Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Emmitsburg's citizenry turned out in grand style Monday as the Governor and a host of county and state candidates swarmed into the old burg. Republicans and Democrats alike turned out to see "His Nibs." Friend and foe, farmer and banker, all flocked to the Square to see "Fres" emerge from his big, black shiny Cadillac. School children lingered around to get a glimpse of Governor Lane, only to catch the dickens for being late. Ward captains were in their glory, for it is not very often that such a high dignitary is welcomed to this town, let alone his star-studded entourage. It rather tickled me a little bit to see the mad rush to get in line to shake the Governor's hand. Many walked away with that smile of self-satisfaction on their faces, slightly elated, just as a kitten does after taking a swig of catnip tea. And I don't mind saying I, myself, was a little bit tickled to have the honor of meeting Senator Tydings and Governor, all at one killing. Last but not least were the county candidates. It was very apparent that many were out for their first "run" and were red-faced and embarrassed some when introduced to many of the locals. I think it was a grand idea for the caravan to make the county tour. Many of us never get to see the men we vote to represent and meeting them gives you that self-satisfaction of knowing personally the individual type of person who is going to represent you for the next few years. After all, who would hire anyone to work for them until an interview had been arranged? Anyway, I feel that both voters and candidates are much closer to each other after the whole thing. Oh yes, before I forget it, a copy of this "rag" was presented to the Governor and the article on the Blinker was shown him. We believe action will be forthcoming on the matter. Our attention was called to the gentleman who also collared the Governor and pleaded with him not to remove the dear old Blinker. Seems his sentiment for the old girl ran away with his better judgment. It is just this kind of shennigans that has helped hold us down to our present status. Seems that most of this column concerns politics, so we might just as well investigate a few statistics. For instance, are all of you aware that Frederick County has a Democratic majority registration of a little over 3,000? That Gov. Lane lost Emmitsburg to Mr. Mahoney in the recent primary? That Emmitsburg is the third largest voting district in the county? That Emmitsburg has a total voting power of 1407 votes? That of this number of votes 943 are Democrats and 564 Republicans? That the Democratic majority here is some 379? That most local GOP's come from Precinct No. 1, and the least from Precinct No. 3? That Precinct No. 2 has the heaviest registration? Do you know that our neighbor to the south of us, Thurmont, is exactly the opposite to Emmitsburg? Thurmont has 546 Democrats to 850 Republicans—a GOP majority of 304. Had enough statistics? So have I. Anyway, more interest has been shown in this election coming up Nov. 7 than in many years. I must compliment party workers on both sides. They really have worked hard to turn out the vote and to push the registration figure to a record high for this district. Interest runs high. More and more Emmitsburgians are attending rallies throughout the county than ever before. The show will be over soon, ladies and gentlemen, and you can settle down to your normal duties and way of living once again.

HALLOWEEN PARADE SET FOR TUESDAY

Plenty of fun is in store for Emmitsburgians Tuesday evening when the Halloween parade, sponsored by the American Legion, begins its trek over the main streets of town.

The parade committee, consisting of Harold M. Hoke, chairman, John T. Garner, and Greta Keilholtz, announced that activities will commence at 6:30 p. m. The parade will form in front of the Dough Boy on W. Main St. and proceed down Main St. to Broad Alley and circle around to St. Euphemia's School where it will terminate.

Three judges will determine the winners and award the prizes. Mayor Thornton Rodgers, Wayne McClellan, and a lady to be announced, will perform the judging.

It is the plan of the committee to serve refreshments to the participants on De Paul St., providing the weather is clear. In case of rain, the Fire Hall will be used.

The committee made it clear that the parade is open to both adults and children.

Prizes will be awarded for the most original costume, $5; the best looking, $5; second place prizes will be $2.50. Two mystery prizes are planned and a grand door prize of $10 will be drawn for.

Chairman Hoke expressed the opinion that about 250 contestants will be registered for the affair.

It is planned to have some type of music to lead the parade. Contestants are asked to register for the parade with Mr. Hoke, who will be present at the Doughboy at 6:30. In case of rain, they will register at the Fire Hall.

It is understood the Legion plans to make the event an annual affair.

Toll Gate Curve Work To Begin In Near Future

The State Roads Commission Wednesday formally approved the elimination of a dangerous right angle curve on Rt. 15 at the intersection with the Old Frederick Road just south of Emmitsburg, Commissioner Russell H. McCain said yesterday.

Mr. McCain said the approval paves the way for an early start on the project, which has been strongly recommended by Emmitsburg area residents.

He said it was not immediately determined whether the project will be let by contract or whether State Roads Commission forces will undertake the work.

The present road will be kept intact for use, he said, but a sweeping eight-degree curve will carry Rt. 15 traffic from a point south of the present intersection to the approach to the bridge over Toms Creek.

Right-of-ways for the new link, it was announced, have been given by St. Joseph's College. The present dangerous curve is between the St. Joseph's and Mt. St. Mary's College sites. It was said about six weeks ago that the college authorities had offered the right-of-way for the improvement.

The present right-angle curve has been the scene of many serious accidents over a period of years.

The improvements can be accomplished without impeding traffic on Rt. 15 during the progress of the work, it was explained.

The plans call for a 24-foot wide macadam stretch on the relocation project. Officials have indicated that the project can be completed in a short time.

State Senator Storm, Lumen F. Norris and the Chronicle spearheaded the drive for the curve correction.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. George Wagaman, S. Seton Ave., remains seriously ill with a spine ailment in the Frederick Memorial Hospital. It is understood Mrs. Wagaman is allowed no visitors.

Public School P-TA Met Wednesday Night

The Emmitsburg P-TA Assn. held the October meeting in the school auditorium Wednesday evening. Teachers greeted and talked with parents from 7:30 to 8 p. m.

The meeting, under the direction of President George L. Wilhide, continued until 10 with a lively program. Mr. Kieth Janicke led the group in singing "America" and the salute to the flag. Secretary Mary Hoke read the minutes of the last meeting and announced the meeting of the Congress of Parents and Teachers to be held in Baltimore. A report of the county council meeting was given and included references to a superintendent of school buses for the county, followed by a discussion of the candidates for county commissioner on the school building program. President Wilhide called for committee reports from the playground, safety, school improvement, new building and activities. The need of repairs to the chains on swings was referred to the playground committee.

Principal Arvin P. Jones and Board Member George Martin, reported on the new building. They said it was a little closer to being a reality but there were delays not yet corrected. Mr. Martin told the gathering everything was held up by the engineer, delaying the completion of the plans by the architect. However, he assured the group that these plans will be completed and ready for the Board of Education to act upon at their next meeting. After that, it should not be long until bids will be received and the contract given for the new Emmitsburg school building, an addition to the present building.

