Monday is election day and I want to urge every single eligible voter to cast his or her ballot, regardless of whether you feel it is worthwhile. Many important issues come up every year in our town, state and nation and it is to our advantage to select men capable of performing these legislative duties and to render prudent and just decisions for our benefit.

Monday will see the voters, locally, engaged in casting two votes. As you probably are well aware, we have two elections scheduled for this particular day. A state primary and a town election. Interest in our local election has been generated and a fight for a town Commissionership is in prospect as two candidates have filed. We don't ordinarily take sides in local elections and we aren't about to do so now. All I am trying to do is urge all of you who are registered, and there are 450 of you, to make an effort to vote. As for the Burgess, there is no opposition so it is a foregone conclusion that the lone candidate in the field, Clarence Frailey, will be elected.

The incumbent Mayor has been in service for two decades now and has finally tossed in the towel.

During his tenure of office Mayor Rodgers has seen a splendid transition come to our town. You can start as far back as the WPA days when the first of local improvements to the town commenced. Since that time numerous improvements beneficial to the town have been accomplished. The sewer system was installed, the street park improved, street signs erected, all alleys paved, new street lights installed, a police department established, parking meters installed, decorating of the town at Christmas time, financially supporting the local band and fire company, removal of the blinker with the replacement of a modern stoplight, annual town cleanup, providing a laboring crew for town work, maintaining town parking lot, and finally, plans for a town office building.

While the mayor might not be solely responsible for the carrying out of all these projects, he played a major role in their accomplishments. I want to personally thank this faithful public servant for a job well-done. I know I have failed to enumerate many other accomplishments, but I believe I have covered the major ones. Many thanks Mayor Rodgers for your faithful service and intelligent leadership.

Along with the town election Monday, will be the state primary when we will elect a Congressman and a United States Senator. Be sure and vote!

Three File For Town Offices; Election Monday

Emmitsburgians will go to the polls Monday to elect a Burgess and a Commissioner to fill expiring terms of two incumbent town officials in the annual election of the Corporation of Emmitsburg.

Incumbent Burgess Thornton W. Rodgers, a veteran of two decades of public service on the Town Board, did not file for reelection this year. There was only one candidate who filed before the deadline last Friday night. He was Clarence G. Frailey, local retired businessman, who declared his intentions of running for Burgess.

A contest has developed for the office of Commissioner. Incumbent Wales Rightnour will seek re-election to his position on the Board and he will be opposed by Charles D. Gillelan, local trial magistrate. Only these three names will appear on the official ballot, however, write-in votes are legal in the local election.

Balloting will take place from 2 to 7 p. m. in the town office in the Fire Hall. Judges of election will be William Rodgers and Dr. J. W. Houser.

Present registration figures reveal that about 450 locals are eligible to vote. It is anticipated that about one half of the total eligible registered will cast a vote Monday.

Primary day voting will take place in the Fire Hall for Precinct One and Precinct Two will ballot at the trial magistrates office.

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Dear Sir:

This letter is addressed to the registered Democrats of the Emmitsburg District who will go to the polls Monday, May 7, to select their candidate for United States Senator from Maryland.

To the open-minded voters whose sole concern is that his party offer the best available man it is obvious there is no comparison between the two leading candidates — Tydings and Mahoney.

The choice before the Democrats next Monday is between a man whose legislative experience and proven integrity and outstanding ability to understand and intelligently discharge the grave responsibilities incumbent upon the high office of United States Senator is unusually eminent and a man whose proven or evident ability is practically nothing. The Baltimore Sun paper has said editorially: "The truth is that the choice of Mahoney would be a blunder, exposing our Democratic party to the loss of its present hope for a come-back."

It is evident that the professional and factional politicians are supporting Mahoney, for the most part. I have faith in the good sense and intelligence of the average good citizen and independent voter and believe they will understand the importance of this issue and vote for former U. S. Senator Millard E. Tydings next Monday.

The open-minded and free voters of our own home community here in and around Emmitsburg have a task to perform. We have an opportunity to show our good intention and better judgment in going to the polls Monday and vote for Millard E. Tydings.

Sincerely, One of those Average Citizens

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:

Dear Sir:

May I extend my sympathy to the family of our late Senator Barkley? You see, to me he was a good man, loyal to his party, a very outspoken man. He was loved by all who had the pleasure of knowing him.

To me, I am privileged to have a small letter and his beloved autograph which I'll cherish during the years.

Sincerely, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowers

Community Fund Gets Donations

President Guy A. Baker, Jr., presiding at the regular monthly meeting of the Emmitsburg Community Fund held Monday evening in the VFW Home.

