BY ABIGAIL

Dear Abigail—

Patriotic citizens were astounded last week at a despicably shameful assertion that their Memorial Service conducted for their honored dead on Armistice Day was a "pagan ceremony."

This individual asks if those who died did so because "they wished to have their names engraved on bronze plaques."

No, they certainly did not! But if the commemoration of their honor and of their death is something upon which we look with shame and disgust, then the grief of our war widows is idle fancy, the tears of our Gold Star Mothers are just a sham, and the orphaned children are to be forgotten, since their father committed the folly of dying on the field of honor!

The author of the letter, who prefers to sink in the shadows of anonymity, further asks if "we, the suffering, the living," should be imposed upon to remember the glory of the war dead. A soldier carrying the banner of his people into the blood of battle asks only to live. If he dies, it would be an ungrateful people indeed who would not raise a hand to give reverent praise to his honor and for his sacrifice.

I cannot condone the statement which casts ridicule upon those who group together in solemn tribute to the dead. I cannot allow to go unchallenged the implication that our beloved clergymen participated in a "pagan ceremony," and I will not agree that a display of flags, appropriate words by a prominent citizen and a military salute to our departed heroes, is not an appropriate Armistice Day ceremony.

This anonymous person refers glibly to Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. But was not that delivered upon an occasion which so closely parallels the one which he so hatefully disputed?

It was a memorial service for the men of war who had marched with silent footsteps beyond the sunset.

Patriotic citizens, I am sure, do not wish to be included in the category referred to as "We, the suffering, the living." The author of the quotation does not elaborate upon these "sufferings" and his failure to sign his name excludes him from any sympathy he might have garnered.

When men were giving "their last full measure of devotion" it was apparently matched by others who gave their last full measure of apathy.

Public observance of our service to the hallowed memory of our war dead will continue. To those who find it disgusting, to those who profane the flag of our country by neglectful disrespect, to those who would end the ceremonial reverence of our national Memorial holidays, I can only say their remarks classify themselves more so than those of whom they speak.

The "Over-the-Tea-Cups" Club of Emmitsburg gave a birthday dinner party at the Green Parrot Tea Room Monday evening in honor of three members, Mrs. J. W. Houser, Miss Rhoda Gillelan, and Mrs. John A. O'Donoghue.

Those present were Mrs. A. L. Leary, Mrs. Thomas J. Frailey, Ann Codori, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Harry Boyle, Mrs. Charles McNair, Mrs. Frank Butler and the guests of honor.

Michael Boyle spent Thanksgiving holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boyle, in Pittsburg. Mike arrived just in time for Pittsburg's heaviest snow in the history of the city and was delayed a few days returning to his home here.

NEW LAW REQUIRES PERMIT FOR SANITATION

Building permits for construction in the county in the future will be issued only after applicants have cleared their plans to water supply and sewage disposal units with the Health Dept. Such permits must be secured before construction begins.

This strict interpretation of a year-old State Board of Health regulation which carries the force of law, was adopted this week in a conference of the Board of County Commissioners, Supervisor of Assessments A. Lamar Barrick and Dr. Carroll E. Easterday, health officer. The session was participated in by U. Grant Hooper, president of the Board of County Commissioners, and Samuel H. Young and Robert Rhoderick, board members.

"Many people are unaware of the necessity of securing permits for building of all kinds in the county," a spokesman for the group said. "In the past it has been the habit of some people to get construction well under way before applying to the Supervisor of Assessments for a permit. On his referral, the builder then has consulted the Health Dept. about sewage disposal and water supply plans, only to find that work already done is not acceptable under good sanitary principles. A considerable hardship has been worked on many people, and a most unsatisfactory situation has resulted."

In Oct., 1949, a State Board of Health regulation became effective in Frederick County. It makes mandatory securing a building permit before ground is broken for any kind of construction, and this provision will be interpreted strictly in the future, it was decided at the joint conference Tuesday morning.

The regulation applies to the entire county outside the city of Frederick and such other communities as have available water and sewer systems. The Health Dept. has received numerous complaints recently of improper sewage disposal that contaminates water supplies, Dr. Easterday said, and the health of the county demands tightening supervision of building so that cess pools and septic tanks will be placed where they do not menace the public.

DR. A. A. MARTIN SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

Dr. Adrian Arthur Martin, well-known veterinarian and native of Union City, Tenn., died last Saturday at 12:45 p. m. at his home on W. Main St., Emmitsburg, after an extended illness. He had been ill since last July 4. He was 62 years of age.

A resident of Emmitsburg for the past 32 years, Dr. Martin was well-known in neighboring Pennsylvania communities as well as in this section.

He was a member of the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church, which he served as an elder and president of the board of trustees. He was a member of the A. F. and A. Masons, No. 20, Emmitsburg.

He was a son of the late Burrell and Anna Lee Verhine Martin and is survived by his wife; a son, Dr. James Martin, Gettysburg, Pa.; a brother, B. David Martin, and two sisters, Mrs. Hazel E. Palmer and Miss Ima P. Martin, all of Emmitsburg, and a granddaughter and nephew.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Emmitsburg Presbyterian Church with the minister, Rev. Charles Owen, officiating, assisted by Rev. Philip Bower. The choir sang "Abide with Me" and "Faith of Our Fathers." The Rev. Owen selected the text from 2nd Samuel, Chapter three and Verse 38: "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel."

The minister remarked in the introduction that these ancient words were fulfilled today in the death of Dr. Martin. He said Dr. Martin was "a prince in the community, where people have remarked that they could always depend upon him when they needed him. He was a prince in the church where he was a faithful and capable elder for 28 years and a trustee for 21 years."

The pallbearers were J. L. Nester, Aaron Adams, Andrew Eyster, James Hays Sr., Byron Stall and Thomas Eperon. Interment was made in Mountain View Cemetery, Emmitsburg. The Masons of the Emmitsburg Tyrian Lodge, No. 205, attended the funeral in a body and conducted graveside services.

S. L. Allison was the funeral director.

FROM A SUBSCRIBER

From San Rafael, Calif., comes this fine letter to our desk this week.

"I read the Chronicle from cover to cover and then another thorough reading to make sure I absorbed everything.

Abigail is my favorite columnist. Abigail is wide awake and I would say, in a great measure, responsible, directly or indirectly for Emmitsburg being the progressive little city it is.

Very best wishes to you, editor and staff and to all my friends in Emmitsburg."

Sincerely,
Mark Harting

Miss Paula Bowers spent the Thanksgiving holidays at her home near St. Anthony's. She returned Sunday to the School for the Blind at Overlea, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. John "Bud" Warren purchased the Waganam property on W. Main St. last week.

