While I don't, in an ordinary sense, consider this column as an advertising media, there sometimes comes along a community project which needs a little free publicity, even if it does "cheat" the Boss out of a few shekles in lost advertising. Well, anyway, officials of the Little League have asked me to relay the message to you that some work is to be done on the field, so generously given by St. Joseph College, as a playing field. A lot of work has been done on the new diamond and a lot more remains to be completed. This is where you men get the call, for a change. Seems as though there are a few loads of dirt coming in over the weekend and there is a great need for men to scatter the soil. If you are interested, show up at 8 a. m. on Saturday or Sunday and if possible bring your own wheelbarrow, rake and shovel. P. S.: You don't have to be there promptly at eight, in fact any time at all will be acceptable, but the early starting time is preferred by the officers of the Little League. I'd like to help you boys, but this type of labor is a little out of my line.

Oh yes, and then there's that little item last week about comic books and the such. I really didn't mean to step on anybody's toes, but apparently it inadvertently happened. I was convinced that the type of literature that was being passed out over the counters of local and national newsstands was not all that it should be. My curiosity got the better of me and I decided to check the local stands. I could find nothing too startling or obscene to become alarmed about. There was nothing being sold that couldn't be purchased in any city in the country; in popular newsstands, airports or railroad stations. Most of the magazines and comics were nationally-known and were considered "acceptable." I'll say this though, that a good many of the magazines were not meant for juvenile readers. Such magazines are as old as the hills and carry the usual sordid and at times disgusting stories of broken romances and the like.

Now who's actually is calling the pot black? The dealers are handling only what they feel is acceptable to the rest of the nation and they try to use discretion about the sales to the proper age groups. On the other hand, we have parents, many of them, some of who purchase as high as a half-dozen of the romance type periodicals at a time. In all probability in their eagerness to read these disgusting (in my estimation) publications, they neglect their housework, husbands and children. I have been told of cases where mothers, upon completion of their reading, lay the magazines carelessly aside and which eventually the children are bound to discover and read. Now who's to blame, the parent or the newsdealer? It takes a little bit of common sense on the part of both dealer and parent and unless our Government decides to do something to abolish the publishing of this undesirable type of literature I don't think it is fair to blame the dealers entirely. . . . Let's start at home, with the parent. If you, or your child is indulging in the reading of this sort of "tripe," surely you, alone, are responsible first to see that it is stopped. This is not meant as an apology for last week's column, by any means, but I feel that in fairness to both sides the issue should be clarified to the satisfaction of all.

A lot of us got excited the other day when we read that Emmitsburg had been listed with the Government for a new postoffice, the estimated cost of which was $220,000. Well don't hold your breath 'til it becomes a reality because I am told that we have been on that same list for the past two decades. Reminds me of that proposed Memorial Highway project dreamed up by the Government some 40 years ago. It called for a "dream highway" from Washington to the National Battlefield at Gettysburg. We're still on the list! And did you get that amount—$220,000? Personally I think we'd settle for a lot less than (Continued on Page Eight)

Commiss Free Bishop

The Most Reverend James Edward Walsh, whose freedom to leave Red China was announced Tuesday at Geneva, is a native of Cumberland and a graduate of Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg.

He was the first American priest to be made bishop in China. He was consecrated there, on Sanchian Island, in 1927.

He is a brother of former Judge William C. Walsh of Cumberland, former attorney general of Maryland.

Mr. Walsh said Tuesday that the family has heard from various sources that Bishop Walsh has been "unmolested" during his several years of house arrest in Shanghai.

Now 63, Bishop Walsh is a member of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America, popularly known as the Maryknoll Fathers. Their headquarters are in Maryknoll, N. Y.

When the Chinese Communists closed the Catholic Bureau in Shanghai in June, 1951, Bishop Walsh was ordered to remain in the city pending an investigation.

The bureau was a central advisory board, with duties like those of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the U. S.

In 1952 the Bishop was reported under surveillance in Shanghai and not allowed to leave.

Bishop Walsh's former secretary, the Rev. Charles Meus, a Belgian, last May reported from Hong Kong that Bishop Walsh was living in cramped quarters with three Chinese priests, with whom he conversed in Latin, because they did not all speak the same Chinese dialect.

"The Bishop leads a life of piety, humbleness and frugality, and is known as 'the holy American' to the humble Chinese in Shanghai," Fr. Meus said after his own release.

Judge Walsh, said he was delighted to learn his brother can leave Communist China if he wishes.

FATHER CASL TRANSFERRED

Rev. Father Joseph Casl, C.M., who has served as assistant pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church for the past three years, has been transferred to Norfolk, Va., where he will serve as chaplain at DePaul Hospital for 10 days, following which he will go to the Vincentian House at Germantown, Pa., for further assignment.

Father Casl, a native of Yugoslavia, spent 10 years as a missionary in China before coming here. Succeeding Father Casl is the Rev. Fr. Vincent J. Heary.

Community Fund Comforts Shut-Ins

Two local shut-ins were the recipients of fruit baskets through the generosity of the Community Fund of Emmitsburg, it was learned at the regular monthly meeting of the Fund held Monday evening in the VFW Hall. Mrs. O. H. Stinson, president, presided at the meeting.

One case was closed and another was opened for investigation, proceedings of the meetings disclosed.

The group voted to hold some type of fund-raising affair this fall, and the president appointed Cloyd W. Seiss as chairman of a committee to arrange the event. In all likelihood the affair will be a shooting match, the date to be announced.

Council Hears Delegations

The Town Council was literally besieged by delegations at its regular monthly meeting held Monday night in the Fire Hall. In all there were three delegations present to present problems to the Town Fathers.

