Most Anything At A Glance

BY ABIGAIL

Another step forward in Emmitsburg's progress was made this week with the announcement that we are going to get dial telephones. Many of us have been in doubt about this welcome addition to our community since several years ago when a similar pledge was given verbally and which never matured. Well, you can take my word for it, brothers and sisters, it is now on its way. The money has been appropriated and when that happens it's a sure sign that developments are in the offing. Plans call for a new building to house the mechanism of the dial equipment. This structure will be located in the rear of the Elizabeth Neck property on S. Seton Ave. and more than likely it also will house a small business office. Engineers have been in town looking over the project for the past week and many of us suspected that things were about to be sprung on us, but it was purely circumstantial. According to the available information, it will take almost a year to complete the transition from our present "central" system to dial, but you can be certain that it is on its way, as you soon will see. I must express my thanks and appreciation to this public utility for its interest in our community and for making this progressive step in the line of modern communication.

"Good old Central" will be missed, you can be sure. Many a personal favor has been done by our local operators who tried to give the best of service with obsolete equipment. Many's the time they were asked what the weather was to be, good or bad, track down doctors, firemen, and police in emergencies; what time is it? and sundry other chores which they didn't have to do or be obliged for. In a way we're sorry to see "it" go, but then we must take modernization as it comes and I feel certain that we are making a step in the right direction by getting the latest in equipment and service, clarity of tone and many, many more new lines, both party and private. Now everyone can have a phone if they so desire and relief will be granted from those so-called "party" lines.

The County Commissioners deserve a world of credit for the erection of those nice new signs placed on the rural roads, many of which before, were absolutely a mystery to most of us. Now practically every road in the county has a name and a marker to tell you where you are. I know it was a costly proposition but I feel the Commissioners were justified in making the expenditures. Now, if we just had a little cooperation from the farmers who live along these roads maybe we would go visiting them some Sunday afternoon, providing we knew just what house they lived in. By this I mean that most mailboxes are in deplorable condition and unlettered. How the mailman knows where to drop his product I'll never know as about half or even better, have no identification on them whatsoever. It would take just a few minutes of one's time to paint his name on his mail box and how much more it would add to his place of adobe. What say, farmers? If the county thinks as much of you as to mark your road, don't you feel a little obligated to mark your mailbox?

Rumors persist that about 5000 government workers are to be brought from Washington to Fort Ritchie and the "underground Pentagon" just west of here, this summer. What provisions is Emmitsburg making to receive its portion of these new inhabitants. Already two of our neighbors, Sabillasville and Thurmont, are hard at work, the latter with a housing project well under way. Delegations from those two towns already have appeared before the County Commissioners demanding new schools preparatory to receiving hosts of the workers. What have we done here? You tell me. Apparently, we're going to miss the boat again.

The first human being is believed to have ascended in a balloon in October of 1783.

Dial Phones Scheduled For Emmitsburg

A modern dial telephone system for Emmitsburg is being planned by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., according to an announcement by R. P. Heck, local manager.

At a meeting of the company's board of directors on Monday, Mar. 30, $147,000 was allotted for the project which is being planned for completion in the spring of 1954. Mr. Heck said a new building will be erected east of S. Seton Ave. and that further details will be announced later.

Total expenditures of $8.1 million were authorized by the board of directors for the improvement and expansion of telephone facilities in Maryland. This brings the total approved for new telephone construction in the state for this year to $11.5 million.

The major portion of the total approved at the meeting was $3.6 million which will be allocated to a large number of projects involving expenditures for the construction and replacement of telephone plants in Maryland during the second quarter of 1953.

The largest single appropriation was $1.5 million for the installation of dial equipment in the company's proposed new building in Dundalk. The equipment will make possible the conversion of this rapidly expanding area to dial operation.

An expenditure of $925,000 was approved for the installation of the initial units of dial equipment in the new dial office at Suitland. The Suitland area is presently being served by the Anacostia dial center.

At Laurel, expenditures totaling $803,000 were allocated for the construction of a new one-story central office building and the installation of dial equipment.

An expenditure of $419,000 was approved for the provision of additional toll dial switching equipment in the company's long distance dial center in Baltimore.

An expenditure of $300,000 was authorized for the provision of additional dial equipment in the company's suburban Wisconsin dial center adjacent to Washington.

Other expenditures approved by the C. and P. board included $50,000 for cable to serve additional customers in the Aberdeen area; a total of $65,000 for the expansion of facilities serving military and defense establishments; $13,000 for additional equipment in the Arbutus central office; and $11,500 for the expansion of aerial cable facilities in the southern section of the Catonsville area.

Local Man Plants 15,000 Trees On Mountain Land

Thirteen tree planting sites in the County account for over 100,000 of the approximately 275,000 trees ordered to date for planting this Spring, according to the Frederick Forestry Conservancy Board.

The largest individual orders are for the farm of A. W. McClellan, Emmitsburg, and for the Walkersville watershed, where 15,000 trees have been ordered in each case. The city of Frederick has already planted 10,000 trees on the Lingore watershed, and orders for 10,000 trees have been placed by Victor Kifer, a Thurmont contractor, and Charles Mathias, Frederick.

Other large orders are by Leonard Neal, Frederick, 7,500 trees; Ruhland Boyer, Middletown, 6,000; J. S. Garbenstein, Liberty, 6,000; Daniel Poole, Jefferson, 5,000; Sam E. Smith, 5,000; James Mause, Myersville, 5,000; Edward P. Healy, Weldon, 5,000; and Edgar De Lauter, Lantz, 4,400.

Over half of the trees ordered are being planted by machine, but plantings on steep or stony ground are being done by hand. Machine plantings are keeping pace with the delivery of trees.

Farmers with large hand planting sites have been able to arrange for help when it is wanted, the Forestry Conservancy Board said. On the McClellan farm for instance, all 15,000 trees are being planted by hand with the help of the Boy Scouts, who have been allocated trees by Mr. McClellan for Christmas tree cutting.

The 5,000 trees on the farm of Sam E. Smith are being planted by members of the 10th grade class of the Frederick High school as a class forestry project.

It has been estimated that aluminum forms about one-thirteenth of the earth's crust.

Three Held For Attempted Store Robbery

Two men are in the Adams County jail and a third one is being sought by state police of two states in connection with an alleged holdup and robbery attempt last Saturday afternoon at the Entenmann Store at Iron Springs, Pa., according to state police of the Gettysburg substation.

The Wetzels this week entered pleas of not guilty before Justice of the Peace Snyder of Gettysburg and were remanded to jail for a Saturday evening hearing. The Wetzels are charged with robbery, accomplice in armed robbery and burglary, state police said.

