Don't be caught unaware of those new speed signs erected at the four main approaches to town. They were placed there early this week by the State Roads Commission...

Interest in the new majorette corps is running high, I am informed. About 35 already have joined ranks. The corps was recently started by the Municipal Board...

Was truly sorry to hear the Legion Drill Team was disbanded. People of Emmitsburg were mighty proud of that excellent marching unit...

Several individuals recently expressed themselves as willing to build a swimming pool if they could get financial backing and a good location.

Now is the time for some good farmer to come to the aid of the Little League. As you are probably aware, the League is building a new ball park and fencing is needed.

It is the hope of a delegation of local citizens to get a new improved road past the reservoir on Hampton Valley Road. This little group will interview the County Commissioners...

Block Party Saturday

College Group Honors Prof. Greco

Members of the Anthracite Chapter of Mt. St. Mary's College Alumni Assn. honored Prof. Dominic G. Greco, head of the biology department at the college at a testimonial dinner at Gabe's Restaurant, Jim Thorpe, Pa., last Saturday.

He was educated at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., from which he was graduated in 1928. Following graduation he taught biology for a year at Xavier University, Cincinnati, O. He then continued his studies at Columbia U., New York City, receiving his MA in 1930.

Marrried to the former Laura Pauff, of Nesquehoning, Prof. Greco is the father of two sons, George and William. George, after three years pre-dentistry at Mt. St. Mary's, is now a junior at the University of Maryland.

During World War II, when Mt. St. Mary's students were in the main, either V-5 or V-12 students, Prof. Greco was in charge of communication for the Navy V-5 students, handling all the Morse code demanded by the Navy for fledgling pilots.

In addition to his teaching duties at the college, Prof. Greco is a member of the science committee which screens applicants for professional schools. He has also served on the library and guidance committees.

Few professors at the Mount are more genuinely respected by the students. Through the years Prof. Greco has always been available to handle student problems both at school and at his home just opposite the new St. Joseph's Cemetery on Rt. 15.

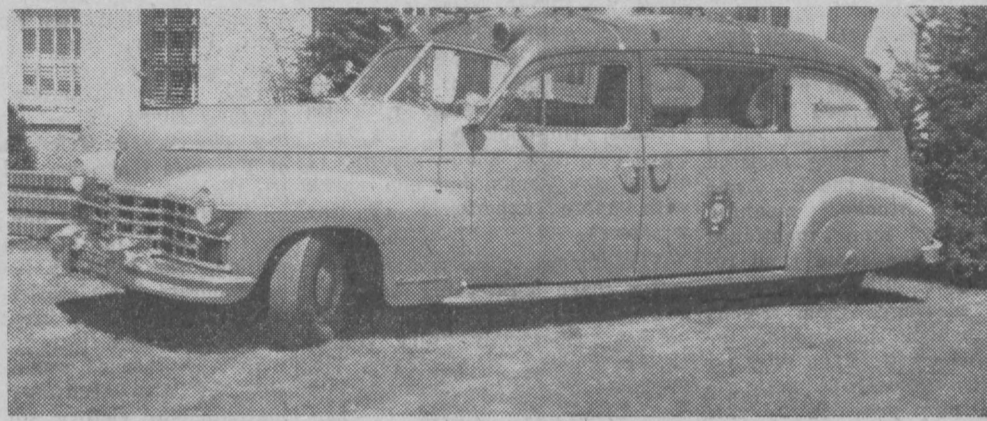

KENLEY W. DORSEY

Kenley W. Dorsey, 67, well-known resident of Woodsboro, died at his home Monday morning at 11 o'clock after an illness of several years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Myra Fogle Dorsey; one son, LeRoy W. Dorsey, Frederick; one daughter, Mrs. Glenn Ramsburg, Walkersville, and three brothers, Milton Dorsey, Hagerstown; Harry Dorsey, Buffalo, N. Y., and Haller Dorsey, Sharon, Pa.; one sister, Mrs. Irvin Brown, Emmitsburg, and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from funeral home in Walkersville Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Interment in Rocky Hill Cemetery, near Woodsboro.

Block Party Funds Maintain Ambulance Service

Pictured above is the local VFW ambulance which has provided free service to local individuals for the past 8 years. The veterans' club paid $8,000 for the vehicle and its maintenance averages about $1,000 annually.

TOPPER—HERMAN

In a pretty setting of white gladioli and fern, Miss Barbara Herman, Elmhurst, Ill., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Herman, became the bride of Frank S. Topper Jr., Glen Ellyn, Ill., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Topper, Emmitsburg. The ceremony took place on Saturday, Aug. 20, at 11 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg.

The nuptial mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Fr. John D. Sullivan, with a dedication to the Blessed Mother following the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by a close friend, Mr. Michael Learakos, Elmhurst, Ill., wore a bauerina-length, princess style, white embroidered lace dress with low rounded neckline, a pillow shaped satin crown from which fell a shoulder length tulle veil.

Miss Patricia Topper, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a princess style dress of pale mauve crystalettes. Her headpiece was of white pom-pom chrysanthemums, and she carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. J. David Arnold was best man for his cousin. Ushers were Messrs. Jack and Karl Proph. Miss Louella Lansing, church organist, played "Ave Maria," by Bach-Gounod and "I Love Thee," by Edward Grieg.