Chairman of the Board of Commissioners Wales E. Rightmour presided at the meeting and all Commissioners and the Mayor were present. Town Clerk Louise Sebald presented the minutes of the previous meeting, the report of the treasurer and that of the tax collector. All were approved as presented.

A delegation of DePaul St. citizens and property owners was present and sought to have sewer lines laid and curbing erected in the area. At the same time the group complained to Council that several lots were in need of cleaning up, declaring the weeds were causing hay fever sufferers a great deal of trouble and that trash was breeding rats and mosquitoes.

Another group requested that some means of regulating parking on Federal Ave. be devised whereby those residents living on that street could have ample parking facilities and access to their homes. Complaints were laid before Council that motorists were parking too close to the front doors of the homes and also parking on the wrong side of the street.

A third delegation requested that the Town Fathers extend the present proposed sewer line on Federal Ave. enough to accommodate several more houses that might possibly be erected there in the near future. Council has taken all three delegations' requests under advisement.

Parking meter revenue for August totaled $355.97. Overtime parking violations netted $45 and an additional $12.90 in traffic fines brought the total monthly "take" to $418.87.

The Solons were in receipt of a letter from the engineering company in Baltimore which is handling the sewerage survey, advising that the project had been completed to the present disposal plant. Two other plans are being fomented. One would pump the sewerage from the present plant out over the Tom's Creek Road to Tom's Creek, while another would follow the Flat Run course to the extremity of the stream. Council has been advised that the flow of water in Flat Run is insufficient anymore to carry off the refuse of the disposal plant. The survey revealed that Flat Run courses a distance of 11 miles while Tom's Creek drains for over 30 miles.

The Solons gave their official "blessing" to the Chamber of Commerce's move to celebrate Emmitsburg's bi-centennial in 1957. Mrs. Robert E. Daugherty, representing the Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the Board and requested its endorsement of the bi-centennial.

It was decided by the Town Fathers that a letter would be sent the owner of a vacant lot on DePaul St. advising that the lot must be cleared in the near future.

NATIONAL CHILD SAFETY WEEK

The object of a Child Safety Week is two-fold—first to enlist all parents, teachers, police departments and all other agencies to create safe travel habits in our school children, both walking and bicycle riding. Second, through publicity to create in the mind of the man behind the wheel, the habit of extreme care in school zones and where there are children, and near school buses.

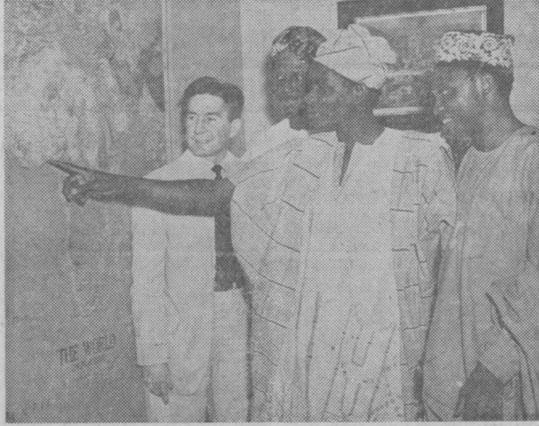

Schools are again open and there are thousands of little tots who are going to school for the first time. Great care should be used by the parents in going with and teaching these first-graders how to cross streets, stay on sidewalks and not to play while going back and forth to school.

Then we have that vast army of youngsters returning to school again. They have been playing and having a good time, but now they must get back into the routine of going back and forth to school. Sure, they will forget, and run out into the road, chase a ball or another child. It will take time for them to become oriented to back to school routine. Try to impress upon them its dangers, but you, Mr. Autoist, be especially on your guard.

Police and School officials will try and get the Safety Junior Patrols functioning as soon as possible and teachers and traffic officers will do their utmost to cut down the dangers. But remember, Mr. and Mrs. Autoist, that you are the final responsibility! School has been closed so you have become careless of slowing down for school zones, signs, etc. No engagement is important enough to disregard safety signs and cause an accident. Exercise unusual care these first days of school.

Oh yes, school buses again are on the road. Most state laws prohibit passing a stopped school bus taking on or letting off school children, no matter which direction you are traveling. So please take every possible precaution for National Child Safety Week, all week, and get the habit every week of the year.

Nigerian officials visiting Senator Butler's Office

In extending a warm welcome to a 4-man goodwill mission from Nigeria, headed by A. M. A. Akinloye, Minister of Agricultural and Natural Resources of the Western Region of Nigeria, Senator John Marshall Butler (R. Md.), through his Legislative Assistant, stated:

"The purpose of your visit is most commendable. In coming to our country to learn how to improve your cocoa production and marketing processes; and in encouraging American producers to build factories in Western Nigeria, you are giving us an opportunity to help you help yourselves. With such a constructive attitude on your part, it is not only a pleasure but a privilege to welcome you and extend the aid and assistance of my staff. My only regret is that official duties have brought me to Europe for the 'Atoms for Peace' Conference and I probably will not be back in Washington in time to greet you personally."

Sen. Butler had cabled his office from Geneva to be on the lookout for the Mission and to extend them the above welcome in his behalf.

Mr. Akinloye announced in New York on Sept. 1 that Nigeria is negotiating with American interests to build a rubber factory in his country. He further stated that Nigeria would like to purchase a textile plant since its two small plants are not sufficient to supply the country's textile needs.

The Nigerian mission was arranged by the Western Nigerian Regional Government and was sponsored by the Western Regional Marketing Board, which sells most of the agricultural products produced in the area.

Paris Is Interesting City to Local Visitor

Six-Plus Weeks Abroad

Paris: Sight-Seeing and a Few Other Things.

