Batten down the windows and lock the doors, folks, along with the war scare there's supposed to be a maniac loose in the mountain. Reports have been coming into this office all week long pertinent to the "nut" on the hillside. Some have him—it is supposed to be a he—naked, some semi-nude and others claim they have seen him carrying a gun and have been shot at . . . Probably one of those crazy Russians . . . Anyway, it seems to have a lot of the local people perturbed. State and local police have been on the lookout for the critter all week long, but to date no results. It appears a lot of local women won't get any sleep until the creature is apprehended or at least the rumor (which has spread like wildfire) has been proven unfounded and just a figment of some mountaineer's imagination. As one fellow put it: "Them mountaineers must have been drinking a bad batch of moonshine." Let's hope it's the truth.

BETLES

Reports have it that the beetle crop is not as heavy this year as last, but from what I have observed around here the situation is rather severe, in contrast to some other sections of the country . . . Just drive out to Payne's Hill some hot afternoon or along the hedgerows of the local colleges and the insects rattle off your windshield like machine gun bullets . . . There's millions of 'em. Several local residents have reported their gardens, grape crops, etc., totally destroyed by the varmints. Looks as though the county agriculture department will have to do a little double-duty spraying in this vicinity.

CANDIDATES

I don't often indulge in politics, but this year I can't help if I dabble a little. What with two "local" boys running on the ticket (Democratic), I believe that we should lend our total support. Lumen F. Norris, local young veteran, has announced himself a candidate for the House of Delegates. Lumen in my estimation, is a fine solid citizen, well-educated and capable of handling the job he seeks. A home-town product. He has been active in practically everything important going on here for the benefit of Emmitsburg. It has been years and ages since Emmitsburg has been represented in any of these elective positions, county or state, and now is our chance to have a voice in the running of things. While my good friend, Edward D. Storm isn't a native Emmitsburgian, I consider him a "local" boy, inasmuch as he has maintained a legal office here for a good many years. While a member of the State Senate, Ed has displayed an excellent record of achievement and accomplishment and has brought this town recognition in many ways. Let's all get behind these two fine gentlemen and give them a big push right into office this fall.

Take It Easy, Ladies There's Plenty

Some people apparently have got the idea that another sugar shortage may be at hand, but trade sources say the reverse is true: there's a surplus. Reports have come from local areas as well as from many other parts of the country that housewives have been buying more sugar than usual at stores, and that farmers have been taking home 100-pound sacks of it.

Mrs. Luran Warner of Blue Ridge Summit, spent Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Minnie Hays of W. Main St.

Mrs. Hester Burton of W. Main St., left last week-end to visit her brother in Virginia.

CO. DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE BACKS LANE

The Democratic State Central Committee for Frederick County has endorsed the candidacy of Governor William Preston Lane Jr. and his running mates, Attorney-General Hall Hammond and Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, it was announced this week.

In breaking recent precedent to endorse primary candidates, the committee said it was not only endorsing the Lane ticket but the State administration of the past four years as well.

G. Raymond Shipley, chairman of the committee, said the members of the party's steering group feel that the Governor showed great courage in tackling the big task of financing school, highway and hospital improvements in the State.

Support For Sales Tax

The committee members said it is generally accepted that large sums were needed to do the job and that the sales tax has proven the most painless method of raising the funds required.

It was also pointed out that the sales tax has not only served to balance the State budget but has also made it possible for the State to give greater aid to County and municipal functions throughout the State.

Here in Frederick County, it was pointed out, the County tax rate would be considerably higher were it not for State contributions made possible by adoption of the sales tax as a means of balancing the State budget. Frederick City and other municipalities in the county have benefited proportionately, it was explained.

The job of bringing Maryland's government up to date has not been completed, the committee said, and Gov. Lane has asked to be re-elected to complete the project. The administration's progressive policies and success to date are such, the committee said, that an endorsement rises above party lines.

Must Pay For Good Government

The cry has been for good business in government, the statement continued, and Gov. Lane has shown the courage and sound judgment that has been demanded. The Governor has said that the State like individuals must pay for what it needs and he would be the last to promise something for nothing, it was recalled.

The committee said the people of Maryland are indebted to Gov. Lane and a progressive Legislature for what has been done and they owe it to themselves to renominate and re-elect the man who had outstanding courage to face the issues head-on and levy funds without imposing great burden on any one taxpayer.

Members of the Democratic committee in addition to Mr. Shipley are George F. Abrecht, Rollins J. Atkinson and John W. Null, Frederick; Joseph E. Chew, Brunswick, and Robert H. Routzahn, Middletown.

