied a distinguished place in any community. And therefore, many family names have come from this occupation. Before calling the roll of our merchants it would be well to consider some of the surnames that have come from this source.

CREGGER

Taking a few examples, John who operated an inn and supplied products usually to be consumed on the premises, would become John Innman or John Hinman. In Germany where the inn or tavern was a prominent institution, he would call himself John Kruger, frequently spelled in America Cregger.

KRAMER

John, the junk dealer, originally became John Kraemer. The name also was applied to the huckster who had his stall at the market place. Still later industrious John made progress and became more prosperous. Then he established his own mercantile store. So John the merchant became John Kraemer sometimes spelled in this country Cramer.

PAXTON

In the olden days the traveling merchant called the peddler, was frequently seen upon the highway. Originally much of the mercantile business arose in this fashion and continues to-day here and there. From this humble beginning the merchant later established his store in the community. Thus John the peddler became John Badger or John Kidder or John Mercer.

While Paxton or Paxon usually had a religious origin from the Pascal Feast at Easter, another origin of the same name comes from Packman meaning the peddler or traveling merchant. At the beginning he frequently carried his pack of produce on his back. As he made progress he used the horse or horse-drawn vehicle. Thus John, the traveling merchant called John Packman, sometimes called himself John Paxton or Paxon. The more common origin of the later, associated with Easter, will be considered later.

NATIONAL VFW COMMANDER VISITS HERE

Lyall T. Beggs Welcomed By Local Veterans' Post

Lyall T. Beggs, National Commander-in-Chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, visited Emmitsburg last Saturday afternoon. Stopping en route to the National Convention to be held in Miami, Fla., next week, he was a guest of the Emmitsburg Memorial Post, No. 6658.

Cmdr. Beggs accepted an invitation of the local Commander Wales Rightnour to inspect the Post home and was greeted upon his arrival in Emmitsburg by a delegation of Post members. He was escorted through the home and expressed high praise for the public service record shown by the veterans of Emmitsburg. Chatting with members while posing for pictures, he said it was a genuine pleasure to see that the individual members were so interested in the welfare of the community.

The VFW ambulance, with its around-the-clock free service elicited special praise from him. "These are the things which have earned a good name for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and made them a useful part of the social life of the community," he stated.

Immediately previous to his visit here, Cmdr. Beggs delivered an address at Gettysburg where he placed a wreath on the pedestal of the Eternal Light Peace Memorial in commemoration of the veterans of the Civil War.

The theme of the address was a challenge to the VFW to assume the role of guardians of the peace and keeper of the splendid traditions of the American way of living.

Of the GAR, which will hold its final encampment this summer when less than a dozen living Union Civil War veterans gather for their final reunion in Indianapolis, Ind., the Commander spoke in glowing tribute.

"In a very few weeks, taps will sound for the Grand Army of the Republic. The final national encampment of the few remaining veterans of the Civil War will be held at Indianapolis, Ind."

"Less than a dozen of these veterans of the Union Army of 1865—all more than 100 years old—will be present at this meeting. When they fur their colors for the last time, the VFW becomes the oldest major veterans' organization in the United States."

"I command the Veterans of Foreign Wars to take up the torch from their failing hands. I do not say this as an empty phrase, time-worn by high school baccalaureate speakers. It is a sacred trust that we of the VFW are assuming. To assume it means that we in the VFW have the actual opportunity to perpetuate the good deeds of the GAR."

Cmdr. Beggs and his family, who are traveling with him, declined an invitation to remain for dinner because of pressing business engagements in Washington. His wife and two daughters will return to their home in Madison, Wis., after the VFW convention in Miami. The daughters are students at the University of Wisconsin.

Local Truck Driver Involved in Crash

Thousands of gallons of fuel oil were spilled on the Lincoln highway near York Friday when a large tractor-trailer and a cattle truck collided last Friday.

Fern R. Baker, 25, Emmitsburg, was alleged to have been driving the cattle truck which had eight head of cattle aboard, three of which were killed by the crash. State police later destroyed a fourth cow because of injuries.

Richard A. Brown, 26, of Baltimore, driver of the tractor-trailer, was said to have a possible fractured skull.

Walter Johnson pitched 113 shutouts for the Washington Senators during his career for the major league record.

SPORTSMEN FORMING NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE

Ten Teams Attend
Westminster Meeting
To Start Action

Representatives from seven communities in Maryland and Pennsylvania attended a meeting at the American Legion Home in Westminster, Monday night, to discuss plans for the formation of a new baseball league next year. Representatives from Littlestown, Frederick, Taneytown, Westminster, Reisterstown, McSherrystown and Emmitsburg were present.