Mr. Frank Topper Jr. is well known in Emmitsburg having been a resident here after his return from service with the U. S. Army in Korea.

A wedding breakfast was served to the wedding party and the immediate families following the ceremony at the home of the bridegroom's parents. A reception also was held in the evening.

After Sept. 1 the young couple will reside in their newly furnished apartment in Elmhurst, Ill.

Delegation Asking For New Road

A delegation of citizens from Emmitsburg interested in the construction of a new road through Hampton Valley will appear before the County Commissioners tomorrow morning. The group wants the present paved road near Rainbow Lake continued past Camp Pioneer and on to Flint Siding, finally connecting with the road leading from Thurmont.

SPEEDER IS FINED

Anna De Berry, Emmitsburg, was fined $10 and costs before Justice of the Peace Charles A. Hemler, Gettysburg, for speeding Tuesday on Route 15.

Throw fresh meat bones in shallow water or other likely places to attract schools of minnows.

McNAIR—ALTHOFF

Miss Mary Ruth Althoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Althoff of Emmitsburg, became the bride of Mr. Dallas S. McNair, Thurmont, son of the late Mrs. Anna Stonesifer McNair, last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg, the pastor, Rev. Fr. Vincent J. Tomalski, pastor of the bride, officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white Gawn-tilly lace ballerina length gown with an underskirt of light blue satin and a Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil of nylon net hung from a halo of ruffled net and white lace. She carried a bouquet of mixed spring flowers. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Ann Althoff, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a Nile green ballerina length gown with matching head pieces. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Eyer, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Nora Knott, Miss Patricia Wivell, friends of the bride, and were attired in gowns of light blue, pink, and yellow, respectively, identical to the one worn by the matron of honor. They also wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Acting as best man was Thomas Wivell, a friend of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Edward Althoff brother of the bride, Donald Stonesifer, and Reno Eyer, cousins of the bridegroom.

The traditional wedding marches were played by the church organist, Mrs. Ernest Seltzer. The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held on the lawn of the bride's home which was attractively decorated in pink and white. Refreshments were served to approximately 125 guests.

The wedding cake was of four tiers topped with a miniature bride and groom on top.

The bride chose as her going away ensemble a white linen dress trimmed in blue and white accessories. She wore a corsage made from her bouquet.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a trip through the northern states, Niagara Falls and Canada.

Upon their return they will reside in their newly-furnished home, near Thurmont.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, with the class of '54 and is employed by Mt. St. Mary's College as a secretary. The bridegroom is employed by Charles Myers, near Thurmont.

Miss Emma Ohler and Mrs. Charles R. Fuss have returned home after visiting their niece, Mrs. Ethel McClung in Mansfield, O. While there they also visited in Canton, O.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Taylor, Aspers Rt. 1, Pa., announce the engagement of their daughter, Genevieve K., to Arnold D. Cregar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Cregar, Emmitsburg.

Mr. Cregar, who attended Emmitsburg High School, is employed at the Congressional Country Club at Bethesda.

Miss Taylor, a graduate of Biglerville, Pa., High School, is secretary in the office of the Adams County Commissioners.

No date has been announced for the wedding.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

At the last meeting of the final work was done on the float for the Rocky Ridge Firemen's parade. It was announced at the carnival that the Emmitsburg Boy Scouts won first prize, $15. At the parade several boys parked cars and sold circus tickets.

Applications for membership have been received from Larry Topper, Ralph Ireland, Jr., Robert Myers, Bobby Gingell and Roy Warthen. Induction ceremonies will be held Thursday evening.

Don't forget the big Hagen Bros. Circus which is coming here Sept. 9. The Scouts are the sponsors of the circus and need your patronage.

Miss McCullough Returns From Trip Abroad

Miss Elisabeth McCullough, daughter of Prof. Richard J. McCullough, Mt. St. Mary's College, has returned from an extended European tour.

Sailing from New York on the S.S. Maasdam of the Holland-American Line on June 16 she arrived at Le Havre on June 24. Her itinerary included Paris, Nice, Naples, Rome, Florence, Venice, Lucerne, Cologne, Amsterdam, Harwich, and London.

While in Rome, Miss McCullough was in a small group to have an audience with the Pope and to receive his blessing.

Prof. McCullough met his daughter in New York and accompanied her home.

She is a graduate of St. Joseph's College in 1953 and is employed at the Harriet-Lane Hospital, Baltimore.

Pen-Mar League Playoffs Sunday

Cashtown, Fairfield, and Thurmont scored victories, and Emmitsburg was awarded a forfeit as the Pen-Mar Baseball League concluded its regular season last Sunday afternoon.

Gala Benefit Affair To Be Opened By Parade At 7:30 P. M.

Saturday night is the date set for the big Block Party being sponsored by the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 6658, for the benefit of the local ambulance fund.

In addition to the the ambulance maintenance fund, the service group also needs money to maintain its community service program which includes hospital beds, crutches, playground and other activities.

LIONS CLUB READIES FOR HORSE SHOW

Cloyd W. Seiss, president, presided at the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening in the Lutheran parish house. One guest, Lion Wanz of Taneytown, was present.

An invitation was received from the Taneytown Lions Club to attend its eighth annual charter night to be held Sept. 13 at the Peter Pan Inn, Urbana. President Seiss and Secretary Robert E. Daugherty will attend the district governor's annual business meeting at Hagerstown on Sunday. A thank you note for a recent donation was received from the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg.