Fire Destroys Pari-Mutuel Building At Laurel

The new pari-mutuel building at Laurel harness track was destroyed by fire this week despite the efforts of volunteer firemen who responded to an early morning alarm.

Richard H. Hutchison, Jr., president and general manager of the trotting track, described the building as a total loss. No estimate of the damage could be disclosed for the time being.

Members of the Laurel fire department, first to arrive at the scene, said flames filled the entire building by the time they arrived. The one-story frame building was levelled in an hour and a half, firemen said. Portions of the grandstand were singed by the terrific heat, but two nearby buildings were not damaged.

The track only recently completed its last meet of the year and is not scheduled to open again until next spring.

Amid a setting of ferns, summer flowers and candelabra in the Church of the Brethren, Thurmont, Miss Elva Eileen Etzler, twin daughter of Mrs. Rose Rice of Thurmont, became the bride of Sterling E. Green of Rocky Ridge, on Saturday, July 22, at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Chester Royer, pastor of the couple, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Harry Etzler, was attractively attired in a gown of white satin, styled with an off the shoulder neckline, long pointed sleeves, and a full skirt extending into a train.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Green was serving in the U. S. W.A.Cs. She is employed by the State Livestock Laboratory.

Tydings Seeks Another Term In Senate

U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings

In submitting my candidacy for re-election to the United States Senate, I do so with profound gratitude for the confidence and support which the people of Maryland have reposed in me in the election campaigns of the past. In the coming campaign, I desire to submit the following observations:

1—I stand upon the record I have made over the years as a member of the Senate. I have tried to make it one of independence from narrow political ties and devoted to the welfare of our whole people and nation.

2—We must face the grim realities that now confront us. Our brave men are already fighting in Korea. This war may spread rapidly in that area, or it may break out without much warning in another place. It is absolutely imperative that this nation continue to increase its military strength so as to make our nation the strongest in the world, and at the same time aid in strengthening the defenses of the democracies abroad that are associated with us against the dark threat of Soviet Communistic imperialism. I have given of my full time and effort to this objective. I pledge it my unstinted continuing support.

3—While meeting the aggressor in Korea and preparing for further aggression at home and abroad, we must not lose sight of the fact that the greatest task before the world is the establishment of a just and honorable peace among nations as the only alternative to the outbreak on a global scale of World War III. The invention of the intercontinental bombing plane, atomic and hydrogen weapons, and other highly scientific processes for mass destruction show that the cost of another global war in life and treasure, in religion, in democracy, in freedom and in civilization, would be so gigantic and far-flung as to be incalculable. While we are fighting the aggressor in Korea and strengthening our defenses to resist aggression everywhere, every honorable means must be relentlessly pursued by our country, our allies, and the UN to prevent the spread of the Korean war and the outbreak of another worldwide holocaust. My efforts have been directed to this end since the close of World War II. I shall continue them in every conceivable way.

4—I favor a constitutional amendment for an automatically balanced Federal budget in peace time. Under such a proposal, peace time deficit spending would be prohibited unless approved, in case of a national emergency, by a vote of three-fifths of the members of both Houses of Congress.

5—Until peace can be re-established, I favor limiting all non-military government expenditures to bare necessities. The strain of war and preparation for defense is so great we cannot afford expenditures for normal peacetime betterments while the looming threat of world war hangs over us.

6—I oppose vigorously all efforts to regiment our people. I do this in the conviction that such proposals weaken the political fabric of the nation and sap the moral stamina and self-reliance of the individual. In this class of measures I include efforts to establish compulsory health insurance under Federal control, and the Brannan Plan in agriculture.

Enforcement Of County Dog Law Begins

Enforcement of the county dog law will begin immediately, Sheriff Guy Anders said last week, as County Treasurer James H. Falk reported the number of licenses issued thus far was slightly larger than that of last year at the same time.

The treasurer said approximately 3,400 licenses have been issued for the new year, which began July 1. Many, he reported, come through the mail from the newspaper advertisements, which may be used to procure the licenses.

The County Commissioners provided a 30-day period after July 1 during which persons could secure the licenses. This "grace" period expired this week and the law will then be strictly enforced. Persons who have failed to secure tags face fines and they must then procure tags.

Murray C. Smith, deputy in charge of enforcement of the dog law, has already begun a district-by-district check of homes to determine whether dogs are licensed. Summonses will be issued to residents whose dogs have no licenses. They will have 10 days to procure same and avoid prosecution. This 10-day period will be closely checked, Sheriff Anders said.

MRS. MILLIE E. CARBAUGH

Mrs. Millie Emma Carbaugh, widow of June Carbaugh, Thurmont, died Monday at Ritchie Hospital, aged 69 years, 2 months and 23 days. She was a daughter of the late Charles and Mary Matthews Fogle and was a member of Harriett Chapel, Catactin Furnace.