J. Norman Flax, business manager of the Emmitsburg Baseball Association represented Emmitsburg. Invitations were extended to three other towns to attend the next meeting of the organization, viz., Blue Ridge Summit, Hanover and Thurmont.

The newly-formed league will be named the Mason-Dixon League and will be an "open league"—no restraint on the radius within which players can be secured, except that one team may not step in and take players from another town represented in the organization. Explained more thoroughly: a player can live a distance from the town on whose team he plays, but he cannot live within 5 miles of one team and play on another. This way it is felt that with restrictions lifted all towns should be able to round up some mighty fine talent and put on a really fine display of good baseball. The players will still be amateur, but will play a brand of ball that will be as close to professional playing as is possible without actually being in the professional realm.

Organization of this new league is the result of many unpleasant dealings and much dissension among members of the Penn-Maryland League and its officials, the past two seasons.

In order to ward off similar trouble in the proposed Mason-Dixon League, it has been announced that there will be a three or four man board of arbitrators to handle all grievances and protests. These men, already chosen, have a background of experience in baseball in every phase.

The next meeting of the Mason-Dixon organization will be held in Westminster at the Legion Hall, August 29, at 8:15 p. m.

Westminster Plays Local Team Here Sunday

The Emmitsburg baseball team will play host to a strong Westminster nine this Sunday afternoon on Community Field at 2:30 o'clock.

Business Manager Norman Flax announced that this will be the first of a series of post-season games to be scheduled by the Baseball Assn. and notified players to be prepared to play ball all through the month of September. It is proposed to have Sunday games here until late in the fall.

Team Manager Leonard Zimmerman stated this week that he would be able to field a strong team Sunday to meet the highly-touted Westminster nine and promises those attending a fine contest packed with thrills.

Manager Zimmerman said he is undecided as to who will receive the mound assignment, but indicated that either Don Smith or Vic Kelly may receive the hurling job.

The customary drawing of the money prize given away at regularly scheduled games will be held Sunday and the amount of $20 will be given away. It was stated by club officials that this will be the last drawing this season as the league schedule will be completed with the playing of Sunday's game.

Miss Betty Ann Hollinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hollinger, S. Seton Ave., quietly celebrated her seventeenth birthday last Friday.

BRADLEY'S NEW TASK

Mr. Truman has made an excellent choice in nominating Gen. Omar D. Bradley to become the first permanent chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a post created by the new unification law.

Gen. Bradley was one of America's great military leaders on the battlefields of World War II, during which he commanded the Second Corps in North Africa, the First Army in the Normandy campaign, and finally, the Twelfth Army Group in Europe. Since the war, he has served as head of the Veterans Administration and as Army Chief of Staff, his most recent position.

In his new office, which up to now has been held by Gen. Eisenhower on a temporary basis, Gen. Bradley will preside at the meetings of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will prepare the agenda for that group, expedite its business, and "when necessary," report to the President and the Secretary of Defense about disagreements among the military policy-makers.

His biggest job will be to attempt to resolve any future conflicts in strategic planning, such as those which in recent years have occasionally divided the councils of the Joint Chiefs. This is a tough assignment, since his office does not carry a vote in these councils.

If, then, a chairman is to achieve a larger measure of unification within the limits of such authority, he must have great prestige, broad military experience, and a proved forcefulness of character. Fortunately for the nation, Gen. Bradley possesses these to an exceptionally high degree.

"The way to a man's heart —"

By NANCY COOK

It's picnic-time once more, when campfires spell romance for young and old. Here's a treat to take along that's sure to satisfy eager appetites—Branburgers.

You prepare them at home, wrap in wax paper, then cook them over a charcoal fire at the picnic site. Their succulent nut-like flavor is due to the addition of all-bran cereal, which also makes one to two extra servings from one pound of beef.

BRANBURGERS

Beat 1 egg, season with salt and pepper, 2 tablespoons of minced onions, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1/4 cups milk and 1 cup of bran. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add 1 pound of ground beef. Mix thoroughly. Cut 10 slices of bacon lengthwise into two strips. Arrange two strips of bacon cross-wise on waxed paper. Mold a generous tablespoon of meat mixture into pattie, and place on bacon intersection. Bring strips together on top of pattie, skewering with a toothpick. Bake in a hot oven (450°) about 30 minutes, or broil about 20 minutes.

Remove branburgers from pan. Add some milk and seasonings to drippings. Thicken slightly to make gravy. Yield: 10 patties.

Whether it's quick tricks for picnics, or lunch for the bunch, grape jelly sandwiches bring hearty cheers when they are made from good homemade jelly.

This tested short-boil method turns out perfect jelly every time. It's so quick and easy to prepare, you'll want to try it again and again.

