Tomorrow's the big day that over 200 local nimrods have been patiently waiting for the past 11 months. Hunting season, with the air containing just a tint of frost, gets under way Saturday and the boys with the big scatter guns will let loose with a barrage that threatens the very foundation of the bunny kingdom. If each of the estimated 200 Emmitsburg hunters get their limit nearly 1,000 cottontails will have bitten the dust by sundown. But then, every hunter doesn't get his full quota, so this gives Hopalong Bunny a short reprieve on life . . . and short it is . . . for over a month he has to daily dodge the boys with the long barrels and the scatter shot and after the recent shooting matches I'm afraid that most of the hunters are in excellent condition to do their best job. You wonder where all the bunnies come from, you don't seem to be able to see many hopping around. I'm going to do the unusual and not wish the nimrods the usual "happy hunting," but to extend a "happy escape" to rabbitland. As a woman, I have a sympathetic feeling for the carrot-eaters.

My congrats to the auxiliaries of the local service organizations who so kindly roused themselves from their comfortable slumber Tuesday a.m., and provided the fire laddies with hot coffee and sandwiches after three hours of fire-fighting in the cold. When the smoke-eaters returned at 2 a. m. from the Glass fire, they were met at the fire hall by the women of the service organizations who had a cauldron of steaming coffee ready for them. It's just little things like this that make life worth living. And while I'm in the humor and passing out the compliments, I want to commend William Baker on the excellent job he did in managing the Community Show for the Grange. He really put it across, as it had never been done before. It was by far, the most successful, both financially and socially, that has ever been held by the local Grange and is steadily growing in popularity. "Bill" really did a bang-up promotion job and it was through his untiring efforts that the show was the success it was. A very fine gesture by Dave Martin in donating "Beautina" to the cause of the Memorial Hall, can't go unmentioned either. The heifer netted the fund a neat $125.00. All we need is more people like Dave around here.

Well, the sun hasn't retreated and the sky hasn't darkened and the world hasn't come to an end as some of us were led to believe by statements uttered during the recent presidential campaign. The way of life continues about the same as pre-election days. It's funny how some of us can develop a psychosis when we can't have our own way. I'm certain that things will go pretty much the same way in the future as in the immediate past. Ike hasn't taken over yet, but I'm sure he can do the job, if we get behind him.

Let's get behind the Boy Scouts' drive for old toys folks! The boys will collect broken, dilapidated toys soon and will repair them to a state of usefulness so that some poor family can have a happy Christmas. This certainly is a worthy cause and most homes have some type of toy lying about in the road. Just contact the Scouts or you can bring them to the designated collection center so that the Scouts can begin work on them in their spare time. It certainly is a noble gesture on their part and deserves the backing of all of us. No matter what condition the article is in, the Scouts will try their best to restore it to a useable condition. Just let them know.

Here's another break for those parents who want their children to have a musical education. "Walt" Simpson, affable conductor of the Municipal Band, has let it be known that that organization is considering another beginners' class, the last one just about ready to graduate to the parent organization. The deal will

4,000 Hunters Set For Season Tomorrow

Maryland's regular hunting season will open tomorrow in conformity with the state game laws, Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Game and Inland Fish Commission, said Thursday.

Fear has been expressed in recent days that the opening might be postponed due to dryness of the woods and fire hazards. Mr. Vaughn explained yesterday that recent rains over the entire state had lessened the possibility of forest fires, however he urged all hunters and others who go afield to be extremely careful in building fires and smoking, in order to preserve Maryland's wildlife and woodlands.

License Sale Heady

Over 3,500 county and state-wide licenses have been issued in Frederick County thus far for the upland game season.

The number is about up to normal and the licenses undoubtedly will pass the 4,000 mark before Saturday arrives.

The weather bureau forecasts fair weather which is not expected to improve the dangerous conditions of the wooded sections. Over half an inch of rainfall the first of the week was helpful in reducing the fire danger for several days but forest wardens say it will become extremely dry again in the near future unless there is more substantial precipitation.

Pennsylvania, which lifted its hunting ban Tuesday morning has been experiencing little or no bad effects from the dry timberland.

Game To Be Scarce

The rabbit population is reported none too plentiful and rather spotty for the opening of the season. The season opens at the same time for quail, which are not numerous, grouse, dove, woodcock and pheasant. It continues for rabbits, quail, grouse and pheasant until January 3, December 14 for woodcock and November 29 for dove. The waterfowl season for ducks and geese opens next Monday and continues through January 10.

Suit Over Land Develops

Recent disclosures about the construction of an "underground Pentagon" inside Raven Rock mountain near here have brought to light a controversy that hinges upon how much the Government should pay the former owner of the land.

According to the Rev. Alfred Holt, pastor of the Philosophical College of Occult Sciences in Baltimore, the earth beneath the 280 acres the Government took from him in January of last year is full of valuable greenstone, a rock used in the manufacture of shingles.

Going To Court

Col. Alan J. McCutchen, district engineer for the Army, in Washington, admits the existence of the greenstone, but holds that the Government is not using the land for mining purposes, and therefore the Rev. Mr. Holt should not receive more than a sum based on the surface value of other underdeveloped land in the vicinity.

And there the matter rests pending settlement by the U. S. District Court in Harrisburg, Pa.

The Rev. Mr. Holt has amassed a group of figures indicating that the value of the rock deposits on the land alone totaled something in excess of $338,000,000. He therefore refused the Government offer. Rev. Holt based his calculations on a geological survey which indicated that he had more than 451,733,240 cubic yds. of greenstone on his property, or 1,613,333 cubic yards per acre.

Fairfield Soldier Wins Citation

M/Sgt. Paul C. Stoner, Hampton, Va., received recently in Korea the Commendation Ribbon and was cited for meritorious service while assigned as non-commissioned officer in charge of post exchange operation from Sept. 2, 1951 to Sept. 16, 1952. His wife, Ruby, and two children live at 512 Lewis Ave., Hampton. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stoner, live in Fairfield, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Peddicord and family and Mrs. Addie Peddicord of Baltimore, visited last Sunday with friends at St. Anthony's.

Mrs. Ray Topper, Mrs. Robert Topper, and Mrs. Marie Rosentel were entertained recently at cards by Mrs. James J. Kelly.

Dr. Fenlon Addresses Local Lions Club

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club was held as a joint session the local club acting as host to the clubs comprising this district. Visiting clubs were Taneytown, Thurmont, Glade Valley, Union Bridge and Liberty. About 40 Lions were present at the session which was presided over by the local club president, J. Ward Kerrigan.

Secretary-treasurer Robert E. Daugherty reported that about $300 would be realized from the recent Horse Show and termed it highly successful. Lion George L. Wilhide reported on negotiations with the Double Day Printing Co., which appears to be interested in locating here.

The president appointed the following committee to arrange for the annual charter and ladies' night to be held later this month: George L. Wilhide, chairman, Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr., Charles W. Spriggs and Herbert W. Roger.

Three new members were inducted into the organization. They were Dr. Joseph Baldacchino, Cloyd W. Seiss and Captain Philip B. Sharpe.

Samuel Bowman, Union Bridge, zone chairman, welcomed the neighboring clubs and gave a short talk.

Principal speaker of the evening was Dr. Edward Fenlon, instructor in philosophy and education at Mt. St. Mary's College. He was introduced by Dr. John J. Dillon, Jr.

Dr. Fenlon, author of several books, and an outstanding foe of Communism, chose as his topic, Communism and how to combat it. Stating that he once was approached to become a member of the party, he told of his appearance as a Government witness before the now defunct Dies Committee investigating Communism about a decade ago. Dr. Fenlon revealed the procedure of infiltrating Communists and stated that they usually offer money and prominence as the reward for becoming an associate. The speaker revealed that most frequently they (the Communists) infiltrate into the colleges and universities in an effort to get a foothold on the education of the youth of our country.

In concluding his highly interesting discourse, Dr. Fenlon offered this bit of advice as an aid in checking Communism: "We must preserve the spirit of America which has been imbued by our founding fathers and that the price of liberty is sacrifice."

St. Joseph's High PTA Meets

President Dominic Greco presided at the regular monthly meeting of the St. Joseph's High School PTA held Tuesday evening in the school auditorium. About 40 parents in addition to faculty members were present.

The meeting was opened with prayer, led by Sister Madeline. The secretary, Mrs. Donald Stoner, read the minutes of the previous meeting and they were approved as presented. Mrs. Guy A. Baker Sr., gave the treasurer's report.

The Sophomore Class was commended by the group for the excellent manner in which it conducted the recent dance which netted $37.50. A Thanksgiving prom is being planned under the sponsorship of the Junior Class, supervised by the PTA. A pre-Christmas dance also was discussed, but no definite action was taken. Early December was suggested as a tentative time.

Guest speaker of the evening was Rev. Fr. William D. McGonigle, dean of men at Mount St. Mary's College. Father McGonigle chose as his theme, youth guidance and civic duties.

