It is highly possible that within the next two years Emmitsburg will be bypassed by a new highway. That is if the schedule of the State Roads Commission is kept, as it has been in the past. Reports from the Commission this week indicate that the first two years of the 12-year schedule have been completed as planned. The whole program calls for the building or rebuilding of over 3,000 miles of roads in the state and from a previous announcement Emmitsburg's bypass is slated for completion in the first four-year bracket of the 12-year plan. Two years have passed so some activity should be forthcoming soon. The program is so designed as to benefit all 23 of the state's counties. Frederick County's program portion has been humming right along. Already in the first two years 11 projects have been completed and three are presently under construction. Eventually 93 miles will be completed to this county's primary highways and 108 miles of secondary roadway. This represents a total of 210 miles for Frederick County. Already over a million dollars has been spent in our county on roads involved in the plan.

There are several ways to look at the way this plan can affect our town. Some merchants are very opposed to the bypassing, and rightfully so. It is my guess that only those businesses which depend on transient trade will be the hardest hit, such as restaurants, and filling stations. Otherwise I don't see how it will harm any other type of business and they should continue to operate as usual. I sincerely doubt whether much, if any harm will come to these restaurants and motels and filling stations because when a motorist is hungry he will cut off the main highway and come into town to eat. If he has car trouble or needs gas he will pull off and look for a garage or filling station in town to remedy his trouble. If he's sleepy he will look up a motel, so how can these businesses be so hard hit? Personally I don't believe they will suffer any at all, in fact a new and improved highway might well induce more motorists to travel this way and might even increase business here. It is highly possible that commercial buildings or businesses will not be permitted to locate along the new highway, as is the case of many of the new roads being built. It is the policy of many states to prohibit the locating of businesses along super highways and it might well be the same here. So don't worry my friends, the new road might turn into a bonanza for you! I sincerely hope so.

Bear in mind folks that polio isn't licked yet! Far from it. The annual drive is now on and money is needed as much as ever before. Take this example, if you don't believe me. Just as soon as possible the new polio vaccine will be administered free of charge to all those children who want it. Your dimes go toward paying for this service. Why just this week we received free vaccine right here in Emmitsburg! Your money is coming right back to you! We can control the malady somewhat with the serum, but it is inadvisable to have all children inoculated sooner or later, as the supply of the precious vaccine wanes. Without your dimes or dollars, this program cannot expand, so give generously. Canisters have been placed in most local business places and it is planned to have a Mothers' March of Dimes this month. A benefit dance will be held at the end of the month and other benefit affairs are under consideration. It is your moral obligation to attend these affairs, thereby helping along this noble cause and receiving much-needed entertainment for yourself at the same time. The community needs your generous support and I just know you will respond in the usual whole-hearted manner.

According to present plans of the Administration it is planned to pay farmers for keeping sections of land idle the next couple of years, due to the huge surplus of commodities in Government warehouses.

Firemen Hear Chief's Annual Report

President Herbert W. Roger presided over the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held Tuesday night in the Fire Hall, 35 members in attendance. Possibly the most interesting of the business transacted was the annual report of Fire Chief John S. Hollinger and the report of the auditing committee.

Chief Hollinger gave a resume of the year's activities and reported that 36 fires had been extinguished during 1955, representing 12 less than the 48 fires back in 1954. Most of the calls for assistance were in the rural area, some 30 of them; six were handled in town. Of the total number of calls responded to 32 were in this state and four in Pennsylvania. The chief reported 31 day calls and five night. He indicated that in the State of Maryland property saved was estimated at $148,243.75, while the damages were held to $6,800.00; in Pennsylvania, property saved, or protected, was estimated at $13,178.75 and damages placed at $3,200.00.

Further statistics supplied by the chief disclosed that 664 man hours were consumed in fighting these fires, six pumping hours and many more hours were spent in schooling, practicing and caring for equipment. The total number of miles traveled during the year was 185 and the average number of men present at each fire call was 27 1/2. Chimney fires were the highest in number, 10, followed closely by nine house blazes, six field fires, four miscellaneous buildings, three automobiles, two electrical, one barn and one farm machine.