Plans for the coming horse show were thoroughly discussed, and General Chairman Robert Daugherty announced these assistants, Herbert W. Roger, Arthur Elder, Paul Claypool, Clarence E. Hahn, John J. Hollinger, and Charles Stouter.

Lion Herbert Roger gave a report on the Boy Scout circus which is coming here on Sept. 9. A block of 30 tickets to the circus was purchased. Lion Francis S. K. Matthews announced that the light bulb sale for the benefit of the local Little League was going according to schedule and that a door-to-door sale will be conducted tonight by members of the Little League and the Boy Scouts.

Crews will begin canvassing at about 6 o'clock until the town is thoroughly covered. One new member, Charles F. Stouter, was admitted to the club.

Each year letters of commendation on this community service are received by the club. A typical example expressing appreciation is the following letter from a district lady whose family required the ambulance service:

Appreciates Cooperation Of Fire Company

Vigilant Hose Co. Emmitsburg, Md. Dear Sirs:

I have long been an ardent supporter of the work being done by the Vigilant Hose Co. Last week I had a very serious problem. My rifle test range just outside of town was a very dangerous fire hazard. My inability to find anyone available to cut the mass of hay and long dead grass created by the recent drought, kept me in a constant state of worry.

A carelessly discarded cigarette from a passing car, and my laboratory facilities, explosives magazine, and probably other buildings might have been lost.

Discussing this with your former chief, he suggested that some of the boys would volunteer to come out and burn it over for me, with the pumper standing by for safety. This was done. In less than two hours these gentlemen very clearly demonstrated their perfect training and understanding of the characteristics of fire.

It was the first time I had watched them SETTING fires. We had as big a fire as most of the grass fires I have watched them eliminate, yet at no time was the slightest danger of losing control. They burned around certain structures on the range used to house instruments, and no paint was even scorched.

I suggest that you commend these gentlemen at your next meeting in my name, and accept the enclosed donation to your operating fund as supplementary to my normal annual donation.

Thank you for a job well done. Cordially yours, PHIL SHARPE

Garageman Injures Eye

Food Sale

A bake and food sale will be held at the Fire Hall on Saturday, Sept. 3, starting at 10 a. m. for the benefit of Elias Ev. Church. The sale is sponsored by the LOYAL group with Mrs. G. E. Gartrell, Mrs. Harry Hahn, and Mary Jo Zimmerman, in charge.

OPEN SUNDAYS

Emmitsburg, Md.

I wish I could recall my first view of Paris and the succession of views between that and the close-ups I caught from the taxi, that did not lose a second in setting off from St. Lazare for St. Anne, the above-mentioned small hotel (I do not mean automatically, without a driver, altho it sounds that way, for he was there, and also the travel agency's man, who appeared at the compartment door as the train stopped and so retrieved his lateness at Cherbourg). But I cannot recall these views. Memory, which has stored up hundreds of all sorts of pictures, of objects, of places, of persons, and sets them out before "the eye of the mind" when I summon them, and often when I don't—memory has failed to hold these first glimpses of one of the world's greatest cities, or, rather, it was given no clear ones to hold, for my mental picture-taking apparatus was unable—but there, I had resolved to let "Thinking" strictly alone in these notes; so enough of that kind of talk! I am just recording that I have only a vague, confused impression of what Paris looks like on approaching and entering it from the north-west.

But in a few minutes real sight-seeing, in a hurried version, began. For as we turned into a wide and busy-looking avenue, there at our left, stretching across the head of it, was a massive stone building with a very elaborate front, the famous Opera House; and at the other end, directly facing us some blocks away, the world's greatest museum, the Louvre! (There does seem to be "something"—hard to define but of value for us—in viewing even the outside of justly famous places such as these.)

It is not, of course, my intention to give a day-by-day report on my six-plus weeks abroad (an interesting word, abroad, when one thinks of its first much narrower meaning), but this first day does stand out in a particular way, and so I add the rest of the small details that make up its record: (1) being assisted in "checking in" at the St. Anne travel agency man mentioned above, and at the same time receiving a fine pile of "Happy Birthday" messages from friends at home, which the head-porter seemed pleased to have waiting for me; (2) discovering, with the help of a map provided by this same very nice person, that the unpretentious Opera, was headquarters for my stay in Paris, on a narrow side-street off the Avenue de la Cloche to the center of the city and so to many other sights worth seeing besides the Louvre and the Opera (the French, by the way, give this word the three syllables which it has, and would not understand you if you said "Op-ra"); (3) having one of those simple-and-excellent French meals that the guide-books tell about, with the head-waiter, like the head-porter, speaking excellent English and so very eager to have "Madame" pleased with everything, as she was, as well as with the unexpected prologue of seeing the soup arrive from the kitchen in a shiny copper kettle carried between two pretty young waitresses in black dresses and white aprons (everywhere else except in rural England, the contrast of formally attired waiters); and lastly (4) enjoying my first independent looking around, with the porter's assurance that it was quite all right for a lady to do that thereabouts in the evening, and finding, especially, the Place des Pyramides with the gold statue of Joan of Arc in the center, a huge wing of the Louvre to the left, a glimpse of the Tuileries Gardens, and a piece of the Rue de Rivoli, another of the city's famous streets, with its arcades, fine-looking hotels, and fascinating shop-windows. (I should say shops, but can speak with more experience of the windows.)

