CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Efforts of several Emmitsburgians to organize a Chamber of Commerce here are rapidly bearing fruit. It is understood that a nucleus of some 30 potential members has already pledged itself to join the organization. Arrangements are being made to have an organizer come here in the not too far future and explain the setup of a chamber to all interested individuals at a public gathering. It is the hope of those organizing the unit to have at least 100 members when the charter is presented. Whether you have been approached or not, you are welcome and urged to attend this meeting when the date is set. It is an impossible task to contact every individual in the community. Anyone interested in the welfare of this community or district, is eligible to join up. Better watch the Chronicle for the next few weeks when more positive action will be taken.

CONTRACT WRANGLE

What has happened to our new street lights? It seems that some misunderstanding has occurred. Our good officials maintain the Potomac-Edison Co. is to blame. In talking to the power utility officials, they claim that very vital equipment, essential to the installation, is scarce and when it is procured, the lights will be put in. Coming back to the Town's Fathers' side, they maintain that a contract had been signed, insuring the installation by Jan. 1, 1950. They are pretty well concerned about the whole affair and it is understood a letter was, or will be sent, to the utility, asking that they comply to terms of the contract. In fact, an ultimatum will be issued. Either the system be installed by April 1, or they will consider the contract abrogated. Whoever is to blame, we certainly hope that something is done shortly about the "candles" which we are now relying on for illuminating the burg.

BASEBALL

We can't help but feel Emmitsburg will have a great team this year. The services of Coach Law have been secured and with him behind the outfit, nothing is being left undone to get talent and develop it before the opener with Littlestown here on Sunday, April 23. Coach Law has been associated with some of the largest universities in the country and is, as you know, a graduate of Notre Dame, and also one of its grid greats. Coach Law is to be commended for his noble gesture in handling the local team. A very busy man with his own contracts, he is willing to exert still more effort on behalf of Emmitsburg. We certainly are proud of him and can't help feeling a bit chesty about the whole thing.

BETTER PAY UP

We warned you several times that the local police department was planning to crack down on you meter violators. Many considered the thing as a joke. Well, now you will be sent a 5-day notice, and at the expiration of that, a warrant will be sworn out for your apprehension, and of course, it will cost you five bucks plus the price of the tag, anyway. Better not ignore these tickets is our advice to you.

BONUS TO PROVE HOT ISSUE IN ELECTION YEAR

State Legislators
May Pass the Buck
To Gov. Lane

What promises to cause many members of the State Legislature sleepless nights in this election year, is a proposed state bonus for veterans of World War II.

Returning to the State House this week after a week-end recess, the General Assembly readied for a showdown on the bonus issue.

Two state senators said the issue would be the "hot potato" of the still young 1950 session which began last Wednesday.

An Eastern Shore Democrat said: "I voted against the bonus last year," when it was narrowly defeated, "but this is an election year."

Another stated, "I lost some sleep last night talking over how to vote when it comes up again." Governor Silent.

"A lot of us think this is the Governor's baby," declared a Baltimore Democrat. "We feel he ought to let us vote for the bill and then veto it. Of course he will be running for reelection himself."

There was only silence from Governor Lane and administration leaders. Lane also has yet to announce whether he will be a candidate for re-election.

A Republican, Senator Phoebus of Somerset County, promised to introduce the bonus measure this week. His bill, now being checked over by the attorney general's office, would provide payments up to $500 for veterans of World War II.

Phoebus leaves open the question of where to get the $75,000,000 to pay for the bonus. That would be settled if and after voters approve the idea at a November referendum.

Senate Minority Leader Kimble, whose $100,000,000 bonus bill was beaten at the 1948 session, has not yet disclosed his plans for the current session.

Any bonus paid out of current funds would play havoc in Lane's record-breaking $143 million state budget for fiscal 1951. The Senate Finance Committee this week starts on the budget bill, getting "the background of the whole picture" from Budget Director James G. Rennie.

All 105 Democrats and 47 Republicans in the Legislature will be up for re-election next fall.

'Tall Tales' No. 2

Several years back, talking of raising hybrid corn, I told them they didn't know what corn was. I lived on a farm where the farmer had a field of corn a good distance from the home. The corn being of such tremendous size had to be hauled on a wagon, with use of a log chain and loaded length-wise. Beneath the log wagon he fixed canvas and the horses pulling the wagon, vibrated the chains enough to shell the corn on the canvas. While logs were still loaded, he took them to the sawmill and had rough lumber made. The sawdust was of such hard consistency he used this in cement, making walks, etc. A bundle of this fodder lasted a normal cow the entire winter.

What's Your Name?

By JULES CHRISTIAN

After two weeks' vacation it is good to return to this column again. This vacation marks the end of the first year's effort to call the roll of the Emmitsburg citizens and to set forth the origin and meaning of their names. When this understanding was begun a year ago, the writer did not dream that he would issue 50 installments without missing a single week, or that the effort would require so long a time. Yet, there is still quite a ways to go before every family name is called.

Before this interlude, we were considering the doctors of the community. Continuing with this distinguished profession, the next name to be considered is the chiropractor who operates the Health Center so conveniently and prominently located at the Y in the road on W. Main St.

DAVID LUTHER BEEGLE

Dr. Beegle was born in Bedford, Pa. He attended the schools of that community, and then the well-known Palmer College of Chiropractic at Davenport, Ia. Upon graduation from this institution, he took up his practice in Gettysburg. In 1932 he came to Emmitsburg.

Since coming here, Dr. Beegle has achieved a distinguished place in Emmitsburg. He is a pleasing man to meet, handsome in appearance, gifted in talent, and interesting to talk with. He keeps up-to-date on the latest developments in the art of his profession. It is not uncommon to read that he has been away to some national convention of chiropractors where he is one of the recognized leaders of that profession. And in the chiropractic literature, there frequently occurs articles contributed by him.

Not only is this true, but also in the local community one finds him in the front ranks of social and civic leadership. A brief survey of what he has done for the community, sets him forth as one of Emmitsburg's most esteemed citizens. He is a member of the Lions Club where he has served as president for two terms; a member of the baseball club where he served as president for one year; member of the Masonic Lodge of Gettysburg and Harrisburg, Consistory and Shrine; Past President of the Maryland Chiropractic Assn., where he was secretary-treasurer; member of Indian Lookout Conservation Club; Blue Ridge

Sportsmen's Club; Gettysburg Country Club, etc. His enthusiastic leadership in the local baseball club has endeared him to all lovers of this popular sport, and also helped to place Emmitsburg on the map. He, likewise, is a good churchman and member of local Lutheran Church.

Dr. Beegle is blessed with a gifted wife and two children, the apple of his eye. Nancy, his daughter, is a reporter for the Gettysburg Times.

MEANING OF NAME

The origin and meaning of this name is obscure. In its present form it does not seem to occur in the Medieval Census Rolls. It probably came originally from Austria where it occurs in such forms as Biegle, Bugle, Bugler, or Beugler, indicating a possible military origin as a professional bugler in the army. Two brothers, Fred and Charles, came from Germany in Colonial times and were veterans of the Revolution. Fred was given a tract of land in Bedford County, Pa. From this family came Dr. Beegle.

In its present form the name first appears in England. There it was spelled Begle. It apparently was used to describe a personal characteristic, namely, one of small stature or a diminutive form of any object. Thus, when the foxhound was bred for the purpose of hunting rabbits, the name of this breed was called beagle to indicate the smallness of size. The original breed of this well-known dog, was very small, about the size of a cat.