The following children survive: Oscar M. Smith, Hagerstown; Mrs. Wilson Fisher and Mrs. Guy R. Fisher, Frederick; Joseph A. Carbaugh, Frederick; Lanna C. Carbaugh, Thurmont; Mrs. Ethel Devilbiss, Thurmont; Bradley C. Carbaugh, Thurmont; Wallie L. Carbaugh, Arlington, Va., and Seymour H. Carbaugh, Thurmont. One brother, Calvin Fogle, Waynesboro, Pa., 26 grandchildren and 17 great grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Harriett Chapel, conducted by Dr. Oscar F. Treder. Interment in Thurmont U. B. Cemetery.

Suit Entered Against Local Dairy Farm

Suit claiming $3500 was entered in Circuit Court by E. A. Strout Realty Agency, Inc., of New York, against the Brookside Farm, Inc., Emmitsburg, and James L. Nester.

The plaintiff concern, through its attorney, Amos A. Holter, alleges that the defendant and its president, Mr. Nester, employed the realty agency by a property listing agreement to procure a purchaser ready, willing and able to buy the dairy farm.

Through its agent, Robert L. Zentz, Taneytown, the plaintiff says, it procured Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Miller who were ready to execute agreements of sale for the purchase and in evidence of good faith delivered a check for $5000 to cover the initial deposit. However, it is claimed, the defendant concern failed to consummate the sale. The realty company said it performed its agreement and is entitled to its commission.

HARBAUGH REUNION

The Harbaugh Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 6, at St. Jacob's Church, Fountaineau, Pa. W. E. Harbaugh is president of the 1950 reunion at which many activities are listed for the entire day.

Main St., moved to 405 York St., Gettysburg, Pa., this week where she will reside after retiring from a teaching position at Fairfield Consolidated School, where she served the past eight years. The house vacated by Mrs. Mays will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Shuff Sept. 1.

MCSHERRYSTOWN PLAYS HERE SUNDAY

Boasting a string of two consecutive wins, the Emmitsburg baseball team of the Pen-Mar League, appears to have hit its stride again and promises to give a good account of itself Sunday when it engages McSherrystown here at 2:30 p. m.

Sunday, Warthen, while allowing a total of 12 hits, kept them pretty well scattered in the contest and had the situation well under control, except for two occasions. Given a lead of four runs in the first frame, Bud hurled masterfully until the seventh, when he weakened and three runs were scored by Hanover.

The locals came back with three more in the same inning. Warthen hurled the eighth in fine shape, but ran into trouble in the ninth when his mates bobbled two and Hanover scored three more runs. Final score was Emmitsburg 9, Hanover 7.

Sunday's contest promises to be a hot affair. McSherrystown, at present leading the circuit, will pitch Fritz Staub, the league's leading hurler, and incidentally, has lost only one game all season. However, the locals have announced the possibility of the return of two players who have been absent from the lineup for some weeks. Carroll Frock, fleet-footed fly-hawk, and Herbie Deardorff, stellar second sacker, are expected to appear in Sunday's affair.

The B. H. Boyle $5 cash prize will be awarded Sunday.

Church Builds New Annex

A large group attended the laying of the cornerstone of the annex to be built on the rear of the Tom's Creek Methodist Church, several miles east of Emmitsburg.

The service was held last Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. and the address was presented by the District Superintendent Rev. William Wright of Hagerstown.

The plans include a recreation room to be used for social functions and a kitchen for the serving of suppers. The second floor will be used for educational purposes.

CANDIDATES MEET FILING DEADLINE

Several additional party contests developed this week as the Board of Election Supervisors accepted final certificates of candidacy for the Sept. 18 primaries.

Fourth Democratic candidate for Judge of the Orphans' Court was Edgar W. Feaster of Walkersville.

Harry C. E. Wolfe, retired colored school teacher, and Roger G. Harley filed as Republican candidates for the House of Delegates bringing to eight the number seeking six nominations.

A contest for seven places as delegates to the Democratic State convention developed as the list of aspirants reached eight.

The Democrats have a contest for the six places on the State Central Committee as Joseph F. Eisenhauer 3rd, Alton Y. Bennett, J. Tyson Lee, James Nester, and Robert H. Routzahn joined George F. Albrecht, Joseph E. Chew, and Arthur Potts as aspirants. Messrs Abrecht, Routzahn, and Chew are candidates for re-election. Mr. Bennett is a former member of the committee.

One May Withdraw

Indications were that one of the candidates for the Democratic convention will withdraw to prevent a contest.

