What a heart-warming experience it was to learn of the successful reaction the Salk vaccine had in combatting the dreaded polio. Really it was like the end of a vicious and horrible war that had taken hundreds of thousands of lives, mostly those of little children.

What a comfort it will be to parents who every summer "sweat" out the hot, dry polo months. We here in Emmittsburg experienced a brush with the malady several years ago, when a small epidemic brought on about a dozen cases and one fatality. The results and marks of that experience are indelibly with us as the little victims continue to suffer, years later.

We can all be proud of the part we, as individuals, have played in the conquest of polio. Our great President, Franklin D. Roosevelt probably was the first individual to take up the battle with public sympathy and backing. At any rate, it was his great humanitarian work that set the wheels in motion and which ultimately ended in our present success. Millions were raised by FDR's now famous March of Dimes, and was responsible for the financial backing scientists received in their war on the disease. Nowhere else but in America would a thing like this be possible! Yes, those little thin dimes you and I gave really went a long way.

But what of the young Pittsburgh doctor who discovered the potent vaccine which has licked and will continue to lick the child-killer? Certainly he will be a Nobel Prize winner and will live in undying fame among the hearts of his countrymen! But what will his own United States do for him? Certainly money will come easily to a man with such ability. The question is how can his native country enshrine him perpetually in our hearts and minds and posterity? As one congressman has proposed, this country should award him the Congressional Medal of Honor for his brilliant discovery. However, I believe that coveted award can only be awarded to military men.

As long as the Salk vaccine remains unplaced by some other type and continues to be named Salk, after the now famous physician, Dr. Salk will remain in American hearts forever!

Well now that polio has been conquered we can concentrate our efforts on the eradication of the No. 1 and 2 killers, heart trouble and cancer. Much progress has been reported on both these killers but a lot, lot more must be learned before we can completely wipe them out. Incidentally, the annual cancer drive is now in progress. Let's give it a generous boost this year folks. After all, it's for the benefit of all of us!

Old Man Weather really cooperated 100% over the weekend. A more perfect Easter Day I have never seen. The warm sun teamed up with the balmy gentle breezes to make it a real pleasant day, perfect for the occasion and the rejoicing that Christ had risen in triumph from the dead. Really I think we should make the first day of spring Easter Sunday, just because Christ rose on that day and it seems as though most of our green earth comes to life again about the same time as Christ did.

I'll be laughed out of town for printing this one but here goes! Seems as though the story was passed along by Trooper Don Tucker and goes thusly: A Washington lad was extremely delighted to be declared the champion egg gatherer at the annual Easter egg hunt on the White House lawn. He toiled hard and when he tallied his eggs he had somewhere in the neighborhood of 150. He was dismayed though, when the judges looked over his find and discovered that about half of his "eggs" were golf balls . . . apparently lost by Ike during his practice rounds on the lawn. The lad apparently had mistaken them for Easter eggs! Oh well, there are other ways a gal can make a living other than beating the daylight out of a typewriter!

I'll be suing you!

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Virbal, Baltimore, visited over the weekend with Mrs. Virbal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald.

William Brawner Killed By Automobile

William M. Brawner, 75, Emmittsburg Rt. 3, was fatally injured last Saturday evening when he was struck by an auto while walking along the Emmittsburg-Waynesboro Rd., a half mile west of Emmittsburg, from his home to the home of a daughter a short distance away.

He had been planning to accompany his daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Rohrbach, to St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmittsburg, for confession prior to receiving Holy Communion Easter Sunday morning, the family said.

Maryland State Trooper Donald A. Tucker and Emmittsburg Police Chief Daniel A. Kaas, said Mr. Brawner was struck by an auto driven by Charles Robert Orendorf, Hagerstown, as he was walking across the road.

Taken to the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, in the Emmittsburg VFW ambulance, Mr. Brawner died at 7:20 o'clock, "about two minutes after he entered the hospital," Adams County Coroner Dr. C. G. Crist said.

Dr. Crist said Mr. Brawner had suffered a fractured skull, chest injuries, a fracture of the left arm between the shoulder and elbow, a fracture of the left pelvis, fracture of the left thigh bone and compound fractures of the two lower bones in the left leg.

A son of the late John and Mary (Shindedecker) Brawner, he was a native of Adams County, Pa., and a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmittsburg.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alice (Adelsberger) Brawner; eight children, Mrs. William Miller, Emmittsburg; Mrs. William Sweezey, Dayton, O.; Franklin Brawner, Mrs. Paul Humerick, both of Emmittsburg; Richard Brawner, Baltimore; Roy Brawner, Dayton, O.; Mrs. Theodore Warren, Fairfield, Pa., and Mrs. Kenneth Rohrbach, Emmittsburg. Also surviving are 20 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Daugherty is chairman of the affair, and asks that all parents of prospective Little Leaguers kindly arrange to have some type of food donation ready for the sale. Members of the Lions Club will also make donations. It is suggested that all contributions of food be taken to the Fire Hall after 9 a. m. on the morning of the sale.

Thurmont Youth Escapes Serious Injury In Wreck

A Thurmont youth narrowly escaped serious injury when his car went down a 30-ft embankment into Owens Creek south of Emmittsburg and about a mile north of Thurmont late Tuesday night.

Ralph E. Whipp, 18, of Thurmont, operator of the car, was admitted to Frederick Memorial Hospital for treatment of a deep laceration of the scalp and neck injuries.

Whipp's car could not be seen from the highway, Trooper 1/c H. J. Brown, of the State Police stated. Whipp was not unconscious and crawled to the top of the embankment where he was picked up by a group of young men who were riding by. Trooper Brown said the mishap occurred on Md. Rt. 81. The car went off the right hand side of the road and traveled about 40 feet through a parking area before careening down the steep embankment.

A tractor-trailer loaded with furniture and traveling north on U. S. 15 at Catoctin Furnace, overturned on its side Tuesday morning about 7 o'clock.

Trooper Brown, investigating officer said the driver, Ralph Cox of Thomasville, N. C., told him he was crowded off the highway by an oncoming car. The truck went over on its side when it struck the soft shoulder. No damage was done to the truck or its contents.

COUNTY BILLS SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

Four Frederick County bills were signed into law by Gov. McKeldin Monday as Maryland's chief executive inked his name on 165 measures passed at the last session of the General Assembly.