Two new members, Charles Keepers and William Kaas, were voted into the organization. J. William Rowe and Kermit Lowe were appointed as delegates to the Community Fund. It was decided to purchase six more sets of protective clothing apparel for the active members. This paraphernalia consists of coats, helmets and boots.

The smoke-eaters will institute a first aid class, under the instructorship of Eugene Kraemer, in February. Those interested in taking the course are asked to register at the Fire Hall as soon as possible. The president announced that 1956 dues are now payable. The annual financial statement of the Fire Company will be published in next week's issue of this paper.

The brother is also left a grandfather's clock to be handed down to his son. The nephew, Andrew Eyster, is left any stocks or bonds which the testatrix might own.

Sums of $100 each are left to Mountain View Cemetery at Emmitsburg and Elias Lutheran Church Cemetery, Emmitsburg, the income to be used for upkeep of certain lots.

Any real estate is left to the brother and nephew as joint tenants and the rest of the estate is also left to them in equal shares. They are named executors. The will is dated Dec. 21, 1941. It was witnessed by Roy A. Eyster and Effie E. Hoke.

The baseball club is a public institution and officers are elected by those attending the meeting, so anyone interested in the welfare of baseball here in Emmitsburg is invited to attend. Plans for the coming season will be discussed and a financial report of last year's operations will be given. Appointment of a manager for the team will be discussed. Congressman Hyde Introduces Bill

Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde (R., Md.), Monday introduced a bill to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 which will assist small businessmen by increasing the basic exemption by $5000 a year for the next five years or until the total exemption amounts to $50,000. Currently the exemption amounts to $25,000.

"The greatest difficulty the small businessman has today," Mr. Hyde said, "is accumulating capital for growth and expansion and for reserves for slack periods. I am sure this bill will be an incentive to those small businesses already in existence and especially to our young people who are just planning to enter business."

"My reason for a graduated increase in the exemption over a five-year period is to enable us to adjust our fiscal policy to absorb the impact that this deduction may have on government revenues," he said.

Thurmont Drops From Pen-Mar Baseball League

With the withdrawal of Thurmont from the Pen-Mar League. Taneytown, a former member of the league, was admitted last Sunday for the coming season at a reorganization meeting last Sunday held at the Emmitsburg VFW Home.

Other members of the circuit for next season will again include Cashtown, Fairfield, Blue Ridge Summit, New Oxford, Emmitsburg, New Windsor, and Union Bridge.

All officers of the league were re-elected as follows: President, Guy R. McGlaughlin, Emmitsburg; vice president, George K. Millen, Union Bridge, and secretary-treasurer, Frank Topper, Emmitsburg.

Another meeting has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Feb. 12, at the local VFW Home when all teams will be required to post forfeit money.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Pastoret and children, June, Richard, Donald and Mary, and Daniel J. Kaas, David S. and Eugene Muench.

Recent dinners guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell were Mr. and Mrs. C. Sheffield and daughters, Judy and Debbie, of Baltimore, Miss Margaret Walters and Mrs. David H. Guise.

Construction Of New Buildings At Saint Joseph College Is Begun

Relying on the anticipated success of Sesqui-centennial fund-raising efforts, the construction of two new buildings estimated at a cost of $750,000 was recently begun at St. Joseph College. Located at the southwest corner of the campus, a red brick residence hall and a recreation building have been designed to harmonize with the rest of the campus buildings. The latter building will be the gift of the alumnae.

Shortage of rooms due to an increased enrollment in the past two years has made a new residence hall an absolute necessity, according to Sister Hilda, Ed.W., college president. In 1954-55, 40 sophomores occupied the third floor of Burlando, a section of the Central House. This year, another wing in Burlando was opened and some rooms were made triple to accommodate 20 more sophomores. Registration for incoming freshmen closed early in June, 1956, because of lack of room.