Mrs. Andrew Eyster reported for the activities committee. She announced a food and rummage sale will be held in conjunction with the senior class food sale on Saturday, Nov. 18, at the Fire Hall. Committees appointed were: food, Mrs. Samuel Hays and Mrs. Merle Keilholtz; rummage, Mrs. O. H. Stinson and Mrs. John White; advertisement, Mrs. Henry Charlton and Miss Edna Stull.

State Trooper Corbin, president of the Frederick County P-TA Council, was introduced and made some remarks. In reference to bingo and games of chance by P-TA organizations, he said that the state organization does not recommend bingo or chance games, but that about half of the P-TA's do have them. He suggested that the local group govern themselves by the prevailing public opinion on the matter. The local group voted against holding any such affair to raise money.

Three film strips and short sound movies were shown by Miss Martin and Mrs. Alma Jones. The movies were on Indian Craft, Story of Columbus and Decimals and Common Fractions. The sound film was entitled "The World We Would Like To Live In."

Approximately 75 attended the meeting. It was decided to change the December meeting from the last Wednesday to the third Wednesday of the month, Dec. 20.

390 X-rays Taken Wednesday

A large number of Emmitsburgians took advantage of free chest X-rays Wednesday afternoon, when the mobile unit from the Frederick County Tuberculosis Assn. made a one-day stand here. The unit was sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club.

At Emmitsburg High School, 86 students were X-rayed; St. Joseph's, 60; Emmitsburg Mfg. Co., 62; Hanover Shoe Factory, 59, and 123 from the community. The number was far in excess of that of last year, showing that people are taking advantage of checking the disease before it enters an advanced stage.

William Walter spent the weekend in Washington visiting.

Mrs. James M. Alvey and Miss Louise Sebald spent last Friday in Baltimore.

Penn-Maryland League Champs

The Hanover Shoe baseball team Sunday captured the championship and pennant of the Penn-Maryland Baseball League by defeating the runner-up Middleburg, by a 4-3 score. A large crowd saw the final playoff.

Don Joy went the distance on the mound for the locals and pitched stellar ball all the way. He was opposed by Bangs, of Middleburg. The affair was the third one-run win of the series.

On more than one occasion the game was saved by fielding gems. William Sterbinsky, on one of these plays, saved the day by holding a lusty blow to a single and threw out a runner from third base trying for home. The throw was from the outfield.

Indications are a banquet and pennant presentation will be held at a later date.

Leukemia Proves Fatal To Mrs. J. M. Roddy Sr.

Mrs. Laura Gertrude Roddy, 76, wife of John M. Roddy Sr., Emmitsburg, died at 1:55 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, of acute leukemia. She had been ill for the past nine weeks.

She was a daughter of the late Aloysius and Julia Riddlemose Orndorff. She leaves her husband and these children, Mrs. James O'Leary, Binghamton, N. Y.; Mrs. H. Russell Wetzel, Thurmont; Mrs. Patrick J. Lynch, Dumont, N. J.; Mrs. Joseph M. Shorb, Emmitsburg; Sister Ruth, Baltimore; John M. Roddy Jr., Emmitsburg; Mrs. Bernard Seltzer, Baltimore, and Mrs. William H. Grove II, Lanette, Ala.; one brother, William R. Orndorff, Spokane, Wash., and one sister, Mrs. Nan Pontious, Baltimore.

She was a life member of St. Anthony's Shrine and of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Rosary will be recited by members of St. Anthony's Shrine this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Funeral services at St. Anthony's Shrine Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, with interment in St. Anthony's Cemetery. The family asks that flowers be omitted.

Democratic Rally Tomorrow Night

Democrats of the Emmitsburg District will gather at a giant rally Saturday night at the White House Inn, Emmitsburg. Democratic Chairman James L. Nester announced that candidates for high state offices will address the gathering and that many of the candidates for county offices will be present to meet and greet those attending.

Lumen F. Norris, chairman of the committee on arrangements stated that food and refreshments will be served and that the public is welcome. Assisting Mr. Norris on the committee are Mrs. Harry S. Boyle and John T. Garner.

Music will be provided for the occasion. Several hundred persons are expected to attend and hear the candidates and discuss the party platform.

Alumni Plan Dance

A Sadie Hawkins Day dance is being planned by the alumni of St. Joseph's High School on Tuesday evening, Nov. 7.

Dancing will start at 8:30 with music furnished by Gene Frock's Orchestra.

Prizes will be awarded the best impersonations of Lil Abner and Daisy Mae. The dance is open to the public and will be held in the auditorium of the high school.

RUMMAGE SALE

The Emmitsburg Public Library will hold a rummage sale at the Fire Hall tomorrow. Contributions are solicited from every one. Those in charge of the sale wish to make a very strong appeal for support of the public library. Financial help is badly needed if the library is to be able to continue to serve the community as it has for so many years.

Lions Contribute To County Speech Clinic

The Emmitsburg Lions Club met Monday at 6:15 at the Lutheran Parish House with President B. J. Eckenrode in charge. The meeting was attended by 28 Lions and four guests. The guests were Miss Joanne Dawney and Miss Nancy Johnson, St. Joseph's College seniors; Mrs. Robert Daugherty, and Mr. Kelz.

Prof. Arvin P. Jones reported on the Frederick County Speech Clinic. According to this report, there are 900 boys and girls in this county who definitely need the help from the speech clinic. Twenty boys and girls are being taken at this time and two are going from Emmitsburg schools.

A total of $600 has already been contributed in the county, including a contribution from the local Lions Club for the speech clinic. Ralph S. Sperry, member of the child health and welfare committee, spoke briefly for the speech clinic.

Prof. Jones announced that he would give a more detailed report at the next meeting of the club on the laws and custom followed concerning the physical examination of school children.

Speakers for Monday evening were Miss Joanne Dawney and Miss Nancy Johnson, who spoke on their experiences on a Holy Year trip to Europe last summer from June 19 to July 19 with 600 college students. Some points which they presented to the club were the beauty of the French countryside, the wonderful service of the travel agency for the students. They told of meeting Sister Mary Bassel in Paris who is an American secretary of the Sisters of Charity. In Italy they visited Florence, Naples and Rome. Of special interest to the club was their story of their audience with the Pope.

There were 11 St. Joseph's College girls among the 35 who had a private audience with the Holy Father. They told of their visit to the Catacombs, the Colosseum, the Appian Way, etc. They described their reactions to the beauty and glory of famous painting, architecture and sculpture.

Winners of turkeys were Roy Bollinger, Frank Weant, Truman Hahn, Bernard Ott, Harry Hahn, Jake Chrismer, Guy McGlaughlin, Ely Eiker, and Gene Miller.

