You can bet your bottom dollar that somebody's face was red when plans were changed unexpectedly recently. Seems as though the "powers that be" that work out of the Governor's office were all set to slap Mr. Motorist with a $20 license fee. Those responsible were apparently pretty confident the same old sheep would take another shearing, without too much of a protest. Anyway, these powers-that-be went on ahead and even had the license application forms printed with the new fees thereon applied. Well this time the sheep rebelled to the shearing ordeal and the result was that some members of the State Legislature, with an eye to helping the little underdog, you and me, refused to grant that proposed hike, printed applications or not. You can well imagine the wrangling and commotion that transpired and the em-barrassment to those behind the plan. Well anyway, if you get your notice and it says $20 just disregard it and send in the usual fee of $15. He who laughs last laughs best, they

While on the subject of price increases I would remiss in the line of duty if I didn't give the little housewife a pat on the back for the courageous fight she waged against the coffee gougers, both American and otherwise. Seems as though these price gougers had everything practically their own way until the wives got their dander up and a wholesale boycott went into effect. The result was that the price of coffee dropped about 15 cents in some stores. This action is a tribute to the ability of American housewives to fight back when they figure they are being "taken for a ride" and in my opinion they certainly were. Now then, I'll predict that if they continue their boycott of the product even bigger price decreases can be effected as summer is drawing near and ice tea will take the place of coffee. All this should swell the coffee warehouses to the bursting point and by next fall there should be a "break." Shall we

Once again the legislators in Washington have recognized the fact that the cost of living is getting out of control and they intend to do something about it, as usual. Yep, you guessed it! To combat or offset the increased cost they came along with the brilliant idea of increasing their own salaries almost 50%. No siree, the high cost of living isn't going to hit the boys in Washington too hard, they know how to meet it - by taking it out of our pockets! The raise won't benefit us any and I most sincerely doubt if we obtain any better quality of law-making as a result of the increase. We haven't come up with the right formula of our own for surviving the high cost of living, but there is some consolation in the fact that somebody has . . . the boys on Capitol Hill. I'll bet they can lick a depression, too . . . possibly in the same manner.

Red faces again? Yep, it seems that a few students were reveling happily as a result of a certain basketball victory Saturday night. So enthused were they over the win that they took to tossing glass bottles on the sidewalks. Their manifestations were of a short duration though, and they were a mighty chagrinned group when they heard the voice of Chief Dan Kass admonishing them for their actions and commanding them to clean up the mess-and you can bet they complied in a hurry.

My heartiest congratulations to the Mt. St. Mary's basketball team and its outstanding coach, Jim Phelan, for the wonderful exhibition of basketball given Saturday night when the Blue and White cagers retained their state championship title against Loyola of Baltimore. An ardent bas-ketball fan myself, I had the pleasure of witnessing the contest which will go down in Mountaineer history as one of the best. Memorial Gym was packed to capacity, 3000, and the enthusiasm was unbounded as the home team forged ahead in the second half. It was close, too close, throughout the en-

Good For Our Nation

A nation-wide survey reported in Look magazine last week that American adults, in a proportion of 10 to 1, believe that big business corporations are good for the nation and the people's welfare. This is encouraging, especially at a time when Socialist and Communist propagandists, and even some politicians in the two major parties, are attacking "big business" openly and underhandedly. The propagandists are really working to undermine our people's faith in the whole American system — and merely using big business as their point of attack. The politicians who join in this are practicing demagoguery.

A group of 100 small business owners attended the Harding College Small Business Management Seminar last week to discuss ways and means of improving their business management and their services to their communities. They respect so-called "big business." They recognize that there is a mutually beneficial relationship between their business enterprises and the bigger ones. Working Together

The guest speaker at the small business seminar dinner was a representative of "big business," Robert W. Murphy, vice president and general counsel of the Borg-Warner Corp., Chicago. "It is a startling, if obvious, economic fact," he said, "that the president of the largest automotive giant could not all by himself make an automobile. He could not all by himself even make a door handle or a piston ring on an automobile-if you mean by 'all by himself' that he could go to the northlands, dig out the ore, smelt the iron, refine it, roll it into billets, transport it, put it into die castings, or ultimately machine it into some simple automotive part.

"There is no one man big enough or smart enough that he could all alone create the simplest element that goes into one of our mass-produced vehicles. It takes thousands of workers as a team, and thousands of stockholders to furnish the capital facilities. And it takes thousands of independent concerns who provide the parts for those vehicles. to 6000 separate suppliers . When you look at the sales figures of the biggest automotive -sales, $2 billion annually) and see that one-half of each sales dollar goes to those suppliers who supply parts, materials and services, you realize how dependent even this biggest of the automotive mammoths is on its thousands of suppliers. And yet that company makes more of its parts than any of the big three automobile companies.

