Here we go again! By that I mean discussing the proposed bypass of Emmitsburg. A plan offered by a local organization recently apparently was rejected by the State Roads Commission. At the time I couldn't quite see the plan too strongly myself and was not at all surprised when it reached a dead-end. However, the Chamber of Commerce has come up with a new one which I feel is the real McCoy and warrants consideration by roads officials. It is not a new one to the State Roads Commission, but a discarded one I am told.

According to available information, the Commission intended to follow the present course of Route 15 as close to town from the south as possible. This would have been in the area of the faculty house which belongs to St. Joseph Central House. This plan would bring the new highway directly in front of the beautiful and scenic college campus and as such would be a natural way to advertise the institution to the thousands of tourists which pass it daily. In my opinion the premises is a beautiful and picturesque layout and is appreciated by travelers and therefore, the potential student body. The plan also would lessen the expense of the bypass considerably by eliminating the erection of a new bridge. The present bridge over Tom's Creek would suffice and would possibly save 75 to 100,000 dollars of the taxpayers' money because everyone knows that the bridgework is the most expensive item in road building. It is maintained that the plan also would shorten the length of the bypass by several tenths of a mile thereby saving additional thousands, as it is estimated it costs a quarter of a million dollars for a mile of modern roadway. Tourists traveling on Route 15 would come within a few hundred yards of the town and this would be an inducement to many of them to stop here for lodging, eating, drinking, recreation or almost anything that one needs while traveling. The Chamber maintains that if motorists can at least see the town they are about to bypass they are more likely to stop than if it is just a barren stretch of highway. Under the latter situation the Chamber contends, the cars will just zoom by hardly knowing there is a town situated here.

After all, it's the merchants who pay a great share of state tax money and their pleas should be heard by the Roads Commission. The plan would in no way impede the flow of traffic past Emmitsburg. It is a less costlier plan. We are not trying to block the bypass. We are most aware of existing conditions which necessitate a bypass with a modern traffic artery, but if the same thing can be accomplished and the identical results achieved at a far less costly figure, then I see no reason why the plan shouldn't be studied thoroughly and consequently adopted. Having a straight and wide highway is important and essential certainly, but when a motorist is traveling he also needs accommodations. He requires food, drink, sleep, medicine, refreshments, gas, oil, car repairs and sundry other things, so I see no reason that the road should not be brought as close to the town as possible and under the plan it would be brought right to our doorstep. I am firmly of the opinion that we should back this plan solidly. Also I believe that fewer houses would have to be demolished and less taxable ground confiscated under the plan. Naturally I feel it would be more advantageous to St. Joseph College to have the road in front of its pleasant surroundings rather than in the rear where nothing but farm buildings would be visible. There is only one drawback to the idea and that is that college students would have to cross the highway to and from Emmitsburg. However this easily could be remedied by the installation of an underpass for pedestrians only, I feel certain that the state would bear the expense of such an underpass for a few short feet that would be required. I am not trying to run anyone's affairs and hope they don't take that attitude. I simply am doing what I feel would be in the best interests of all concerned.

Series Of Auto Mishaps Occur Here

The occupants of the automobiles involved escaped injury on Monday in two accidents on U. S. Route 15 near Lewistown and Catocin Furnace.

The first collision occurred at 2 p. m. about 25 feet south of the Angleberger Road. According to the investigation by State Trooper William G. Morgan, Emmitsburg, a 1951 Mercury operated by Leah Ruth Feingold, 28, of Brooklyn, N. Y., south-bound on Rt. 15, skidded across the center line and collided with a 1955 Ford north-bound and operated by Elizabeth A. Cruse, Bellefonte, Pa. Damage was estimated at $50 to the Feingold car and about $100 to the Cruse vehicle.

Miss Feingold was charged with failing to drive to the right of the center of the highway and forfeited $11.45 collateral at a hearing in Thurmont.

The second accident occurred in Catocin Furnace at about 5 p. m. Trooper Morgan investigating, reported Elvae Marie Hahn, 37, RFD, Thurmont, who had been proceeding south on 15, was making a left turn into the private driveway at her property when a 1953 Pontiac operated by John F. Oxley, 27, Buffalo, N. Y., also south-bound, struck the Hahn car. Damage was estimated at $150 to the Oxley car and about $100 to the Hahn vehicle. Oxley was charged with following too closely and posted $6.45 collateral for a hearing in Thurmont magistrate's court on July 7.

None were injured Tuesday as two cars collided at 8 p. m. on State Route 81 about three miles west of Thurmont. State Trooper Morgan investigating, said a 1955 Ford going west on Rt. 81 and driven by Glendale W. Williams, 20, of the Port Ritchie Military Police Detachment, failed to negotiate a curve in the highway and crashed into a 1952 Buick traveling east and being operated by Leonard Villin, 28, Washington, D. C. According to the state trooper, Williams' car failed to make the curve, crossed over the center of the road and hit the Villin car, doing an estimated $75 damage to both of the involved cars. Williams was charged with failing to keep to the right of the center of the road and will be given a hearing in Thurmont on July 7.