GRAPE JELLY

5 cups juice
6 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare the juice. Stem about 3 1/2 pounds fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add 1 1/2 cups of water; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 5 cups into large saucepan.

To make the jelly. Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding juice over high heat. Add powdered fruit pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Yield: About 11 six-ounce glasses.

Have you discovered that miracle of modern foods, frozen-concentrated orange juice? It tastes for all the world like freshly-squeezed oranges and the vitamin content remains intact.

It is a welcome time and labor saver for the breakfast table — you simply open a can, add water, stir briskly and serve.

I like to use it too, in recipes calling for orange juice. Take, for instance, this delicious one for sherbet which the makers of Minute Maid orange concentrate sent me recently.

ORANGE SHERBET

Reconstitute a 6-ounce can of concentrate into orange juice with water according to directions on the label. In 1/2 cup of the reconstituted juice, soak 4 teaspoons of gelatin for 5 minutes.

Set bowl over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Combine rest of orange juice with a pinch of salt, 3/4 cup granulated sugar, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1 cup of light cream.

Stir in gelatin. Then turn mixture into freezing tray with control set at coldest setting and freeze until half frozen.

When half frozen, turn mixture into bowl and beat well. Return to freezing tray and freeze until firm. Yield: About 6 servings.

Claim Filed On Estate

Elvin D. Schildt on Monday filed a claim for $5,937.50 plus against the estate of the late Elmer P. Schildt, of Rocky Ridge, of which Mrs. Rhoda E. Schildt is executor.

The claimant seeks one-half of $10,875 received from the sale of steers during last February and $500 representing one-half of the current hay crop, estimated at 25 tons worth $20 a ton.

He also claims one-half of the additional amount received from sale of steers, which he says the executrix has not revealed to him.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Changes in this year's price support program for Irish potatoes resulted in a considerable reduction in the quantity of the Maryland crop moving into government hands. A summary of the 1949 program reveals that only 125 carloads of potatoes were bought in the price support effort in Maryland. This compares to 431 carloads bought last year.

Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, states that most of this year's purchases were of lower grades such as Size B and No. 2's. "This means that the best grades were marketed through regular channels for consumers," he declares. "The changes in the program during the last few years have been bringing about a considerable reduction in the amount of potatoes the government must buy. For example, in 1946, we bought about 1300 carloads to keep prices up. In 1947 we bought 1100 but during the last two years, those figures have been whittled to a new low."

The changes to which he referred are (1) a support price set at 60 per cent of parity instead of 90 per cent, (2) tighter acreage restrictions, and (3) a uniform price for all grades.

Of the 125 carloads bought in Maryland this year, practically the entire lot went for livestock feed in draught stricken areas. Potatoes are still available for livestock feed.

Nationally, the potato purchase program has become less burdensome, in the opinion of Mr. Blandford. He explains that in 1948 the total price support effort for potatoes cost the nation about 22 million dollars. This year's program, it has been estimated, will spend less than 50 million.

Sweet Potato Charges May Be Lowered

An effort is being made to reduce the marketing charges allowed on sweet potatoes moving into government hands under the support program. Mr. Blandford reports that charges last year were 61 1/4¢ per bushel and states, "We are asking the Sweet Potato Advisory Committee which cooperates with us on the Eastern Shore to lower this figure if possible."

The marketing charges cover such expenses as baskets, hauling, grading, etc. They are deducted from the $1.30 support price established for U. S. No. 1 washed sweet potatoes of the Golden and Jersey types.

"We feel that the charges should be lowered this year because the support price to growers is lower than last year and more difficult for the grower to realize a profit on his crop," Mr. Blandford explains. This year's price of $1.30 compares to $1.50 which was established last year. Porto Ricans and Nancy Halls will be supported at 20¢ per bushel above Golden and Jerseys.

Birds Require Balanced Diet For Healthier, Producing Flocks

Birds whose daily feed continually lacks one or more of the essential food elements not only lag behind in growth or produce fewer eggs, but also may develop one of various nutritional deficiency diseases. To function properly, a chicken's body needs a balanced diet of minerals, vitamins, proteins, carbohydrates, and fats. When just one of these is missing, trouble soon may develop.

Here are some of the common nutritional ailments, their symptoms, causes, and curative or preventive measures:

RICKETS—Caused by the lack of vitamin D or of certain minerals, particularly calcium. Chicks suffering from the disease have soft and rubbery beaks, breastbones and legs. Crooked breasts and breastbones frequently develop. The chief effect on adult birds has to do with the production of eggs, the lack of minerals resulting in the production of thin or soft-shelled eggs. To correct the condition, give the birds adequate amounts of the deficient nutrients. Fish-liver oils will supply the required vitamins, while powdered limestone or oyster shell will give the fowl the minerals they need.