Earlier in the week, Claude R. Crum, Walkersville District, and James V. Shaff, Ballenger District, entered the field of Democratic candidates for County Commissioner. Walter C. Jones, of Frederick, entered his name as a candidate for the Orphans' Court, treating a contest for the three Republican nominations.

There are no Democratic candidates for Clerk of the Circuit Court and Register of Wills. No one filed as a Republican candidate for County Treasurer. The party central committees have until Sept. 3 to fill the vacancies.

Primary contests involve: For Sheriff—Denver J. Shook and Alfred Clinton Denn, Democrats, and Paul B. Rhoads and Guy Anders, Republicans.

For County Commissioner—Maurice C. Smith, Daniel J. Thomas, William T. Staley, Claude R. Crum and James V. Shaff, Democrats; Robert H. Rhoderick, U. Grant Hooper, Samuel H. Young, John M. Wachter, Joseph R. Harp and George H. Wilt, Republicans.

For State's Attorney—W. Jerome Offutt and Edwin F. Nirkirk, Democrats, and Wilbur F. Sheffield Jr. and Charles U. Price, Republicans.

Judge of the Orphans' Court—Albert M. Coblenz, Mary Hancock Gregory, Spencer E. Stup and Edgar W. Feaster, Democrats; Frank C. Shook, Roy L. Hyndman, Samuel Q. Ausherman and Walter C. Jones, Republicans.

Democratic State Central Committee—George F. Abrecht, Joseph E. Chew, Arthur Potts, Joseph F. Eisenhauer 3rd, Alton Y. Bennett, J. Tyson Lee, James L. Nester and Robert H. Routzahn.

Harley, Republicans.

Republican State Central Committee and State convention slates filled without creating contests are:

THE PRODIGAL REDS RETURN

Russia's unexpected decision to end its boycott of the United Nations undoubtedly means that she is about to throw a new wrench into UN's peace machinery. There is no reason to believe that her return will bear any resemblance to that of the Prodigal Son. We may be sure there will be sabotage and recrimination, not feasting.

There is much speculation as to why Russia decided to return to the Security Council next week. Of the many reasons advanced, the two that make most sense to us are these:

1—By participating in the work of the Security Council, Russia will be able to veto any further action in Korea and to veto military sanctions against any other aggression that she may be planning against Iran, West Germany or Yugoslavia. Russia's boycott made it possible for the UN to take effective action in Korea. She doesn't want that to happen again!

2—Another good reason for Russia's return could be that she sees hopes of throwing the Chinese Nationalist delegate off the Security Council. Jacob A. Malik, the Soviet representative, will become president of the Council in August under a system of rotating the chair among the Council's members. As president, he has power to rule that Dr. T. F. Tsiang, the Nationalist representative, is no longer a member of the Council. His ruling could be overruled by a vote of seven of the Council's 11 members, but the Council is now divided five and five, not counting China, between nations that have recognized the Chinese Communist government and those that have not. The United States must hurriedly swing some votes, perhaps those of Britain and Norway, if she expects to keep the Chinese Nationalists seated.

In a sense, an end of the boycott can be interpreted as a diplomatic victory for the West, since Russia returns to the UN without having achieved her goal, the admission of Communist China.

When he walked out early last January, Mr. Malik declared that he would not return as long as Nationalist China remained a member of the Security Council. Now, apparently, the Russians have decided that it is better to back down from that position than to deny themselves further opportunities to hamstring activities of the Security Council which, in the case of Korea, gives evidence of becoming an effective agency for the enforcement of peace. Such evidence does not fit into the plans of a Communist conspiracy aimed at eventual domination of the whole world.

National Beer Plant Undergoes Remodeling

Although the new home of the National Brewing Company, at Conkling and O'Donnell Streets, Baltimore, was completed only a year ago, construction of a large new addition to it is already well under way.

This new wing will double the present capacity of the brewery, according to Jerold C. Hoffberger, president. In addition, the new building will incorporate space for 50% more equipment than is actually being installed, so that output can be even further increased when it becomes necessary.

"The public's preference for our products, National Premium and National Bohemian Beers," said Mr. Hoffberger, "has increased so rapidly in the last few years that we have had to build faster than was originally planned."

The new addition will provide a new brew house as well as enlarged facilities for fermenting, ageing and storage. New equipment will include copper brew kettles, lauter tubs and m a s h tubs of stainless clad steel and glass-lined fermenters.

In excavating for the foundations of the new buildings, two old storage cellars, long unused, were uncovered which stand out in dramatic contrast to the huge, modern, temperature - controlled storage cellars in use at National today. Since these cellars were used before the days of mechanical refrigeration, they were cooled by blocks of ice cut from Chesapeake Bay.