A spokesman of the organization indicated another match will be staged in the near future. Twelve gauge shotguns only were used at Sunday's match.

Miss Jones Is Bride Of John Warthen

Miss Kathleen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crit Jones, of Salem, Ind., and Detroit, and John Warthen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Warthen, W. Main St., Emmitsburg, were married Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg. The Rev. Francis Stauble, pastor of the bridegroom officiated at the double ring ceremony, which was attended by a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a dark green wool suit with a fine brown check, brown accessories and a white orchid corsage. She chose for her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. Raymond Baker, who wore a tan wool suit, brown accessories and a yellow rosebud corsage. Michael Bobanic, Aliquippa, Pa., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the newly-furnished home of the young couple in the Ora Wagerman property. The young couple left on a wedding trip to Detroit and will be at home to their friends about Nov. 1.

LANE & TYDINGS PAY VISIT TO EMMITSBURG

The entire Democratic ticket, from Gov. Lane and Senator Tydings to the county candidates toured Frederick County Monday, and despite rain, were well-received in every section.

The entourage came to Emmitsburg at about noon and spent about an hour and a half here. A luncheon was held at the Green Parrot Tea Room and many local Democrats dined and talked with the candidates.

The caravan was officially met by Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers, and Lumen F. Norris, chairman of affairs committee, J. Lester Nester, chairman of the local central committee, Mrs. Harry S. Boyle and Mrs. Euphemia Rotering.

Members of the candidates party were U. S. Senator and Mrs. Millard E. Tydings. Senator Tydings, a candidate for re-election, personally greeted and recognized his old Emmitsburg friends. Governor William Preston Lane, candidate for re-election, was accompanied by Mrs. Lane and their daughter, Dorothy. Attorney General Hall Hammond, candidate for re-election, and Gen. Russel P. Hartle, candidate for Congress, were also members of the group.

State Senator Edward D. Storm, candidate for re-election, and Mrs. Storm introduced candidates to many of their personal friends and acquaintances in Emmitsburg.

Among the county office seekers were Edwin F. Nikirk, candidate for state's attorney; Denver J. Shook for sheriff; Maurice Smith, William Staley, James Shaff, candidates for county commissioners; Gary L. Utterback and Malcolm Baer, for House of Delegates; Judge Mary H. Gregory and Spencer E. Stup, candidates for re-election as Judge of the Orphans' Court. James H. Falk, unopposed candidate to the office of county treasurer, and William M. Storm, Alton Y. Bennett, and George F. Grove.

Next stop of the caravan was at Mt. St. Mary's College, where the visitors were received by Msgr. John L. Sheridan and Rev. William F. Culhane, president and vice president respectively, along with other members of the faculty.

The candidates also visited St. Joseph's College.

At Thurmont, a Republican stronghold, the group was especially gratified with the welcome received. After personal stops at the town shops and business places, the group assembled in front of the residence of Magistrate William J. Stoner. On the opposite side of the street, members of the senior class of Thurmont High School listened attentively to Gov. Lane as he briefly recounted benefits accruing the school system. Among the townsmen greeting the visitors were D. Saylor Weybright, president of the Council, and other town officials.

Later that night, a delegation of some 25 Emmitsburgians attended the giant rally staged in the Frederick Armory and heard Gov. Lane and Sen. Tydings and other luminaries speak. More than 1500 attended the affair, considered one of the largest of its kind in years. Attorney William Storm acted as toastmaster and introduced the candidates and speakers.

In his speech, Sen. Tydings went back to the first World War and the defeat of the League of Nations to brief his audience on our history since. He told of the potential devastation of modern warfare and the ability of war machines to cross oceans swiftly with heavy loads of bombs. He said our hope for peace lies in our determination to fight for it.

The only thing the Kremlin knows, he said, is power and we have to remain powerful until such time as all nations can sit down at the council table and make honest agreements to disarm. He said we will not make such an agreement until Russia is willing to let us see what is going on behind the iron curtain.

Most farmers would jump at the chance to get 10 tons of barnyard manure per acre to put on their land. Not only can they get the equivalent inorganic matter of the 10 tons of manure, they can get it spread over whatever acreage they wish at no cost in money or energy.

All that is necessary, he explains, is to put the fertilizer on the cover crop in the fall that is usually put on the cash crop in the spring. Often the fertilizer will increase the growth of the cover crop enough so that as much as 3000 pounds of dry matter is produced per acre.

Chairman Blandford advises that a number of cover crop practices are included in the Agricultural Conservation Program for Maryland. Information on these practices and the financial assistance available to farmers may be obtained at all county PMA offices.

Conservation Materials and Services

The ACP in 1951 will continue to provide assistance to farmers in obtaining lime, phosphate, cover crops, and various services where such materials and services are used in carrying out approved conservation practices.

The purchase order, he explains, covers the share of the cost of the materials or services to be borne by the ACP. The farmer stands the balance of the cost. Purchase order blanks are available at the county PMA office in each county.

Chairman Blandford emphasizes that when a purchase order is used, the farmer is obligated to use materials or services in carrying out conservation practices in accordance with ACP standards.

In the opinion of the Chairman, the purchase order system helps materially in getting more conservation work done. It is of particular benefit to farmers who do not have the ready cash to go ahead with conservation practices, he explains.

Trigg Discusses Farm Defense Measures

"American agriculture is in such fine shape that little is needed now in the way of allocation and quota controls, or price ceilings," says Ralph S. Trigg, head of the PMA, who has been assigned responsibility for planning and carrying out Defense Production measures covering food, farm equipment, and fertilizer.

"Our most immediate job has to do," Mr. Trigg says, "with materials and facilities, the things food producers and handlers must have if they are to keep up high-level production."

As economic mobilization expands, the PMA Administration predicts that we may find shortages of such materials as steel for the needed minimum of farm machinery and replacement parts, commercial fertilizers, chemicals for insecticides, and box cars to move our crops to market.

Our farms are well fixed for machinery now. But Mr. Trigg emphasizes that we must keep them that way. "It's our job to find out just what the needs are, and then to present the case for agriculture in the most vigorous and effective way we can."

An adequate agricultural manpower is also an essential in keeping production high. He says, "we must do everything we can to see that a minimum working force is left in agriculture."

Not much will be needed in the ways of such controls as allocation orders, unless the general situation gets a lot worse. Administrator Trigg says, "we have supplies enough now of most agricultural products to take care of our present needs without resorting to allocations or quotas in order to spread short supplies around."

Price ceilings on farm products are now being planned, the Administrator reports. "We are watching the situation closely," he discloses, "but right now we know of no cases where price controls would be needed and practicable for farm commodities."