As yet unnamed, the proposed $600,000 residence hall will be a three-floor building of three wings, housing approximately 150 students in 75 double rooms. Each room will feature built-in tack boards, bookcases, and combination dressers and desks; the only movable furniture will be beds and chairs.

Each room is planned so that a large picture window will be in the center of the outside wall.

Running water and closets with drawer space are also planned for the rooms. On each floor there are to be two shower and tub rooms. A laundry room equipped with appliances will serve each floor.

To the west of Seton Hall, and connected with the new dormitory by a covered walk will be the recreation hall. Combining the functions of the Pines and Sunnyside, present campus recreational rooms which it will replace, this $150,000 gift of the alumnae association is to be a one-floor, ranch type building. Present blueprints call for a powder room to the right of the entrance, and cloak room for men to the left.

The large recreation room, which will approximate one and a half times the size of the present gym, will be furnished to provide smaller units for entertainment of guests. When needed these furnished units will be moved to form a dance floor to accommodate 175 couples. To the right of this large area will be a room similar to the Pines with a seating capacity of 80 and a kitchenette. Almost the entire west end of the building facing the mountains will be of glass from floor to roof.

The residence hall is slated to be ready by September, 1956, and the recreation hall will be completed slightly later. Architects for the construction are Faulkner, Kingsbury and Stenhouse of Washington, D. C.

EHS CAGERS REMAIN UNDEFEATED

Emmitsburg High School basketball team triumphed over the Thurmont High cagers 48-47 in an exciting contest played Tuesday night on the home court. The winner was decided after an overtime period. The locals took an early lead and remained ahead until midway in the fourth quarter when Hoffman of the opponents started hitting the hoop. He scored 10 points during this brief spurt and ran his total number of points to 16. Clarence An-carrow was the big gun for the Blue and White scoring 19 tallies, however the man of the hour was Alfred Hahn, who scored the clinching field goal to put the locals in front, just five seconds before the final whistle.

The Junior Varsity was shel-lacked by the opposing team by a score of 33 to 17, however the local Juniors are rapidly showing improvement and each time manage to raise their total number of points.

Frailey, church treasurer, and society treasurer Eddythe Nunemaker, gave reports. The pastor gave a report of the Union Week of Prayer services and the proposed annual lenten services. The members regretted the absence of Secretary Mrs. Mary Bell due to illness and adopted a resolution authorizing the president to convey to her the society's sincere hope and best wishes for a complete and early recovery. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The January meeting will be held at the home of Miss Eddythe Nunemaker on January 27.

Free Polio Shots Given Here At Clinic

Emmitsburg parents will be given another opportunity to receive free Salk polio vaccine shots for the children, it was announced this week by the Frederick County Health Dept. Few local residents were aware of the opportunity available yesterday, when only a small number of local children between the ages of one and 16, received their first shots. It is hoped that by this public announcement of the availability of the serum that most parents will take advantage of the offer of the County Health Department.

Those interested in receiving the vaccine for their children are asked to make an appointment here with Mrs. Leonard J. Sanders, who has volunteered to assist in this public welfare project. Her phone number is Hillcrest 7-5851. The serum will be administered locally by Dr. Chas. R. Williams, free of charge in the Health Clinic Room of the American Legion home, N. Seton Ave. It is understood that all residents of the northern end of the county are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to receive the vaccine for their children.

The clinic will be open for use on Tuesday morning, Jan. 17, from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m.

It is necessary for those desiring the polio inoculation to report for vaccinations now, Dr. Burgess, county health director, pointed out, so the series of two shots can be given ahead of the polio season. A second shot is given four weeks after the first is administered. Then a waiting period of seven months must pass for the booster shot, the doctor pointed out.

The Health Dept. in Frederick will be open Monday and Friday mornings from 9:30 to 10:30 to serve those desiring the free serum. In order to have an approximate idea how many persons will attend the clinic, the Health Dept. requests an appointment be made, if possible.

Dr. Burgess stressed again the age limits have been raised and persons from one to 16 years of age are eligible for the shots. A previous priority had set the age limit at 10 years.