All-School Play Date Is Set

Emmitsburg High School will present a comedy entitled, "Young and Lively" in the new school auditorium Friday, Nov. 21, at 8:00 p. m. This play is published by the Northwestern Press and promises to be just what its title says. Parts have been taken by members of each class and an unusually large group is taking part in this first all-school play for the new school year.

An enjoyable evening of entertainment and fun is promised for this event.

The Mayor and Commissioners visited Jarboe Grove, Frederick, Thursday night. Mr. Grover engineered the town's sewerage system two decades ago and has furnished the Town Board with maps of the system.

Community Show Highly Successful; Winners Named

The Emmitsburg Public School was the scene of much activity Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7 and 8, the event being the Grange's Community Show. The success of the affair was due largely to the excellent organization and leadership by the committee chairman, William G. Baker, the co-operation of the FFA boys and above all, the loyal support of the people of the community. The Grange wishes to extend its appreciation to everyone who helped make the show the success it was. Mr. Edgar G. Emrich, master of the Grange, summed the success by stating: "We realize the degree of success in any endeavor is relative to the degree in which it is supported and we were indeed inspired by the fine response of the community."

There was a total of 520 exhibits with 230 premium winners. An initial list of winners and money premiums has been submitted for publication. It is to be understood that this is only a first list and any errors contained are unintentional and will be corrected later.

Friday, the first night of the affair the entertainment was provided by piano selections by Virginia Baumgardner, Jack Wantz and Gwenda Cregger. Following the piano music the queen, Miss Thelma Bollinger, was introduced and presented with a lovely corsage. The movie "Farmer of Tomorrow," telling of FFA boys' experience, was shown and the door prize was awarded. A total of 124 people registered for the door prize which was a bushel of apples donated by the Blue Mountain Orchards and was won by Jack Wantz.

Saturday, the second and closing night of the show, a record crowd of 278 registered for the door prize which was another bushel of apples by the same donor and was won by Joyce Meadows. Entertainment for the evening was a square dance held in the cafeteria and thoroughly enjoyed. Music was furnished by Joe Haines of New Windsor who also called the figures. With him was a group of young people from Carroll County representing the Carroll County Senior Council of 4-H clubs. Between dances they entertained with more intricate steps.

Concluding the show was an auction of the Holstein heifer calf Butina, donated by B. D. Martin for the benefit of the Memorial Hall Building Fund. Earl Hoffman, Thurmont, was the guest auctioneer. Beautina was purchased by Cecil Hartle, Route 2, for $125.00.

Reader Satisfied By Democratic Vote Result

Dear Mr. Editor:

Would you kindly print the following information as consolation for the disconsolate Democrats?

(1) The Party polled over 26 million votes, that is, two million more than last election of the President and about one million less than the high count given F.D.R. in 1936-40.

(2) This vote represents the rock-bottom vote of the party and indicates its real strength in the nation.

(3) Of the 25 million votes given, when this calculation was made, 21 million or 82 per cent came from States north of the Mason and Dixon line. About 18 per cent came from the so-called Democratic South.

(4) The Republican Party polled about the same number of votes in the South as did the Democrats, that is, about four million.

(5) The 26 million votes cast by the Democrats, therefore, excluded the Dixiecrat vote, the greatest dissatisfied Texas vote, the protest Virginian vote, the Louisiana disagreement vote over tidewater oils, and other anti-Truman vote of South and elsewhere.

(6) This 26 million vote also excludes the so-called Farm Vote which it traditionally Republican.

If disconsolate Democrats will ponder over these figures, they will realize how tremendously strong their party really is.

Local Sailor Wins Promotion

Herbert A. Glass, QM1, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Glass of near town, and husband of the former Doris Jean Trimmer, Gettysburg, has been officially nominated as a prospective applicant for the permanent commission as ensign in the regular navy, it has been reported by the commanding officer of the U.S.S. Requisite. In October Glass was detached from the survey ship and upon completion of a four-week instruction period at Norfolk, Va., he will report to USNTC, Bainbridge, Md., for a three-year tour of duty as an instructor. Mrs. Glass will reside temporarily at her mother's home in Gettysburg and will join her husband later in Norfolk or Bainbridge.

Glass, a graduate of Emmitsburg High School, completed seven years of naval service this month. His brother, Earl M., M.M. 1, USN, a veteran of nine years' service, is expected home soon from a four-months' cruise in the Mediterranean.

Legionnaires Cop Parade Prize At Brunswick

The Francis X. Elder Post drill team and color guard, of Emmitsburg, chalked up another win in parade activities to add to its growing prestige.

The unit, activated only several months ago, won first prize of $50 at the Artistic Day parade held at Brunswick Sunday.

Members of the drill team and color guard participating in Sunday's affair were: T. Eugene Rodgers, drillmaster; William Rodgers, Louis F. Rosensteel, secretary; Robert Myers, Everett Chrismer, Allen Davis, Leo Topper, Carroll Topper, Charles B. Harner, Thomas L. Harbaugh, Richard Yoemans, Jack Rosensteel, Joseph Rodgers, George Danner, Paul Eyer, Vincent Topper, Edward Wastler, Andrew T. Shorb, William L. Topper, Donald Topper, David Wantz, Sterling Goulden, Richard Ripka, and Wales Rightnour.

The drill team and color guard rehearse every other Tuesday at the Legion Home beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Any Legionnaire desirous of joining this precision-marching outfit may attend the next meeting Nov. 25.

Join Loyal Order of Moose

The following Emmitsburgians were initiated into the Loyal Order of Moose, Gettysburg, last week: Dan Crouse, Ralph Irelan, Bernard Sprankle, Louis Rosensteel, and Andrew Shorb.

A/2c Joseph C. Bollinger and wife arrived home Nov. 5 on a 30-day furlough from Kelly Airfield, Texas. Upon completion of his leave Airman Bollinger will report to Camp Kilmer, N. J. for overseas duty. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bollinger of Route 2, Taneytown.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fuss, Miss Ruth Gillelan and Mrs. C. R. Fuss visited Sister Flora B. Ohler last Thursday in Baltimore.

Fire Partially Damages Farm House Near Here

Fire did heavy damage Tuesday night to a rural home near Tom's Creek Church.

About 11 p. m. Tuesday night the Vigilant Hose Co. responded to an appeal for assistance from the Paul Glass residence, Four Points, which had become ablaze. The house, a two-story structure, is located on the old Troxell farm and is situated about four miles southeast of here.

Mrs. Glass first noticed the fire in an upstairs bedroom and hurriedly summoned the firemen from her neighbor's house. When the fire company arrived the upstairs was enveloped in flames and gas masks had to be used to gain entrance. The only water available, other than the booster tank on the fire truck, was a fire pond on the property, which fire officials said was responsible for saving the structure. The Taneytown fire company was summoned and was met at the Carroll County line by State Trooper K. D. Bond, who guided it to the scene of the conflagration.

The firemen were successful in confining the blaze to the top section of the house, but heavy damage resulted to the downstairs by water and smoke. Defective wiring was believed to have started the blaze which officials estimate at several thousands of dollars. The firemen returned to local headquarters at about 2 a. m. and were served hot coffee and sandwiches by the VFW and American Legion Auxiliaries.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mr. M. Frank Rowe, one of the community's oldest residents, quietly observed his 87th birthday Monday at his home on W. Main Street.

CORRECTION

In last week's Chronicle there appeared a story stating that Governor Stevenson carried Frederick County in the presidential election two-to-one. The figures were erroneously arranged and the result should have read General Eisenhower carried the county by that ratio.

Game Law Changes Announced

The State Game and Inland Fish Commission announced this week several changes in the fishing code had been adopted and hereby declares: "It shall be unlawful to fish for or take, or attempt to fish for bass (large and small mouth) or pike, in non-tidal waters except during the period from June 1 to November 30, both inclusive."

County Affected

Another section of the law also changed was that regarding fishing in Frederick County. The new code states, "It shall be unlawful to fish for any species of fish in the Potomac River in Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery and Washington Counties during the period May 1 to May 31." It is believed that this law will protect the spawning areas for bass in these areas.

The regulations become effective January 1.

Name Permanent Trout Streams

The Commission also declared three of the state's trout streams as permanent. Named thusly are the North and South Branches of the Casselman River in Garrett County from their sources to their juncture and the Casselman River from said juncture to a point 25 yards beyond the breast of Stanton's Dam; Piney Run in Garrett County, from the breast of the Frostburg water impoundment on said stream to its juncture with Red Run; Laurel Run (Moscow) in Allegany County.

This regulation also becomes effective the first of the year.

Buys Pacer

George W. Shriner, Taneytown businessman, this week purchased Billy's Lady, a two-year-old pacing filly, sold for $17,000 as a week of trading activity on the Harness Racing Market continued at Harrisburg.

Over 400 trotters and pacers have changed hands for $421,200. Billy's Lady, one of nine race horses consigned by R. T. Morrison, Anderson, Ind., was bought by Mr. Shriner, a newcomer to the standardbred sport.

Guy A. Baker, who was operated upon recently at Warner Hospital, is reported as getting along nicely.