Hanover Shoe Appears Certain Pennant Winner In Penn-Md. Circuit

Slim Deatherage's Hanover Shoe team's simulating Ole Man River, kept right on Sunday, when that aggregation measured Middleburg by a 12-1 score.

To date, the Penn-Maryland team has compiled a record of 14 wins against three losses and continues to lead the league by three games.

Allen Davis, blond righthander, pitched his seventh straight win, was aided on the mound by Vic Kelly and held the Middleburgers to seven scattered hits.

This Sunday the Deatherage men trek it to Pen-Mar.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

"We need to be a strong people to survive the stern tests of world conditions," Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan recently told the University of Virginia's Institute of Public Affairs, at Charlottesville. "I have every confidence that we shall justify the faith that free people everywhere have in our courage and our strength." Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland PMA State Committee, this week called the attention of Maryland farmers to the Secretary's statements.

Pointing out that the Nation's past vigor, present strength, and future security are deeply and largely rooted in American agriculture, Sec. Brannan cited three simple facts to show the tremendous stake the Nation has in a sound and prosperous agriculture:

1—A century and a quarter ago, one farm worker provided food and fiber for himself and three and one-half other persons. Today, one person engaged in agriculture provides, on the average, for himself and 13 one-half other persons.

2—The non-farm population of our Nation now contains about 20 million more persons that 10 years ago, but our farm population has declined by nearly three millions — from approximately 30½ millions in 1939 to 27½ millions at the beginning of 1949. Agricultural production has been running about 40 per cent above the 1935-39 average —with the use of about the same number of acres.

3—Before the war, our farms supplied the basic raw materials for industries that produced one-third of all our manufactured products. In 1947, nearly half the money the American people spent for commodities and services was spent for products that originate on farms. About two out of five working persons in the U. S. today are engaged either in agriculture itself, or in transporting and handling agricultural products, or in providing and selling goods and services to farm people.

Food In Reserve
Food supplies in America were never in much better shape than they are right now, and "surpluses" have come to be regarded as comfortable "reserves" as world events have taken a more serious turn, according to Mr. Blandford.

Total crop production in 1950 is expected to be larger than in any pre-war year, and larger than five out of the last eight years of record-high production. Decreases are expected in some of the basic crops—like corn, wheat, and cotton—which are under acreage controls or have been affected by weather and other damage. Reserves of all these are large, however, and with current crops they will more than meet any likely demands.

Sugar Record
Our sugar beet crop is expected to be the largest on record, and the sugar cane crop will be almost a third larger than average. We produce about two out of every seven pounds we consume, and we import the rest from our territories and from foreign sources, notably Cuba. The world crop of sugar for 1949-50 is expected to set a new record. Cuban production is almost double pre-war output, and our quota of imports from Cuba were recently increased.

Bank Assets Nearly $1 Million

Assets of Maryland State banks and trust companies neared the billion mark in 1949, according to the annual report of the bank commissioner of Maryland. The report was filed with Gov. Lane by J. Millard Tawes, who up to his recent appointment as state comptroller, served as bank commissioner.

The report, available at the bank commissioner's office, sets forth in detail the condition of Maryland banks and trust companies, whose assets rose to $935,508,502 in 1949.

Optimism
The American standard of living can be tripled in the next 50 years, if the country is operated on a policy of "economic democracy," Sen. Humphrey, Democrat of Minnesota, believes.

Marine Corps Wants Volunteers

Marine Master Sergeant Frank J. Diddlemeyer, Marine Corps recruiter at the Baltimore station, stated this week that the Marine Corps wants volunteers and that he feels a young man is better off if he takes the initiative in joining the service of his choice.

As Sgt. Diddlemeyer put it, "There's a big difference between Selective Service and selecting the service that selects its men. The Leathernecks enlist only the finest of America's youth which means that not everybody can qualify. For those who can make it, however, there is a sense of pride in being a part of the team that has fought with distinction on every occasion."

"Of course, that's not all," the Sergeant added. "The advantage of travel and education as well as adventure, aren't to be overlooked. But to those who are Marines, the 'esprit de corps' of this famous fighting outfit is their life blood. It doesn't take the new recruit long to realize the truth in the saying, 'Once a Marine, always a Marine.' The far-famed Leathernecks have something to offer that can't be bought anywhere, whether you're in combat, guarding an embassy in Timbuktu, or on leave in Paducah."

Volunteers for service with the U. S. Marines will find the door to the recruiting office open seven days a week at Room 325, Post Office Bldg., Calvert and Fayette Streets, Baltimore.