Mount Cagers Smother Western Maryland

Mt. St. Mary's basketball squad continued its winning ways Tuesday evening as it chalked up its third straight Mason-Dixon Conference victory in as many starts downing Western Maryland 100 to 50. The win boosted the Mounts' overall record to 7-4.

The only consolation the Terzor had was that they scored the opening field goal. Thereafter, Coach Jim Phelan's boys romped away with ease.

All of the 11 players for the Mount broke into the scoring which was evenly distributed. Bert Sheing was high man with 15 while Jack Sullivan netted 14. Frank Smith 13, and Bill Williams 12.

The Mountaineers were ahead at the half 56-20.

The win deadlocked the Mountaineers with Washington College, Loyola, America U., Johns Hopkins and Roanoke for the conference lead. All are unbeaten, Hopkins with one triumph, and the others with two.

American University will meet the Mounties at Emmitsburg Saturday evening in another league tilt while Steubenville, O., will play here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

College Receives $300 Grant

Washington College last week announced the receipt of a grant of $300 from the Association of College and Reference Libraries, which in turn was acting for the U. S. Steel Foundation. The Eastern Shore institution was one of only 80 colleges so designated in the U. S., although over 400 were considered.

President Daniel Z. Gibson said the money would be used to strengthen the College's library resources and services.

ENLISTS IN NAVY

Joseph Louis VanBrakle, 20, enlisted this week in the U. S. Navy at Frederick. He has been assigned to the boot training camp at Bainbridge, Md.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

DR. D. L. BEEGLE

For leadership, good fellowship, human relations and as a professional man with extraordinary qualifications as a chiropractor, we are happy to bestow the Chronicle Award of Merit this week to Dr. D. L. Beegle.

The good doctor was born July 7, 1908 at Bedford, Pa., the son of Jennie Grace Deihl and Walter Truman Beegle. "Doc," as his intimates refer to him, has one sister, Mrs. Grace Sellers. He married the former Treva Mae Bream of Gettysburg in 1930. The couple has two children, a daughter, Nancy Louise, now Mrs. Glenn Gillespie, and a son, John, now in Uncle Sam's service and a former student at the University of Maryland.

Graduating from Bedford High School Dr. Beegle entered the University of Duquesne in Pittsburgh and later the famed Palmer School of Chiropractic where he earned his degree with high honors. He excelled in the fundamentals of dissection as a part of his training and the relation of mental and physical coordination to the anatomical sciences of manipulation. He is expertly informed in his profession and keeps abreast of the field by his attendance at frequent research clinics and advanced techniques.

SOLDIER'S ADDRESS

In the future Pvt. Ray Toms, US52392482, will receive his mail at this address: Co. M, 34th Inf. Regt., APO 24, San Francisco, Calif. Friends may write him at the above address.

GETS NAVY DISCHARGE

BM/3 David S. Muench was honorably discharged from the U. S. Navy last Friday at Brooklyn, N. Y., after having served for four years with the service. He has returned here and is currently engaged in farming.

CORRECTION

In last week's Prominent Personalities it was erroneously stated that Mayor T. W. Rodgers' mother was deceased and that his father lived to be 92. Mr. Rodgers' mother, Mrs. Annie Kelly, is very happy to report, is very much alive and enjoys good health for a woman of her age. Mayor Rodgers' grandfather lived to be 92 and not his father, who died comparatively young. We regret the errors.

Mrs. Hazel Caldwell has resumed her teaching position at the Emmitsburg High School after being discharged from a Cedar Rapids, Mich., hospital where she had undergone surgery while on a visit to her sister during the Christmas holidays.

Al/c Donald E. Wivell has returned to his base in Illinois after spending a 15-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wivell.