The key to the present agricultural situation is high production and ample reserves. Mr. Trigg adds that farmers will be asked to keep on producing abundantly next year, for adequate supplies are the best guarantee against the need for controls, and our best weapon against inflation.

"Signals on desirable production for next year will be called well before planting time," he says, "and whenever possible before farmers start making final plans for the next year."

"At the same time," warns Administrator Trigg, "we need to know all we can about the developing national and international situations. No one can know just what lies ahead. We must be as fully prepared as possible at all times, play on the safe side, and be ready to adjust programs quickly if conditions change."

Annual Migrating Of Crabs Continues In Chesapeake Bay

Reports from commercial crab fishermen in the Chesapeake Bay indicate that the annual migration of female blue crabs or "sooks" from the northern part of the Bay towards the Capes has been occurring for about a month.

According to David G. Cargo, crab biologist, of the Dept. of Research and Education, at Solomons, qualitative records from Rock Hall, off Kent County, show a predominance of males left in the upper Bay, averaging 98.5 per cent of the catch for the past four weeks. Of this, 84.5 per cent were of legal size.

Key commercial trot-liners are co-operating with biologists of the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory by recording and reporting qualitative field catches once a week. This information is interpreted on the basis of size, sex and maturity for proper management of crab resources.

Female crabs have mated in the Upper Chesapeake during the summer months, and will migrate to the lower Bay area to winter. Young crabs are born in the lower Chesapeake from May through July and migrate northward during summer. Male crabs remain in the northern part of the Bay during the winter months and rarely migrate.

Check Discloses Women Also Like Angling

Does mother ever go fishing? Figures just compiled by the Maryland Dept. of Research and Education indicate that Mother does, indeed, go fishing. And what is more, she goes more often than Junior does.

On the basis of personal interviews with thousands of fishermen in Maryland, it has been discovered that adult females make up 9.9 per cent of the angling population, according to Harold J. Elser, biologist of the Dept. of Research and Education. Children under 14 years of age make up 8.9 per cent, while adult males comprise the remaining 81.2 per cent.

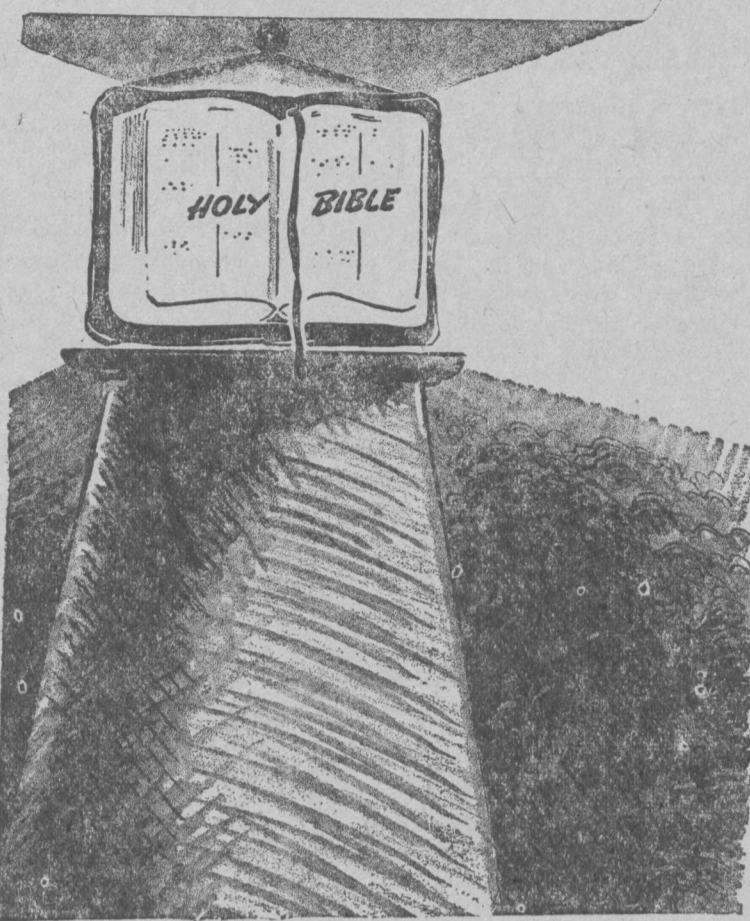

This data is from the creel-census activities being carried on by the department biologists in fresh water areas in co-operation with the Maryland Dept. of Game and Inland Fish. Separate figures indicate that Mother does not like to fish in cold weather.

At the opening of the 1950 trout season the fair sex constituted only 2.5 per cent of the fishing population, while the kids amounted to 20.6 per cent of the total. Actually, mothers enjoy catching warm-water fishes during the summer months.

Does Mother catch as many fish as does Father? They have no scientific data on which to base an answer, say the biologists; meanwhile, they are keeping any guesses to themselves.

SHORT STORY

Bart's Decision By Richard Hill Wilkinson

BART HODGES had lived in the city for two years and he was getting tired of it. Country bred, he longed for the smell of sweet, fresh air, the sound of roosters crowing and cows loving. He wanted to go to bed to the tune of crickets cheeping and bullfrogs jug-a-rumming.

It wasn't as if the city hadn't been kind to Bart. It had. It had taken him to its bosom, and he had prospered. Nor had he been unhappy. He loved the lights, the noise, the hustle and bustle. And most of all he loved a girl. Tonight, lying on the divan in the living room of his apartment, Bart was troubled with an annoying thought. He wondered, strangely, which he wanted most: Sabina's love or the country.

It was at this particular moment in Bart's speculation that the telephone rang. A strangely familiar feminine voice answered. "Hello, there, Bart," the voice said. "This is Sadie Blake, fresh in from the old home town. Come down and talk to one of your forgotten friends."

Bart's pulse leaped. Sadie! His boyhood pal Sadie, whom one day he expected to marry! Sadie, in the city. Here! Now! Fresh from Centerville, with news and notes of the old home town galore.

At that moment Sabina Goodnow was forgotten. There was just one girl in the world for Bart. And that girl was Sadie Blake. He felt suddenly ashamed he had neglected to write, to remember her at Christmas.

Sadie, pink cheeked, blooming with good health and freshness, met him in the lobby of her hotel. "Hello, pal," she cried. "Looking just the same. Thinner, maybe. But otherwise old Bart himself." "Sadie!" Bob stared in open admiration. "Sadie! How good it is to see you. Tell me, how are things in Centerville? How are the folks? Tell me everything."

"Same old town, Bart. Your folks are fine. Your dad owns a new tractor. Polly, the horse, died, you know. But I suppose they wrote you that. The voters decided to run town water up to William's Hill at the last town meeting. Not so much danger if fire breaks out now. Ed Salmon ran off with Bob Evans' wife. She came back two weeks ago, and Bob took her in. Shame. Poor kid..."