Slow Growth

Bureau County, Ill., hasn't stood still during the last 10 years. The population in 1940 was 37,600. The 1950 population, according to recently announced census figures, is 37,601.

Utes Strike It Rich

The Ute Indians of Colorado and Utah have struck it rich. These people—mostly poor, uneducated farmers—recently won a record-breaking $31.7 million claim against the government. This amount represents about $10,000 for each Ute as payment for the 6 million acres of land the U. S. took from his ancestors.

Eligible For Draft

A total of nearly 10 million men in the 19-26-year age bracket have been registered for the draft, according to U. S. Selective Service officials. Of these, 1.4 million have been tentatively classified as 1-A.

Another Bumper Crop

The Agriculture Dept. has forecast a 3.1 billion-bushel corn crop for the nation, the fifth largest crop on record. Larger than average yields of oats, barley, grain, sorghums, and hay, also are predicted.

Problems of Survival

It seems clear now that our federal government must make war-scale military expenditures for an indefinite period. Regardless of the duration of the Korean conflict, it already has demonstrated that neither our present nor our previously planned military strength would be sufficient in an all out showdown with the sprawling Communist war machine. Our government must therefore spend heavily, at least during the next several years, to build up the fighting strength of the armed services.

The new spending for actual war, piled on top of the already huge "cold war" outlays and the other staggeringly expensive federal government services which have mushroomed in the past 20 years, creates a whole new series of national problems and dangers. In war time or in any prolonged preparation for war, a danger that can be equal to that of war itself is the abnormal growth of government in size and power and cost.

An Historic Danger

Power once conferred upon an individual is seldom voluntarily given up. The same truth applies in government, only more so. History confirms this. Many of our federal government's controls, taxes, and spending programs adopted as emergency measures prior to and during the last war still are in force—five years after the end of the war (for instance, travel and communications taxes). Our free enterprise economy has survived this burden but not without injury; and any new controls and burdensome taxes that might be extended over a long period could very well fatally cripple our system.

Another danger about which our people need to be alerted is the intensification of the undercover work of those movements seeking to scrap our capitalistic enterprise system. Probably the greatest menace created by the 500,000 American Communists and fellow travelers will be in their Fifth Column work fomenting strikes in vital industries, otherwise sabotaging war production, and agitating for disunity. The menace of the disguised Socialists, or Planned Economy advocates, will not be so easily recognized, and that fact makes their movement the more dangerous.

England's Example
We now know that the British Socialists did their decisive work in England while opponents of Socialism were preoccupied with the war. To a few Fabian strategists and a few alert observers who had watched the infiltration of the slyly disguised Socialist propaganda into all British thought, the sudden rise to power of the Fabian's Labor-Socialist Party at the end of the war was no surprise. To almost everyone else, in England and America, it was.

If our economy should become critically strained because of the terrific burden of this new war effort following so closely upon the sapping cost of the last one, our capitalist system might be able to promise only "blood, sweat and tears"—something like the sacrifices, hard work and heart-breaks experienced by our forefathers who established nity has sound health laws to guised American Socialists would step forward then, as they did in England, with their rainbow of promises—"the good life, jobs for all, security for all from cradle to grave, fair shares"—all provided by the "Welfare Government."

Wisdom Needed
Therefore the health of our national financial structure—our economy—is of paramount importance. Even the wisest and sanest management of the government's fiscal affairs will be fraught with constant dangers. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, himself recognized these dangers when he observed there was a limit on what a nation could spend "without imperiling its economic survival."

And so to sum up: The nearer we come to balancing all government budgets, federal, state and local, whatever the cost in temporary sacrifices, the less will be the inflationary pressure and the more certain we can be of economic survival. And above all else, each citizen should serve as a committee of one to expose the disguised Socialists at work and to keep the public everlastingly aware of the value of individual freedom — so we won't lose it at the end of the

HEALTH COLUMN

The modern American community has sound health laws to protect its citizens against communicable diseases. Among protective measures taken by most American communities are provisions for a sanitary water supply, safe waste disposal, and clean streets. Local ordinances provide also for the sale of pasteurized milk and pure foods only.

In addition to these general health protection measures, many modern American communities carry on attacks against specific diseases. An example of this is the tuberculosis program, the various phases of which fall into the general categories of case finding, treatment, rehabilitation, and health education.

war emergency like England did.

Since tuberculosis has no obvious symptoms in an early stage, the search for undiscovered cases of the disease must be made among apparently healthy people. In many modern communities casefinding programs are conducted. These include tuberculin testing of children (simple skin sensitivity tests) and chest X-rays, which can reveal evidence of the disease in an early stage.