From the skill of this dog in tracking down rabbits, the name of Beagle or Beegle began to be applied to the sheriff who exhibited equal skill in tracking down criminals. Thus, the Beagle was probably the ancestor of the modern FBI.

The next time one comes across the name, it occurs in 1831. That was a little ship of the British Navy called the Beagle, named probably from the smallness of its size. This famous naval boat, under the command of Capt. Robert Fitzroy, took Charles Darwin, the famed naturalist, on a tour of research around the world. It was on the voyage in that small ship that Charles Darwin originated the famous Theory of Evolution that shook the foundations of science and religion for a century. This ship added further fame to the name of Beegle.

Interesting Travelogue Describes Wonders Of Alcoa

By REV. CHARLES S. OWEN

—VIII—

It has been previously pointed out how the Land of the Sky became the summer vacation resort for the Southern people. Another observation evident to the tourist, is that this area apparently is on the way toward becoming a land of lakes and colossus of water power. The dual purpose of the latter is both flood control and the production of electricity. This trend was begun by the TVA, which according to reports, will build no more dams.

The TVA has been a magnificent achievement. By it, 200,000 farms have been electrified, 50,000 farms saved from erosion, four million acres of land improved or redeemed, a three-fold increase in taxes paid, electricity made so cheap that it is now being used to heat 16,000 homes, and brought new industries into the area. The TVA has attracted world attention, and becomes a model in many countries. Recently, the Prime Minister of India, Jawaharlal Nehru, visited the project. He plans a similar undertaking in his own country.

Now, however, private enterprise, we were told, is taking over where the TVA has left off. Taking the lead in this move of private corporations to transform the Land of the Sky into a region of mountain lakes and water power, is the Alcoa Aluminum Co. This is the largest aluminum company in the country. It produces 50% of this light metal, now so widely used in the miracle of American production.

On the way to Fontana, described last week, we passed by a number of these Alcoa lakes and dams. Some of them constitute amazing feats of engineering genius. One place the company had tunneled through a mountain to merge two streams for increased water power.

SANTEELAH

One of the most unusual examples was seen at Lake Santeelah, located on the western border of the Great Smoky Mountain Park. For miles and miles the highway followed the winding shores of this lake, except when it had to leap up over some mountain overlooking the water. After a long time we came to the dam. But no power house was there. Instead, the small stream feeding the lakes was piped five miles further down the valley to the top of a mountain where it ended in a big standpipe, which, of course, was on a level with the dam. From the foot of the mountain, the standpipe looked about the size of the one in Taneytown. Perhaps, however, it was much larger. From this big stand, two pipes, each looking slightly

BASEBALL ASSN. NAMES STANDING COMMITTEES

First Game Of Season Brings
Littlestown Here

Plans were discussed for the coming baseball season Sunday afternoon when a special meeting of the Emmitsburg Baseball Assn., was held in the Firemen's Hall at 1 p. m.

President Bernard H. Boyle appointed the following committees to serve for the coming season: Grounds committee, Norman Flax, chairman, Edward Lingg, Ralph McDonnell, and George Rosensteel; transportation, J. Norman Flax; finance, John D. White, chairman, Dr. D. L. Beegle, Herbert W. Roger and Floyd C. Miller; players, Norman Flax; chairman, Arthur Elder and Edward Lingg; concession stand, B. H. Boyle, chairman, Edward Lingg, Ralph McDonnell and George Rosensteel.

Plans were made to install lights in the concession stand and possibly a few around the grandstands. Lingg and Crouse were awarded the contract to install toilet facilities in the home dugout building.

Within the next few weeks the organization will chance off a television set in order to meet pre-season capital expenditures on the grounds. According to the 1949 financial statement, the club finished the season some three hundred dollars in the red.

President Boyle appointed Floyd C. Miller as a member of the board of directors of the Community Fund of Emmitsburg.

Business Manager J. Norman Flax announced the acquisition of the services of Shaeffer and possibly those of Fred Shank, to help round out the lineup for the coming playing season. Shank, a third baseman and utility catcher and Shaeffer, a shortstop and utility pitcher are expected to provide much added strength in these positions. Matt Paidakovich, last year's third baseman, has been ruled ineligible as a result of the 15-mile player limit which is to be rigidly enforced this year.

With these additions to the lineup and the fact that Coach John Law, Mt. St. Mary's College, is believed that the locals will be well in the running for permanent honors this year. Other playing talent is being scouted by the player committee. The season opens on April 23 with Littlestown at Emmitsburg.

Baby, Near Here, Found Dead Of Strangulation

Dead of food strangulation, the body of seventh-month-old Joseph Allen Brooks, son of Charles and Sylvia Stauter Brooks, was found in its bassinette at the family residence near Thurmont early last Thursday morning.

Deputy Sheriff R. Paul Buhrman and the County Medical Examiner investigating the cause of death, after examining the infant at the funeral home in Thurmont, pronounced "suffocation."

An Emmitsburg physician called to the Brooks' residence at 6:30 a. m. said the child had been dead for several hours, when he arrived at the home. He diagnosed the death as "suffocation, probably due to food strangulation and from other visible symptoms."

Members of the family told their physician the child was in normal good health when they last saw it alive in its bassinette, in the kitchen of the residence shortly before they retired to the adjoining bedroom about 10:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The parents arose about 5:30 a. m., found the child dead and called the doctor.

Besides his parents, the infant is survived by a brother, Charles K. Brooks, at home, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Stauter of Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning at the Thurmont United Brethren Church at 10 o'clock, with Rev. Ivan G. Naupe officiating. Interment in Thurmont Blue Ridge Cemetery.

STREET LIGHTING SYSTEM MEETS WITH DELAY

Utility and Solons
Wrangle Over
Contract for System

Emmitsburg's plans for new street lighting seem to have been snagged somewhere along the line. It was disclosed at a meeting of town officials Tuesday evening in the Firemen's Hall, that the official body is rather perturbed at the alleged negligence of the Potomac-Edison Co., power utility, which accepted the contract for the installation of the new lighting system. According to the solons, the project was to have been finished by Jan. 1. To date, exactly nothing has been accomplished and it was learned the Town Fathers plan to send a communication to the effect that if the project is not completed by April 1, they will consider the contract abrogated.

Taken under advisement were two bids entered for the collection of garbage and ashes for the Corporation of Emmitsburg. The action of the officials indicated that they were not quite satisfied with the situation as it now stands. They believe it would be better financing savvy to wait a short while, gather more data on the collecting system and then advertise for competitive bids. It was indicated that action would be forthcoming on this matter within the next two months. Bids will also be asked on a small project concerning the hooking up of Emmitsburg High School to the local sewerage system.

Also discussed and acted upon were three other requests for drain pipe and road fixing. A new section of pipe was ordered laid beside the restaurant of George Wagaman, as was also a section of pipe to alleviate the surface water from in front of the property of Edward K. DePaul St. Indications are the roadway leading to the Community Field will be repaired the near future. Several bad breaks have occurred there as a

First Check Of Ineligible Voters Wipes Off 1,000

On the basis of first figures available this week, it is indicated that approximately one-fourth of the names on the Frederick County registration books will be eliminated the next few weeks. Figures for the first nine precincts show that 1,088 of 4,216 persons registered have failed to vote in the past five years.

For the first two precincts scanned in the Frederick District, the percentage of removals for failure to vote in five years is nearly 40%.

Of 1,355 persons registered in Frederick 1 and 1-A, 534 are being removed for failure to exercise the right of franchise the past five years. Of these, 264 are being removed in precinct 1 and 270 in precinct 1-A.