MOUNT STUDENT JOINS HONOR SOCIETY

Arthur E. Mace captain-elect of the Mt. St. Mary's College baseball team, has been named to the Monsignor Tierney Honor Society, the highest academic award at the college. Mace, a graduate of Central Catholic High School, Troy, N. Y., sparkles as efficiently in the classroom as he does on the diamond. He is a senior in social studies with a major in history.

Mace follows in the footsteps of another distinguished T. o. y native, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Sheridan, LL.D., president of Mt. St. Mary's, who also won fame as captain of the baseball, basketball and football teams at the local institution.

"Can't Win In Korea," Says Senator Bridges

A "positive proposal on Korea," calling for a national policy to promote "the collapse of Communist power," has been submitted to the American people by the ranking Republican member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. The detailed plan, timed for consideration immediately after the election, is in the November issue of the American Mercury.

"We can't win in Korea," Senator Bridges declares, "but we can't withdraw to peace, so we can't withdraw at all. We have to stay, not in despair but with new resolution. We must stay as part of a world plan with one clearly proclaimed objective: the ultimate disarming of Communism."

The Senator calls for a great national debate on what to do now about the Korean war. "This debate," he says, "must be conducted by patriots who are seeking neither partisan advantage nor the vindication of past position. The issue must be proposed action, and from this debate must come understanding and new national resolution."

Senator Bridges asks first for national agreement on what he calls the "fact" of the war. "We are at war," he says, "and we are likely to be at war for many years. The President we have elected will be a war President; our economy will continue to be a war economy. Our taxes will be high; and our sons will be drafted into the military."

"There is no parallel of latitude nor national boundary," he declares, "on which we can sign an armistice and 'go home.' We are in a great world power struggle which must end in the disarmament of our enemy or in defeat for America."

The Senator has had a prominent role in all the disputes over our Asiatic policy, including the MacArthur hearings.

He calls for national agreement on a second "fact"—the "fact" that China, the heart of Asia, has been lost and can be regained "only on that day, probably distant, when armed Communism collapses in Asia and our idea prevails."

"Our immediate task," he sets forth, is to understand, enumerate, and then to rally our Asiatic allies. And these allies, he declares, are numerous. For years we have heard little but talk about how many millions of Asiatics are arrayed against us. What we need to recognize now is that there are even more millions of Asiatics waiting on American leadership to be arrayed against Communism."

To implant his proposed policy for applying "maximum pressure against the Asiatic periphery of the Communist world," Senator Bridges makes these suggestions:

- 1—That there be no political restrictions of weapons in the field against armed Communists.
- 2—That all merchant ships bound for Communist ports in Asia be required to halt at Singapore, Manila, or Tokyo, so that their cargo can be certified as proceeding at our advantage.
- 3—That the Chinese Communist tyrants be required to live in fear of commando raids and armed rebellion.

"Has the time come when it can be said that American policy safeguards the sleep of tyrants?" the Senator asks. "Our policy in Asia, as in the rest of the world, should never contribute to the security of Communist individuals or governments, but to their insecurity."

"When we get back to this policy," Senator Bridges insists in closing, "then the armies of Communism which now seem so formidable, will scatter as they have always scattered before individual resolution. In the age-old battle between the ordered phalanx of tyranny and the patriot crouched behind the tree with his musket, there should never be any doubt as to where America's sympathies lie."

Odds And Ends

By ANNABELLE HARTMAN

This last section of my account of the summer's trip to the Far Northwest has to do mainly with the few days spent in the Canadian Rockies after ending the Inland Passage cruise at Vancouver, but before going on with that I should like to go back to where I left our party at the end of the preceding section—off a little way in "the Interior," beyond the tip of the Passage, at the wonder-spot of "Ben-My-Chree," the Memorial Home-stand in the tiny mountain-encircled valley on the edge of West Taku Army. For at least two incidents of the return trip to Skagway seem to me worth noting and there is Skagway itself to mention; the quiet town at the head of the Passage with its wildly romantic past, and Wrangell, the port of call we had passed in the night on the trip up.

With a final lovely scene of "Ben-My-Chree" under a sunset sky added to our store of memory-pictures, we sailed back thru the night to Carcross, and there the next morning, in the interval between the boat's arrival and the train's departure, we listened to a fascinating talk by "Patsy" Henderson, one of the original discoverers of gold in the Klondike, an old man now but still sturdy, with a keen wit; first, how the Indians caught fish and animals before the White Man came with his metal implements that inflicted so much unnecessary suffering but which the Indians were compelled to adopt; then, how he and George Carmak, with the Indians Tagish Charley and Skookum Jim, found gold in a creek up in the Yukon wilderness and went down to Skagway to record their claim—the small beginning of one of the greatest gold rushes in the history of the continent!

And there was the train stop in the midst of our winding, precipitous course down the mountains, at Inspiration Point, to see the especially impressive view from there and also to read the affecting inscription on the little monument placed there (instead of in the gulch far below): "The Dead are speaking. In memory of us three thousand pack animals that laid our bones on these awful hills during the Gold Rush of 1897-1898. We now thank those listening souls that heard our groans across this stretch of years. We waited but not in vain." (The monument was placed in 1929 by the Ladies of the Golden North and the Alaska Yukon Pioneers).

It was thru this connection with this same long trail to the gold-fields over the White Pass (which we had followed to Carcross on the steel trail that presently superseded it) that Skagway became historically and excitingly famous, lying as it did at the head of a long open but protected water passage from "down yonder" and at the very beginning of one of the chosen roads to "the glamour North." So almost overnight, once the stampede began, this little town became a "city" of from 10,000 to 15,000 people of every description and from all parts of the world, most of them staying only long enough to assemble their outfits, join briefly in the develops in such places, then hectic kind of life that quickly setting out on foot, with pack-horses or without, for "the rocky jaws of White Pass and the golden Klondike beyond." And then presently the great Rush was over and the hordes stopped coming and going, and gradually Skagway became what it is today, a quiet, orderly town of some 700 people with a variety of business enterprises and a good community spirit (which I feel justified in inferring from a list I read of its fine civic organizations and the statement, "The community also maintains an excellent public library"). But there is something else especially distinctive of present-day Skagway that a reporting visitor must not fail to mention even though she herself had no chance for more than the merest glance at it—and what a contrast to the things that made Skagway a "magic name" back in the late 1890's! I mean the super-sized vegetables, the many fine berries, and most especially the brilliant, profuse, and larger-than-usual flowers, the same ones we know—dahlias, pansies, asters, snapdragons, petunias and others—showing the magic that nature can work when given the long long days of even a short summer season.

And finally, for my last note on the Passage: in the early evening of the second day down from Skagway, there was the call we had missed going up, at Wrangell, a stop made, so far as the cruise passengers were concerned, for one very special purpose, namely, to see an unusual collection of totem poles. Not knowing where we were going, we found ourselves, shortly after the "Louise" docked, following the purser in a long procession up a winding hilly street, over a bridge, and then suddenly at the end of our jaunt, in a small open space with a plain tightly-closed-up wooden building in the center and the poles irregularly grouped around it. The building, we learned, was a reconstructed Indian community hall (no one seemed to know how far back the original dated) and the poles, replicas of those that stood there originally, having been carved by local Indians. I had hoped that the usually fluent and well-informed purser would explain something of the significance of these strange objects, but he did not undertake to do so, and so we gazed in mystification, recognizing some but not all of the separate or interlocking figures but not their meaning. (Since that evening I have learned a bit more about these awesome markers. The actual region of their production, by the way, is only south-east Alaska and north-west British Columbia—nowhere else in the world.)

And now, abruptly, the second visit to Vancouver, this time merely a matter of quick transfer from ship to train. And then began the last and completely different stage of the conducted tour that had begun for me at Seattle 12 days before—the part that some of us had thought might be an anti-climax after "The Passage and Beyond." How mistaken we were!

Countian Alters Birth Certificate

An alteration of a birth registration certificate in Frederick County has been brought to the attention of Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Dept. of Health. Approximately one case of this kind is reported every two years to the department.

The penalty for such an offense is $500 fine or imprisonment for six months or both fine and imprisonment. The State Board of Health issues cases of violation to the state's attorney in the county for prosecution.

"Causes of making alterations to birth certificates are many," Dr. Riley says, "among them to enter a child into school earlier, to put him to work earlier, to get benefits from welfare by forging another name to make it appear as if it were a child of the family, and to prove age 21 to order alcoholic beverages at a bar."

Prior to 1939 alterations were made to change the legitimacy item. Since this no longer appears on the Maryland birth certificate, such changes are now unnecessary.

Most of the violators make the alteration directly on the certificate. The case from Frederick County seems to be unique, Dr. Riley says. "The changes were made on the record then shellacked to a piece of cardboard." The changes were evident despite the shellac, he said, causing the "forgery" to be brought to his attention.

In an effort to prevent alterations, the division of vital records and statistics, which issues the birth certificates, has inserted the words "not valid without raised seal" on all photostatic certified copies, and is using safety paper for "Birth Registration Notice" and putting fine horizontal lines thereon. No erasures on the notice are allowed to be sent from the department.