The bills, three of which become law June 1 and the fourth on July 1, provide:

1—Authorizing the County Commissioners to levy a sum not to exceed $15,000 a year for "such private non-profit organizations whose objectives are to promote the health, education, public welfare and community betterment of Frederick County, in the respective amounts set up by the County Commissioners of Frederick County in the annual budget."

2—Permitting sheriffs and their deputies, as well as magistrates, to appoint appraisers for damages caused by dogs to livestock.

3—Authorizing the County Commissioners to regulate the weight and speed of vehicles passing over bridges or roads in the county roads system by posting signboards, and providing penalties for violations.

4—Raising the salary of the county treasurer from $6000 to $6500 a year. This bill takes effect July 1—the beginning of the treasurer's term—while the other measures will be effective as of June 1.

Polio Inoculations Will Be Given Next Week

The first of the Salk polio shots will be given to approximately 3,000 first and second graders in Frederick County beginning next Tuesday, according to the plan established several weeks ago, Dr. Forbes H. Burgess, county Health Officer, said this week.

A change in administering of the second and third "shots" in the series has been announced by the health officer. The second inoculation will be given the four days beginning May 10, just three weeks after the first inoculation.

The third shot has been postponed from a few weeks interval to between seven and 10 months, Dr. Burgess said. This was done because results on the effectiveness of the vaccine showed the third inoculation to be most effective at that time.

The exact date for administering of the third injection will be announced later and will depend on information from the State Department of Health.

Volunteers recruited by the local county polio foundation to assist with the three teams which will administer the injections to the school children were given information on the handling of pupils receiving the inoculations.

Each child who gets a "shot" will also get a lollipop. The volunteers will be used to prepare the arms of the children, clean and package syringes and record information on each child. Each team will be composed of 12 persons including a physician and a teacher, and before inoculations are given each child will be observed for any illness. Two volunteer nurses with each team will fill the syringes and two public health nurses will be assigned to each team.

Large Barn Destroyed

A large bank barn located on Rt. 15, about a mile north of Emmittsburg was completely razed Monday afternoon despite prompt action by the Vigilant Hose Co., which was called to the scene.

The barn belonged to Curtis Topper and was located near the Pennsylvania line. Firemen reached the scene at 1:33 p. m., but the barn was a mass of flames when firemen arrived, according to Fire Chief John J. Hollinger.

Six calves, the property of Regis Sanders, were burned to death, and some hay, straw, fodder and machinery were destroyed. Estimated damage was reported at $5000.

Mr. Topper was not home when the blaze broke out. Mrs. Topper discovered the fire and called the firemen, who concentrated on keeping the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings. Chief Hollinger said that the fire "probably started from defective wiring," and said that he believed the structure was partially covered by insurance.

The wind fanned the flames, and a nearby utility pole caught fire. Power was cut off until the blaze was subdued. Traffic was also halted briefly.

House Damaged By Blaze

Fire caused by an overheated fuse caused about $1000 damage to the residence of the Francis Hemler Monday morning.

Two engines from the Vigilant Hose Co. responded to the alarm about 7:15 a. m. The residence, a frame one-story structure, is located about three miles south of Emmittsburg on Hemler Rd.

Damage was confined to the roof and one side wall. The family was preparing breakfast when the side wall began to burn.

The firemen employed booster streams to confine the blaze.

Lions Club Backs Better Mailbox Movement

Cooperation with the National Mailbox Improvement Week which is to be observed in the near future, was pledged at the regular meeting of the Emmittsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in Bucher's Restaurant, President J. Ralph McDonnell presiding over the 24 members present.

A committee of Dr. D. L. Beeble and Charles R. Fuss was appointed to organize some sort of observance of the occasion for Mailbox Improvement Week and it will meet with the local postmaster to formulate a plan.

Paul W. Claypool, general chairman of the effort to get Little League baseball organized here, spoke briefly of the progress to date and announced that the first practice had been held with about 60 boys present. The club agreed to meet every Thursday night at the Civic Grounds east of town to work on the field in preparation for the coming season.

An invitation was received from the Thurmont Lions Club inviting the local group to attend its Spring Ladies' Night on Wednesday, April 20. The affair will be held at the VFW Country Club in Frederick. An announcement from the AAA relative to the national School Patrol parade to be held in Washington in July, was received. A donation is asked for the school boys attending this affair and the matter will be taken up at a later meeting after consultation with school principals has taken place.

A bake sale will be sponsored by the club for the benefit of the Little League program in the near future. Robert E. Daugherty was named chairman for the event and will be assisted by Clarence E. Hahn, George R. Sanders and Arthur Elder. Geo. L. Wilhide announced that a financial drive will be held from May 10 to 20 by the Warner Hospital. It is planned to raise a quarter of a million dollars to finance new buildings at the hospital during that period.

A nominating committee consisting of George L. Wilhide, Charles F. Troxell and George R. Sanders, was appointed to bring in recommendations for new officers at the next regular meeting.

Registration Tuesday

The Burgess and Commissioners of the Corporation of Emmittsburg announce that a registration of new voters will be held Tuesday, Apr. 19, from 2 to 7 p. m. in the Fire Hall. The Town Solons explain that to be eligible to vote in the town election to be held on May 2 an individual must be registered on the town's books. The election has nothing to do with the county, state, or national elections, and if you have never registered on the town records you must do so Tuesday or you won't be eligible to vote in May.

The coming election will see a Mayor and one Commissioner elected. At the present, the two incumbents, Mayor Thornton W. Rodgers and Commissioner T. J. Frailey, have given no indication as to whether or not they will seek re-election.

Election Registrar Charles D. Gillelan, who has worked diligently on the eligible voting list, announced this week that the total of eligible voters at present is 434. It is hoped to top 500 by Tuesday's registration.

Qualifications for registering are that a citizen must be 21 years of age by the day of election, May 2, that he lives in the corporate limits of Emmittsburg proper, and that he has lived within these limits for the past 12 months. There is no registration fee required.

Firemen Will Honor New Graduating Class

Thirty-nine members were present Tuesday night at the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held in the Fire Hall with President Herbert W. Roger presiding.

Fire Chief John J. Hollinger reported the hoesmen had been summoned to five fires during the month, the nature of which were two house fires, two barns, and one field fire.