Pennsylvania State police said the three men drove up to the store about 1:30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon and went in and demanded money of Mrs. Julia Entenmann, who was alone in the place.

Mrs. Entenmann "talked them out of it," police said, and they returned to their car and drove away. The license plate on the car was covered, but police traced them through other information, and arrested the two Wetzels at the home of George Wetzel, at Beartown, in the mountains in Franklin County.

According to police there was only $20 in the "tilt" at the store. They said Mrs. Entenmann called the Gettysburg substation immediately after the three men left. Edward Wetzel, police said, is AWOL from Indiantown Gap military reservation.

Co. Commissioners' Pay Would Be Hiked Under New Bill

The House of Delegates Wednesday enacted Senate Bill 501 granting a salary increase to the Frederick County Board of County Commissioners.

Introduced by Senator Ramsburg the bill will increase the compensation from $1,500 to $2,700 per year. This amount is not as large as the Frederick Chamber of Commerce earlier advocated, but matches the sum mentioned some years back and then dropped. The measure has had wide county support. This increase cannot go into effect until November of 1954.

The House also passed a road sign bill introduced by Ramsburg. The bill provides for the erection of markers, signs, signals, and road names in this county and to provide and define the penalty for removing, damaging or defacing such signs. The County Roads Board had earlier requested that such action be taken due to reports of vandalism and destruction of the newly-erected road signs.

First Trout Are Stocked

The first stocking of legal sized trout (seven inches or more) to be put out especially for anglers to seek on opening day, April 15, of the 1953 season, was made Tuesday in Big Hunting Creek, Thurmont.

The trout are the first of several thousand to be released in the stream periodically up to June 1—when all trout stocking in the state will end. The fish, rainbows, brooks and browns, came from holding pools at Lewistown, that had reached capacity.

Wardens Ben Phebus, Glenn Butts and Durward Kettels, with Fish Culturist Jack Gilbert, did the planting.

Mite Society Meeting Held

The Mite Society of Trinity Methodist Church held its regular monthly meeting on Friday evening, March 27, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Freeman.

Following the invocation by Rev. Byron H. Keeseecker, a devotional service was conducted by Mrs. William A. Frailley. A reading was given by Mrs. Keeseecker and Carl Crist presented several instrumental musical numbers, including an appropriate selection at the conclusion of the devotional service.

A brief business session preceded a program of entertainment presented by the hostess. Guests of the society included Mrs. Samuel C. Ott and daughter, Virginia, of Taneytown. Delicious refreshments were served. The next meeting of the society will be held at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Keeseecker in Thurmont, on April 24th.

It is estimated that the nylon in a $1.50 pair of nylon stockings is worth about 10 cents.

Town Tops County In Blood Drive

Emmitsburg still tops Frederick County for civilian center Red Cross bloodmobile stands this year, having chalked up another record last Tuesday with a total of 180 pints of blood contributed from a total registration of 188 volunteer donors.

It exceeded Frederick's March contribution by 35 pints and during the past two years has been beaten only by Camp Detrick which last February gave 232 pints. The addition of Mrs. Sarah Green of Graceham, to the select group of individuals who have contributed eight pints or more of their blood to save American lives, brought to 93 the membership in Frederick County's "Gallon Club." Mrs. Paul Willard, general chairman of the Red Cross blood program in the county, said this week.

"This fine contribution of Emmitsburg was a good example of teamwork," Mrs. Willard said. Mt. St. Mary's College was host to the Bloodmobile crew and volunteer aides, its student body made a great many blood donations, and its recruitment chairman, James Adams III, and Richard Kelly, along with Mrs. Thomas Ginnell, Rev. Claude Corl, Robert Wormley of the American Legion, Mrs. Edgar Emrich, Mrs. William Baker and Mrs. Lumen Norris were all responsible for the fine turnout.

Assisting the five nurses of the Bloodmobile permanent crew were volunteer registered nurses: Mrs. Ray Paisley, Mrs. Donald Muth, Mrs. Alton Bennett, Mrs. William M. Smith, Mrs. Raymond Keilholtz, and Mrs. Anna Law. Nurses aides were Mrs. Henry L. Davis and Mrs. Charles Magaha.

Staff assistants were provided by the student government board of the college and among those serving in addition to Mr. Adams and Mr. Kelly, were Joseph Johnson, Frank de Fabo, Leon Stokes, Edmund Karane, and James La Posta.

Under direction of Mrs. Harry Boyle and Mrs. Roy Bollinger, food and beverages were provided all donors by the Red Cross Canteen unit consisting of Mrs. Albert McClellan, Mrs. Mary Shiff, Mrs. J. Laurence Orendorff, Mrs. Charles Fuss, Mrs. A. A. Martin, Mrs. Edgar Rhodes, Mrs. Ben Ogle, Mrs. Harry McNair, Mrs. E. R. Shriver, Mrs. Thomas Ginnell and Mrs. Thomas J. Frailley.

Mrs. Mildred L. Portner of the Red Cross motor corps attended to transportation of donors to and from the Bloodmobile and other hauling demands.

"Emmitsburg has a right to be proud of its leadership of the County in willingness to save the lives of men in our Armed Forces and in providing the gamma globulin which stops epidemics of dread diseases and prevents children from the paralyzing effects of polio. Certainly no greater single service to humanity can be rendered than this and all who gave their blood may have the satisfaction of knowing for certain that the lives and happiness of hundreds of people will be due to that service," said Charles Main, general chairman of the Frederick County Red Cross chapter.

Attends Research Seminar

In a hearing Tuesday before Magistrate Wilbur F. Sheffield of Frederick, Bickford E. Stottlemeyer, Emmitsburg, received a 90 day suspended sentence on a charge of failure to return a car to the Truck Rental Co., of Frederick, according to contract time. Special Deputy James G. White who apprehended Stottlemeyer in Adamstown Monday, said the defendant had rented the car on March 22 and had promised to return it the next day.

Magistrate Sheffield suspended the sentence on condition Stottlemeyer pay the additional rental due on the truck and costs of the court.

Financial Drive Progressing

Readers Protest Depredations Of Local Children

Editor Emmitsburg Chronicle,
Dear Sir:

I have very little time to write all that I should like to say, because it is time for you to go to press. However, I do want the people of this town to know once again what their children and their neighbor's children are doing. This morning (Thursday) I went down to our farm to look at our flock of sheep—and what did I see? Four boys had a dog in the field with the sheep, and were literally running the sheep to death.

