FLASH! Emmitsburg has a baby sister . . . or brother, whichever you choose to call it. This parcel of information came to light this week with the arrival of the Emmitsburg Democrat. Never heard of it, huh? Neither did we, and we are not contemplating changing the name of our fair Chronicle, by any means. It all came about when a young lady from Washington, D. C., purchased one of the Chronicles at a local newsstand and sent it back to her home town, Emmitsburg, Iowa, and her mother. Seems as if Mrs. Gray, a D. C. stenog, some time or other on a visit here, saw a copy of this rag on the newsstands and it struck her as odd there was another Emmitsburg, one which she had never known before. Seems as though the Chronicle finally was deposited with the editor of the Emmitsburg Democrat and he was kind enough to publish several nice paragraphs about us here in Emmitsburg. But let's let the editor of the Democrat tell his version, and we here-with stoop to a reprint:

"We were handed a copy of the Emmitsburg, Md., Chronicle by Mrs. Frank Gray recently and we enjoyed browsing through the weekly newspaper whose geographical area is so near to Gettysburg and other famed historical spots. Mrs. Gray's daughter, the former Mary Gray of Emmitsburg, now a Wash., D. C. secretarial employe, sent the newspaper to her mother after a visit to Emmitsburg. We are curious as to the spelling of Emmitsburg, and are wondering why the "i" instead of "e". Maybe Editor C. A. Elder of the Chronicle can enlighten us. Page One of the Chronicle featured a Memorial Day honor roll dedication and what more appropriate setting could be found than little Emmitsburg, Md., so near to the great Gettysburg?"

Well, truthfully, Mr. Editor, we are not too familiar with how the "e" was inserted into your Emmitsburg, but we intend to find out. This Emmitsburg was founded by a Samuel Emmitt and how we came about dropping a few letters ourselves I intend to find out. Oh, yes, dear readers, by way of explanation, the Emmitsburg we are referring to, is situated in the good ole state of Iowa . . . And I might add from the nice sized weekly paper they publish, it must be at least four or five times as large as our town of 1200. It just proves that you never can tell who is reading a newspaper, when or where. And as a plug for the sheet, you never can tell who is reading your ads—which makes this sheet possible. . . . If some of you are aware of the change in spelling of the Emmitt name and how the change about occurred, we would be very happy to devote a column as to how it came about. Won't you let me hear from you?"

Don't forget the big Bingo game Saturday night folks. It is for the benefit of you, and you and YOU! All proceeds go to the building fund of the Emmitsburg Community Hall Association, for the erection of a new Community Hall. Come early, as indications are a huge crowd will be there backing up this worthy cause to the hilt. Many lovely prizes will be distributed to the winners. This is the first step in a long series to raise funds for our new hall. I'll be seeing you Saturday night, then, at the Fire Hall!

RITCHIE PROJECT APPARENT GOV'T REDOUBT

Night and day now for more than six months Army engineers have been tunneling into Raven Rock Mountain, six miles from Emmitsburg, along the Waynesboro Rd., to build a stand-by Pentagon for use in case of A-bomb attack.

Late orders issued to all Pentagon employes, giving them specific, secret points to report in case of attack, show that the project might soon be ready for some use.

What is called the Camp Ritchie Project has been kept under heavy secrecy. The only official announcement of its existence was a terse Dept. of Defense release some time ago which said, plans are going forward for the establishment of a supplemental communications installation at and nearby Camp Ritchie, Md.

In the meantime, rumors of its size, location and use have been rife among Washington's defense employes. Excitement and curiosity among residents living along the Waynesboro Rd. have been intense.

Twenty-four hours a day huge trucks rumble into the heavily guarded gates, loaded with all kinds of building materials and weird machinery. From a nearby road you can see corrugated iron sheds covering what are apparently huge holes in the side of the mountain.

Surrounding towns such as Emmitsburg, Fairfield, and Blue Ridge Summit are booming with business from the thousands of construction workers. P. J. Healy Co., the firm which dug New York's Lincoln Tunnel under the Hudson River, is the contractor. With the Pentagon's top secret label on the project, it's only natural that it would inspire wild speculation. But some solid facts have emerged from the rumors surrounding the Camp Ritchie Project.

There seems to be no doubt that its main function will be to serve as a stand-by communications center for defense officials to direct America's far-flung defense commitments in case the Pentagon is bombed.

It is doubtful whether the project is large enough to house all of the 31,000 Pentagon workers. But it will most surely be used for key defense officials and their staffs. It is estimated that Raven Rock Mountain will have carved out of its insides more than three million square feet of office space. At the present there is no estimate available as to the approximate cost of the undertaking.

The orders given recently to Pentagon employes specify 20 secret points on the outskirts of Washington at which they should gather in case of enemy bombing attack on the Capitol. Just how many will be told to report to Camp Ritchie from the points is also a matter of secrecy.

Part of the Ritchie Project include living quarters for persons who might have to be work in the big hole, it was reported.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED

According to an announcement in the Chronicle this week, Richard Rosensteel, has reluctantly dissolved his partnership with Louis Cooper, who together operated the R-C Liquor establishment.

No reason for the dissolution was given by Mr. Rosensteel, a World War II veteran, who was a partner in the business for more than a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Griswold of Pittsburgh, Pa., returned to their home yesterday after spending several days with Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder, S. Seton Ave.

LOCAL BALL CLUB CLIMBS IN STANDINGS

Guy McGlaughlin's Pen-Mar League baseball team climbed its way into a three-way tie for second place in that circuit last Sunday by measuring Westminster, 9 to 3.

Wayne McGlaughlin, on the mound for the locals, pitched excellent ball. While allowing a total of nine hits, he kept them well scattered and was never in danger.

The locals clubbed three Westminster hurlers for a total of 13 hits. Pat Boyle and Jim Strine led in the hitting department with three apiece.

Fairfield kept up its hot pace to continue leading the league, by downing Littlestown in 10 innings, 8 to 3.

The local aggregation hits the road Sunday to meet Taneytown, also tied for second place. Manager McGlaughlin plans to start Wayne McGlaughlin, star right-hander, Sunday.