Sister to Local Woman Is Killed In Crash

Mrs. Helen M. Bream Irwin, 40, wife of Dr. George W. Irwin and Seattle, Wash., and sister to Mrs. D. L. Beagle, Emmitsburg, was instantly killed in an automobile crash in the fog a mile from her home Saturday night about 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Irwin, also sister to Glenn L. Bream, Gettysburg merchant, was fatally hurt when she was thrown from an automobile being driven by her husband as the car crashed head-on on a curve with another car occupied by three young men, two of them teen-agers. Two of the boys died instantly, the third is in critical condition.

Dr. Irwin, a chiropractor, is critically hurt but has returned home from the hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Irwin had been spending the evening with friends about six miles from Seattle and were en route home when the tragedy occurred. Mrs. Irwin was crushed when she was thrown clear of her own car and was run over by the other machine. Police reported the youths' car missed the curve completely and crashed head-on into the Irwin machine.

Mrs. Irwin was a chiropractor, having been graduated from the Palmer School at Davenport, Ia. Dr. and Mrs. Irwin were married in 1942 and visited here in August of this year.

Surviving in addition to her husband, mother and brother are these sisters: Mrs. D. L. Beagle, Emmitsburg and Mrs. Frederick Justin, Philadelphia.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Seattle, where interment was made.

Rickards Answers To Divorce Suit

Answering his wife's petition for alimony and counsel fees, Joseph M. Rickards, Frederick used car dealer, said in Equity Court that she has incomes in excess of $8000 a year.

Rickards recently sued Mrs. Pyllis K. Rickards, Cleveland, O., for divorce. She followed by entering the petition for alimony and counsel fees. The Court passed an order requiring Rickards to pay $250 counsel fee for his wife's attorneys and $35 a week alimony during the continuance of the suit unless cause to the contrary was shown.

The answer of Rickards, through his attorney, Richard E. Zimmerman, requests dismissal of his wife's petition. It says that his wife has income in excess of $8000 annually from stock she owns in the Pittsburgh Wire Steel and Tool Co. and the Beaver Valley Hotel Corp., both of which have paid dividends annually for years.

She also receives, he said, $150 monthly from a former husband, George Kohler, for the support of two children.

Rickards said that at various times during the last 12 months he has given his wife in excess of $1000 toward purchase of groceries, payment of maid, and money for personal use in addition to a sum in excess of $3000 paid her on a note for money she advanced him.

Because of the refusal of his wife to cooperate with him, he continues, he was forced to dispose of his business which he formerly operated as Packard distributor at great personal loss.

After disposition of this business in December, 1949, he was without means of livelihood for some months and while now engaged in selling used cars, is showing no net profit, he says.

He admits that he rents this property at Braddock Heights for $145 a month but says he was forced to do so because of poor financial condition and all the money received therefrom is needed for taxes, interest on loan on the property and general upkeep. He denies his wife's claim that he has $200 a week income and says he has no net weekly income, adding he has obligated himself to such an extent that he is unable to borrow any more funds for business, personal use or for his wife.

He says he is also legally obligated to support a minor child by a former marriage and has been unable to make payments recently.

High School Contract Let To Taneytown Firm

Bids for the construction of an addition to the Emmitsburg school were opened at noon Wednesday by the Board of Education and the Allen F. Feesser Co. of Taneytown submitted the low estimate of $167,365. This bid includes all the work with the exception of electrical wiring, fixtures and installation.

Other bids submitted were L. J. Keller and Sons of Jefferson, total bid of $229,000; W. Harley Miller, Martinsburg, W. Va., total bid of $205,359; W. R. Oyer of Waynesboro, Pa., total bid of $205,950.

Partial bids were submitted by Conway's Valley Electric Co., of Frederick, electrical work, fixtures, and installation, $19,682; C. and M. Appliance Co., Union Bridge, total electrical work, fixtures, and installation, $18,500, and the Sheris Co., of Washington, kitchen equipment, $5200.

The addition to the school, which includes both elementary and high school grades, will consist of an auditorium-gymnasium with showerrooms, cafeteria, and one classroom.

The members of the board, prior to the opening of the bids, discussed the budget for the county school system for the coming calendar year. No final decisions were made, Eugene W. Pruitt, superintendent of schools, announced.

Two of the County Commissioners, U. Grant Hooper and Samuel H. Young, both of whom were re-elected, were present at the opening. Also present were Paul H. Kea, of Kea Associates, architects of the school, and James Posey of Posey and Associates, mechanical engineers for the schools, and representatives of contractors submitting bids.

P-TA To Hold Series of Dances

President George L. Wilhide presided at the November meeting of the Emmitsburg High School PTA held Wednesday evening in the auditorium of the local public school.

George Martin, Emmitsburg representative on the County School Board reported that the contract for the new addition to the school has been let.

The idea of monthly dances to be sponsored by the PTA received favorable action by the club. The president will appoint a committee to conduct these affairs. $115 was reported from the food and rummage sale held recently.

Home room mothers were appointed for the year. A panel discussion followed the business part of the meeting. A number of the teachers and parents discussed "Some Present Day Procedures in Education." Miss Edna Stall discussed "Difficulties Encountered in Writing Numbers." In order to assist the parents in understanding these procedures, Mrs. George Wilhide aided the teacher by asking questions. Miss Helen Martin, assisted by George Martin, talked on "Reading on the Child's Level." It was explained that in each grade there are children of varying degrees of ability.

Mrs. Mary Scott, assisted by Mrs. Andrew R. Eyster explained the CORE program. Mrs. Mary Hoke spoke about the Junior Scholastic, a weekly newspaper, used in the ninth grade CORE class. Mrs. Glenn Springer assisted in this discussion. Eugene Wood, shop teacher, aided by Weldon B. Shank, presented a talk on the present objectives of the industrial arts program, stating that originality and skills are essentially important in this field, but where these do not exist, the child must develop what assets he has.

Mrs. Hazel Caldwell, English teacher, acted as moderator for the panel discussion. The next session of the PTA will be held Dec. 20. The Emmitsburg Grange will unite with the organization for this meeting. The school's Christmas program, under direction of Mr. Janicke and Mrs. Caldwell, will be given at the December meeting. A social time, with refreshments, was held after the meeting.

LIONS CLUB CELEBRATES CHARTER NIGHT

The Emmitsburg Lions Club held its annual charter and ladies night meeting Monday at 6:30 p. m. at the Lutheran Parish Hall with 30 members present and 20 ladies as guests.