A $50 emergency expenditure for an indigent woman's hospital bill was authorized after officers previously had pledged this sum. A case involving an artificial limb for a local individual was discussed, and it is believed that state assistance on the matter can be obtained, along with the aid of the local Fund.

Treasurer Cloyd W. Seiss reported a bank balance of $243.87, and contributions from these individuals and organizations: John W. Walter, Dr. O. H. Stinson, American Legion, Chamber of Commerce, American Legion Auxiliary, VFW Auxiliary, H. O. Toot Shoe Co., and the Corporation of Emmitsburg.

Inasmuch as the treasury is dwindling, a discussion was held on a method of increasing revenue for the Fund. A money-raising event is planned at a future date. A thank-you note was received from Mr. and Mrs. Earle

The 42-year-old Zora father of three children, had been charged with the murder of Lee Mainer, 31, whom he shot with a shotgun at the Tract Inn near Emmitsburg on the morning of March 24.

Mainer died the following day in the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg. Gingell, who had been a prisoner at the Adams County jail, Gettysburg, since the day Mainer died, was immediately released and returned home with his family. The verdict indicated the jury accepted Gingell's plea of "self defense." Judge W. C. Sheely told the jury he knew they had given the case "conscientious consideration."

Word came at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday evening that the jury had reached a verdict which was subsequently handed by Mrs. Dorothy Clark, Gettysburg, Route 4, the foreman, to the Clerk of the Court Kenneth W. Johns who showed it to the court and then read it aloud to the jury.

Judge Sheely questioned District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter if there were any other charges against Gingell and he replied in the negative and the judge then directed that the defendant be discharged.

Conviction for second degree murder would have carried a possible sentence of up to 20 years, a $10,000 fine, or both. Conviction for voluntary manslaughter carried a possible sentence of up to 12 years or a fine of $6,000 or both.

Just before noon Tuesday the jury had heard an 80-minute defense plea. In the afternoon District Attorney Teeter used 25 minutes in his final arguments and then the court charge covered an hour and 10 minutes. Mr. Teeter asked a conviction "on the facts of the case." He said: "It is not my duty to give an impassioned plea as you have heard from the defense counsel. It is my duty to give attention to the facts."

He made reference to contradictions between witnesses but pointed to "unchangeable physical facts" in the case and mentioned particularly some of the photos shown the jury. Teeter described as the "most logical piece of evidence" in the case a photo of Mainer's car, showing shot marks on the hood, windshield corner post frame and the left door. "That picture accounts for the V-shaped pattern of the wound on Mainer and it places him behind the door when the shot was fired and I ask you to consider that fact in connection with the plea of self-defense."

Teeter closed by asking a conviction for a degree of murder "consistent with the facts." He described the case as "pathetic and important" and said "if Gingell is acquitted it is better that it be a hard-fought case. If he's innocent, I for one, want you to acquit him. The question is whether it was necessary for him to take a life."

He raised a question as to whether Mainer was as "black" as he was painted in the trial and pointed out that most who described him were "Gingell's friends or folk at the Tract Inn." He suggested that if all the facts were known whether Mainer might have had some justification for his feeling toward Gingell.

"Life cannot be taken except in the most extreme circumstances and I am sure the jury will not subscribe to the propriety of saying that a man like Mainer should be killed," he continued. He suggested that other methods of escape and of avoiding Mainer were open to Gingell and he did not use them.

Teeter told the jury there were five possible verdicts: First degree murder with the death penalty; first degree with life imprisonment; second degree murder; voluntary manslaughter and not guilty and described briefly the crime covered by each degree. He gave most attention to describing the crime of voluntary manslaughter and that was interpreted by some as indicating the level at which he was seeking conviction.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 3—So much appears in the newspapers today about stock split-ups, I believe readers will be interested to know why they occur.

Large Stockholders Will Die

Most of the split-ups are due to the fact that some very large stockholder has died and his stock must be sold to help the executors pay the estate taxes, which may approximate fifty per cent. As investors are much more willing to buy stocks at a low price, the brokers strongly advise split-ups in such cases to help the marketing of the stock. There is nothing unethical about this. No stockholder should be harmed or helped by such action. If it's a "two-for-one" split-up, and if you have 10 shares of stock, you are sent, without cost, 10 shares more. The capitalization is doubled, but the assets are the same. Hence, theoretically the value of your shares after the split-up should be only one-half what it was before.