Next morning my pre-arranged motor coach sightseeing trips began with the first of three tours headed respectively "City Sightseeing, Paris No. 1, Paris No. 2" and Afternoon Excursion to Versailles." A number of far-too-many "places of interest" on the Paris lists I have forgotten—they represented an embarrassment of riches of quite differing values—but of those that are more than mere names the following especially impressed me, the sight itself and the "how come" for which the conductors, speaking excellent English if that was your language and excellent French (sometimes German) if it wasn't, were responsible, plus a little help, for me, from the guide-book writers: (For the reader who may be interested in whereabouts I report that we are going west from the Place des Pyramides, mentioned above, from which many tours start, on the north side "bank" of the Seine, which runs in a slightly uneven semicircle thru the center of Paris.)

1. The Palais d'Elysee—Not seen directly and not open to the public but glimpsed beyond a fine-looking garden on the Champs Elysees (Elysian Fields), perhaps the most famous avenue in Paris. The official residence of the Presidents of France; originally a private residence and later occupied by Napoleon III before he became Emperor.

(Crossing now a section of fine shops, restaurants, and night clubs, including the Lido with its featured decorated swimming pool, and continuing on the Champs Elysees.)

2. The Arc de Triomphe, Tomb of France's Unknown Soldier, the Etoile—This great Arch of Triumph, like the other one, the Arc du Carrousel, in the opposite direction, was built by Napoleon I to celebrate his victories, a magnificent monument, breath-taking in size and beautiful proportions, with a sculptured scene on each side of the archway; soldiers marching to victory singing the Marseillaise—and Napoleon crowned, in the garb of a Roman emperor. Underneath the Arch, the Unknown Soldier's tomb where the Flame of Remembrance is relit every evening. And the really wonderful spectacle of l'Etoile (the Star), twelve wide avenues radiating from the Arch with long tree-shaded vistas.

3. The Eiffel Tower—This tremendous open-work metal structure towers above everything in the city, rising nearly 1000 feet

 EDITOR—EMMITSBURG CHRONICLE
 GEORGETOWN, DELAWARE

Acid Test For Moscow

In the fable of Red Riding Hood, the wolf wore a friendly smile. In the animal kingdom, the wolf has always been the predatory, calculating enemy of all; and yet time after time it has successfully used deception to fool its victims. Certain basic facts of life—the clearly seen realities—must be kept constantly in mind as the United States and her allies extend their talks and pleasantries with Communist leaders who for the moment are displaying a front which seems to change the historic nature of Communism.

One reality is this (as documented in the August Reader's Digest): Since President Roosevelt extended U. S. diplomatic recognition to the Soviet regime in 1933, Soviet-American talks have taken place some 3400 times. These meetings have produced at least 106 million words—and exactly 52 major agreements. Only two of the agreements have been honored by the Soviets: (1) to enter the war against Japan (two days before it ended, and strictly to her benefit); and (2) to permit Western air corridors to Berlin (of good propaganda value).

Repudiate Conquest

Before we take our first step toward trusting the Soviet leaders' words and placing our faith in their agreements, we should submit the Red dictators to a reasonable test. They should be asked to effectively repudiate the Lenin line of the Communist International, to which all of World Communism is publicly dedicated. The Lenin line calls for the overthrow of the capitalist nations and declares that the world cannot contain Communism and Capitalism: one or the other must be destroyed.

Before we give away secrets or alter any of our national defense plans and our goals, we should insist that the Red dictators publicly identify each of the 5,000,000 Fifth Columnists conspirators in the 60 nations outside the Iron Curtain, and transport them to Russia unless they wish to renounce their revolutionary program of action. A congressional committee, after a two-year study, has placed the Fifth Column figure at 5,000,000. Let the Kremlin now actually break up this vast network of conspirators, trained for years in techniques for conquering all nations. This would be a reasonable test of Soviet sincerity. A Unified Germany

Before we accept the idea of doing business with the Communist leaders we should demand to see a unified Germany established, with Soviet approval and with the Russians completely withdrawn from Eastern Germany; a unification of the two halves of Korea and Indo-China, after the withdrawal of all Communist Chinese troops and Kremlin agents from the northern halves of these countries. These are practical considerations. They would not molest the present Communist empire except at the three points, in Germany, Korea and Indo-China where nations are split unnaturally.

There is, of course, another acid test to which the Kremlin must be subjected before the U. S. accepts Soviet Russia as a decent world neighbor worthy of trust and friendship. The demanding of this mandatory acid test would in itself be a test of the moral character of the U. S. A. The test is this: All the nations that have been subverted or otherwise taken over by Communists must be freed and permitted to choose their own way of life.

Moral Guidepost

If the present Communist leaders in Moscow would have a "rebirth," release the millions of captives in the slave labor camps of Siberia, and permit the freedom-loving people of all the subject nations to have freedom and build their own nations as they see fit, then the world could look forward to the greatest era in the history of mankind. America, in whatever dealings it has with the Communist bosses, must express a demand for these objectives over and over again. We cannot claim to be a Christian nation unless we do. We cannot keep alive the hope of the enslaved millions unless we do.