W. T. Brown, Joseph Foltz, Guy Hoffmaster and Ralph McCauley were guests from the Hagerstown club.

President B. J. Eckenrode presided and Dr. John J. Dillon acted as master of ceremonies. Prof. William S. Sterbinsky served as pianist and led the group in singing. After the roast turkey dinner, a special program arranged by the program committee was given.

The Rev. Fr. Michael J. O'Brien, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, spoke on the subject "Inside U. S. A." He stressed the point that all should be proud to be Americans and should give serious thought to the "wonderfulness" of freedom in this country. He emphasized the duty and necessity to pray and work to keep what Americans enjoy.

"Communism is attempting to establish itself in small towns and communities all over our country," Fr. O'Brien said. "An attempt was made recently to establish a cell of communism here in Emmitsburg. If we as individuals, and if small towns and communities are important for communism, they are also important to the welfare and preservation of America with all that it is, the greatest country and the greatest people in the world."

The barber shop quartet from Mt. St. Mary's College, composed of Steve Burke, Joe Kinder, Al Doty, and Venice Padula, entertained with several selections. Miss Louise Hausenouer of St. Joseph's College, gave a number of piano selections, including waltz by Grieg, Chopin's Minuet Waltz and "Deep Purple."

The Lions Club quartet composed of C. G. Frailey, Clarence Hahn, Lumen Norris, and Ralph McDonnell also sang. Topping off the program, Magician George Callan of Mt. St. Mary's College entertained with a half-hour show. He was assisted by Miss Teresa Houck.

With the announcement that the charter night closed the 21st year of the Emmitsburg Club's existence and that five charter members were present, the toastmaster turned the meeting back to the president.

The five charter members were Ward Kerrigan, first president; C. G. Frailey, first vice president; George Wilhide, first secretary; E. R. Shriver and Charles Troxell. C. A. Harner, Ralph Sperry and Dr. W. R. Cadle, charter members, are still active members of the club.

Robert Daugherty, chairman of the program committee, announced that the next meeting, on Monday, Dec. 11, will be the annual Christmas party.

GOP TO CLAIM MOST OF COUNTY OFFICES

The names of a number of Republicans who have been prominently identified with the party are being mentioned in well-informed circles in Frederick as possible appointees to offices by Governor-elect Theodore R. McKeldin, when he sends his "green bag" to the General Assembly early next year.

Reliable information indicates that a number of applications have already been made to the County Republican State Central Committee and that others may be expected. There is nothing to indicate any final decisions on recommendations as yet.

Four lawyers are rumored as the principal possibilities for the trial magistrate positions in Frederick. They are Walter E. Sinn, a former magistrate in the Nice administration and a former State's Attorney; Wilbur F. Sheffield, Jr., an unsuccessful primary candidate for State's Attorney; M. Holmes Fout, who barely lost out in the election for House of Delegates, and H. Reese Shoemaker Jr., who took an active part in both the winning campaigns of the GOP this year—municipal election and general election.

The appointees will succeed Alton Y. Bennett and Manuel M. Weinberg, magistrates, and Edward J. Smith, substitute magistrate, whose terms expire June 1.

Also open to attorneys, it can be expected, will be the positions of attorney to the County License Commissioner and attorney to the Board of Election Supervisors, which undoubtedly will be filled by Republicans, as well as the Attorney to the Board of County Commissioners, a post now held by Mr. Sinn.

Quite a few persons are being mentioned for the position of license commissioner, now held by G. Cleveland Trout, whose term also expires in June. Among those being mentioned are Gail L. Cutshall of Woodsboro, a member of the Board of Election Supervisors in the Nice administration; former County Commissioner Abraham H. Derr, Walter C. Jones, an unsuccessful Republican candidate for Orphans' Court in the recent election, and Edward I. Myers, Frederick.

A number of Republicans, among them Miss Ruth Moberly, Republican member of the present Board of Election Supervisors, are being mentioned for appointment to this office. Two Republicans and one Democrat will be named.

It is rumored that several Brunswick residents have expressed interest in the trial magistrate position there which is now held by Howard M. Jones. It is considered likely that recommendations from GOP district committees regarding the Brunswick, Thurmont, and Emmitsburg magistrate positions will be asked.

Local Man Attending Mexican College

Joseph Ward Kerrigan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Kerrigan, 100 E. Main St., is in Mexico, D. F., where he is majoring in economics at Mexico City College, a liberal arts American college, stressing international understanding.

The majority of the students come from the U. S. and broaden their viewpoints through association with a faculty drawn from Europe, the U. S., and Latin America and a student body from such diverse places as Holland, Greece, Sweden, Hawaii, Austria, China, Spain, Scotland and South Africa. Students learn much of the language and customs of the country by taking advantage of the college housing service which places them in the homes of Mexican families, or aids them in locating apartments or boarding houses.

Young Kerrigan, a graduate of Emmitsburg High School, served with the Marine Corps for nearly three years during World War II, and later studied at Mt. St. Mary's College. He is accompanied in Mexico by his wife, Mrs. Mary Louise Kerrigan.

Poor Pigments Doom Art

Art experts in Paris are predicting that the 20th Century paintings now hanging in famous galleries throughout the world will in 100 years time be nothing but a maze of hideous black cracks. Their forecast is based on the poor pigment used in the paint.

Roads and Schools Receive Half Of State's Receipts

ANNAPOLIS (Special) — More than half of Maryland's receipts in the 1950 fiscal year were spent on roads and schools.

At the same time the retail sales, income and motor fuels taxes brought in more than half of the revenue received by the State. These facts were reported this week by J. Millard Tawes, State Comptroller, in the annual report to the General Assembly. Along with the report, the comptroller submitted a new estimate of the general fund surplus expected on June 30, 1951. This figure was set at $4,057,795.

The meat of the Comptroller's Annual Report was contained in two "pie" drawings showing how the State's money came and went.

Tax receipts totaled $129,041,404. Here's where they came from: Retail sales, 22 per cent; income taxes, 22.26 per cent; motor fuel tax, 17.91 per cent; motor vehicle fees, 15.66 per cent; alcoholic beverage taxes, 4.55 per cent; horse racing, 3.62 per cent; franchises, 3.58 per cent; real and personal property, 3.63 per cent; insurance companies, 3.16 per cent; inheritance, 2.07 per cent; and others, 1.57 per cent.