On June 9 Trooper Morgan reported a 1950 Chevy, driven by Donald E. Crabbs, 22, of LeGore, traveling east on State Rt. 77 on the Appolds' Church Road near Thurmont, left the highway and ran into a nearby yard where it struck William Eyer, 18, of Woodsboro. Eyer was taken to the Frederick Hospital in the Thurmont ambulance where he was treated for severe lacerations. It was reported 42 stitches were required to close Eyer's cuts. Crabbs was charged with reckless driving by the trooper.

A 1947 Mercury, driven by John P. Barnhart, Rt. 5, Gettysburg, struck a 1949 Chevrolet driven by Geneva Sprankle, Rt. 2, Fairfield, in the rear at about 10 p. m. on June 8. The mishap occurred on Rt. 15 about a mile and a half north of Emmitsburg. Trooper Morgan charged Barnhart with following another vehicle too closely and he was fined $11.45 at a hearing on June 9 before Magistrate Charles D. Gillelan.

Telephone Exhibit Open To Public On Monday

"Maryland's Home Planning Center," a unique display of the most advanced ideas in home planning and interior designing, will be opened to the public Monday as a permanent exhibit in the lobby of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Bldg., 320 St. Paul Place, Baltimore.

The center, which occupies an area of approximately 4000 sq. feet, was designed by Raymond Loewy Associates and required many months to prepare. Spread out before viewers are five detailed, fully landscaped, scale models, representing award-winning home designs in an architectural competition sponsored by the C. and P. and the Baltimore Chapter, American Institute of Architects. Visitors also may inspect three full-scale, completely-furnished interior rooms and a modern kitchen featuring the most up-to-date equipment, including a complete home communications center.

There is no admission charge and the center may be visited every week-day from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m.

One elaborate design in the group is a one-story contemporary dwelling with a flat roof, covered terraces on two sides and a free-standing enclosed porch overlooking a fiberglass swimming pool. A model of the winning home design is an ultra-modern contemporary home with a gently sloping roof featuring used brick and mahogany plywood siding. The chief purpose of the center is to serve all home owners in Maryland by placing at their disposal a visual demonstration of modern planning to guide them in building or renovating a house, or even in redecorating an apartment.

Although the center will be a permanent exhibit, the sponsors plan to alter it from time to time as new ideas are introduced into the home planning field.

Miss Kramer Becomes Bride Of William Cevallos

In a setting of white gladioli and red and blue carnations, Miss Maria Johanna Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Kramer, Maryland Farm, Fairfield Rt. 2, became the bride of William H. Cevallos, Brooklyn, N. Y., son of Senora Dolores Cevallos, Ecuador, South America, at a nuptial mass at 10 o'clock June 16 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg.

The Rev. Fr. John D. Sullivan, C.M., pastor of the church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

George Greco, Emmitsburg, sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," "Bless This Day" and "Mother At Your Feet Is Kneeling." He was accompanied by Miss Louella Lansing, organist. Prof. William Sterbinsky was the violin accompanist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white nylon tulle and Chantilly lace gown designed with a floor-length skirt ending in a chapel train. The illusion neckline of the bodice ended in a mandarin collar. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown-shaped headpiece. She carried a modern colonial bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Eleanor Kramer, Fairfield Rt. 2, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a pale blue crystalline gown designed with a floor-length skirt and carried a modern colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Bridal attendants were Miss Holly Hagele and Miss Helen Seiler, both of Philadelphia, Pa. They wore similar blue gowns and carried modern colonial bouquets of white, blue and pink carnations.

Neptali Cevallos, Ecuador, S. A., was best man for his brother. Ushers were George P. Kramer, Fairfield Rt. 2, brother of the bride, and William King, Baltimore, former classmate of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a pale blue dress with white accessories. Allen Ott, Fairfield, was the ring bearer. Miss Regina May Ott, Fairfield, the flower girl, wore a white dotted Swiss floor-length gown and carried a miniature bouquet of white, blue and pink carnations.

Afterwards a reception was held at the American Legion Post Home, Gettysburg. Later the couple left on a honeymoon of unannounced destination. The bride wore a beige linen sheath dress with matching coat and beige accessories. Upon their return they will be at home at 16th and Quinn Sts., Arlington, Va.

The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph's High School, Emmitsburg, has been employed at the Blue Ridge Pipe and Nipple Co., Greenstone, Pa.

He is presently employed at the Georgetown Hospital, Washington, as an assistant to Dr. Turner, in the biochemistry department.

Curt Bucher New President Of C. of C.