Registrants, or parents, are warned against changing or altering a record issued by the State Health Dept. and teachers, employers, and others are urged to report any violations directly to the Dept. of Health.

PROPOSED DAV MEMORIAL TO UNKNOWN SAILOR

CINCINNATI — The Disabled American Veterans in cooperation with the Department of Defense, will construct the Grave of the Unknown Sailor at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, as a fitting tribute to the heroic Navy dead, comparable to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington. At its recent national convention in Boston the DAV voted to underwrite the estimated $75,000 cost among its membership. The memorial, designed by Paul B. Williams, who helped design the United Nations building in Paris, will have four circular pylons, 35 feet high, with a curved ramp running out into the water and circling a buoy on which will be a dedicatory plaque. Three rooms in the land structure will be used as chapels. DAV officials hope to break ground for the memorial in the near future.

Consumers Do Not Know What They Want

"Consumers do not know what they want and why they act," declared Alfred Politz, head of Alfred Politz Research Inc., in an address on "Effective Market and Opinion Research" before the recent Boston Conference on Distribution, Hotel Stadler, Boston. "Consumer opinion in 1800 would not have given us the electric light, but only vastly improved kerosene lamps." But, Mr. Politz added, "Marketing and advertising research, understanding the principles of experimental design; can enormously increase the efficiency of marketers' and advertisers' efforts. This is not because research can perform miracles, but because marketers and researchers who do not have the benefit of valid research are forced to operate with nothing but assumptions concerning the causes of consumer behavior."

If ye love Me, ye will keep My commandments.—(John xiv. 15.) It is not enough to go to church one day a week and thus, by devout attendance and attention, to express love for the Lord. His commandments are to be kept every moment of every day in all we do, say and think—only then are we loving Him, and deserving of Divine favor.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER BABSON

EUREKA, Kan., Nov. 13—Last July, I forecast a bumper total crop outturn for this year.

Thanks to Mother Nature's fine co-operation, the 1952 total crop volume is the second largest of record. The above is not withstanding the severe drought that prevailed in some areas. This year's total wheat crop amounted to 1.2 billion bushels—the second largest ever recorded. From the price standpoint, this huge outturn undoubtedly would prove burdensome were it not for government loans. Substantial amounts already have been impounded—a fact that may result in some stringency later.

The rye crop was the poorest on record, amounting to only 15.7 million bushels; but this will be supplemented by sizeable imports from the large Canadian surplus. The barley yield also was relatively small, but it should suffice. The same may be said for the below-average crops of oats and flaxseed. Hay did very well, with an above-average outturn of 103.8 million tons; nevertheless, shortages are indicated in some areas this winter. Rice rang the bell, with a record production of 47.7 million bags (100 pounds each). This is fortunate in view of the expected heavy foreign and domestic demand for rice.

Hats Off To Corn
Among the fall crops now being harvested, corn undoubtedly is king. This year's indicated outturn of 3.2 billion bushels will be second only to that of the record crop of 3.6 billion bushels. Furthermore, this year's corn is of very high quality—a matter of great importance to growers, as well as to livestock interests. Although cattle prices have dropped sharply, and may decline somewhat further next year, this large fine corn crop should enable smart feeders to make money in 1953.

Being a Bostonian, I am interested in "baked beans." Even though indicated outturn of 16.2 million bags of 100 pounds each lags the 10-year average by around 10 per cent, supplies are ample. But, I am not so sure about another staple—the good old Irish potato. The total 1952 outturn is sharply under the average for 1941-1950. Therefore, I cannot forecast lower prices for potatoes.

White Wealth—Cotton
The South in recent years has rapidly diversified and industrialized its economy. Yet, the white staple continues to be an important factor to our regional and national prosperity. Thus, I am glad to note that the 1952 U. S. crop is expected to reach 14.4 million bales. This outturn, however, will not prove excessive, in view of the demand for domestic consumption and exports. Prices for cotton are likely to hold at relatively high levels.

I have long been intrigued by soybeans—another oilseed crop. Prospects recently have been improving. In fact, this year's estimated crop of 286.2 million bushels will be the second highest of record. The carryover, however, was relatively small, and no glut is indicated, especially in view of the light peanut and flaxseed crops. I also forecast a good demand for oilseed products. Witness in this connection the phenomenal increase in oleomargarine production and consumption. Now some big ice cream manufacturers are turning to vegetable oils instead of the lowly milk cow!

1953—Good or Bad For Farmers?

While farm prices have been sliding, I see no reason for pessimism. Some of this decline has been seasonal and will be corrected later by seasonal factors. Price supports and the continued big increase in population are two strong props not to be underestimated. Export demands for most farm products will continue strong during the year ahead. Hence, my trip makes me optimistic for this great Central West, whatever may happen to Europe or Korea.

Ann Eckenrode, who just recently returned from a several months' trip abroad, spent several days at her home at the West end of town. She later returned to Baltimore where she is employed.

Vivian Topper of Baltimore, her grandmother, Mrs. William spent the week-end visiting with Topper, of near town.

Will she love your gift in May as she loves it in December?

When next May rolls around will the gift you gave this Christmas still be a source of pleasure and happiness—will it still be in constant use—will it still be a continual reminder of your thoughtfulness and consideration? So many gifts are so nice at the moment but so useless, forgotten, discarded or worn out in a few weeks. But there is a type of gift that means not only pleasure at the moment but pleasure, convenience—yes, even leisure—for months and years to come. It's the gift of an electric appliance. For instance—an ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR or a HOME FREEZER...

AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR—Something she's always wanted and will continue to enjoy for years . . .

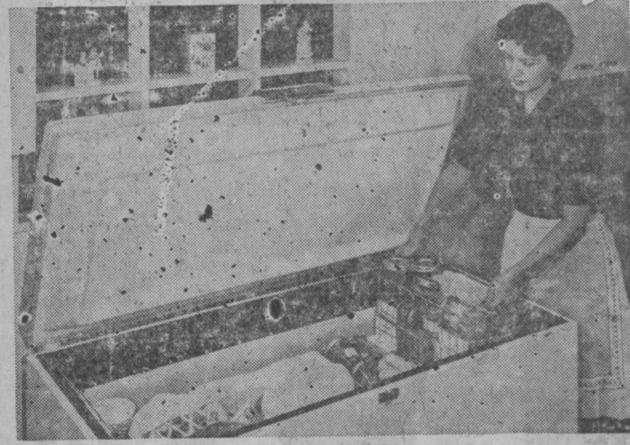

Modern electric refrigerators are about as much like pre-war models as today's automobiles are like those of the "roaring twenties." Now every homemaker can enjoy the use of a built-in freezing compartment with plenty of storage space for a big supply of her favorite frozen foods; automatic defrosting that banishes forever the wet and messy job of frost removal; adjustable shelves and vegetable drawers designed for greatest use and convenience; lower than ever operating cost and sleek modern design that adds beauty to any kitchen. Nothing you can give a homemaker will be more deeply appreciated for years to come, than a work, time and money saving electric refrigerator.

Or a HOME FREEZER—To really pleez'er . . .

An electric home food freezer offers safe storage for pounds and pounds of fresh frozen foods. Your little woman will have more leisure time and less worry when it comes to preparing meals for the family, simply by freezing a supply of lunches and whole dinners way ahead of time. Fruits and vegetables can be frozen gardenfresh at their summer best and stored for winter enjoyment, along with meats and cooked foods and desserts. She can take advantage, too, of "Bargain Buys" when buying in quantity is cheaper. There are all sizes and prices to fit every home's need and pocketbook.

Truly, in what better way can you show your understanding of her daily problems, than by giving her a gift that transforms those problems into pleasures!

Knowledge is Power

(1) A survey, just completed, of several thousand adults representing a cross-section of the nation, reveals that 99 per cent of the U. S. adult population believes in God. Ben Gaffin and Associates of Chicago, an independent commercial opinion-research firm, which made the survey at the request of the Catholic Digest, put questions to Catholics, Protestants, Jews, members of other religions, and persons who said they had no religious beliefs or affiliations. The December Catholic Digest contains the first in a series of articles based on the survey.

Belief in God among Protestants turned out to be a shade under 99 per cent, among those who said they were Catholic slightly under 100 per cent, and among those who said they were Jewish, slightly less than 97 per cent. While there is but little change in groups according to age, there is an increase of belief among those over 55 years old.

(2) The majority are not, according to John E. Gibson's article in This Week magazine. Citing a public-opinion survey conducted by Princeton University, Gibson reports that only 32 per cent of the U. S. people are satisfied with their incomes. Businessmen and farmers are the most satisfied with what they earn. Professional people seem to be the most dissatisfied. Investigators concluded that "At this level, physicians, lawyers, and college professors are competing for social status with persons far above them in income; their desire for a much larger income represents a wish to strengthen an already high social status with a correspondingly high income status." The professional man is likely to enjoy a social rating that his bank account, simply can't keep pace with.

