Another attribute of the First Lady, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, was displayed recently when the Women's Republican Club of Frederick County was honored at the White House. The First Lady displayed that she had a keen sense of humor and held no grudges due to party affiliations. Seems as though Mrs. Marie G. Rial was a member of the party present at the reception in the White House. Before going to Washington, Thaniel Bentz and his nephew, John Robert Bentz, asked Mrs. Rial to say hello to the First Lady. True to her promise to do so, Mrs. Rial carried the message straight and true. The message? "Please say hello to Mrs. Eisenhower for us . . . even if we are good Democrats." Mamie smiled pleasantly and replied: "Just so they are Good Americans." Mrs. Rial assured her they were and the First Lady again broke out with a big grin.

Apparently the first action concerning the extension of the Rainbow Lake Road is going to be taken by the local Chamber of Commerce. The group was quick to see the advantages to be derived from extending the road past the new summer boys' camp now being erected in that area. So far Emmitsburg stands in first place as far as a good road leading to the section is concerned. We have the most easily accessible way over other towns and you and I know what this means to visitors from neighboring cities such as Baltimore, Washington, Harrisburg, York and others. They must come through Emmitsburg to reach the camp and this is bound to result in increased business for local merchants, and when merchants benefit the town also benefits.

Construction is well under way at the camp site and it will be in operation this summer and I am told that it will accommodate at least 100 boys the first summer. Well 100 boys means 200 parents, assuming both parents are living, and ordinarily many of them will bring along friends to see the boys and scenery. Now then a quick survey of my arithmetic faculties tells me that if the boys stay there for 12 weeks during the summer, and they most probably will, and if the parents visit them weekends, that means at least 2400 parents, not counting friends, will have to come through town, many of them stopping to buy lunch, knickknacks, magazines, gas, tires, groceries and other sundry items to take to the camp for their sons. Many of the boys themselves, under supervision, will visit the town. Now then do you see the advantages of having people come through Emmitsburg? And if we have a good road they have to pass through here.

Now then, it is not only the Chamber's work to encourage the building of a road, it is the business of all of us. I am told that several other organizations plan action and that possibly petitions will be circulated. If so we urge you to sign these petitions and let's get the project under way!

Another word about stray dogs. You probably already have heard that a new county dog catcher has been appointed. He plans a trip here in the near future and should you lose your mutt you have no one to blame but yourself! You have been amply and officially warned that dogs are not permitted to run at large, regardless of the fact they have or haven't a license. They must be confined period, and if they are impounded you may have the opportunity to reclaim him, after paying a fine, and then again he may be destroyed before you get there. Many have not taken past hints as there are a large number of canines running at will all over the district. Remember, a new broom sweeps clean!

All-Out Drive For Polio Fund Begins

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Emmitsburg VFW Post will go all out Wednesday evening in an effort to raise additional funds to meet Emmitsburg's polio drive fund goal.

Crews of mothers have been assigned to the various districts and they will begin their door-to-door canvass at 7:30 p. m. and finish about 11 o'clock that night. The volunteer workers include the following mothers and members of the auxiliary and the sections in which they will work:

Frailey Rd., Yvonne Baker; Waynesboro Rd., Rt. 3, Mrs. Lumen F. Norris; W. Main St., Loretta Adelsberger, Blanche Keilholtz, Martha Adelsberger, and Jane Gingell; E. Main St., Carmen Topper, Elizabeth Harner, Doris Nusbaum, Jane Orndorff; DePaul St., Ann Ohler, Evelyn Ott, and Betty Goulden; S. Seton Ave., Gloria Martin, and the Motter's Station area, L. Valentine, Rachael Emrich, and Ethel Baumgardner. The St. Anthony's section will be canvassed by Eileen Wetzel and Bertha Sanders.

Other activities planned by the mothers include a food sale to be held in the VFW Annex on Thursday, Jan. 27, at 10 a. m. On sale will be salads, soups, sandwiches, cakes, candies and pastries. Also scheduled the same evening is a card party to be held on the same premises at 8 p. m. Door prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be on sale.

Concluding the local polio drive, which Lumen F. Norris is general chairman, will be the gala dance to be held Saturday night, Jan. 29, from 9 to 12 in the annex. All proceeds of these affairs will be deposited in the polio drive fund.

STATE SUMMONS DELINQUENT

The Maryland Employment Security Board has entered a petition in Frederick County Circuit Court, requesting the court to direct Richard R. Smith, Motter's Station, to produce certain records in connection with the computation of contributions owed by him through his employment of certain persons.

The board's petition said the sheriff served Smith with a subpoena to appear at the Employment Security Board in Frederick last September but the defendant failed to appear.

Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer signed an order directing Smith to show cause by January 22 why he should not appear before the board or its representative to give testimony or produce records as sought, and, upon failure to show cause, that Smith appear on January 23 and give the desired information.

Grange To Organize New 4-H Club In Emmitsburg

The regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Grange was held on Wednesday evening with 50 members and guests present. Master Richard Florence presided.