Curtis R. Bucher, local restaurant and motel proprietor, was elected president of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce at a special election held Monday night in the Fire Hall. Mr. Bucher succeeds the late William A. Frailey, who died suddenly recently after having just been elected president of the group.

The meeting was presided over by Vice President Ralph F. Irelan. Col. Thomas J. Frailey reported he had voted favorably on the Multilateral Trade Agreement which was endorsed by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The group instructed its swimming pool committee to investigate the possibility of damming up a nearby mountain stream for use as a swimming site. The committee will seek the consent of two land owners in the area to make use of the stream and nearby land. Under the plan, it was reported, the stream would be dredged deep enough for swimming, sand beaches installed, picnic tables placed about the area and a fence placed around the whole section.

The group honored the president, William A. Frailey, by observing a minute's silence. Mr. Bucher will assume his duties as president at the next regular meeting of the organization.

The Chamber discussed the possibility that the State Roads Commission would change its present plan of bypassing Emmitsburg with a new plan that would prove more receptive to the town and its merchants, as well as local taxpayers. The Chamber went on record as favoring a plan to bring the bypass about a half mile closer to Emmitsburg. This could be accomplished, the group maintains, by not cutting off at Toll Gate Hill, but by continuing north to town, going in front of St. Joseph College and then gradually turning east where the bypass would be effected. It was pointed out that the Roads Commission could save huge sums of money by using the present Toms Creek bridge and also save additional sums of taxpayers' money by shortening the length of the bypass several tenths of a mile. This, it is understood, was the original plan of the Commission several years ago but for some reason or another it was abandoned. The group will write a letter to the Roads Commission asking consideration of the plan and in all probability a petition will be circulated locally, asking that the plan be adopted by the Commission. The $5 draw prize was won by Curt Bucher.

Polio Vaccine Supply Increasing

Convincing evidence is now at hand indicating that the supply of poliomyelitis vaccine has increased to the point of reaching the "acceptance level." This means the point at which on a statewide basis nearly everyone who is eligible and willing to receive the vaccination is able to do so. Putting it another way it means that we are nearing the time when the supply of vaccine has caught up with the demand. For this reason the Maryland State Dept. of Health now recommends that the third or "booster" injection of vaccine be administered to those children where a sufficient time has elapsed since the second inoculation, so that the optimum response may be had. Present evidence indicates that this period between the second and third doses is at least six or seven months.

It is also strongly recommended that those parents who have not yet decided to avail themselves of first and second doses of polio vaccine for their children reconsider the matter and talk it over with their physicians. It is the present opinion of the State Health Dept. that there is now enough polio vaccine available in Maryland to meet the demand for it. Since continuation of immunization throughout the coming summer is recommended, there should be an increasing opportunity to protect vast majority of children in the eligible age group, which is currently 1-15 years, inclusive.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is said "all is not gold that glitters" and how true this rings. And if we weigh in the balance the details pertaining to the success of any idea, project or public program, none of them come easy. No project is a push-over where success is concerned. If anyone thinks that they will obtain the public's cooperation with everything laid at their feet—they are all wrong. To the contrary, the public wishes to be shown. Knowing this, a man must be prepared to meet the conquest and to face adversities and skepticism. He must fortify himself with a steel wall of determination and recognize no setbacks or controversies. A man is a failure only if he admits it to himself. If he doesn't, the opinion of others does not matter. There is the basic reason for some people aiming high and hitting a bull's eye. We all should try and become a good marksman. Anyone's aim is only as steady as his concept of accomplishment.

COMPETITION: Anything started in life brings competition. A competitor can at times become very annoying—whether he be a big shot or a small pebble. The bigger he is—the more force he can exercise in his counter attack. In Washington there is no exception to the rule. New enterprises meet the conquest somewhat like an explorer entering into a new territory and often he finds the vultures awaiting him. There are methods of sabotage used in trying to prevent new enterprises which show promise of being competitive. Underhanded, they infiltrate an organization with the terms of indirect attack toward preventing a new organization from obtaining a toehold. A good idea and a program created to bring the consumer, merchant and publisher together is something a lot of the racketeers, merchants and off-shaded publishing tabloids would like to destroy. So, being prepared for such a problem is a pioneer's great asset. Being capable of creating an idea and a program is one thing, but to put it across is another. If a man hasn't the fortitude to meet ridicule, he most certainly couldn't wage a fight against big city practices in oppression. It only takes one spy in an army to demolish a battalion, or one weak link in an organization to delay and determine its success or failure. It is, therefore, not an easy task to put across a philanthropic movement. That goes for any worthwhile project. Therefore, when it is possible to detect and eliminate any obstacle within a few days of its origin, any organization is indeed fortunate, and so was the APPROVED MERCHANTS ADMINISTRATION.

