BY ABIGAIL

Some of you may think that this article was paid for in the nature of an advertisement but that is not the case by any means. About 2 years ago I stated in my column that what Emmitsburg needed, among other improvements, was a modern theater, that the present one was inadequate and needed modern sanitation facilities, etc.

Well, Mr. Miller, the congenial proprietor of the concern, has gone one better. After installing toilets he also put into operation an air-conditioning plant and added new seats, not to mention extending the length of the building considerably, bringing the theater up to the level of what we more or less were yelping about. But that is not all. In an effort to bring first-class, wholesome entertainment to the people of the Emmitsburg District he has spent many thousands of dollars in building a drive-in theater just about four miles from town east on Route 32. The management has spared no expense in bringing this fine modern entertainment enterprise into our midst and nightly many Emmitsburgians are seen enjoying the excellent shows he has arranged for them, sitting comfortably in their cars. We feel that Mr. Miller is to be commended for his interest in our community, not only in modernizing his local theater, but also in creating a new industry here. He truly has the best interest of our community at heart. And in closing, let me tell you that if you haven't already been to the drive-in, you really are missing something. Good luck, Mr. Miller in your new enterprise and thanks from Emmitsburg.

From the mail sack: A letter, or rather note from a local reader reads as follows, and I quote: "Abigail, ask the clubs that were going to place paper containers on the Square where they are?" Beats me, friend, but it does seem that two years would be ample time enough to take care of the necessary arrangements."

Also in the mailbag: a newspaper clipping concerning women's appearance in public attire in shorts: Sykesville, Pa., Burgess Simon Kephart said his ban against women wearing shorts on the main street of this Jefferson County community was here to stay despite criticisms.

Kephart dug into the municipal ordinances and came up with a June 5, 1907, law that provides a $5 fine for anyone appearing in public "in a nude or semi-nude condition."

"There are as many in favor of the ban as there are against it," Kephart said.

"We've had a pretty good town here, but I was afraid those shorts might start something," Kephart said. "As long as the girls were dressed halfway respectable we didn't do anything."

"But it got so bad they didn't have enough on to flag a handcar."

The complaints that came in were on the mild side—like one from Joe Varcolla, Rockwell manufacturing foreman, who said: "What makes it so darn rough is that we have got some nice legs in town."

Don't get the contributor's idea but I presume he or she wants to inaugurate such a movement here. My sympathies to Chief Koontz if and when such a movement does take effect.

MOVES DENTAL OFFICE
Dr. Joseph F. Baldaachino last week moved his new and modern dental equipment in his recently renovated office next to the Fire Hall on W. Main St. The same office hours and appointments will be maintained. Dr. Baldaachino's new office consists of a larger reception room and office room.

St. Euphemia's Opens For 74th Year

For the 74th time, St. Euphemia's opened its door to the children of Emmitsburg for another school year. From the archives of St. Joseph's Central House we glean the following: "On Sept. 19, 1878, under the supervision of Sister Anne De Sales Farren, the Sisters of Charity from St. Joseph's Central House went to the town of Emmitsburg to teach school there. Classes were held in St. Vincent's Hall which was located on the northwest corner of the street then known as Green Street — now De Paul Street. The building was two-story and of red brick. Father Henry White, C.M., was pastor at this time. The present St. Euphemia's School, built during the time that Mother Mariana was Visitatrix, was finished in 1892 and was named for Mother Euphemia who had celebrated her Golden Jubilee in 1891."

The opening Mass was offered on Thursday, Sept. 4, 1952, by the Rev. John D. Sullivan, C.M., the 13th pastor since the Sisters of Charity took charge of the school in 1878.

Orientation Day
The largest first year class in the history of St. Joseph's High School—45 students—was introduced to the intricacies of a high school program on Tuesday, Sept. 2 from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. After a short assembly in which Sister Lucille, principal, welcomed the new students in the name of the faculty, they met each teacher in 10-minute periods. Student hosts—Joseph Scott and Robert Gelwicks—and hostesses—Saranna Miller, Lois Hartdagen, and M. Dolores Topper—escorted the new students through the building.

Opening Day
The entire student body returned for another school year on Wednesday, Sept. 3, with half-day session. Prior to the class periods, the students met the former faculty members and Mrs. Margaret Wasilifsky, M.A., in an assembly period. The assembly concluded with the presentation of the student government badges to the councillors, after which all students recited the student government pledge.

Faculty
From Taneytown Public High School comes a new member of the 1952-53 faculty, Mrs. Margaret Wasilifsky, M.A., who will teach English and French.

Opening Mass
The Very Rev. Francis J. Dodd, C.M., will offer the opening mass for the school year Monday, Sept. 8, at 9:00 a. m. in St. Joseph's Parish Church.

State PTAs Gear For Active School Year

With the opening of many public schools in Maryland this week and next, PTA are preparing for an active year of PTA membership, programs, and projects.

Important problems arising from increasing school enrollments, the need for training more teachers in Maryland, the need for more classroom space, and the general welfare of children and youth will be subject for discussion when parent-teacher groups meet this year.

Other topics slated this year for meetings locally are being adapted for use by Maryland PTA from the 10-point program of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers: "Good Homes, Sound Health, Safety, Equalized Educational Opportunities, Conservation of Human Values and Natural Resources, Vocational Adjustment, Constructive Leisure Time Activities, Civic Responsibility, Active Spiritual Faith and World Outlook."