LOOKING AHEAD

By Dr. George Benson

Education in American Citizenship

Great principles do not survive merely because they are right, or because they have been painstakingly legislated. Unless an understanding of the great principles of the American way of life, their rightness and their priceless advantages, is implanted in the minds and hearts of each new generation, our nation one day will falter and start down the road toward human slavery and ultimate destruction. This is the conclusion I reached almost 20 years ago when I returned to my native United States after 11 years abroad witnessing the alarming growth of the Socialist and Communist movements throughout Asia and Europe. For 17 of those 20 years the National Education Program has been producing educational materials and developing educational techniques designed to bring about a better understanding of our American system, its comparative advantages, how these advantages are created, and how each individual must assume certain obligations of citizenship—a program of positive education for our adult population as well as the school and college youth of America. The whole effort has been a non-profit public service enterprise.

New Film Series

There has just been completed in our National Program workshops a series of 13 educational motion pictures under the title, "The American Adventure." They are unique; there is nothing quite like them. The series was produced for use in schools and colleges, on television, in industrial training programs, in the armed services; and for discussion groups in various other areas. From start to finish the films teach, in a dramatic, fascinating way, the basic facts which every American, young and old, should know to uphold the urgent citizenship responsibilities of people living in freedom. For use with each film a teacher's or discussion leader's guide has been prepared.

The response of people who have seen these films is one of the most encouraging experiences I've had in many years of educational work. Previews have been held for governmental leaders in Washington, for educators, business and industry executives, for agricultural and industrial employ groups, and for educational specialists in the armed services. Almost with one voice the previewers have said, "Every American must see these films and absorb their great lessons!"

From The Beginning

"The American Adventure" series begins with a film dramatizing the founding of the American private ownership economic system at Plymouth Colony after a period of failure with a communal or collectivist system. The second lesson visualizes the creation of the two greatest governmental documents, the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution. No. 3 in the series spikes the fallacy, mouthed by Socialists and Communists, that "the American way of life" is an abstract term, and cannot be defined. This film shows the building of the structure of the American way of life, the foundations, and the political and economic rights.

Film No. 4 takes the viewer back into ancient history, tracing the rise and fall of the great civilizations of the past, and showing that certain factors were common in their failures—especially political, economic and moral decay. With Film No. 5 the series begins a presentation on the philosophy and practical workings of first, Socialism, then Communism and Capitalism. There is a film on each. The interrelationship of Communism and Socialism is spotlighted.

Facts Not Widely Known

America's distribution of wealth, which is subject of much false left wing propaganda, is studied in Film No. 8. A woman with considerable experience in the New York school system saw this film and exclaimed, "I've learned things that change some long-held notions of mine!" Film No. 9 dramatizes the true life story of a young couple who overcame circumstances and hardships to win success in a highly competitive business field. "The Secret of American Production" is set forth in No. 10. The widespread benefits of the profit system are graphically examined in Film No. 11.

The vitally important subject of economic security is carefully studied in Film No. 12. The relation of security to personal freedom prompts a lively discussion among the college-age students participating in this film. The final film of the series is devoted to the outlining and discussion of "The Responsibilities of American Citizenship." A challenging eight-point list of specifics is offered.

Illustrated brochures on the series have been prepared. These may be obtained by writing me. Next week: Details on "The American Adventure" series.

SIX WEEKS ABROAD . . . PLUS

(Conclusion: Part I)
 (The finishing of these notes on even such a short stay in such a small part of England as described last week has proved impossible to accomplish in the one final section then contemplated; I mean without omitting much that I should like to include; so, I am settling the difficulty by dividing that final section into two parts. Perhaps I should—the hope that this way of interpreting the expression "To Be Conquered" is satisfactory to both reader and publisher).

Having noted the historic significance of Chipping Campden's name and the charm of its location, I shall postpone more specific details concerning it in order to report first on the "Elsewhere" which I actually did begin making some acquaintance with the next morning, following the principle of going there while the going was good.