It was agreed to visit Piney Creek Grange, Harney on Thursday Feb. 17 and put on the program and voted to sponsor the organization of a new boys and girls 4-H Club in Emmitsburg. All members were urged to attend the Pomona meeting to be held at Lewistown on Saturday, Feb. 5. After a discussion on the possibility of the Emmitsburg Grange sponsoring the Red Cross drive in the area, it was decided to table the question until the next regular meeting.

The highlight of the meeting was a very comprehensive discussion of brucellosis by Dr. George Green, county veterinarian, and assisted by Dr. John Spangler, local veterinarian. It was pointed out that all cattle must have at least one test completed by Nov. 1, 1955, and all reactors (infected animals) must be removed for slaughter by Dec. 31, '55. The infected animals may be sold at the Baltimore Livestock Market, West Friendship Market, Woodsboro, and other local markets. Dr. Green pointed out that the Federal government would pay for a maximum of six trips a year for the vaccination of calves by your local veterinarian. The calves should be vaccinated between the ages of six to eight months. In looking for herd replacements, it was stated that the animal should be (1) calf vaccinated, and (2) blood tested and clean.

After the meeting, the juvenile joined the adults for refreshments.

PRIZE STEER

The reserve champion Angus steer at the 1955 Pennsylvania Farm Show held at Harrisburg was bred and raised at Wakefield Valley Stock Farm, New Windsor. This young, 905-pound lightweight steer was owned and exhibited by Clyde Brubaker, Ephrata. Its sire was Prince Wakefield II, herd sire at Wakefield.

Mounties Extend Conference Record

Mount St. Mary's high-powered basketball squad smashed a gymnasium scoring record at Western Maryland College Tuesday night as the Mountaineers crushed the Green Terrors 97-55 in a Mason-Dixon Conference game.

The old mark was set in 1951 when Johns Hopkins defeated the Terrors, 93-80.

Jack Sullivan's long set shot with four minutes of play remaining established the new mark. Sullivan connected for a total of 31 points to lead all scorers.

The victory gave Coach Jim Phelan's cagers a 7-0 mark in the conference and an overall season record of 11-2.

The Blue and White extended its Conference record at the home court Wednesday night when they mastered Baltimore University by a lop-sided score of 91-67.

WATER FLOWS IN FAIRFIELD

Fairfield's long dreamed of municipal water system is going into operation and about half of the 140 prospective water users there already have town water.

The task of turning on the water for each residence and business place began last Friday and may not be finished until today. LeRoy Sheads, caretaker for the Fairfield Municipal Authority, is in charge of the work. The only difficulty encountered so far is "too much pressure." Some users will have to install pressure regulators in their homes, he said.

The town now has a town water supply in case of fire with 20 hydrants placed throughout the borough. It was the Fairfield Shoe Co. fire in August 1953, that gave the final impetus to long-discussed plans for a town water system.

The Fairfield Municipal Authority was organized and bonds sold in the county to pay for the $165,000 system. Work started about May 1 of last year.

Maple Spring, two miles north-west of the town, is the source of supply. It has filled to overflowing a 700,000-gallon open reservoir between the town and the spring. Eight and six-inch mains have been used in the distribution system.

Sharpe Divorce Is Final

Judge Chester H. Rhodes has handed down an opinion in Superior Court at Harrisburg upholding the decree granted by Judge W. C. Sheely divorcing Philip B. Sharpe, Liberty Twp., from Ethel Marie Sharpe, of Maine.

Mrs. Sharpe had appealed the divorce to Superior Court after the county jurist had granted Sharpe the divorce on grounds of cruel and barbarous treatment, desertion and indignities. She denied all three grounds.

Results Of Polio Vaccine Tests Soon To Be Known

The final phase of the Salk vaccine tests has begun, bringing scientists into the home stretch of their year-long project to determine whether the new treatment can eliminate paralytic polio, George L. Radcliffe, state chairman of the March of Dimes, reported this week.

A report on the evaluation, he added, is expected in April or May.

The beginning of the last portion of the test was made when research specialists at the Polio-myelitis Vaccine Evaluation Center of the University of Michigan broke a code enabling them to identify for the first time which children actually received vaccine during last spring's field trials.

Until now, the identities of the youngsters who received the Salk vaccine have been mingled under a secret code with those of children "placebo."

The breaking of the code, Mr. Radcliffe said, has unlocked the final mysteries of a study which will ultimately include more than 144 million separate facts.

"The first hints of the vaccine's effectiveness will soon be exposed to the eyes and minds of the men charged with rendering the verdict," he said.

If the vaccine proves effective, 9 million vaccinations will be immediately available to first and second grade students, as well as to those who did not receive vaccine during the tests, Mr. Radcliffe explained.

The cost of the stockpile of vaccine, purchased by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis as a "calculated risk" was $9 million.

"This $9 million," Mr. Radcliffe said, "is part of the 1955 March of Dimes need."

He added that the entire amount necessary for the activities of the Foundation this year—$64 million nationally—must be collected during the current fund-raising drive which ends Jan. 31.

Cars Damaged

A rear-end crash did damages totaling $50 last Saturday morning, Pennsylvania State Police reported, when Mrs. Allen Plank, 44, Fairfield, Pa., was driving on the Emmitsburg Rd. south of Gettysburg enroute to work at 6:40 when a car driven by James Houck, 32, Emmitsburg Rt. 2, who was also enroute to work, struck the back end of the Plank vehicle.