However, owing to the gullibility of investors and to their desire for low-priced stocks, the sum total of the "split-up" stock for a while is usually worth more than before there was any talk of a split. In addition, new investors in a split-up stock may be misled by the price of the shares. For instance, just before General Electric was split, it sold at about 125. It is now quoted at a price of around 60, which looks lower to most people. However, because the stock was split 3-for-one, this really represents a price of 180. The new lower price misleads investors who did not know of the split-up.

What Prominent Stocks Have Done Since 1929

Without taking any position as to whether you should now buy stocks—or put your money into Government Bonds and await much lower stock prices—I submit the following interesting table, using stocks which have not been split since 1929, so as not to mislead you.

Company	High 1929	Low 1932	Price Pres.
Am. Rad.	55%	3%	22
Am Sug Ref.	94%	13	100
Anaconda	174%	3	76
Curt-Wright	30%	7	33
El. Stor. Bat	104%	12%	37
N Y Cent.	256%	8%	43
RCA	114%	15%	49
S. Cal. Ed.	93%	15%	49

Security For Government Bonds

Many prominent bankers and businessmen believe that the Government debt should be cut down. They may be right; but I see no vital reason for this. The U. S. Government is a corporation with definite assets, including about one-fourth of all the real estate in the United States! I understand that an inventory of these Federal holdings can be secured from Senator Hayden of Arizona. This report shows that the Government has over 400,000,000 acres of land, about 400,000 buildings which cost over $14,000,000,000, very valuable mineral rights, undeveloped water powers and many other assets.

Furthermore, there are various ways of figuring the Government debt. Also, in addition to its power to tax and the right to print money, which no other corporation has, the Federal Government keeps books in a very conservative manner. For instance, if a new Post-office is built in your community, it is not listed in the Capital Account, as every private corporation would do, but is charged to operating expenses. "The Fly In The Ointment"

Although there is no lack of security for Government Bonds and no fear of present outstanding U. S. Government Bonds defaulting on their coupons, such bonds could suffer from inflation. I refer to the fact that the interest payment on Government Bonds is fixed. Hence, if the value of the dollar declines, the price of long-term Government Bonds might decline correspondingly. This danger can largely be offset, however, by buying short-term Government Bonds.

Inflation is a danger which all investors should carefully watch and fight. This is especially true in a democracy like ours, where Congressmen and Senators vote for inflationary measures just to get re-elected. Such politicians are selling our country "down the river," or, as the Bible says, "for a mess of pottage." I know nothing about the possibilities of World War III; but if it comes, I forecast that our dollar will go to 30 cents. In that case, most Government Bond holders, yes—investors, employers, wage-workers and housewives, too—will suffer.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By Cong. DeWitt S. Hyde

Washington, May 2.—The spirit of compromise is essential to any worthwhile legislative program. An example is the House-passed highway construction measure. At no time has there been any serious question of the need, but there has been controversy over the method.

The highway construction bill is a step in the right direction. Its most controversial features—the "prevailing wage" requirement, the allowance for costs of moving public utility equipment, the truck weight problem—have been resolved in generally satisfactory manner.

The volunteer fire department is among the most important of our public service groups. We in the 6th Maryland District are particularly aware of the valuable aid rendered by local fire-fighting organizations. These groups depend on the communities they serve for voluntary contributions and donations to buy necessary equipment. The law providing for the disposal of federal surplus property does not permit donation of this equipment to volunteer fire-fighting groups, as it does to educational and public health institutions.

I have introduced a bill making volunteer fire departments eligible for surplus equipment. The bill would eliminate the necessity for the volunteer fire-fighters to bid for items they need in their fire-fighting and prevention activities.

The House judiciary committee has favorably reported a bill which incorporates President Eisenhower's recommendations on new civil rights legislation.

I am continuing my efforts in behalf of legislation providing assistance to depressed communities. In testimony before the House Banking and Currency Committee last week I stressed the necessity of technical and financial aid coupled with community self-help programs.

April Rainfall Is Above Normal

The current year is running about an inch above normal in precipitation at this time but it could fall back to normal or even below should May turn dry from now on.

Total precipitation to date has been 11.70 inches, while the approximate normal for the same period is 10.52. However, the normal for the first four months would be 12.27.

The precipitation for the first three months was an even 10 inches—normal being 8.77—and the rainfall for April was 1.70 inches, about normal for this month.