APPEAL ENTERED

An appeal has been entered in Circuit Court from an award of the State Industrial Accident Commission by the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph's Corp, employer, and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co., insurer, against Martha Alexander, claimant. The appellants, through their attorneys, McSherry and McSherry, say the defendant made claim for compensation for an injury allegedly arising out of and in the course of her employment and an award was made by the commission. The appeal is from this award, the amount of which was not stated.

Local Soldiers In Germany

Back on the Western Front are America's front line troops. Emmitsburg is represented by one of the groups to take its station in Germany. Albert and Lewis Cool, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cool, Emmitsburg, and members of the Fourth Division Infantry, engineers and quartermasters corps, reported in a recent letter that they landed safely late in May. In the communication they described the German crops of wheat and barley as looking excellent and probably as good as American staples.

New Honor Roll of American Legion

Road Garbage Crackdown Planned

A coordinated effort to eliminate the widespread practice of placing waste matter on or along the public highways was approved this week at a meeting of Health Dept. officials and State Police and State Roads Commission representatives.

Numerous complaints have arisen about the dumping of garbage, tin cans, etc., in permitting the effluent from septic tanks, waste water from kitchen sinks and similar types of waste to reach the sides of roads or the roadbeds themselves.

It was pointed out that this is not only a health menace but that the State Roads Commission forces have found that it has clogged a number of drainage pipes along the roads, contributing to the difficulties from frost boils which crop up early in the spring of each year.

Action can be expected under a State law, a section of which was cited to familiarize residents with the provision of the code. This law is under Section 197-A of Article 66 1/2 of the 1947 Supplement to the Annotated Code, relating to the prohibition against placing injurious substance on the highway.

One part of this section says that "no person shall throw or deposit upon any highway any glass bottles, glass, nails, tacks, wires, cans or any other substance likely to injure any person, animal or vehicle upon such highway ***"

Expect Fuel Oil Shortage This Fall

Taking notice of a nation-wide program of summer fuel buying launched yesterday by the Secretary of the Interior with an appeal to Government agencies, industrial and residential consumers, Defense Transport Administrator James K. Knudson today issued a statement underscoring the transportation aspect of that program.

Administrator Knudson noted that widespread suffering was prevented last winter by near miracles in transportation and warned that the mounting burden of defense and defense supporting traffic will, by this fall and winter, make such heavy demands upon the nation's transport capacity as to create the unlikely prospect that relief can promptly be provided for spot areas in distress. The normal peak movement occurring in October and November must this year, he said, be spread over a longer period including the summer months. The administrator continued:

"Defense plants are already stepping up production and their requirements for coal and other fuels will grow steadily greater. Transportation must be provided this year for 10% more coal than was produced in 1950 and freight cars suitable for hauling coal are in short supply and will become more so. The situation is, if anything, more acute with respect to tank cars suited to the transportation of fuel oil and liquefied petroleum gases.

C. OF C. PLANS TO SPONSOR OLD HOME WEEK

Possibility of an "Old Home Week" and carnival this fall is very likely after the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce was held Tuesday evening in the Fire Hall, President Samuel C. Hays presiding.

Secretary John Roddy's minutes were approved as read and Treasurer Louis H. Stoner's report was accepted.

Communications were read by the president and secretary from the Frederick Chamber of Commerce and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. A plea for protection of children, whose lives are endangered by automobile traffic in the alley back of the Fire Hall was taken under advisement. Several local residents complained to the Chamber of Commerce to take the necessary action. A stop sign was advocated and will be taken up, possibly with the Corporation of Emmitsburg.

A general round table discussion was held concerning the advisability of enlarging the membership and making the meetings more interesting. Several meetings may be held outdoors this summer.

After a lengthy discussion concerning the promoting of an "Old Home Week," President Hays appointed a committee of three to work in conjunction with the Emmitsburg Community Hall Assn. It is intended to donate all proceeds to the building fund of a Community Hall. It is planned to hold the affair around Labor Day, if not sooner. Bernard H. Boyle, local business man, was named chairman of the committee appointed and will be assisted by Mrs. Helen E. Daugherty and Rev. Philip Bower.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter to the Corman-Wasserman Mfg. Co., concerning the closing of its local sewing factory and to determine, if possible, the future of the firm's existence here.

Pvt. Harbaugh Busy On Korean Front

With the Seventh Infantry Division, U. S. Army, in Korea — Sgt. Raymond F. Harbaugh, son of Mrs. Bertha J. Harbaugh, Elder Apts., Emmitsburg, a member of the Seventh Division Artillery, helped stem the Communist spring offensive in Korea.

Harbaugh's unit recently sent its 335,000th round of the Korean campaign blasting into the enemy. In eight months of Korean action, his unit made two amphibious landings, gained the Manchurian border, and fought on both coasts of the Korean peninsula.

Harbaugh and his buddies of the Forty-eighth Field Artillery Battalion, have moved 70 times in the shifting Korean battle zone. They have covered a total of 2800 miles of guerrilla infested land and 980 water miles since the Inchon landing.

A veteran of three years' service, Sgt. Harbaugh joined the Seventh Division in May, 1949. He attended Emmitsburg High School before entering the army.

Detrick Charity Drive Progresses

Collections and pledges totaled $4,148.24 as the second annual Camp Detrick combined charities drive went into its third week.

The drive covers nine charities—Community Chest, March of Dimes, Crippled Children, Army Air Force Relief, Cancer Fund, Heart Fund, Cerebral Palsy, Hospital Aid, Inc., and Tuberculosis Fund. Donors can designate any of these charities or mark "no preference" on their pledge cards.

Vitamin A is necessary in the dairy cow ration for growth and the maintenance of health.

BENEFIT BINGO TOMORROW AT FIRE HALL

The first fund-raising venture to be sponsored by the newly-formed Community Hall Assn. will take place tomorrow night in the Fire Hall, Edgar G. Emrich, president of the organization announced this week. All proceeds of the affair will go to the building fund of the new Community Hall and a large crowd of players is expected as 20 some local organizations are represented in the association and are backing the promotion.

The affair will be in the form of bingo playing and Mr. Emrich stated that his committee was indeed fortunate in obtaining an extraordinary excellent selection of prizes.