SLIPPED TENDON—This is a disease in which the large hock tendon of the bird's leg slips from its normal position, causing the leg to become bowed or twisted. It usually occurs among chicks. Causes are deficiencies of manganese or choline. Make certain the feed contains four to six ounces of manganese sulphate per ton.

CURLY-TOE PARALYSIS—Affected birds walk on their hocks with toes curled inward. Caused by a deficiency of vitamin G (riboflavin). Dried liver, dried yeast, milk products and green feeds are some of the food products which will provide plenty of riboflavin.

A large crowd attended the annual Community Picnic and Festival held in Mt. Tabor Park on August 13.

Recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boller were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chitz of Keyville; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Heaps of Street, Md., and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Boller and family of Gaither, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Boller attended the Sharrer reunion at Littlestown, Pa. Sunday.

NUTRITIONAL ROUP—This condition, caused by a lack of vitamin A, affects the lining of the super respiratory and digestive tracts. Nutritional roup is marked by the formation of milky-white material in the nasal cavities, sinuses and under the eyelids. Small white nodules form in the esophagus. Correct the condition by feeding greens, yellow corn, dried-liver meal, or codliver meal to the birds.

Old-Age Benefits Show Increase

Over a quarter million retired workers were awarded Federal old age and survivor's insurance benefits during 1948.

William J. Lanahan, manager of the Hagerstown field office of the Security Administration said today that the 276,000 awards of benefits to workers aged 65 and over was a record number. More than one seventh of the awards were to women, a higher proportion than in any previous year's awards.

Payments to retired workers are made, Mr. Lanahan said, only if the worker is fully insured under the program. For social insurance purposes a worker is "fully insured" if he has been paid $50 or more in employment covered by the Social Security Act in at least half the number of calendar quarters as there are between January 1, 1937, when the program began, and the quarter in which the worker becomes 65.

In no case, Lanahan said, can a worker become fully insured unless he has been paid at least $50 in wages in each of six calendar quarters. This minimum applies in the case of wage earners who reached aged 65 before July 1, 1940.

Twenty-two per cent of the men to whom old age and survivor's benefits were awarded in 1948 reached 65 in that year. The percentage of women beneficiaries attaining age 65 in 1948 was higher than for the men, since women generally retire at younger ages than men. Almost 24 per cent of the women awarded benefits reached age 65 in 1948.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Many vacation trips and camp week-ends are sad experiences because we aren't critical enough of what we eat away from home. This year, insist on these basic principles for the protection of your family and yourself. They are especially important for children.

A Safe Milk Supply—If you can't get pasteurized milk, ice cream and butter, use evaporated milk for the children and in your coffee. Clean Food—Insist on cleaned food from clean kitchens, served in clean surroundings by clean people. Don't eat in restaurant overrun by flies. Safe Water—Be sure you are drinking water that has been state or locally tested and found pure. Never drink from the common cup found at some roadside springs.

When you do see any insanitary conditions in restaurants, hotels, and roadside stands, report them to the State Health Department to protect your health and that of other travelers. Make it a part of your civic duty to help make our public food supply more sanitary.

Some of the "picking up" that must be done around the house is difficult or even dangerous when done by hand. Because burns and cuts are some of the most frequent home accidents suffered by women, more care should be taken with hot and sharp articles. For safer and easier pick-ups, use tongs to pick up hot articles at the stove, outdoor fireplace or sink. Use tongs to lift jars from hot water canning, large vegetables from cooking water. Baked potatoes from the oven, silverware from hot rinse water. Use a magnet to pick up pins and needles in home dressing. Use damp cotton to pick up fine particles of broken glass.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Summary for Maryland

The feed market in Baltimore strengthened somewhat during the week ended Aug. 12. Soybean oil meal made principal gains of almost 4%—$4.17 per ton more than the previous week's average. Cottonseed meal increased over 2%, but linseed meal showed some weakness. The price of 17% dehydrated alfalfa meal increased over 3% on the Baltimore market—$2.32 higher per ton. Other feeds showing increase of 2 to 3% are coarse cracked corn ($1.78 per ton higher), 50% meat scrap ($3.75 per ton higher), and 16% dairy feed $1.71 per ton higher).

The broiler-feed ratio was slightly more favorable for Maryland producers during the week ended Aug. 11. Broilers averaged 29.6 cents per pound, while 20% broiler mash averaged $97.78 per ton on Lower Eastern Shore. On this basis, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 6.1 pounds of feed (6 pounds last week).