Total expenses were $183,307,109. Here's where they went: Roads, 30.10 per cent; schools, 23.27 per cent; conservation, 1.11 per cent; aid to institutions, 1.42 per cent; reform and correctional institutions, 1.85 per cent; protection of persons and property, 1.93 per cent; legislative, executive, administrative, and judicial, 3.92 per cent; maintenance of institutions for mental diseases and feeble minded, 4.06 per cent; unemployment compensation board, state accident revolving funds, 4.27 per cent; debt service, 4.81 per cent; hospitals and public health, 4.88 per cent; land, buildings and equipment, 5.02 per cent; counties, cities and towns, 6.04 per cent; public assistance, 7.32 per cent.

Polio Situation Becoming Acute, State Advisor Says

The polio situation today is so serious that disaster threatens thousands of patients, Mrs. J. Wilmer Cronin, Maryland Advisor on Women's Activities of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis declared this week. Returning from a national conference of women leaders of the March of Dimes organization in New York City, Mrs. Cronin, whose home is in Aberdeen, reported that the public must be told the full story of rising polio's serious impact on the economy of the only voluntary organization that offers assistance for individual patient care on a national scale.

Alton Y. Bennett has been named chairman for Frederick County March of Dimes for 1951. "Three straight years of heavy polio outbreaks in all parts of the nation have wiped out epidemic aid funds," Mrs. Cronin said. "We shall have to collect $50 million in the March of Dimes in January to be able to continue care for thousands of patients whose uphill struggle for rehabilitation must go on in 1951, plus whatever new numbers of patients the new year brings and to continue scientific research and professional education."

Ends Long Service With C. & P. Co.

JOHN A. REMON

John A. Remon, vice president of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., retired from active service this week to end a 41-year career in the industry.

Mr. Remon, a native of Salem, Mass., graduated from Worcester Polytechnic Institute in 1909. He began his career the same year with the Long Lines traffic department of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Baltimore.

In 1925, Mr. Remon joined the C. & P. companies and in 1926 was appointed general traffic manager of the four companies operating in Washington, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. After serving in positions of increasing responsibility he was elected vice president-operations and director of the four companies in 1936. He served as operating vice president for 10 years and since then has continued as vice president assisting the president on matters of general operating and engineering policy.

Mrs. Rose Eckenrode, Littlestown, spent the week-end with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Laurence Orndorff.

encouraging, there is no optimism with regard to "light" evidence of polio in the immediate future, Mrs. Cronin said. Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, Foundation medical director, and four eminent scientists who spoke at the Conference, made it clear that the people of all states must be prepared for annual incidence of at least 25,000 cases until a polio preventive is found, she stated. "The people of Maryland must become intensely aware of the seriousness of the situation," she continued. "All the good work that has been done, both in hospitals and scientific laboratories, stands in danger of being curtailed unless we provide enough money to cope with a much bigger problem in the years ahead."

Helping Hand

When Cleave Strow, 66, of Hastings, Mich., had trouble starting his car the other morning, Neighbor Leonard L. Wiley was glad to help out with a push. In fact, he pushed Strow's car right over an embankment, and his own went tumbling after it.

HOMEMAKERS' CORNER

Let's Talk Turkey

Holiday time is turkey time—so naturally you'll want to know how the home economic specialists advise you to prepare that festive bird. First of all, select a young, well-fattened turkey. You'll find it much better eating than an ancient, well-toughened bird.

You may prepare the stuffing ahead of time, but don't stuff your turkey until you get ready to roast him. It's best to stuff the bird loosely and to use bread a few days old. A one-pound loaf of white bread makes two quarts or more of big crumbs. The amount you'll need, of course, depends on the size of the turkey and the number of ingredients you put in the stuffing. A ready-to-cook, nine to 12-pound bird will take from two to three quarts of bread crumbs while a 12 to 15-pound turkey will take from three to four quarts of crumbs.

If you want to cook the whole turkey evenly, start it on one side, then turn it to the other side, and finally to the back. Medium-sized birds should be turned about once every hour and big turkeys need turning about once every hour and a half. At each turning baste the turkey with pan drippings.

Roasting times vary with the size of the turkey. Here are some good roasting times if you're cooking your turkey in a low open pan. A ready-to-cook turkey weighing from five to nine pounds will take from two and one-half to three hours in an oven set at 325 degrees F. A ready-to-cook turkey weighing from 16 to 21 pounds, however, will take from four and one-half to six hours in an oven set at 300 degrees F. You'll be able to tell when the bird is done by moving its joints—if they move easily your turkey is ready.

When you and the other womenfolk gather in the kitchen to wash the dishes soiled by the holiday meal, here's a tip you'll want to remember. Wash dishes or utensils with egg or starch mixtures in cold water then in hot water.

The waters of the Bermejo River in Paraguay were once reputed to give one an unwrinkled old age.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Sec. of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan lists preparedness steps which call for individual action. He points out that a great amount of legislation and national mobilization is called for, but adds, "the individual farmer can do many things on his own initiative."

"He can keep his machinery, buildings, and all other productive facilities in condition for efficient use. He can remove fire and accident hazards that may be costly in terms of life, health, and production. He can control insects, rodents, and other pests that destroy crops in the fields or in storage."

"He can use the fall season for intensive soil-improvement work. In the nation as a whole, our grasslands are producing much less than they are capable of producing. This fact represents a real challenge to farmers."

"Beyond all this, the task for farmers is to gear their production to the nation's needs—to produce the right commodities in the right amounts. And in this the farmer properly expects guidance."

"I assure you that the Dept. of Agriculture will do its utmost to provide farmers with the facts they need in planning their production. We will also use the programs that are available to encourage the necessary types of production."

Seed Available
The 1950 crop of red clover seed was the largest ever produced in this country. A total yield of 110 million pounds is anticipated in contrast to a crop average of around 81 million pounds.

"This means that there is plenty of red clover seed available for farmers wishing to carry out various practices under our agricultural conservation program," states Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

Distribution of Surplus Stocks
The FMA of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reported this week that requests by state distributing agencies for donations of Commodity Credit Corp. surplus foods for distribution to eligible recipients in the U. S., under Section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949 and Public Law 471, totaled nearly 270 million pounds through Oct. 31, 1950. Donations to private welfare organizations for foreign relief purposes, through the same date, totaled nearly 74 million pounds.

Maryland Distribution
The October report, according to Mr. Blandford, shows that Maryland institutions received 38,016 pounds of creamery butter, 35,700 pounds of natural cheddar cheese, 283,000 pounds of Irish potatoes, 137,556 pounds of canned cranberry sauce, 49,744 pounds frozen turkey, 4,952 gallons concentrated orange juice and 51,300 pounds of canned tomatoes. More than 72,260 school children were among the recipients of these goods in Maryland as were 24,637 persons in various welfare groups.