Employees of the Election Supervisors had completed a check of three Buckeystown, two Frederick, two Brunswick and both Walkersville precincts this week. The percentage of removals in the Buckeystown precincts is 21 per cent; at Walkersville, 11 per cent and for the two Brunswick precincts, 23%.

As the party with the largest registration, the Democrats are losing the most. Total figures show 630 Democrats, and 447 Republicans in the first 1,088 removed.

7,000 May Be Removed
The early figures indicate that as many as 7,000 names will be removed for failure to vote. At first glance, the Election Supervisors had estimated that approximately 1,000 names would be removed for that reason. It will be necessary to obtain about 7,000 more notices of removal printed to complete the task.

Each person to be removed from the rolls has to be notified of the intent by a notice addressed to the last known address of the person.

Emmitsburg's percentage is expected to average similarly with these figures of towns already checked.

COMPLACENCY SHOULD NOT BE TOLERATED

Again and again tragedy strikes motorists from near and afar as they converge on Toll Gate Hill. Added to the long list of accidents (and fatalities) were four more mishaps this week.

Two cars, one from New York and one from our home state, Maryland, were damaged to the extent of $1,700. A lady was seriously injured. This crash occurred last Saturday afternoon. Over the week-end two other motorists went spinning into the field at the break of the curve, and later on, another crashed into a tree at the top of the hill. On Monday, a local car and truck collided. Lady Luck will not always act with a smile. Any one of these mishaps could easily have been fatal.

It is roughly estimated by local citizens that enough damage has been done to cars, lives, hospitalization and doctor's fees in the past 20 years, to easily pay for the eliminating of this abortive piece of road engineering.

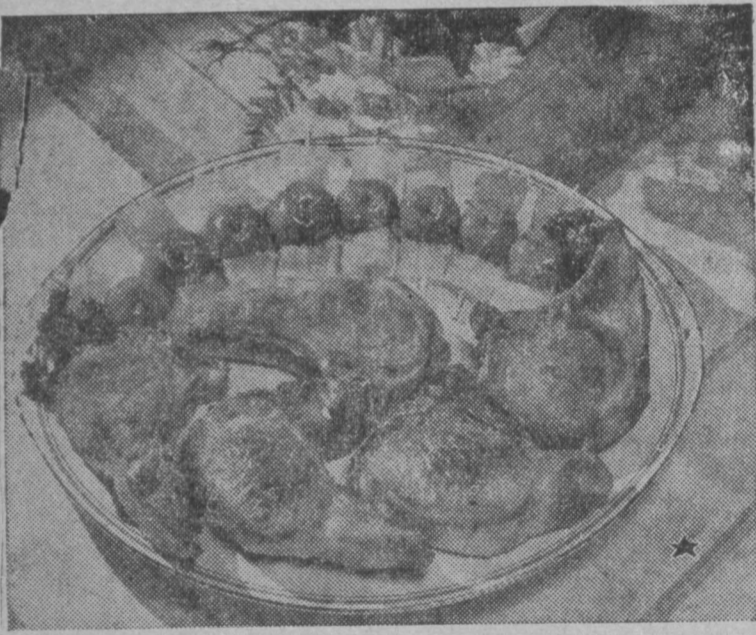

This 90-degree curve is only one of a series of some 25 in the seven-mile stretch from here to Thurmont. Also in this length of "roadway" are several double and even a triple arc, which we believe earns it the dubious title of the country's worst paved highway.

We cannot condone the complacency of the State Roads Commission in this matter. Life and property damage has proceeded too far already. The matter calls for immediate action. In fact, we believe that an emergency fund should be set up by the commission to remedy the situation.

We can see no sane reasoning in the refusal of the Commission to take action while the slaughter proceeds. It is understood that the space which would be needed for the elimination of the curve has been granted and all that is needed now is for the Commission to okay the project.

Many times public officials lose sight of the fact they are servants of the people and reverse the rightful procedure. We believe this is the exact condition now existing with our present Commission. Perhaps it would be wise for the Chief Executive of Maryland to check up on his underlings, appointed to him, to ascertain whether or not they are doing their rightful duty to the people. We are of the opinion that when the people are satisfied, there is no need for this type of editorial, but when dissatisfaction arises (as in an election year) we believe we are championing the rights of Emmitsburgians as well as out-of-towners, and feel we are more than right in demanding the eradication of the death trap.

"Who Said That?"

By Robert Trout

Accustomed to fast thinking, this week's guest guessers on NBC's video quiz, "Who Said That?", made quick work of the quotes I tossed at them. How well could you have done at knowing the names of the famous persons who made these remarks? 1. Who said... "If they are going to rumorme as being engaged to someone, I wish they would at least pick someone I know." 2. Who said... "I have never been in or seen a drug store in my life... I don't know what you do inside a drug store, but I shall find out." 3. Who said... "Hollywood is not as bad as people think, but the pictures are." 4. Who said... "Strikes, Strikes... don't you have police in the United States?" 5. Who said... "I would say that glamour is just civilized sex." 6. Who said... "There is no doubt in my mind that Gov. Dewey has the desire for another shot at the Presidency... I also believe that General Eisenhower is interested in the Republican nomination for '50."

7. Who said... "If I had my way, there would be only forty-seven states... New York is a foreign state which ought to be disenfranchised." 8. Who said... "When I first met him, I hated him... one of our friends, a psychiatrist, says that the reason I hated him so much was that I was fighting his great attraction." 9. Who said... "I don't think a non-controversial man should be found for the job... After all, it's a controversial job." 10. Who said... "It wouldn't do to upset things to have two queens sitting on the throne at once." 11. Who said... "Any dinner of more than sixteen people is considered enormous. Any hostess who relies upon memory alone may find herself repeating to friends the same dinner, down to the entremets, that she provided six months before. It's a pity that Mr. Watson's International Business Machine Corp. has not addressed itself to this challenging problem."

Senator Storm's

in recommending the regulation and collection of 21 license taxes be transferred from State to local authorities, Governor W. Preston Lane's Tax Survey Commission report filed Saturday is deemed tantamount to partial adoption of the Home Rule Plan, advanced by State Senator Edward D. Storm, Frederick County, in 1947-48.

The senator's plan, which included many home rule provisions for counties and towns, was discussed with the local officials of Emmitsburg, Brunswick, Myersville, Thurmont, Walkersville, Middletown, Woodsboro and Burkittsville. It also was given to the Board of County Commissioners for study. Local officials approved the plan as a whole, so it was believed here that they will approve the Tax Survey Commission's recommendations.

Under the commission's recommendations, the following license taxes would be transferred to local authorities: Billiard table, bowling saloons, carnival, circus, construction firm, garage horse and hack laundry, motion picture machine, moving picture show, soda water fountain, storage warehouse, theater, trading company, vending machine, wholesale dealers in farm machinery and cleaning and dyeing.

Senator Storm's plan included all of the above and in addition would have given local authorities control over the following: Auctioneers and auction rooms, cigar licenses, plumbers and gas fitters, restaurants, eating places, barbers, cabins and camps, dance halls traders, wholesale dealers and haulers fortune tellers, palmists, traveling persons who dispense medicine or medical advice, and/or secret or patented inventions and remedies, taxicabs, street railways, buses hackney carriages, pest exterminators, traveling magazine salesmen, and representatives of rodeos and correspondent schools.

When asked for comment on the commission report, Senator Storm stated that he approved wholeheartedly of the report as far as it goes. "This is the first statewide acceptance of Home Rule," he said. "It would be unwise to have home rule without the local financing of home rule."