I had to climb a fence and race across a couple of acres to get to them, and by that time the dog and children had killed the lamb. I picked it up in my arms, but it was dead. The boy that I grabbed right with the lamb was David Hardman, the other two boys whom I know who ran away from me down to the creek were Barry Rosensteel and Stucky Wageman. I was right with them; I saw them and they killed the lamb.

That is not the first time that children have taken dogs up to our farm to have fun chasing poor dumb animals with their dogs. Two weeks ago, Mr. Frailley and I chased Elizabeth Wilhide off of our place with her dog, who was chasing the sheep. We warned them time after time but it keeps up.

When the children do not take the dogs up there personally, the stray dogs that are always running around our town, are up there chasing and killing our sheep. The sheriff has been notified, as of this morning, but he says it is up to the town commissioners to request that the dog catcher come up here and get rid of these dogs.

Now, I am asking, why is that not done? You all know what these dogs are doing, and that they are a public nuisance. Why, one of the town commissioners has to carry a cane downtown in order to keep the dogs away from his heels. Why is not something done? What is everyone afraid of up here? The only person who does anything, as far as I can see is Officer Kootz and yet I hear a lot of people not even wanting him around. If it were not for him there would not be as much law and order as there is; and that is precious little. Last year, you remember when our flags were destroyed on our property? Nothing was done, even though the names of the offenders were known.

Are we going to allow this sadistic streak in the young children to go unpunished? Anyone who can have any pleasure in seeing a poor little lamb tortured and run to death, is certainly very low. Is our community hall going to prevent that? I doubt it. . . . It is time that something is done.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Frailley

Benefit Minstrel Show Set For Thurs., Friday

Plans are complete for the staging of "Come at Your Own Risk," a minstrel sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce for the benefit of the Memorial Hall Assn., on next Thursday and Friday evenings, Apr. 9 and 10.

Tickets have been on sale for the past three weeks in the hands of a committee consisting of Louis Rosensteel, Mrs. Roy Sanders, Miss Mary Sanders and the local Boys and Girl Scouts, the latter competing for a monetary award to the highest seller.

Last year's show drew more than 900 spectators and it is felt that since the show is established and that it is being held in the larger, and newer Emmitsburg High School auditorium, a much larger audience can be accommodated.

The show is under the direction of Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty, who also was in charge of last year's production, and includes such popular favorites as Louis Rosensteel, Carlos Englar, John Eyley, Harry Troxell, Eugene Rodgers, Paul Dorn, James Sanders, and Robert Kootz. William Baker will fill the interlocutor's role.

A cast of approximately 45 will appear in various roles and scenes. Included in the cast are: Doris Wastler, Kathleen Wantz, Patricia Lingg, Barbara Anne Rosensteel, Shirley Troxell, Darlene Brewer, Betty Anne Glass, Jean Troxell, Carolyn McNair, Ruth Umbel, Anne Clara Ridenour, Shirley Wilhide, Dolores Zur-gable, Joan Walters, Harriet Fite, Thelma Green, Barbara Hays, Virginia Joy, Mary Jo Joy, Theodora Rybikowski, Richard Frock, Eugene Adelsberger, Donald Flax, Kenneth Glass, Fred Grimes, Robert Wetzel, John Bentz, Charles Baker, Robert Gelwicks, John M. Gaetrell, Clarence Hahn, Mary Raubaugh, Miss Betty Smith, Dr. John Spangler, Miss Catherine Wivell and Mrs. Rose Wivell.

A collection is being received by Miss Helga Wolschlager, chairman of a special committee, to continue needed help for a family with six children in Holland who have lost everything in the recent flood there.

A donation was authorized for the local fire company.

Mr. and Mrs. William Crum received congratulations on the birth of a boy, and Mrs. Rose Wivell thanked the Grange for the basket of fruit and cards given her during her recent illness.

Mrs. Ethel Baumgardner was appointed chairman of refreshment committee when the Frederick County Pamona Grange meets in Emmitsburg on May 2.

It was voted to engage the Collegians, a well-known TV show to put on a program in Emmitsburg on either the 22nd or 23rd of May.

The Grange is sponsoring the local cancer drive and will accept donations to fight this dreaded disease. Contributors may mail their donations to the organization if they wish. It was pointed out cancer strikes one out of every five persons.

Miss Ann Hobbs received third and fourth degree for membership in the order.

Following the business session, the juvenile Grange joined the parent organization for refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Sprigg and family of Camphill, Pa., spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Sprigg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Wivell, E. Main St.

Odds And Ends

As we pass on now to a different part of the United Nations program for action as proposed in the Charter, I should like to emphasize two points about the part we have been surveying: (1) that such an explicit and comprehensive plan to maintain international peace and security by direct action to settle situations and disputes threatening to peace and to suppress actual breaches of the peace has never before been formulated in the history of the world; (2) that we should therefore see in this plan some clear evidence (along with whatever else the plan reflects) of a truly earnest desire and effort to bring peace on the earth, and should not allow this fact to be obscured by an entirely different matter, the question of how the plan has so far worked out.

There remains to be noted the numerous and varied lot of activities that make up the rest of the UN action—program, activities of a different kind and directed towards a different end but also a part of the complete peace effort envisaged in the Charter. These are the long-range activities for peace, those concerned not with particular and immediate situations and happenings that threaten or violate peace but with those general and constant conditions through the world that make real and lasting peace difficult or impossible. Their immediate aims are the ones already stated as the second and third of the "common ends" to which UN Members are pledged: to promote friendly relations among nations on the basis of respect for national rights, and to solve international economic and social problems and the closely connected moral one, shall we call it of basic rights of human beings everywhere. It is obvious that these two aims merge into a larger one—to reduce the possibility of future world conflict by establishing world conditions of stability and well-being. And I may say at once of this part of the UN program that it too goes far beyond anything previously planned by man to make the world a better and safer place to live—a thrilling evidence of constructive goodwill!

II. Activities aimed directly at establishing conditions favorable to peace.

The two main UN organs especially set up to carry out these activities are the Economic and Social Council and the Trusteeship Council, but the General Assembly has such important connections with the work of both that I think these should be mentioned first. (In the outline given previously to show the UN structure, I omitted the Assembly as one of the organs also responsible for these long-range peace efforts, a bad oversight, as the Assembly in fact largely controls the work of these other two organs.) It is the Assembly that elects all the Members (i.e., Member-states) of the Economic and Social Council and the non-permanent Members of the Trusteeship Council, and in addition it is connected with their work in the following ways: by having discussion in full session of any questions that concern them, by recommending studies to be made or specific action to be taken by them; by examining their annual reports on their work; and by on two important kinds of "Agreements"—(1) those made by the Economic and Social Council to bring the "specialized agencies" (noted in the outline and to be explained shortly) into close relations with United Nations, and (2) those submitted by Members in charge of non-self governing territories who wish to place these within the UN Trusteeship System. The Assembly, in short, serves to give the whole United Nations knowledge of and influence over these long-range peace efforts, as it does in the case of the direct efforts previously noted.