(3) Although the game has been divided into four quarters of 15 minutes, the ball is really in play only about 12 minutes out of the total 60 minutes of the game. Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf, California coach, emphasizes this point in his book, "This Game of Football." The rest of the time while the clock is running, explains Waldorf, "the teams are huddling, calling signals, or otherwise preparing to put the ball in play."

The clock is stopped whenever the ball goes out of bounds, a pass is incomplete, a score or a touchback is made, a penalty is called, or possession of the ball changes from one team to another. "The clock is stopped so often that a full additional 60 minutes of time leaks away in interruptions."

It won't pay to sit back and relax just because the National election is over. All the problems that existed the morning we went to the polling places are still with us, every one of them. The Communists will keep right on working to undermine America from within and without, and millions of Americans, as members of one pressure group or another, will continue to grab for special advantages at the expense of the rest of us.

No man likes to think of himself as a member of a pressure group, but most of us are, in one way or another. And what I have to say about such groups, goes for all of them, including the rich and powerful ones.

Every one of these groups owes its existence to the fact that our economy has become increasingly complicated in the last fifty years. Many of us still remember when school teachers spoke of Longfellow's "Village Blacksmith" as the personification of honest labor, toiling in his own shop, using the same tools and methods and pleasing the same customers year after year. Where is the blacksmith now? For that matter, where is the horse which gave him his reason for being in business?

Surely the auto repair industry, with its elaborate and frequently changing machinery, with the sizeable cash investment called for, with all the tie ins for the sale of gasoline and oil, is not at all like the simple forge under that spreading chestnut tree we used to read about.

It would be easy to go on with illustrations of modern complexity. When a farmer markets soybeans, is he selling food for cattle or the raw material for scores and scores of different manufactured products? Many times even the grower doesn't know the final use of his crop.

This complexity leaves men wondering where they fit in. The auto mechanic looks toward his union. His employer looks toward a trade association. The farmer looks toward the price stabilizer. Consumers unite. Brokers and bankers and dealers and manufacturers all form their own groups, each determined to put on all the pressure it can.

Obviously we can't turn back the clock, revive the horse, reopen the blacksmith shop and go back to mud roads, candlelight and out door plumbing. Neither can we afford to sit around and sigh for the good old days, because if we do, the intensification of pressure groups will tear the United States and the American free enterprise system to tatters, even faster than the socialists will, and we'll surely wind up in the slavery of a police state.

The fact is that in this country we know so much more about machinery than we do about people.

We can build all kinds of elaborate machines and hook them up in smoothly working sequence to perform genuine marvels. But we haven't learned yet how groups of people can hook themselves together to work smoothly for common purposes.

Every lover of America, every friend of our free enterprise system, can help in this effort. Every one of us has to do his utmost to see that the new President and the new Congress approach our national problems in the national interest. Believe me, if the new men in Washington just re-shuffle the pressure groups, substituting one lot for another, our situation will be worse than ever.

Homemakers' Corner

Outfitting the family with overshoes for wet cold weather costs enough to make it pay to choose and care for them so they will last for several seasons, say U.S. Department of Agriculture clothing specialists.

In women's overshoes, the fit of the heel is important. A small shoe heel can cut into a wide overshoe heel, and wide shoe heel can crush an overshoe heel too small for it. Instead of buying two pairs of overshoes to suit both high and low heeled shoes, it may pay to investigate the different types of boots that fit any type of heel.

In caring for rubber footwear, remember that heat, oil and grease damage rubber. Rubber overshoes or boots should never be kept or dried near a radiator or in any hot place. Grease or oil should be washed off promptly with a cloth dipped in water containing a mild detergent.

Save Steps In The Kitchen
 It may pay you to think twice before discarding kitchen equipment that doesn't seem to be paying its way. Chances are, you have duplicates that are needed in several places in the kitchen. U.S. Department of Agriculture household equipment specialists suggest ways to make your kitchen work more convenient.

Have what you need—but only what you need—where you use it first. This may mean getting rid of some items but adding others.

Here are some examples: Since you use measuring cups and spoons at the mixing center, range and sink, it's a good idea to keep sets of them at these work centers. Keep supplies such as cereals, flour and cooking fats at both the range and mixing centers. If you keep large containers of these staples at your mixing center, and small ones near the range, you'll save yourself time and trouble.

Nests are built not only by birds but by some mammals, reptiles, amphibians, fishes and invertebrates.

Aircraft cord and strand wire, used for airplane controls, is as small as 7/1000ths of an inch in diameter.

HEALTH and SCIENCE

FIVE MILLION AMERICANS SUFFER FROM HYPERTENSION, SO SEVERE, SOME CAN NO LONGER WORK..

Now a new drug is enabling many to resume active and nearly normal lives..

Methium—New Hope for Hypertensives

Diseases of the circulatory system and of the heart are the number one menace to human life today. Among them, hypertension, commonly known as high blood pressure, is most frequently encountered by physicians. At this moment there are about 5,000,000 Americans with hypertension so severe that they are in need of medical help.

Many physicians believe that the fast pace, and pressures of modern life, with all its anxieties, contribute to the development of the disease, by causing a dramatic increase in artery-constricting nerve impulses. Surgeons developed a nerve cutting operation, called a sympathectomy, to stop these impulses from reaching the blood vessels. It is not always successful, too drastic for many patients, and irreversible. But now Methium chloride, a new drug in tablet form, has been found to block the dangerous nerve impulses and to lower blood pressure in a majority of patients. It is made by Chilcott Laboratories of Morris Plains, New Jersey, a division of Warner-Hudnut, Inc.

According to doctors, the drug's action controls high blood pressure in 70 to 80 per cent of the patients treated, often bringing pressure down to normal or near normal levels. The compound is potent and should be used only under a doctor's supervision. Methium has helped thousands of hypertensives to resume active living, and has become an effective weapon against America's number one killer.

Cured Meats Must Be Protected From Insects; Caution Urged

It doesn't sound very appetizing, but insects can attack and spoil home-cured meats. But an ounce of prevention will save all the pounds of meat cured, says T. L. Bissell, extension entomologist at the University of Maryland.

One case of ham skipper infesting home-cured meat has been reported to Mr. Bissell this fall. Here are his suggestions for protecting meat from insect damage:

Eliminate breeding places of the pests in the meat house. Brush and scrub thoroughly all places where meat has been stored. Keep meat scraps in tight containers until they can be rendered. Keep insects out of meat storerooms using 30-mesh or under screen, and fitting doors and window tightly. Slaughter, cure and wrap meat in a grease-proof paper before insects start to work in the spring.

RAYMOND C. WARREN vs. MARY ELLEN WARREN
No 17448 Equity in the Circuit Court for Frederick County, Md.
The object of this Bill is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the Complainant, Raymond C. Warren, from the Respondent, Mary Ellen Warren.

The Bill states in substance that the parties were married on the 2nd day of February, 1946 in Frederick County, Maryland, by Reverend William C. Royal, a regularly ordained Minister of the Gospel; that they lived together as man and wife at 216 Dill Avenue, Frederick, Maryland until on or about the 4th day of October, 1950, when the Respondent deserted the Complainant without any just cause or reason; that said desertion has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past; that the separation of the parties is final and deliberate and that there is no hope or expectation of a reconciliation between the parties; that three children were born as a result of said marriage; that the Complainant is a resident of Frederick County, Maryland, where he has resided for more than one year last past; that the Respondent is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and that her last known place of residence was in the American Zone of Germany. The Bill prays that the Complainant be divorced A VINCULO MATRIMONII, and for general relief and process.

It is thereupon this 17th day of October, 1952, by the Circuit Court for Frederick County, sitting as a Court of Equity, ORDERED that the Complainant give notice to the said non-resident Respondent of the object and substance of this Bill by causing a copy of the same to be published in some newspaper published in Frederick County, once a week for four consecutive weeks prior to the 22nd day of November, 1952, commanding her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 8th day of December, 1952, and show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ELLIS C. WACHTER,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Frederick County.

Solicitor for Complainant. Filed October 17, 1952. True copy test: Ellis C. Wachter, Clerk. 10/24/52

New Car Dealers Unite To Solve Traffic and Parking Problems

Following months of planning with industry leaders, J. Saxton Lloyd, president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., has announced the launching of a program by new car dealers to stimulate state and local action leading to solution of the problems existing throughout the nation because of inadequate highway and parking capacity.

Located in every community in the U. S., the association's more than 34,000 new car dealer members are being mobilized behind the program. Through special state high way committees, dealers will seek the support of, and closely assist, members of State Legislatures, state and local highway authorities and other public officials in state and local programs developed to bring about vitally needed increase in highway and parking capacity.

The dealer highway committees will work with appropriate public authorities in helping to determine realistic community, city, county, and state needs, and in publicizing widely such information.

Mr. Lloyd points out that, "Approaches to individual solutions will vary from state to state and community to community as a natural outgrowth of the widely divergent problems that must be met."

Recognizing that automobile dealers alone cannot work out complete solutions to the multiple problems to be faced, Mr.