(Note: Before going on I should like to correct a confusion near the beginning of the last article: (2) should have read "discovering—that the unpretentious headquarters for my stay in Paris, on a narrow side-street off the Avenue de l'Opera, was close to the center of the city"—)

(Still on the Left Bank and west side of the city)

4. The Invalides Chapel and Tomb of Napoleon. The Chapel is connected with a home for disabled soldiers built in the 17th century but in recent times mainly used as a war museum. It is especially famous for its beautiful dome, covered with gold-leaf and visible from many parts of Paris. And immediately under this dome, in a circular well below the level of the main floor, is the marble coffin containing the body of Napoleon I, brought back from St. Helena and placed there in the reign of Louis Philippe. (I read somewhere that Louis hoped by this act to increase his favor with the people.) Now crowds of sight-seers look down over the railing at the huge sarcophagus surrounded by marble angels—I wonder with what thoughts.

5. The Latin Quarter. My direct acquaintance with this old and famous section of Paris is slight indeed, for here was one of those experiences in just driving thru (and thru streets so narrow and crowded that I thought the coach could never make it.) But I did see the location and the outside of some of the massive buildings belonging to the University of Paris, best known as the Sorbonne, the name coming from one of the original colleges, founded back in the 13th century by a Paris monk, Robert de Sorbon, for poor students. And I had a glimpse of the Luxembourg Gardens as we drove down the Quarter's main thoroughfare, Boulevard St. Michel, and of the National Museum, the Pantheon, as the church of Ste. Genevieve became during the Revolution, dedicated to famous mortals instead of to "all the gods" as was the original Pantheon in pagan Rome. (The Quarter derived its name from the use of Latin throughout the University community down to the end of the 18th century.)

(Now north and across a bridge to an island in the middle of the Seine.)

6. Ile de la Cite and Notre Dame. Here on this island in the river is the very oldest part of Paris, which had its beginnings in a Roman town (Lutetia) founded here after Caesar's conquest of Gaul in the 1st century, B.C. In the second half of the 12th century, when a Christian medieval city was spreading out on both sides of the river, the cathedral of Notre Dame was begun on the east end of the Ile by the Bishop of Paris, on the site of a Roman temple and two earlier Christian churches; but it was more than 150 years before the cathedral was completed, and since that time various additions have been made. I was reminded of Westminster Abbey by the two large square towers (though differing in design) that complete the front, and interested later, on comparing pictures of the two, to note the many differences in the remaining parts of the facades of these buildings of the same general type: Notre Dame's three huge adjoining doorways, for example, with elaborately carved doors, its row of sculptured French kings, its great rose window in the center. Within there was the impression of cold and great space, the beauty of the front and other windows, the profusion of carving and statuary. Outside again, there were the fantastic gargoyles intended, back in the Middle Ages when they were carved, for some other purpose than the mere decorating of water-spouts.

(Returning now the rest of the way to the Right Bank and close to our starting point.)

7. The Place de la Concorde. Along the Seine, at the west end of the Tuileries Gardens, this square has been called "one of the world's greatest triumphs of architecture and planning," and for these reasons should have its impressiveness for any beholder ascribed from the purpose of its construction, which was to form a suitable setting for the statue of an unworthy monarch, Louis XV, after whom it was first named; a thrillingly spacious square, largest in the world next to the one in Moscow, with two beautiful fountains (copies of those in the Square of St. Peter in Rome), symbolic statues in balanced positions, handsome buildings lining the sides, and splendid perspectives in every direction. (And there too is something not part of the original plan, the huge obelisk covered with hieroglyphics, over 2,000 years old, that was sent as a gift from the Viceroy of Egypt to Louis Philippe in the 19th century.)

And now, in the interests of proportion, I must end here the list of especially impressive places out of those remembered from the two "City Sightseeing" trips; for after all, these trips took only two half-days out of the five-plus that I was in Paris, and although the report of them is to me painfully incomplete I must be getting on to other sightseeing and other things that added to the varied program of my stay.

I would not have wanted to miss entirely the other trip provided for in my itinerary, "Afternoon Excursion to Versailles," disappointing as it was, for it was also extremely enlightening. The disappointment was twofold: (1) not finding the gorgeous Royal Residence I had pictured in my mind ever since I used to look, as a child, at certain famous views in my cousin's stereopticon; (2) not seeing anything of the equally famous Gardens, the Trianons, and the dairy farm where Queen Marie Antoinette and court ladies as we all had learned, played at leading the simple life. Disappointment No. 1 was due to my great ignorance, which this trip, and later reading that it led to, relieved; I had not known that the magnificent and costly furnishings of Versailles had been put up at auction four years after the outbreak of the Revolution, or that the palace, built for Louis XIV, "the Sun King," and lived in by his successors, Louis XV and Louis XVI (the latter until forced by the Paris to return with them to the city), had been made into a museum by Louis Philippe. Disappointment No. 2 was due to a natural cause, a deluge of rain that made everything around the palace (museum) a watery blank; but I was also led by it to replace my very vague ideas about the Gardens, etc., with some interesting definite facts (which, to be sure, did not make up for not seeing the sights themselves). I should add that of course I found Versailles impressive in its effect of huge size (it was very large but was built to seem even larger) and splendid architecture, and caught something of the original splendor within from the great high-ceilinged rooms with their gilded and carved ornamentation, and especially the Hall of Mirrors setting, by the way, for the signing of the Peace Treaty of 1919. A.E.H.

WHOSE LABOR DAY?

"Who ever invented a holiday to celebrate going back to school? the boy groaned. To him, Labor Day meant the end of vacation, not a tribute to the working people of the nation.

pump 10,000 gallons more each day. Traffic will be increased by 140 cars and trucks. And the city may have to add 500 new volumes to the city library, part of a visiting nurse and, yes—a fraction of a cell in the town jail!—Changing Times

Fortunately, the groans are rarely from the heart. It's chiefly a matter of fashion. Many are really glad to be getting back to school. If only they didn't have to hide it like a guilty secret! This attitude can be the cause of much reluctance, even fear, on the part of young children entering school for the first time. They're led to expecting nothing less than a fire breathing dragon for "teacher" and a work load that couldn't be borne by an elephant.