First County Farm Loans By March 1

As authorized under the Housing Act of 1949, the Farmers Home Administration closed the first farm housing loan in Maryland, Thursday night, February 2, in Salisbury, when Senator Millard E. Tydings, during ceremonies sponsored by the Lions Club, presented a loan check to Mr. Harry L. Ward, a farmer in Wicomico County. Mr. Ward, will use the proceeds of the loan to build a bungalow and to enlarge his broiler plant.

The first loan in Frederick County should be ready for closing by March 1, according to H. Bryce Hopkins, local supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration. Many applications have already been received and Mr. Hopkins will be glad to talk to any persons desiring to make application at his office in Winchester Hall, Frederick, any time between 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Approximately $300,000 has been allocated to Maryland for farm housing loan purposes during the current fiscal year.

Farm owners who cannot obtain necessary credit from any other source to repair or construct homes and buildings, are eligible for consideration for this assistance, and preference is given to veterans and families of deceased servicemen. A borrower will have from 5 to 33 years to repay the loan and the rate of interest is 4%. He will be expected to refinance his indebtedness through private or co-operative sources when he is able to do so.

Applications for farm housing loans are reviewed by the county committee of the Farmers Home Administration to determine the eligibility of the applicant, as well as the need for this type of financial assistance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Blackburn and son, David, of near Baltimore, were guests on Sunday at the home of Mrs. Blackburn's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Gillespie and family of near town.

Beneficial Social Security Explained

By EDWARD R. YOUNG, Field Representative
The third installment of "Our Country and Social Security" series explains the Social Security Card, and tells why every Social Security account number holder does not get benefits.

One question asked frequently at any Social Security Field Office is this one: "Does everyone who has a Social Security Card get benefits?"

Simply owning a Social Security Account Number Card does not in itself guarantee that you will get retirement benefits at 65 or later or that your family will receive benefits if you die, whatever your age. Any benefits paid to you or to your survivors depend on how long you have worked on jobs covered by the Social Security Act.

As you know all kinds of work are not covered. It is easy to see that many persons, who have account number cards, will have worked at least some time on jobs covered by the Act, yet won't get benefits because they worked most of the time on jobs that are not covered.

Let's look at the occupations not covered by Social Security. All types of farm work are left out of this Old Age and Survivors Insurance; domestic work in private homes is left out; work for city, county, State or Federal Government is passed over; the self-employed are not under this insurance system; employees of non-profit institutions and organizations solely for religious or educational purposes are barred.

In our country, no one is forced to continue in the same employment. And, as he changes jobs, he may come under Social Security only to leave that coverage when he takes another job which is not covered. Sometimes he's in and sometimes he's out; therefore, sometimes he can get benefits when is 65 and retires and sometimes he cannot, which is also true of survivors.

The Social Security Administration, as required by law makes recommendations for improving Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. The chief recommendation for the past several years has been to extend the protection of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance to all gainfully employed persons and to increase this protection against the loss of income from old age or death. I will be in Emmitsburg again on Feb. 27 at 11 a. m. at the post-office.

Toll Gate Crash Injures Woman

A woman passenger was painfully injured and total damage estimated at $1,700 as the result of an automobile collision last Saturday at 2 p. m. on Toll Gate Hill, a mile south of Emmitsburg on Rt. 15. It was reported this was the fourth accident of the week on the Hill.

The 1949 Buick sedan driven by Irving H. Mullen, 49, of Almond, N. Y., and a 1948 Chevrolet sedan, driven by Garland S. Arnold, 63, Upper Marlboro, were the two cars involved. The south-bound Buick was damaged to the extent of $1,000, and the north-bound Chevrolet around $700. Mrs. Nellie M. Arnold, 59, sustained shock and bruises and was taken to Annie Warner Hospital at Gettysburg by a passing motorist.

Trooper Kenneth Bond investigated and charged Mullen with failing to keep to the right of the center of the highway.

Fifty years ago Federal taxes amounted to only $3.88 per person. Now it's about $270 a head.

HOMEMAKERS CORNER

It's not too early to begin on those slipcovers for your living-room furniture, if you want them for a spring change. A helpful new bulletin on the subject of "Fabrics for Slipcovers" has just been prepared by Florence H. Mason, home furnishing specialist of the University of Maryland Extension Service.

In its pages, Miss Mason has given a brief but complete description of the types of fabric which are available. She points out the advantages and disadvantages, as well as the best use of different weaves, colors, textures, patterns, and chemical treatments. These are illustrated by many pictures. Ask your home demonstration agent for a copy of this bulletin.

Apple Omelet

Since apples are still with us, here's another recipe to add to your file. This time it's Apple Omelet, a delicate dish to serve with broiled spareribs or roast pork. To make, cook five tart apples until very soft, then mash them and add 1/2 tablespoon butter, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, and two eggs. Bake at 300 degrees F. in a shallow greased casserole, or pie tin, until brown.

Safe Drying

Think twice before you set wet shoes or overshoes on the hearth or near the stove to dry these winter days. Wet leather may be hardened so that it cracks, or may even be scorched by too much heat. Rubber may be weakened or even melted. Slow drying at room temperature prolongs the life of both items.

The rule of slow safe drying also holds for fur and woollens—too often draped over hot radiators or hung too near the fire. Both wool and fur are especially fragile when wet and may be damaged by strong heat.

Penny-wise Purchasing

These rules for cutting down on your food budget, without sacrificing quality or quantity, are passed along by the U. S. Agricultural Extension Service.

Shop for what you need, not what catches your eye only to sit on the pantry shelf for months. Look for food value in the lower grades, which perhaps lack only surface perfection. Make full use of your purchases—cooking beet tops, or perhaps creaming the outer stalks of celery too tough for salads. Store your food where it won't be damaged by insect, temperature or moisture. Fifth, and it's important, save food values by careful preparation. Sixth, use left-overs. And finally, make full use of foods in good supply.

Good Grapefruit

Choose grapefruit that are heavy for their size, fairly well-shaped and firm, but springing to the touch. Pass them up if they're soft, wilted or flabby. Russet marks on the outside of the grapefruit won't affect the quality.

Frederick County Has 16 Road Projects, 46 Miles Under Construction

Maryland's accelerated highway program has given Frederick County 16 projects covering 46 miles of new or improved roads in the last three years with a total cost of $6,257,836, according to an end-of-the-year survey of State Roads Commission records.

That mileage-and-money represents projects completed, in progress, awarded or advertised between Jan. 1, 1947 and Dec. 31, 1949.

In the first half of 1949 contracts awarded for the improvement of Maryland Route 32 from Emmitsburg to the Pennsylvania State line at a cost of $74,055 and for a $54,558 repair job on the Brunswick bridge over the Potomac.

In the last few months contracts awarded for work in Frederick County exceeded five million dollars. The biggest of these is the job building the first 5-mile section of the Washington National Pike.

This road, which is being built on an entirely new line and has been designed as a divided highway with controlled access, is expected, when complete, to supplement the present Route 240 as a major traffic carrier between Frederick and Washington. The first section, in addition to five miles of road, includes a new bridge over the Monocacy River, a bridge over the B&O Railroad tracks and a grade separation structure to carry the new road over U. S. 5, the latter structure to be incorporated later into a traffic interchange designed for that point. The total cost authorizations for the three structures and the five mile section of road is $3,146,909.

The second most costly job for Frederick County in the last half of the current year is the relocation of 3.7 miles of Maryland Route 26 around Unionville, the figure for this project being $914,390.