Guy R. McLaughlin, general chairman of the annual financial drive, announced on the progress of the drive to date and reported that so far $1763.50 had been received. The goal of the drive is $3000.

It was announced that the interior of the hall had been painted and a set of house rules presented by a committee had been adopted. All meetings will be held at 8 o'clock when Daylight Saving Time goes into effect.

A banquet for the 17 members of the graduating class of the fire school, trained by the University of Maryland Fire Extension School, will be held at Bucher's Restaurant on Thursday, Apr. 28, at 7 p. m.

Three new members were taken into the company: Eugene Rosensteel, Donald Byard, and Francis A. Cool. Applications for membership were received from Guy W. Warren, Raymond L. Sanders, and Hiram J. Brown.

A nominating committee to bring in recommendations for officerships at the May meeting was appointed and included J. William Rowe, chairman, Paul A. Keepers, Eugene Kraemer, Aaron W. Adams and J. E. Houck.

A map was presented the firemen by the third and fourth grades of the Emmittsburg Public School, under the supervision of Miss Mary Fiery, depicting what they observed while recently touring the Fire Hall. The map will be kept on display.

Trout Season Opens This Morning

A large percentage of the state's 60,000 licensed fishermen is expected to take to the county streams early this morning as the season on trout opened for a six-month run.

The State Game and Inland Fish Commission says that 100,000 brooks, browns and rainbows, seven or more inches in length, are available for stocking during the season which terminates on September 15.

About 10,000 trout have been placed in Frederick County waters for the inaugural this morning at 5:30 a. m. The last of the trout were turned loose in Fishing Creek about and below the municipal dam on Wednesday.

Fishing Creek and Big Hunting Creek each received 3,000 fish in the initial stocking. Middle Creek has 2,000 trout while 1,000 have been placed in Friends Creek and 500 in Little Hunting Creek.

More fish will be stocked during the season. Most of the trout are products of the state hatchery at Beaver Creek, Washington County, but about 15,000 have been obtained from the Federal hatchery at Leetown, W. Va.

Cooperation Sought

The Commission has fin-clipped all trout stocked in Big Hunting Creek so that an accurate check may be made as to the actual catch and carry-over of fish in the stream. The trout have clips attached to their anal fins and anglers are asked to report their catches at three checking stations arranged on the stream during Friday and Saturday.

Checkers will be located at the entrance to the Federal Park area; at the Foxville Road and at the picnic area. Cooperation of anglers is requested since the check is being made in the interest of better fishing conditions not only on Big Hunting Creek but in all Maryland trout streams.

According to Albert M. Powell, Lewistown, state fish culturist, the check is being made to determine how many of the fish stocked for the opening are caught the first two days and to decide the numbers to be stocked in the future.

The check also will determine the actual carry-over of fish in the stream from one season to another. A trap has been constructed downstream so as to ascertain the number of fish that drift downstream and are thereby lost to anglers.

Fin-clipped fish will be freed during the entire season and periodic checks will be made.

Trout stocked in Big Hunting Creek are evenly divided among brooks, browns and rainbows.

Any type of bait is legal in all streams except Big Hunting Creek where artificial lures are the accepted legal bait. Regional Game Warden Benjamin F. Pheasant says an extra detail of wardens will be placed on all streams to guard against violations. The daily creel limit is five fish, seven or more inches in length.

Weddle Unopposed In Thurmont Town Election

C. Ray Weddle was nominated as mayor of Thurmont at a primary election held Monday night in the Fire Hall. He faces no opposition and when elected Apr. 25 will start his fourth one-year term.

A sparse crowd of the north county town's citizens turned out for the primary, at which time commissioners were also nominated, with the town clerk, G. T. Frushour, reporting that only about 25 were present.

Commissioners nominated were Lee R. Saylor, William J. Benjamin, and an incumbent, Maurice J. Albaugh. Two of the three nominees will be elected to serve the two-year terms. William M. Houck, present member of the commissioners, was not renominated.

Ross V. Smith was named as temporary chairman for the meeting, and D. A. Weybright served as secretary.

A financial report was heard and other routine business conducted. A discussion was also held on the accomplishments and activities of the town for the past year.

Of A Number Of Things

Observations Suggested by the Preceding Section

The preceding section of this report presented the opinions of a diverse group of three of the “thinking specialists” on the state of this supremely important activity of human beings among us average present-day people, along with the statement of a scientist as to the proportion of the “roof-brain” (the cortex, that controls the thinking process) which has so far been made use of. The latter, I thought (how variously we use this term, “to think!”)

AT THE MAJESTIC THEATRE, GETTYSBURG

A girl and a Gob . . . Debbie Reynolds and Russ Tamblyn form one of three stellar romantic teams in MGM's big CinemaScope musical, "Hit The Deck," with a Navy San Francisco shore-leave background and a flock of song hits by Vincent Youmans. The other romancers are Jane Powell and Vic Damone, Tony Martin and Ann Miller, with Walter Pidgeon, Gene Raymond, Kay Armen and J. Carroll Naish in an all-star cast, now playing through Saturday at the Majestic Theatre.

was of interest on account of its appeal to the imagination. What would happen, it suggests, if the whole cortical area instead of only one-third of it should get involved in thinking? The answer to this question, however, is not our practical concern; but the serious opinions of these observers and reporters in entirely different fields on the present state of our thinking surely is.

Well, a mere glance at the words quoted to head the section—“People Do Not Think”—showed that those opinions were very low indeed, but those who read beyond the heading (always an advisable practice in reading) discovered that they were not quite as low as a glance would seem to indicate: that they did not mean literally that nobody thinks but that a very large proportion of all the people do very little, if any, real thinking. And this same unanimous opinion is expressed or implied, so far as I have observed, by every person who feels himself qualified to write or speak on the subject. This fact adds to the importance of the opinion.

What then, so far as the rest of this report is concerned? Two things, for readers who are interested in the subject: (1) if you don't understand this talk about practically no real thinking being done, feeling sure from what you know of yourself and those around you that it's exaggerated, it may be worthwhile to see what the specialists mean by “thinking” and what they say prevents or interferes with it; and (2) if you are convinced after going that far, or knew all along, that your own thinking does stand in need of improvement, then you can give the selections gathered here from the specialists' numerous “Aids to Thinking” whatever attention they seem to you to deserve. (I can offer the assurance from my own experience that this is a rewarding mental activity, involving various elements of real thinking, which have already been noted in the foreword to “Thinking and Everyday Life” in last month's column.