The first school days mean tremendous changes in a child's life. He has to get up, dress, eat his breakfast, and cover the distance to school in a certain space of time. He can't stop to dream or listen to a bird or watch the carpenter building a new house along the way. He meets a group of strange children in a strange place where he must stay whether he likes it or not. He must do things in a certain way at a certain time, depending only—as far as he can see—on the "teacher's" whim.

It's hard enough, but worse if older children have frightened him in advance.

Getting the full cooperation of older children in the family and in the neighborhood is an important part of getting Junior ready for school. If appealed to on the basis of their superior age and experience they will usually be glad to help. They can talk about school in a way which will make him look forward to it with pleasure. They can take him to the school for pre-visit, so that on opening day the trip and the building itself will not have the terrors of unfamiliarity. And, on that opening day, there will be nothing so comforting to him as the warm hand of an older friend, or brother or sister leading him into the classroom and the reassuring words, "I'll be just across the hall."

A good emotional adjustment to school life may take weeks—but it's worth all the patient effort the family can put into it.

Electric computers that do the next best thing to thinking are described at almost human. A better description might be "completely human."—Changing Times

"Fun With Food" Toys Start a Trend; Teach Good Nutrition, Too

"M-M-GOOD!" SAYS THIS JUNIOR HOMEMAKER, proudly offering her chef doll a taste of the good soup she's just prepared. Sandwiches, fruit and cake are on her playroom luncheon menu, too.

Having fun with food by preparing simple, nutritious menus now rates as a leading favorite with both girls and boys from kindergarten age up, top specialists report.

Typical of the trend to "good eating" play, is the popularity of the Campbell Kids Cooking Set featuring small cans of real soup and all the utensils needed to prepare soup and sandwich menus, including a juvenile cookbook. Of course, ambitious young chefs yearn for purposeful culinary tools. Pots and pans of real aluminum, exact miniatures of the Mirro brand mother uses are the newest arrival in the roster of Campbell Kids toys designed for culinary fun. (ANS)

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., September 8—Readers do not need to go to Colorado and hunt for gold or uranium. There is a surer way to make money in your own community. Let me explain how to do so.

As readers know, my family is heavily interested in the 450 retail "Dime Stores" controlled by the United Stores Corp., the stocks which I like to recommend. In view thereof, I have been looking at new shopping centers this summer in connection with my vacation. These new developments have their usefulness due to "downtown" city parking difficulties. These shopping centers will continue to be patronized by people living in their neighborhoods.

Many people who are now driving some miles to reach a new shopping center may soon get tired of it. Too many accidents are happening on the way to and from the shopping center. But this is not all. Owing to the high rents and high wage scales of the new shopping center stores, they must charge more for their merchandise than do the downtown city stores. Besides, the stocks of the latter are larger. Therefore, no downtown merchant should sign up for a new shopping center too hastily.

In every city which I have visited there is pressure to expand the areas zoned for business. These local fights are a headache to the city officials. Those outside the areas are anxious for the "Business Zones" to be increased; but after getting into such a zone, these same people are selfishly fighting to keep others out.

As a result of this pressure, the price of residential property near a Business zone gradually rises. It soon becomes so expensive that residential building thereon is retarded. This is bad for the city. A growing city needs active real estate developers, who should be encouraged. Some day this "fringe land" will be zoned for business.

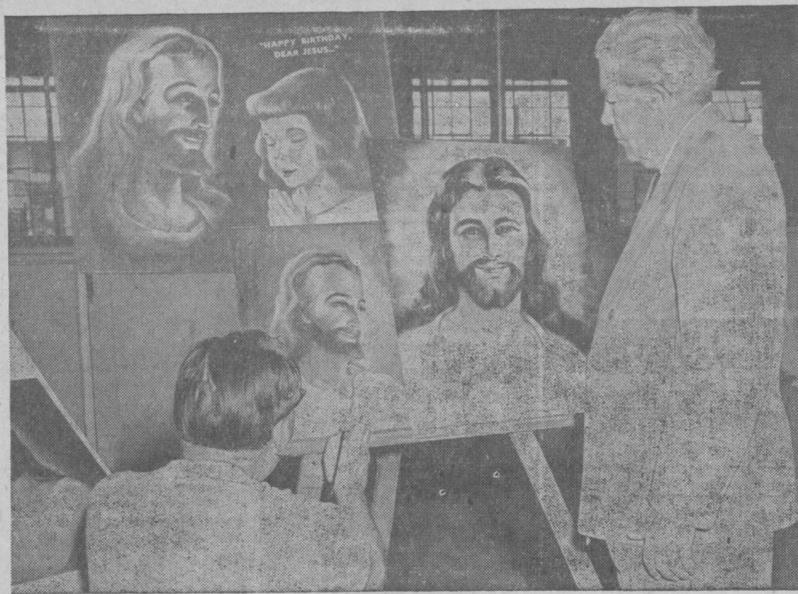

Therefore, it is now usually a good real estate speculation. In fact, readers will be interested in comparing already the "bid prices" for some of this fringe property with the city's assessment thereof. This shows what developers think of it. Let me add that such a comparison should be especially helpful to present property owners in preventing their land from being "stolen" from them by speculators who do keep posted.

Instead of spending time reading the stock market or studying charts, I advise you to read your city's zoning laws and study its Zoning Map. If your Building Inspector cannot give you such a map, buy a small map of your city and copy thereon the different shaded areas from the big map which the official has on the wall of his office.