Burglarizing Youths Are Sentenced

Two county youths who allegedly participated in two breakings and enterings with three older men in the Emmitsburg section on Jan. 2 were committed to the Maryland Training School for Boys in hearings in Juvenile Court before Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer Wednesday.

The two juveniles were accused of breaking into the Blue Duck Inn, operated by William H. Carson, and entering the Texaco Service Station, S. Seton Ave., operated by Guy J. Kessler.

The five allegedly took an office safe from the Inn to a spot near Emmitsburg where it was smashed open. The group allegedly took from the service station a radio, small sum of money and a gun.

In jail awaiting grand jury action on charges of breaking and entering at the two places are Eugene W. Smith, 19, of RFD Woodsboro; Margaron Ridenour, same address, and Roy M. Jackson, 20, of Frederick.

Smith, Ridenour and one of the juveniles have been accused in a number of robberies in the northern section of the county. Jackson and the other juvenile were accused in only the two at Emmitsburg.

One of the juveniles had recently been released from the Maryland Training School. Judge Schnauffer said he was going to give the boy one more chance.

State Trooper Harold L. Basore, who investigated the series of robberies, testified in the hearings involving the two juveniles. Mrs. William C. Roderick, juvenile court probation officer, presented the cases before the court.

Plan Children's Ward At Annie Warner Hospital

The pediatric ward of the new addition to be built to the Annie M. Warner Hospital within the next five years will be financed by Adams County Shriners through voluntary individual contributions that will be made annually during the next five years.

This action highlighted the annual dinner-meeting of the Adams County Shrine Club at the Hotel Gettysburg Tuesday evening which was attended by Chauncey Reichard, Harrisburg, Pa., potentate of Zembo Temple, and his official party of 12 comprising all but one member of divan, two past potentates and other officials of Zembo Temple.

The Emmitsburg Baseball Association has announced a meeting to be held this Sunday afternoon at 1:00 p. m. in the Fire Hall. All those interested in the sport are asked to attend, including officers and directors of last year.

Officials explained that if there were enough present at the session Sunday, the annual election of officers will be held, as the Pen-Mar League meets the following Sunday and it is advisable to have the local club organized by that time. The public is invited.

C. of C. Favors New Road To Boys' Camp

The Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce highly favors the extension of the Hampton Valley Road to the Elder's Valley Church, it was decided Monday night at the regular monthly meeting of that organization held in the Fire Hall, Secretary C. A. Elder presiding in the absence of President Cloyd W. Seiss.

So endorsed over the project was the group that it voted to lend all its support in an effort to have the roadway extended an estimated two and a half miles, and it will contact the County Commissioners in the near future.

The proposed labor survey was discussed and several names mentioned as likely individuals capable of conducting the survey which is being pressed by the Chamber for an early conclusion. The group agreed to the purchase of a portable public address system which will be used in the future at the regular Saturday drawings.

Once again the local Chamber agreed to affiliate itself with the United States Chamber of Commerce and will send in the necessary dues in the near future.

Colonel Thomas J. Frailey and Ralph Irelan were appointed delegates to the National Convention of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to be held in Washington, D. C., during May 1-4.

Winners of the annual Christmas decorating contest were announced officially by the secretary and checks will be mailed to the winners in the near future.

Ralph Irelan, general chairman of the Saturday drawings, announced that all tickets will be destroyed at the end of the month in order to give all a fair chance to win, stating that it was impractical to keep the accumulation and that public opinion was in accordance with the move.

Student's Car Demolished

A New Jersey driver and his Delaware passenger, both students at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, were admitted to the Warner Hospital last Sunday morning after the automobile in which they were riding rolled over and was wrecked on U. S. Rt. 15, about two miles south of Emmitsburg.

Trooper i/c Donald A. Tucker said James J. Kinneally Jr., 24, Rahway, N. J., and Paul J. Sparks, 25, Newcastle, Del., were taken to the hospital shortly after midnight in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance driven by Fern Ohler.

Kinneally suffered from a possible skull fracture and lacerated right ear, and Sparks with a lacerated left knee, scalp, face and forehead contusions and lacerations.

The vehicle was completely demolished.

Sparks was discharged early Sunday afternoon and Kinneally on Monday.

The car driven by Kinneally, apparently traveling at high speed southward on U. S. 15 failed to negotiate a sharp curve to the left, ran off the highway, struck a telephone pole, went through a hedge fence, ran over a very slight embankment and rolled over completely, landing on its wheels in the south lane of the highway.

Trooper Tucker said that charges of reckless driving are pending against Kinneally and a hearing will be held before Magistrate Charles D. Gillean on Jan. 31.

Congressional Viewpoint

By SEN. JOHN M. BUTLER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Several years ago, I recall reading a study devoted to the subject of international trade which opened by asking questions much in this vein—"Must the U. S. continue to grant aid to other countries of the free world? Why is aid necessary? What steps can be taken to balance or equalize world trade? Why are these steps not taken? What is the best tariff policy for the U. S.?" For the entire world?