The president appeals to all local merchants and individuals to do their bit by donating additional prizes for the bingo winners. They can be deposited either at the Chronicle Press Office or at the Fire Hall before Saturday noon. Play will begin promptly at 8 p. m. Refreshments will be available.

In an open appeal to the citizens of Emmitsburg concerning the new hall, President Emrich said:

"We would like to urge those citizens who intend to contribute financially to the Community Hall Fund to do so by sending their donations to Thornton W. Rodgers, who is the treasurer of the organization. You know, folks, the cost of this building has been estimated at approximately $50,000. To date we have received one lone donation, a $100 check from the Emmitsburg Grange. Ninety-seven per cent of the Grange are farmers; how about some of the other civic organizations taking similar action.

"Many of our private citizens have stated that they would be willing to make a contribution, but as yet, none of these good people have responded. So, come on folks, you can't deny the fact that Emmitsburg needs a community hall; so how about it—any size donation will be appreciated and it will show your community hall committee that you are behind them and that the time and effort they are so unselfishly putting forth is bringing results.

"The question has been asked what will happen to my donation if this thing falls through? We refuse to discuss failure at this point, but as a matter of public information, the treasurer will keep an accurate account of all financial transactions, and you may rest assured that we will not fail if you do your part.

"Contrary to some opinions, the site for the hall has not been chosen by your committee. We intend to leave that decision up to you. On your next election ballot there will be a list of the sites under consideration and you may indicate your choice at that time.

"You may expect greater events for fund-raising in the future, but first you should show your interest in the project by patronizing the bingo game Saturday night and by sending your cash or check in the not too distant future."

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG

Mr. Jesse Poulson, formerly of this place is suffering from a broken leg sustained when he was struck by a truck in Frederick Saturday a week ago. The accident occurred during a heavy downpour when visibility was poor and Jesse was attempting to cross a street. He was given preliminary first aid at Frederick Hospital and later removed to Newton Baker Hospital in W. Va., where he will undergo an operation on the leg before it is set.

Administration and Congress Playing Favorites

President Truman's fireside discussion of the "down-to-earth problem" of inflation would have been more convincing if in the past he had given greater evidence that the Administration intends to practice what it preaches.

Most of the evidence, unfortunately, is to the contrary. The President wants to extend and strengthen the Defense Production Act, otherwise to expire on June 30, but his Administration has failed to make the fullest use of the Act as it now stands. Controls have not reached their maximum effectiveness because Congress and the Administration have played favorites with key segments of the economy.

Take, for instance, the activities of the Wage Stabilization Board which, since January, has kicked at least four gaping holes through its own wage ceiling. Every time a large and powerful union has demanded an increase above the formula fixed by the Board, it has been granted. That has happened in the case of railroad, automobile, meat packing, and shipyard workers. It must inevitably happen in the cases of others if the Board is to make any pretense at equal treatment.

When the Wage Stabilization Board fails to keep the lid on wages, what happens to efforts at price control? Higher wages mean higher operating costs, and the Government that encourages the one must turn around and make provision for the other. Which is to say, higher prices become inescapable.

Now let us look at another favored group—the agriculturalists. The President wants to hold food costs down. And yet Congress wrote into the Defense Production Act parity provisions which make it virtually impossible to control food prices. If they are permitted to rise, is it possible to control other prices, or wages? We believe not.

The stabilization order affecting beef producers, said Mr. Truman, will bring cattle prices down from about 150 per cent of parity to about 125 per cent. "I think," he added, "that's fair enough in a time of national emergency."

We say it isn't fair. Parity itself, as the name implies, is supposed to be fair. To permit prices to go way above parity is to be unfair to consumers and to make an effective stabilization effort impossible.

The way to keep our economy growing stronger instead of collapsing, said Mr. Truman, is "to have an anti-inflation program, including price controls, wage controls, rent controls, credit controls—controls that really hold down prices and the cost of living."

That is absolutely right, Mr. Truman. That is very sound theory. And the way not to have controls is to temporize, to appease, to exempt, to concede, and to play favorites. That, we are afraid, is what Congress and the Administration have been doing. It can be stopped if the Congress will give the White House a new controls law that "bites down hard" on inflation and if the Administration then has the courage and determination to administer it vigorously and impartially.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Dewling of Baltimore, entertained the Misses Martha H. and Rosalie M. Otto of Pittsburgh, Pa., over the weekend at Mountain Acres, Eyerler's Valley. They were joined on Sunday afternoon by the Misses Edith V. Walker, Edna Neal, Helen I. Dewling and Pearl O. Bruce, who were returning from a weekend stay at the beautiful Capon Springs, W. Va.

The Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillelan, Josephine Steinberger, Grace Rowe, and Anna Gillelan visited Monday with Mrs. Marion Rosensteel, National Lutheran Home, Washington, D. C.

Wonder of the World

EMPIRE STATE BUILDING, towering 1472 feet above New York City's streets, is a Mecca for millions of tourists. Control of the world's tallest structure is being sold on its 20th birthday to a syndicate headed by Roger L. Stevens, 41, and Alfred R. Glancy, Jr., 43, of Detroit and Ben Tobin, 45, of Hollywood Beach, Fla. The sellers, the estate and family of the late John J. Raskob, will use the proceeds to pay inheritance taxes and to endow a foundation dedicated to a Catholic charity.

Model Plane Club To Form

Residents of Emmitsburg interested in joining the Gettysburg Model Airplane Club are instructed to be present at the next meeting, which will be held on Monday evening, July 2, at 7 o'clock (DST.) In case of rain, the club will meet in the American Legion Bldg., Baltimore St.

At the present time, according to Vice President John H. Pitzer, two new circles are in the process of being constructed for those model airplane enthusiasts.

The club's membership drive is now on. Dues are only 25c per month for those who wish to join. Mr. Pitzer said he hoped those who attend would bring a an interested friend.

Both free flight and control line gas models are flown. The two new circles are being constructed at the Gettysburg Recreational Center.