The Frederick County figures are part of the total for the four Western Maryland counties of 178 mile of road improvements costing $18,055,007 for the three-year period. In Allegany County 47.5 miles of road were rebuilt or improved at a cost of $3,786,311. Washington County, according to the records, has had 42.5 miles of new or improved roads at a cost of $5,385,222, while the Garrett County totals are 24 miles and $2,631,638.

KITCHEN MEMO BY JEAN CLARKE

Like ripe olives, some people love bread pudding, others abhor it. Molasses Bread Pudding, because of its high flavor, will convert the bread pudding-haters in your family. It contains plenty of body-building iron. Arrange 10 slices diced stale bread in a well-greased baking dish. Beat together 2 eggs, 3 tbsps. molasses, 2 tbsps. sugar, 1/4 tsp. salt. Add 2 cups scalded milk, 2 tbsps. melted butter and pour over the bread cubes. Put baking dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate gas oven of 350°F. for one hour or until firm. Serves 6.

A coarse quarter-inch wire mesh fastened under the register of your gas floor furnace will catch dust particles. Clean it occasionally to keep free passage for hot air.

Added flavor for gravy: Stir in a bouillon cube while the gravy is cooking.

Store meat or poultry unwrapped in your gas refrigerator because contact with the air delays spoiling.

The rusty scale that drops down from the bottom of your automatic gas water heater should be brushed off the burner about twice a year.

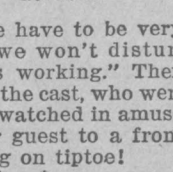

While your noodle soup is simmering on the top burner, add chopped green pepper and chopped pimiento. Or parsley can take the place of the pepper.

Merry (Meredith) MacRae, 17-year-old daughter of Gordon M. MacRae, star of NBC's "Railroad Hour," attended the show last Monday night with a grown-up friend of the family. Having been warned to be quiet when the show was on the air, Merry grabbed the guest's hand as they stepped inside the studio doors and whispered loudly, "We have to be very, very quiet so's we won't disturb Daddy while he's working." Then, while Gordon and the cast, who were only in rehearsal watched in amusement she led her guest to a front-row seat—walking on tiptoe!

As six-year-old Elizabeth Watson, of MBS's "Juvenile Jury," and the other members of the show guess the breed of a different dog guest on the program each Sunday, she is considered quite an authority on the subject at home. The other day another little girl noticed a dog pass by with its owner. "Oh, look," exclaimed the other child, "What kind of a puppy is that?" "Well," answered Elizabeth, after giving it a careful look, "If it had a bath, it would be an Eskimo dog."

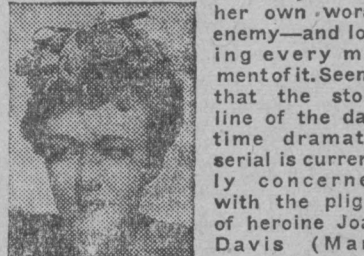

Hoyt Allen, who directs NBC's "Portia Faces Life," claims he has the ideal hobby for a radio director. It's carpentry, and Hoyt's skill is considerable enough for "House Beautiful" to have published pictures of the interesting furniture Hoyt has constructed for his home in Westport, Conn. But his reason for calling this the perfect avocation, is our favorite for the week. "At the studio, it's all talk," he explains, "but all you ever have to say in carpentry is 'Please pass the hammer.'"

CROP Drive Closing Close

The CROP food collection campaign enters its final week, as messengers throughout Maryland doubling their efforts to complete the statewide farm-to-city canvass for food contributions.

Jointly sponsored by Catholic Rural Life, Church World Service and Lutheran World Relief, the Christian Rural Overseas Program has been collecting farm commodities in this area for shipment to the starving people of Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

The theory behind the program is that more friends can be made by shipping foods to hungry people than through any other means. The CROP foods are being distributed through already established church organizations in many countries.

Several carloads of grain and milk have already been given by Maryland farmers, and it is expected that by February 15, when the program officially closes, a large friendship train will have been made of the gifts from generous Marylanders.

Those who wish to contribute to this campaign may do so through their churches, County CROP Committee, or by notifying the CROP office, 8 W. 25th St., Baltimore 18, that they wish to make a contribution.

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

Baltimore grain markets, following the national pattern, weakened somewhat during the week. Supplies were ample; demand light for all grains with the exception of soybeans with demand good. Wheat markets in Central and Western Maryland were firm, but the wheat market in Baltimore weakened with a drop of about three cents per bushel. Corn and oats were steady to lower on the Baltimore market. Barley remained firm. Soybeans were steady to higher with a gain of about four cents per bushel in No. 2 black soybeans, and about one cent in No. 2 yellow soybeans. The Baltimore hay market remains quiet. Hay demand is very light due partially to the open winter and ample supplies on farms.

National Grain Market
Grain markets turned weaker and wheat prices dropped sharply during the week end, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture show. Large remaining stocks, disappointing export trade, expiration of the time for placing wheat under loan and proposed legislation for curtailing support programs were weakening influences. Marketings were small and the light offerings tended to off-set the weakening influences, except for wheat which declined six to seven cents in the principal markets, except those on the Pacific Coast. Rye prices dropped along with those in Canadian markets. Corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums were only slightly lower, but soybeans and low oil-content flaxseed dropped four to five cents per bushel.

Maryland Feed Market
Baltimore feed prices, following the national trend, continued to decline during the week. Supplies were ample; demand slow. Major declines were noted in 50% meat scrap which showed another sharp drop of more than 4¢—$5.07 per ton less than a week ago. Wheat millfeeds weakened further on the Baltimore market with standard bran down $1.56 per ton (over 2%) and standard middlings down $1.94 per ton (over 3%). Gluten feed—$2.46 per ton less, and distillers' dried grains—$2.84 per ton less, declined over 3% on the Baltimore market during the past week.

The broiler-feed ratio was less favorable for Maryland producers for the week. Broiler prices averaged $90.53 per ton. On this basis one pound live weight of broilers would buy 4.5 pounds of feeds (five pounds last week).

National Feed Market
Feedstuff prices continued to decline during the last week in January and reached a more nearly normal relationship with feed grains, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture show. The index of wholesale feedstuff prices dropped more than four points, to 199, which was only about 14 points above the feed grain index, which advanced slightly to 194.6. A year ago feedstuffs were nearly 28 points above feed grains. Slackening demand from feeders and feed manufacturers as the result of less favorable feeding ratios, particularly from poultrymen, together with mild weather in southern areas and continued large production of oil-seed meals, were the principal weakening influences. Wheat millfeeds declined 75¢-$1.50 per ton at leading markets, while oil seed meals were from $1 as much as $2.50 per ton lower. Most other feeds were also lower compared with the previous week, with tankage and meat scraps down $5-$10 per ton.

Feeding ratios for poultrymen became quite unfavorable in January, with a sharp drop in egg prices much more than offsetting lower feeding costs. A dozen eggs would purchase only 11 pounds of a representative poultry ration at the middle of January compared with 14.1 pounds in December and the pre-war January average of 15.2 pounds. Feeding ratios for dairymen in January were about the same as in December, since buttermilk prices declined about as much as feed costs. A pound of buttermilk would purchase 24.5 pounds of a representative dairy ration in January compared with 24.4 in December and 22.3 the pre-war January average. These figures are for the country as a whole and ratios varied for different areas.

Add 1/2 lb. of leftover meat or fish, hard-boiled egg, or cheese to a bean salad.