In 1789, the Congress passed the first tariff bill as a means of gaining revenue. Since then, the answers to the questions as posed above have been sought periodically, and have resulted in varying higher and lower tariffs (tariffs are imposed barriers to an interchange of trade between nations). These questions assume a timely significance with the commencement of hearings this week concerned with President Eisenhower's proposals to extend primarily the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for another three years.

The Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, originally adopted in 1934, reflects a new concept for tariff considerations. It authorizes the President to engage in pacts with other nations for the mutual reduction of tariffs. Earlier, the Congress had set the rate of tariff for any item coming into this country. The Trade Agreements Act is intended to pattern a policy of gradually decreasing tariffs, within certain limits, as a means of obtaining trade concessions from other countries.

Ingenuity and enterprise have always characterized the growth of this Nation, and with an ever-expanding industrial capacity and potential, it is only reasonable to conclude that new markets—both domestic and foreign—must be sought. Proponents of the pending legislation argues that Reciprocal International Trade cannot be anticipated unless our government and our manufacturing and marketing communities are prepared to accept some importation of foreign products.

Unquestionably, many of our industries are vital to our national economy and to our national security. This important factor cannot be overlooked, nor minimized, in the forthcoming deliberations by the Congress. Opponents of any relaxed tariff program rightfully insist that the so-called "escape clause" or "peril point" must be contained in every trade agreement. By this clause, the U. S. can withdraw any tariff concession if imports threaten injury or havoc to competing domestic industries.

The legislation as proposed by President Eisenhower's program, in addition to renewing the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act for three years, would also grant authority for lower tariffs—"moderate, gradual and reciprocal" in the President's words—in connection with future trade agreements. I feel that these perplexing and far-reaching problems must be viewed and resolved in the best national interest.

All About BABY

Any parent who's ever taken baby for a trip knows that nothing ruins the fun quicker than a cranky, fretful son and heir, who, through no fault of his own, is cramped or uncomfortable.

But, like it or not, today's baby is a world traveler. To him home is wherever he happens to be—train, plane or ocean liner. Recognizing this, wise manufacturers have applied their know-how to make today's small fry truly "mobile babies"—safe, happy and above all, cradled in comfort.

On the list of new travel items is the Bunny Bear Car-Baby. Special features include soft padding to cradle baby's head against sudden bumps, damp-proof "Saran" plastic body and smooth tubular steel frame and supporting legs. For the older child, Car-Baby converts into a car chair and brings baby up to window level . . . so he can begin to learn about this exciting, big world he's living in.

Another item sure to win praise from traveling parents is Bunny Bear's Hip-Hiker, designed by radio and TV's Jerry Colonna, a comfortable carrier for baby, a god-send to mother, made of sturdy, navy twill with plaid plastic seat. An adjustable strap, softly padded for comfort, slips over mother's shoulder, leaving both hands free for easy shopping, visiting or plane catching. Baby is securely seated, his straight back firmly supported and his chubby arms ready to hug the Mommie he loves so much.

Medical Milestones

Scientists Find Tea Conquers Nervous Fatigue

For thousands of years people the world over have been drinking tea for a "lift"—enjoying its distinctive flavor and aroma. Tea brought a sense of well being, picked them up. No one knew precisely why.

Now, according to the Biological Sciences Foundation of Washington, D. C., scientists are well on the way to discovering the reason why tea has an immediate as well as a sustaining action in the relief of fatigue and anxiety.

Such authorities as Dr. Alfred H. Lawton, Medical Research Advisor of the U. S. Air Force, have recognized the fatigue-relieving action of tea. In a recent address on the health problems growing out of "world crises . . . and an ever increasing urge to speed up," Dr. Lawton said, "this strenuous and continuous drive results in a depletion of the energy reserves and produces a constantly increasing number of cases of stress and fatigue. Research and clinical reports show that tea . . . is as good an agent for the relief of fatigue as any that has been offered. Tea provides relief that is both immediate and sustained. Actually, tea is a versatile beverage, and depending on the results desired, may be prepared so as to be mild . . . and allowing sleep, or it may be prepared robust . . . and a true stimulant."

People drink tea for its gently stimulating effect, says Dr. Lawton, and scientists see nothing wrong in that.

The ever quickening pace of today's living — the speedup in work and play — produces an increasing number of cases of stress and fatigue—what the medical experts refer to as the "anxiety-tension-fatigue" syndrome. This means, in everyday language, that the body's energy reserves are used up. And that's where tea

The explanation of why a cup of tea is the "cup that cheers" is simple. The small amount of caffeine in a cup of tea produces a more rapid heart beat—but does not increase its force or raise the blood pressure. This results in an immediate redistribution of blood and energy to vital organs. That's why a cup of tea seems to clear the cobwebs away — to make us think faster and more clearly, to associate ideas more quickly. The Bulletin of the Biological Sciences Foundation points to the property of tea which effects "mild cerebral stimulation that dispels confusion and depression. The long-presumed theory that the drinking of tea . . . has an immediate and sustaining action in the relief of fatigue and anxiety states has now been definitely established."