Odds And Ends

By ANABEL HARTMAN

(Note: There were so many things that seemed to me of interest that could not be included in the reports I have made to the Chronicle readers about my recent trip to the Southwest, and so many persons who expressed an interest in the reports, that I have been encouraged to offer to the editor something else: in part a series of scattered postscripts to the travel articles, and in part a completely miscellaneous lot of comments on other things that also seem interesting to me and I think may to some others. One of these, for example, is just "Words," especially words used as names for places, already touched on in the case of several places in Arizona. The editor has given me the green light, at least for one column in June; whether there will be more columns the first week of each succeeding month depends on whether Chronicle readers like more.)

Let's begin with June itself. Where did the name of this month come from? The encyclopedia gives a variety of possible sources, for it seems that the origin is uncertain (not like that of the December, clearly from "decem," the Latin word meaning 10, for the 10th month, though it is now no longer the 10th but the 12th—but that's another story, six months off.) So perhaps June was named in honor of the Roman goddess Juno, so-called queen of Heaven, or perhaps in honor of youth in general or of the juniors in the Roman government, from juniors. Or did the name come from Junius, a Roman family name, and was it given especially in honor of the consul Junius Brutus? In any case, these suggestions give us a glimpse into ancient Roman civilization, one of the main sources of our modern English language, a connection that is worth remembering. And also in any case, we know that June has had a long existence, for it was present in the old Latin calendar before the revision by Julius Caesar and was then a month of 29 days. When Caesar revised the calendar (also another story) he gave June an additional day.

June has as its "official" flower the rose, and as its precious stone the pearl, but how this particular flower and gem came to be delegated to June I do not clearly know, though of course the connection of roses with June is obvious. We touch on very ancient matters in these connections of precious stones, especially, with the different months. (If some Chronicle reader has information to contribute on the subject, it will be welcome.)

June does not have, in our American calendar, the prestige given by holidays in honor of great men's birthdays (as February has) or of our most important historical event (as July does); nor does it have any of the days especially significant to all of Christendom, like Easter Sunday or Christmas Day. But there is some observance of June 14 as Flag Day, the date when, in 1777, our flag was formally adopted by Congress; the third Sunday is now known as Father's Day; and June is the month of the Summer Solstice (about June 21) one of the two times in the year when the sun is farthest from the equator and seems to stand still before resuming its travels ("solstice" from the Latin "s'ol," sun, and "sistere," to stand still—a nice plain derivation.) In some countries June 24 is, or at least used to be, gaily celebrated as Midsummer

Congressman Judd to Address Church Group at Hood College

Congressman Walter H. Judd, Minnesota, former missionary to China and well-known lecturer, will give a public address during the 26th annual conference of the Baltimore Synod and Synodical of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., which will open June 25 at Hood College, Frederick. Congressman Judd will be heard Thursday evening, June 28, at eight o'clock in Gambrill gymnasium speaking on "Our Christian Task In a World of Conflict."

The man who gave up his misadventures needed to know more about the Chinese has since spent much of his time trying to establish better relations between the two countries. The people of Frederick County are invited to participate in the conference and share with the Presbyterian men's and women's organizations in hearing him.

Other leaders who will be participating in the conference are Rev. Willis R. Ford, executive secretary of the Maryland-Delaware Council of Churches and Christian Education; Richard W. Day, and according to an ancient saying, "On Midsummer Eve mortals who watch may see the Fairy Folk."

If a vote were taken for the favorite month of the year, June would undoubtedly stand high in the scoring, so long associated with commencements, weddings, and nature as its loveliest! We leave it with the opening lines of Lowell's famous tribute:

And what is so rare as a day in June?

Then if ever come perfect days. Now, having put June first, I have no space left for the Travel Postscript, which was to be about the development of transportation in Arizona, a really fascinating story though it may not sound so. Let me just ask how many Chronicle readers ever heard of camels on the Arizona desert? If there is a next time, the postscript will come first!

LOOKING AHEAD BY GEORGE S. BENSON President—Harding College Searcy, Arkansas

The Substance of Security

The problem of security has become more and more dominant in all discussions of human affairs. The term "social security" is today almost as much a part of our political-economic language as are the words "profits" and "wages" and "taxes."

It hasn't worked out that way in any country where it's been tried. Most American families now are covered by some phase of the Federal Social Security program. Within a few years no doubt everybody will be covered.

A Valuable Book Dr. Henry C. Link, one of America's foremost psychologists, has written a book entitled "The Way to Security" (Doubleday). It ought to be read by everybody.

The Early Training "Probably the chief weakness in our thinking about security is its emphasis on social security and its neglect of personal security. It is the emphasis on security from without rather than from within.

Dr. Link emphasizes that an individual's personal security can be strengthened or weakened by the early training given in the family. "The common practice of giving children an automatic allowance," he writes, "prevents them from finding out what life really is.

Report From Washington

By Sen. Herbert R. O'Connor

The question of taxes for 1952 is scheduled to draw the spotlight in Congress this week, when the House of Representatives will begin consideration of H. R. 4473, the new tax revision bill.

The Senate will be attacking the problem from the other side, with debate on the Independent Office Appropriations for 1952 and any other reported appropriation bills.

Activities in the two branches of the Congress in this field are closely inter-related in that, finally, the ultimate tax bill of the nation for 1952 can be sealed down from the amount requested by the President only in accordance with a corresponding decrease in the recommended spending allotments. One of the two debates, the one in the Senate will be the more important, to my mind, because it will determine the spending pace which the Congress sets.

From the very first days of the session, following the submission of the President's budget, it has been my contention that spending proposals must be radically reduced in order that industry and individuals alike might be spared a burden of taxes which might well be overwhelming.

In justice to the people of the country who have supported the defense program loyally, many of them at great expense and even at the destruction of their own businesses, every effort must be made to avoid unnecessary spending, every dollar of which would add by so much to the required tax totals.

When the defense budget alone for next year will total half again as much as the country's entire spending for this year, proposals for normal peacetime projects must be looked at in a totally different light than would be the case ordinarily. Conservation projects and other proposals which might be thoroughly desirable under normal circumstances, should not be even considered now because of their further impact on the nation's tax bill and because of their use of great amounts of strategic materials.