Under Section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949, to prevent waste through deterioration or spoilage of commodities acquired by CCC in price-support operations, the Corporation makes these commodities available free, at point of storage, to the following, in the priority named: School-lunch programs, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Federal, state and local public welfare organizations for assistance of needy persons; second, to private welfare organizations for assistance of needy persons within the U. S., and third, to private welfare organizations for assistance of needy persons outside the U. S. Under Public Law 471, transportation costs were paid by the Corporation on 1949 crop potatoes, under certain conditions, up to June 30, 1950.

Distribution is made by CCC on the basis of requests received, and so far it has been possible to fill all requests from eligible agencies. Orders for distribution to domestic outlets through Oct. 31, included eight million pounds of non-fat dried milk solids, 3.2 million pounds of dried eggs, 218 million pounds of potatoes, 23 million pounds of butter, and 13 million pounds of cheese.

Potatoes have been available for domestic distribution since mid-January 1950, dried eggs and non-fat dried milk solids since early February, and butter and cheese were made available in April.

and calcium supplement and they ought to have four square feet of floor space. Turn lights on after three weeks, feed laying mash, and if possible green succulent feed at the rate of 4 lbs. per 100 hens. Yellow carrots are excellent help to shorten your birds' molting time. There should be a sufficient feeding space of at least 25 feet for 100 hens each. Use your best method of feeding, because all heavy laying birds will have lost weight during their production year.

HEALTH COLUMN

COLDS

Although colds strike at any time of the year, the fall and winter months are usually referred to as the "cold season" because that is the time when colds seem to strike most frequently and with greatest vigor.

The common cold is one of the most contagious of all diseases. People tend to treat a cold lightly, probably because it is so common. But those who have colds are actually ill. The discomfort of running noses, coughs, and sneezes is only a part of the picture. The person who has a cold, particularly one that hangs on, suffers from loss of appetite, sometimes loss of sleep, and often temporary loss of popularity. Despite the fact that few take a cold seriously, no one wants to catch a cold and the cold sufferer is usually avoided.

The cold is caused by a virus, or germ, which is so small that it cannot be seen under an ordinary microscope. Colds are spread from person to person, usually by someone who has a cold and sprays his cold germs into the air by sneezing and coughing. We could cut down on the incidence of colds—and on the inestimable lost hours of work and school they cost each year—if everyone were careful to cover his coughs and sneezes with handkerchiefs or tissues.

A cold should never be neglected. No one ever died of a cold, but frequently an untreated or unchecked cold leads to such serious illnesses as pneumonia, pleurisy, tonsillitis, and other infections of the upper respiratory tract. Even if it does not cause complications, it must be remembered that the longer a cold hangs on, the weaker the body becomes and the more susceptible it is to other, more serious illnesses.

Particularly during the "cold season," we should try to keep up our resistance to all illnesses, including colds, by proper diet, rest and sleep. It is also wise to avoid anyone who is suffering from a cold.

However, if a cold does strike, the best way to fight it is to stay at home, preferably in bed. If this is not practical, the cold victim should at least see to it that he gets plenty of rest and sleep and that he protects his associates, as much as possible, by covering his coughs and sneezes.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Jordan and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Starner and daughter, were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Topper of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Seltzer and children, of Baltimore, visited Thanksgiving day with John M. Roddy, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shorb.

Dinner guests Thanksgiving Day of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Sharer were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conor, Hagerstown, and Frank W. Weant.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Frazer and children, of Gettysburg, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Frazer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wetzel, near St. Anthony's.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Houser spent the Thanksgiving holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Dutton, Wayne, Pa.

Managing Molting Hens

In spite of the fact that molting is a natural characteristic of the hen, the time and length of it can be influenced by management and feeding. It depends on the art of the poultryman to take advantage of this wonder. Because it is extremely difficult to manage flocks which partly molt and partly lay, it is best to force the molt as soon as the laying percentage is too slow in order of being profitable.

The sudden turning off of regular lights, the darkening of the molting quarters for three days and the elimination of mash will cause all non-molters to molt. Keep up the procedure to force molt of all your birds, which will be accomplished when your egg production is near zero, and it usually will take 10 to 14 days. If your birds molt when weather is frigid and they shed their feathers rapidly, the chance may be that it takes them longer to come back into production. They may catch colds easily and too much energy will be needed for keeping warm, and not sufficient for replacing their plumage. It should be kept in mind, that molting birds need protein and minerals just as urgently for molting as for laying. Both ingredients are necessary to "make feathers."

The molting hen will need more bran than mash to regain lost weight, but mash at the ration of 1-to-4 should be provided as soon as all birds are in molt. Grain should contain oats at the proportion of 1-to-3 parts of other grains. The grain needs vitamin, containing oil, 400D and 1000A. The amount of oil should be 1/2 pint for every 100 lbs. of grain, and have no bran mixed in this ration. Keep the birds strictly confined during the three week period, leaving them with grit

LOOKING AHEAD
BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President—Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

People Are Waking Up

Month by month, week by week the American people are becoming better informed on the facts about government and economics which have such a great bearing on their everyday lives and their future. For the last 20 years the American system of free enterprise has been attacked and slyly undermined by a vast army of Left-wing crusaders. It was only a few years ago that supporters of the system finally became sufficiently stirred up to begin, in impressive numbers, to fight back. The telling weapon has been the truth.

The accumulating evidence today strongly indicates that the national trend away from the basic American principles has been halted, though by no means stamped out. For the past two years while traveling in the country lecturing and conducting our Harding College Freedom Forums, I've observed the mounting reaction as the truth began to reach the American people—farm people at the grass roots, home owners in small town America, the men and women working in industries and businesses, and the people of a thousand-and-one callings in our great metropolitan centers. Wherever the free enterprise facts were being driven home, they were beating down the half-truths and falsehoods of the Left-wingers.

Signs Were Apparent

The results began to be of measurable size about a year and a half ago. They were so encouraging that a report was made to the readers of "Looking Ahead" on Feb. 15. "In the past year or so," I wrote, "there has been an awakening of significant proportions. Millions of Americans are beginning to bestir themselves and squarely face the responsibilities of citizenship.

"The awakening isn't sufficiently widespread to be decisive—to halt the leftward trend—but, to me," I reported in the February column, "it is immensely encouraging." Since that column was written the continuing stream of facts—concerning the American economic system, and the falsehood of Leftwing propaganda—has expanded the area of informed public opinion.