But the more detailed practical action to be taken must of course be the responsibility of smaller more specialized bodies, and when we see the assignments given by the Charter to the Economic and Social and the Trusteeship Council, respectively, we realize that plenty has been left them to do!

"Economic and social problems" along with that of "human rights," always mentioned as a separate matter outside this group but never placed under any other classification (I suggested above calling it a "moral" problem); these, as its name partly indicates, are made the special concern of the first-mentioned organ. And here, in order to follow clearly the E. and S. Council's various lines of action when we come to note actual accomplishment (as I hope we shall be able to before much longer!), we must pause to note that while the Charter uses "economic" in the usual sense of the word, it uses "social" inconsistently, sometimes much more broadly than at others; so we must take it in its broadest coverage, to mean all those material things in the life of a community (here it is the world-community) not directly a part of its financial concerns. In their extreme form these two closely-related problems involve the things we have come to connect with the term "underprivileged"—unrewarding labor, unemployment, poverty, hunger, disease, illiteracy, and other related ills prevailing among more than half the world's people, always linked with disregard of basic human rights. And these problems have to do also with other matters less urgent but also affecting both relations among nations and individual welfare—conservation of natural resources, civil air transportation, international trade, etc., etc.

At the top of the special activities of this Economic and Social Council, although it is not given first in the Charter's list, I think should be placed its appointing of the special "commissions" in "economic and social fields" to quote the Charter, and "for the promotion of human rights"; for it is partly through these groups and their sub-commissions that the Council gets down to the actual work of attacking this great and varied lot of existing problems. (I hope to be able in a final section of this survey to tell what commissions the Council did set up and what kind of things they have done, for this is really a "Big Story.") And next to this belongs the closely related task of bringing into working relations with United Nations those independent international "specialized agencies" that work in the same fields as the Council does but each on just one special problem there. It does this by drawing up "agreements" with each of these agencies, which, as explained above, must be approved by the General Assembly. (There were seven of these fully or partly established, three of them going concerns for many years, when this interesting provision was made in the Charter. The variety of their special interests may be illustrated by the names of several: the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO), the International Labor Organization (ILO), the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (Bank). The Council also has charge of coordinating the work of these agencies, to avoid overlapping, etc., and does this through consultations and recommendations and examining of reports on their activities. There is, finally, a large number of miscellaneous service organizations that the Council is empowered to make contact with on a different level, i. e., as consultants; the idea being that such groups often have special experience or technical knowledge that may be of help to the Council. (A long list of these has in fact been drawn up as available for consultation, but that belongs with the story of things actually accomplished.) But in addition to the activities involved in making and keeping up all these contacts, the Economie and Social Council has at least four others, all of which may sound rather tiresomely abstract when merely mentioned in a list but which take on real human interest when applied to specific cases, as intended to be.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf. (I Peter V, 16.)

It may not seem to be possible or easy, in these days of hurry and worry to "get ahead," that one can live truly in the teachings of Christ Jesus; that one can act and think always as a real Christian. But it CAN be done, through prayer and through faith, and he who does it will be greatly rewarded.

Babson Discusses Cost-of-Eating

NEW YORK CITY, April 2—The taking off of price controls has caused some prices to advance; but most prices have remained constant or have decreased. I am convinced that free competition, which now is being tried, will ultimately reduce the cost of foods.

Be Patient

There will be a lag between the wholesale price drop and the retail prices. In Florida I own a cattle ranch. Steers which sold on the hoof at 30¢ a pound two years ago now sell for 12¢. Cows which then sold at $200 can be bought for $60.

Readers wonder why the retail price of beef is still high. The answer is that the beef now in the stores for sale was purchased by the packers at high prices. We must wait until this high-priced beef is eaten before the retail price will drop further. This may take four to six months. The same principle applies to many foods.

Advice About Home Freezers

Deep freezers are good for the home and good for the nation as a whole. These, however, should be filled intelligently. To get the most from buying in quantity, the family should give real study to seasons, crop reports, and other factors. The first verse of the third chapter of the Bible Book of Ecclesiastes gives good advice to those who buy food for storing.

We should buy in quantity when beef, fruit, vegetables, etc., are cheap; but we should also consider quality as well as price. It is wise perhaps to buy some meats now; but wait before storing beef.

Political Aspects

While such lower food prices please city dwellers, falling prices cause much grief to millions of rural families. Cattle-men are now taking big losses. City folks laugh about the fairy mess and similar mistakes, but they all have a sad human side of grief, loss and disappointment. Let us be sympathetic with all unfortunate rural people.

President Eisenhower is getting thousands of letters every day from honest, hard-working farmers who are being "ruined." This probably accounts for his urging Secretary Benson to "go slowly." Otherwise, he may fear that the Republicans will lose control of Congress in 1954. Customs which have existed for 20 years cannot be corrected quickly. The same principle involves tariff changes.

Radio Markets News

Radio news of wholesale farm prices is good for the farmers, fruit growers and others; but such news does not help the housewife much. Hence, newspapers could help consumers to interpret properly the valuable food advertisements in their papers by reporting weekly the amount of fresh, canned, and frozen food products on the market.

Every housewife should carefully read all advertisements. How to study local advertisements is a work which women's clubs could take up.

Farmers Need Self-Control

Don't blame salesmen of fertilizers, seeds, farm machinery, and real estate for urging farmers to produce more. Yet, the fact that some farmers have not the good sense and self-control to properly weigh such sales talks is one reason for their troubles today. It might be a good idea this year to devote the state agricultural fairs to teaching farmers some simple economic truths.

Neither farmers nor consumers can depend upon most politicians for honest advice. This applies especially to the promoters of certain unneeded irrigation projects. Farmers could get into the same box in 1954 that Wall Street speculators got into in 1929, because every farmer is forced to speculate on weather and other unpredictable factors. Another thought: Buy things from your local stores and, if possible, buy home-made products. If farm organizations would teach sane economics, there need be no more "Butter Scandals" and the entire dairy industry would ultimately benefit.

Aluminum deposits discovered in Jamaica in the West Indies in 1942 are expected to yield 320 millions tons of ore.