The Soviet has two avenues through which it hopes to bring about the destruction of our country. One is through force of arms. Our country is, we hope, and believe, on the way to an increase in armed might which would enable it successfully to repel any armed attacks.

The other source through which they confidently expect the U. S. to be destroyed is through a breakdown in our economy, occasioned by overspending. Many loyal Americans believe we are too close to the fiscal breaking point for comfort, even now.

Narcotics Hearings The war against narcotics continues in high gear this week, with executive hearings of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee. Today and tomorrow we shall be in Miami, Fla., for further inquiry into conditions in that state, whose ramifications go far and wide.

I believe we have gained much worthwhile information on the hearings to date, as a basis for a program of corrective legislation and enforcement which will go far to eliminate the activities of the gangsters operating in the narcotic field.

The highest number of accidents occurred on straight-level roads in Maryland in 1950.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

NEW YORK CITY, June 22 —During the past few years I have talked with some important people here regarding the possibility of World War III — and when it may or may not be expected. My financial friends insist we have nothing to fear during this summer or early fall. The chief assets of Russia and her satellite nations of Rumania, Czechoslovakia, Poland, etc., are their crops, especially their wheat. Hence, Russia will not start World War III until these crops are gathered, transported, distributed and safely stored.

My military friends go further and explain that Russia will not start World War III until the rivers of eastern Europe freeze over so her supply lines cannot be cut by our airplanes bombing bridges. You will remember that the Chinese invasion of Korea did not occur until the Yalu River froze over; but that now the invasion has pretty much stopped. Broken supply lines are apparently licking the Chinese.

Coming Winter Critical The above means that we have nothing to fear from Russia before winter comes. This coming winter, however, will be a very critical time, especially as the Russians are more accustomed to living, moving and fighting in winter than are the U. S. forces or the Europeans. It is also said that atomic bomb operations can be more effective in winter weather. Russia may start World War III this winter.

The Russians further realize that the United States and the Allies are now arming at a more rapid rate than the Russians can possibly meet. Russia can raise more men than can we and our Allies, but Russia cannot produce airplanes, tanks, guns and other war supplies as fast as we can. All of this leads me to believe that, if the Russians do not strike early in 1952, they have decided to forget World War III for some years to come and await further political developments.

Stocks, Bonds and Commodities Business and investing may remain on a dead center for the next six months or more. There should be no important price changes until the spring of 1952. If Russia has not started World War III by that time, there may then be a letdown in business and prices. Certainly, taxes would not be increased further. But, if Russia should strike next winter, taxes are sure to be raised again.

As to general business during the remainder of this year, I look for a lag this summer during the "tooling up" period when industry is switching from peace to war work. This may be accompanied by some unemployment. By fall, however, business should again be good. This uplift should continue throughout the winter whatever Russia decides to do. All skilled workers will be in greater demand, even at higher wages.

Presidential Election Next Year Added to the above comments, do not forget that another national election comes next year. If Mr. Truman can go to the voters under the slogan "I kept you out of war," he may have a fair chance of re-election. Therefore, the entire Administration will try to delay World War III until after 1952, which may result in pushing it indefinitely away. Do not sell Mr. Truman "short" let—especially if the fighting in Korea stops. This does not change the importance of the prediction that this coming winter will be a very critical period.

But, personally, I go further and say "anything can happen during the years ahead, from a devastating War III to World Peace and a "Golden Age." This means that the most important program is to so plan our family's education, business and investments that we will be

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Congress wants to take steps to make the Secretary of State responsible to Congress, and thus to the people.

The problem is this. In days gone by, the State Department merely functioned to observe international amenities, carry out intent of Congress when relations with another nation became thorny.

However, the United Nations has changed all that. Actions are now taken by the State Department without consent or knowledge of Congress.

Now even a small one man business can be wiped out by the State Department.

The carefully worked out system of checks and balances has been destroyed and the Secretary of State dominates not only in foreign matters, but in matters affecting business, taxes, even life or death.

Many of the confused orders controlling vital materials are State Department blunders.

It is a situation that was never visualized. Traditionally, the President has been intellectually equal to his State Secretary, as in the Hoover and Roosevelt administrations.

Current happenings reveal that the reverse is now true. The tail now wags the dog.

Dean Acheson, a very suave intellectual, has never really been a part of the American grass roots; has no conception of how independent enterprise built America.

He is also one of the Georgetown clique who sees nothing wrong with a "little socialism".

failing to realize that a Communist is nothing more than a Socialist in a hurry.

Hearings on the rubber mess by Sen. John Sparkman's (D. Ala.) Senate Small Business Committee is outlining the extreme efforts that Acheson has exerted to bolster up the Socialist government of Britain.

So far, hearings have shown that in 1945 synthetic rubber program was all but sabotaged to protect British rubber monopoly profits.

Korea boosted natural rubber prices 800%. American taxpayers are paying to save Socialism in Britain at any price, even in American lives and dollars. Disagreement with MacArthur views show same trend.

MacArthur wants to blockade China. This would cause severe financial loss to British Malay interests who shipped in first nine months of Korea 120,000 tons of rubber to Red China; 40,000 tons to Russia.

There is also the Acheson record on convicted traitor Alger Hiss; his plan to force the Chinese Nationalists to form a coalition government with Communists.

Briefly, that is the background for a movement to insure that either the Secretary of State is stripped of many powers, or safeguards set up so that the office will be filled by someone of the American people, by the American people.

Senate Small Business Committee is also studying the weird newsprint situation. So far one interesting fact is revealed.

The nation's 9,000 weekly newspapers, backbone of the free, independent American press, only uses 2% of the newsprint supply; the Federal government uses 7%.

Poultry Growers' Time Important Element in Profit

To the average poultry raiser, one of the most important considerations should be the amount of time and labor expended on flock care. Since most U. S. poultry raisers are also engaged in other kinds of operations (agriculture, livestock feeding, dairy farming, etc.) they must be careful of their time to flock management.

Here are a few general labor-saving pointers for part-time poultry raisers:

Good poultry housing and good furnishings (equipment) are necessary to efficient management. A well-planned house that provides plenty of space for the birds is essential. Litter should be kept clean and dry as possible. Feeders and waterers should be present in sufficient number, and should be carefully arranged, both for the birds' sake and for yours. There should also be plenty of roosting and nesting places.