America has the weight of military strength, the overwhelming productive strength, and it should develop the moral strength to back up such demands upon the Soviet leaders. Russia is in serious trouble. The Communist idea is proving to be a terrible failure for the masses of humanity on whose behalf it was supposed to have been conceived. The specter of hunger stalks across Russia and China; the dictators are fearful. Here in America, on the other hand, the free way of life, the Godly way, is proclaimed with abundance and with incomparable economic strength. The Red dictators are desperate for time to consolidate their tyranny over the lives of 900 million people and then use them to conquer the world. America must do everything it can to thwart this evil plan.

and should be in the best condition in years. John M. Heil, general manager, says only good weather is needed for the track and the Fair to top all existing attendance marks.

Post time for the racing each day will be 1:30 p. m., and there will be a daily double on the first and second races. All of Timonium's three mutual plants will be open daily to provide easier movement of the fans at all times.

Arrangements have been made with nearby Pimlico to house the overflow of horses for the meeting. Between the two places a total of some 800 horses can be accommodated, more than enough to assure well-filled fields in all events.

Fishing is best on cloudy days or at night. Some fishermen say that a large bonfire on the shore, casting its reflection on the water, will attract fish to that vicinity.

TIMONIUM Md., Aug. 25 — With purses of more than $100,000 being offered, Timonium is all set for its annual 10-day meeting held in conjunction with the State Fair. The racing will begin Wednesday, Aug. 31, and continue through Saturday, Sept. 10. The fair begins Saturday, Sept. 4 and ends Sept. 10.

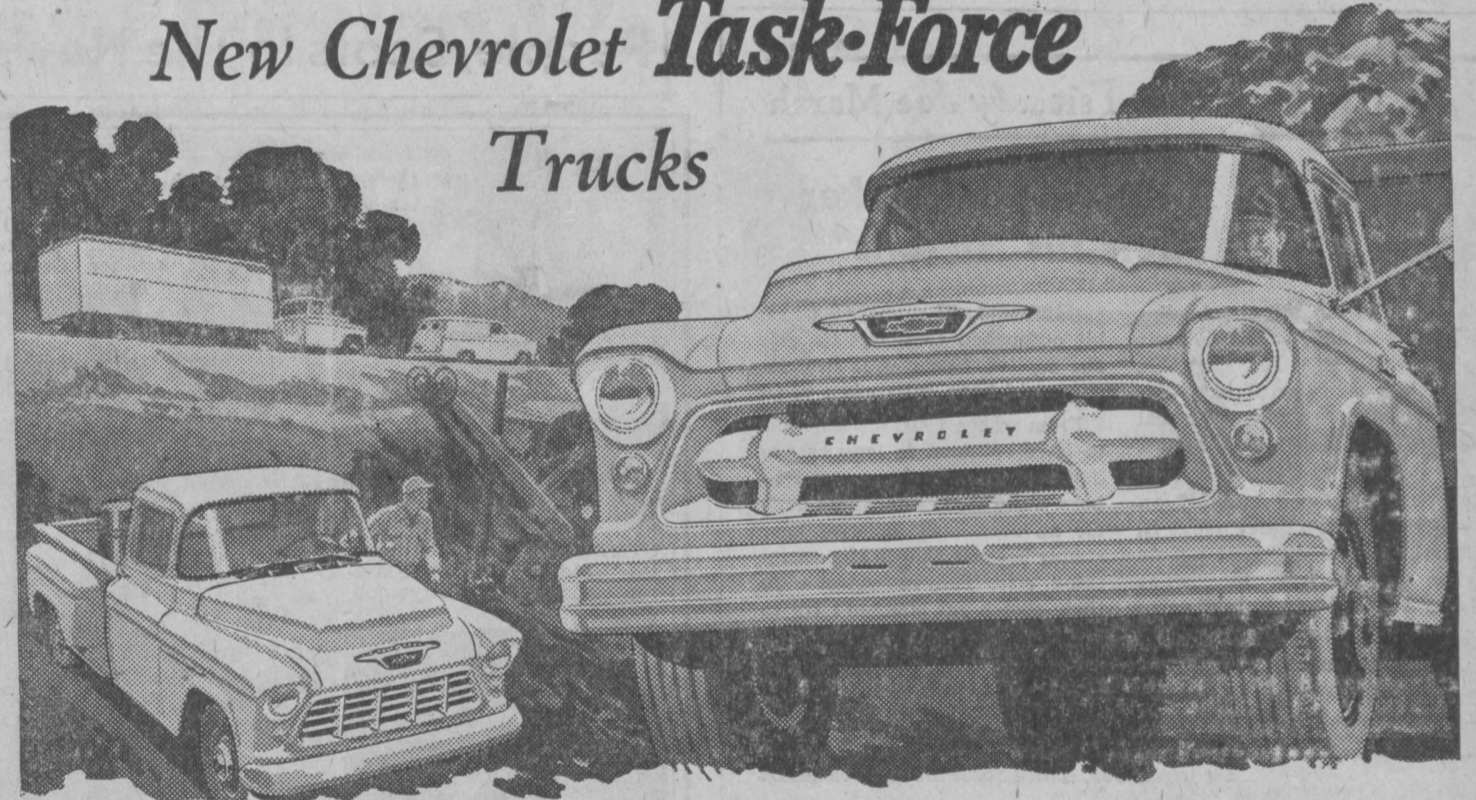

A series of excellent feature events, with purses ranging from $1,500 to $2,700, has been scheduled by Racing Secretary J. Fred Colwill, assuring Timonium patrons of the usual fine brand of competition.