Spring Cleanup: Time to Get Rid of Rats

CLEAN UP RUBBISH—STACK FIREWOOD NEATLY

Rubbish piles afford protection for hiding and underground breeding.

RATPROOF YOUR BUILDINGS

Ask your county agent for a bulletin on ratproofing methods.

PLACE RAT BAIT

A few permanent bait stations will keep rats under control.

Spring cleanup time is an ideal time to bring rats and mice under control, according to pest control specialists.

For best results, they recommend this three-point program:

One—Remedy poor sanitation.

Two—Ratproof buildings.

Three—Place rat bait according to directions.

Good sanitation demands the removal of rubbish piles of all kinds, because they afford protection for hiding and underground breeding. Lumber and firewood should be piled on racks at least one foot from the ground—never directly on the ground. Insofar as possible, feed of all kinds should be protected.

Corn cribs, granaries, cellars, homes, warehouses, and other buildings should be ratproofed to keep the rats out. Bulletins which describe ratproofing methods may be obtained from the local health officer or county agent.

Baiting is the third and most effective blow in the Spring anti-rat campaign. Outstanding among the available poisons is warfarin.

PLACEMENT OF RAT BAIT

A few permanent bait stations will keep rats under control.

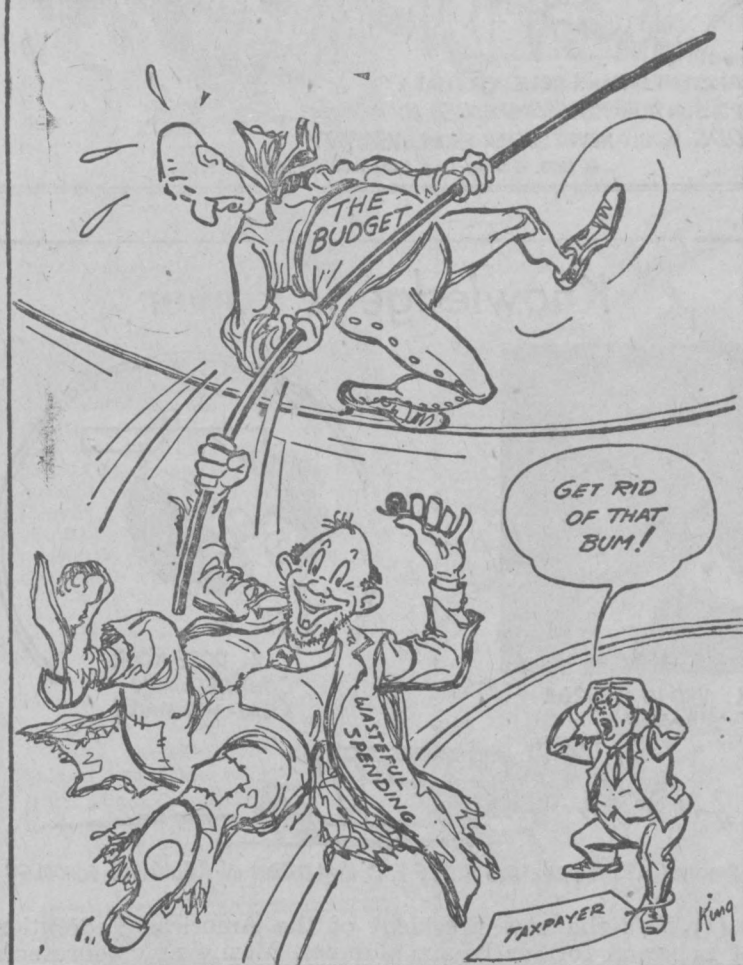

A few permanent bait stations will keep rats under control.

A powerful substance discovered in the laboratories of Dr. Karl Paul Link, Biochemistry Dept., University of Wisconsin, by Drs. Mark A. Stahmann, Miyoshi Ikawa, and Link. Warfarin bait is highly recommended because:

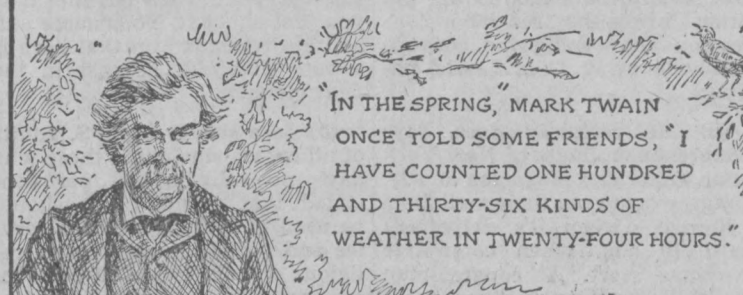

It kills both rats and mice; the potency of the poison is consistent; it is a slow killer, and does not cause "bait shyness"; rodents do not develop a tolerance for warfarin; it may be purchased as a concentrate or as ready-mixed bait; and warfarin is relatively safe to use.

In using warfarin bait, it is important that it be made available to the rodents at all times. Bait stations—shallow containers protected with a board or a wooden box—are normally examined and replenished at least every 48 hours. A limited number of permanent bait stations may be used to kill newcomers and control re-invasion.

TB AFTER FORTY

Don't fool yourself. You can get tuberculosis at any age. If you are in your forties, you may be tempted to say:

"But I've heard that TB is a young people's disease, particularly of young women. I'm sure I've read that TB kills more young people between the ages of 15 and 35 than any other disease."

The fact is that tuberculosis is a dangerous disease at any age. It is true that TB leads all diseases as a cause of death in the age group between 15 and 35. But it is also true that tuberculosis kills more people of all ages than all other infectious diseases combined. There are no age limits.

In 1924, the median age of those who died from tuberculosis was 33. Now it is 48. Two-thirds of its 30,000 victims a year are men and women 45 years of age and more. A survey made in the District of Columbia showed that more than 40 per cent of the tuberculosis found was among persons 55 years of age and up, although this age group made up only 10 per cent of the total number examined.

Don't believe the fiction about young women, either. The fact is that nearly twice as many men as women die of tuberculosis.