What Real Thinking Is According To the Specialists

It may seem that much of this brief survey of thoughts about thinking is a repeat of what has been said before, but as I seem unable to avoid that method of making progress I can only hope it will serve its intended purpose. So now I recall one of the points made when I was trying to emphasize the marvelous nature of the thinking process, involving many related activities which we can recognize even if we cannot understand their working, namely, that the most important of these was reasoning, “meeting a problem, recognizing what it involves, reaching a solution.” It is this activity of reasoning, as here briefly defined, that is an essential part of the specialists' idea of real thinking. The definition implies that it is also a consciously controlled process (what controls it, there is one of the great mysteries, but controlled it is!), not an immediate, impulsive action but the opposite, a delayed, reflective action (but speeded up sometimes under stress, as reflected in the expression “He had to think quickly!”).

“We do not reflect, I mean we do not reflect upon genuinely important things.” This comment by the famous English writer and practical philosopher, the late Arnold Bennett (in “How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day”) emphasizes another essential of what the specialists consider real thinking. Perhaps we have not thought of levels of thinking, with only the higher levels representing real thinking, whether it be about ourselves or our friends or our community, our nation, our world. This idea at least is something to have in mind as we try to understand why the writers and speakers about thinking with one accord find so little of it being done. Two of Mr. Bennett's illustrations, by the way, of “important things” that we do not reflect upon are “the main direction in which we are going and “the relation between our principles and our conduct.”

Finally, the highest reach of thinking, according to all our authorities, is that which results in a contribution of value to mankind, when, in some truly marvelous way (albeit at the same time linked up with the natural activities of observation, reflection, etc.) vision becomes a part of thought, the power of seeing something by which new and helpful things are added to the world (we must add there may be harmful things too, for human thinking is imperfect; but what a record of progress has been made!) These new things fall into two groups: discoveries and inventions; discoveries, for example, of the law of gravity, or of the movement of the earth around the sun, or the existence of germs, i.e., natural facts, and also very different discoveries that represent spiritual facts—that there is one God, that all members of the human race are His children; and inventions, resulting from an acquired knowledge of underlying principles; a wheel, a canoe, a steam engine—the list is endless!

Learn How to Pull Together

Saw a kid go by the Clarion office on a brand-new coaster wagon yesterday—and it reminded me of when my brother and I were about forty years younger. Our folks weren't poor, but there wasn't enough to buy two wagons for Christmas. We got one between us. Dad made a rule that we each could have it for a week—but the boy with the wagon was responsible for keeping the kitchen wood-box filled. Seemed a bargain to Bud and me—at first. But soon we discovered it was no more fun playing alone than working alone. It wasn't long before we were sharing the wagon in return for sharing the chores.

From where I sit, you can't enjoy a privilege yourself if you're going to deny it to others. There are some folks who want the right to enjoy their favorite beverage—but would deny me my right to an occasional glass of beer. I doubt if such people get their full "share" of happiness, though.

SORcery OR SCIENCE

Drama has marked the long history of the fight against tuberculosis, but perhaps no development has been more dramatic than recent changes in treatment of the disease. Chemotherapy has entered the picture bringing with it new hope and new problems.

What is chemotherapy? It is a general term covering treatment of disease with drugs, and goes back to the alchemists of the Middle Ages in Europe. A long way back, you might say, from the modern scientist in his laboratory to Dr. Faustus muttering spells over strange mixtures in a smoky den. But like the researcher of today, the alchemist was trying to defeat disease, although his methods were not scientific. He believed that if he could only find the right mixture he could create the perfect substance he called "the philosopher's stone"—a drug so powerful it could cure every ailment, turn base metal into gold, and make the possessors of the secret all-powerful. Because of the little knowledge he possessed, he was respected and feared as a sorcerer, and his cures were looked on as miracles.

The modern scientist is not stargazing for the philosopher's stone, but, by thorough research, he is seeking and finding drugs to treat specific diseases. So much has been accomplished that we are sometimes tempted to expect miracles from him.

In 1944 an antibiotic, streptomycin, derived from a fungus, was found to be effective against tuberculosis. Since then other antibiotics and synthetic chemical compounds such as isoniazid and PAS, short for para-aminosalicylic acid, have been added. But none of them is the complete answer to TB.

The problems of chemotherapy in TB are many. The germs may become resistant to one drug. The patient may not be able to tolerate another. To delay development of resistance, the drugs are usually used in pairs. The choice of drugs for the individual patient, the amount of the dose, the length of time treatment should continue—all these questions must be answered.

New drugs are constantly being sought to add to the number of possible choices and combinations. So far, a drug which can eliminate the germs without harming the patient seriously has not been found. The drugs now in use do keep the germs from multiplying so that normal body defenses can fight the disease or so that surgery can be used to remove damaged parts. There's no sorcery in it, and no miracles are being worked. But chemotherapy is saving lives from tuberculosis every day.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

"A wilderness area may be defined as a country of solitude where Nature is at its best, a country free from destruction wrought by man and the sights and sounds of modern civilization. In few regions of the world are found such varied and priceless retreats and masterpieces of Nature as lie along the crests of the Appalachian Mountains in our East, and the Cascade, Sierra Nevada and Sierra Madre Mountains in our West." So claims Col. Townsend Whelen, camping editor of Sports Afield magazine.

"Along the trails that traverse these, the lovers of the unspoiled outdoors can wander, pitch their little camps and open up their sleeping bags under pine trees, in view of gorgeous peaks, in crisp air, in solitude and silence except for the singing of the birds, the tinkling of running water, and the swish and hum of wind through the trees." And all this is free to all of us, with no license, no guide's charge. Our only obligation is to keep this country clean and unharmed.

The Appalachian Trail is a footpath extending for 2050 miles from Mount Oglethorpe in Georgia to Mount Katahdin in Maine. It crosses the wilderness areas along the crests of the Great Smokey, Blue Ridge, Allegheny and Catskill Mountains, through the Berkshire Hills, the Green and White Mountains, and finally the lake and mountain country of Maine.

This trail is a volunteer recreational project. It is supervised and maintained by the Appalachian Trail Conference with headquarters at 1916 Sunderland Pl., N.W., Washington 6, D. C. On receipt of 35 cents in coin the Conference will mail a pamphlet, "Suggestions for Appalachian Trail Users," which gives general information and lists other helpful books.