Lloyd adds, "We recognize that new car dealers, already key community members, are obviously able to shoulder important leadership. Out intent is to bring the experience of our membership and organization to the problem and to offer every possible support."

Excerpts from the careful study made reveal that there are more than 52 millions of vehicles on the highways today, an increase of 70 per cent in seven years; 86 per cent of vehicular travel is on 23 per cent of the roads and $11 billion has been estimated at the cost of modernizing these highways; roadways are wearing out and it has been estimated that 69 per cent of intermediate-type highways in service Jan. 1, 1952, will be worn out and need replacement within 10 years; too many of the principal streets in every town are loaded beyond capacity; fatalities and injuries are increasing; losses growing out of traffic congestion and accidents have increased to the point where insurance alone can be the economic "straw to break the camel's back" in the family budget.

Every state automobile dealer association has been urged, by the national association, to make its special highway program an immediate major activity and to develop, in the public interest, an immediate and specific plan of action leading to the local solution of these serious problems.

Homemakers' PRICE FACTS

By Monday, all grocery stores in the State of Maryland will be required to post ceiling prices over 400 cost-of-living items on special OFS posters, under the Community Pricing Program, it was announced this week by Hugo R. Hoffman, Maryland OPS Director.

The posters, prepared with the cooperation of wholesale grocers throughout the state, will be prepared by OPS and mailed directly to the grocery stores. Grocers must post these ceiling price posters in a place where the shopper can easily see and read them.

The ceiling prices of such staples as flour, rice, coffee, lard and such standard items as butter, oleo, cheese, cereals, and baby foods will be found on the posters. Housewives will be able to check the selling prices of these items against the ceiling prices on the poster.

"It should be pointed out that the grocer need not, and in most instances probably will not sell at the ceiling prices," Mr. Hoffman said. "He may, of course, sell under ceiling but must not sell at over ceiling prices."

Community pricing does three things. First, it makes prices on the items listed uniform throughout the area covered and in each of the OPS Group Store Classification Second, it reduces the amount of paper work the grocer has had to do in order to properly price these 400 items in the past. Finally, it gives the housewife an opportunity to see OPS at work and to check prices on important cost-of-living items.

"Many wonder what they should do if they find a grocer selling a posted item over ceiling," Mr. Hoffman said. "We suggest that any over ceiling sales can be first called to the attention of the grocer. Should it be an honest error on his part or by one of his employees, he will be quick to correct it. Only if over-ceiling sales persist should be brought to our attention. This can be done by contacting us at 306 W. Franklin St. in Baltimore.

"We sincerely hope that housewives throughout Maryland will take advantage of Community Pricing. Check prices at your grocery on the new Community pricing posters," Mr. Hoffman said.

Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might.—(Jer. 1x. 23.)

Savants and scientists, powerful leaders—what value should we set upon these if they do not work for good? How much better are the plain works and lives of humble, even unlettered men and women, who live and act in goodness. Let us rather honor them, who walk in the way of the Lord.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—What is the greenish film that forms on copper pipes and how can it be removed?

A—The green deposit is caused by oxidation, similar to rusting of iron. It can be removed by washing with ammonia.

Q—How can bulged linoleum be flattened?

A—If the bulge is along a seam, lift the edge and push linoleum paste under the loosened section. If the bulge is in the middle of a sheet, cut through the center of the bulge with a sharp razor blade and squirt paste underneath with an ear syringe. If the cut is made along a line in the pattern, it will not show. Weight down repaired areas until the paste dries.

Q—If the roof of a house has ugly lines, what can be done to make it less noticeable?

A—A situation like that calls for clever use of color. The solution is to make the roof and the sidewalls the same color, or, at least, to have a roofing color and a sidewall color that blend closely with each other. Asphalt shingles are ideal for that purpose. They are made in both solid and blended colors, ranging from subtle pastels to black.

Q—If oil has been spilled on a softwood floor, staining the boards, what can be done?

A—Cover the stain with dry portland cement or plaster of Paris as soon as possible after the oil has been spilled. This will absorb the oil. If this doesn't work, try gasoline or benzene, taking precautions against fire.

Q—Is it possible to get rid of clothes moths by finding their breeding place and destroying it?

A—Yes. If there are moths in a house, there usually is a central place from which they come. This might be an old carpet or a bundle of old clothes hidden away on a closet shelf or in the attic. If moths are frequently seen, a search should be made for this "nest."

Your Personal Health

Salmonella—A Food Problem

The salmonella has nothing to do with the finny denizens of the briny deep commonly met in cans. It is a rod-like creature so small that it cannot be seen without a microscope. You may not have seen it, but you have probably felt its presence.

Perhaps you met it on your motor trip last summer. You stopped at that quaint country inn for a chicken dinner. Twelve hours later, in a hotel in a strange town, the whole family was miserably sick. Diarrhea and painful cramps were the chief symptoms. There may also have been fever, nausea, and vomiting. The attack lasted about three days and almost ruined your trip.

A touch of food poisoning, you called it. Salmonellosis, the doctors call it, after the American pathologist Daniel Salmon. The disease is caused by eating food containing the salmonella organisms, of which there are many varieties. They are chiefly associated with food poisoning, but one variety causes paratyphoid fever. It occurs both in man and animals.

Salmonellosis can usually be traced to improperly prepared food, particularly roast fowl and egg dishes. The intestinal parasites are also spread from the excrement of dogs, cats, most farm animals, and also from people. The disease is communicable throughout the period of illness which can last from about three days to three weeks. Anyone can catch it, and it is prevalent throughout the world. Epidemics are most frequent where sanitation is primitive, but they are by no means unknown in the U. S.

Since measures to protect the family against the infection should be a part of every housewife's routine. All animal food should be thoroughly cooked, with particular attention to fowl and egg dishes. Food stuffs should be refrigerated, especially if there is to be any delay between the time of preparing the food and serving it. Hands should always be washed before preparing food and before eating.

Salmonellosis is often traced to unsanitary methods in restaurants and other food handling establishments. Any place where food is handled for the public should be regularly inspected by the health department. Employees should be educated in hygienic methods. Citizens can do their share by reporting every case of food poisoning to their doctors so that the source can be discovered.

"I'd like to shake your hand" says John Wayne

I've ALWAYS ADMIRED the kind of people who are real, down-to-earth practical people. Like the men and women who are doing something about their own future and the future of their country--by buying U. S. Defense Bonds. People like you!

Of course, I'm a U. S. Defense Bond buyer just as you are. And you know, we aren't the only ones who think Defense Bonds are a good buy. For right now while you read this, you and I and millions of our friends and neighbors all over America own more than 49 billion dollars worth of our country's interest-earning Bonds. The greatest success story of its kind the world has ever known!

I think we have a right to be proud of what we're doing. And it ought to make us proud to be Americans, too. For where else in the world today can you buy real security and peace of mind, and at the same time make an investment in your future and the peaceful future of your country--as you can by buying Defense Bonds?

That's the way I feel about it. And I hope you see things the same way. If you do, then why don't you do as I'm doing and tell all your friends what a good buy U. S. Defense Bonds really are.

If you will, here are just a few of the things you can tell them:

FIRST—Thanks to new Treasury regulations, every Series E Bond we buy begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3% interest compounded semiannually when held to maturity. It reaches full maturity value earlier (9 years 8 months) and the interest it pays is now bigger at the start.

SECOND—Every Series E Bond we own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without our lifting a finger!

THIRD—During the 10-year extension period, every unexpired bond earns at the new, higher interest rate (average 3% compounded semiannually). Our original $18.75 can now pay us back $33.67. $37.50 pays back $67.34. And so on.

U. S. Defense Bonds are one of the easiest, most convenient forms of saving ever invented. For through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, you can buy bonds on a time payment plan. Just specify the payments, as large or as small as you like, and they will be automatically set aside from your salary. This way you save the money before you spend it. And millions of people have found this is one sure way to save.

Peace is for the strong... for peace and prosperity save with U. S. Defense Bonds!

The U. S. Government is not paid for this advertising. The Treasury Department thanks, for their patriotic donation, The Advertising Council and Chronicle Press Emmitsburg Maryland

OUR DEMOCRACY — by Mat

MEN, MONEY and MACHINES

MODERN PRODUCTION, BOTH AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL, RESTS ON THREE FACTORS—MEN, MONEY, AND MACHINES. HERE IN AMERICA, WE HAVE DEVELOPED AND USED MACHINERY MORE THAN ANY OTHER PEOPLE — AND THROUGH THE MONEY WE HAVE PUT BY FOR OUR FUTURE SECURITY, WE HAVE HELPED SUPPLY THE INVESTMENT REQUIRED FOR THESE MACHINES.

BUT THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN AMERICA'S PRODUCTIVE STRENGTH IS THE INGENUITY AND ADAPTABILITY OF AMERICANS — THE QUALITIES OF INITIATIVE AND SELF-RELIANCE, ENCOURAGED BY THE AMERICAN TRADITION OF REWARDING INDIVIDUAL EFFORT — AND THE SATISFACTION A MAN GETS FROM THE RIGHT TO CHOOSE HIS OWN OCCUPATION.