National Feed Market

Feedstuff markets were unsettled during the week ended August 9, according to reports to the Department of Agriculture. Offerings of the principal feeds, except soybean meal and animal protein feeds, were generally sufficient for current needs. Demand slackened toward the close of the week as feeders turned more to lower priced grains. Soybean meal, digested tankage and meat scraps advanced $3.00-3.50 per ton, which placed prices of these feeds well above their normal relationship with other feeds. Wheat millfeeds, corn feeds, cottonseed and linseed meal were barely steady to slightly lower. Alfalfa meal, brewers' and distillers' dried grains gained 5c-$1.00 per ton. The index of wholesale feedstuff prices advanced about 3 points as a result of the gains in soybean meal and tankage and stood at 236.7 at the close of the week, which is nearly 16 points higher than a year ago. The feed grain price index dropped nearly 8 points, to 186.2 and was nearly 83 points lower than a year ago.

GRAIN MARKET

Summary for Maryland

Grain markets in Baltimore were about steady during the week ended August 12. Supplies of all grains are plentiful, but demand is poor. Wheat remained firm on all Maryland markets. However, there was practically no trading in wheat on the Baltimore market during the past week. No. 2 yellow shelled corn dropped about 6 cents per bushel on the Baltimore market and about 2 cents in Central Maryland. Eastern Shore and Western Maryland markets showed increases of 2 to 3 cents per bushel for the No. 2 yellow shelled corn. Barley gained about 3 cents per bushel on the Baltimore market. Oats remain unchanged. Soybeans averaged about 4 cents per bushel higher.

National Summary

A drop of around 10c a bushel in corn prices was the principal feature in the grain market during the week ended July 11. Plentiful supplies with some slackening in demand were principally responsible for the decline. Oats weakened with corn, but barley held firm despite liberal offerings. Wheat and rye prices made small gains at most markets as the receipts disclosed. Cash prices, however, remained well below the loan basis and provided an incentive for some improvement in demand. Soybean processors raised their buying price about 18c a bushel at Illinois country stations and were bidding $3.00 per bushel for old crop soybeans for 10 days shipment, and $2.27 for new crop soybeans for October and November shipment.

Junior League Player To Receive Honor In Hall of Fame

The doors to the diamond sport's most revered shrine, the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum in Cooperstown, N. Y., have been opened to American Legion Junior Baseball.

This unprecedented gesture, made possible in great part by Paul S. Kerr and J. A. Robert Quinn, vice president and director, respectively, of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, will allow the entry of one American Legion Junior Baseball player each year into the select ranks of the diamond greats. A photograph of the chosen player will be placed in a suitable plaque and will rest in the museum alongside those of Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Lou Gehrig, Walter Johnson and other baseball immortals, from Jan. 1, following the player's selection, until Dec. 31 of that year.

The boy to be honored will be selected from the members of the four teams which reach the annual junior world's series, climax of the American Legion Junior Baseball program. The series will be played this year in Omaha, Neb., Aug. 31 to Sept. 4.

The boy to be selected will be dubbed "The American Legion Junior Baseball Player of the Year." He will be regarded as the boy most representative of the thousands of fine lads who annually compete in American Legion Junior Baseball. The selection will be made on the basis of playing ability, mental attitude, cooperation, morals, citizenship and general conduct.

Each year a new player will be selected and his plaque will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame and Museum, replacing that of the previous year's winner.

A committee of five veteran sports observers will be on hand at the annual American Legion Junior World's Series to determine which boy is best qualified for the Hall of Fame and Museum selection.

As a further honor, the player selected will be brought to Cooperstown each year for the annual Hall of Fame game and will at that time be presented with a certificate attesting to his selection as "The American Legion Junior Baseball Player of the Year."

Big Car Races Scheduled At Grove Sunday

WILLIAMS GROVE, Pa., Aug. 14—New rising star in big car auto racing, Bill Schindler, of Freeport, L. I., famed one-legged midget driver, today notified Roy Richwine, owner of the Williams Grove Speedway, that he will drive the famous Offenhauser driven to numerous victories and the AAA Eastern Championship by the late Ted Horn in Sunday's AAA big car auto races on the "Ascot of the East."

Actually, Schindler is making a comeback in big car competition, having been one of its stars until he lost his leg in a crash in 1936 at Mineola, N. Y. After that Schindler turned to the midgets which were then coming into popularity and today is one of the biggest money winners in the sport.

Schindler gained the permission of Dick Simonec, manager of the Ted Horn Enterprises, Inc., to drive the car in competition.

The car has been repainted a brilliant red, and assigned the number 18 by the AAA contest board, since its former No. 1 was reserved for the great Ted Horn.

In the final midget race in a weekly series last week at Williams Grove, Schindler made his appearance on the track in the Caruso Offey and ran off with top honors in coping the feature race, winning the immediate respect of fans for his sensational driving.