Mr. Joseph A. Hunter, president of the State Congress, reports a large increase last year in the number of members enrolled in Maryland, 84,066 parents and teachers, and calls it part of the nation-wide trend toward increasing interest in education.

The local PTA membership campaign in the schools in this area will start the first week of school and continue throughout October.

Thurmont Lad Polio Victim

A two-and-a-half-year-old boy has been removed from the Frederick Memorial Hospital to Baltimore City Hospital after a tentative diagnosis of polio was made by Frederick physicians.

Gary Shuff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Shuff, Thurmont, was hospitalized for five days. His symptoms were suggestive of infantile paralysis and his removal to the Baltimore polio center arranged. His condition is not considered dangerous.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fritz and their 18-month-old daughter Karen, Frederick, are recovering from the same disease. Mrs. Fritz, whose illness was so light the polio diagnosis was not definite, is entirely well. Karen, in whom the illness affected only facial muscles, has made a complete recovery.

Mr. Fritz, most seriously ill of the trio, has returned to his home from the Baltimore City Hospital and is able to walk with the aid of crutches. He will go to Johns Hopkins Hospital shortly for further examinations and doctors are unsure now of the length of his disability, but hope he can return to work in a few months.

This week has found the various committees for the Fourth Annual Horse Show busy selecting judges and mailing out entry blanks for what has become recognized as one of the leading horse show exhibitions of the Western Shore of the Maryland Free State.

Sunday, Sept. 21 is the date of this annual event which in the past, has been adjudged as one of the most attractive events that Emmitsburg has ever staged.

Grange to Host Jefferson Group

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held on Wednesday evening in the Emmitsburg High School, 30 members present and Worthy Master Edgar G. Emrich presiding.

Three new members were accepted by the organization. They were Clifford Meskill, Gerhard Duffer and Helga Wolfshlaeger, the latter two German exchange students sponsored by the National Grange in this country.

Master Emrich summed up the year's achievements and cited the many accomplishments by the organization that were entered in the national community service contest. He commended the spirit of the local Grangers and thanked them for the spirit and unselfish devotion to the cause of creating a better community. A conservative summary of the number of hours spent by the Grange in community work revealed a total of about 2,530 man-hours. The local Grange will be host to the Jefferson chapter at the next meeting on Sept. 17, when the visitors will be in charge of the program. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

Party Leader Asks Removal Of Blinker

Owners of vacant lots which have not as yet been weeded this year, are being warned to take immediate action in clearing the ragweed from their premises. The Town Council, meeting in regular session Monday night in the Fire Hall, was spurred to action by the numerous complaints of hay fever victims for immediate remedial measures. Previously, several of the owners were requested to remedy the situation, but up until Monday night there was no evidence of responding to the request. Council warned that if the lots were not cleared immediately that the town would have the work done and the bill sent to the owners. Under an ordinance the Council is empowered to levy fines for such offenses.

Treasurer Louise Sebald presented the financial report, meter account, tax collector's report and secretary's minutes of the previous meeting. All were approved as presented. Revenue from the parking meters for August was announced as $276.75.

Council discussed a complaint of a West Main St. resident regarding the parking of automobiles in front of his residence most of the day and night. The complaint stated that several people were "garaging" their machines at that particular location. Chief Koontz was instructed to look into the situation.

Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Thomas J. Frailey, announced that a map of the sewerage system of the town was urgently needed and that if anyone possessed such a map it would be greatly appreciated if it could be borrowed for the purpose of making extra copies.

A request to have the Blinker removed from the Square was presented to the town solons by the leader of a local political party. A traffic control device in the form of a stoplight was believed the proper replacement. No action was taken on the request.

Street Commissioner Charles R. Fuss was instructed to have the grates guarding the surface drain system in front of Sperry's upper garage on S. Seton Ave., and Roy Bollinger's, replaced with new ones, or repair the old ones. Mr. Fuss was authorized to have the town's alleys repaved and the estimated cost is expected to be about $5,000.

Commissioner Fuss also was placed in charge of the renovation of the town sewage disposal plant.

UNSUNG HEROES OF THE HIGHWAYS

Not so long ago a survey disclosed that only eight persons in 100 knew what a traffic engineer does and how he works behind the scenes to prevent accidents on our streets and highways. His numbers are few, perhaps 500 more or less, but his achievements are many.

In a sense, the traffic engineer is an unsung hero. There is little doubt that his "know-how" saves hundreds of lives and prevents thousands of injuries annually. But even greater contributions will be made when his scientific approach to the automobile accident problem is better understood by all of the 150,000,000 people he serves.

Outstanding results at 80 danger spots in various parts of the country are cited by safety specialists in support of their advocacy of greater emphasis on good traffic engineering as a short cut to greater safety on streets and highways. Where traffic engineering was skillfully applied to "death corners" and hazardous stretches of highways, deaths and injuries were reduced nearly two-thirds and more than $3,000,000 in potential property damage losses was saved.

Most states and large cities now have a traffic engineer and increasing numbers of smaller communities are rapidly learning that they can ill afford to be without one. Every community should obtain at least the part-time services of a trained traffic engineering consultant to solve problems of highway congestion as well as those involving fatalities and injuries. The opportunities for traffic engineering "know-how" are endless and they are not necessarily expensive.

Big Car Race Sunday

Recognition of an auto racing fan club organized last winter will be given Sunday, designated by Roy Richwine as "Checkered Flag Fan Club Day" at Williams Grove when the next regularly scheduled AAA big car auto races of the 1952 season is presented on the half-mile oval.