In your feeding methods, fill the hoppers about two-thirds of the way with clean mash. Push the old mash to one end, add the new, and stir well, so that the birds will eat both old and new. Some poultrymen prefer to line up the hoppers, end to end so that they save time and labor in feedings. However, there is much to be said for placing feeders at right angles to windows, so that light will fall on feed. Feeding a little hard or scratch grain in the litter each day helps keep the flock active and helps keep the litter stirred.

Be sure to keep layers supplied with clean nesting material. This practice helps avoid soiled eggs, and this, in itself, represents a considerable saving of time and effort. Cleaning dirty eggs takes a great deal of time. A deep layer of nesting material also is helpful, as it prevents broken eggs.

Finally, keep simple feed consumption and egg production records. These help you foresee slumps in production, and also help you locate hens that are not up to par in their production.

ELLA MARGARET MARTIN

Ella Margaret Martin, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, Emmitsburg, R. D., died last Thursday night at 10:12 o'clock at the Annie Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, Pa.

Surviving are the parents and two sisters, Susan and Edith, a brother, James, all at home; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Nevin Martin and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Grace Saylor, all of Motters' Station.

Funeral services were held on Saturday at 10 a. m., with the Rev. Edmund P. Welker, officiating. Interment was made in Mt. View Cemetery, Emmitsburg.

As a general rule, lawn weeds can be controlled by spraying with 2-4-D compounds.

Your Personal Health

"Now that summer has come to Maryland it is time for people who expect to enjoy camping and swimming during the warm weather to be sure that they are adequately protected against typhoid fever," according to a reminder just issued by Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Dept. of Health. "Although the public health strides of recent decades have practically eliminated typhoid fever as a threat to persons living in communities with approved water supplies and good sanitation, the disease remains a real danger to those who swim, camp or picnic in remote rural areas.

"Typhoid fever is transmitted from one person to another by means of water, food or milk that has been contaminated by discharges from a patient suffering with the disease or from an apparently well typhoid carrier. Dangerous situations sometimes arise even in camps and picnic grounds where proprietors try to maintain good sanitary conditions. Water that appears clear and sparkling may be contaminated and therefore unsafe to drink, or even to swallow in small quantities while swimming.

"Spectacular reductions in typhoid fever cases and deaths as compared with those of a generation ago should not give the public a false sense of security. There were 41 cases of typhoid and paratyphoid fever in Maryland in 1950—in spite of community efforts to improve sanitation, isolate patients and supervise known carriers. This indicates that it is still highly desirable for individuals who may be exposed to unfavorable conditions to safeguard themselves by seeking protection at the beginning of the vacation season.

"Immunization is a simple and safe procedure. The physician usually gives three "shots" at intervals of one week. Since this immunity lasts for only three years, anyone who has not been inoculated since 1948 should receive new protection this year. In addition, persons who have never in the past availed themselves of this preventive measure should by all means do so now if they plan to participate in outdoor pleasures. Since some time is required for immunity conferred by inoculation to develop fully, it is wise to receive the treatment somewhat in advance of camping and swimming activities whenever possible. All persons who are due for immunization against typhoid fever in 1951 should go to their physicians without delay if they have not already received the recommended inoculations."

MARYLAND FEED & GRAIN MARKETS

The Baltimore wheat and corn markets were steady last week. No. 2 red winter garlicky wheat and No. 2 yellow shelled corn remained unchanged. No. 2 old crop barley advanced about six cents per bushel while No. 2 new crop remained the same as the previous week's average. No. 2 western white oats lost about a cent a bushel. Soybeans, following the previous week's national trend, made sharp declines. No. 2 yellows were down about six cents per bushel and No. 2 blacks were down about seven cents.

National Grain Market
The wheat market maintained a firm tone last week despite improved crop prospects; but feed grains turned weaker and oilseed prices made sharp declines, according to reports to the Dept. of Agriculture. Some increase in market receipts for which there was only a moderate demand together with improvement in production prospects in May was a weakening influence in the corn, oats, and barley markets. Declines of 11 to 12 cents in soybeans and 30 cents per bushel in flaxseed prices reflected in part the weakness in the market for vegetable oils and oilseed grains.

Maryland Feed Market
The Baltimore feed market was steady last week. Standard middlings, the only item to show any noticeable change, advanced almost two per cent—$1.39 per ton higher than the previous week.

Last week, DelMarVa producers received an average of 28.4 cents per pound for broilers and had to pay $108.56 per ton for feed. Based on this average retail cash price for 20% broiler mash on Lower Eastern Shore, one pound live weight of broilers would buy 5.5 pounds of feed.

National Feed Market
Feed markets turned firmer last week and the index number of wholesale feedstuff prices advanced about six and one-half points to 235.1 following a decline of 23 points during May and the first week in June. Prices of feed grains made further slight declines with the index at 240.5, or about nine points lower than at the first of May. The principal price gains last week were in wheat millfeeds and animal protein feeds, offerings of which decreased while demand became more active. Oilseed meals continued in plentiful supply and prices were generally about the previous week's level. Demand for dairy mixed feeds was reported slow but hog and poultry feeds were in active request at most markets.

The condition of farm pastures at the first of June was a little above the average for that date but varied sharply by regions. Pastures were generally excellent in the northern half of the country but were poor in much of the South and Southwest as a result of dry weather. For the country as a whole, June 1 conditions averaged 86 per cent of normal, compared with 83 per cent a year ago and a range of 79.189 per cent for that date during the preceding 10 years.

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

COMMENCEMENT IS THE RIGHT WORD
FOR THE HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF HIGH-SCHOOL AND COLLEGE SENIORS WHO, RECEIVING THEIR DIPLOMAS THIS JUNE, ARE AT THE BEGINNING OF THEIR CAREERS.