His own company, Mr. Murphy noted, is one of the biggest 100 manufacturers in America. "As a matter of fact," he said, "it is essentially a collection of small industries. Each is run as an independent, autonomous operating unit. Some are very small—with 20 to 25 employes. Others are larger-up to 5000 or 6000 employes. But they operate independently, as do small industries.

"Our Customer" "Although we have a large line of household appliances and other consumer items, we are essentially a supplier of parts. Big business is our customer—the big automotive, the big aircraft, the big farm equipment companies. And like every small, middle-sized or even large supplier, we are most thankful we have these big customers." Mr. Murphy pointed out the significant fact that in the last 10 years the number of small firms doing business in the U.S. has increased at about the same percentage rate as the the number of large companies.

The most significant finding in the Opinion Research Corp. survey reported by Look was the fact that although 10 of every 11 American adults feel that big business is good for the nation, they still are uninformed on important business facts. For instance, the average guess on what corporations earn in net profits was 14.1 per cent; when, actually, in 1953 the average of net profits on sales for all corporations was 3.3 per cent; and for the last 25 years the average was 3 per cent.

Inventory Tax Cut May Induce More Industry To County

To attract more industry and keep what is already here, the Frederick County delegation to the General Assembly recently unanimously agreed to have Frederick county included among 16 others slated to get an additional 15 per cent exemption from the inventory tax. Delegate C. Clifton Virts, chairman of the county's House delegation, was authorized to have Frederick County, included in the pending legislation to that end. He and State Senator Jacob R. Ramsburg issued a statement for the delegation, which said:

"After very careful and deliberate consideration, the Frederick County members to the General Assembly have decided to join with 16 other counties in granting a further exemption of 15 per cent from the inventory tax as well as to machinery and equipment of manufacturers.

"The members have viewed with alarm the continued reluctance of new industries to locate in our county and even worse the discontinuance of some already here. In many counties and Baltimore City, manufacturers pay no tax on machinery and equipment and experience indicates that new industries are inclined to locate only where this concession is made.

"The members feel that the presence of Camp Detrick here is the main factor which has kept Frederick County from a very serious economic crisis.

In commenting on this action, the members said several factors had weighed heavily in their decision. First, they felt that in taking action to grant the reduction in other counties, they could not do less than to keep their own county in line with the others. Second, that the unfreezing of assessments will ease the problem of the County Commissioners in that they will now have avail able any increases in assessable basis that have been produced in the past two years.

"Just as important," the statement continued, "was the fact that a review of the records of many of our manufacturers revealed that practically all are now carrying values that produce more tax revenue than they were paying before the first 25 per cent exemption was granted."

The first exemption of 25 per cent was granted by a 1951 Act after those seeking the exemption argued that revenues would not be reduced. The delegation found that inventories have been increasing during the four-year period and there was little loss of revenue by giving the exemp-

In explaining why a 100 per cent exemption is not provided, the statement continued: "The members feel sympathetic to the request of our manufacturers for a 100 per cent exemption to put them on an even competitive basis with those in other sub-divisions of the state, but at the same time, we feel that to do so at one time would be too much of a

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Fla., Feb. 24-Merchandising at the retail level has already passed through Three Revolutions since

1875. Preceding those days there were no mail order houses or department stores, few chain stores

(A & P had 50 stores which carried only tea, coffee, and crockery), but many wholesale houses and independent merchants. They were doing 95 per cent of the retail business. My father was one of these in Gloucester, Mass.

The First Revolution in retailing was brought on by the department stores and mail order houses. This made it unnecessary to visit several different stores, if you lived in a city, while, if you lived in the country, you could shop by man from your farm. This Revolution was desperately fought by the old-time retailers. The Second Revolution came with the chain stores, which cut out the wholesalers. The department stores continued to buy through wholesalers; but the chains bought direct from the manufacturers. Hence, they were fought by legislation and taxation enacted at the demand of the middlemen.

Discount Houses

Now the Target The Third Revolution is now being caused by the "discount houses." This is an effort to reduce retail prices by cutting out the bureaucracy, high rents, and unnecessary overhead developed by the department stores. But, a Fourth Revolution, as a revolt against parking meters, automobile congestion, and a lack of sufficient free parking, is just ahead of

This is being temporarily met by building new "shopping centers." It is reported that Allied Stores is to spend over $200 million for this purpose. Shopping centers, however, will be only a halfway cure. Wanamakers, which was the world's largest department store when I was a boy, has thrown in the sponge in its fight against automobiles and discount houses.