Red Tactics and Techniques
 The first axiom in ideological warfare, as in any warfare, is: "Know and understand your enemy." In today's battle for the minds of mankind, most of the people who understand and subscribe to the American way of life have correctly identified world Communism as the enemy determined to destroy the basic principles upon which our freedom and progress are founded. But only a small percentage of Americans really understand the tactics and the techniques which the conspirators among us are using to infiltrate and shape the thinking and actions of important segments of our population.

One of the important strategies of the conspirators is to win over as many college men and women to their cause as possible—as their "Elite Corps" to do the work of infiltrating and mobilizing support for the Communist cause among the less well educated. In an instructive editorial in last week's issue, the Saturday Evening Post, points up one phase of this strategy, that of infiltrating and colonizing labor unions. The Post cites facts uncovered by the House Un-American Activities Committee during investigations and hearings in highly industrialized Flint, Michigan.

Plot Uncovered
 An FBI undercover informant revealed that a young Communist had been sent into Flint to recruit auto workers into the conspiracy, and dominate a union. This Communist got a job in a big auto plant. Filling out his employment application, he wrote that he had had one year of a college engineering course, then had been in the Navy, and, afterward, had worked several years in New York.

However, when he testified before the House committee under oath — faced with the penalty of perjury—he told the truth: that he'd received a bachelor - of-electrical-engineering degree only two weeks before applying at the Flint auto plant. When asked whether he was a Communist, he took the Fifth Amendment. The FBI undercover man testified that he was an important Communist doing Communist work. And significantly, he had hidden his professional engineering qualifications in order to get a job on the assembly line, join the union and do his poisonous work among the thousands of hourly employes.

Astonishing Facts
 Another witness who took the Fifth Amendment, had applied for assembly line work in another big automobile plant in Flint. Although he was a college graduate, holding a bachelor's degree, he too hid the fact and took an hourly wage job. In his application he said that for two and a half years he had worked for a Detroit fence company. When the auto company sent a questionnaire to the Detroit firm, a letter came back from the company's "co-owner." The letter said the applicant in question had worked in Detroit, as stated, and was an excellent employe.

Yet, when the Congressional Committee put the worker under oath, he admitted he had a bachelor's degree in social science and said that actually he had been in college at the time he previously had said he was working at the fence company in Detroit. And now get this: In due time another FBI counterspy who had worked among the Communist conspirators in Detroit, identified the Detroit business man, who fronted for the young Red, as a Communist Party member himself!

A New Project
 These are some understandable reasons why it is so vitally important for every American citizen, young and old, to understand the nature of this powerful conspiracy working against our nation, and the methods used by its agents and fellow travelers. Education in the techniques of Communism should especially be made available to college students—in fact to all youth. At Harding College, in Searcy, there is being created a special section in the college library for books and materials on Communism and its subversive tactics and techniques. The foundation books for this section were purchased with a gift from a man who feels, as I do, that we can't begin to resist Communism until we clearly understand its nature, its tactics and techniques.

The new library section will contain not only books on the subject but also the printed reports of every Congressional and legislative committee that has worked to expose Communist infiltration and propaganda and warn the American people of the great danger existing. It is quite a project, and in time perhaps it may become a pattern for libraries everywhere. I hope so.

Road Contracts Total $6.8 Million During 1954

Highway contracts totaling $6.8 million were awarded last year under the State's 12-year roads program in the three counties of Carroll, Frederick, and Howard, comprising the State Roads Commission's District No. 7.

These road improvements covered 51 miles of State highways, according to figures made public by the Commission. While the Frederick By-Pass and its connections with the Washington and Baltimore National Pike drew some of the larger contracts, many other improvements were commenced in 1954 in the three counties.

In Carroll County, the Westminster to Mt. Airy Rd. was widened and improved throughout its length of 15.4 miles. This project which was handled under three separate road contracts cost $1.1 million. Also State Rt. 26, from west of North Branch toward Eldersburg, was put under contract for improvements at a cost of $516,094.

In Frederick County the three-mile stretch of U. S. 15 from Thurmont northeasterly was improved at a cost of $737,879; while in Howard County, widening and resurfacing of five miles of Md. Rt. 175, from U. S. 1 to Md. 103, was awarded at a contract price of $765,254.

Also pending award in Frederick County are the East Patrick Street bridge over the Baltimore National Pike and the bridge over the Monocacy River to carry the second lane of the Pike.

Your Personal Health

When Carol, Edna, and Hazel were invading the East Coast last fall scientists were able to plot their probable behavior and warn the public to take precautions against the hurricanes. With equal care, scientists have been watching the advance of another threat to our safety: Type A influenza.

Beginning with an outbreak in Australia last Summer, Type A has followed a pattern which could bring it to the U. S. this winter. It may not appear at all, but doctors are on the alert.

We need not fear a disastrous epidemic such as struck this country in 1918. Many of the deaths then were the result of pneumonia or meningitis that developed following the "flu." New antibiotics and other drugs will cut down these secondary infections. Prompt treatment and careful nursing through convalescence will help prevent complications.

If influenza does strike in your community, avoid crowds. The "flu" virus is spread by direct contact, but it can be carried and passed on by people who are not sick themselves. Watch for symptoms. If any member of the family complains of sore throat, cough, headache, fever, or nausea, put him to bed at once. Influenza moves fast to the acute stage when there may be severe pains in the back, chest and limbs, and exhaustion to the point of prostration.