The club, which now boasts a membership of 225 members, including fans, drivers, car owners and their wives, was organized to promote better auto racing and to provide fans with an opportunity to get together during the winter season where there are no races scheduled in this section of the country.

Winner of the 30-lap feature race which has been named the Checkered Flag Fan Club Sweepstakes will be presented with a handsome gold trophy on behalf of the organization.

Members of the club will be guests of Mr. Richwine in a section of the grandstand set aside for the exclusive use of Checkered Flag Fan Club members.

Mr. Richwine expects another stellar field of drivers for this event, including veterans of the Indianapolis Classic and other speedway veterans from throughout the nation.

Argentina Horse Enters Laurel Turf Classic

The field for the $50,000 Washington D. C. International at Laurel Race Course on Oct. 18 is rapidly gaining in size and stature.

With six acceptances already on file, President John D. Schapiro has extended invitations to three more foreign thoroughbreds—two from England and one from Argentina—to compete in the mile and a half turf event.

The English horses are R. C. Poucher's Wil Wyn, a four-year-old, and Price 'Aly Khan's Royal Blue, a three-year-old. The Argentine racer is Senor J. Silveira's Aguin.

Wily Wyn has a phenomenal record in English competition. He has won his last eight races and last season, as a three-year-old, wound up with a .500 percentage by winning three times in six starts.

Royal Blue is a chestnut cold and compiled a rather formidable record as a juvenile in 1951. If the bid is accepted, he will accompany Aga Khan's Nashua to these shores for the big event, the pair arriving on Oct. 6.

One of the top thoroughbreds in the Argentine, Aguin has won the Col. Martinez Stakes and the Gran Premio Jockey Club Stakes in his native country.

Two or three top-ranking American horses will be tendered invitations within the next two weeks.

YOU BET YOUR LIFE-

Every time you cross a street against a red light—every time you dash out from behind parked cars in mid-block, every time you walk to the right, with your back to traffic, instead of to the left on a rural highway—you bet your life!

In 1950, 9,400 pedestrians bet—and lost. Another 299,000 gambled against traffic odds and came away injured. One out of every three traffic deaths were pedestrians, most of them struck down at or between intersections or on the open roads during dark hours.

We are still a nation of jay-walkers whose mental attitude apes the speeding driver, getting there fastest by the shortest route and leaving personal safety at the curb.

When you are walking remember, the red light means you, too. Cross at intersections on the green or amber light meant for you, but watch out for reckless drivers, too. On highways walk facing oncoming cars. At night wear or carry something white, use a flashlight. Let drivers know you are there.

Don't jay-walk into eternity.

YOUR UNITED STATES

BY FLOYD CRAMER
PRESIDENT, NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF FREE ENTERPRISE, INC.

High taxes, government controls, big spending, loss of freedom and a centralization of power are definite symptoms of socialization. Yet, we have been told over and over again that to defend ourselves we must swap free private enterprise for socialism.

Many patriotic Americans have gone along with this mistaken idea, because they were not given the full facts. Turn your eyes to the north, where our neighbor Canada has steadily pursued the course of free private enterprise, despite shaky world conditions.

Let's see how the Canadians have fared under free enterprise. First, instead of inflating their currency they now have a dollar which is worth 102 cents. For the first time in 18 years, the Canadian dollar is selling above our money in the world markets. What does this mean? It means that their relative financial strength is greater than ours, and that is not saying much for the U. S. as a world leader!

Canada has balanced her budget in these times of crisis and emergency. She is even running a surplus, and U. S. citizens are becoming more and more eager to invest their money in Canada. Secondly, Canada has one of the highest standards of living in the world and is moving still upwards.

In addition, Canada is shouldering a share of the defense burden of the free world. But she is not giving herself away; rather she is opening up the country to market-starved Europe. Trade restrictions are kept at a minimum.

Canada has done much to encourage free enterprise. Investors are given the opportunity to make a fair profit; to risk their funds in new enterprises if they wish; and to compete in the labor and consumer markets. As a result of this encouragement, Canada is steadily strengthening herself internally. As a bulwark against foreign foes, she is developing her natural resources, her financial structure, her industries and her farms.

Now I certainly don't mean that Canada can be our model in all respects. But I do maintain that the preservation of free enterprise in the U. S. has hurt us.

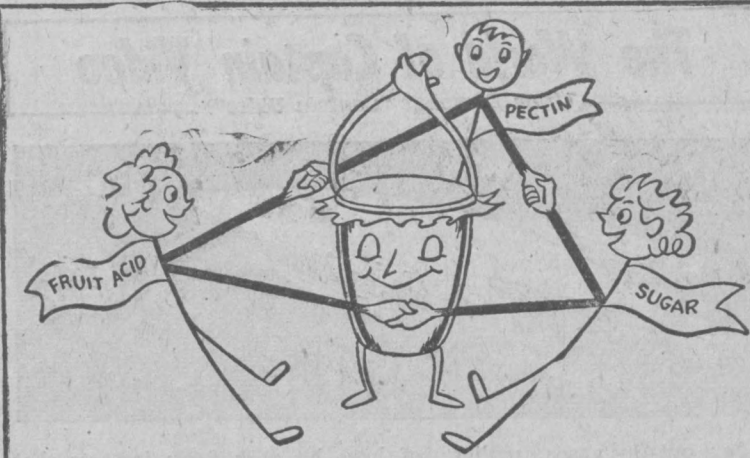

This country of ours would best help the world by bolstering up our own internal economy. We have tried the socialists' scheme and found that they do not bring us to anything but inflation, heavy taxes, and government control.