Tuberculin testing and chest X-rays serve to "screen out" suspicious signs of the disease. Further tests are necessary before a diagnosis of tuberculosis is made. When a case of tuberculosis is found, prompt measures must be taken to get the sick person under treatment.

Adequate facilities for the care and treatment of the community's tuberculosis patients are of prime importance. There should be sufficient beds for the care of all patients who need hospitalization, whether the tuberculosis hospital program is planned on a state, city, or county basis, or on a combination of the three.

Tuberculosis often brings with it severe social and economic problems. Many of its victims face financial difficulties during this long-term illness, especially where the patient is the breadwinner of the family. Laws governing public welfare for the community should include provision for adequate financial assistance to the tuberculosis patient and his dependents. Because of the long time required for tuberculosis treatment, some states now recognize that this treatment should be provided free. Rehabilitation services, available in every state to patients who need them, are now recognized as part of the tuberculosis patient's treatment. Such services help the patient, once he leaves the hospital, return to community life as a useful, self-supporting citizen.

Every phase of the tuberculosis control program should be accompanied by health education. People must learn the facts about tuberculosis and its prevention and what is still needed to help the community fight tuberculosis most effectively.

The leadership in the fight against tuberculosis in most American communities is provided by the official health department and the voluntary tuberculosis association, which is affiliated with the National Tuberculosis Assn. These agencies, while concentrating on the particular tuberculosis problems in their areas, coordinate their work with the nation-wide campaign against tuberculosis under the leadership of official health

Playground News

FLASHES

Last week's pet show was held Thursday afternoon at the playground. Amid the visitors and many children were all kinds of pets. Everything from tadpoles to a pony! The pets were shown, and each owner told about his entry in the show. Three judges, Marjorie Crist, Lois Myers, and Dave Umbel, selected the prize winners.

Awards for the largest and oldest pet went to Sue Eyster for her pony, named "Black Diamond." The smallest and youngest pets were two tadpoles, owned by Barbara Tegeler. After each animal was coaxed into performing a trick, Sue's pony was chosen as the smartest pet with his single-foot and canter. Then the judges closely examined each pet to find the one which was the best cared for and cleanest. Linda Humerick's white rabbit, "Pinky" won this prize. The next difficult award was for the best pet of all. The judges decided that Marie Keepers' cat named "Ears" should win. Not only was "Ears" a well-behaved and pretty cat, but he was all dressed up in a dress and ribbons and seemed to be enjoying the entire show!

Other outstanding pets were a pigeon, a rabbit, a tiny kitten, and two handsome dogs. On Wednesday afternoon the playground circus was held. Although no animals were present, there were many types of performers. The majorettes and the band paraded the field, followed by clowns, tramps, an Indian, and a fortune teller. Then a performance was given and prizes were awarded to the best.

The best clown was Barbara Tegeler; the best tumbler Linda Humerick; best twirler, Theodore Rybikowsky; best trap, Theresa Rybikowsky, and the best player in the band was Helen Smith. A final parade followed and the circus closed.

Next week's program includes a folk dance festival on Wednesday. There will be singing, games and dances for all ages. Come one, come all!

Mr. and Mrs. Pius Kelly and children, Jerry, Louis, Rebecca, Eileen, Jack, and Charlene of Newry Pa. were guests this week at the home of Mr. Kelly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kelly.

Mahoney Plans Campaign Sans Running Mates

George P. Mahoney, Democratic candidate for the nomination as Governor of Maryland will direct his full fire against the unseating of Lane and will continue his campaign without running mates, it was announced this week by Mahoney-for-Governor headquarters in Baltimore. The decision was reached after 10 days of discussion by a committee of 10 key leaders who were picked recently at a statewide meeting. Final meeting of the group of 10 took place late last week and Mr. Mahoney was called in and advised by Strett Baldwin, chairman of the group, of the decision.

Mr. H. Strett Baldwin told the committee:

At a meeting of representative citizens and community leaders from the 23 counties of Maryland and the City of Baltimore interested in the candidacy of George P. Mahoney for Governor, it was decided that an advisory committee of 10 be selected to determine whether Mr. Mahoney should have running mates as comptroller and attorney general. Two delegates were elected in true democratic fashion from five sections of the State. The delegates carefully canvassed the situation in their respective communities during the past 10 days. They met at at headquarters. After a thorough discussion, it was unanimously decided by the committee that it would report to Mr. Mahoney that it would be inadvisable from the standpoint of the public interest to suggest running mates on his ticket.

The committee felt that the people of Maryland had no quarrel with the administration of Attorney General Hammond who occupies a semi-judicial office. Likewise, they felt that the people were satisfied with the administration of the late Comptroller James J. Lacey. Mr. Millard Tawes who was recently appointed comptroller and who had previously occupied that post had performed creditably in that high office.