THEY TALKED for hours. By evening Bart was fully appraised of all the events and happenings in Centerville during the past two years, and assured that his folks were well. He took Sadie out to dinner, and delighted in showing her around. She seemed a little awed by it all, and more awed by Bart's indifference to the many wonders.

"You get used to it after a while," he said indifferently, and stood gazing thoughtfully at the many lights along Broadway. He felt enlightened and no longer homesick. Strangely enough the noise and bustle associated themselves in his mind with Sabina. He was glad to be a part of it all.

He gazed furtively at the comely Sadie and pictured her in the rural setting of Centerville. They attended a theater and dined afterward at an exclusive night club. Sadie would have liked to go back to her hotel, but she wanted to please Bart.

"Bart," she said, when at last they stood outside the door to her room. "When are you coming home? When are you going to give up all this and come back where you belong?"

Bart looked down into her eyes and saw something that two years ago he had longed to witness. He sighed deeply.

"Sadie, it's been just great seeing you. Just what I needed. A sort of tonic." He smiled at her gently. "I'm not going back just yet, Sadie. There's something keeping me here, something that before I never knew existed. I know now that it's something greater than anything. Some time I'm coming back, and when I do there'll be two of us."

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

The Baltimore wheat market showed a slight downward trend with a loss of about one cent per bushel during last week. New crop yellow shelled corn declined about two cents per bushel during the same period. Barley weakened along with corn on the Baltimore market, declining about three cents per bushel. Western white oats were firm. Yellow soybeans strengthened during the past week, advancing about four cents per bushel. Black soybeans gained about one cent per bushel on the Baltimore market.

National Grain Market
Grain markets continued weak last week, according to reports to the Dept. of Agriculture. Marketings of most grains increased and offerings were generally adequate for trade needs. Wheat prices were somewhat irregular. High protein milling feed premiums were adjusted downward, while other type proteins were unchanged to slightly lower than a week ago. Corn markets were about steady. Plentiful supplies of old crop grains and increased movement of new crop corn to Southwestern markets were weakening influences. Oats and barley held about unchanged but rye and grain sorghums turned weak at the leading markets. Soybeans held independently firm and prices gained from five to 10 cents per bushel compared with a week previous.

Maryland Feed Market
The Baltimore feed market showed a further downward trend during last week. An advance of over 3% in distillers' dried grains ($2.40 per ton higher) was offset by a decline of over 3% in 50% meat scrap ($3.66 per ton lower). Soybean oil meal remained steady on the Baltimore market; however, linseed and cottonseed oil meals declined somewhat.

During last week, Maryland broiler producers paid an average of $95.94 per ton for feed and received an average of 23.8 cents per pound for broilers. Based on this average retail cash price 20% broiler mash on Lower Eastern Shore, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 5 pounds of feed.

National Feed Market
Feedstuff markets continued on a downward trend during last week, and prices declined nearly to the level of feed grains, reports to the Dept. of Agriculture indicated. Continued mild weather with good pasturage in important feeding areas together with the utilization of immature corn and threat of imports of frosted wheat from Canada were the principal weakening influences. The index of wholesale feedstuff prices dropped nearly five points to 208.3 which was practically the same as a year ago and within about two points of the feed grain index of 206. Wheat millfeeds declined $1-$1.02 per ton and oilseed meals were down 50 cents to $3 from a week ago with the principal decline in cottonseed meal. Animal protein feeds were also sharply lower in central-western markets. Other feedstuffs were weak but price changes were small.

EDWARD N. KOONTZ
Edward Nelson Koontz, 54, died at his home in Taneytown Saturday at 12:30 a. m. He was the son of James and Christianna Koontz and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rosanna Grimes Koontz; three children, John P. of Hanover; Mrs. Joseph Leishman, Littlestown; Edward N. Jr., at home, and two grandchildren; one brother, Charles P. Koontz, Emmitsburg R. D. 2; two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Stover, Taneytown R. D. 2, and Mrs. Chester Holtzapple, Hagerstown.

The deceased had been employed by the Cambridge Rubber Co., Taneytown, as a carpenter for several years. Formerly, he was a farmer near Emmitsburg. He was compelled to give up active employment about a year ago, due to declining health. The family has resided in Taneytown for the past five years.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at 10 a. m. with Rev. Philip Bower, pastor of the Lutheran Church, Emmitsburg, officiating.

Interment in Taneytown Lutheran Cemetery.

MacArthur Pays Tribute To General Hartle

The Hagerstown Daily Mail is a newspaper that really gets around, judging from a letter received by Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, Hagerstown, from his old army friend, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Cdr. of the Allied Powers in the Far East.

Dated some time before the Red Koreans moved south of the 38th Parallel, Gen. MacArthur states in the letter that he had just noticed an article in the Hagerstown Mail that Hartle was entering the political arena.

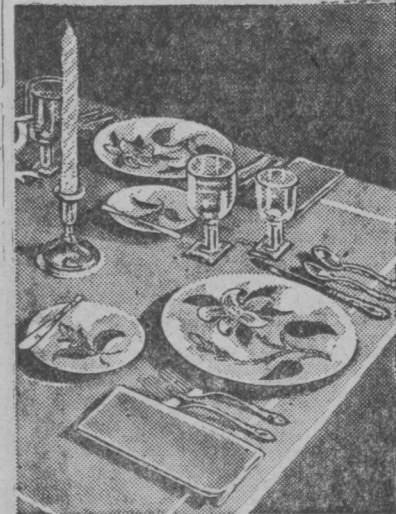

"This is good news," writes the General. "Our country needs men of such sound balance, wide experience and proven integrity at this critical period in our existence. While I would not venture to advise the Maryland constituency on any question dealing with politics, as one of your oldest friends I do wish you every possible degree of success in this new field of activity. I am sure that your host of friends in the Far East would join me in such a thought."

"With cordial regard and best wishes, 'Very faithfully, Douglas MacArthur'"

It is assumed that a Hagerstown boy stationed in Tokyo had been receiving The Mail and that the copy containing Gen. Hartle's announcement of his intention to file for Congress was called to Gen. MacArthur's attention.

HEALTH COLUMN

Your body produces cholesterol (fatty substance) despite the foods you eat. This disclosure comes from a study conducted by Dr. Ancel Keys, director of the University of Minnesota Laboratory of Physiological Hygiene, with 482 men as subjects.

Dr. Keys' research shows that eating dairy products, meats, and eggs, all foods high in cholesterol content, does not lead to increased cholesterol in the blood. In the opinion of Dr. Keys, this fact is significant. Cholesterol formation in blood vessel walls has been weighed by men of science as a possible cause of hardening of the arteries, a common type of heart disease.