Salt should not be kept above the kitchen stove. Steam and heat often cause the salt to harden, and iodized salt to lose its iodine content.

Jelly Making Trio Major Reason For Success of Homemade Jams and Jellies

In America, 56% of the housewives make their own jams and jellies, and that adds up to more than 22,000,000 busy women. This illustrates the fact that it is an economical, easy and generally satisfying operation—and a lot of fun, too. In home jam and jelly making, 72% of the jelly makers in the United States use either powdered or liquid fruit pectin. These figures were compiled last year. This quick and certain jelly making with the modern trio of fruit acid, pectin and sugar has contributed tremendously to the ease and pleasure of home jelly making.

Summer Refreshments With a Continental Touch

WHAT gives a hostess a fine reputation? Usually, it's a few dishes she makes especially well or it may be just her flair for hospitality. But, more often, it's the little imaginative touches she gives to favorite stand-bys that make people sing her praises.

Take a sophisticated thirst-quencher like Viennese Coffee Frost, for instance. Underneath the lightsome whipped cream topping, it's simply iced coffee with a bit of spice added for variety. To make it, all you do is brew up 6 cups of your best double-strength coffee. Then, while it's still hot, pour it over 4 crushed cinnamon sticks, 8 cloves and 8 allspice berries. After an hour, strain the beverage and pour over ice in tall glasses. Sweeten to taste with sugar syrup and top with whipped cream. This will fill 4 tall glasses—plus extras all the way around.

With this glamour-cooler, you'll want to serve something not too rich, but interesting in flavor. Coffee Kuchens fill the bill beautifully. Somehow their fragrant, coffee-flavored goodness adds just the right Continental touch.

- Coffee Kuchens
- 3 cups sifted, enriched flour
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 cup raisins salt
 - 2 cups brown sugar, firmly packed
 - 1/2 cup shortening
 - 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 - 1/2 cup strong coffee
 - 1/2 cup evaporated milk
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 - 2 eggs, beaten
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Mix flour, baking powder, salt and brown sugar. Cut in shortening and butter or margarine with two knives or pastry blender. Reserve one cup of this mixture for topping. Combine coffee, evaporated milk and baking soda, add to remaining flour mixture and mix well. Add beaten eggs. Spoon into large muffin pans, filling half full. Add cinnamon to topping mixture and sprinkle on top of batter. Bake in moderate oven, 375° F., 25 minutes. Yield: 1 dozen.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

GLOUCESTER, MASS., Sept. 4.—Am here again for my summer vacation at the city where

I was born, which has fine people, good schools, a beautiful harbor and a most comfortable climate. When the new Route 128 is completed and the School for Fisheries is built, it should greatly prosper industrially. I am writing this at 58 Middle St. in the very room in which I was born; and am thinking of the changes since my boyhood.

Women In Industry

When I was a boy only about two million women were employed in the entire U. S. in other than housework or teaching. This has now increased to nearly 20 million. Jobs have given women more money to spend, New industries and products have been developed, freeing women from housework. Among these may be mentioned frozen foods, complete bakery products, self-service stores, electric refrigerators and ranges, dishwashers, garbage disposals and plastic table "linen."

There are 110 million people in the U. S. over 14 years of age, of which 58 million are women. Of these only 18 million are now employed. The total men and women in the labor force is about 63 million. If we subtract the 19 million from 58 million women it means that 39 million women have not yet become wage workers. Now here is the important question: How long will it be before the number of women employed equals the number of men employed? This will be possible as smaller and more modern houses are built, supplemented by complete electronic equipment and other wonderful new inventions not yet on the market.

Labor Unions and Living Standards

When I was a boy there was not a labor union in Gloucester. The carpenters and painters got $3 a day; haircuts were 25 cents; common labor was $1 a day. After graduating from college, I went to work for $10. Rents and foods were low and there was no plumber's bill as our "bathroom" was out in the back yard! We got our water from a cistern in the cellar; our heat came from stoves; we cut our own fire wood, and for light we used kerosene lamps.

There, however, was then a great difference between the living standards of the few well-to-do families and of the great mass of the population. As a result of the labor unions, minimum wages, social security, safety laws, shorter hours and higher wages, the living standards of the wage workers are now very much higher; while the privileges and profits of the old well-to-do families are gradually vanishing. Of course, new machinery and advertising have greatly aided in this redistribution of wealth. Let us hope that the labor leaders will not over-reach and "kill the goose which has laid these golden eggs."

Managed Money and Education

In my boyhood days we were living under the gold standard, which put a "ceiling" and "floor" on business, employment, prices, etc. It acted like a thermostat. When the expansion became too great, the thermostat turned off the oil burner; while when business cooled off, this economic thermostat started up the oil burner again. Twenty years ago this gold standard, or "business thermostat," was discarded. We are now living under managed currency. It is a pleasant sensation, but it is like running an oil burner without a thermostat. Some day the boiler will bust!

With women in industry, our public schools are completely out of date. Children are now getting most of their education from the newspapers, automobiles, radios, televisions, and gang leaders. As a result, we are suffering from a very serious epidemic—juvenile delinquency. Unless there is a revival as to parental responsibility, I fear that the only way to correct this situation will be by keeping the children in school eight hours a day. This may be the next great educational change coming to every city where this column is read.