The advisory committee, having covered the grass roots, so to speak, of the State, reported that they found the people of Maryland in rebellion against the mal-administration of Gov. Lane. From their respective communities they learned that the governor's administration has been one of bungling, inefficiency, waste, and extravagance, burdensome taxation, and lax administration. They believe him to be without vision and planning and that incompetence, laxity in public duties and procrastination in making appointments mark his administration. They are convinced that the people of Maryland want a change in the Governorship and will recommend to Mr. Mahoney that he continue his campaign against Mr. Lane. Francis Petrott of Frederick, was one of the delegates.

CROP Prepares

For Annual

Funds Drive

While various states are starting on their 1950 CROP campaigns, final figures are forthcoming on Maryland's participation in the 1949 drive which continued until late spring of this year. A statement from Christian Rural Overseas Program headquarters in Chicago, announces the total Maryland contribution as $12,598.05.

Frederick County's share in that figure was $1,785.09, Vernon Holter, county CROP secretary, has reported.

The donations were in cash and farm commodities and will be used on an interdenominational basis to help build a Christian peace in the physically and spiritually hungry countries of the world.

CROP is a co-operating organization formed in 1947 by Church World Service, representing 22 Protestant denominations and Lutheran World Relief. It was joined a year later by the Catholic Rural Life Association. The work of soliciting in Frederick County was done by a small interdenominational group of volunteers with John L. Shaw, Frederick farmer and businessman, as chairman.

Cash contributions from Emmitsburg showed $82.52; Morris A. Zentz was in charge of the local drive. Thurmont, with Ross V. Smith in charge, produced $90.82 in cash.

POULTRY POINTERS

Radiant Heat

Because in most brooder houses and other poultry buildings it is most difficult by customary methods to hold heat at floor level, where it is mostly needed, there are great advantages with radiant heat. While heated air by all kinds of heating systems rises, radiant heat stays longer and better on the floor, with other words, just where you want the heat. It is furnished by hot water pipes over the whole area of the brooder house space. The pipes are arranged in parallel rows imbedded in an insulating material, and covered by a thin layer of concrete as finishing surface. The hot water in the pipes is furnished by one heating plant providing a uniform degree of heat over the whole area. It keeps the litter dry and warm and the chicks comfortable below rather than from above as with "mother hen improved" methods, such as electric hovers do.

One could place hovers over parts of such an arrangement. Another type of radiant heat can be constructed with electric insulated wires imbedded in a concrete floor. This type is cheaper to install than hot water heating plants. However, the kilowatt hours for this type are many, and it needs more experiments before one can judge the practicability of this type of brooding.

Unprecedented Building Boom

Nearly $26 billion will be spent on new construction this year, according to revised Federal estimates released recently. This figure is 14 per cent above the revised estimates of $22.6 billion spent in 1949. The unprecedented construction spending is forecast on the basis of record-breaking activity during the first half of the year.

Daredevils To Show At Taneytown

The aerial rocket leap, designed as the supreme test for man and motor, will climax the two-hour circus of death the Joe Chitwood Auto Daredevils will present at Taneytown Fairgrounds on Thursday, August 10, at 8:30 p. m.

Christie (Snooks) Wentzel, of Reading, Pa., one of Chitwood's greatest stars, will attempt to leap a 1950 stock sedan from a highly elevated rampway a great distance through the air to another landing runway, hurtling over another speeding sedan in his flight. The strain on man and motor in this feature almost belies the imagination, and there is definite proof of the hazards in store for the driver.

This ramp to leap cost the life of Lucky Teter at Indianapolis on July 5, 1942, and two years later Jack Perry was killed attempting such a leap at Afton, N. Y.

Chitwood established a world's record for 80 feet, 11 inches with such a leap at Houston, Tex., in 1947, but his machine was so completely shattered that it was necessary to use blow torches to cut the body of the car away so Chitwood could be removed from the wreckage. He suffered severe facial cuts and shock to such an extent that his doctors ordered him never again to make such a leap.

Wentzel served as Chitwood's auto racing mechanic for nine years before embarking on his career as a stunt driver, and Chitwood trained him to make the ramp to leap rocket leap. Wentzel, a sturdy Pennsylvania Dutchman, has made more than 70 such leaps successfully, and his steady temperament makes him an ideal man for such a dangerous assignment. Wentzel is not the smart-alec type of thrill driver. It is strictly a business with him and he realizes that one misdeed in this feature may be his finale.

Wentzel also will take a leading role in the hell driving, will compete in the roll-over contest, and is capable of handling any assignment.