Dr. Keys has shown further that even foods which contain no cholesterol may raise the cholesterol level of the blood. He reports that when the diet of one subject was changed from a diet completely free of both cholesterol and all fats to one containing vegetable fats (no trace of cholesterol) the blood cholesterol level increased immediately.

Dr. Keys' study is aided in part by grants from the National Dairy Council, acting on behalf of the American Dairy Assn. His subjects include persons varying in age from 18 to 80 on whom he determined the relation between cholesterol in the blood and such factors as age, dietary habits, state of health and consumption of dairy foods.

Noted Ambassador Hood Speaker

"The World We Face" was described by a veteran diplomat when the Honorable Wilhelm Morgenstierne, Norwegian ambassador to the United States, spoke at Hood College Thursday evening. His lecture, first in the 1950-51 public events series, was delivered in Brodbeck Hall.

Dean of Washington's diplomatic corps, the ambassador entered the Norwegian Foreign Service in 1909 following study at Oxford and the University of Oslo. His numerous diplomatic appointments have taken him to Washington, Antwerp, San Francisco, Oslo, New York and back again to Washington, where he served as Norwegian minister and became Norway's first ambassador to the U. S. when the Norwegian legation received embassy status.

Cholesterol content of food appears to be relatively unimportant because the body manufactures cholesterol at a rapid rate and because substances other than cholesterol appear to influence cholesterol blood levels. By reducing or eliminating the consumption of such foods as milk, butter, cheese, eggs, ice cream and meat the diet lacks essential nutrients. Nutrition scientists are agreed that an adequate diet should include plenty of fruits, meats, fish, eggs, vegetables and cereals.

The Editors Fight Back

Public opinion is the product of the public's thinking and the public's thinking is largely influenced by what people hear and see—the written and the spoken word, the actions and reactions of the people—and the human instincts. In a totalitarian country the principal avenues of thought persuasion are controlled by the government, which seeks—usually with success—to shape public opinion to suit the desires of the governing bureaucracy.

In our country where freedom of speech and of the press are cornerstones in the structure of our way of life, an almost boundless area exists for moulding thought. Yet students of the national scene say that 10 per cent of our population determines the thinking of the other 90 per cent. This 10 per cent is made up of the thought leadership of the nation, the teachers, preachers, "leading citizens," radio commentators, union labor spokesmen, public officials, newspaper editors, writers, etc. And the propagandists . . .

Seek "Welfare State"

We have in our nation today about 600,000 propagandists seeking a Communist "Soviet America" and probably a much larger number of fuzzy thinkers who are working for a Socialist America which they envision and speak of as the "Welfare State." Invariably these people attract attention with their arguments, their half-truths, their slanted propaganda. And they are found everywhere among the 10 per cent who determine the thinking which creates our American public opinion.

One of the most influential individuals in the category of thought leadership is the grass-roots newspaper editor. He is unquestionably one of the staunchest in upholding fundamental Americanism. There are nearly 10,000 such editors in America and they constitute a great stimulus for clear thinking. This year these editors of small town dailies and weeklies, alarmed over the trend toward a Socialist "Welfare State," decided the time had come when patriotic citizens should do something extraordinary for their country. So they set an example.

A Pilgrimage

They did a thrilling and wonderful thing. Two hundred editor delegates made a pilgrimage to Plymouth, Mass., and there on the hallowed ground they signed a "Mid-century Rededication Compact" in the name of the nearly 6000 members of the National Editorial Assn. The idea was evolved and developed by Lester Williams of the Columbian Progress, Columbia, Miss., and Howard Fowler of the Mansfield (Mass.), News. Many editors worked to make the pilgrimage a nationally significant event.

Allen C. McIntosh, editor of the Rock County Star-Herald, Luverne, Minn., stood beside historic Plymouth Rock and delivered the rededication address. "Scheming men have tried to bring . . . us into false harbors of foreign ideologies," he said.

Warns About "Welfare State"
"Our ship of state wallows in a trough of debt, buffeted by winds of special privilege and the pressure of vociferous minorities. It drifts perilously close to the reef of disaster marking the belief that the government should support the people . . . We (Americans of today) seek . . . to avoid all struggle while we sniff the deadly opium that deludes us into thinking we can get something in life for nothing. We have been content to dream of the living the world owes us, while we sneer at those who prize honesty and thrift."

The Compact signed said: By the Grace of God, having established by unanimous resolution our solemn conviction in the virtue of integrity based upon self-respect and honest toil, and our considered appreciation of the heritage of strong character, thrift, hard work, upright dealing, unselfish devotion to public welfare, and of our Christian faith, we do . . . affirm our steadfast faith in the true ideals of liberty and

Free Copies Of 'Sportsman's Guide' For Distribution

A new "Sportsman's Guide" to fishing in the Chesapeake Bay was published this month by the Maryland Tidewater Fisheries Commission. The booklet covers a range of subjects from the correct pronunciation of "alewives" to the proper relationships between sport and commercial fishermen. The "Sportsman's Guide" clearly defines the dividing line between non-tidal and tidal waters, also the fact that crab traps with folding wire sides are unlawful, a point apparently being overlooked by a great many users of the tidewater resources of the State.

Copies of the book may be obtained upon request from the Maryland Dept. of Information, P. O. Box 706, Annapolis. There is no charge for the publication.

Check Chimney Now

Cracks in the chimney are frequent causes of fires. Yet such cracks are frequently hidden and the home owner is unaware of them until too late.

As a timely suggestion, A. V. Krewatch, agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland, tells how chimney cracks can be discovered. "Build a 'smokey' fire. Place a board over the top of the chimney. Check carefully to learn whether smoke escapes any place among the chimney. If it does, fix the crack before winter sets in."

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 27—I am coming to the conclusion that historians of the future will write off the whole twentieth century as a century of uncertainty, confusion and continuous warfare. Our salvation lies in human research and the discovery of natural laws which govern the interactions of men and obtain for us a free power from gravity or the sun, not from atomic energy.

Our Culture Too Materialistic
One of my able business associates believes that only a great new revolution, such as the application of atomic energy to industry, would bring about peace by diverting men's minds to new fields of endeavor. My friend may be right, but I think he has over looked the fact that we have already progressed so fast technologically that we have been unable to keep pace spiritually.

Our worship of machines, gadgets and amusements has created for us a very "comfortable" push-button existence. It has, at the same time, drained off our best brains into physical-scientific pursuits and left undeveloped the whole science of man. The common man is beginning to feel the pinch of this mistake. This country has given all kinds of economic aids to its workers such as better homes, larger bank accounts, more automobiles, and radios, health insurance, pensions, etc. Yet, I doubt if there ever was a time in history when men felt less secure and more confused.