Papa David Says:

(on NBC's "Life Can Be Beautiful")

"It does no harm to stop every now and then and remember that we owe a loyalty to ourselves. I think recognition of our own rights and needs, when they are just, makes all of us better able to be loyal and dependable towards our friends."

"To achieve for oneself is often the beginning of achieving for others, since a desire for success and worthwhile achievement in life leads towards the betterment of society as a whole."

"Some are born leaders, as the expression goes—and others seem to be natural followers. But it seems to me the ideally-balanced personality is the one who can take the initiative and lead when necessary—but can also accept leadership and work for the common good."

CAUTION—SCHOOL STREET

With the opening of school this month, a well-known character reappears on the American scene. He is a small, sturdy boy wearing a white armband and Sam Brown belt who holds the honorable post of traffic monitor or junior policeman for his school. Many a motorist watching him as he holds back a restless crowd of youngsters at the curb smiles with amusement and says "Isn't he cute?"

As long as the motorist watches the young man's actions carefully and obeys his signals, there's no harm in thinking he's cute. He is an important factor in preserving the lives of our children who are trooping back to school these days. Along with his appearance on the scene bright yellow signs blossom out; caution, stop signs, and speed limits that mean what they say. And, of course, at the crossing in front of the school there is the policeman who is every child's friend and protector.

Yet with all these efforts to guard the safety of our children, hundreds will be killed or permanently injured in traffic accidents during this school year. And statistics show that most accidents to young children are the result of adult carelessness. This disgrace to America can be wiped out. Every adult can do something about it.

If you have school-age children; reinforce the school's safety teachings with teaching of your own. Know that your child understands the dangers of traffic before he starts out that first day of school. Know that he stops and looks at every crossing, however quiet, between your home and the school or the place where he is picked up by the school bus. If you are not perfectly confident, go with him yourself or put him in the care of a responsible older child. Know that he obeys the instructions of the traffic monitors as well as those of the "real" policeman.

Don't allow older children to drive or ride in unsafe "jalopies." If your youngsters ride bicycles, be sure they know and follow the rules of the road.

If you drive a car: be doubly careful near schools or wherever children play. Don't just slow down at a stop sign and take a quick look. Stop and look carefully. Watch for school monitors and school crossing policemen and obey their instructions. Stop dead when a school bus is stopped. Have your brakes, tires, and lights checked regularly. Check windshield wipers and defroster. Avoid skidding by having good tire treads and by keeping speed low. Use chains.

If you carry children to and from school in your car: don't overcrowd the car. Insist on orderly behavior by the children in the car. A safety device should be installed on car doors to keep children from falling from the moving car.

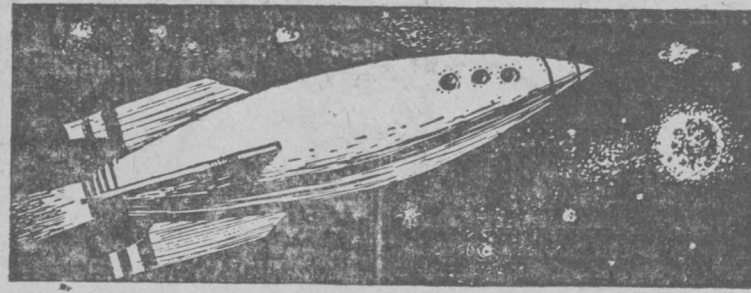

By following these rules, you will help to cut down the tragic toll of the leading cause of death and disability among children.

The World of Captain Video

(From Dumont's "Captain Video")

Far out in space, millions of miles beyond our atmosphere, large masses of fragments hurtle among the planets. These fragments are believed to be debris that was left from the explosion of a major planet that revolved somewhere near Jupiter and Mars.

There is no concrete evidence as to what caused the explosion but it may have been a collision with another large body. The explosion was probably so great, that most of the planet disintegrated into space in the form of millions of asteroids.

On rare occasions these asteroids enter our own solar system and collide with the Earth. These collisions have been relatively minor but they have hit with fierce impacts that have left huge craters.

On February 12, 1947, a great meteor crashed into the forests of Siberia leaving a series of 100 holes, some craters of which were 30 to 40 feet deep and as wide as 75 feet at the top, scattered over a mile wide area.

Large quantities of meteor iron, that ranged in size from 100 lb. chunks to tiny specks, that could barely be detected with a microscope, littered the area for several miles.

Meteors or planet fragments are but one of the many amazing and awe-inspiring types of occurrences in the mysterious world of outer space—the world of Captain Video.

Fascinating Fashions By Judy Seaton

Dark sheers or cottons to bridge the seasons are all the news now. Lovely Joan Alexander, of CBS's "Perry Mason," is tall and slender with a figure which sets off a basic black or navy — so classic and yet so practical a choice — to perfection. "Accessories can make a basic dress of this type look cool and fresh for summer — colorful and sparkling for fall, or warm and snug for winter," Joan points out, in explaining why the practicality of these dresses appeals to her.

Another good choice is cotton tweed. This material looks like imported British tweed — in herringbone, salt and pepper, etc., and will be cool in the summer — but can be worn under a heavy topcoat through fall and winter.

Fabrics this season are superceding high style in importance—and Teri Keane, who is "Chichi" on NBC's "Life Can Be Beautiful," says that she is especially delighted at the economic possibilities of the new fabrics, because of their season-bridging qualities. An investment in a fur scarf or stole, Teri feels, is well worth while when one considers that this can make your late summer dress a fall costume—and can later be worn with your light spring topper over the very same dress.