Big Job Ahead

A survey made four years ago by the painstaking Psychological Corp. revealed that only 15 per cent of the American people knew that corporation profits averaged up, nationwide, to considerable less than 10 cents on each dollar of sales. Eighteen per cent thought it exceeded 50 cents on the dollar, 29 per cent thought it ranged between 20 cents and 50 cents. But the same survey this year found almost twice as many people correctly informed on the profit facts. That's significant. And yet, these correctly informed people amounted to only 22 per cent of the total adult population. The job of informing the people on economic facts obviously has just begun.

The facts about profits are important. The public's understanding of them constitutes an important barometer on the success or failure of the Leftwing propaganda and the now substantial efforts being put forth on behalf of American economics education. The Left-wingers want to eliminate private business ownership, place everything in the hands of the all-powerful State. So they try to create resentment, and finally hate, against the business community. Using false and twisted statistics, they've convinced millions of uninformed people that business and corporation profits are exorbitant, sky high.

The Facts

The average profit on all business during the depression and recovery years, 1930-1950, was less than two cents on the sales dollar. Government statistics show the average corporation profit for the 10-year period 1940-50 was 4 1/2 cents on each sales dollar; and 5 1-3 cents for the single year 1949. Corporation profits in 1949 amounted to 9.1 per cent of the national income, while the total national wages and sal-

SURVIVAL UNDER ATOMIC ATTACK

(Second of a Series)

What About Blast?

Even if you have only a second's warning, there is one important thing you can do to lessen your chances of injury by blast: Fall flat on your face.

More than half of all wounds are the result of being bodily tossed about or being struck by falling and flying objects. If you lie down flat, you are least likely to be thrown about. If you have time to pick a good spot, there is less chance of your being struck by flying glass and other things.

If you are inside a building, the best place to flatten out is close against the cellar wall. If you haven't time to get down aries accounted for 63.7 per cent.

Over the years, the American economic system, with its profit motive and its supply and demand balance wheel, has proved to be the most workable the most productive and the most equitable vehicle for the distribution of a nation's wealth ever created on this earth. The profit motive is to be found in wholesome perspective in every phase of our national life. Make a resolution today to learn more about profits and their indispensable function in our American society.

there, lie down along an inside wall, or duck under a bed or table. But don't pick a spot right opposite the windows or you are almost sure to be pelted with shattered glass.

If caught out-of-doors, either drop down alongside the base of a good substantial building—avoid flimsy, wooden ones likely to be blown over on top of you—or else jump in any handy ditch or gutter.

When you fall flat to protect yourself from a bombing, don't look up to see what is coming. Even during the daylight hours, the flash from a bursting A-bomb can cause several moments of blindness, if you're facing that way. To prevent it, bury your face in your arms and hold it there for 10 or 12 seconds after the explosion. That will also help keep flying glass and other things out of your eyes.

What About Burns?

Flash burns from the A-bomb's light and heat caused about 30 per cent of the injuries at Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Near the center of the burst the burns are often fatal. People may be seriously burned more than a mile away, while the heat can be felt on the bare face and hands at four or five miles.

To prevent flash burns, try to find a shelter where there is a wall, a high bank or some other object between you and the bursting bomb. You can expect that the bomber will aim for the city's biggest collection of industrial buildings.

A little bit of solid material will provide flash protection even close to the explosion. Farther out, the thinnest sort of thing—even cotton cloth—will often do the trick.

If you work in the open, always wear full-length, loose-fitting, light-colored clothes in time of emergency. Never go around with your sleeves rolled up. Always wear a hat—the brim may save you a serious face burn.

What About Radioactivity?

In all stories about atomic weapons, there is a great deal about radioactivity.

Radioactivity is the only way—besides size—in which the effects of A or H bombs are different from ordinary bombs. But, with the exception of underwater or ground explosions, the radioactivity from atomic bursts is much less to be feared than blast and heat.

Radioactivity is not new or mysterious. In the form of cosmic rays from the sky, all of us have been continually bombarded by radiation every hour and day of our lives. We all have also breathed and eaten very small amounts of radio-active materials without even knowing it. For over half a century, doctors and scientists have experimented and worked with X-rays and other penetrating forms of energy. Because of all this experience, we actually know much more about radioactivity and what it does to people than we know about infantile paralysis, colds, or some other common diseases.

It is easy to understand how radioactivity works if we think of how sunlight behaves.

In the northern part of the world, winter's slanting sun rays seldom cause sunburn, but the hotter rays of the summer sun often do. Still, just a few moments in the midsummer sun will not give you a tan or sunburn. You have to stay in its hot rays for some time before you get a burn. What's more, bad sunburn on just the face and hands may hurt, but it won't seriously harm you. On the other hand, if it covers your whole body, it can make you very sick, or sometimes even cause death.

In the same way, the harm that can come to you from radioactivity will depend on the power of the rays and particles that strike you, upon the length of time you are exposed to them, and on how much of your body is exposed.

Next week's issue of the Chronicle will include the third of a series.)

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Dec. 1—Although I have written about housing more than once recently, a number of readers are asking me to tell them specifically what I think about building new homes now in view of the recent Federal Reserve cut back of credit privileges.

Roger W. Babson

Don't Let High Prices Scare You
Readers are writing me that they would like to build a home, but they are not large wage earners and prices are now so high that they are afraid to act. My answer to these people is that it is OK to build now if you want a home to live in (not to rent). Also, if you can pay at least one-quarter down with a 15-year payment plan on the balance even although it does cost a lot to build a new home today with present high prices of building materials and labor.

Prices of labor and most materials, however, are not going to come down very soon. Those who decide to postpone building their new home until prices adjust themselves to something like pre-war values, will be obliged to wait a long time. This is a growing country whose population and economy have expanded mightily in the last 10 years. So long as it continues to grow and so long as our living standards advance, we cannot expect a return to the lower price level of years gone by. Let us look ahead rather than backward and not be afraid to invest in the future of America.

This Is No Time To Build Rental Units

Not that I advise building now only if you want a home to live in. I do not believe it is wise to build homes to rent at this time. Even if we avert another global war, the change over to an economy providing for increased defense planning and spending will have a considerable effect upon construction and real estate. Thus, it appears that rent controls are here to stay for awhile longer and may even be tightened in some strategic areas. Certainly, events since June 25th clearly indicate that substantial relaxation of these rent controls is now unlikely, and sharper restrictions may be invoked if the war should spread.