Forest Park Opens April 24

Forest Park, Hanover, Pa., will open for the season on Sunday, Apr. 24 with many new improvements. All the buildings, rides, and picnic grove have been painted and overhauled and put in first-class condition. For the opening free attraction there will be a show in the handshell, both afternoon and evening by Bunny and His Sunset Valley Rangers.

There have been over 35,000 free school tickets sent out good for free rides, reduced rates on others, and reduced skating prices, as well as contests and prizes.

The schedule of school days are a total of about 2156 miles, passing through many national forests and parks, and skirting the most famous mountains—Ranier, Adams, Hood, Shasta and Whitney. It passes through Sequoia and Yosemite Parks. It has been built and is maintained by the U. S. Forest Service and the National Parks Service.

It is not a trail for picnic parties; it is a wilderness trailway for expert backpackers—a "true nature trail." To publicize it the Pacific Crest Trail System Conference was organized with headquarters at Pasadena, Calif. The Sierra Club, 1050 Mills Tower, San Francisco 4, has done much to bring public attention to the trail. Both publish numerous bulletins and books on the trail.

as follows: Saturday, May 7, Hanover School Day; Saturday, May 14, Adams County School Day; Saturday, May 21, York County School Day; Saturday, May 28, Maryland School Day, and Saturday, June 4, Colored School Day.

The skating rink will continue to operate every Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday nights, as well as Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Private and public skate parties will be held on the other nights.

Thirty-nine per cent of the deaths and 35 per cent of the injuries due to motor vehicle accidents last year occurred on Saturdays and Sundays.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Apr. 14—This week we will forget the stock market and consider something much more important, namely, some very valuable brain power which is going to waste. I have in mind especially the brains of some of the so-called "physically handicapped."

1 Million Wheel Chairs, Crutches and Canes

There are 165 million people in the U. S. I estimate that about 500,000 of these are handicapped from polio and other diseases; 1.5 million are living disabled veterans from World Wars I and II; over 1 million are crippled from accidents; and about 150,000 are totally blind. There are many more suffering from total deafness and even inability to speak. These add up to 3 million, of which at least one million have not the opportunity to make full use of their inherent talents.

Although they have "pretty much been supplied with jobs of a kind, these 1 million have not—as a rule—such jobs as will enable them to use their brains as they would like. This especially applies to those in wheel chairs and on crutches because—quoting an employer: "A wheel chair messes up the routine of the office or factory." In these days of keen competition management fears anything might interfere with the flow of products or sales.

Money Versus Opportunities

The situation is becoming worse every year due to increasing automobile accidents, of which 36,000 resulted last year in deaths for which there were total awards of perhaps $400,000. Some will say that the non-fatal accidents and even polio can be offset by insurance, as are certain veteran incapacities, but there is no insurance which gives new limbs, new eyes, or even a fair chance to use one's brain. Yet, our brains are our most wonderful and valuable asset.

It is not more government money these physically handicapped need, but more opportunity to do creative intellectual work. Remember that in the above figures I am not including any medical or emotional cases. I am interested here in those who have distinct talents. Although the many unselfish agents and counselors of the Federal and state governments are doing excellent work with the funds available, they deserve much more help.

Let Us Save Over $2 Billion Per Year

I estimate that of the above groups, one million adults are today able to use fully their brains and talents. However, much of this creative brain power and special talent is being overlooked. This is unfair to the nation, as well as to these people. Just think, with one million of these brains now idle, 8 million working hours are lost daily, or more than $2 billion are lost each year. Based on only one dollar per hour, this means a loss of over $2 billion per year.

To understand what the loss of these one million adult workers means, consider any city of about 3 million population, such as Detroit, Boston, San Francisco, or Pittsburgh, any one of which has 1 million adult workers. This means the loss of as much creative brain power as is now engaged in the entire production work of one of the above cities. In saying this, I include bankers, merchants, professional men, as well as wageworkers.

Praise For Private Organizations

Let me applaud all those private organizations now engaged in helping unfortunates. I particularly have in mind certain societies to Help the Blind, the National TB Assn., the National Assn. for Infantile Paralysis, the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, the American Heart Assn., the American Hearing Society, the Disabled Veterans organizations, the U. S. and

MARYLAND FARM FRONT

Maryland tobacco growers will State Employment Services, and the Goodwill Industries of America, founded on a shoe-string by a personal friend of mine, and now distributing annually the equivalent of $25 million in useful work. The public little realizes the rewards which would come to the nation by activating these one million creative brains and submerged talents.

I forecast that these submerged physically handicapped, who are mentally talented and alert, can truly become "gold mines." I only wish I were younger and could devote my life to harnessing these brains, talents, imaginations, and visions. Many of them could be inventors of great note, from which the nation as a whole would benefit.

be affected by three out of the seven provisions in new tobacco legislation recently signed by President Eisenhower.

George B. Reeves, chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says the new legislation was enacted by the 84th Congress as Public Law 21.

The State ASC Chairman points out that Maryland growers are affected by the three sections of the legislation which:

- (1) Provides that the acreage of any kind of tobacco harvested in excess of the farm acreage allotment for 1955 or any subsequent year shall not be taken into account in establishing State and farm acreage allotments.
- (2) Increases the penalty on the marketing of any kind of tobacco harvested in excess of individual farm marketing quotas from 50 to 75 per cent of the average market price for such tobacco for the preceding marketing year. This increased penalty becomes effective for the 1955 crops.
- (3) Provides for a reduction in the following year's farm acreage allotment for any kind of tobacco if the producer files or aids or acquiesces in the filing of any false report with respect to the acreage of such tobacco grown on his farm.

Public Law 21 was enacted primarily as a means of coping with the serious surplus situation in burley tobacco, according to Chairman Reeves. The other four provisions of the legislation are concerned exclusively with the burley surplus problem. Burley tobacco is not grown in Maryland.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Already Washington prepares for great debate late this summer when United Nations will be brought before Congress. Occasion will be appropriation request for U. S. share in maintaining U. N.

Senator William Knowland (R., Calif.) is expected to spearhead attack. It is not hard to imagine what "one worlders" and other global schemers will say about Sen. Knowland.

Yet fact remains despite American hopes, aspirations and good faith that attended birth of U. N. in San Francisco, organization has been a failure in solving world problems.