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Before newly elected PMA committeemen begin their rounds of farm visits for the 1953 program sign-up, they will have the benefit of a review of conservation problems and the best practices to meet these problems.

James A. Cottman, acting state PMA chairman, announced this week that a series of meetings to train the committeemen will be held this fall before sign-up time.

The University of Maryland, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers' Home Administration, Forest Service and other state and Federal agencies will cooperate with PMA to bring the latest information in conservation to the committeemen.

While crops are still on the land or being harvested is a good time to check to see which conservation practices will be needed to put your farm in top condition for 1953 production.

Chairman Cottman urged farmers to check their farms now for needed practices, so they will be better prepared to go over the farm with the PMA committeeman when he comes for the 1953 sign-up, pointing out what is needed for a good conservation program for that particular farm.

Condition of growing crops often serves as an indication of soil needs. Poor growth on sloping portions may indicate that terracing or contour farming are needed.

Signs of soil breakdown will receive particular attention from Maryland PMA committeemen when they visit farms this fall in the 1953 ACP sign-up, according to James A. Cottman.

If they find evidence of soil breakdown, they will recommend that a restoration program, with the aid of ACP assistance, be worked out to aid the farmer in restoring maximum productive capacity of his soil.

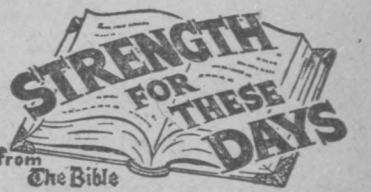

Soil breakdown is usually the result of continued cropping. The humus is used up, the soil becomes compact, more difficult to handle, and it holds less air and water than are needed for plant growth.

Where restoration of soil structure is the most needed conservation practice, ACP assistance may be used to restore organic matter and build fertility through growing grasses and legumes.

In some cases, putting the land into permanent pasture may be necessary. In others breakdown can be stopped by growing a cover crop and turning it under as green manure.

Dr. and Mrs. Louis Gunn and family, Riverside, N. J., spent the weekend with Mrs. Gunn's mother, Mrs. Stella Topper, De Paul St.

But he that hateth his brother is in darkness and walketh in darkness and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.—(1 John, 2:11.)

When we hold others in hatred, in scorn or contempt, we are not hurting them nearly as much as we hurt ourselves, for these are cancerous growths, destructive. If we seek the good in our neighbors and nourish it with our own, there is growth that is soul-satisfying and healthy, and its benevolence spreads, strengthening all. Let us hate only evil, and ever strive against it.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Soon, No Barrel

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Much talk is aired in this political year about ways and means to pierce the Iron Curtain abroad. But congressmen are finding it a tough job to pierce the Petroleum Curtain at home.

Senators are demanding the Federal Trade Commission release to the public the report it has prepared on the formation of a worldwide oil monopoly by five American and two British oil concerns.

So far, the Senators have been unsuccessful. FTC has buried the report as top secret, reputedly on orders from the State Department, backed by higher authority.

The only reason given is by Willard Thorpe, assistant secretary of state, quoted as saying release of the report "would not contribute to the achievement of the foreign policy aims of the U. S. in the middle East and might in effect impair their attainment."

Significantly, no attempt has been made to brand the report as untrue or false.

Therefore, the official position appears to be that the truth will hurt, with no specific mention of whom it will hurt.

Two Democratic senators are making an issue on the matter.

Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana asks the people to demand release of the report. Sen. Thomas Hennings, Jr., of Mo., urges Congressional investigation.

Sen. Long, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee group investigating the secrecy behind the Petroleum Curtain feels there are many things including the following the public should know.

If five major U. S. oil companies and two British firms have formed a world oil cartel, is it true the American Navy in the Mediterranean is paying excessive prices for oil?

Many billions this nation gives away are for oil from the Middle East to France, Italy and other nations. Is a cartel controlled price exacting a levy from U. S. taxpayers paying the bills.

On this point Sen. Hennings, bluntly claims foreign nations have paid $2 per barrel for oil that cost less than 10 cents to produce to add $12 billion to the costs of foreign aid plans.

It is interesting to note the demands for action in a campaign year are being taken by Senators of the incumbent party.

Many Washington observers believe the lid has been clamped down on what could be the greatest scandal of history.

In practical politics, it is not customary for incumbent party leaders to demand exposure of a situation developed during its regime. This causes speculation that the FTC report must be super-starring.

Washington also wants to see if the opposition party will join the drive to pierce the Petroleum Curtain. Sen. Owen Brewster, Maine, made an attempt three years ago, but he was defeated for re-election in this year's primary.

This opinion prevails.

It will take a coalition of Congressmen of both parties, backed by the public, to continue action to halt national and world economic domination by monopoly practices.

Turkey Numbers Hit All-Time High

There should be plenty of turkeys available this Thanksgiving, raising more this year than ever before, 529,000 birds, or 11 per cent more than last year.

The reporting service said that this is even more turkeys than growers planned to raise earlier in the year, despite a period of low turkey prices.

Farmers in the rest of the nation are also raising a record crop of turkeys, nearly 59 million, or 13 per cent more than last year.

Raising of lightweight turkeys has increased, too. The smaller birds, such as Beltsville Whites, now make up 26 per cent of the total, compared with 23 per cent last year.

Historic Fort McHenry, Baltimore, attracted 78,855 visitors during July 1952.