New Homes

There, however, are exceptions to every rule and, while I do not advocate building homes for rent now, a person may be justified in building now a two-family house with the intention of living in one half and renting the other half. In fact, I have just completed a two-family house here at New Boston with that idea in mind. Be sure there are separate heating systems and that the water and electricity are on separate meters. Have two modern kitchens and two bathrooms.

Be Realistic In Location

Those who plan to build new homes should select the land as carefully as the materials. If possible, have enough good land for a "kitchen garden." Do not build in or near the big cities mentioned in the new book, "Effects of Atomic Weapons."

As this danger becomes more acute, more and more people will try to move their residences from these bomb-vulnerable cities, thus adversely affecting real estate values in those cities and raising values in rural sections. High taxes, also make it wise to avoid the larger cities as locations for new homes. Best bets for new homes today are the cities under 50,000 population with preference to the smaller towns and rural areas. The smaller community, the better your chance for clean, healthy living in the American tradition.

Build A Practical Home

I advise readers who have never built before to do some careful planning before spending their hard-earned cash. Do not be carried away by impatient contractors, but insist upon a fixed contract price—

Do You Have A Maid?

Not so very many households these days can answer yes, but those who do have a maid or any other household worker will need a copy of a brief booklet bearing that question as a title. Mr. V. B. Hollomon, manager of the Hagerstown Social Security office, began distributing this booklet this week.

This colorful leaflet sets out, in a few sentences, just how the lady of the house, or any employer of domestic help in or around the home, may tell whether or not the worker is brought under the new Social Security law which becomes effective on Jan. 1.

The work of those regularly employed in private homes will be credited to Social Security and the employer will be responsible for reporting wages, along with Social Security taxes, to the collector of internal revenue.

The title of the pamphlet does not stop with "Do You Have A Maid?" but continues "—or a laundress? —a cook? —chauffeur—gardener?" Any of these, or any other persons employed regularly for work in or around a private household may come under the new law, and Mr. Hollomon urges their employers to request a free copy of the booklet.

A simple test in the booklet in terms of amount of wages paid and regularity of employment, will tell whether a maid, cook or laundress will get the protection of Social Security—and whether the housewife should start making reports next year. If so, there's a postage-paid postal card in the government-issue booklet which the housewife should mail in for instructions.

Copies of the booklet are available at all postoffices, or may be secured by dropping a card to Social Security Administration, 74 W. Washington St., Hagerstown, Md.

The social security manager said he is arranging with women's groups to furnish supplies of the booklet for their members. The "Do You Have A Maid?" booklet does not apply to domestic work on farms operated for profit. Such work is covered by other provisions in the new Social Security law.

Tomatoes Top Total Income To Farmers

Frederick County's over 100 tomato growers, together with those in the rest of the State, have received a total of $113,000,000 for tomatoes sold to canners in the last 30 years, according to an American Can Co. survey of the contributions of the processing and can making industries to the State's agricultural welfare.

For many years tomatoes have been the Free State's most important canning crop, accounting for a major portion of the income received by farmers for vegetables sold to packers, the company analysis shows. The 1949 pack alone, the nation's largest, netted growers $4.5 million, or 52 per cent of their total income from all truck crops raised for canning.

The study also brought out that tomatoes produced for canning in recent years have accounted for well over 65 per cent of the total income received from tomato sales in both the fresh and canning markets.

"The high value of the annual tomato crops grown for canning is largely due to advances in can making and canning techniques that bring top quality tomato products to consumers the year around at less cost than the fresh vegetable," L. M. Goodwin, Maryland district representative of the American Can Co., said.

"Developments include perfection by the American Can Co. of new types of containers, which have expanded the markets for canned tomatoes and made possible the processing of new tomato products, including tomato juice," Mr. Goodwin added.

avoiding "cost plus." Know what you want and make sure you will get it before you commit yourself. Aim for a home that will be structurally sound as well as pleasing in appearance. Think of the future before you build. A four-room cottage with doll-sized rooms may look like a dream house now, but it will turn out to be an awful headache if you try to raise a family in it. Nor will it have anywhere near as high a resale value as a more orthodox unit with adequate living space.

SHORT STORY

On The Payroll

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

JUD HAD SEEN the redheaded girl in Mr. Jones' outer office every day for a week.

He himself was a copy man, and if she were after the same job that he wanted it would complicate things. I would cut his chances of success in half, and it would be rather embarrassing because—well, because he thought she was an awfully pretty girl and he liked the way she held her chin high and tried to appear brave.

On Monday of the second week, the redheaded girl dropped her handbag. Its contents spilled all over the place. Jud helped pick them up—lipstick, a bunch of keys, a pawn ticket! Jud's lips tightened when he saw that. Just as he thought—she's had to pawn something in order to live.

Of course the handbag episode gave him the liberty of talking with her. Without half trying, he got her story. It was just as he figured. A sad tale of deprivation and loss. If only she could see Mr. Jones. She knew he needed a stenographer and she really was awful good.

A determined light came into Jud's eyes.

Ignoring the protestations of the switchboard girl, he burst through the railed-in space, crossed it in two bounds and threw open the door to Mr. Jones' office.

Mr. Jones was sitting at his desk, smoking a cigar. He looked up with a startled expression when Jud entered. He had heavy jowls and a shock of grey hair and belligerent bushy eyebrows.

The cigar fell from his mouth. He stood up. Before Jud could utter a word, he barked: "Your name Jud Essex?"

"Yes, sir," said Jud, taken aback.

"I'll be damned!" exclaimed Mr. Jones. "Did she tell you who she was?"

"Did who tell me who who was?" Jud asked, beginning to think he was mistaken for some one else.

"My daughter! That redheaded girl in the outer office?"

It was Jud's turn to drop a cigar, if he'd had one. "Your daughter? That—the girl who wants a job as a stenographer?"

Mr. Jones came round his desk. He was short, but rotund. He glared up at Jud. "You're hired," he said. "I lost a bet, so you're hired. But you'd better make good, or you're fired. Get that!"

"Shut up! Do you want the job, or don't you?" Mr. Jones stalked out of the office. A man came in another door.

"Of course, I'm serious. I made a bet with Dad that I'd marry you."

and told Jud to follow him. "Kate always wins," the man said. "Here's your desk. Kate wants you to go to lunch with her this noon."

JUD SAT DOWN, speechless. "Do you mean—am I one of several who have been hired in this fashion?"

Jud passed a hand through his hair. The man left. Jud sat down at his desk. He tried to straighten things out in his mind, and was beginning to get places, when Kate entered.

At lunch Kate said: "Would you like to marry me?"