Schindler made his initial appearance at Williams Grove in midget competition in order to get the "feel" of the track before bringing in Horn's car.

The smiling, one-legged driver tried out the car last Saturday at the Bedford Fair and broke two track records, the qualifying record and the record for an eight-lap heat race which he won. He finished second in the feature race.

Schindler will join a large field of more than 30 cars and drivers, which will include veterans of the Indianapolis Classic and other stars of the Roaring Road when the AAA sanctioned big car auto race is run Sunday on Richwine's half-mile oval.

Some 50,000 Indians live on New Mexico reservations.

HEALTH COLUMN

BEATING THE HEAT

If the heat doesn't bother you, you may find it hard to understand those who feel and look miserable during the summer and especially during an intense heat wave.

There are people who "feel the heat" more than others, and suffer from it no matter how they try to keep cool. But many of us could be more comfortable during the stifling days with a little more attention to "summer health" rules.

Our eating habits these days can do much to restore energy as well as comfort. Everybody needs a well balanced diet no matter what the season. But heavy meals are difficult to digest in hot weather. More fruits and vegetables can be included in meals for hot days. They are easy to digest and are also rich in the vitamins and minerals necessary to well-being.

Perspiration is the body's cooling system, and since the body loses more moisture in hot and humid weather, it is wise to drink plenty of water throughout the day to replace the liquid. Fruit juices also help replace the lost moisture in the body and nourish it at the same time.

Frequent bathing is more important in the summer than at any other time. Extra baths not only keep the skin clean, but also remove the wastes that cause unpleasant odors and eliminate the dirt that clings to the skin in summer and makes it vulnerable to infection.

Loose, light clothing is the best type for summer months. The body "cools off" as the perspiration evaporates on the surface of the skin. Heavy or tight clothing hinders this evaporation. Everyone should suit his own summer exercise to his particular health and strength. But no one should exercise strenuously in the hottest part of the day or around mealtime. Physical exer-

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Sprankle and children of Baltimore spent several days this week with Mrs. Mary C. Rosensteel.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rosensteel and sons, Phil and Jerry, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. George C. Constantine and children, Leo, Elaine and Vicki, of Washington, D. C., visited at the home of Mrs. Mary C. Rosensteel and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosensteel, E. Main St., this week.

The Junior choir of the Elias Evangelical Lutheran Church picnicked at Braddock Heights last Thursday. There were approximately 30 children who attended and Mrs. Carroll Froc and Mrs. Henry Charlton chaperoned the group. The group was transported by Mr. Harry McNair.

Miss Mae Rowe, E. Main St., is on a seven-day tour of the Rockies and Colorado.

Exercise in moderation, out of the direct rays of the sun, is the safer rule.

Sufficient amounts of restful sleep make the hot days more bearable. Many people find trouble sleeping on hot nights, but keeping regular bedtime hours in the summer usually helps.

Those who have reason to doubt their physical stamina—children who have had rheumatic fever, adults who have had serious illness, for example—do well to check with their doctors before indulging in summer sports.

Maryland Racing Shifts to Bel Air

Its popularity with turfgoers attested by the establishing and re-establishing of attendance and wagering records for Maryland's minor circuit, Bel Air racetrack has outgrown the so-called "small tote" and a big track talisman, which will provide more biting windows and faster issuance of tickets, has been installed for the meet now in progress through August 27.

Installation of the big tote, like the installation of the TeleAutograph, is another step in the efforts of the Bel Air racetrack management to offer patrons all modern conveniences.

Located one mile south of Bel Air on U. S. No. 1, Bel Air racetrack is accessible by automobile, special buses and railroad during the 10-day meet.

Post time for the first race is two o'clock and the daily double windows will close at 1:45.

A number of choice reserve seats in the clubhouse and grandstand box areas are available and may be obtained by writing to the Bel Air race track, Bel Air.

Luncheon Scoops

by Wendy Warren

Today I stole a march on Portia, and had lunch with Bartlett Robinson, who plays opposite Lucille Ball on NBC's popular daytime drama, "Portia Faces Life." I've known Bart a long time, and he has appeared several times on my CBS program, "Wendy Warren and the News."

With New York weather the way it has been lately, we decided to have a light lunch in Central Park, at the Zoo Cafeteria, overlooking the seal pond. We took our lunch outside and sat on the terrace.

Bart Robinson's acting career started, strangely enough, at Carnegie Tech where he was studying architecture when he suddenly decided to switch to a dramatic course. He made his theatrical debut with Lillian Gish in "Camille" in the first drama festival in Central City, Colorado. While there he joined the "Sunday Players," presenting dramatizations of Bible stories over a local station.