The fact is that anybody can catch tuberculosis, because TB is caused by a germ—the tubercle bacillus. These germs are passed from person to person, from the sick to the well, often through coughs and sneezes of persons who don't know they are sick. Crowds and crowded living and working conditions help the germs spread. But even if you live and work in the crowded city, you can take precautions and probably avoid getting TB. Modern treatment of TB is effective, if started early. Prevention is obviously better. What can you do about it? For one thing, you can get a physical examination by your doctor with an X-ray examination of your chest at least once a year. You can give your doctor an opportunity to keep you in good health. You can build up your own body resistance through good health habits, including balanced diet and plenty of sleep. You can stay out of crowds as much as possible. You can avoid unnecessary worry and strain.

number of the members of the new management "team" now being recruited in the Post Office Dept., under the leadership of Arthur Summerfield, was quite well known to me when I walked into the Postmaster General's suite of offices. In the field of business and industry where they have carved out their success through hard-gained know-how, their abilities could not be had for double or triple the salaries they'll receive from Uncle Sam. I put the question to Charles R. Hook Jr., deputy postmaster general and organizational workhouse of the Summerfield team: "What motivates you men to make the financial sacrifices you're making to come to Washington?"

Security at Stake
Hook is the son of one of America's most widely known steelmakers. He literally grew up in industry—but on his own. As a vice president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway for the past six years, he has become recognized as one of the country's top authorities on organization and personnel. Here was his answer to my question:

"Our nation's predicament could be more serious only if we were in an all-out war. The American people generally are aware of the fact that unless we begin operating our Federal government on a balanced budget and demand ability and personal integrity as basic characteristics of the people in the management of government, the future is not going to be one we would like for our children. We business people who are leaving our lifework and our homes to come to Washington feel this deeply. We've been asked to make a contribution to the nation's security. We've responded—as all citizens in these times must."

Taking Stock
The first job of Summerfield and Hook was to size up the task. Here's what they found: a $20 billion yearly business with an operational budget of $2.9 billion, with more than 500,000 employees, with 43,000 post offices and postal stations—and with a deficit this year of $659 million! "Why," said Hook, "just our New York postoffice, one of the 3,000, does almost as much business as Macy's Dept. store, the biggest in the world." No wonder I found Hook hard at work in his office on Saturday! And he'd asked me if I'd mind doing the interview at the lunch hour! I didn't mind.

Men with know-how in each phase of the operation of this mammoth business are being brought in. John Allen of Chicago, is an example. Summerfield and Hook frankly do not know how Allen voted last November, but they know he is one of the best men in America on big transportation problems. For five years he's been general traffic manager for Sears Roebuck & Co. His job with the new Post Office Dept. team is assistant postmaster general in charge of transportation.

Just Getting Started
"We haven't filled all the key jobs," said Hook. "We're proceeding carefully, not being satisfied with less than the best in ability and character and heart. Meantime, we're approaching the overall job here as a business problem. We're doing an organizational study, starting at the top. Our first objective is to raise the standard of management. The overwhelming majority of employees of the department are loyal, efficient, dedicated people. With a sound management organization and sound and human business practices throughout the whole operation, the postal service employees will do the job more efficiently, more happily, we feel, and with substantial savings in cost."

And eliminate the year-after-year deficit? "We feel confident," said Hook, "that the deficit can be reduced and at the same time the service improved. But in this objective we're dependent on the cooperation of Congress. Congress sets the postal rates, thus our income. It determines our basic costs by setting our wage rates for postal employees. We've been getting fine cooperation. As a result of our initial studies, we hope to raise the qualification standards for postmasters and other classifications of personnel, and while this may step on some political toes, we believe the Civil Service Commission and our governing Congressional Committees will be in accord, and that's a big step toward improved efficiency."

SENATE CLOAKROOM
By J. GLENN BEALL
U. S. Senator from Maryland

Washington, last week, was the scene of an important debate which will have a tremendous effect on the future policies of this country and history of the world. It is important that we do a little thinking about the underlying reasons for this discussion and why it developed. Presumably the Senate was discussing the nomination of Mr. Charles E. Bohlen, to be Ambassador to Moscow. Actually at issue was—who has the responsibility for operation of the Executive departments. The winning of an election carries with it great responsibilities and obligations—the Republican Party last week was going through the throes of assuming responsibility and deciding who was to have that responsibility. Mr. Bohlen's confirmation placed that responsibility where it rightly belongs—on the shoulders of the President of the U. S. President Eisenhower will, I am sure, discharge that responsibility in the best interests of all the people. The people of Maryland were dissatisfied with the last administration and as Congressman from the Sixth District, I was accustomed to receiving letters, telegrams and phone calls approving my actions whenever I opposed certain actions by the Executive Branch. My dissatisfaction is largely responsible for my being a member of the U. S. Senate today, and I must admit that it was disturbing to receive letters, telegrams and phone calls opposing my announcement that I would not criticize the past policies of the State Dept. In my judgment, it is to his credit that as a career employee, he was loyal to his superiors and is a good indication that he will be a loyal execution.

As they say, you can't please all the people all of the time, and now that we Republicans are the majority party we must become accustomed to the criticism which comes before applause. The people opposing the nomination and attempting to limit the policy making authority of the President and the Secretary of State, unfortunately, first sought to discredit Mr. Bohlen as a security risk; then to saddle him with the responsibility of Yalta, where he was only an interpreter; and finally argued that he was not competent to serve as the Ambassador to Russia. All such practices are abhorant to me.

The President and Mr. Dulles vouched for Mr. Bohlen's competence. Senator Taft and Senator Sparkman confirmed Mr. Dulles' opinion that he was not a security risk. It was said that he did not criticize the past policies of the State Dept. In my judgment, it is to his credit that as a career employee, he was loyal to his superiors and is a good indication that he will be a loyal execution.

tor of the policies formed by his new superiors, Mr. Dulles and President Eisenhower. The confirmation of Mr. Bohlen was much more than just the confirmation of an individual. It was confirmation by the Republican Party of its belief in the separation of powers of government. It was a vote of confidence in the new Eisenhower administration. It was assurance to the American people that from now on this country will have an effective, truly bi-partisan foreign policy. It was an announcement that the responsibilities given it last November and that we have chosen to follow the leadership of President Eisenhower.

The decisions were truly momentous. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Birely and son, Rocky, of Blue Ridge Summit, visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Shorb. Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon, McSherrystown, spent the weekend with Mrs. McMahon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Deatherage.