Watch the official advertisements in your daily newspapers of Appeal Board Hearings on requests to change any Zoning Areas. Attend all hearings which are held by Appeal or Planning Boards and note their recommendations. From these hearings and the action which the City Fathers finally take, you can get a good idea of what real estate price changes will occur. Above all, read the reports of these hearings and the real estate news in your local newspaper, which can become a gold mine to you.

The residential section of every city is growing fastest and best in some one direction. It may be East or West, North or South. Find out for a certainty in which direction the best houses of your city are being built. Then confine your speculations to this one direction. The shopping area is probably going out that way too. An exclusive industrial area is growing in another direction, and this offers some good speculations. But invest no money where the two or more groups are mixed.

I forecast that the "best buys" are at the fringe of the different zoning areas, where some residential property is likely to be turned into business property. Remember that business property sells the highest per square foot; residential

LIFER - ARTIST PAINTS 200th CHRIST SMILE — The "Old-timer," an inmate-artist at Florida's Raiford Prison whose impressions of a "Smiling Christ" are sought by churches throughout the Christian world, completed his 200th painting last week. It will be presented to a revival group by the mayor of Phenix City, Alabama. "I took my first drink in Phenix City," the old artist explained, "and in time I became an acute alcoholic right there. My family shunned me in Columbus, Georgia, right across the river from Phenix City, and in time I hit bottom. Now that the Sin City is cleaned up, I'd feel proud to paint them a dozen Smiling Christ portraits to replace the old gambling-saloon signs." The old artist, serving life as a habitual criminal after his fourth felony conviction (buying liquor with worthless checks), has continuously painted Smiling Christ portraits since the night, five years ago, he dreamed the Lord smiled at him. He gives them without cost to churches and religious groups requesting them. He prefers to remain anonymous on account of his children.

Authorities Study Fish In Garrett County

Over 100 Maryland fish authorities and field personnel met Wednesday at Deep Creek Lake, Garrett County, in one of the largest freshwater probes in the State's history.

Several hundred citizens and personnel of the departments of property second; and industrial last. All of these areas usually sell for more than unzoned property. Land on the fringes of these Zones increases in price more rapidly than "inside" locations. One more thought: Do not own too much land at any time. It is as important to sell and take profits as to "buy right."

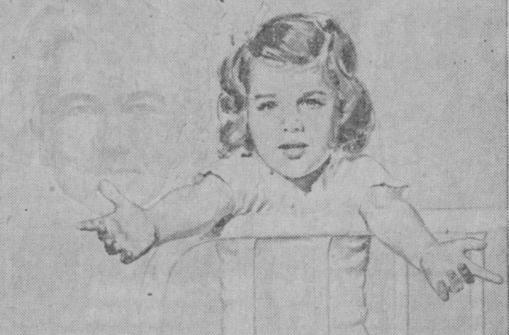

the Board of Natural Resources were on hand to assist in making a biological study of fish conditions in this 3800-acre mountain reservoir.

A 40-acre arm of Hoop Pole Run, near the Glendale Bridge, was chemically treated with rotenone, (a fish suffocant), to kill all fish life for the purpose of examining size, length, weight and condition of fish. A team of 16 biologists from the Dept. of Research and Education, 10 new enforcement officers and State Police, and 20 regional fish management personnel converged on the sample area at 6 a. m. in an all day effort to spray and recover the fish from the sample area and immediately examine all fish recovered to determine best management practices for improving fisherman success on Deep Creek Lake. Estimates of harvest range anywhere from 40 to 140 lbs. per surface acre.

Active participation by the Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council, Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Assn., Western Federation of Sportsman's Club, Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce of Garrett County, Water Pollution Control Commission, Dept. of State Forests and Parks, Dept. of Research and Education, Dept. of Game and Inland Fish, Dept. of Health, University of Maryland, U. S. Soil Conservation Service, church groups, and many other interested agencies and services have made this a project of interest to many Marylanders, according to Ernest A. Vaughn, director.

HELP... continue treatment for POLIO VICTIMS

ELIZABETH KENNY
Polio FOUNDATION
NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS - MINNEAPOLIS, MINNESOTA

Teams of Specialists Determine Needs of Kenny Polio Patients

Minneapolis, Minn. — Because no single individual can cope with all the problems posed by a severe case of poliomyelitis, the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation employs all the knowledge, ingenuity and skills that modern science can provide to meet the rehabilitation needs of patients hospitalized at its Kenny treatment centers across the country.

Doctors and Kenny Therapists play the major role in rehabilitation. Other highly-specialized personnel, ranging from laboratory technicians who can measure the exact quantity of oxygen in an iron lung patient's blood to individuals who design and build to order gadgets that can be substituted for missing muscles, frequently are pressed into service.

As soon as the initial stages of the patient's treatment are completed, he is placed under the care of an Occupational Therapist who seeks to build up his strength by giving him various projects to perform with the affected muscles. Kenny Therapists and Occupational Therapists are directed by doctors who specialize in physical medicine and rehabilitation.

As the patient progresses, social workers and job-placement experts work with him, his family and his employer to effect a successful adjustment and to help locate employment within the limits of his ability.

For example, at Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, headquarters for Kenny work throughout the country, a team of specially-trained people has worked together for a number of years and has treated nearly 10,000 cases of polio. It has become a smooth-functioning unit and is capable of effecting total rehabilitation of patients with a variety of partially-curable diseases.

The Kenny Foundation has broadened the scope of its services by incorporating the application of effective techniques and rehabilitation of patients with various neuro-muscular diseases.

York Fair Is Top Attraction

Still the tops, that's the nationwide fame of the gigantic York Inter-State Fair which opens its gates next Tuesday morning and continues day and night all week thru Sept. 17. This year's edition will rank as one of the greatest agricultural and industrial exhibits ever assembled. There will be hundreds of exhibits, farm, fruit, and produce displays that will interest all ages.