"We were so optimistic," says Bart, "that we were sure we could make good in California. So we sold stock, bought a big car, and headed west. The amazing thing was that our optimism paid off... we were on the air in Santa Monica within a week, with a sponsor!"

Bart Robinson also worked in pictures, including the first Technicolor short ever made. In 1936, he made his bid in New York, and soon landed the male lead on "Portia Faces Life," along with running parts on several other shows. Now he considers himself a real New Yorker. "That means," he quips, "that I make enough to live out of town."

When he returned to New York in 1936, he and his wife, Margot, rented an apartment in Greenwich Village, where Bart built a picket fence around the roof to give little Michael room to play. But the roof grew too small for Michael, especially when little brother Whitney came along, and the Robinsons moved to Darien, Connecticut, and a yard with real grass.

New York and radio have not changed Bart Robinson's original love for the stage. He has played major roles in several Broadway productions, including "Dear Ruth," and, more recently, "Light Up The Sky." Tall and blond, with a small moustache, Bart should be a natural for television, where his stage and movie background will not hurt him in the least.

Just as we were finishing our coffee, one of the sealions below us started barking. "Migosh!" exclaimed my guest, "that reminds me—I've got to make arrangements for our vacation in Nova Scotia." And before I could find out more about his vacation plans, he was gone. So I wandered down and told my troubles to a sympathetic sealion.

CARE Shows Its Effectiveness

In Postwar Germany

The blaze of colors in Frau Gertrude Haack's light cotton blouse makes her look almost gypsy in drab postwar Berlin. For even on the iciest winter days, Frau Haack scorns the dark, lumpy woolen clothes that other Berliners wear. She has had more color in her life than most people, and still does, despite her grim struggle for the existence of herself and two young sons.

Like millions of other German women, Frau Haack is a war widow. But she has known more of the world than her neighbors, and although she is tired and prematurely old, she still laughs and talks vividly of old times. On the wall of her unheated one-room apartment hangs a photograph which shows what she looked like in the 1920's—a pretty blond with bobbed hair and short skirts, flapperstyle. In 1927, when she was still single, she went to China as a free-lance reporter for German newspapers. Then she moved to Japan, still taking care of herself very well, and to America, where she settled down for a while as a practical nurse in Bloomfield, N. J.

In 1931, however, she grew homesick and went back to Germany to marry a young mechanical engineer, Fritz Bippus. They had two boys, Klaus and Detlef, but the marriage ended in divorce in 1938. Gertrude then married Willi Haack, a translator for the German Army.

The next year her husband went to Poland with Hitler's invading armies, and Gertrude rarely saw him again. During the big bombings of Berlin she and the two boys were evacuated to East Prussia, and then to Saxony when the Russian armies began their march through Prussia. After the war was over she returned to Berlin, to learn that her husband had been killed at the front, and their home destroyed by bombs.

For the next three months the three Haacks barely existed, seeking nightly shelter in heaps of bomb rubble, and begging for scraps of food. Finally the West Berlin city government helped Frau Gertrude find an apartment and a job, as assistant librarian in the British Information Service reading rooms. For this she gets 275 marks (about $40 a month).

For two years the Haacks have lived mainly on bread and potato soup, with a bit of meat no oftener than twice a month. After the Russians blockaded Berlin, and the airlift began, they ate dehydrated potatoes. Frau Gertrude does not mind so much for herself, but her boys, now 17 and 11, are always telling her they are hungry. And they have had no new or really warm clothes for four years.

Next year Klaus will finish school and will go to work as an apprentice engineer. But his wage will still be very small. Now that the blockade of Berlin is over, Frau Gertrude sees a small ray of hope ahead, but she also has a terrible worry—her heart is not strong, and she may have to give up her job. Despite her early butterfly existence, she has been a good mother, sacrificing much for her sons, who are stronger looking than most German boys their age. If she can hold out just a few more years, she thinks, they will be able to get along on their own.

BASEBALL NEWS

Locals Lose Two To Littlestown

Bud Warthen Allows Only Two Hits In Seven Innings

When Emmitsburg plays baseball anymore, anything can happen and usually does.

In two postponed games played at Littlestown Wednesday evening, Emmitsburg lost both ends of a doubleheader, the first score 7-5 in an Adams County League game, and by a 5-4 score in a Penn-Maryland League game.

The local nine drew first blood in the initial frame of the first game, scoring three runs. Their other two runs came in the fifth on what appeared to be a scoreless inning. With the bases loaded and two outs, D. Smith struck out, only to have Feeser, Littlestown catcher, leave the ball get away from him. Smith ran to first. Believing the third out was called, Littlestown players left the field and Emmitsburg trotted on. "Rule Book" Zimmerman, observing the play, called the local players from the field and had those previously on base to circle them. It looked silly to have four men circle the bases with no one on the playing field, but that's what happened and believe it or not, we received credit for two runs. Team Manager Zimmerman saw that the ump had not called out the forced player on third when the catcher failed to touch home plate and the batter was not thrown out at first, since the Littlestown catcher leisurely rolled the ball to the mound after the swinging third strike.