CHILDREN AND TEEN-AGERS ALWAYS CLAMOR FOR ICE CREAM SODAS

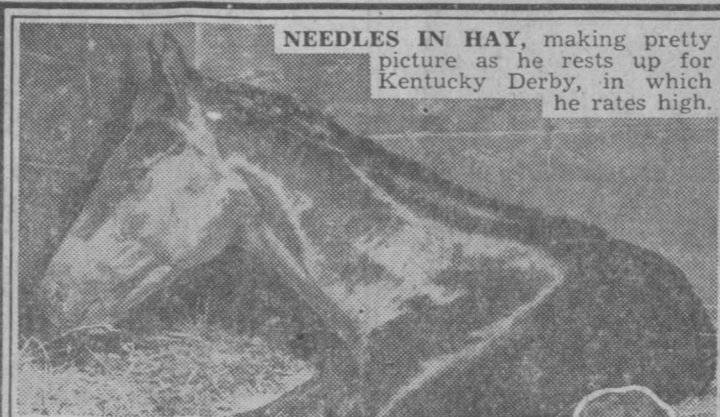

REMEMBER THE OLD SODA FOUNTAINS and the time when a visit to your favorite drug store represented the high spot in your day? Well, customs have changed and many of the most popular soda fountains have been transferred to home territory. "The Gang" enjoy doing things for themselves and it is only necessary to keep a few basic supplies on hand. Ice cream is so reasonable when bought in bulk that making it at home seems an unnecessary chore, so today we will give a new way to make sodas.

The ingredient that makes the sodas so easy-to-make and gives that extra richness is Pream the instant powdered cream. This instant cream is so useful too, for all types of picnics and summer outings. Just follow the simple instructions given below for delicious summer sodas:

PREAM ICE CREAM SODA

For each serving put 2 teaspoons Pream in tall glass. Add 1 tablespoon warm water and stir to dissolve Pream. Fill glass with flavored sparkling beverage (cola, ginger ale, raspberry, strawberry, cream soda) and mix well. Add a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Serve with straws. (ANS)

And now abideth faith, hope, charity; but the greatest of these is charity. — (I Corinthians 13:13.)

It well may be that charity is the greatest because it alone of the three is outside of ourselves—outgoing, outgiving, of ourselves to others, flowing out from us to our fellowmen, in love and understanding, in sympathy and tolerance, in kindness and helpfulness, unselfishly.

Kids and Dogs—They're Still Tops

"FIRST PUP" by Clarence Burke of Cleveland, Ohio. Made with a 4x5 Speed Graphic and three photofloods, 1/25 sec., f/8. Photo won seventh prize in the American Scene Class of the 1954 Graflex Photo Contest.

WHY do youngsters and puppies continue to walk away with large numbers of photo prizes? One reason may be that grownups re-discover life along with them through these charming scenes.

To carry conviction, a photo of a child or dog should express youthful emotions, according to T. T. Holden, photo director of Graflex, Inc., Rochester, N. Y. Such emotions may be tenderness, as shown here, joy, wonderment or sadness. Seen on the innocent faces of a youngster or dog, these feelings are invariably fascinating.

The simplest of lighting setups are needed to illuminate such pictures. This photo is a typical example—using the classic three-way arrangement. One flood was placed on either side of the subject while one was placed just off the camera.

One of the photo tricks used here to enhance the drama of the picture is the all-black background. Using a slow exposure, Burke must have shot the picture out of doors on a dark night—otherwise he would have picked up background objects of some kind. Using flash bulbs instead of flood lamps, however, is a good way to overcome existing light when a black background is wanted.

The new fast films that have been introduced pose special problems. They are wonderful when a picture is needed under poor light conditions. However, it is almost impossible to overcome existing light when jet black backgrounds are wanted. Hence for the effect, slower films should be used.

ANALYTICAL REVIEWS BY COLONEL GALEN GOUGH

THE RIGHT LANE

Yes, when you take the right lane to Lane's Studios, you will find the best there in photographic service. There is no one so capably qualified as Mr. Lane in photographic work. He is not an ordinary photographer, as he is about the most outstanding professional in the business. No photographer has had more experience or has associated with so many great and famous men of our nation.

His studio is located on York Street in Gettysburg and it is truly a most interesting place to visit, and the photographs on the walls reveal the most artistic display, or exhibition of photographs anyone has ever seen.

Mr. Lane was in World War II. He served LIFE magazine as their photographer and has earned many awards. Pages upon pages of his work adorned the front cover of LIFE magazine. He covered such personalities as Archbishop Keough of Baltimore, Admiral Nimitz, Admiral Halsey, Jr. during World War II. He was aboard many ships when under shell fire and participated in action shots being dangerous to his life. Mr. Lane did stories on the Seabees, Naval Aviation News and was aboard aircraft carriers. He was aboard the ships which hit New Zealand also, with important highlights of national interest. He served with Gene Markey, the famous motion picture director, during his campaign in the South Pacific.