Follow the doctor's instructions carefully. There is no specific cure for influenza, but the discomfort can be relieved and dangerous complications prevented. Lots of rest and a gradual return to normal activity are of the utmost importance in coming safely through influenza.

New System Of U. S. Bond Buying Announced

The Treasury Dept. this week announced changes in the regulations governing Series E and H U. S. Savings Bonds to permit their purchase by "personal trust estates." The change is effective Jan. 1, 1955.

Formerly sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds have been limited to individuals either as owners, co-owners or beneficiaries. "Personal trust estates" are generally trusts created by individuals for the benefit of themselves or other individuals, and the amended regulations extend to such trusts the same privilege of purchasing Series E and H bonds as was given previously only to individual savers. The annual purchase limit of $20,000 (maturity value) of each series which applies to individual owners will also apply to a single trust estate, regardless of the number of beneficiaries.

The Treasury emphasized that the change in the regulations does not include under its terms pension, annuity, profit sharing and other similar trusts. Series J and K Savings Bonds are of course available for all these types of purchasers, with a limit of $200,000 and interest at about 2 1/2 per cent if held to maturity. Exact definitions as to eligibility are contained in the amendment to the offering circular on the bonds.

Only the Treasury Dept. and the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches will issue Series E and H Bonds to the trustees. Other issuing agents will not issue such bonds to "personal trust estates." However, banking institutions generally may accept applications for transmittal to Federal Reserve Banks for the purchase of the bonds by such trusts.

The Treasury also announced, effective Jan. 1, 1955, the removal of the restrictions against bank ownership of the outstanding 2 1/2 per cent bonds of June and December 1967-72, amounting to $1.8 billion and $3.8 billion, respectively. These are the only two issues of marketable securities sold during World War II which are not now eligible for bank ownership. The removal of the restrictions will provide a broader market for these securities.

AUTO SHOW OPENS SATURDAY

Baltimore's 1955 auto show will open Saturday, Jan. 22, at 1 p. m. in a shiny, bright world of color at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

An hour before the opening, a procession of the new model cars will parade from the Baltimore Stadium through downtown Baltimore and to the Armory. Auto show beauty queens, a bagpipe band of the Second Army Headquarters, and trucks carrying accessory displays will comprise the parade, all of which will be on wheels.

There will be namely 150 new autos on the Armory floor, including several of each of 18 American makes, foreign cars, cars of the future and experimental models. A generous sprinkling of ancient vintage cars will be on display to exemplify the world of progress made in the automotive industry.

The show will continue until Saturday, Jan. 29, but will be closed on Sunday, Jan. 23.

Writes . . .
By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 20—Do you hope you will be able to send your children to college sometime between now and 1964? If you expect them to get a sound education, and you to get your money's worth, much must be done. Both teachers' salaries and their efficiency (which is now comparatively low) must be increased.
College Problem Is Serious
Fifty years ago, only about four per cent of the youth of college age were able to go to college. Two great events on our national scene boosted enrollments sharply—the depression and the GI Bill. Prewar, about 15 per cent of our youth of college age attended such schools. Between 1945-49 a little better than 25 per cent were enrolled. Then, the number shrank during 1950-52. Chiefly responsible for this drop was the fewer number of births in the 1930-35 depression.

But, 1952 saw a 1.5 per cent increase in college enrollments over 1951; and 1953 rose 4.8 per cent over 1952, so that again about 25 per cent of our youth of eligible age were in college. Last year fall enrollments probably registered a six-eight per cent increase.
Can College Forecasts Be Trusted?
If you project to 1970 the number of children already born, you will have a 16 per cent increase in the youth of college age by 1960, a 46 per cent increase by 1961, and a 70 per cent increase by 1970. And if an increasing percentage of our youth of college age go on to college, enrollments could double by 1970.
The above is based on the assumption that we shall continue to make more educational opportunities available for our youth, as we always have. Educators claim that by 1970 a good third of our young people of college age may enroll. This would more than double student bodies, and perhaps require double the number of teachers and much more class room space. Personally, I believe this is like forecasting 400 for the Industrial Stock Average. I question such figures.

The Teacher Problem
The teacher shortage will not be limited to colleges. Our elementary and secondary schools may need about 140,000 new teachers each year for the foreseeable future. Yet, it is estimated by the experts that only about half the number of teachers needed for the public schools alone will be graduated from college.
But, someone will have to teach your little Johnny and Susie. If adequately trained teachers are not available, persons with substandard qualifications will have to be pressed into service. Now, why is there a teacher shortage? The answer, in part, is that teachers are under-paid.
Salaries Compared
Public school classroom teachers' salaries averaged about 3600 for 1953-44. This is less than many business and engineering college graduates got as a starting salary on the first jobs a year or so ago. And 1953-54 was a good year for the teachers too, for it represented an average salary rise of 4.9 per cent over the previous year.
Still, 14.1 per cent of the one million teachers received less than $2500, and only 14 per cent received $4500 or more. College teachers' salaries go very little higher. The median income of physicians, on the other hand, was about $11,200; lawyers, $7710; dentists, $7100; but with much higher top figures attainable. How can we hope to hold good men in top educational jobs which pay $5000-$8500 when their counterparts in industry offer ceilings unlimited?
Taxes Should Not Be Raised
If we want capable teachers, we shall have to pay wages competitive enough to encourage them to make the tremendous outlay of time and expenses needed for their education. To hold our able teachers, we shall have to up salaries. This means higher taxes.
I forecast that our democratic society, with full employment, can prosper only as we provide adequate schooling for our youth, with a moderate tax rate. This means that our educational leaders must provide far more efficient methods of learning by doubling the use of present facilities. What industry could survive in this competitive era with its factories being used only six hours per day?

and crows will regularly come a half mile. Be careful in choosing clothing, and rub a little burned cork on your hands and face.