NEVER HAVE THE YOUTH OF THE NATION FACED A STERNER TEST OF THE ADEQUACY OF THEIR TRAINING TO THINK AND DO THAN IN THESE TIMES THAT TRY MEN'S SOULS. BUT THE SENSE OF INDIVIDUAL INITIATIVE AND RESPONSIBILITY IS BASIC IN THE AMERICAN SCHOOL AND THE AMERICAN HOME... COMMENCEMENT IS ONLY ANOTHER STEP IN THE PROGRESS OF THESE YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN WHOSE PRIVILEGE AND RESPONSIBILITY IT WILL BE TO CARRY FORWARD OUR DEMOCRACY.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Money in Circulation at the end of April amounted to an average of $177.29 for each American, the U. S. Treasury has reported.

A Tule cyprus in Mexico, 36 feet in diameter, is believed to be older than any of the California redwoods, often referred to as the world's oldest living things.

MARYLAND HOME FRONT

Agricultural production in time of national emergency becomes much more than a requisite to keep the nation fed and clothed. R. B. Bridgeforth, assistant to the assistant administrator for production, PMA, stated in a recent speech. His comments have been called to the attention of Maryland farmers by Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

"It becomes an instrument of national policy, vital both to military and economic mobilization," Mr. Bridgeforth said. "It is safe to say that a strong and productive agriculture is essential to defense mobilization. There is no substitute for a plentiful supply of food."

Pointing out that 1951 farm production goals call for our largest total output, Mr. Bridgeforth explained how estimated requirements are balanced against the total available cropland in order to determine a balanced pattern of desired production.

"Agricultural production in time of national mobilization, unlike other types of production, is being sought practically without control measures," Mr. Bridgeforth said. "We seek rather to inform the farmer fully about the national defense needs and his part in meeting them, and then to encourage, advise, and assist him in every way possible to carry out his task voluntarily."

"Mechanization has turned our farms into small factories, with the difference that the farm factory has only one season during the year when production can be started. If the equipment, labor, fertilizers, and other items are not on hand in the proper amounts and at the proper time, it won't help much to have them available later."

"Another requirement in obtaining essential farm production is a fair price... As the farmer has an obligation to the nation in producing for defense, so the nation has an obligation to the farmer in making his job possible."

Milk Produces 26 Pct. Of Income Of Md. Farmers

More than one out of every four dollars earned by Maryland farmers comes from the sale of dairy products.

A study by the American Can Co. as part of the June Dairy Month observance shows that dairying is the most important agricultural activity in the Free State. Of the approximately $233 million worth of farm commodities produced in 1950 in Maryland for sale and on-the-farm use, about $60.7 million or 26 per cent, comes from milk products.

The company, which operates a large paper milk container plant near Baltimore, pointed out that dairying provides an even greater proportion of cash income than the figures shown, because, unlike some of the field crops, such as corn, oats, and wheat, only a very small proportion of the total milk product is utilized on the farms.

Your Social Security

By ED. R. YOUNG
Until now, a State could not have Federal social security for its employes, or for the employes of local governments within the State. Beginning Jan. 1, 1951, however, it is possible for any State, as its own option, to bring under old-age and survivors' insurance those employes either of the State or of any local government who are not already protected by a retirement system.

To place its public employes under Federal social security, any State may authorize one of its agencies to negotiate an agreement with the Federal government covering all eligible employes of the State and its political subdivisions, or covering only certain "coverage groups." An agreement made before Jan. 1, 1953, may be made effective as of Jan. 1, 1951.

One "coverage group" would be employes of the State, except those engaged in a single proprietary function. Such a group would include the various State units (for instance, the State Comptroller's Office, State Dept. of Agriculture, etc.). Similarly, a coverage group might be all the employes of a county, except those engaged in a single proprietary function. Another group might be the employes of an instrumentality of the State (for instance, the State Water Conservation Authority), or the instrumentality of a political subdivision (for instance, a Port Authority). A single proprietary function would be a group in itself, (for instance, the employes of a State liquor store, or a county-operated quarry.)

For the employes of any coverage group to be included in an agreement, all eligible employes of that coverage group must be included. For example, an agreement will not include stenographers and leave out clerks or investigators. There are certain jobs, however, which the State may either include or exclude. For instance, work of an emergency nature, and elective, part-time or fee-basis jobs, may be excluded.

The new law makes it possible for a State to bring under social security all, or any of these various groups, except employes of such groups who are under an existing retirement system, and those engaged in a work relief program. Also excluded are services performed by patients or inmates of hospitals, home or other State institutions, and certain State or local government transportation systems acquired from private ownership.

When an agreement has been made for certain groups of employes, then those workers and the State will pay the same amounts as other employes and employers—1 1/2% each through 1953. After that date, the rates are gradually increased to 3 1/4% each in 1970 and thereafter.

Clean Grain Bins Early

The farmer who rushes out to clean his grain bin just before storing a new crop of grain may be "locking the barn after the horse is stolen." It is quite possible that moths and weevils from that bin have already infested the grain while it was still standing in the field.

A leading entomologist stresses this fact to point out that bins should be cleaned and fumigated before the new crop ripens. The insect pests, he says, come from just one source — stored grain found in corn cribs, grain bins, straw stacks, and other places about the farm. To prevent damage from grain moths, get rid of old corn and grain or fumigate before the new crop ripens.

This means that storage places should be cleaned. Sweep down walls and ledges of store rooms or use a vacuum cleaner. Clean between double walls, clean out cracks in floors and dispose of feed bags or fumigate them.

Walls and floors of empty bins should be sprayed with DDT. Use two quarts of 25% emulsion or two pounds of 50% wettable powder to five gallons of water. This will treat 2500 square feet of surface. Allow the room to dry thoroughly before storing grain and do not allow DDT to get on grain or feed.

Tragedy at Central Park Zoo Exists in Mind of an Old Man

By BILLY ROSE

Some of the sprightliest talk to be heard in Manhattan these nights is in the coffeehouses frequented by the talented and threadbare refugees of Mittel-Europa. Night after loquacious night, you'll find them huddled over red- and-white checked tablecloths, and though many a cultural door has been slammed in their faces, they remain a spirited and sociable lot, short on money, perhaps, but long on banter and bravado.

Most of the stories spun by these continental katzenjammers are on the comic side; yet, once in a while they come up with a yarn which leaves a ping-pong ball in your throat.