My first trip, by means of the small buses that passed thru Campden on their way to and from various terminals in North Gloucestershire and adjoining counties, was a little farther to the northwest, to the town of Evesham in the valley of the Avon, one of the ancient places in this part of the country, its beginnings in a Benedictine monastery founded in the 8th century. Nothing of that now remains but a few ruins, and no especially distinctive buildings of the old market town that grew up around it. But it has present importance as the center of a fine fruit-growing district, with the beauty of blooming orchards surrounding it in the spring. It was here that I found an attractive little modern tearoom, and that I did not find the charming flower-shop that I hoped was indicated by the huge sign "Flowers" over a doorway—to discover later that this was the name of a brewery that produced a fearful-sounding concoction, "Dragon's Blood." What a disillusionment!

Returning from Evesham to Chipping Campden I stopped off in Broadway, a characteristic Cotswold town with an exceptionally wide main street lined with the beautiful old dwellings and inns built entirely of the native yellowish-gray stone that is the required building material in Cotswolds and gives the whole district a distinctive atmosphere. A pleasant personal memory of Broadway is connected with a little cottage on a side street where I stopped to admire the unusually luxuriant flowers that surrounded it (the solidly built rows of houses on the main street have beautiful gardens hidden from the view of the passersby), was invited in by the owner, shown thru her charming rooms and served tea, also it was not the hour for that ritual to begin. "Any hour's a good time for tea," said Mrs. Joynes.

Next day's travelling took me southward to two larger towns. The farther one, Gloucester, is mainly famous for its cathedral, an immense, complex, beautiful structure beyond description except by specialists and with an unusually long and varied religious history that begins with the building of a small monastery on this site in the 7th century. This history too is beyond the range of these notes. So with a sense of very inadequate reporting I shall just pass on these two miscellaneous items that happened to impress me as I returned and left the building: (1) an inscription on the wall of the vestibule expressing the significance of these huge and ancient structures whose preservation and upkeep poses a serious financial problem: "A heritage of the past and an inspiration for the future"; (2) a tablet on one of the far walls to John Stafford Smith decorated with small American and British flags and containing this inscription: "He will long be remembered as composer of the tune of the National Anthem of the United States of America." Cheltenham, visited on the way back from Gloucester, is one of the few large Cotswold towns and different from the others — a fashionable inland health resort with mineral springs, fine-looking hotels, and a noted "Promenade."

Then came an unexpected variation in my town-and-village sight-seeing in the form of a number of drives in the private cars and company of two English acquaintances made at The King's Arms. It was in this pleasant way that I saw a number of the old and largely unchanged Cotswold villages of which much has been written but which must be seen to be appreciated as picturesque survivals of earlier days—no two alike, but all with their yellowish-gray stone houses of various sizes, some standing apart surrounded with trees and shrubbery and masses of flowers, some in solidly connected rows, with their stone-tiled roofs and high chimneys and frequent dormer windows, besides the distinctively different features, too numerous to mention. I wish the names of these villages could be accompanied by the lovely photographs of them in the little "Photochrom View-Book" I bought in Cheltenham, but that being impossible I must hope that the bare record of the names will help to give reality to this unusual bit of Old England: Wincombe, Upper and Lower Slaughter, Bourton-on-the-Water, Stanton, Stanway, Stow-on-Wold, Moreton-in-the-Marsh. Other names have escaped me, but I add the name of one that I did not see, being beyond the radius of our drives, yet which has long been familiar to me thru the charming tribute which it inspired an American poet to write who came upon it in the course of a walking tour. I can quote here only the closing stanza, which sums up the impression of Bibury's picturesque charm: Each man must have some memory

Shining as he grows old
 To light him through the stealing dark
 And keep his thoughts from cold.

I shall remember Bibury . . .
 (from "I Shall Remember"
 by Odell Shepard)

I was taken on Sunday to Tewkesbury, another old valley town, for morning service in the Abbey, truly described as "a noble edifice of cathedral-like proportions and grandeur," and in the afternoon there was a trip to two famous gardens, one of the formal type at Sudley Castle (on the edge of the village of Winchcombe), impressive mainly for its 15-foot-high yew hedges, and the other at Hidcote Manor, an indescribably beautiful combination of various types created by the devoted work of one man over a period of 40 years.