Satan Laughs

Is kill and maim the speeders creed
As o'er the hills and vales they speed,
Or are they of a superior breed
Leaving safety rules, for others to heed.
Out of the wrecks the bodies roll,
With seldom one intact and whole;
And innocent victims pay death's toll
As their bodies release their soul.
Yes, Satan laughs with fiendish glee
As the racing cars hit car or tree,
And he reaps his crop right merrily
As the speeders die and souls go free.
Yes, Satan laughs as he stokes his fire
He laughs and smirks in grim satire;
As the bodies pile on high, and higher
As the souls are fed to his growing fire.
His stock pile rises hour by hour
As speeding drivers (drunk with power),
Step on the gas with visage dour
And send more souls to Satan's bower.

Employment Benefits Reach All-time High

Maryland's Department of Employment Security paid out in 1949 approximately $29,838,000 in unemployment insurance benefits, including $827,930 in dependent's allowances, to unemployed workers under the Maryland law, compared with income from employer contributions of $14,354,000.

Employment Security Board Chairman William H. Mahaney this week announced the estimated total as the department summed up its year's operations which set an all-time record for benefit payments, due to high periods of unemployment during year.

In 1947 benefit payments totaled $10,600,000, with contribution income of $14,267,000; in 1948 benefit payments amounted to $10,130,000, with contributions of $14,756,000.

While benefit disbursements were exceedingly heavy in 1949, Maryland's funds remain in good shape. Chairman Mahaney pointed out that deposits to the credit of the State in the Federal Unemployment Trust Fund totaled $115,812,000 as of Dec. 31.

Rebuilding Home-made Electric Fences Impractical

The fellow who said that jelly fish were made of ocean currents may or may not have had something. But the farmer who uses dangerous currents in his electric fences is taking a chance, according to A. V. Krewatch, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland.

He says it is a rare occasion when a farmer builds an electric fence that's safe to use on the farm. There's danger in its steady flow of current and in the high voltage that it may have. Accidents to farm people and livestock from this source are frequent, and many of them are painful, costly, or fatal, he adds.

Mr. Krewatch says he's all for the electric fence on the farm. If the owner uses the right kind of fence and takes the proper safety measures. A safe electric fence should have alternate on and off periods. Then it's possible for the man or the animal to "get loose from the fence" if unable to let go when the current is on. Commercially made outfits have this "off-on" mechanism and rarely cause accidents. It is important that the electric fence be approved and stamped by the

HEALTH COLUMN

HEART DISEASES
Heart diseases constitute the leading cause of death in the United States today—and have for the past two decades. All types of heart ailments are responsible for approximately 400,000 American deaths annually.

The heart is the toughest, most hard-working single organ of the body. But when it is attacked by infection and disease, or taxed beyond its limits, it may be permanently, though not necessarily fatally, injured.

Once it was thought that a diagnosis of heart disease meant swift and sudden death in the near future. But now we know that most persons with injured hearts need have little fear of sudden death or even of shortened life if they learn to "live with" their disease and accept certain limitations of activity.

There are various types of heart ailments, some of them characteristic of certain age groups. A small percentage of infants is born with what are known as congenital heart defects. But with modern surgery, these defects can be corrected in many cases, giving the babies a good chance of survival and useful life.

By far the most vicious enemy of the healthy heart is rheumatic fever, a serious infection which most frequently strikes children between the ages of five and ten years and which almost invariably leaves them with injured hearts. Rheumatic fever has a tendency to recur and it is vital that the child who suffers attacks be under the care and supervision of a doctor. Other "childhood diseases" which sometimes injure the heart include pneumonia, diphtheria, scarlet fever, and influenza.

Hypertensive heart disease, brought on by high blood pressure, attacks most frequently in middle age. Obviously, the person who follows his doctor's advice to "bring down" his high blood pressure and eliminate the extra burden high blood pressure puts on his heart—has a fair chance of warding off hypertensive heart disease and the heart failure it might cause.

Coronary heart disease, most common in persons over 50, is actually a disease of the arteries which supply blood to the heart. Many victims of coronary heart disease, who carefully follow the doctor's advice, can live comparatively long and useful lives.

The most common symptoms of heart trouble, in general, include irregular beating of the heart, shortness of breath after moderate or slight exertion, pain or constriction in the region of the chest, swelling of the feet and ankles, chronic fatigue, and severe and constant indigestion. The person suffering from any of these symptoms, for unexplained reasons, should see his doctor at once. If he has a heart ailment, the doctor is the proper person to diagnose the type of heart illness, prescribe the best treatment, and give the person advice which may enable him to live a longer life.

It is not practicable to feed potatoes to poultry.

The change of feed may not have the effect on layers, however if you can obtain surplus potatoes, and you are balancing out how many potatoes you intend to feed instead of grain, be sure to cook them before feeding. Potato sprouts have to be cut off on account of their solanine content, which is a poisonous compound. Potatoes contain mainly carbohydrates and are very deficient in protein and vitamins. One should not forget that the largest content of potatoes is water. Because stored grain contains very little water, you have to figure when you want to replace a part of the grain by potatoes, that it requires five times as many potatoes in weight as it does grain. Potatoes should be mashed after cooking and mixed with grain.

Potatoes should be mashed after cooking and mixed with laying mash to obtain a crumbly mixture. One hundred hens can consume 6 to 8 pounds of potatoes per day, but larger amounts may make laying birds too fat and cause a drop in production. Potatoes are a very excellent source of feed for fattening of culled birds. Sun-dried potatoes make very poor feed for poultry and can not be used successfully.

Goose Hides
Most people think of geese in terms of meals or feathers. Goose pelts came recently on the market and are already quite much in demand. The most desirable geese for pelts are White Emment geese, weighing 18-22 lbs. Pelts bring from $7 to $85 each, but the processing takes a period of about two months.

Geese can be raised on a much higher percentage of grass than chickens and turkeys. It may be a fine opportunity to increase income by raising some geese. Next week—Raising Geese.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET 'Too Little for Brains' Idea Is Hindering Research Medicine

By BILLY ROSE

Today, I'd like to tell you about a talk I had with a doctor who is doing research work at one of the New York cancer clinics. He made me promise not to use his name because he was afraid he might be blacklisted by the foundation which pays his salary. I began by asking him to sketch in his pre-research career.

"The usual 10-year grind," he said. "Four years of college, four more at medical school, a year as intern, and a year in residency training."

"What made you go into research?"
"Like a lot of young doctors," he said, "I couldn't get used to sitting by while a patient died simply because I didn't know anything else I could do for him. Every time I looked up into the eyes of relatives gathered around the bed of a man in the last stages of cancer, I told myself that my job wasn't to go on using the hit-or-miss techniques but to get into a laboratory and help find the real cure."
"How did you go about getting started?"

"I made the usual applications," said the M.D., "but I soon found the hospitals and universities had no funds to hire research men, and that I couldn't get a job unless a foundation paid my salary. To complicate things, most foundations won't give you a fellowship unless you first have a job. In addition, it's almost impossible to get a grant until you've published a certain number of scientific papers and, of course, you can't publish such papers until you've worked in a laboratory and had a chance to do research worth writing about."
"It finally boiled down to this—I could work for nothing in a cancer laboratory, or I could take a job paying $120 a week doing research for a cosmetic outfit. Well, I had just gotten married and was ready to settle for the money, but my wife wouldn't hear of it—she went out and got an office job and made me stick to my test tubes."