Sen. Knowland is already on record opposing continuation of forum in New York for Russians to blast U. S. at every occasion.

As evidenced by President's remarks on wartime meeting with Marshall Zhukov it appears obvious Russian mind is incapable of understanding any strong nation permitting such vehement attacks to be made on itself within its own boundaries.

In addition, many authorities maintain U. N. is downright dangerous to U. S. safety inasmuch as Congress has failed to pass Bricker amendment, or similar legislation to safeguard U. S. citizens from loss of their constitutional rights through UN actions which would supersede all U. S. federal and local laws.

During UN's ten years existence, American taxpayers have poured millions into organization, not counting billions of dollars lars and thousands of lives thrown into United Nations "police action" in Korea.

Many Washington observers feel concept of UN is inferior to that of old League of Nations. In League, weapon of economic sanctions to preserve peace was recognized even though not invoked due to timidity.

However, it is felt use of economic blockades today with Red China needing food, with Russians facing starvation, would do much to bring about honorable world peace. However, too many nations of free world whose industrial capacity was built up by U. S. foreign aid grants are too eager to trade with the communists to expect use of this bloodless weapon.

Thus ten years of UN have failed to make any great accomplishments, and cost to U. S. has been heavy.

Leaving aside wisdom of permitting persons from all the world to enter U. S. with special immunities as UN personnel, the great steel and glass birdcage on the East River has been hatching on U. S. soil many ideas foreign to American way of life.

It is significant that one of major accomplishments of UN has been setting up of a cooperative store for its employees. Thus socialistic methods of business have been created on free American soil under banner of UN.

Undoubtedly, as freely predicted in Washington, when Sen. Knowland launches his attack on the UN, some will try to make it appear he is also capable of assailing Mother's Day.

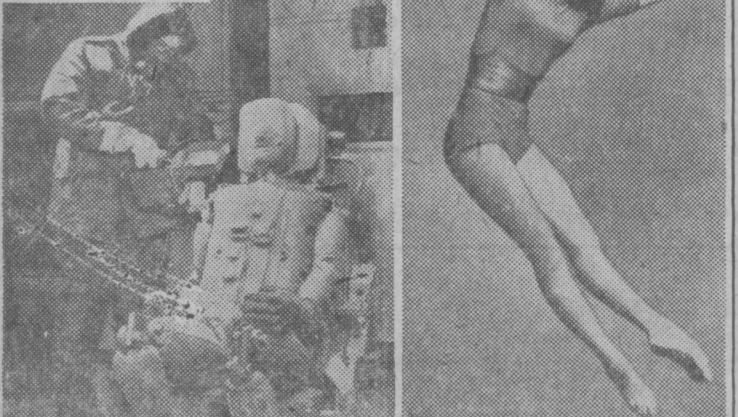

However, despite emotional appeal of world peace, it will be a time to analyze debate from viewpoint of cold business logic.

NO COMMENT

By WALTER CHAMBLIN, JR.

WASHINGTON — The Office of Defense Mobilization is formulating a recommendation that Congress give stand-by authority to the President to order a freeze of prices, wages, and possibly rents, in the event of a national emergency.

Present indications are that this proposal will be offered as an amendment to the Defense Production Act which is now before Congress for extension for one year from its expiration of June 30, 1955.

The Tense Formosa Situation—in which the Red Chinese will determine whether there will be a shooting—is promoting administration action along these lines.

For over a year it has been known that government agencies were considering plans for control powers, but until recently these plans were a part of an overall program for national disaster relief should one or more cities be struck by an H or A-bomb. The President at a press conference expressed doubt as to the need for stand-by control powers—as it was his opinion that Congress could act quickly if it felt they were needed. He indicated, however, that he would not oppose such authority if it were initiated by Congress itself.

Now, however a administration thinking apparently is undergoing a change. Congress is hopeful of an adjournment by July 31. If this should materialize—and a shooting war starts somewhere—Congress would be out of session and the Administration would be without authority to impose price and wage controls.

There are two schools of thought on this in Washington. One is that a freeze of wages and prices would stabilize the economy—the other is that wage and price controls disrupt the economy rather than stabilize it because as soon as controls are imposed black markets develop.

Advocates of controls blindfold themselves to history. Every nation, starting with Abyssinia and coming down through Rome, France, England, and a host of other nations, as well as the experience in this country in World War II and in the Korean conflict, has found that controls promote black markets and that black markets promote inflation, and that actually what you have is a form of legal control and a very active inflationary spiral.

The opponents of controls are of the opinion that there could be no more unfortunate time than the present to re-saddle the nation with price-wage and possibly rent freeze. It would shock the nation's economy which in the past year has stood up strongly against three severe jolts.

The three economic jolts survived were—(1) a vital downward readjustment in Federal spending; (2) inventories, which had been building up at a rapid rate, went in the opposite direction, and (3) net outstanding installment credit, which had been climbing swiftly, levelled off. Despite loud cries of "wolf" as these important adjustments were taking place, total economic activity (gross national product) for 1954 averaged 98 per cent of the 1953 record—but this is no reason for inviting further jolts.

In a weaker economy, a downward trend might have set in and continued. Traditionally, both business and personal spending would have dropped sharply—prices and profits would have skidded downhill and the stock market would have joined the debacle. But, instead, the economy showed great stability. More—something almost without precedent—inflation was stopped without deflation resulting. Black markets resulting from controls would quickly change this satisfactory situation into an inflationary trend.

Instead of freezing prices and wages, the economy could be adjusted by controlling interest rates, credit, and the like. Also,

Property Suit Involves Local Woman

Suit for injunction has been entered in Equity Court in Frederick by C. Littleton Upshur, Norfolk, Va., against Margaret T. Dickerson, Emmitsburg, involving property of the late William G. Guynn, of the Emmitsburg section.

Upshur says he is one of the residuary legatees under the will of Guynn, who died Dec. 31 last. Prior to his death, Guynn lacked the necessary mental capacity to properly deal with and administer his affairs, the plaintiff said.

He said Guynn lived with the defendant and he charged that because of her close association with him as housekeeper and nurse, she exercises improper and undue influence upon him, preventing him dealing with his property in accordance with his own free will.