Baltimore County, in which the track is located, will be honored on opening day and other high spots will include the Matt L. Daiger Purse, honoring the president emeritus of the association. The Maryland Horse Breeders, the Grange, the Farm Bureau, the Governor and the Mayor of Baltimore, all will have races named for them during the meeting, while on Labor Day, the Maryland State Fair Purse will be the headliner and on the final Saturday the feature will be the Timonium.

The racing strip has been resurfaced for the coming meeting

Public Assistance Sought To Curb "Moonshining"

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 25 — "I guess it dates back to Prohibition, when a lot of people made gin in their bathtubs, but there's not much stigma to bootlegging in a community today.

Robert N. Lucke, head of the Maryland Alcoholic Beverages

Tax Enforcement unit, was talking about some of the difficulties his agents have in locating and confiscating whisky stills.

"A lot of people may know old Charlie Brown has got a still up in the woods, but they just wink at it. Some even find it amusing."

This public apathy makes the job that much tougher for Mr. Lucke and his five State agents who have to ferret out the stills by themselves and knock them over — because they're robbing the State of tax dollars it might be getting from local whisky sales.

Don't Call It Crime
"When a person sees a murder has been committed or a store has been robbed, they call police," Lucke says. "But not so with moonshining. They don't regard it as a crime."

Working frequently without the aid of tips, State agents located and confiscated 36 stills last year which produced enough moonshine whisky to total more than $1,000,000 in sales at retail counters and would have netted the State nearly $93,000 in taxes.

Federal Government agents reported of 79 stills in Maryland, some of them in conjunction with State agents, and Lucke figures the overall total of illicit operations broken up was around 90. This was about one fourth of the moonshine trade he suspects is going on in Maryland which he estimates totals at least $5,000,000 a year.

He thinks the total of seizures would have been a lot more if suspicious operations had been reported to local officers or to the State agency at the comptroller's Annapolis office.

Location Of Agents
The State unit—created by the 1953 Legislature—has five agents scattered around Maryland. One covers Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick, Carroll and Montgomery counties. Another looks for violators in St. Mary's, Charles, Calvert and the southern half of Prince Georges, and so it goes throughout the State. The agents work closely with 20 Federal agents assigned to Maryland and with State and local police.

The job of State agents is not only to locate moonshine operations but also to curb importation of whisky into the State on which tax has not been paid and assist county officers in checking illegal sales of whisky. Lucke says there's a backlog in his office of requests from state's attorneys for aid in local violations.

Time-Consuming Task
In the moonshine raids, 90% of their leads fail to pan out. Lucke says, and when they do catch a still in operation it is a time-consuming task.

When an agent finally locates one through various contacts, he visits it. If it isn't in operation and no one is around, he retreats without making a raid. When it's likely to be in use, he goes back. One snapped twig on his approach and the moonshiner may scramble away without apprehension. The big job is to get the man and the still.

The State collects fines that way as well as putting the vio-

Your Personal Health

Pregnancy And TB

"You can have your baby." Those words spoken by a doctor to a pregnant woman found to have tuberculosis are one sign of the great progress that has been made in TB control. In the past child-bearing was believed too dangerous for the woman with tuberculosis. Today with proper care both for the pregnancy and for the disease, woman labor out of business for a while. "The difficulty is we have to go out and find the alcohol," says Lucke, a former alcohol investigator for the Federal Government. It would be a help, he suggests if people complained more about what their neighbors were doing.

en with TB can give birth to healthy children and make a good recovery.

Perhaps the most important factor in this great medical advance has been wider use of chest X-rays. It is vital that the doctor know that his patient has TB, so that precautions can be taken. The earlier the diagnosis of the disease, the less danger to the mother. Pregnancy does not necessarily have a bad effect on TB. After all, women vary greatly in their reaction to pregnancy. Some find their general health improved during this period, so that their pregnancy may even have a beneficial effect on TB.

When a pregnant woman is discovered to have tuberculosis, prompt and adequate treatment of the disease is vital. Rest is important. If the disease is inactive or arrested she probably can get enough rest at home. Otherwise she should be in the hospital where she will receive treatment to arrest the disease. She will need a longer period of rest after delivery than other women.

With proper treatment, there is little danger that the baby will be born with tuberculosis. To prevent infection of the newborn child the mother cannot be allowed to care for her baby as long as her disease is active. All these precautions can be taken if the TB is known. The greatest danger to both mother and child lies in undiscovered tuberculosis. Every pregnant woman should have a chest X-ray as soon as her condition is known.

Famous Circus Scheduled Here

Sometime between 1820 and 1830 (circus annals tell not the exact year), near now what is New York City, while a red-coated band blew forth a merry melody, a round-top tent swelled upward. Doubtful if any of the parents or present circuses, or grandparents, for that matter, remember the date. It was the first danvassed sheltered circus erected in this country, and then what was formerly an open-air show assumed the dignity and importance of an under cover performance. A crude enough affair it was, as compared with the perfection and finish of our modern circus.