Actually there are so many feature stories that he did which were told with pictures that they would include volumes to explain or reveal. His experience from Australia to the North Pole would make any admiral feel like a penguin.

Mr. Lane's objective is to provide the most elaborate photographs obtainable without excessive costs. He specializes in group, children, and baby pictures and especially enjoys doing the natural studies which make people look so lifelike on photographic work.

In Gettysburg it is LANE'S STUDIO . . . there is no other that would compare with it for service, quality and dependability. Visit Lane's Studio now!

FLOWERS AT WAYSIDE

When anyone drops in at WAYSIDE FLOWER SHOP they are surrounded by the most beautiful flowers in the world! And, too, an assortment and variety of many plants, gifts, and objects of art. Their unexcelled knowledge of flowers has been their greatest asset.

Forrest E. Craver established the Wayside Flower Shop in 1938. It has been an institution devoted to the needs of everyone where flowers are concerned. The Gettysburg Hospital next door makes it easily accessible for anyone wanting flowers for their relatives. Mr. Forrest is a graduate of Penn State University where he majored in horticulture. He is a specialist in flowers and their growth, and too, in their display, knowing what it takes to make a beautiful bouquet or a potted flower for the occasion.

Since the Craver family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Craver and their two lovely children, are all lovers of beauty, the WAYSIDE FLOWER SHOP provides more than a mere job of selling flowers. They take a personal interest in the way their flowers leave the shop. Each bouquet is one with nicely packed rich soil and water which keeps the flowers fresh for a long period. The flowers are grown in their large green house, and freshness of the aroma fills the desires of the most discriminating. When Wayside Flowers are purchased, you have the very best.

Mr. Forrest is a member of the Florist' Telegraph and Delivery Service and can guarantee that flowers will be sent to everyone exactly as represented. He has served the President, "Ike and Mamie," and has enjoyed catering to the finest people in the land.

Mr. Forrest Craver is dependable and a most courteous man. His good neighbor policies are unexcelled. He can serve the colleges, schools and bridal events with the utmost efficiency. With a flair for flowers, cut plants, potted plants, geraniums and most every flower known, it is the WAYSIDE FLOWER SHOP in Gettysburg.

THE FRIENDLY TAVERN

Friendliness prevails at the Friendly Tavern in Fairfield. When met by that affable host, Maynard Stuckey, one feels that a friend of long standing extends his warm hand of friendship. Whether it is a customer or a business acquaintance, Mr. Stuckey always extends his cordial smile and gesture of true friendship. "Everyone is a friend until you give him cause not to be" says "Stuckey," as he is known to his intimates.

The Friendly Tavern is an excellent place for club activities with the old timers who frequent his place for a warm drink or a bite to eat. Mixed or straight Stuckey is a connoisseur of drinks. He also knows good foods and provides the very best. Young people enjoy the various games, especially the fascinating pool machine game installed. Others intrigue you as the crowd gathers for a friendly get together. The hotel rooms are conveniently located in the same building and modern facilities are available in the recently remodeled building. Stuckey is a devoted family man and loves young people also. His pet hobby, however, is in catering to the old timers who want to enjoy a nice quiet place for relaxation and enjoyment. He says that nothing would please him more than to establish a home for the aged and a place for all to enjoy living at the Fairfield Hotel. Old, young or middle-aged are welcome, but an old person receives his assistance.

It is Stuckey's for enjoying life and where you can get the most out of it for the least money spent. It is a place for the modern budget and the lowest of income bracket people. Yet, they receive the best in service and products. An example is in the clean, wholesome foods and the draft beer which is drawn from sterilized vats and barrel pressure which assures purity and wholesomeness. The FRIENDLY TAVERN offers the best service in Fairfield.

QUALITY IN PAINTS

Quality tells the story in paints and wallpaper at DAVE'S PAINT STORE in Gettysburg. "Courteous service is one thing," says Dave, "but to me it is the quality of the service and the product that counts.

As an example the Imperial wallpaper starts at 30c a roll. The modern designs and colors are terrific. A home beautified by this paper has an artistic touch.

Dutch Boy paints are always available in every shade and color and type. Washable wall paint is always ready and applicable from the bucket. The best products only can be obtained and no inferior products will be demonstrated or sold.

Dave provides the finest specialists in bids for homes and the lowest possible cost is made to all. No excess supplies are advised and there is no waste when your jobs are handled by DAVE'S PAINT STORE. The quality of their best name brushes is unexcelled. Interior and exterior paints are always available and competent craftsmen are always willing to advise regarding their application.