This year's featured 'name' performers will top all previous years. Despite continued rising prices for top name talent in the entertainment field, Samuel S. Lewis, fair president, is bringing fair patrons bigger and better presentations at no increase in grandstand or admission prices. Nowhere will you get as big a bargain for your entertainment dollar.

Tuesday as usual is School Children's Day with the popular Bill Hayes of "Davy Crockett" fame performing afternoon and night. Wednesday afternoon and night the star guest feature will be Phil Spitalny and His All-Girl Orchestra. On Thursday, the Four Aces, the hit recording artists. Friday's highlight will be the appearance of the McGuire Sisters of Arthur Godfrey fame, both afternoon and night.

In addition to the "star" featured entertainers, Producer Frank Wirth has put together another of his scintillating Broadway Revues appropriately titled "Sweet and Lovely," which will be presented on the covered stage every night, featuring the famous 24 Manhattan Rockets, whose precision dancing is an annual treat for York Fair patrons. The show has been given the usual colorful Wirth costume, scenery and lighting effects.

Eight of the best circus and international vaudeville acts, some of them direct from TV's popular "big top" program will appear each afternoon and night on the salt water fish in North America. However, sportsmen aren't so enthusiastic about the walleye's qualities as a game fish. He's strong enough; the trouble is that when he's hooked he does not jump; he generally wants to go straight down.

Most anglers use live minnows for walleyes, but you can catch them successfully on artificials. Jason Lucas, angling editor of Sports Afield magazine, has a secret for getting them: He lets a small plug sink way to the bottom (weighed with split buckshot if necessary); then he jumps it along rather slowly, with a twitching motion, about five or six feet, lets it sink and rest awhile, and then repeats.

He prefers the small plugs, say three-eighths of an ounce; and by far his favorite color is a green frog finish. But on days when walleyes are more lively and not so finicky, a metal lure will often take more of them. Spinning and casting tackle work equally well for this type of fishing. And since walleyes are usually found out in open water, with nothing to tangle in, light spinning line will land the largest ones safely.

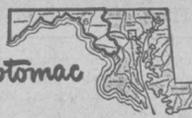

In a lake, a fly rod is about useless for walleyes except when you find them feeding in the shallows at night. In a shallower river, a fly rod will hold its own with the other two types of tackle. For night fishing, Mr. Lucas uses an all-black streamer, and for daytime, one that is all white. Usually a flashing spinner ahead of the fly will get somewhat more fish than a plain streamer, but it is hard to cast.

The best way to find a school of walleyes is to troll back and forth and around and around. Troll very slowly, your boat barely WASHINGTON, Sept. 7—The farmers' purchasing power is directly dependent on the prices he receives for the products he sells. Fortunately, in our complex economy there is between these price levels a leeway that operates to the farmers' advantage. Farmers' buying power, as measured by the Dept. of Agriculture over the past month has remained fairly steady. This resulted from a slight drop in the prices farmers paid for living and production items.

But the prices farmers received for their products declined again for the fourth successive month. The drop was chiefly due to lower prices for hogs, beef cattle, wheat and other grains. Higher prices were obtained for eggs, milk, cotton and such items as strawberries. These price levels—the prices farmers receive and the prices they pay—continued parity at an average of 84 per cent, the same as last month.

The problems which confront our agricultural people stem from a variety of causes, but these problems are not new. The 83rd Congress sought through enactment of a flexible price support program to remedy the basic spreads. The law goes into effect difficulties caused by price with the 1955 harvest. It is still too early to evaluate its influence on farm economy.

I can assure you that farm policies will be under continual review over the next few months and it is to be hoped that the flexible price law will be given a fair trial. Last session, the Congress enacted legislation authorizing the Farmers Home Administration to make emergency loans where credit is not available from other sources. The Congress also extended a program initiated by the 83rd Congress which provides loans to established producers and feeders of cattle when unobtainable through regular outlets.

The 84th Congress made no changes in provisions of farm laws designed to help farmers hold produce for fair prices. It also left unchanged the price protection features of the commodity set-aside program. This law keeps surplus commodities from

THROUGH THE BACK DOOR?

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

While some observers seem to think the big issue in the political year of 1956 will be who does, or doesn't run, on relations with the Kremlin, or some other factor, evidence increases none of these will be the big issue.

The big issue, and perhaps the only issue, will be the condition of free, independent enterprise in this nation.

Rep. H. D. Cooley, N. C., speaking before the Research and Engineering Center of Ford Motors made a very significant statement.

"The motivating force of free enterprise is the desire of men to have their own farms and businesses, and I call upon the farm implement industry to adapt more tools, more implements and machines to accommodate the convenience and productivity of the family size farm. If you do this; if those who are in a position to do so will help stop this talk about little fellows being inefficient—a burden to society—we can prove that the family unit is the unbeatable American unit, putting to shame those who want to send the little fellow into the streets looking for jobs."

It is significant, too, that as Rep. Cooley made this talk, back in Washington high officials continued to discuss methods to take off the land another million or so farm families on the grounds they are operating units too small to be efficient. Yet during the greatest population growth of the past 30 years, the number of farms in the nation has already dropped by 1,300,000.

The late and unlamented Joe Stalin didn't believe in small farms, either. He wanted efficiency, too. He liquidated them. Yet Russians are now close to starvation point. Joe, if he kept his lines open to Washington, must be chuckling even now as he wipes perspiration off his face.

In other fields, Congress is showing increasing concern. After studying the rash of banking mergers, the House Banking Committee issued a report of which a part follows.

"The time for action is now. We dare not wait any longer, for already we are following the example of England whose many banks became the Big Five."