Men Must Study Man
One of the reasons why the Eastern and Western Worlds are at war today is because the citizens of these nations are materialistic, uncertain, and apathetic. Their respective ideologies have not given them what they expected. In war, the immediate goal is to win the war. We expect hardships; we endure them. In peace, we expect something else. Like the little child, if a notion does not get what it expects, the nation has a temper tantrum.

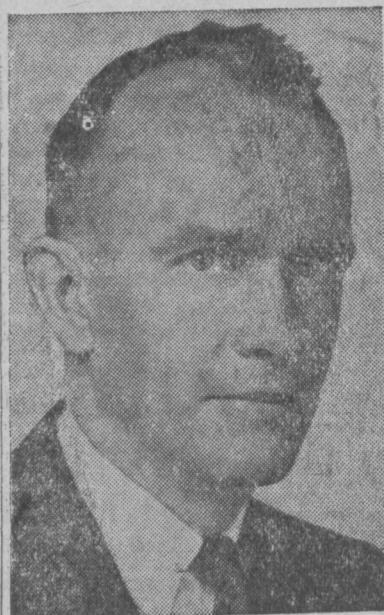

I predict that before we can have peace in the world, men must study man and develop a science for living. But this costs money, and we must be as willing and eager to devote as many billions of this type of research as we are to atom bombs, 100-inch telescopes, electronics and the like. We must discover what environmental stimuli and idealized goals are universally acceptable and zealously followed. What the U. S. and much of the rest of the world needs is NOT a better five cent cigar, but a better "five cent" religion which will be understood by everyone, which is honest, dynamic, specific and scientifically sound.

Changing Human Nature
I can hear the out and out pessimists and defeatists warning: "You can't change human nature." Admittedly, we can't change God's physical laws, but by understanding His laws we can and we have changed the face of the earth quite remarkably. In my lifetime, for example, through an understanding of natural laws, we have built skyscrapers, driven engines hundreds of miles an hour, bred faster horses, fatter hogs, taken the seeds out of oranges . . . and even split the atom. Some day, by understanding the force of gravity, we shall have a vast new source of energy and power.

I believe this same principle applies to humans. We may not be able to change man's basic instincts, but by understanding the laws of human nature which govern man's actions, we shall be able to channel human urges and drives into more constructive patterns of behavior.

Our Immediate Need
As I look into the next 40 years I envision the development of a vast new science of man. In time this science, through its discovery of uni-

RICHARD DANIEL WEIGLE

Richard Daniel Weigle will be inaugurated 18th president of 254-year old St. John's College tomorrow.

The ceremony will take place at noon under the Liberty Tree and will be witnessed by representatives of more than 200 educational institutions, St. John's alumni and state officials.

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Episcopal Bishop of Maryland, will give the invocation and Richard F. Cleveland, chairman of the College's Board of Visitors and Governors will officially invest Dr. Weigle with the presidency.

Dr. Weigle will be the third president of St. John's since it attracted national attention a dozen years ago by abandoning the elective system and requiring an integrated four-year course in mathematics, languages, and science based on the great books of western civilization. The new president comes to St. John's from the State Dept. where he was executive officer in the Office of Far Eastern Affairs. John W. Owens of the Baltimore Sun will be the principal speaker at the inaugural ceremony.

State Road
Car Accidents
Continue to Mount

Highway accidents in Maryland continue to mount as shown by report of Statistics Division of Maryland State Police for September. A total of 2375 police investigated accidents were reported for the month, an increase of 23% over the same month last year. Of this number 37 were fatal accidents, 744 were personal injury accidents and 1504 were property damage accidents. Thirty nine persons were killed—the same number as for September of last year, and 1104 persons were injured.

Prince George County with eight fatalities led the death procession. Baltimore County was a close second with five. Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Howard, Kent, Queen Anne, Washington and Worcester Counties had no fatal accidents last month.

Thirty-five per cent of the total fatalities for September were pedestrians. Commenting on this feature of the report Capt. W. H. Weber, Field Force Commander of the State Police said:

"A few pedestrian fatalities are due to reckless driving, but a great majority of them are due to the failure of the pedestrian, himself, to observe one or more of the following fundamental rules of pedestrian safety on the highway:

- 1—Be alert to protect yourself—don't depend on luck or the operator of the car.
- 2—Look both ways before you cross the highway—make sure the way is clear.
- 3—Don't walk from between or behind parked cars.
- 4—Walk on the left facing traffic.
- 5—At night, carry a light or wear something white so that the operator can see you before it is too late.
- 6—Don't walk on highway under the influence of alcohol."

versal laws, will enable us both to understand and predict group behavior as well as to direct it toward constructive goals. Let's encourage our colleges to do research in this direction. Let's encourage business to devote a good portion of its resources to this worthy cause. Its findings may well be more world shaking than splitting the atom!

Continuation on Raising Ducks

The brooder house should be 95 degrees during the first days, and gradually lowered to 85 up to 15 days, and 75 degrees up to three weeks. After this time ducklings should be removed to another brooder house where heat should be started at 70 degrees and gradually lowered to 65. When birds are well feathered at six weeks of age, they will no longer need artificial heat and can be transferred to the fattening pens or sheds. The time of moving ought to be done according to one's own judgment. When weather is hot, move them a few days sooner, or when it is cold a few days later than six weeks. Brooder houses as well as fattening sheds need artificial lights all night; it will increase feed intake, secure quicker gain and make the birds more comfortable in the pens.

Feeding
Ducklings make very rapid gains early in life. They can be fed in order to weigh about six pounds in 10 to 12 weeks. Water must be provided deep enough to enable their bills to get into the water in order to get their nostrils clean; but at the same time water facilities must be narrow enough so that ducks can not take a bath in them, which would not only keep the pens too moist, but also be insanitary. It is advisable to feed ducklings for the first three weeks with a wet mash, which is commercially available, and then change gradually to pellets. A good point is to change your ducks to a fattening mash during the last three weeks, but not before they reach six weeks of age. The writer of this column will be glad to furnish you free with a good ration, if you mail a three-cent stamped envelope with your address to Fred Block, Gettysburg, Pa.

Mating
The best way to start, is by buying ducklings from a good source. Breeding stock can be selected from market birds at about eight weeks of age. Only the best developed birds should be used. Ducks should not be kept for the second year, because their laying capacity decreases after the first year. A good duck should provide you with 120 eggs during the hatching season, which begins in December and lasts until May or June. Since ducks lay their eggs in the morning, keep them confined in their laying quarters until 10 a. m. This will save you a lot of trouble hunting for their eggs, which when laid in water, often get wasted. One drake is necessary for every six ducks. You must give your eggs to a hatchery in time, because Pekin ducks are very poor sitters, unless you want to use chicken hens for sitting. However, you will obtain better results by the modern methods of incubators.