The plaintiff charges that Guynn was prevailed upon by the defendant to transfer various real and personal assets into a joint ownership of Guynn and the defendant. He asks a restraining order to prevent the defendant from disturbing any assets transferred to her by Guynn, subject to further order. A 20-day show-cause order was issued.

From France — With Love

A Typical French Country Road

Just one day after the fabulous Mardi Gras is over in Nice, we will be back in Paris via the speedy and elegant Blue Train. When you join me a few weeks later we will board our magic carpet—an automobile—for a tour of France. I know of no more delightful nor inexpensive way to see France. French roads are excellent, the road signs are easy to follow, and service stations are handy wherever we may go. Moving at our own pace we can choose flexible itineraries and go off the beaten path to little known regions rarely touched by the average tourist. At night we can stop at a logis, one of the inexpensive inns that dot the French countryside. And speaking of budgets, restaurants and cafes along the way have delicious meals at very moderate prices.

Last year we explored the Loire Valley with its ancient chateaux; sunny, wistful Provence; the Basque Country; and the wine regions of Champagne and Anjou. This year we will start with Normandy and Brittany, only a few hours away from Paris. The apple blossoms of Normandy are as famous a symbol of spring as the chestnut blossoms on the Champs Elysees, and the gentle, rolling, green hills and colorful fishing villages will invite us to stop more often than we planned. But that is the beauty of traveling by car because we can go from the simplicity of the heartwarming scenery to the highlife and luxurious casinos at Deauville and Trouville without even stopping to think about it.

We will also pass through cities like Caen, Rouen, and Cherbourg, which will remind us of the great invasion and heroic defense of France. And no trip to Normandy and Brittany would be complete without a visit to Mont St. Michel; a fantastic, storybook castle rising out of the sea. It is actually a complete village built by Benedictine monks over a period of eight centuries on a granite rock a short distance from the mainland.

I had debated asking you to bring your own car because round trip passage for it across the Atlantic is less than you might think—about $350, but since this particular trip will last about a month, I thought it would be more economical if we rented a drive-yourself car. Don't worry about regulations, your U. S. license is valid here. The road rules are approximately the same as at home, and French policemen and traffic officials will go out of their way to help visitors.

So pack your spring wardrobe and let me know the day of your arrival. Our magic carpet will be one of these inexpensive little French cars which seem to be able to do almost everything including climbing monuments.
A bientot,
Adrienne

No other low-priced car even comes close to matching these important Chevrolet advantages...

If you're planning to buy a new car, the one you just can't afford to miss seeing is Chevrolet—for 19 straight years America's best-selling car. The Motorama Chevrolet offers you so much more than the other low-priced cars that it's hardly fair to compare them. And even the high-priced cars don't have all the advantages that today's Chevrolet offers you.

The beauty's built in—not bolted on!
Chevrolet's beauty is inherent in the basic contours of metal and glass. There's no excessive bolted-on ornamentation to go out of style overnight.

The Body's by Fisher!
You see Body by Fisher on lots of the high-priced cars—and only Chevrolet has it in the low-price field!

Today's most modern engines!
That goes for Chevrolet's new V8 and two new sixes as well. All bring you a modern 12-volt electrical system—double the voltage of other low-priced cars. Then Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry!

A drive to suit your driving!
There's silky, peppery Powerglide (even better this year!), new Overdrive (both extra-cost options), and a new Synchron-Mesh transmission that's as smooth as they come.

All the power helpers you want!
Windows, seat, steering, brakes—all are available with built-in "muscles" to make driving as effortless as you wish. They're optional at extra-cost—and worth it!

Come take the key!
There have never been so many good reasons why you should drive a Chevrolet!

Over Ten Million Chevrolet owners—Two Million more than any other car!

Russian Guns Are Spiked
A carefully researched article in the "U. S. News and World Report," leading national weekly news magazine, reveals that this nation now has developed such a tremendous military strength that Russia will not dare to start a major war against us in the foreseeable future. This is important news. The article should convince anyone that the U. S. does not have to cringe before the Communists or appease them for fear that they are ready and anxious to launch a major war against us.
For years I have contended that the hard-headed realists who control International Communism wouldn't dare provoke war with the U. S. so long as (1) our industrial production facilities so far surpassed those of Russia and her satellites, and (2) our people were sold on the American way of life sufficiently to zealously defend it and protect it. Since they didn't dare provoke war with us unless they could cripple our productive might and alienate our citizens, it was my contention that we should stop making deals giving them territory, and otherwise appeasing them, thus making them all the bolder with their bluffs.
Aggressors Ringed

Now our productive facilities have produced military armament and we have established the military bases necessary for utterly destroying the capacity of Russia, China and their Communist satellites to make war upon our nation. "A ring of air bases surrounding the Soviet Union is all but complete," says the U. S. News article, "is equipped for action, capable of swift retaliation with A-bombs or H-bombs. The Soviet Union can be hit by bombers flying from at least 100 well-established retaliation points, including bases in the U. S."
"A successful sneak attack on the U. S.—with assurance against destruction for the attacker—no longer is possible. It is impossible, as a practical matter, to achieve simultaneous destruction of all U. S. retaliation bases. An attacker, failing to destroy all U. S. bases, will itself be destroyed.
"Russia, in other words, is checkmated. U. S., now rearmaged, can be hurt badly by attack, but its war potential cannot be destroyed at one blow. Russia, surrounded, can be knocked out, if foolhardy enough to attack. Chance of major war, as a result, is reduced nearly to the vanishing point. . . . This conclusion is the base on which American planning rests, as strategy is shaped now to meet developing threats. It underlies decisions that relate to Communist China at this time."
The U. S. News published a map - chart showing precisely where our air bases are, encircling the USSR, and their striking potential. It is a com-

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, April 13—Congressional committees are well along with their spade work on legislative proposals before the Congress. Floor consideration of major bills will be a weekly occurrence from now until the session ends.
I think that it is worthwhile to review briefly the measures which I have introduced this session. Some of them cover important matters of a continuing nature, others concern new developments.

forting illustration showing our H-bomb carriers, capable of more than 600 miles an hour, based in Greenland, Britain, France, Morocco, Tripoli, Greece, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Philippines, Okinawa, Guam, Japan, Alaska, and on big naval carriers in all the seas. In a matter of two to four hours sufficient U. S. bombers could get through to the vitals of Russia's military establishment to wipe it off the map.
Subversion to Expand
But the most important conclusion in the U. S. News article, in my opinion, is this: "At the same time, however, other conclusions are being drawn from the underlying certainty of destruction for Russia in any big war. Infiltration and subversion . . . become even more important weapons for Communism, will be pushed harder as the chance of gains through outright war recedes." Yes, the Reds will step up their Fifth Column activities at all points around the globe. They will foment "civil war" under their agents' direction; and where they can't make war through subversion, they will try to push nations deeper into socialism.