Immediately on the heels of this report, Rep. E. Celler of N. Y. protested recent billion dollar bank merger in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, with a population of more than 2 million now has 68% of its bank assets in just four banks.

To many there is coming a feeling of wonder over the entire course of American public affairs during the past decade.

Some wonder if all the ballyhoo and fuss over such matters as need of 3.2% of the natives of Timbuctoo for bifocal spectacles to keep that nation from communism, is not merely one big smoke screen.

And behind that smoke screen unchecked raids against independent business system are launched.

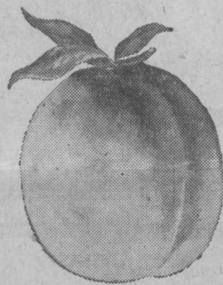

After all, a Congress kept busy all session debating how much money to give to encourage development of a pogo stick industry in Patagonia can give little time or attention to lack of anti-trust law enforcement, or to "stepping up" existing laws. In all kinds of brawls from barroom types to high levels, it is considered good strategy to first confuse.

Facts On Communism

Here are some facts and opinions for Americans to think on as they view the Communist leaders in their unnatural pose of friendliness:
 From a speech by William Randolph Hearst Jr. to the National Press Club in Washington:

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Frederick County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the estate of JAMES EVERETT KNOX late of Frederick County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof, legally authenticated, to the subscriber, on or before the 20th day of March, 1956 next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. Those indebted to the deceased are desired to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 15th day of August, 1955.

 HARRY D. RADCLIFF
 Register of Wills for Frederick County, Md. 8/19/55

ton, upon his return recently from interviews with the Red leaders in the Kremlin at Moscow:

"These men can be ruthless. They have been merciless. Certainly no humanitarian considerations would cause them to hesitate to wipe us out if they thought they could get away with it. They believe the end justifies the means. And for them, the end remains Communist domination of the world. Khrushchev said so to me quite frankly. He said they hoped to gain the upper hand one day. "We heard Molotov tell the Supreme Soviet (the legislative body) and I quote him: 'World civilization will not perish no matter how much it might suffer from a new war.' He predicted that what would perish would be our way of life. That should make it clear enough to us that the Soviet leadership does not rule out war because of its possible effect on civilization. It rules it out for the present simply because of the respect it has for the effectiveness of America's counter-offensive power."

One of the books on my desk as I write this column is TWILIGHT OF WORLD CAPITALISM. The author is William Z. Foster, ranking leader of the Communist forces in America. Here is the dedication on the flyleaf of Foster's book: "To my great-grandson Joseph Manley Koljo, who will live in a Communist United States."

From a highly respected information service with authentic sources throughout the world, including Iron Curtain nations (this report from Geneva): "Peace? There will be ostensible peace for from five to six years . . . That is the time they estimate they need to put their house in order . . . They will make every gesture calculated to make the world believe they have had a change of heart . . . Many astonishing decisions will be announced by the Communists from time to time which they expect will change world apprehension."

Nikolai E. Khokhlov, former Soviet Intelligence Agent, in an interview with the U. S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT: "The spiritual resistance of everyone in the Soviet Union is beginning to bring some evident results. The right name for the nature of the internal troubles now would be 'psychological.' There is a passive resistance that the Soviet rulers are trying desperately to stop, to make the oppressed people obey again. With perhaps a little more incentive — some outside agreement and support maybe—the resistance could become active . . . As soon as the Russian revolutionary movement will be understood and supported by the Western democracies, our people will automatically begin to sympathize with the Western world . . ."

Member of a Western European Parliament: "From our secret intelligence service our Foreign Office has learned that 'free' elections soon will be announced in Czechoslovakia . . . Other 'free' elections will follow in other captive states . . ."

Several 'slates' of candidates will be presented, but all candidates will be under Soviet discipline."

Herbert A. Philbrick, former FBI counterspy, in the New York HERALD TRIBUNE: "On the propaganda front, the party members have been given a number of specific targets . . . among them: Increased drive to foment strikes . . . continued campaign for Red China's admission to the UN . . . increased emphasis on the above-ground propaganda stressing 'peaceful coexistence and easing of tensions' to cover the corresponding underground increase of aggression and subversion . . . campaign to break the crippling economic blockade against the Soviet Union . . . promotion of trade with the nations (Iron Curtain) exploiting slave labor."

BIG YEAR FOR PIANOS

Not in 30 years has the piano business been so good. Piano manufacturers conservatively estimate that 125,000 of the instruments will be sold this year. The industry can thank the millions of young musicians mastering their sharps and flats. They can also thank the hundreds of school systems that now offer music lessons.—Changing Times.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Elder and family, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Matt J. Paidokovich and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Wiegand and family of Silver Spring, Md., were Labor Day weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elder and Mrs. Genevieve R. Elder.

Any Small Boy CAN Love Bathing

When a little boy can have this much fun in the bathtub, he'll soon realize that cleanliness is a Good Thing!

MOST ADULTS ENJOY THEIR DAILY TUBBING because it's so relaxing—and because being clean makes them feel comfortable and civilized. A little boy, who has no burning interest in being either relaxed or civilized, can hardly be expected to share that point of view. He needs something else to get him into the tub without protest. For a little boy, a bath must be fun.

Perhaps the first step toward bath fun is a leisurely approach. If he's dumped in, scrubbed, dried, and dispatched to bed, no little boy will find it much fun. If he's still being bathed by his mother, it will pay her richly to allow enough time for little jokes and games and for conversations about what he's been up to all day.