"HOW LONG did you work for free?"
"About a year," said the doctor, "and then the head of the medical center—a very decent guy—squeezed me onto the payroll at $28.87 a week."
"You could have earned more washing dishes."
"We managed to get by," said the doctor, "but the following year my wife had a baby and had to quit her job. After that, it was pretty rugged. As for instance, we couldn't afford to buy a crib, and the youngster had to sleep in a donated baby carriage.

"Somehow, though, we pulled out way through, and by the end of the following year I had gotten a couple of research pieces published. With these to back me up, I applied for a fellowship paying $3,000 a year."

"Minus withholding tax, I presume."
"It may not sound like much, but I felt like John D., Jr. when the grant came through," said the doctor. "Last year, I went through the application rigmarole again—275 typed pages—and this time I got the full $3,600."

"WHAT DO YOU DO to earn all that money?" I said.

"I'm in charge of three cancer projects and help on half a dozen others. On the side, I run a throat clinic, work in the wards and give seminars."

"Any chance of a raise?"
"I'm afraid not," said the doctor, "and, as far as fellowships are concerned, I'm getting near the end of the line. I'm 29 now, and the foundations don't like to make grants to men over 30."

"There's always the job in the industrial lab," I said.

"It may come to that," said the M. D., "but I hope not. No matter what it pays, I want to keep plugging away on cancer. It seems a lot more important than developing a new shade of face powder..."

The day after our talk, I happened to pass the medical skyscraper in which the young doctor works, and I noticed that an additional wing was under construction. Dozens of steel workers, bricklayers and carpenters—all averaging around a hundred a week—were getting in each other's way.

Over the half-finished entrance was a space which looked as if it might eventually be filled with a block of marble on which a fitting inscription would be carved.

"I know what it ought to be," I said to myself. "Too much for bricks, too little for brains."

Star-Lites MOVIES, MIKES and TELEVISION TALK BY LYN WILSON

IVY, U. S. A.—will come into existence in January, when "The Halls of Ivy," new NBC Friday night comedy program starring the Ronald Colman, premieres. The program will take you into the living room of a college president and bring to listeners the comic misadventures that befall "Dr. Hall," especially when his wife, an ex-English musical comedy star, decides to tutor the students in tap-dancing and other theatrical accomplishments, much to the consternation of the Board of Governors.

DEAF MUTE MAKES GOOD AS STAR SALESMAN — For the many thousands of handicapped, there is hope in the story of the deaf mute who has made good as a salesman — a field proverbially associated with fast talking. Ralph Wilson, 28 and married, is a top salesman for Pepsi-Cola — has turned his handicap into an asset through selling in silence. Julius Darsky, Akron, Ohio Pepsi-Cola Bottler is the businessman who conceived for Ralph the "Silent Salesman" job when the deaf mute, returning to see his former boss after several years' war plant service, wrote on a slip of paper, "Could I get back my prewar job of stacking bottles at the bottling plant?" Darsky replied by scribbling back, "How would you like to become a salesman?" Merchants like the way Ralph makes every minute count by helping them to set up displays and other aids to sales. Mr. Darsky said he hopes that Wilson's success in his job will lead other firms to employment of deaf mutes. Picture shows Wilson (left) giving his boss Mr. Darsky (right) a report of a day's sales.

Marmalade Memo

by Frances Barion

The easy short-boil method of making Orange Marmalade will give your marmalade a firm and tender texture. We know you'll like it.

ORANGE MARMALADE

3 1/2 cups prepared fruit
5 cups sugar
1/2 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare the fruit. Remove skins in quarters from 3 medium-sized oranges and 2 medium-sized lemons. Lay quarters flat; shave off and discard about half of white part. With a sharp knife, slice remaining rind very fine. Add 1 1/2 cups water and 1/4 teaspoon soda; bring to a boil and simmer, covered, for just 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Cut off tight skin of peeled fruit and slip pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice and 1 cup sugar to undrained cooked rind. (This sugar is in addition to the 5 cups specified.) Measure 3 1/2 cups prepared fruit into a very large saucepan. (If oranges used are very sweet, add juice of 1 extra lemon. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes.)

To make the marmalade. Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 8 six-ounce glasses.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

County and community committees throughout Maryland, and their farmer neighbors, have been given a summary of 1949 Production and Marketing Administration activities.

Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, called attention to the annual report of Administrator Ralph S. Trigg. The summary of the report pointed out that despite a strong domestic demand and record exports, price-support operations, carried on with Commodity Credit Corp. funds, were necessary throughout the year. The investment in price support loans and inventories was over two and one-third billion dollars on June 30, 1949. Mr. Trigg pointed out, however, that the support program protected farmers' income and that, although prices declined somewhat, there was no serious dislocation of the agricultural economy.

Rapid progress was made in providing storage, both on and off the farm, for commodities coming under price support. Loans were made available up to 85 per cent of the cost of facilities to farmers for construction of on-farm storage. At the end of the fiscal year, plans had been formulated for the purchase of temporary facilities to store more than 250 million bushels of Government-owned grain. (Since then, the purchase of such storage facilities has been expanded to about 325 million bushels.)

The agricultural conservation program, which reached over two and one-quarter million farmers, resulted in slowing down materially depletion of soil and water resources. Aid extended limited to a maximum of $500 per farm, averaged about half of the farmer's out-of-pocket costs in carrying on the various conservation practices.

Local administration of the price support, adjustment, conservation, and certain phases of other national farm programs was, as in previous years, in the hands of farmer-elected county and community committees.

Egg Promotion Urged

The Production and Marketing Administration has called on key egg distributors and egg handlers to "undertake all-out extra promotion of eggs."

ORNDORFF—ORENDORFF

Miss Regina Marie Orendorff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Orendorff of Gettysburg, Pa., became the bride of Sterling Leo Orndorff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Orndorff of Emmitsburg, at a nuptial mass last Saturday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Bonneauville. Rev. Fr. Leo Kritchen performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white satin gown made with long, pointed sleeves, and a finger-tip veil caught to a seed pearl headress. She carried a prayer book to which pink pinnocchio roses were fastened. Her sister, Miss Helen Orendorff, was maid of honor. She was attired in blue satin with a matching finger-tip veil. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

Attending the bridegroom were Joseph Orendorff, a brother of the bride, and Charles Hobbs, a cousin of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a breakfast was held at the home of the bride for the immediate wedding party. A reception was given at the bride's home Saturday evening.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip, they will reside near Emmitsburg.

Thurmont Estate Placed At $31,000

Four sons of Luther E. Leatherman, late of near Thurmont, will share in his estate, estimated at $31,000.

Marshal L. Leatherman, near Thurmont, one of the sons, on Monday qualified before the Orphans' Court as administrator in the estate. He reported real estate valued at $20,000 and personal property worth $11,000.

Sues Neighbor

A $5,000 suit has been entered in Circuit Court by Charles E. Smith, of near Thurmont, against Russell McGee, Dabney Crook McGee, and William Davis Taylor, all of the same vicinity.

The plaintiff, through his attorney, T. West Claggett Jr., alleges that in December, 1946, he entered upon the McGee lands near Thurmont pursuant to an agreement to saw timber. The agreement, he says, was terminated during November, 1947, when he ceased sawing operations and left a Fordson tractor and two rubber tired log wagons on the premises.

He claims that some time between Christmas and New Year's Day, 1947, Taylor damaged the tractor and wagons. On Jan. 18, 1948, Smith said, he attempted to remove them but was prevented from doing so by the McGees, who allegedly hold them. He says he values his property at $700 and has been deprived of its use in his business since Jan. 18, 1948.