DAVID RUTTES, the owner and manager, feels he can be of much personal service and always shows an interest in his customers' needs. He believes in fair dealing practices and is highly recommended for his good neighbor policies. It is DAVE'S PAINT STORE for values in wallpaper and paints in Gettysburg.

NEWMAN'S FOR VALUES

Where quality counts and good values stand the test of time, it's NEWMAN'S MARKET for values. Each day Newman's Market repeats a flow of satisfied customers. Many have continued through the years without a complaint or cause for dissatisfaction. Need we say more? But we would like to point out the nice things we can say about Newman's Market and their friendly service. You are treated as if you own the store, for the policy of Newman's Market is that the customer must be pleased regardless of circumstances. Satisfaction is the keynote of the success of Newman's. The many satisfied customers are their best advertisers. Mr. E. H. Newman and his sons, Tom, Bob and Bill, are reliable merchants and dependable.

The most interesting thing about Newman's Market is their fresh supply of green groceries which seem to always glisten with water-like freshness . . . then, too, their supply of fresh meats are unexcelled, as are the smoked meats which they prepare themselves in specially-built buildings on the premises.

Women are especially shown the utmost in service as Newman's personnel realizes the needs of the fair lady of the house. A woman's work is never done, it seems, and many little items are shown and new additions, articles of a scarcity nature, and also of exceptional interest, are always shown. Information is gladly given all and nothing is left undone to make the customers happy.

The most wonderful thing about Newman's is that they offer fresh meats, fresh and dressed poultry, dairy products, frozen foods and bakery products.

Canned goods are always sold at the standard price and no mark ups are made because of being scarce. The many household goods are often sold at the lowest, if not at wholesale prices, so that the home can have all the necessities needed toward making it modern, comfortable, and convenient. It's NEMWAN'S MARKET in Fairfield.

SHELLS OUT GOOD SERVICE

"The best in everything" where automobile service is concerned, that's the policy of V. C. Meyers, Thurmont's leading service station who offers Shell service plus being reliable, courteous and conscientious. And the writer knows, because he had several occasions to do business with Mr. Meyers' and it always come out the same way—Satisfaction.

Guaranteed products are one thing, but guaranteed service with the product obtained provides an unusually satisfied customer. See

V. C. MEYER'S SHELL SERVICE on Route 15, north end leaving Thurmont toward, or on leaving Emmitsburg just before you enter Thurmont proper on the right side. Did I say the "right side?" Esso Standard Oil To Release Revolutionary Gasoline In Near Future

Savings of millions of dollars for the American motorist are possible through a three-grade system of marketing gasoline, Stanley C. Hope, Esso Standard Oil Co. president, declared this week. Esso Standard, he said, will introduce such a system.

Beginning June 20, he disclosed the company will market three brands of gasoline—regular, premium and a new still higher quality motor fuel for automobiles with high-compression engines.

According to Mr. Hope, the new power fuel should be available to 75% of the company's customers by mid-August.

In announcing the highed quality motor fuel, the company moved about four years ahead of schedule. The new gasoline contains power-producing elements of an advanced motor fuel that was originally scheduled for production by Esso in 1960.

"Motorists are demanding cars with better performance," Mr. Hope explained, "and to deliver performance most efficiently, automobile manufacturers have increased compression ratios. These higher ratios demand a higher grade of fuel. Our new gasoline is designed to meet that need."

Traditionally, the petroleum industry has marketed two grades of gasoline—regular and premium.

Recently, however, an acute problem arose from the increasingly greater percentage of new cars which are not satisfied by existing premium gasolines, Mr. Hope said.

"We decided," he said, "that merely increasing the octane rating of the current premium grade would be uneconomical to the millions of motorists whose automobiles cannot take full advantage of a higher grade of fuel."

However, by providing three different gasolines, Esso Standard will give the motorist a chance to choose the quality best suited for his car.

"Obviously," Mr. Hope explained, "if only two grades—regular and a new higher quality premium fuel—were marketed, many motorists would be caught in the middle. The 'quality spread' between the two motor fuels would be far too wide."

Both the motorist and the oil industry save, he continued, when the proper fuel is used in an automobile engine. The three-grade system will accommodate all cars, new and old, and save many motoring dollars. "The current regular and premium grades of gasoline are doing an outstanding job for a large percentage of the motoring public and will continue to do so for some years to come," Mr. Hope said. "Since higher quality fuel must be made by new processes that are more costly, Esso Standard feels it would be unfair to most motorists at this time to increase the octane and other qualities—and cost—of our present premium fuel."

Esso researchers estimate the adoption of the three-grade gasoline plan by the American motorist could save the public over half a billion dollars a year by 1961.