For instance, there's the tale about the old gentleman and his greying wife who, during the summer months, can be seen almost every day on the carousel near the Central park zoo, holding hands as their adjoining ponies pump up and down.

Who are they? Well, to tell you, I'll have to go back several years and several thousand miles.

Billy Rose

Shortly after the Nazis goose-stepped into Vienna and decency went underground, a well-known surgeon and his wife, both of frowned-upon ancestry, were urged by friends to take their six-year-old son and leave the country.

The surgeon refused. "I'm needed at the hospital," he said, "and I intend to stay as long as I can be of use."

His usefulness, however, came to an end a few afternoons later when a detachment of SS men rang his doorbell. The doctor, who had been warned to expect them, led his wife and son out the rear door, but as they hurried up the street a neighbor spotted them and gave the alarm.

The SS men searched the square and were about to move on when the boy, to whom it was all a game, reached out, and grabbed a brass ring and, turning to his parents, shouted, "Look, look! Now I get a free ride!"

Attracted by the boy's cries, the storm troopers dragged the doctor and his wife from the carousel and were about to take the child when their leader, a youth with a hangman's sense of humor, stopped them. "The kid got the brass ring," he said. "He's entitled to a free ride."

As the carousel started up again, the tinny strains of "Christ-birds" drowned out the mother's screams, and the last the couple saw of their son he was riding on the merry-go-round.

The surgeon was too valuable a commodity to kill right off, and so was his wife, a skilled nurse. They were sent to a slave labor camp to tend those prisoners considered too healthy for the ovens, and when the Allies marched into the camp in 1945, the couple were still alive. By this time, however, the surgeon's brain was a bit misty, but friends in New York paid his passage, and he and his wife were among the lucky ones who got by the immigration quota.

Ever since, the pair has been spending most of their summer days in the vicinity of the Central park carousel. The old boy is pretty much off his trolley, but his wife continues to humor him, and whenever he gets agitated and mutters "Where's Otto? I saw him on the zebra a minute ago," she patiently takes him by the hand and says, "Come along, dear, maybe he got tired and went home."

John Francis Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Callahan, Baltimore, formerly of Emmitsburg, received a bachelor of science degree last Sunday evening at Loyola College, Baltimore. He was a pre-dental student.

Dark and medium shade brown eggs hatcher better than light ones.

With July at hand, anglers throughout the county set their interests in taking black bass. As a group, the large and smallmouth bass and their relatives form America's favorite fresh water fish.

For the sport, action, and skill involved, many anglers prefer to catch bass by means of bait casting. Some of those fine bass lakes of Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Michigan have yielded prize winning small-mouths, and from North Carolina to Florida and Texas huge largemouths have been duped by darting plugs.

You take "The Ozark" tubular steel bait casting rod 5 1/2 feet in length, attach a "Hibridge" level wind casting reel filled with 50 yards of 12 pound test Skirr braided nylon casting line, snap on a Schmoog plug bait, and cast it to the lily pad clusters or weedy set-backs. You have just the right outfit to tangle with the 10 and 12 pound largemouths, or 5 pound scrappy smallmouth bass.

In plugs, to cover every condition, you need both solid and jointed, top water and deep running; and these should be in red-and-white, green-and-yellow, scale finish, and shore run-now finishes.

These lures, together with double spinners, single spinner with pork strip, and ordinary nickel spoons, are reliable summer tempters when the bass are deep and both casting and trolling is to be done.

You may weight the plugs where the water is deep over a grassy bottom, and troll them at moderate speed in a hitchy sort of fashion. Often this plan brings good sized bass to net. Lake George, in New York, is one notable place where this system has worked successfully.

Other tips on taking bass by bait casting, and especially at night, are given in Old Hi's free booklet called "Fishing For The Millions", and a copy will be sent to you promptly if you'll drop a penny postcard request to me, in care of this newspaper. We'll have more to say about taking bass by other methods in a week or two.

Since bass, walleyes, pike, and pickerel are so fond of minnows, you should use one of the new double duty galvanized pails with 10 quart floating bucket. This features a new built-in bait can to carry worms, crabs, or frogs, which makes it extremely handy for extended trips or when several fellows go along in the along in the party. Here's an angle you should consider if you go after these game fish often, when a variety of bait counts.

Live bait boat fishing is very popular and effective along both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, and for this sport you want a good boat rod. Both the "Chesapeake" and the "Jamaica" 5 1/2 feet in length overall, are fine ton kin bamboo boat rods. In tubular glass salt water boat rods, you would find the "Pompano" and "Admiral" to be ideal for general use.

By sending for your free copies of Old Hi's booklets "Salt Water Sport Fishing" and "Pacific Coastal Fishing", by addressing a postcard to me in care of this newspaper, you'll learn how best to use boat rods of this nature for taking all kinds of inshore game and food fish. Send for your copies today.

OILS

June 21, 1951

To the Farmers and the General Public:

We take great pride in announcing that we have been appointed the exclusive, "Esso Farm Distributor," in this, and surrounding territories—supplying you with Esso and Esso Extra Gasoline, Esso Heating Oil, Esso Kerosene, and Esso Motor Oils and Greases.

These great products are equal to, or better than any on the market. The Esso and Esso Extra Gasoline are the same products sold at the 27,000 Esso stations from Maine to Louisiana. They are the only gasolines made that have a patented Solvent Oil, and the Esso Extra Gasoline, is the only gasoline, on the market, containing the Anti-Stalling Ingredient, in the winter months.

We are proud to be able to supply you with these great products, and in knowing that you will be using the best products obtainable, for your valuable equipment.

For economical Farming and Happy Motoring—Call or Contact, "Your Esso Farm Distributor."

Sincerely

JOHN H. MCHENRY,

Manager.

Smoking In Bed Brings Fine

Smoking in bed may seem like a privilege, but it cost Paul Dignan, of Washington, a $50 fine. When Dignan's cigaret set his mattress afire, the firemen rushed to the scene and so did the police. A charge of negligence seemed to be a logical one since it was the second fire in as many days in Dignan's bed.

Japan began building the Southern Manchurian rail system after winning its war with Russia in 1905.