Don Joy started on the mound, giving up five bases on ball and allowed two hits. He was replaced by Vic Kelly, who issued one base on balls and allowed only five hits the remainder of the game. Emmitsburg collected seven hits off Mehning. Paidakovich and Frock accounted for two each, with Paidakovich smashing two ringing doubles to rightfield. Tommy Hoke poled a long triple to rightfield too.

In the second contest, Emmitsburg lost by a 5-4 score, but there is still dispute as to its being official.

Trailing by three runs going into the ninth, Emmitsburg put over two runs and the potential tying run with another run on second. Frock laid down a beautiful bunt on a squeeze play signal, but Saylor who was on third was trapped between third and home after the batter had been thrown out at first. The rule book calls for no more than four opponents on a base line at one time and Littlestown had at least five on third base line on this particular play. Saylor eluded two of them only to be tagged out by Weaver, third man on the base line.

Bud Warthen, replaced Kelly on the mound in the second inning, pitched masterfully for the remainder of the game. He allowed the Littlestown club but two hits, a triple by Shomper and a single to Crouse. He whiffed 3.

Fountaindale Woman Is Badly Beaten By Men

State police of the Gettysburg station Monday investigated the case of a 28-year-old woman who was severely beaten and forced out of a car in the Fountaindale section near Emmitsburg early Sunday morning.

The woman, Mrs. Ellen Snowberger, of Waynesboro, staggered into the home of James Tallent, Fairfield Route 1, about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, bleeding from the mouth and showing other evidence of having been beaten.

State police were called to the scene and the woman told them that two men had beaten her and pushed her out of their car near the Tallent home.

The Waynesboro ambulance was called and the woman was sent to the Waynesboro Hospital for observation and treatment.

Mrs. Snowberger related she had been to a dance at Blue Ridge Summit and the two men had promised to escort her home.

Leaving the dance the men headed toward Fountaindale where the beating was said to have taken place.

The investigation is continuing.

Deputy Sheriff To Check Dog Licenses Here Soon

About 125 Frederick County residents have been served with 10-day notices to secure new dog licenses, Sheriff Guy Anders reported this week.

The notices, in the form of summonses, require the owners of dogs to appear within 10 days at the office of the county treasurer and secure license tags.

About 40 persons have secured the licenses as a result of the notices, the sheriff said.

The others have some time remaining of the 10-day period.

As the 10-day time limit expires without action on the part of residents, warrants will be drawn and cases brought into a magistrate's court for non-compliance with the dog act, Sheriff Anders stated.

Special Deputy Sheriff Murray Smith is investigating dog law complaints. At the same time, he is covering homes in the various districts checking for unlicensed dogs. Sections of Buckeystown, Frederick and Thurmont districts have been visited and it is said that Emmitsburg will be inspected in the near future.

The county's funded debt will drop below the three quarter of a million mark by the end of this year.

The report of the county auditor, recently received by the County Commissioners, placed the outstanding bonds at $882,000 as of Dec. 31, 1948.

The commissioners appropriated $101,000 toward payment of bonds this year. Wiped out entirely July 1 was an old $25,000 lateral road bond issue of 1927. The last $5,000 was paid.

Also amortized, or to be paid, in 1949: $6,000 on July 1 on a 1925 $50,000 lateral bond issue, reducing it to $12,000; $18,000 on Oct. 1 on a 1931 refunding bond issue of $186,000, cutting it to $114,000; $10,000 July 1 on a $322,700 refunding debt bond issue of 1935, reducing it to $206,000.

Fifteen thousand dollars Jan. 1 on a 1922 $120,000 school bond issue, cutting it to $35,000; $12,000 Oct. 1 on a 1931 $124,000 school bond issue, reducing it to $16,000; $25,000 July 1 on a $300,000 school bond issue of 1937, reducing it to $75,000.

The commissioners also appropriated in this year's levy, in a manner similar to the past few years, the sum of $10,000 to meet the Jan. 1, 1950, payment on a 1924 school bond issue of $25,000. This will be cut to $60,000 by the latest payment.

All county bonds now mature serially and under present calculations, which does not take into consideration future bond issues, the county's bonded indebtedness would be completely wiped out by 1961.

The county also paid during the year interest and principal in the amount of $1,960 on the long-standing Winchester Hall building mortgage. This mortgage is now down to $22,000, with $1,000 payments scheduled to be made Aug. 1 of each year until paid.