Mr. Hope explained that since 1938 horsepower in passenger cars has jumped from an average of 113 to 207, while compression ratios have climbed from an average of 6.3 to 8.5. This trend toward higher compression engines is expected to continue at least through 1960.

"Many late-model cars 'ping' or 'knock' when using existing motor fuels, for even premium gasolines do not satisfy about 20% of the new cars now on the road.

Therefore, Mr. Hope said, Esso Standard is introducing its new top-grade motor fuel, which will be available in a separate service station pump, at a cost commensurate with its higher quality.

The company's extensive studies indicate that for cars that can take full advantage of this higher quality fuel, its added cost will be more than offset by the gains in performance and mileage.

"We are confident this new motor fuel, perfected by new refining processes, will deliver the efficiency and mileage that was intended by the automobile manufacturers when they designed the new engines," said Mr. Hope.

"And, by marketing three — not two—grades of motor fuel, we will continue to provide the right fuel for every car and the motorist will not be paying for unused quality."

on the surplus farm products is over one million dollars a day.

Schemes Tried

Various schemes have been devised for controlling production by economic planning and rigid control of the farmer himself. But the high rigid support prices acted like a dynamo on production—surpluses piled higher and higher. The farmer became, in effect, a captive of the Government "program," rather than an independent operator. In many of our basic food commodities, production has been largely for Government warehouses and granaries because the market was glutted. It has become a serious problem, in which every American has a stake. It has greatly diminished our foreign farm trade.

During World War II, a friend of mine, a carpenter by trade, hired a few of his carpenter friends and started a small enterprise to build ammunition crates for the Army. The Army desperately needed the crates for overseas shipment, and it paid a premium price to expedite and expand production, to get thousands of people busy building crates. My friend rented an old warehouse, set up saw rigs and an assembly line, and turned out crates by the thousands. He made a small fortune.

Demand Halted

At the end of the war, the need for ammunition crates in huge volume abruptly stopped. My friend attempted to convert his plant to the manufacture of soft drink crates. He sold a few thousand crates, but the market soon became glutted; too many ammunition crate plants had converted to the same product. When my friend's production began to pile up in his plant, he finally halted operations, and told his employees that for the time being there was no market for his plant's production. There was never a thought of being paid for unneeded crates. The carpenters got jobs in the building boom just opening up; and my friend became a successful residential building contractor.

A wood-working plant and a farm are different enterprises. But there are elements in the experience or my friend the crate manufacturer which apply to the problem of Government stimulated surpluses. When, through any artificial device, we "freeze" people into productive positions when there is no real outlet for the fruits of their labor, we are throwing a monkey wrench into the whole process of the American system.

Farmer's Own Opinion

The American Farm Bureau Federation, whose 1,623,222 member families add up to approximately 8,000,000 people on the farms of America, believes that rigid high supports jeopardize the future of farmers and the freedom of all citizens. Through its state, county and local groups the Farm Bureau is conducting an educational program designed to give farm families a clear understanding of the economic facts involved in the farm problem.

There is sound logic in the Farm Bureau's "Platform for Prosperity on the Farm." Prosperity can be enhanced, the platform declares: "(1) By adjusting the size of the agricultural plant to market demands; (2) By getting rid of price-depressing surpluses; (3) By cutting costs—on and off the farm; (4) By developing bigger markets—at home and abroad; (5) By applying science on the farm and throughout the market system."

Covered Dish Supper

SNACK TIME, U. S. A.

SNACK TIME IS APT TO BE MOST ANYTIME. It's part of the hospitality of American homes to offer refreshments when friends come to call.

A quick and informal snack, but guaranteed to please the most sophisticated tastes, are these Crabmeat on a Bun open-faced sandwiches. They have the advantage of being made with ingredients you can keep on your pantry shelf for quick use. Perfect for evening entertaining, they have an air of culinary achievement associated with more difficult to prepare refreshments. Serve hot, while the Rice Krispies are still popping. Another recipe, developed and taste-tested in the kitchens of the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek, Michigan.

GRILLED CRABMEAT ON A BUN

- 3/4 cup (1 6 1/2-oz can) crabmeat
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 8-oz. pkg. processed American cheese
- 6 sandwich buns
- 1 cup Rice Krispies

Flake crabmeat, removing bones. Cut butter and cheese in small pieces. Cook in covered small saucepan over low heat about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally until cheese is melted and mixture is smooth. Stir in crabmeat. Slice buns; spread cut surfaces with crabmeat mixture. Place on broiler rack about 3 inches from heat. Broil about 3 minutes until slightly browned and bubbly. Sprinkle with Rice Krispies. Broil about 1 minute longer. Serve at once. Yield 6 servings. Note: 1 cup (1 7-oz. can) tuna fish, drained and flaked may be substituted for crabmeat.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

An interesting event is taking place in Chicago.