Something To Think About
Guests at the Central Hotel in Salisbury think twice about smoking in bed after reading a card placed in the 32 rooms by the management. The card says, in part: "If you must smoke in bed while here, please notify the office so we will know where to ship your remains . . . Business is good here, but we do not have guests to burn . . ."

Erosion, improper drainage, and other forms of land depletion are stealing money from your pocketbook.

Columnist Babson Has Inspiring Personality; Articles in Chronicle

American business has no more inspiring personality than Roger W. Babson, internationally-known business commentator and investment adviser. An outstanding feature of his philosophy has been his life-long insistence on the importance of religion in business.

Born in 1875, reared in an old-fashioned atmosphere of hard work and hustle on a farm in Gloucester, Mr. Babson went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Upon graduating in 1898, he turned instinctively to financial and business activities.

His exertions, however, undermined his health; he contracted tuberculosis and was sent West "as good as dead"! It was while he was convalescing from this dread malady that he worked out some of the possibilities and problems of business statistics.

That was more than 45 years ago. Today his weekly statistical and financial reports are read by thousands of businessmen and his research work is carried on by a large staff of workers.

Mr. Babson founded Babson Institute for men; and, in cooperation with Mrs. Babson, developed Webber College for Women—both nationally-known educational institutions. Here young men and women may concentrate more in the fundamentals and less on the frills of business.

More recently he founded "Utopia College" for men, located in Eureka, Kan., the center of Mr. Babson's "Magic Circle." He is also reviving an interest in Sir Thomas More, who—400 years ago—outlined in his Utopia the only solution to our problems. Only this year he has been active in the establishment of still another medium of service to the public, the Gravity Research Foundation, located at New Boston, N. H.

To millions of newspaper readers, Mr. Babson is best known by his familiar weekly stories on business which appear in more than 420 papers throughout N. America. Of unbounded energy, Roger W. Babson has probably done more than any other man to bring statistics to life, to instill a broader vision in businessmen, and to publicize the ups-and-downs of the business cycle. Mr. Babson's column appears weekly in the Chronicle.

"MUSICAL COMEDY TIME" . . . is television production extravaganza—a brand new full-hour show on NBC-TV (every other Monday evening at 9:30 p.m. est). "Musical Comedy Time" brings to the TV screen some of the finest artists of stage and film in famous Broadway musical comedies. Representative of the treat in store is lovely Jeannette MacDonald who is scheduled to appear in "The Merry Widow," Martha Raye, Wilbur Evans and many other big name stars are booked for "Anything Goes," "The Chocolate Soldier," "Rio Rita," etc. For many of them it will be first appearances before the television cameras.

MORTON DOWNEY'S new Saturday show on CBS, "Refreshment Time," seems sure to give daytime radio a lift, presenting, as it does, an all star cast in a topflight variety format. In addition to the ever popular Downey song sessions, his sponsors have signed up Carmen Mastren's orchestra, the Skylarks as a peppy singing group and the piano playing sensation, Stan Freeman, for regulars on the program. "Refreshment Time" will also feature guest stars with pretty Kitty Kallen on the opening show and others of equal stature to follow. In addition to this radio show, Downey also stars on his own CBS-TV program each Friday night and is one of the most sought after guest stars in the television firmament.

HANDSOME JACK BARRY, one of radio and TV's most popular stars, whose "Life Begins at 80" is seen on ABC TV Tuesday at 10-10.30 p.m. est., came to New York to be an announcer. In no time, Jack was creating his own programs. "Life Begins at 80" on which men and women over 80 discuss personal problems is his most recent. It's lively, human and humorous—and makes good sense. Jack's inspiration for this one is the fact that there are over one million octogenarians in the U.S. Today, demands for Barry's programs and emceeing are so extensive that he has formed a company to handle the many activities.

RADIO'S SINGING HILL-BILLY, Judy Canova, returns to the air this October via NBC Saturday evenings. Judy Canova has many likes and dislikes. Badminton, ping pong, tennis, making movies and cooking have her hearty cooperation while peroxide blondes, people with affected accents and those who let success go to their heads are definitely on the black list.

ELECT GEN. HARTLE to CONGRESS!

Maj. General Russell P. Hartle

Our nation needs men of Major General Hartle's integrity, matured judgment and leadership, writes General Douglas MacArthur from far off Tokyo.

"Your candidacy is good news," says the Supreme Commander of the U. N. forces in the Far East. "Our country needs men of such sound balance, wide experience and proven integrity at this critical period in our existence."

From San Antonio, Texas, General Walter Krueger, another famed leader of World War II, writes: "We need men like you in war and peace and I wish you every success in the coming election."

A vote for Hartle on November 7 will be a vote for effective leadership and accomplishment.

Republican Rally Draws Well

Short speeches by County Republican candidates for office, a talk by Mrs. Emmert R. Bowlus, chairman of the Republican Woman's Club of Frederick, and an address by Dr. Edwin H. Sponseller, a member of the faculty of Hood College, featured an enthusiastic well-attended Republican Rally held at the Fire Hall last Thursday evening.

The candidates for office expressed hearty appreciation of the co-operation received from the voters of Emmitsburg. Mrs. Bowlus told of the school of politics held Monday evening, Oct. 23, in the auditorium of Winchester Hall, Frederick, for which instructors are provided by the Republican National Committee, and Dr. Sponseller emphasized the importance of voting, pointing out the necessity of getting out the vote in every precinct.

Twelve candidates for office and John A. Derr, chairman of the County Republican Committee, were present for the rally. Col. Thomas J. Frailey, chairman of the Emmitsburg Republican Committee, presided. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Homecoming Draws Well

Homecoming at the University of Maryland last Saturday saw some 1600 registered alumni returning to College Park for a full day of activities. The only dark spot during the crisp October day was Maryland's football defeat by North Carolina State, 16 to 13, which more than 25,000 persons witnessed.

Mite Society To Meet

MATHIAS-TROXELL

Miss Isabelle J. Troxell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Troxell of Rocky Ridge, and Kenneth Mathias of near Graceham, were united in marriage last Friday at 7 p. m. in the Mt. Tabor Lutheran Church, Rocky Ridge, by the pastor, Rev. R. S. Poffenberger.

The double ring ceremony of the Lutheran Church was used and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bride selected Miss Hazel Keilholtz as her maid of honor, and the bridegroom his brother, Paul, to be best man.

The bride wore a beige dress with brown accessories and the bridesmaid was dressed in grey with blue accessories. The couple left immediately on a wedding trip to the south. They will reside on their own recently-purchased farm near Rocky Ridge.

The only way to improve the human race is to see that the next generation is improved.