"Sure," said Jud, grinning weakly.

"All right then. Right after work. I'll be waiting."

She was, too. He wondered what was next. He found out. She took him to a minister's. She produced a license. Jud tried to grin. He gulped and stared at her. "Good lord! You're not serious about this?"

Jud suddenly no longer had the feeling that he liked all this. "Now listen," he said. "I can't marry you. In the first place I don't love you. In the second I think you and your old man are crazy. And in the next place, I'm already married and have three kids!"

Mr. Jones called Jud on the phone the next morning. "Mister, you're still working for me if you want the job. I won a bet from Kate, and it's cured her of her screwy notions. Come on down. Your salary's doubled."

Governor Designates This Sunday As "Seal Sunday"

Sunday, Dec. 3, has been proclaimed "Christmas Seal Sunday" by Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., as part of the annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn.

Religious congregations of all faiths are being asked to observe the weekly Sabbath as "Christmas Seal Sunday," according to Dr. G. Canby Robinson, executive secretary of the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn.

Letters have been sent to the clergy of all churches and synagogues asking their support in the observance of Christmas Seal Sunday. A number of clergymen will speak of the work of the Tuberculosis Assn. from their pulpits and the programs and bulletins of many churches will carry Christmas Seal messages.

In issuing the Christmas Seal Sunday proclamation, Gov. Lane reminded the people of Maryland of the important work the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn. has done in helping to reduce the high death rate of TB in Maryland.

Gov. Lane voiced his confidence that "the people of Maryland will show their appreciation to the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn. for their splendid record in public health matters" by supporting the annual Christmas Seal Sale. In conclusion, Gov. Lane expressed the hope that on Christmas Seal Sunday the clergy of the State would bring before their respective congregations, the value of the work supported by the purchase of Christmas Seals.

The 44th Annual Christmas Seal Sale began on Nov. 20 and will continue until Christmas Day.

Says Eye Ills Cause Headaches

Dr. A. D. Duedemann, ophthalmology professor at Wayne University, Detroit, estimates that 25 per cent of all headaches are caused by eye trouble which can be remedied by proper glasses, medical exercises or surgical treatment.

Judge Stoner, Thurmont, Is Heart Victim

William J. Stoner, Thurmont's well-known blind trial magistrate and former long-time burgess of that town, died at his home on E. Main St., at noon Tuesday.

A vigorous, active man in his native Thurmont community for nearly 50 years, Judge Stoner retained his interest in all community life until his fatal illness despite the loss of his eyesight in 1936.

He was born on a farm near Thurmont on Nov. 5, 1881 and attended Thurmont schools before taking a business course in Baltimore when he was 17.

He was one of the pillars of the old Frederick County Baseball League and managed several of Thurmont's championship teams.

He was a life-long Democrat and for many years the titular head of that party in Thurmont District. In 1919 he was elected treasurer of the Thurmont Board of Commissioners and served in that capacity until 1924.

By his own score card, he went before the people 21 times and was elected 20 times. "I never played politics," he once said, "and I never campaigned or asked for a vote."

For many years while serving as head of the town government, he also was superintendent of the Thurmont Municipal Light Co.

Magistrate 18 Years His service as Trial Magistrate covers a period of 18 years, part of which time his title was Justice of the Peace.

Nancy Holmes SUGGESTS

SEEING isn't only believing, it plays a great part in the enjoyment of food. Of course, what you see must be appealing. Taking quality and good seasoning for granted, also important to ultimate gustatory pleasure are color combination and arrangement of the dish itself.

Here is how to create a good-looking conversation piece with that popular pair, frankfurters and mashed potatoes. The recipe comes from the Best Foods test kitchens.

- Frankfurter Crown Roast: 10 pared medium potatoes, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 2 carrots, diced, 1/2 teaspoon each small green marjoram and pepper, chopped, 1 onion, chopped, 9 to 12 frankfurters, 1/2 cup vitaminized margarine, 6 slices uncooked bacon, 1/2 cup scalded milk.

Cook potatoes in boiling, salted water until tender. Saute carrots, pepper and onion in vitaminized margarine until tender and lightly browned. Mash potatoes thoroughly. Add milk, beating vigorously until potatoes are fluffy and creamy. Add vitaminized margarine, carrot, pepper, onion and other seasonings. Add salt to taste. Pile potatoes in a mound in a deep baking dish. Arrange halves or whole frankfurters around potatoes to resemble a crown roast of pork. Tie frankfurters together with kitchen thread or skewer with toothpicks. Tie strips of bacon around the middle of the roast, fastening with toothpicks. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) about 20 minutes or until done. Serves 4 to 6.

Replicas of Treasured Heirlooms

By NANCY COOK—ANS Features

Years ago our grandmothers spent endless hours fashioning handmade counterpanes that are the heirlooms of today. If you're not so fortunate as to own one of these, don't despair... for a hundred years later—during this Bates Centennial Anniversary year—it's possible to own a quilt equally as beautiful, so like the old-fashioned handmade ones, that it will be your prize possession for years to come. "Centennial," pictured above, is one of three styles presented in this anniversary series. It represents a faithful reproduction of a priceless 19th century original—one of the few handmade heirloom counterpanes preserved today in museums and private collections.

Coverlets of the 19th century era were carefully padded, delicately stitched by hand and took years to make, but modern ingenuity has discovered how to make the same thing by machine. The delicate stitching, the mellowed color, and the lovely patterns are reproduced exactly, yet they are available at prices that span the gap between sensible budgets and discriminating tastes.

Improved Version of Old-Fashioned Handmade Quilts
These treasured copies of old-fashioned homemade quilts are permanently padded, pre-shrunk and easily washable. Due to the precision of the processing, however, they are now being produced only in limited quantities... and today's version will be tomorrow's heirlooms, for they are loomed to last even longer than the handmade originals.

Make Ideal Gifts Which Blend With Any Decor
The three Bates bedspreads in this anniversary series come in white only, and their rich designs make a charming focal point of interest in a room of modern or traditional decor. Attractively gift-boxed, their modest price makes them fine gifts for any occasion.

In the room setting above, "Centennial"—with its neat ball fringe—is shown in what is known as the "topper" size. The "topper" is designed to be used on either a single or double bed, with a gay broadcloth dust ruffle which is available in a wide range of decorator colors. "Centennial" also comes in a full bedspread size to fit either a single or double bed, and has string fringe around the edge.

James Waganan of Detroit spent several days with his mother last week. He returned to his home Friday and his mother is planning to make her home with him in the near future.