Between these varied motor trips, which included other interesting things I have no space to mention here, there was an unexpected bus trip to the most famous town in the Avon Valley, Stratford, just over the border of Warwickshire, to the north. This was a re-visit which I had not expected to make, remembering Stratford too, with somewhat disappointing associations, from my previous visit; but the possibility of seeing a Shakespearean play by an unusually fine company in the Memorial Theatre there was too exciting to resist. So I took the chance of getting a ticket, was luck in that that, had some interesting experiences before the play, found the play absorbing altho it was one of Shakespeare's poorer ones ("All's Well That Ends Well") but so splendidly produced and acted; and afterwards, from the terrace in front of the theater, I saw 25 white swans floating majestically across the Avon River—one of those sights to remember. A.E.H.

Towson College Observes 90th Anniversary

A convocation program Monday, Jan. 16, will begin a year-long celebration of the 90th anniversary of the founding of the Maryland State Teachers College at Towson, Dr. Earle T. Hawkins, president, has announced.

Principal speaker at the 11 a. m. program will be Dr. Francis Keppel, dean of the School of Education at Harvard University. His topic will be "The Next Decade in Teacher Education."

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin will give greetings for the State of Maryland, and Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., state superintendent, will give greetings for the State Department of Education.

The program will occur on almost the exact date that the school was founded. As the Maryland State Normal School, the college opened its doors on Jan. 15, 1886, in a building known as Red Men's Hall at 24 N. Paca St., Baltimore. A model school, used primarily as a training center for the prospective teachers, was located in a rented house on Broadway, more activities. He and his wife are planning a trip to Bermuda probably in the spring. Mr. Smith also plans to spend a lot of his time working in his garden.

John W. Morgan, Frederick's Operating Manager, has been named to succeed Mr. Smith as District Manager.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., Jan. 12—Young people who entered college last fall will have a tendency to major in what looks good now. This may be a mistake. I suggest, instead, that they look ahead four years to 1960, and plan accordingly.

The difference between a college graduate who gets promoted on a job, and one who just gets a job, is that the successful climber looks ahead. The student who takes what appears to be a good job NOW may be sorry later. The careful-career planner, on the other hand, finds out where he is going. The first step in career planning is an appraisal of one's interests, abilities, personality, and value goals. There is little success or happiness if one does not like the job he is doing. A fellow is just butting his head against the wall if he tries to compete in a job for which he has neither the aptitude nor the personality.

The desire to make money, serve mankind, or lose oneself in research will usually determine success or failure. The successful person is one who develops his assets and does work for which he is fitted, at a job which gives him happiness. Yet, while these steps are essential, they do not go far enough. Seldom, I find, do job hunters include in their search the probable future growth of industries.

A Look At Our Economy In 1960

By 1960, our population will approach 180 million. Approximately 68 million will be employed. Our gross national product will also have climbed from a 1946 postwar figure of $209 billion to perhaps $480 billion. With a shorter work week and a more productive work day, our people should receive in wages, interest, and profits about $365 billion per year by 1960.

I predict consumer spending will expand from our 1946 annual amount of $15 billion to about $300 billion, while government expenditures will stabilize around the $75 billion mark. This $300 billion opens great opportunities for those engaged in advertising and selling new products. These figures, of course, assume that the cold war will not become "hot"; and they assume also a favorable political climate within which business can operate easily.

Growth Opportunities In 1960

Since labor costs, both on the farm and in industry, are rising, industries that manufacture labor-saving devices such as materials-handling equipment, conveyors, farm machinery, construction machinery, and office machines will show good growth in the years to come. We need a lot of new roads, new hospitals, and new schools; construction must boom. Almost revolutionary developments of new materials will insure the growth of light metals and high-speed alloys. The chemical industry could grow four or five times faster than any other industry, spurred by continuous research in synthetic fibers, plastics, petrochemicals, drugs, and farm chemicals.