In America they will intensify their use of dupes in every field of communications to undermine confidence in constitutional government and the private enterprise economic system. They will agitate and persuade unthinking people to take the lead in furthering socialistic ideas, and will continue to wage their effective war against everyone in America who is fighting Communism and trying to alert our nation to the insidious danger. Yes, the Communists are "checkmated" militarily, but their forces of subversion, in America and elsewhere are powerful and effective. We must labor everywhere to build stronger and stronger loyalty to the stars and stripes.

For the most part I believe that my bills strike a fair balance in the needs of the Sixth Maryland District. I have sponsored some legislation dealing with national problems which have a bearing on the needs of our section of the nation.

I would like to call your attention to some of the measures which are now pending. Just recently I introduced a measure which would grant full deduction to the taxpayer for medical and dental expenses. There is another measure of mine which would help the individual and that is the one repealing the tax we must pay each time we purchase a bus, railroad, or airline ticket.

I am again urging the Congress to correct the inequity which exists wherever the Federal government is the owner of large blocks of property which is free from local taxes. My bill provides for a lump sum payment to localities and states in lieu of these taxes. I also am pushing for action that would correct an error in implementing the so-called "Federal impact" law. Some school districts received smaller sums than we believe they were entitled to. Coal and the specific problems it raises in our district is the subject of a measure of mine which provides for a commission to explore new uses for coal and to prevent deterioration of closed mines. I fully expect that the studies soon to be undertaken by regional planning commissions will pave the way for the Metropolitan Area Transportation Commission which I have proposed.

Other measures of mine which are under Congressional consideration include (1) some liberalization in the refinancing of GI home purchases, (2) a jurisdictional change which would grant voting and other rights to residents of Camp Detrick near Frederick, (3) a jury trial in property condemnation proceedings, (4) an amend-

MARYLAND WILDLIFE

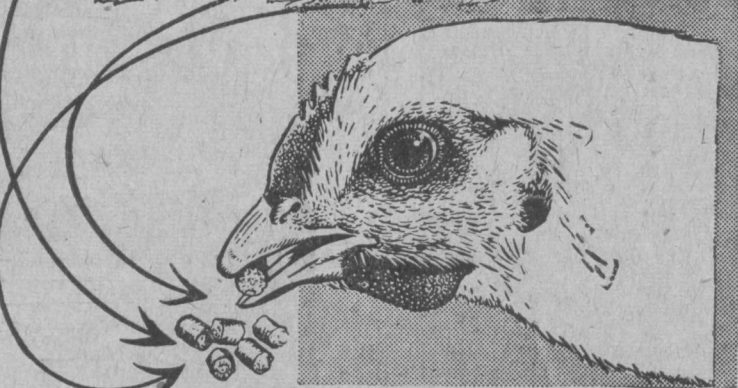

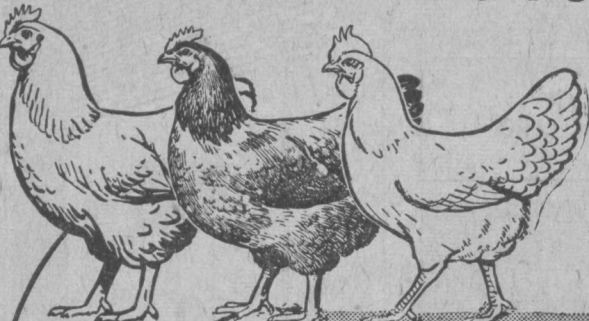

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

UPLAND PLOVER
(Bartramia longicauda)

RANGE: Breeds from northwestern Alaska, north to Yukon, and Quebec, and Ontario south to Virginia. Winters in South America from Brazil, to Argentina and Chile. Formerly nested in numbers in Maryland's meadows, but are scarce today not only in Maryland but throughout its range.
DESCRIPTION: Length about 12 inches; a long-legged, slender, graceful shore bird; gray streaked with brown, short bill as compared with those of most other shorebirds. Incidentally it is not a plover but belongs to the sandpiper family and is sometimes called Bartramian sandpiper. When alighting on fence posts and elsewhere this bird invariably raises its wings over its back several times before settling down, as does also the yellow-leg and willet, another shore bird; however the willet is much larger. Has white bars on primaries.
BREEDING: Lays 4 creamy buff or white pear-shaped eggs with gray blotches in nest on ground concealed in grass. Incubation by both sexes takes about 17 days.
HABITS: Food mostly insects, some grain and seeds; a shy bird and difficult to approach on foot; formerly shot at times from open horse vehicle which could be driven within a few yards of birds resting or feeding in fields.
MANAGEMENT: As stated on several of our Wildlife Charts on shore birds little if any management in the United States can be supplied where birds migrate such long distances, nesting mostly in Canada and wintering in South America. Many adverse conditions, including encroachment of civilization and hunting have resulted in a steady decrease in many species in recent years. It has been under Federal law unlawful to kill most shore birds for food or sport for a long time; since this closure there seems to have been a small but steady increase in upland plover; however, the slowness of its recovery leads to the belief the hunter was not entirely responsible for its decrease when hunted for sport and food.
VALUE: Useful to a certain small extent as an insect destroyer at times in some places; however its present limited number has decreased its value to mankind; and of course it now has no economic value as food and for sport. The remnant of the species should be given every protection.

Bite-Size CHECKER
PLAN OF GROWING PULLETS

CUTS GROWING COST
by cutting feed waste

Compared to usual mash feeding, the new Bite-Size Checker plan can make a big cut in your growing cost. Chicks start eating the new, smaller Checkers when only 4 to 6 weeks old. It takes less feed because pullets spill less out of the hoppers. And the few Checkers that are spilled are quickly picked up—not lost on the ground like mash.

Feed to fit your needs with PURINA ADJUSTMENT PLANS

Now we offer three different plans so you can adjust feeding to suit your own strain and breed. Check these plans before you buy any growing feed. You'll find one that just fits your needs.