Maryland growers sold 341,744 turkeys in 1950, according to the State's Dept. of Information.

Joseph S. Boyer Noted For High Quality Crates

That we live in a day and age of specialization is, of course, a foregone conclusion: It is well-known that as rapidly as conditions improve, even more rapidly do our wants and demands. This fact, in a large part, has been responsible for the agricultural and industrial superiority of our nation over all other nations on the globe.

However, for us as a nation, to maintain this superiority, we must continue to produce, not only superior products, production methods, etc., but we must have constantly in our midst, the firms in the smaller accessory activities that aid in keeping our agricultural and industrial wheels turning.

'Tea Party' In Middletown

The people of Middletown (Ohio) have stopped complaining to themselves about government taxes. In an effective, organized manner they now are complaining to their representatives in Congress. When the new Congress convenes next January, the pattern of Middletown's "Tea Party" may spread from coast to coast. If so, the greatest flood of letters in the history of the U. S. mails will go pouring into Washington, all citing documented instances of needless waste and all demanding an end to waste and a reduction in taxes.

Like the "Tea Party" patriots of Boston in 1773, Middletown citizens feel they must do something powerful enough to shock the tax makers and the spenders in their Federal government. So they are mobilizing all segments of their population in a letter-writing campaign.

Shocking Figures

Middletown's "Tea Party" project was conceived last winter by a half-dozen citizens who drank morning coffee together downtown. They talked it around, and on Mar. 5 a meeting was held of 35 selected representative citizens. One of the hosts rose and said the time had come to do something more than "beef" about waste in government and paralyzing taxes. Documented items of gross waste in various departments of the Federal government were circulated throughout the group. Then some of the alarming facts about taxes were brought out.

The total direct and hidden tax in the purchase of a $3 pair of baby shoes is 80 cents. On a $3 telephone call it's 91 cents. On $8 worth of lumber it's $2.80. On a $25 table radio it's $8.80. On $20 worth of coal it's $6.05. In the purchase price of a kid's $5.35 scooter, total taxes amount to $1.45. On a $4.50 basket of food the tax is $1.43. Among the 35 persons who attended Middletown's first "Tea Party" meeting were housewives, doctors, lawyers, teachers, business and industrial executives, labor union officers and rank-and-file members, civic club officers, etc. All reacted sharply to the evidence of waste and these shocking figures on taxes.

Letters to Congress

The idea put forth at this first meeting was that each of the 35 would go home and write a letter to Middletown's Congressman and Senators, pointing out specific incidents of waste and requesting that extraordinary efforts be made to eliminate all waste and to otherwise cut down on government expenses, to the end that that taxes could be reduced. Furthermore, each of the 35 was given the task of getting nine other persons to write similar letters. In turn each of those nine would accept the obligation to line up nine additional citizens to join in—and on and on. In other words, a chain-letter effect was sought, though individuality in the letter-writing was urged.

Within a few weeks 2000 citizens were participating in the "Tea Party" campaign, and Middletown's Congressman and Ohio's two Senators were getting a steadily increasing flow of letters. And since the letters came from Democrats and Republicans, factory workers and housewives, union leaders and industrialists, business men and teachers, they simply couldn't be brushed off by Middletown's representatives in Congress. They got action.

It's Spreading

Middletown's "Tea Party" idea already has spread to Philadelphia, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Detroit, Los Angeles, and Houston. In most communities the letter-writing campaign is sparked by an informal, volunteer organization. Working men and women hold most of the offices, donating after-work time to expanding the movement. Many housewives contribute hours out of their busy days. The citizen letter writers are supplied with fresh items of governmental waste and detailed facts about the out-of-control increase in taxes during recent years. These specifics give weight and authority to the letters.

The citizens of Middletown have started something good. It is another encouraging sign that people all over the country are awakening to the harmful effects of wasteful and expanding government. As this column is written I have before me the breakdown of open and hidden taxes on a $2000 automobile. They total $664. There is something badly wrong in this situation. And only an aroused and active citizenry can correct it.

Frederick Attorney Named County Manager

Joseph D. Tydings, recently appointed by President James C. Morton Jr., as State-wide campaign manager for the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland, announced appointments and plans for the active participation of the YD's in the General election campaign.

Thomas Glass, Frederick attorney, was named regional manager to assist Mr. Tydings.

The regional managers will have the cooperation of a representative from each county Young Democratic Club.

A concentrated drive for registration of "first voters," and the presentation of the outstanding record of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson to the voters of the State of Maryland, will be the principal functions of the YD's.

Mr. Mark P. Doran, a former student at Mt. St. Mary's College, is leaving this week for El Cajon, Calif., where he will resume his studies.

Grid Book Lists Local Star

Proof that the University of Maryland's 1951 champions were the best college football team of all time is found in Morris A. Bealle's latest sports saga—"Kings of American Football"—just off the press.

Mr. Bealle compares the 1951 Terps with the best rated teams of the past—Knute Rockne's Notre Dame powerhouses of the 20's and Percy Haughton's Harvard juggernauts of the 'teens—and seems to show that the Tatumized Terps could and would have knocked off any of them.

The book traces the history of the sport at College Park from 1890 to the present. It runs the whole gamut of feats from Greenville Lewis (1896) and Curley Byrd (1907) down to Jack Scarbath and Bob Ward and "Mighty Mo" in 1951. It revises the thrills of Country Morris and Oozey Bill Huntemann, of Barney Cooper and Snitz Snyder, of Untz Brewer and Bill Guckeyson, of Shosty Chalmers and Bozie Berger, of Mike Stevens and the Knode Brothers, of Burton Shipley and Walter Posey and a thousand others.