2. DOES YOUR CONGRESSMAN READ HIS MAIL?
3. WHAT ABOUT FREE BUS RIDES FOR CHILDREN IN RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS?
(1) He's the new president of the American Federation of Labor. A former Bronx plumber, Meany now represents more than eight million organized workers. Nat Damien describes Meany in a Catholic Digest article. When John L. Lewis is urged that the AFL should not recognize the Taft-Hartley act, and AFL officials should refuse to sign anti-communist affidavits in accordance with that law, Meany challenged Lewis' position during the 1945 labor convention and swung the convention vote away from Lewis' position.
(2) He certainly does, says Congressman Javits of New York in an American Magazine article. Congressmen read their mail from 8:30 a.m. (when it's delivered) until 10 a.m. when committee meetings start. A congressman reads his mail to find out what the people of his district have to say about bills on which he will vote. When you write to your senator or representative, send the letter to him by name, write legibly, tell him what you are talking about. Then tell him how you feel about it. Your name and address reminds him that here is a vote that will be cast in the next election.
(3) In a survey of U.S. adults of all creeds (including those who have no religion) 50 per cent stated that public funds should be used to provide free bus service and books for children in religious schools. Some 40 per cent are opposed to providing free bus service and textbooks. Another seven per cent said they do not know, and three per cent offered qualified opinions.

YOU and YOUR CONGRESS

(Sponsored by the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce)

WASHINGTON—Will the public get fed up with the government's price support program for farm products?

Secretary of Agriculture Benson puts that sort of question to Congress.

"It is probable that we will have to revise the (fiscal 1954 Agriculture Dept.), budget estimate, of price support expenditures since losses will exceed earlier estimates," Benson told Senate Agriculture Committee members the other day. "I need not tell you gentlemen that this is a serious situation."

"In our loan program we have a tool which can serve an admirable purpose in stabilizing prices and supplies of farm products. I am apprehensive lest through high supports we place on this device burdens to which it is not adapted and so discredit it in the eyes of the public."

That is not exactly a new thought. It has been put in different ways previously by certain farm organization leaders and by some farm state members of Congress. And significantly, during the recent sharp drop in beef prices, there was not any great clamor from the ranges for government support of beef prices.

Farmers, being individualists, do not like the controls that go with price supports. Being human beings, they do not like any decline in their standard of living. Meanwhile, they realize that the entire taxpaying public and not just themselves (the farm population is 15 per cent of the total) pays the cost of farm price supports.

The cost, as Benson points out, is on the rise—sharply so.

Toward the end of March, his department had more than $1 billion invested in farm products acquired under the various price support programs which Congress has written into law. When you add wheat, corn, and cotton, which is now under government loan and which the department is "likely to acquire," Benson says, the total cost comes to about $2.7 billion.

The law requires the department to make loans on crops, if the farmers desire, when market prices fall certain percentages below parity prices. Parity is a legalized formula designed to stabilize the buying power of the farmer's dollar. If the market prices do not recover within specified periods, the farmer keeps his loan money and the government keeps his crop.

A law which expires at the end of 1954 requires support at 90 per cent of parity for the so-called basic crops—wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts, tobacco, and rice.

The $1 billion worth of crops which the department now has on hand includes 110 million bushels of wheat and 259 bushels of corn, some of which is four years old and being sold to prevent spoilage. It also has under loan and expects to acquire permanently "practically all of" 200 million bushels of corn, 400 million bushels of wheat and about two million bales of cotton, Benson says.

The Secretary of Agriculture is permitted to use his discretion in setting support levels for certain perishable products—between 75 and 90 per cent of parity on dairy products, for example.

Since last November, the department has acquired 15 million pounds of butter—is still taking in about a million pounds a day—50 million pounds of cheese and 165 million pounds of dry skim milk.

Benson recently felt obliged to agree to continue supporting dairy product prices at the maximum level of 90 per cent of parity—mainly because the feeds which dairymen must buy are being supported by order of Congress at 90 per cent of parity.

One reason for the butter surplus is that oleomargarine is crowding butter tightly in the market place. And the retail price of oleo is well below the 68-cent-a-pound farm price at which the government is supporting butter.

"We face tremendous losses on the disposition of perishables,"

RECRUITING OFFICER COMING HERE

Local young men between the ages of 17 and 31, who desire to join the U. S. Marine Corps, may contact Staff Sergeant David L. Elam, recruiting officer. Sergeant Elam, working out of the Frederick district, will be at the local Postoffice Friday, April 10 and April 24, from noon 'til 4 p. m. to answer all questions from local youths interesting in joining the Marines.

Trench silos offer an economical way to store excess hay and pasture growth.

Papa
David
Says:

(on NBC's "Life Can Be Beautiful")

"When you know in your heart that something isn't right — no amount of telling yourself it is going to change things."

"If you aren't sure about a certain step, it seems to me that's the time to ask yourself a couple of important questions: One is, Would I be proud to tell anyone at all that I did this? The other is, Will I be proud of myself if I do this?"

"Don't worry about the opinions of other folks if you know in your heart you are right—but be sure it's your heart that knows, leben!"

Red's Missus

Pretty Helayne Buttons, wife of the star of CBS's "Red Buttons Show," has to answer the inevitable question directed at the wives of famous comedians. "Do you laugh at Red's jokes?" Says Helayne promptly, "Of course I do—I just can't help myself!"

says Benson.

That hardly comes under the heading of glad tidings for a Congress hoping to bring the Federal budget close enough to balance to make tax relief possible. And the public, of course, is joining with Congress in the hope for tax relief.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

It is a well known axiom that submission to blackmail leads to greater measures of despair.

This axiom's truth dawned on many in Washington as nation's lawmakers engage in what promises to be the most decisive domestic battle since the War Between the States. The battle is over the repeal of the U. S. tariff laws.

After a preparatory barrage by heads of U. S. industry with foreign plants, a bill to eliminate all tariffs on foreign cars, trucks, and buses, has been introduced; the forerunner to many similar bills proposed.

With one of the ironical twists that mark history's pages, Rep. Allen Hunter of California's Madera-Fresno introduced the bill.

Immediately, French announced they face trouble unless the wine tariff is also removed.

Here's the irony; Rep. Hunter's district is center of nation's greatest wine producing area.

Two distinct camps will be observed fighting for U. S. tariff elimination: a foreign camp and a domestic camp.

The foreign camp is using arguments successfully employed in grabbing over $30 billion out of U. S. in Marshall Plan and Mutual Security Aid.

The melody of blackmail is familiar.

"Unless America comes across, we may not be able to stand up against Communism," is the old, tired theme.

The domestic camp fighting for tariff repeals, talks feelingly of high principles involved in America leading the way to world free trade.

However, scratch a domestic "free trader" deep enough, and there is found either substantial interest, or ownership of European plants where cheap labor makes it possible to undercut U. S. made products and make a wider margin of profit without tariffs.

Sen. George Malone of Nevada says another curtain besides the Iron Curtain must be recognized in Europe.

He calls it the "low wage curtain" from behind which U. S. firms with branches want to flood the American market with cheap, duty free goods.