A Pretty "Snappy" Menu
Cuff Taylor had a near riot in his hen yard last week. Seems the hens were scratching around the cold ground when they found a piece of rubber band frozen in the ice.
"One hen pecked at it," says Cuff, "and it snapped right back. She backed off clucking while another hen tried it, and another. And the 'worm' kept right on snapping back. They all got their feathers ruffled. You never heard such a ruckus!"
"I finally had to break up the ice with an ax before those hens would get back to business and start laying eggs again."
From where I sit, some people raise a pretty big fuss over nothing, too. Take the fellow who would deny me a temperate glass of beer with my game of checkers. Maybe he'd rather have coffee! Well, that's all right. He has a right to his own preference. But so do I. And there's no point in his "snapping" at me just because his choice isn't the same as mine.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting
The crow is a shrewd operator, but not so shrewd that you can't outwit him with a little know-how concerning his habits and with the proper equipment. Stand shooting gets the most crows, and good stand shooting starts just before the nesting season and continues until the birds flock in the fall. Basic equipment is a car, a call, a shotgun and plenty of shells.
Using your call properly is the most important single item. If you can't bring the crows in, you're out of luck, claims Les Morrow in his story on crow shooting which appeared in Sports Afield magazine. Any call will make a noise something like a crow if you just blow into it. But for best results you must "caw" in your throat as you blow. By biting gently on the mouthpiece and springing the lips of the call slightly closed, you can vary the tone. This technique, together with sound variations in your throat and the amount of blowing, give the different calls. Cupping your hands around the call gives a still more natural tone.
Once on your stand, if you don't get some action after four or five minutes of calling you might just as well pull stakes; the crows just aren't coming. Once you do get their attention, cut loose in a real frenzy of calling.
Make sure you get the first crow that comes over. It's the lookout—an older, smart fellow who knows all the tricks. He'll come over high, circle cautiously out of range, and play it safe. Keep well covered and concentrate on calling. When he makes a swing that will give you a fair shot, let him have it, even if it means momentarily stepping out of your cover. But get him or he'll warn off the others.
If you expect to get crows, camouflage is important. Crows have very keen sight and a good memory. Before you go into a stand, park your car as inconspicuously as possible, at least 300 yards from where you plan to make your stand. Don't let the crows see you hiking into the woods and don't choose a spot too close to your quarry. The call can be heard a good distance

HERES' HOW...

SEAL WOOD SURFACES

For a fine finishing job, wood must be properly sanded, the surface filled and sealed, and then resanded before the final finish is applied. On some woods, especially those with coarse grain, varnish is absorbed unevenly, causing light and dark spots. Uneven surfaces are accentuated when the finish is applied. It is usually necessary, therefore, to treat the wood surface. Wood fillers speed up the finishing job and help produce a more beautiful finish. Liquid sealers are used for fine-grained woods. The sealer is applied with a brush, in the direction of the grain. When the liquid sealer has dried, it should be sanded with 5-0 garnet paper or 000 steel wool. Paste fillers are used for coarse-grained woods. The filler is applied with a brush, across the grain. Excess filler is removed by rubbing across the grain with burlap. Then the piece is rubbed in the direction of the grain. When the filler has set it should be sanded, with the grain, with 5-0 garnet paper or 000 steel wool. Then the article should be cleaned before the varnish is applied. Rub with a cloth dampened in benzene or similar cleaner. For cleaning joints, moldings, corners, etc., use a picking stick—a sharpened dowel wrapped in a cloth dampened with cleaning fluid. Shellac is commonly used as a filler. Usually two thin coats are applied. Sand the piece after the first coat has dried to remove the shellac from the wood surface. Use white shellac for light colored woods or finishes, and orange shellac for the dark ones.

Man-Size Pay for Part-Time Effort

Ever stop to think that all the "know how" in the world doesn't do a bit of good without an equal measure of "know what?"

The newest selling idea to take the country by storm—party selling—has put the two together in a happy combination. Tupperware Home Parties Inc., has made it possible for the young mother, the older woman (and more and more often—their husbands) to step out of the kitchen, into the living room, and have fun while making money doing it.

Whether as a stop-gap to bridge a period of unusual expenses or a real need to bolster the family budget, party selling has wide appeal. The dealer can arrange working hours to suit herself—a blessing to women with children who need money but cannot spend a long eight hours away from home.