Two food wholesalers and 23 retail grocers have filed a $3,000,000 suit against three large food packers and A. & P., and Woman's Day magazine.

Outcome of this suit could have far reaching effects.

Woman's Day is a magazine which, it is charged, is a wholly owned subsidiary of A. & P. The magazine is sold only through A. & P. stores at a price of 7 cents per copy.

Complaint charges the three large food packers spend huge sums in Woman's Day, thus in effect giving substantial preferential treatment to A. & P. not given independent customers.

In other words, it is inferred these huge expenditures in a magazine owned by A. & P. is a form of a special discount.

This case should develop interesting data on whether or not attempts are being made to divert legitimate advertising pursuits into other channels.

Advertising media, such as national magazines, or this newspaper, are mediums of general circulation, sold at newsstands and delivered to subscribers.

This newspaper, as all other independent media, is open to all legitimate advertisers. A food packer advertising in this newspaper is able to reach customers of all the grocery stores in the area of circulation.

Yet, when a packer buys space in a publication sold only through National Federation of Independent Business the stores of a chain, the packer is only exposing his message to the customers of those stores.

Now, it is possible that the use of a great deal of advertising space in a publication circulated exclusively through a chain has no effect whatsoever on the buying done by that chain.

It is also perhaps possible that water can readily run uphill.

On the other hand, it has been observed at times that some packers seem to confine their entire advertising to these chain controlled magazines. It is also an interesting conjecture as to just how long a packer would continue to advertise in these publications, solely on their merit as an advertising medium, if chain did not stock their merchandise.

In other words, when this case comes to trial, there will be some very interesting facets for the court to ponder.

In fact, this could be the forerunner of an intensive government investigation of some current advertising practices.

Of late, on the surface at least, it appears that a lot of double dealing discount schemes have attached themselves as cancerous growths to the body of conventional advertising. Since this suit was filed in Chicago, many wonder why the Federal Trade Commission has not gone into this most interesting question quite some time ago. On the other hand, the FTC has often given the impression, wrongly or rightly, of being quite abashed when confronted with amassed wealth. At least, it appears quite odd that FTC has not made a study of this challenging, provocative question of huge advertising expenditures in magazines sold only through chain food stores.

Basball Team Victorious In Opening Game

The Emmitsburg baseball team emerged victoriously in the initial game of the Pen-Mar League Sunday by a 4 to 2 win over Fairfield before a large crowd at Community Field.

The game was an abbreviated affair and was called after seven innings, due to rain and hail. The contest developed into a pitchers' duel with Seifert of Fairfield giving up three hits and Orner of the locals, allowing one lone single which came after two were out in the first frame. Both of the opponent's runs were unearned, coming as the result of two miscues in the opening inning.

Manager Paul Clarke's boys were hitless until the sixth, when with one man aboard, Tom Saylor, robust first-sacker of the locals, smashed out a home run over the right centerfield fence to tie up the game. Don Joy followed with a double but to no avail as the next batter failed to hit.

Franny Cool managed to get as far as second in the seventh, when the catcher dropped the ball on a third strike and threw wildly to first. Bill Sterbinsky then looped a single to score Cool and then scored himself when the pitched fumbled.

Announcement was made this week by Commissioner Frank Small, Jr., of the Dept. of Motor Vehicles, that the local VFW ambulance has been designated as an emergency vehicle and as such is authorized to employ the use of a siren and flashing red light.

This permission was granted after a request had been made by Clyde J. Eyer, chairman of the local VFW ambulance committee.

Judge Sheely reviewed the main points of testimony of all important witnesses and told the jury it was necessary for them to determine what was in the defendant's mind. The only direct suggestion the judge made to the jury was to say, as he concluded: "I can see no justification for the death penalty in this case, but if you see fit you have the right to decide upon it."

The case began a week before with the selection of the jury on Tuesday of last week. Ginnell was represented by Attorneys Edwin F. Nikirk, Frederick and Francis Yake.

'Twister Strikes Here

Damage from hail, rain and wind occurred last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. to several rural properties, it was revealed this week.

The wind struck with cyclonic force near the Tom's Creek Church area and demolished a wagon shed owned by Paul Beale and tore a tin roof from a barn owned by Harry Fogle. On the Charles Copenhaver farm two sons were inside a brooder house when the wind suddenly hurled the building atop a nearby building, badly scaring the two lads who escaped unharmed.