Let's Help The President

The election of a new president is only a beginning step by the citizenry. If we are to secure the greatest good from the new administration, citizens will have to make participation in government one of their major responsibilities. At no time in my memory has there been a more universal interest in political affairs or a more active participation by so many citizens. This is a highly encouraging fact. But it will not bring lasting benefit for the nation unless it carries over into the weeks and months ahead.

We could be assured of the best possible operation of our government, and the greatest degree of security, if we could apply the Biblical admonition, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," in our basic relationship to our government. At the local, state, and Federal levels, I'm not thinking of taxes in the sense of giving; but of personal intellect, personal interest, personal action, personal know-how; and above all, the making of personal sacrifices for the common good.

A Challenge
The people who founded this nation and gave us the great government documents, the Declaration of Independence and the U. S. Constitution, did so through the making of personal sacrifices. Our new president has asked for and needs the intelligent help of every American. There has never been such an overwhelming accumulation of grave problems confronting the leadership of our nation.

None of these problems has been solved merely by the election of General Eisenhower to the presidency. They will require the combined best wisdom and farsightedness of the American people. Wisdom is based on logic, which is based on truth or facts, which are based on study. The challenge then, as our new president prepares to take over, is to become better informed on the problems and then to make whatever sacrifice is necessary of time and effort to help find the right solution for them.

The War Problem
What to do about Korea and the looming threat of World War III is perhaps the most acute problem facing the nation. Last week Dr. Melchior Palyi, the noted authority on international finance, who is now associated with the new School of American Studies at Harding College, spoke in our auditorium on the subject: "The Global Showdown Ahead." He is convinced, after extensive recent travel and study abroad, that Russia would not dare attack the U. S. in the foreseeable future.

Dr. Palyi believes Russia would end the Korean war and release Eastern Germany if the U. S. and her Western allies would give assurance they would not arm Germany and Japan. He has studied the "grave international problems and is fulfilling his American citizenship responsibility by presenting his opinions publicly. Though his opinions may be contrary to those of other recognized authorities, they will be beneficial to the public's thinking, and finally to the President of the U. S., if they are heard and read by other people.

Active Interest Needed
What we do about the Korean war effects the future life and prosperity of every American. And so does the solution of the other major problems. That's why we should, all of us, continue to take an active interest in those problems.

Here are some problems toward which our best minds, and all our minds, should be directed daily: How much socialism can our way of life contain and still give individual freedom and the opportunity for progress to all citizens? Where and how can the expense of government be cut, so that our tax burden will be reduced? What's the best way to root out corruption and keep it out of public life? How can a closer, mutually beneficial harmony be achieved between American employers and employees?

This column and all the resources of the Harding College National Education Program will be devoted to examining facts relating to such problems in the months ahead. This is one way we can help the new president in his terribly important job.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Toppe and family of Lancaster, Pa., visited on Sunday with Mr. Topper's mother, Mrs. Guy Topper.

T. B. Christmas Seals Will Go On Sale Monday; Biggest Drive Contemplated

County Tuberculosis Assn. Without their assistance, we could not hope to be successful. We hope their efforts are justified by a great response to the Christmas Seal Sale by all residents of the State, who in this way can do their part to help combat tuberculosis."

Dr. Nelson stated that the program of the Maryland Tuberculosis Assn. and all the local county tuberculosis associations is directed toward the prevention, detection, and treatment of tuberculosis with the final goal of complete control and eventual eradication of this disease in every community of the state.

Dr. Nelson added that, in 1951, 79 Marylanders died of tuberculosis, giving Maryland the sixth highest death rate from this disease among all the states and the District of Columbia.

Christmas Seals support chest X-ray detection programs, adult and community health education, school health programs, medical research, and service to tuberculosis patients.

Praising the work of the many volunteers who have, and are assisting with the Christmas Seal Sale, Dr. Nelson said, "The help given each year by these volunteer workers makes it possible to conduct such a campaign.

Papa David Says:

"If you confine yourself to a small group of friends and acquaintances and never go adventuring for new friends, you'll lose out on one of the most exciting experiences in life. In fact, the friendships you already possess are enriched and stimulated by your new friendships and the added color and interest they are sure to give your personality."

"There is no such thing—to my mind—as an uninteresting human being. Why just the fact that he is human presupposes any number of interesting and unexpected facets. On long journeys, I always take along a book or two to while away the time—but I usually wind up 'reading' my fellow passengers instead!"

"Never talk down or up to anyone—but always try to talk with them." This serves a double purpose, since it keeps the other fellow from talking down or up to you—and gives you both a lot more enjoyment out of your conversation!"

"Anyone who is a student of human nature never has to worry about being bored as long as there are human beings to observe."

Every day engineers of Western Electric, supply unit of the Bell System, test the new telephones turned out by the factory. In the picture, telephones are being dropped onto a hardwood surface from 16 different positions. In other tests, receivers are hung up 22,000 times—equivalent to 4 years' average use; dials are turned repeatedly; bases of telephones are checked to make sure they won't scratch or stain furniture. All this is done to make certain telephone customers get the best possible service. Your telephone company seeks out trouble before it troubles you.

November is a good month to —

Give thanks for a bountiful harvest and our other many blessings... Go to the polls... Pick out turkey breeding stock to save for next year... Give sheep extra feed if pastures are short... Winterize the engine on the combine and forage harvester... Put some electric heating tape or cable on exposed water pipes to prevent freezing... Save work by using built-up litter in the chicken house... Get a silage cart instead of carrying silage in a basket... Make sure you have enough antifreeze in the farm car, truck and tractor... Treat cattle for lice... Spray for peach leaf curl... Plow level fields that won't erode to enable you to get an early start next spring.

Football Contest Rules

The object of The Chronicle Football Contest is to select the winners of 20 college and professional games to be played on Saturday and Sunday.

The games are listed above on the contest coupon. Place an "X" to the box beside each team you select to win. If you pick a tie game, place the "X" mark at the extreme right.

You may enter as many coupons each week as you want. No contestant may win more than one prize in any one week.

All entries must be received at the Chronicle by noon Saturday. Winners will be announced the following Friday in the Chronicle.

Any person who gets all the games right will receive $10. If more than one person gets all the games right, each will receive $10.

In the event no one gets all the games correct, then the person selecting 19 winners will receive $5.

The contest is open to all except employees of The Emmitsburg Chronicle and their families.

In case a game is postponed then the game will be automatically eliminated. In the event any game is played Friday instead of Saturday or Sunday, this game also will not count.

Trim coupon neatly.

St. Joseph's High School News

St. Joseph's High School will be the host for the regular meeting of the Blue Ridge Conference on Thursday, Nov. 20. As part of the program, a short skit, "Bomb Proof," will be presented by the students. Those in the cast are Saranna Miller, Robert Gelwicks, Eugene Rosensteel, Victoria Brenner, Theresa Rybikowsky, Patricia Dukehart, Mary Jane Scott, Mary Ann Sease, Angela Rocks, Margaret Rocks, Joan Walter, Ellen Rocks, Mary Josephine Joy, Floyd Miller and Theodora Rybikowsky.

The monthly meeting of the PTA was held Tuesday in the school auditorium. Guest speaker was Rev. William D. McGonigle, dean of men of Mt. St. Mary's College.

Noted Lecturer At Hood Nov. 21

The cities man builds and the use he makes of his scientific inventions tells a great deal about man—not only about how far he has come in this thing he calls civilization but also something about the direction in which he can be expected to move in the future. Such is the belief of Lewis Mumford, who will lecture at Hood College Nov. 21, at eight o'clock in Brodbeck Hall.

A national figure for the past quarter of a century, Mr. Mumford is no ordinary man. Although he has written 20 books, has been a visiting professor at Harvard, Dartmouth and Stanford Universities and is currently lecturing at the University of Pennsylvania. His lecture, "The Future of American Culture," will mark the speaker's first appearance in Frederick.

Nurses Capped At St. Joseph's

The first capping exercises of St. Joseph's College newly-formed division of nursing were held recently in the chapel. Rev. Hugh F. O'Donnell, C.M., college chaplain, officiated.

Sister Margaret Mary, vice president, conferred the caps and the Nightingale torches were lighted by Sister Clare, R.N., a student of the graduate nurse program.

Kneeling before the altar, the students recited by candlelight the pledge of fidelity to duty. Fr. O'Donnell, in a brief but appropriate address, reminded them of the dignity of the profession which they have chosen, and the spirit of faith which should animate them in the fulfillment of its obligations. The ceremony closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Misses Leota and Adele Topper have returned home after visiting for a week with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gullo and family, Oneida, N. Y.

Farm Prices Face Decline

Net farm income for 1953, will be lower than 1952, agricultural economists from the University of Maryland predict. They say that farmers will face rising production costs while, in most cases, the prices they receive will continue the same, or may even drop.

General business activity will remain brisk, the University economists explain, because of defense spending by the Government. Demand for agricultural products in the year ahead will continue good, supported by high industrial production, full employment, high wages and consumer income.