Though many dealers look on the party idea as a "part-time" job—it can quickly mushroom into a full-time occupation—and with the income to match. As to how much you can earn, how much you can sell—the sky is the limit. Dealers with good records can become managers and then distributors—which means still more income.

Today, over 20,000 men and women are meeting their friends and neighbors in the informal atmosphere of the living room, demonstrating and selling the Tupperware kitchen and refriger-erator ware. Made of flexible, unbreakable polyethylene, the bowls, canisters and other food containers can be sealed vacuum-tight—and even dropped on the floor while full without spilling a drop.

Remember the old saying "you, too, can be the life of the party?" Well, Tupperware says—you can—and at a handsome profit too.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—There is no doubt that the thousands of government employes in western Maryland deserve a raise in pay and I am in full support of President Eisenhower's proposals for it.

The five per cent raise will cost every taxpayer about $1.27. But the rise in spending power in our district where so many government people live should be the best shot-in-the-arm to our local economy that we have seen in a long time.

The government's salary rates never have been brought into with the bad inflation which ended nearly two years ago. Consequently, the employes have been penalized with shrunken dollars for too long a time. This applies to members of the legislative and judicial branches of the government, too, for whom the President had also endorsed a salary increase.

The president has asked that one portion of the new pay increases—those for postal workers—be financed with higher postage rates. While I am in favor of the pay raise, I am still open-minded about typing it to heavier postage charges.

The Postmaster General has made great strides in reducing his department's deficit. In the last four fiscal years before he took office the average annual deficit was nearly $622 million. In his first full fiscal year, Mr. Summerfield cut it to $399 million. The pay increase would cost an estimated $122 million a year, which will still leave him with a better record than before he came in.

It may well be that the founders of our nation foresaw the need for help from the U. S. Treasury for our postal system, and that may be a reason why they made the postal service a function of the government.

At any rate, it will be some time before the bills on this are ready for a vote in the House, and in the meantime I invite the comment and guidance of all

Nurses' Class Begun

A new class in practical nursing is being organized in the Division of Practical Nursing of the University of Maryland School of Nursing, according to an announcement from Dr. Florence M. Gipe, dean of the school. The new class will begin the one-year course on the Baltimore campus in March, 1955.

Although the applications will be evaluated on an individual basis, it is expected that applicants will present high school diplomas and be within the 18-50 age group. A qualifying test will be used in the selection of students for the course.

Dr. Gipe advises that inquiries should be directed to Mrs. Ethel Troy, director of the Division of Practical Nursing, School of Nursing, University of Maryland, Baltimore 1.

Catechism Class

A pastor's class of instruction in the Catechism was started Tuesday night at the Elias Ev. Lutheran Church, with the following 16 enrolling: Kenneth, Relda, and Shirley Warner; James A. Houck Jr.; Michael W. Kelly; John D. Krom, Nancy and Harold Bollinger, Rebecca A. Stabley, Linda S. Knox, David T. Umbel, Frederick L. Kugler, Linda L. Saylor, Shirley A. Hahn, Mary O'Leary, and Harriet M. Hahn. Approximately 12 more boys and girls are expected to enroll in this class which meets regularly each Tuesday evening until Easter and the last Tuesday of each month, Rev. Philip Bower, pastor, announced. All children and youths around the age of 12 and over are invited to attend and receive instruction in the Christian faith and life at 7:30 o'clock in the Parish House.

Get Brooders Ready

Early chicks for laying flock replacements will soon be going into brooder houses on Maryland farms. This brings a reminder from University of Maryland Extension poultryman Wade H. Rice that it's time to check all brooding equipment.

"Start the brooder stoves and make sure they work properly," he says. "Then, if any parts are needed replace them at once so there will be no heat failure after chicks arrive."

"And while you are getting things ready don't overlook electric wiring and all the connections needed to operate electrical equipment."

Another important reminder from the Extension poultryman is to have sufficient feeding and watering space. His recommendations for feeders are: One linear inch of feeder space per chick the first two weeks, 1 1/4 inches per chick from two to six weeks of age, and three linear inches per chick from six to 10 weeks of age.

Recommendations for founts are 20 linear inches per 100 chicks up to two weeks of age or two one-gallon founts, 40 linear inches per 100 chicks from three to 10 weeks of age or two 3-gallon founts.

Mr. Rice also adds a bit of advice for egg producers who have doubts about the number of chicks they should order: Don't let low egg prices last fall and this winter discourage you from ordering enough chicks to fill your house with pullets next fall. The prospect is for better egg prices for July, 1955 to July, 1956.

"Light breeds are the best bet for producers of market eggs," Mr. Rice says. "They eat less and lay more than heavy breeds. This offset the weight-market price advantage of heavy breeds as market fowl."

must comply with acreage allotments in order to be eligible to receive assistance under the 1955 Agricultural Conservation Program.

"This is in accordance with the provisions of the Agricultural Act of 1954," the state chairman points out. "Harvesting tobacco from acreage in excess of the farm acreage allotment in 1955 would forfeit a producer's ACP eligibility for that farm, as well as for any other farms in which he had an interest."

Chairman Reeves adds that final results of the grower referendum held Dec. 17 for Maryland tobacco have been announced by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The official compilation of the vote in the referendum does not change the results—which were against marketing quotas—as in-