When a boy is old enough to bathe himself, bath-time can be a play period when he runs his steamboat over sudsy ocean waves or dives his submarine through sudsy foam. Other fun topics can be his own gaily patterned towels and facecloth, soap, and soapdish. In such an atmosphere, you'll find that he'll swallow the all-important idea of cleanliness readily—if it's spooned out like sugar candy instead of castor oil. (ANS)

Cat On A Hot Copper Wire

Although the cat in this sketch is taking the rap because of this frayed extension cord, the man on the couch is suffering just as much in another way. He owns a lot of shiny electrical appliances and can't use them because the house wiring is obsolete. For example, the electric broiler he purchased for outdoor cooking keeps blowing fuses or tripping circuit breakers; his fancy garden lamp gives less light than a full moon; an electric lawn mower is on the shelf, there are no outdoor convenience outlets within reach.

A couple of guests have also been given the hot foot, particularly when they walked across wet grass and stepped on the frayed cord. These examples may be exaggerated, but inadequate wiring is causing considerable inconvenience to over 34,000,000 U.S. homeowners, says Kennecott Copper Corporation. Although a few garden lights don't draw much current, any additional load on an overtaxed system may result in a rash of popping fuses. If you're contemplating any electrical living outdoors, better call a qualified electrical contractor and get fixed up with some modern circuits and weatherproof outlets.

"State Farm promises efficient, fast claim service... and that's what I got!"

writes car owner
 W. L. Leemon of Decatur, Illinois

"My wife was injured and my car demolished in an auto-train collision miles from home. Next morning, my State Farm agent drove over, handled everything. By 2:30 P. M., my wife was resting comfortably and I was back at work with another car. "I have just two words to describe State Farm—THE BEST!"

More car owners insure with State Farm Mutual than with any other company. And for the same reasons Mr. Leemon does: fast, friendly service... rock-bottom cost.

Wouldn't you like the complete story of State Farm service and economy? Just give me a call.

Group Would Compile Events Calendar

The local VFW Auxiliary is endeavoring to set up a monthly date calendar for the use of all local organizations.

The purpose of the plan is to publish at the beginning of the month all the important dates of events planned for the month.

For example, during October these dates have been chosen by the Auxiliary: Oct. 11, a card party, and Oct. 28, Halloween dance. It is hoped the plan will eliminate conflict of scheduled dates for affairs between the organizations. The group would like to have your opinion and support. Call Mrs. Joan Keepers, Hillcrest 7-5032.

Block Party Was Highly Successful

Proceeds from the Block Party held recently by the local VFW are still filtering in but the officials of the affair estimate it will net in the neighborhood of $650. Lumen F. Norris, general chairman of the affair say he was quite pleased over the proceeds of the party. The block party was held to replenish the ambulance fund. Instead of having a door-to-door canvass it was decided to have this carnival-type affair to augment the fund.

The VFW and party committee wish to thank not only those who patronized the affair, but also those merchants who donated either their labor or materials or both, to ensure the success of the venture. Among those to whom the club is grateful are: C. G. Frailey, B. H. Boyle, Cloyd W. Seiss, George Ashbaugh, Russell B. Ohler, Harold Hoke, F. S. K. Matthews, William Payne and Lumen F. Norris. Also a word of gratitude to the priests of St. Joseph's Catholic Church for their kindness in permitting use of their spacious picnic area used for the affair.

For monetary gifts the club thanks the following: Charles G. Hoffman, H. M. Hoke, John D. White, David Kerrigan, Frank S. Topper, James N. Turner, Lawrence Myers, John W. Walter and George Wagaman.

No affair of this kind could ever be successful without a music group to liven it up and set the mood for amusement and entertainment. Such a group is our Municipal Band which deserves unlimited credit for sitting there hour after hour entertaining others with its musical interpretations. The club thanks Mr. Walter A. Simpson, conductor, and members of the band.

Chairmen Hoke and Norris extend grateful appreciation to all those who helped at the stands and to the corps of drum major-ettes, Legion Color Guard and State and local police who managed traffic during the parade.

VFW Auxiliary Appoints Card Party Committee

The regular monthly meeting of the VFW auxiliary was held last Thursday night with Helen Sanders, president, presiding. Past president, Helen Daugherty, read the duties of the officers to complete the official installation.

Helen Sanders reported that $123.30 was cleared at the refreshment stand at the VFW annual Block Party held Aug. 27 for the benefit of the ambulance fund.

The following committees were appointed for the card party to be held Oct. 11: prizes, Helen Daugherty, Carmen Topper, Elizabeth Bowers and Bertha Sanders; cards and tallies, Idella Fitez, Betty Goulden and Helen Sanders; refreshments, Marian Timmerman, Ethel Baumgardner, Rachael Emrich, Corrine Grindler and Mary Sanders; chances, Evelyn Ott, Loretta Adelsberger and Joan Keepers.

Helen Daugherty reported that the local auxiliary has been chosen to be the hostess for the district meeting on Nov. 9. This will be the official visit of the department president to the district. All members were urged to attend.

Loretta Adelsberger was appointed to contact the principals of the local high schools concerning the annual essay contest, sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the local VFW.

A committee, consisting of Joan Keepers, Carmen Topper, Gloria Martin and Anna Stoner, was appointed to make arrangements for a Halloween Dance which will be held Oct. 28.

The members who were selected to serve on the committee making arrangements for the 200th anniversary of the founding of Emmitsburg were Mary Hoke and Helen Sanders.

Anna Stoner, Joann Eyer and Yvonne Baker were appointed for men's refreshments for October. Loretta Adelsberger and Evelyn Ott will have women's refreshments at the next meeting.

Yvonne Baker's name was called for the draw prize but was absent.

that—just so it's a new one! While on this subject I do think that it is about time we gave the project another push. Perhaps the Town Council, Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, or veterans' clubs might be interested in showing along the project? If we can't make the grade now we'll never make it because the Government is spending money faster than it can collect it and I'm afraid we'll be shut out if we don't hustle.