Through it all runs the names of many Maryland boys. Frederick County furnished these to the building of football at College Park:

Pershing Mondorff, 1937-39 halfback and one of Maryland's greatest kickers, was an Emmitsburg product.

Frederick County's most famous son, Charley (King Kong) Keller of Middletown and the New York Yankees—played one year (1934) of football as an end. Coach Burton Shipley of the diamond squad decided he was too valuable as a baseball player to risk broken bones or football shoulders, so his grid career was ended almost before it started.

Frederick City sent to College Park the Farmers' first paid football coach, Major General D. John Markey, who received the then magnificent sum of $300 a year for his labors. General Markey also "filled in" as halfback, eligibility rules being somewhat lax in those days.

Frederick also sent Calvin Page, 1900-01 end, and Walter Comer, 1924, center, College-parkward.

The book chronicles five games played between Mt. St. Mary's College and Maryland Agricultural in 1894, 1902, 1907, 1904 and 1907. The "Mountaineers" won four of the five.

It was the Maryland Aggies, in 1904, who helped dedicate Echo

Field. The game was marked more by slugging than by football play and ended in the College Parkers' only victory in the series, 11 to 6.

QUESTION: I am planning to make a few rooms in a walk-in basement. Would like to know the best and cheapest way to insulate the floor and walls. I plan to put down a rough wood floor, and plaster board on the walls. Have been advised to use tar and paper. Do you think this is a good idea? I think it would give off an odor.

ANSWER: If you plan a wood floor, it would probably be better to have no insulation beneath it. Air circulation below would take care of any slight moisture, normal with concrete floors. Furring strips on walls also provide air space behind plaster board, which would take care of moisture at this point. You can lay tar paper if you wish without worry about the odor.

QUESTION: Will you please advise me on how to finish a white oak chest which I have just finished? Wish to obtain a satin-like finish with the natural grain showing.

ANSWER: Build up several coats of shellac and rub down with FFF grade pumice. Use a heavy cloth pad for rubbing. Sprinkle the surface with pumice, wet and wring out the cloth, makes all strokes in the same direction. If you want to mark the grain in white, rub a white filler across the grain before the shellac is applied, then continue as above. Use a coat of wax to finish off either method.

QUESTION: Do you know of any cure for ants? We have a camp in the country and are bothered with them.

ANSWER: Best control developed so far is the use of dieldrin, dusted in powder form on visible ant hills, and spread in thin unbroken lines around door and window sills and other points of entry to the house.

Traffic Engineer Important Man

Traffic engineering "know-how" is saving hundreds of lives and preventing thousands of injuries annually, but even greater contributions to highway safety lie in the future when its scientific approach to the growing automobile accident problem will be better understood and appreciated by the public in the communities and states it serves, according to the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies.

A 12-year study embracing 80 danger spots in all parts of the country, which was completed recently by the Association, has revealed some outstanding results in accident prevention through traffic engineering. Some significant findings were that both fatal accidents and injury mishaps were reduced "nearly two-thirds by the application of modern traffic engineering techniques at dangerous intersections and locations, both urban and rural, which had taken extremely big tolls of dead and maimed.

The accident experience reported at each location, before and after engineering changes were made to remove the causes of fatalities and injuries, was studied closely over sufficient periods by a local traffic engineer who reported directly to the association. Before the traffic engineers went to work there had been 170 fatal accidents at the 80 locations studied. After the engineering projects were finished the toll at "death corners" and other dangerous city and rural locations surveyed dropped to 60 fatal accidents, a decline of 65%, according to Robert H. Harleston, Jr., the association's traffic engineer.

Injury accidents totaled 1,000 before engineering techniques were applied. They were reduced to 350 representing a 65% reduction. Property damage accidents dropped 43%, from 4,600 to 2,600. Mr. Harleston conservatively estimated that the saving in direct economic costs of accidents amounted to more than $3,000,000 in the periods studied. If the cumulative records of these traffic engineering examples were brought up to date, he declared, the totals of lives saved, injuries prevented and damage averted would be far greater.

"The majority of Americans are unaware, I believe, of the many ways that trained traffic engineers serve the cause of highway safety by eliminating the causes of accidents," said Mr. Harleston. "Most people regard them—if they ever heard about them—at all—as engineers who install signs, signals and markings. However, the traffic engineer's work goes much deeper. He scientifically designs highways, intersections, cloverleafs, traffic circles and curves, and recommends speed zoning at locations he studies and finds unsafe.

"Some traffic engineering projects are costly, but not in relation to the results achieved. There are many, however, in which only a few dollars are expended to bring dramatic savings in lives, injuries and property damage, not to mention time saved by untangling traffic congestion. Examples where small expenditures brought big savings are numerous. One project at a rural road junction in Pennsylvania, costing only $188, reduced the toll of 7 deaths and 11 injuries in nine accidents within 21 months to only three accidents in a similar period afterward. And in these three accidents, one was an intoxicated driver, one was an unlicensed and the third driver skidded on an icy road. Eight lives were saved in six years by another project near Dallas, Tex., costing $1,250, at an intersection where eight persons had been killed in collisions and two other accidents had occurred in three years. The only accident in the after period was a minor one involving a drunken driver."