Anniversary

A surprise celebration was given Sunday, Feb. 5, at the home of Lewis A. Keepers, Taneytown, in honor of the 42nd wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Keepers.

A delightful buffet luncheon was served to the following children and grandchildren of the couple: Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Keepers, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Keepers and children, Marie and Barbara; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil P. Keepers and children, Gary and Patsy; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Keepers and children, Louise, John, Jane, and Leonard; Mr. and Mrs. George Rohrbaugh and children, Robert, Donald, Kenneth, Richard, Thomas and Michael; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Orndorff, Leo Keepers and Miss Georgie Miller.

Scouts Will Hold Open House

A display of Boy Scout craft appears in the show window of Crouse's, on the Square. This is the beginning of several projects that have been planned for Boy Scout Week by the local organization.

All of the displays were made by the boys as part of the troop's observance of the 40th Anniversary of Boy Scouting. Some of the work was done in the industrial art class at school.

On display are rustic lamps, a model camp site, leather knife case, candle holders, Scout handbooks, and merit badge pamphlets.

Today an open house will be held at the Emmitsburg High School auditorium when the troop will hold a formal investiture service.

On Saturday, the Scouts will hike at nine o'clock, leaving from their den with Scoutmaster Henry Charlton.

Concluding the observance of Boy Scout Week, the boys plan Sunday to attend churches in a body.

The approximate cost of the remodeling job was believed to be around $3,000.

For the opening tomorrow night, an orchestra will furnish the music, it was said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, the Chronicle:

We want nothing for nothing—Socialism, a form of government that lays claim to the principle of working for the interest of the community, rather than for the interests of the individual, has been growing in our beloved country to the detriment of our people, who too often are led into errors by high-sounding phrases.

Wherein lies the danger of adopting principles which on the surface, appear to have only the interest of the people at heart?

There is no deception as harmful as a half-truth and this is precisely the means being used by our misguided representatives, who try to foist upon us conditions so contrary to those for which "Our noble patriots" sacrificed their lives and fortunes. It would be well if we could hear once again, those memorable words "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death," which might shame those who seem so willing to sell their liberty for "A Mess of Potage," only to learn, like Esau, they have been badly cheated out of things far more precious than social securities; their self-respect, self-reliance; their confidence in their Creator. These qualities would be far better for them than trusting in an apparently paternalistic government.

Every day more and more we are becoming the slaves of a group of misguided politicians, who have been inoculated with the treasonable poison of communism. The question that continually arises in my mind, is why our loyal officials do not send these communistic sympathizers to a country where they would get a practical demonstration of communism's pretended benefits.

Does the majority of our people honestly believe they would be better off receiving these government hand-outs, while at the same time they are forfeiting their God-given inalienable rights? Certainly in our country during the last decade or more, the operation has been going on with the use of some clever anesthetics, which have all but deprived us of our ability to think intelligently for ourselves, or to realize all we have lost. Cancer might be no misnomer for the condition we have in our country today. The government payroll in growing as it has, is sapping not only the life of the people, but their very liberty and happiness as well.

In the meantime, the 3,312,000 government servants of the people are so reluctant to give up easy, well-paying jobs, that they would vote in re-reeve, the party that employs them, rather than lose their lucrative, honorable positions.

So, let us remember, we pay the biggest price for the things we get for nothing. Let us respect the individual above the state, for without the individual, there can be no state. Let us build up a reliant citizenry that will put more trust in its God-given intelligence and its thrift, to provide for themselves than in any form of government, regardless of its name, for things are not always what they are called.

Melpothalians To Stage Play At St. Joseph's College

Melpothalians of St. Joseph's College, Emmitsburg, will present "Peg of My Heart" on Feb. 15 in De Paul auditorium. The light comedy, one of the club's major productions of the year, stars Geraldine Cellura as Peg, a young Irish colleen who has come to live with her proper English aunt, played by Mary Starr. Peg's life is made still more uncomfortable by her cousins, Ethel and Alaric, depicted by Mary Lou Prehn and John McFee.

Romance enters the picture when Peg meets Jerry, Raymond Brennan. Christian Brent in the person of John Gallagher presents the obstacle of family happiness. But typical of the comedy type the happy ending is inevitable.

The cast also includes Maryjane McAuliffe, Joseph Johnson and George Perreault. All male personages are portrayed by students from Mt. St. Mary's College.

"Peg of My Heart" was first produced in 1912 with Laurette Taylor, recent winner of the New York Critic's Award for her performance in "The Glass Menagerie."

larger than a barrel, ran straight down the steep mountain side to the Little Tennessee River below, a distance looking to be about a half mile. At the bottom were two turbines. The water came down with such enormous force that each turbine had an output of 66,000 horsepower. Thus, a little power became magnified into an immense output.

CALDERWOOD

One of the most picturesque of the Alcoa Lakes is named Calderwood. It also is located on the western border of the Great Smoky Mountain Park on the North Carolina and Tennessee border. It is located in the narrow and deep canyon-like gorge of the Little Tennessee River. There the mountains rise up like a great wall on both sides. The tourist cannot see the lake except at one place from the highway. That is where the road crosses the crest of the Smoky Mountain Range. It is called the Narrows. From the lookout cliff, one looks almost straight down on the mirrored blue lake about a half mile below. Looking down the stream one gets a good aerial view of the dam and powerhouse. It looks as if it were suspended in the air. Or looking up the stream, the lake, like a blue ribbon, mirrors the inverted sky, spotted with clouds, as if to turn the Heavens up-side-down. At this point of lookout is a bronze marker on the highway containing the following inscription: "Lake Calderwood 536 Acres Created by Calderwood Dam Built by Alcoa 1928-30. Cherokee Indian Burying Ground On This Ridge."

If anyone should want to know how to find all these scenic wonders in the Great Smoky Mountain Park and vicinity, the answer is simple. In going to or from Knoxville via the park, take highway No. 129 instead of 71. The latter goes over the well-known Newfound Gap usually taken by tourists. The former goes via Deals Gap and passes by or near most of these wonders of what man has made, set in the glories of what God has made.

It should not be assumed that the Great Smoky Mountain Park and vicinity is the only area of the Southern Highlands where the general plan of the TVA, under private capital, is to be expanded. Going from the above areas, near the Tennessee line to the Blue Ridge areas near the South Carolina line, we found the people in the "Beautiful Sapphire County," all excited about the proposed dams to be built in that area by private corporations. The purpose there, too, is flood control and the production of electricity. The people were having meetings to discuss the proposals and counter proposals. Each one seemed in favor of the undertaking provided his property was not to be inundated. It reminded one of the popular song—"Ole Man River"—Keep Away From My Door." The people assured us, however, that whether or not the dams and lakes were coming, that it will prove a transforming influence and become one of the glories of America.

Actress-Evangelist To Speak At Gettysburg

Colleen Townsend, 20-year old 20th Century-Fox actress, will place a wreath on the Lincoln Speech Memorial and will speak briefly in honor of Lincoln at exercises to be held in the National Cemetery, Gettysburg, Pa., Sunday, Feb. 12.

Arrangements for the program have been completed by a committee from the Gettysburg camp of the Sons of Union Veterans. Miss Townsend has announced she is giving up her movie career to dedicate her life to religion.

A Presbyterian, she plans to enter a theological college to become either a teacher or a missionary, depending upon how well she does at college. Her particular interest, she has said, is working among orphans.

Miss Townsend is starring in the movie, "When Willie Comes Marching Home," which plays at the Majestic Theatre, Gettysburg, Sunday and Monday.