Maryland farmers will find the greatest hope for 1953 profits in efficient production and marketing. This is always good business, the University's agricultural economists say. But they emphasize the importance of production and marketing efficiency in view of the anticipated cost-price squeeze.

Price prospects for individual commodities vary considerably. Here is a summary of the outlook prepared by the University's Department of Agricultural Economics and Marketing:

MILK—Prices for milk and most dairy products are likely to average a little higher next year, but rising production costs will probably keep net profits the same.

BROILERS—Demand will remain strong, but prices will be greatly influenced by supply. If production remains about the same, prices should average a bit higher than the relatively low prices prevailing in early 1952. Feed costs will remain higher.

BEEP—Prices are expected to remain below 1952 levels, reflecting an anticipated all-time record of 93 million head of cattle on U. S. farms next January.

EGGS—The smaller number of layers on farms should result in lower production and high egg prices during the spring of 1953.

HOGS—Although price increase may be small, profits may improve next year, due to an expected lower cost of corn.

VEGETABLES—Relatively high prices in 1952 may encourage growers to plant larger acreages in 1953. If weather conditions are favorable, an increased supply may depress prices below 1952 levels.

County Grange Elects Officers

Bruce E. Crum was re-elected Master of Frederick County Pomona Grange at the quarterly meeting held last Saturday at Feagaville.

Other officers elected included: Overseer, Earl Rensberg; lecturer, D. Vernon Holter; steward, Francis Long; assistant, William Burrall; chaplain, Harry Kanode; treasurer, Edgar Emrich; secretary, Cathryn E. Eaves; gatekeeper, Charles Burrier Jr.; Ceres, Marguerite Simms; Pomona, Martha Jane Layman; Flora, Frances House; lady assistant steward, Frances Darnier. Officers are elected for a two-year period.

Thurmont Grange won the attendance banner for the fourth consecutive time, and as a reward a new permanent banner will be presented.

Garbage Disposal Discussed

The question of the dumping of garbage along the highways and the provision of dumping areas was discussed at length. A committee composed of Master Crum, Earl Rensberg, Harry Kanode, Edgar Emrich, Robert Roderick, and L. H. Crickenberger, was appointed to meet with Senator Jacob R. Ramsburg to offer suggestions for proposed legislation on this issue.

Chairman of the Pomona Roads Committee, Austin P. Remm, announced that within a short time through the efforts of the County Roads Board and County Commissioners, approximately 350 main roads in the county will be appropriately marked with metal name signs. Some time ago this project had been recommended by Pomona Grange.

Joshua T. Gillelan of Baltimore, spent several days last week with his sisters, Misses Ruth and Rhoda Gillelan.

Visitors last Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ida Goulden were Lawrence Goulden of Towson, and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Sneeringer of Hanover.

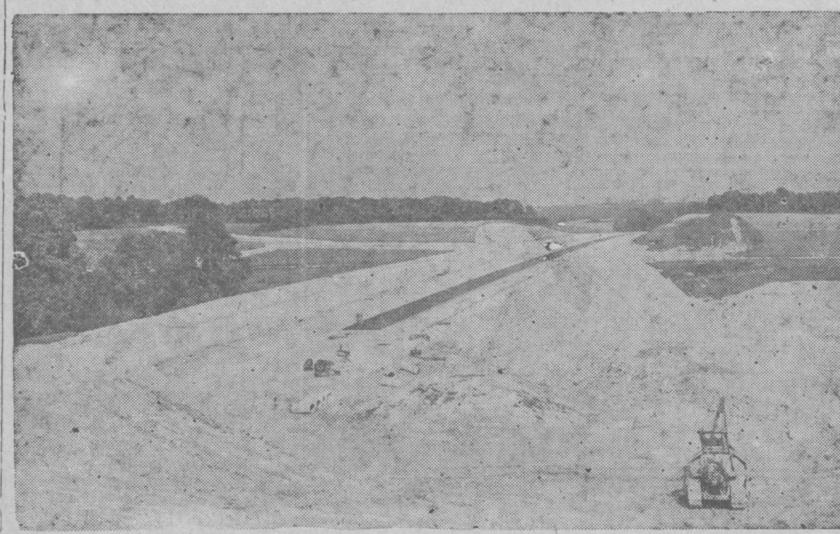

David Hemler of Havre de Grace, spent last week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hemler, near St. Anthony's.

Ann Codori spent several days in Baltimore last week visiting with Mrs. Donald Matthews, who is a patient at the Mercy Hospital.

Joseph Boyle, discharged army sergeant, has accepted employment at Sperry's Garage as stock clerk.

Miss Jean Joy, St. Agnes' Hospital, School of Nursing, and Marie Topper, St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, Baltimore, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Joy and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Topper.

Progress Being Made On National Pike

Pushing slowly through the rolling hills of Western Maryland, the new Baltimore National Pike is coming closer and closer to Frederick with each passing month. When the present administration took over, the new road reached only to West Friendship and Governor McKeldin made it clear that he wanted the work speeded up so that, at the earliest feasible date, the thousands of motorists traveling daily between Baltimore and Frederick would have a safe, modern divided highway for the full distance. This photo from the Maryland State Roads Commission shows how his request is being carried out. The camera is pointed east from a point near the Carroll County line and shows a nearly-completed section that will bring the road to the edge of Ridgeville. The improvement afforded by the wide, sweeping straightaways of this new road will be readily appreciated by anyone familiar with the twisting "roller coaster" sections of the old National Pike in this area.

GEORGE H. KING

George Hoke King, 57, widely known Wayneboro wholesale confectioner, died at 3:12 a. m. Monday at the Waynesboro Hospital. He had been in failing health for the past six weeks and critically ill and confined to the hospital for the past two weeks following a heart attack.

Mr. King was born in Emmitsburg, the son of Philip G. and Effie (Hoke) King. He went to Waynesboro in his teens and was employed as a salesman in the confectionery business operated by his father.

The deceased served in the First World War, Co. C, Pennsylvania Infantry, National Guard and following his war service, was employed by the Western Maryland Railroad until 20 years ago, when he returned to help his father. After his father's death in 1936, he and his brother, Guy, operated the confectionery business. In 1938, he took the operation over himself, which he had continued.

He was a member of St. Paul Evangelical Reformed Church.

He also was a member of the Elks, Waynesboro Lodge No. 731, Eagles, Owls, Moose of Gettysburg, Exchange Club, VFW, Always. There Hook and Ladder Fire Co., and the National Confectionery Wholesale Assn. Surviving are his widow, Ruth (Whitlock) King; four daughters: Mrs. Woodrow Eckert, Waynesboro; Mrs. William Smith, at home; Mrs. George Tate, Gettysburg; Mrs. Robert J. Noel, Waynesboro; nine grandchildren; two sisters and a brother, Mrs. Paul S. Geiser, Waynesboro; Mrs. S. S. Adams of Butler, Md.; and Guy R. King of West Newton, Mass.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Grove Funeral Home, Waynesboro, in charge of Rev. Paul Nagy and Rev. Victor H. Jones. Interment in Green Hill Cemetery, Waynesboro, Pa.

Fatal Accident Brings Prison Sentence

Warren Elwood Bowers, 31, of Route 1, Thurmont, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction by Magistrate Edgar B. Palmer at Thurmont Wednesday on charges of drunken and reckless driving. The charges were entered after an accident in which Grayson Edward Lighter, of Middletown, was fatally crushed between two trucks in Creagerstown October 25.

Bowers was acquitted of a manslaughter charge which also was preferred following the accident. Magistrate Palmer ordered six month terms on both the drunken and reckless driving charges, and ordered them to run concurrently.

The case was begun Saturday before the Thurmont magistrate when the state's case was presented Wednesday, Robert Devibiss, of near Catoctin Furnace, testified he saw Lighter leaning into the ice cream truck he was operating and observed the truck being operated by Bowers approaching.

Lighter was operating a refrigerated ice cream truck. The accident occurred about 3:40 p. m. on Route 72 in Creagerstown. Lighter, according to testimony of State Trooper Kenneth D. Bond, who investigated the accident, was instantly killed as Bowers' truck, traveling south, crushed him.

Dr. and Mrs. William J. Sullivan of Providence, R. I., spent last week-end at the home of Mrs. Sullivan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Naylor. On Sunday Dr. Sullivan assisted in the dedication of a new Veterans' Hospital near Baltimore. Other visitors at the Naylor residence over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hornbecker and son of Hagerstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Naylor and daughter, Janice, of Taneytown.

ABIGAIL

(Continued from Page One) not cost you a penny. All that is asked is that you make certain that your child is interested in becoming a musician. If he isn't there is no use to waste the instructor's time and money. Most of the instruments are provided and there is no charge for lessons. This fine little organization is expected to number about 40 when it makes its appearance again next summer. About a dozen of the juniors are ready to take their chairs with the regular unit. If you are interested, contact any member of the band so that some estimate can be made of the number of beginners to be handled.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kootz received the sacrament of baptism last Sunday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hawk. The baby received the name of Mary Margaret.