New Shopping Centers Just Ahead

Shopping centers offer free parking and "self-service." but the high rents may result in higher prices. Anyway, customers who use shopping centers are more dependent on automobiles than if they patronized the old downtown merchants. In fact, if city officials would treat their bus systems fairly, the present downtown stores could continue to give better service and perhaps undersell the new shopping center prices. I don't know. Different cities differ.

The next, or Fourth, Revolution in retailing will be forced upon us by the automobiles. Simple arithmetic proves that the present race to make "the mostest and largest" automobiles, with insufficient increase in highways cannot continue much longer. It is true that we are building splendid new toll roads; but very little is being done to avoid congestion in cities and to help local merchants. Otherwise, people may some day cease using automobiles for shopping. These machines may remain in the garage except for trips — as mother's sewing machine is now seldom used.

More Advertising and Telephoning

I forecast that this Fourth Revolution will result in customers buying from their homes soon by telephone, and later by television. Increased newspaper advertising with many more newspaper pictures of products for sale, supplemented by better telephone service, will become the custom. People are now sick of hunting for places to park their cars when shopping. People will think of the risk and gasoline costs of driving to shopping centers. The time may come when 80 per cent of the shoppers will sit at home in a comfortable chair, study the newspaper advertise-ments, and do their ordering by telephone.

Newspaper advertising and telephones are the only cure for the present increased automobile congestion. In fact, I believe the stocks of certain newspaper-which are now temporarily in the dumps — plus stocks of telephone companies, preferably the wide-awake Independents, are among today's best "buys." Furthermore, I am investing my hard-earned money in "United Stores" stock (listed on the New York and American Stock Exchanges). A company has recently organized a new corporation to profit from this coming Fourth Revolution.

Use With Caution

Modern drugs have saved thousands of lives, have saved more thousands from crippling and long-drawn-out illness. But doctors warn that they must be used with the greatest caution. Science has made us valuable gifts in these drugs which fight infections of many kinds, but we must recognize that there can be uncomfortable and sometimes very serious side effects. About four or five per cent of people who are given antibiotics have allergic skin reactions such as hives, rash, or other outbreaks. Taken by mouth in the form of lozenges, some of the drugs cause unpleasant conditions inside the mouth. Other occasional reactions are itching, burning sensations, failure of muscular coordination, deafness, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps, and even severe

Most of these reactions can be prevented by proper use of the drugs. Different ones require different methods. It is of the utmost importance to follow the doctor's orders exactly. Instructions which may sound unimportant to you-such as taking a drug before instead of after meals, taking it with milk or orange juice or sodium bicar-bonate, drinking lots of fluid these are carefully planned to protect you. If unexpected symptoms develop, the doctor will want to know immediately so that he can check them before they become serious.

Another important precaution is to destroy any drugs left over after an illness. Those lozenges the doctor prescribed last fall for Jimmy's sore throat might be wrong for your throat. The doctor decides what drug or combination of drugs you need on the basis of a careful diagnosis of your condition.

You drive your car cautiously because you know that the power ful engine is potentially danger ous. Drugs which can kill or check infection in the human body are, in their way, just as powerful. They can do wonderful work for us, if we use them cautiously.

Air enters here at hood-high levelaway from road heat, fumes and dust!

Only Chevrolet and higher-priced cars give you a ventilation system like this! A special chamber under the ventilation louvers keeps rain out of the car and supplies you with a more even flow of air. And it also acts as a girder, making the car stronger. This is just one of the exciting discoveries you'll make when you drive the Motoramic Chevrolet! Come in and see.

Within the last 10 days have Diamond Crystal Salt 26-oz pkg 10c come the first definite indications that the President's efforts are bringing results. Here are some instances: The Hoover Commission has issued its first of a series of reports. Among other things, it takes cognizance of the fact that the U.S. is a large country and that conditions which prevail in one area do not prevail in another. And, as a result standards for one area may not necessarily be standards for another area. In view of this, the Hoover Commission called for "greater recognition" of 'prevailing wages' in compensating Federal employes, to take into consideration the cost of living conditions in various parts of the country. tire contest, and I can't understand why no one fainted during all the excitement. This makes the second straight year for the champs and I do hope they will have a long reign and Coach Phelan a long stay at the Mount. Another brilliant contest is promised tomorrow night at the local gym. Better not miss it, as it is the last home contest of the season for our champs. See you there?