From this mean beginning has come the marvelous circus we know today, involving a business so extensive that few people possess anything but the vaguest conception of its magnitude, organization and methods of operation. There is a popular misapprehension regarding the profits of the circus business. Some organizations have continued in existence for a period of years without returning a cent on the investment, and operating some seasons actually at a loss. It is doubtful from an audience point of view, if ever a thought is given to the vast amount of capital that is spent locally and nationally to produce the performance they are witnessing.

Long popular in the fund raising field of circuses, is the Great Hagen Bros. Circus playing only under the sponsorship of civic, service, fraternal and religious organizations, exclusively, sharing 50% of the advance sale of tickets and 10% of the proceeds during the date of the circus, in this manner approximately 33 and a third per cent of the gross remains in the community to help the sponsoring club, to aid the charitable, and youth activities they so graciously do.

Hagen Bros. Circus will be in Emmitsburg Friday, Sept. 9, under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, Troop 284, for two performances at 8:15 and 8 p. m., in Stansbury's Field.

The great Hagen Bros. Circus not only features a three-ring circus, but a wild animal arena as well, with stars of the sawdust from three continents, including the famous Duke Family, acrobats and jugglers, the Aerial Dingers, Navaroo Bros. on the swaying perch, Hagen Bros. herd of elephants, presented by pretty Miss Patty Couls.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

While some seized on this incident in Oakland, California, as a switch on the old newspaper axiom about man biting dog, others took it as sign in some quarters, at least, organized labor is becoming mature in economic thinking.

An Oakland union went on record opposing independent cooperatives, or tie-ups with so-called discount houses whereby membership in the union entitled membership to buy at cut rate prices.

Obviously such a move in organized labor is reversal of common trend of past few years where attempts have been made to engage in myriad enterprises.

In all fairness, it should be stated organized labor has long been divided on these fringe activities. Not too long ago Phillip Murray growled a warning to labor leaders to confine their activities to wages and hours.

It is rather trite to point out that labor cannot expect to get more for producing, yet pay less for goods. Yet, from the standpoint of labor, there is a far greater issue involved in this matter of unions getting involved in cut rate merchandising schemes, cooperative stores, and other semi-socialistic ventures.

Organized labor should be conscious that many of its gains of the past 10 years have been on a tight labor market, brought about by an expanding production based on expanding sales.

Yet responsible organized labor, such as the union in Oakland, must surely recognize the attitude of big motors, big steel and others, would be much different at the bargaining table if 5,000,000 able unemployed were knocking on factory gates across the nation.

At present, independent retailers and wholesalers are providing employment to million who might otherwise be knocking on factory gates, and whose knocking could well shake organized labor to its very foundations.

Thus, labor organizations who have rushed into cooperative stores, discount house arrangements and other deals aimed at destroying the independent wholesaler and retailer have been doing nothing more than making their own funeral arrangements.

Actually, as production becomes more and more automatic, thus eliminating the need for more manpower at the factory level, the problem of absorbing surplus workers is being placed on independent business. Thus, it might be said, that future of the organized labor movement depends on how well independent business can absorb these dispossessed workers.

Thus, organized labor should be very apprehensive over anything which curtails independent business, because independent business is the biggest employer in the nation.

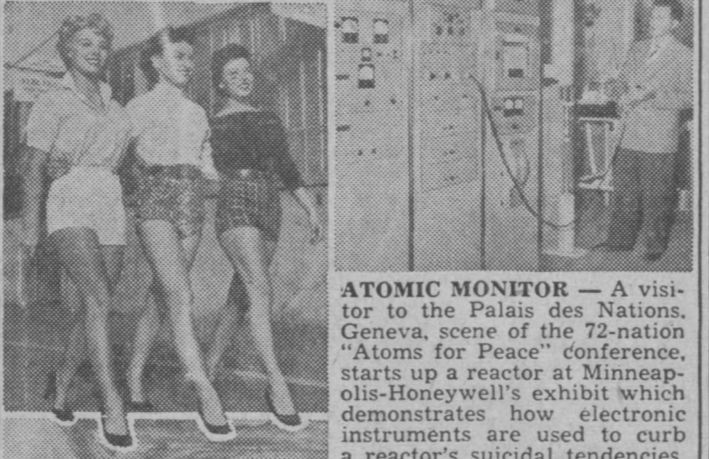

So the incident in Oakland is encouraging for the entire economy. This is perhaps the first harbinger of an awareness in organized labor as to which side bread is buttered on.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Undoubtedly the most inexpensive kind of vacation available today is an auto or motor boat camping trip. Such camping costs little more than the price of your gas and food. And our country abounds with lovely spots that are open to everyone. As in all types of camping, your most important item here is shelter. You may, it is true, sleep in your car, a trailer or in the cabin of your boat. But Col. Townsend Whelen, camping editor of Sports Afield magazine does not, strictly speaking, include these under the heading of "camping." A tent gives you much more freedom, room in which to move around. Your tent should be a type that is easily and quickly pitched, roomy, wind-, water-, and bug-proof, and it should afford privacy. For a party of more than two or three, for a family, and particularly if ladies are along, the umbrella tent is probably the best solution. It is expensive, yes, but not nearly so much as the price for three at a motel.

A tent nine feet square will accommodate three sleepers comfortably, or four rather crowded and sleeping on the floor cloth. But if you are going to use cots, better get one at least ten feet square which will take three cots, one at the back, and one along each side wall.