Argument is being used that duty free goods produced by cheap foreign labor, will "Bring about a change in American labor thinking."

The late Joe Stalin understood this type of reasoning.

He had a similar outlook.

He believed a bullet through heads changed their thinking.

While in many aspects, organized labor has assumed monopoly proportions, it is a domestic monopoly subject to other solutions.

Even discussing turning over the American market to an international monopoly that will ruin not only labor, but independent businessmen and farmers, as well, to solve a domestic labor situation is felt to be strange. After all, few people contemplate burning down the house to get rid of a leak in the roof. But that parallels current attempt to solve world problems by repealing the protective U. S. tariff laws.

Life-size Wood Carving of Last Supper

Courtesy Christian Science Monitor

BOSTON, MASS.—All the specialized skills of some of the finest craftsmen of New England have been combined to create this life-size copy in wood of the famous painting "The Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci.

More than a year was used in preparing the great carving—18½ feet long and 8½ feet wide. The figures, of limewood, are delicately tinted to give a feeling of lifelike reality, and a giant frame of contrasting walnut gives it depth. The carving will be the point of central interest in The Upper Room chapel, now nearing completion in Nashville. It is expected that visitors who view the carving will be moved to spend a few moments in prayer and meditation in keeping with the purpose of The Upper Room—a devotional guide issued in 17 languages and used round the world. The chapel itself is part of the new headquarters building for The Upper Room, the world's most widely used devotional guide. It is believed that it will become a devotional shrine and point of interest for visitors of the Midsouth.

The picture shows W. D. Irving, of Irving and Casson, New York and Boston, who have produced wood carvings for some of America's greatest churches and cathedrals. The wood carving was done from a model created by Earnest Pelligrini.

Safe Trash Burner

Here's how one farmer made a safe, but very effective incinerator for trash and rubbish: He used an ordinary 50-gallon steel drum, and cut the top from one end. Four small holes were punched along the rim at the bottom of the other end to serve as a rainwater drain. A half dozen larger, 1½-inch holes were punched six to eight inches above the bottom for a draft. It'll burn rubbish fast, but he keeps a sheet of metal for the top to shut off the flames—in case the fire burns too fiercely.

Barbed Wire Reel

It's easy to make this reel for barbed wire from an old automobile tire and five 18-inch two by fours. Just split the casing around the center so it is in two equal halves. Then, with the outside of the two halves towards the center, space the two by fours, and nail them to the casings through the concave sides, as shown. This reel, used by an Illinois farmer, will roll easily on the ground to wind, or unwind, barbed wire.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kipka have moved from the B. H. Boyle property on DePaul St. to the property of Arthur Hardman along the Fairfield Road.

Homemakers' Corner

Homemakers food costs are likely to remain the same for 1953, despite the fact that farm prices dropped in 1952. That, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture economists, is because the drop in farm prices was offset by increased costs of marketing.

Higher wages for food marketing employees, higher transportation costs, and increased rents are all responsible for the increased marketing costs. With marketing charges higher and farm prices lower, the farmers share of the dollar spent for food shrank to 46 cents in the last quarter of 1952 as compared with an average of 50 cents a year earlier. At the same time, the cost of things farmers need to produce their food products has increased.

Since no reduction of marketing costs is anticipated in the near future, the USDA considers it reasonable to assume that the present level of food-marketing charges will at least be maintained in 1953.

From France—With Love

"Blessing of the Sea," Stes. Maries de la Mer

Sentimental attachment to a childhood dream—joining the Gypsies—makes me particularly fond of a small Mediterranean town, Les Saintes Maries de la Mer. Here each year the Gypsies come from many countries for a three-day pilgrimage and festival in honor of their patron, St. Sarah the Egyptian. The festival this year takes place May 22-23-24.

The tiny fishing village is named in honor of three holy women of the time of Christ, Mary Magdalen, Mary Jacoby, and Mary Salome, who with other Christian saints were set adrift from the Palestine shore to perish in the Mediterranean. Their miraculous landing in France was on the site of Les Saintes Maries de la Mer.

Sarah the Egyptian, a servant of the holy women, is honored each May by the Gypsies who trace their ancestry, not too accurately, to the ancient Egyptians. Saint Sarah's statue, and those of the holy women, are carried in a procession from the church, through the town, down to the shore and out into the sea. The sea is blessed by the bishop, and the procession returns to the church. This "Blessing of the Sea" is not exclusively a Gypsy ceremony. The people of Provence, especially the citizens of Arles with their beautiful traditional dress, and the Guardians de la Camargue, real cowboys who tend the cattle herds in the delta, join the Gitanes.

After the procession, merrymaking and sports are the order of the day. There is no more bizarre or colorful gathering in all of France, and if you are a camera bug your only problem will be what "not" to snap. You can bring twenty rolls of color film per person into France duty free, and certainly the "Blessing of the Sea" at Les Saintes Maries de la Mer offers magnificent subjects for the use of some of them. Another camera-worthy expedition possible from St. Maries is a trip on horseback through the Camargue with the Guardians as guides. This country is almost without roads, wild and beautiful.

Cars Sidewipe On Route 16

Pennsylvania State Police of the Gettysburg substation reported this week that automobiles operated by Francis Baker, 29, of Fayetteville Route 2, and George Stanley Ott, 24, of Emmitsburg, sidewiped between Emmitsburg and Zora on Route 16 at 11:20 p. m., last Saturday.

Ott was driving over the center of the highway, police said. Damage to his car was estimated at $100 and damage to Baker's at $150. No one was injured. Baker was traveling toward Emmitsburg and Ott toward Zora when the mishap occurred, police reported.

Although the sun is about 93 million miles from the earth, the distance varies during each year because the orbit of the earth is not exactly circular.

Wiring Should Be Inspected Now

Before spring work gets under way, a complete inspection of the wiring system in all farm buildings will pay, suggests A. V. Krewatch, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maryland.

"The first objective is to determine the safety of the present system and detect possible fire hazards," he says. "Rusted and lime-encrusted BX wiring should be viewed with suspicion."

"See that all terminal connections in fuse boxes and switches are really tight, and check insulation against mechanical damage or destruction by rodents."

"Gradual increase in the electric load in farm buildings has often resulted in over-loading of the lines. If lights flicker when the milking machine or the water pump operate, it is a good sign that another circuit is needed."

"Over-loaded lines cause low voltage and unsatisfactory operation of motors and heating equipment and reduce the illumination of lamps out of proportion to the reduction in voltage."

"Many cases are on record where revamping the entire wiring system has resulted in much better service all around and in actually reducing electric bills."