There will be a tremendous increase in the use of electricity, with output increasing 60 to 70 per cent by 1960. There will be marked growth in the great unsaturated market for electronics applications, and for appliances such as air-conditioners, television, dishwashers, electric heaters, electric blankets, clothes dryers, etc. Engineers will be turning loose on us an almost unbelievable array of new products, new materials, perhaps as yet undreamed of gadgets. Sales Experts Will Be In Demand

It will be the responsibility of the men and women engaged in sales and merchandising to persuade you and me to raise our standards of living. There will be excellent job opportunities for those interested in surveying, researching, analyzing, and motivating human wants. And someone will have to finance all this expansion. There will also be an insatiable demand for doctors, nurses, school teachers, and preachers. College freshman should plan now for 1960!

In conclusion, let me again refer to my first paragraphs above. Seek the job in which you will be happiest and for which you are best fitted. Don't be misled by salary offers. But—if you will be hap-

ALONG THE PTOTMAC
By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—The farm problem was officially made a political football with the opening of the present session of Congress. There is no quick and easy solution to any of the problems that affect our Nation's economic welfare. This is particularly true of agriculture. I think that too often we fail to take into account the fact that farming is in not only the throes of transition to peacetime conditions but is also undergoing vast changes directly resulting from mechanization.

I have made it a point to study the various proposals which have been advanced in Congress to aid in the transition of agriculture to new and different needs. I have taken every opportunity to discuss these problems with those of our people in the 6th Maryland District who engage in agricultural pursuits. From these talks and experiences I have come to some definite views.

I believe that a sane farm program must first of all regenerate in us that love of the soil and deep respect for nature that helped make America great. We cannot divorce the land from any program for agriculture and have the program succeed. Land utilization, water use and conservation, the care of the soil itself should all be part of a sound farm program.

A wise handling of the farm question should, I think, include technical aid for the low-income family farm. It should also provide assistance to the small family-owned farm in meeting competition with large and highly mechanized units. The small farmer's problem is little different from that of the small businessman.

Any Federal program designed to bridge the gap from overproduction to production-for-use would include flexible farm price supports; disposal of surplus foodstuffs; expansion of export markets. We need research to help us gear our farm production to modern needs. We need to know how to lower costs of production, new uses for old crops and even the development of new crop types. These are Federal activities that would in no way jeopardize the independence of the individual. A program based on these basic principles would, I believe, go a long way toward making agriculture and the nation stronger in the generations to come.

An integral part of the gainful use of the land is the soil conservation program. The Potomac Valley Conservation and Recreation Council is sponsoring a program on "The Future of the Potomac Basin" at the Commerce Dept. auditorium on Jan. 18. I plan to speak on a "Soil Conservation Plan for the Basin."

Semester examinations will get under way January 17 and terminate Jan. 19. Any student who has maintained an average of 88% or over in a subject will be exempt from taking the semester exam in that subject. Following exams the students will enjoy a holiday and a "post-exam" dance in the evening sponsored by the Seniors for the benefit of the yearbook. Members of the Alumni Assn., and especially those, who have in the past, been members of the yearbook staff are cordially invited to attend this dance.

A Children of Mary meeting was held Tuesday with President Virginia Topper presiding. Members of the organization were thanked for the generous contributions at Christmas time in giving clothing, food and toys to a poor and needy family. Senior pictures were taken Tuesday for the yearbook.

The latest Home Economics II project has been completed by the boys of that class—dropleaf tables—these additions already have been put to use by the Freshman Art Class. ABIGAIL

Well now, this would make sense if they lowered the cost of these commodities so that you and I could afford some of them. One especially that I get riled about is the butter bungle. We have paid dearly for it in income taxes and yet we can't afford to place it on the table. It's all locked in the warehouses and if you can afford it you must pay through the nose by higher prices, even though you already have paid for it previously by taxes. Well, they say, we are over-produced and must cut back on food production, so we must pay the farmer something to keep him alive, even though he can't produce because of Government regulations. Okay, I'll buy that story, but what has me puzzled is the plan to spend hundreds of millions in the next few years to build dams and irrigate thousands of acres in the West—so we can raise more food! I give up.