Umbrella tents also can be had with shed-like extensions on each side, each increasing the capacity by making room for three more cots. With these tents there is head-room to stand. The umbrella tent is sometimes criticized as hard and tedious to erect, but this applies only to those with corner poles and frames. The objection to a centerpole has been overemphasized. It is self-dom in the way and can be turned into a very convenient clothes rack by means of a clamp-on clothes hanger. And the center-pole tent is cheaper than the corner pole variety.

For a party of not more than three and particularly for the seashore, desert, or plains, the small miner's or simple pyramidal tent fills the bill nicely. It stands up better in high winds which you often encounter in such country.

Closing Production At Mt. Theater

The closing offering of the Mountain Theater brings to the patrons one of the most famous plays on the modern theater. "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams is a dream of great tenderness, charm and beauty. Pulitzer Prize Winner, Williams, in this, one of his earlier works, shows Amanda Wingfield, a faded remnant of southern gentility who lives in poverty in a dingy St. Louis apartment. Returning to our stage in this role will be Lois Barden. "The Glass Menagerie" opened Tuesday at 8:30 p. m., and continues through Sunday.

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

The hurricane menace which plagued our communities did much damage. Swirling rain-laden winds left their destructive imprint in the 6th Maryland District as well as in other parts of the country. Meteorologists tell me there may be a new hurricane pattern developing. A high pressure area off the Maine and New Foundland coasts seems to be acting as a deflector, forcing the recent hurricanes into new paths.

Congress last session appropriated $500,000 for a beginning on a long-range study of hurricanes. The Weather Bureau is interested, first of all, in improving the methods of plotting the course of a hurricane and providing adequate warnings. But it also would like to know something of what causes the winds to take the direction they do. Weather Bureau officials feel that more accurate knowledge of wind movements may lead to information on how to cut the number of casualties and lower the nation's $100,000,000 annual property damage bill.

Statistics come to life when one drives through an area such as our Congressional District, especially those dealing with activity in the home building field. Everywhere one sees the results of the urge to own a home. But satisfying the housing needs of not only a rapidly growing population but also of those who just want a better place in which to live creates many problems. Some of them must be faced by Congress; some by the Administration; and some by the people themselves. Wise leadership is needed to keep the housing boom on an even keel.

The issue of housing was bitterly fought and politically confused in the dying days of the first session of the 84th Congress. The measure which became the law is not a happy one. My feelings are that parts of it are unworkable and the law itself is a demonstration of the fact that good legislation is seldom hammered out in the heat of the rush to adjourn. I believe that better housing provisions can be enacted and I fully expect such a measure—one based on sound private initiative principles—will be presented next session.

Tax Exemption Explained

Do you have a son or daughter working during the summer vacation, who is likely to earn more than $600 before school starts again?

If so, he or she doesn't have to quit work before earning that amount for you to retain your child's exemption deduction. The same holds true if you have a non-student working child who will still be under 19 by the end of the tax year.

In either case, regardless of how much the child earns, the parent may claim an exemption, providing he has furnished over half the total cost of his child's support for the year. This rule also applies in the case of legally adopted children.

There is one important thing to keep in mind: A dependent child is also entitled to an exemption deduction for himself on his own separate return. On the other hand, if he is married, and files a joint return with his wife, no dependency exemption may be claimed by the parent.

Artist To Paint Famous Jockey

Henry Cooper, whose portrait works have been exhibited in many of the East's important art galleries and museums, has been selected by the Maryland Jockey Club to paint the three jockeys voted into the Jockeys' Hall of Fame at Pimlico. Announcement of Cooper's selection was made this week by Louis Pondfield, executive director of the club. Cooper makes his home in nearby Pikesville.

Two jockeys no longer active, and one still riding, will be voted into the Hall of Fame this year by a poll of some 2,500 newspaper, radio and television sport figures. The choices will be announced shortly before the Pimlico fall meeting.

A drop of oil of anise allowed to penetrate into the bait, will attract fish to it.

If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—(1 John 1:9.)

Lunch Box Treat

IT IS ESPECIALLY WISE for little tykes to have a warm luncheon these brisk days. It is also important that their box lunches be tasty as well as nutritious. For example, this Fiesta Rice which—so delicious and nutritious—can be kept moist and warm in a lunch box thermos. Another plus to this wonderful recipe is that it is made quickly and easily, thanks to packaged pre-cooked rice. This feature is a great time saver for mothers on busy school-day mornings. Pack a thermos of Fiesta Rice with small containers of salad and a yummy dessert. Then, you can be sure your little ones will have a balanced and delicious lunch to see them through the day.

FIESTA RICE

- 1/4 cup bacon drippings, butter or margarine
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced (about 1/2 cup)
- 1/2 medium green pepper, diced (about 1/2 cup)
- 1 1/4 cups (5-ounce package) packaged pre-cooked rice
- 1 3/4 cups hot water
- 2 cans (8 ounces each) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard (optional)

Melt fat in saucepan or skillet. Add onion, green pepper, and rice, and cook and stir over high heat until lightly browned. Add water, tomato sauce, salt, pepper, and mustard. Mix well. Bring quickly to a boil. Cover tightly and simmer 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings. (ANS)