REPORT: Today the AMA is on its way in Washington, despite the opposing factors of opposition and sabotage. It couldn't be done. It won't be done. God gave some people an armor of determination and to others a weak shell of jelly fish substance. The AMA has a coating of experience, analytical know-how and a goal to accomplish. Only one thing could stop it—that is the ignorance of the merchants who do not know what the project is all about and their unwillingness to participate in something good which is good not only for them, but their customers. If a merchant is unconcerned and disinterested in giving fair advertising and selling merchandise at a fair profit, or in providing guaranteed products, then he will not investigate the basic policies and the advantages offered in the AMA. True, he might be too busy, but no merchant is too busy to take a few minutes off to do good. Therefore, it is expected that most merchants will be interested and that this district will be no exception. However, you can't possibly expect everyone to agree or accept the AMA, Inc. Not everyone agrees on everything regardless of its good.

PROGRAM: The AMA will have a program which provides a service that is invaluable to the merchants of this district. The provisional policies are very simple and ethical in fair dealing and trade practices. There will be a district supervisor assigned in this territory. It would be helpful to both the community and consumers as a whole toward encouraging proper advertising and bona fide merchandising for any merchant to become a member. Moreover, this membership will be something that a merchant should be proud of, as it identifies himself as a dependable, reliable, and APPROVED MERCHANT.

BRING OVERCOATS
The latest racing meet ever scheduled in Maryland has been assigned to Pimlico Race Course which will open its fall session on Nov. 13 and not close until Dec. 15.

Value Of County Products Gain

The value of products sold in 1954 by operators of 2792 farms in Frederick County was $18.8 million, according to a preliminary report of the 1954 Census of Agriculture published by the Bureau of Census, U. S. Dept. of Commerce.

The value of all crops sold was $2.4 million and included $1.6 million for field crops, $249,213 for vegetables, $299,948 for fruits and nuts, and $211,298 for horticultural specialties.

The value of all livestock and livestock products sold was $16.3 million and included $13 million for dairy products, $919,771 for poultry and poultry products, and $2.3 million for livestock and livestock products.

The value of forest products sold from the county's farms was $28,204.

Your Personal Health

Sunstroke, drowning, insect bites, car crashes, food poisoning, sharks, polluted water, high prices, jelly fish, forest fires, sprained ankles, over-exertion, summer romances—these are only a few of the many vacation hazards you're warned against. You get good advice from magazines, newspapers, radio, TV, friends and even enemies.

This column is as ready as any to advise you to carry rattlesnake antidote, boil the drinking water, sit quietly in canoes, and avoid college boys. Your health is our concern. But occasionally we are haunted by a picture of any family that might follow all the good advice.

Vacation preparations take weeks. Once packed, the car is a moving drugstore carrying preventives and cures for all possible emergencies. There's enough safety equipment or a Himalayan expedition.

At last the family arrives at the seashore, lake or mountain, but life is a perpetual fight against fear, seeking protection against the perils of nature. There's one consolation. They'll be glad to get home. We wonder how they got up their courage to leave home at all.

There's something not quite healthy in this picture. It's wise to take reasonable precautions so that your vacation won't be spoiled by accident or illness. But worry won't keep you well.

On this lovely June day, this column would like to advise you to take a vacation. Decide where you want to go and what you want to do, and then do it. Unless you decide to pack into the Canadian wilds or the jungles of Guatemala, you will not be too far from civilized, human help in emergencies. Pack the car with suitable clothes, a simple first aid kit, and a reasonable amount of good sense.

And for goodness sake, have a good time.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall WASHINGTON—Claiming that "kill-joy taxes are putting an unfair and harmful burden on certain areas of our recreation," U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall prepared this week to introduce legislation designed to remove the Federal excises from admissions, sporting goods, playing cards, club dues, and cabaret checks.

"It is completely incongruous," said the Senator, "for us to promote widespread recreation programs and, at the same time, maintain taxes which have such a hostile effect on our purpose."

In discussing the measure, Sen. Beall said: "It is becoming increasingly apparent each day that a number of kill-joy taxes are putting an unfair burden in certain areas of our recreation."

"This toll is being exacted somewhat ruthlessly, drawing from youngsters interested in athletics, from men and women out for a few hours of relaxation, and even from families who like to stay at home for an evening of playing cards."

"The Federal revenue from this systematic raiding of our leisure hours was a mere $207 million last year, and the next few years do not offer any prospects for much more in the way of financial gain."

"On the other hand, the so-called 'amusement taxes' have a very important place in our economy when they appear in their true form—as the extra ten percent or so that we have to pay for the recreation we seek."

"These amusement taxes are, in effect, legal kill-joys, and I now offer a bill designed to remove them completely from admissions, sporting goods, playing cards, club dues and cabaret checks."

"Behind my measure is my basic belief that such taxes are not only unfair but even harmful."

"I would also like to point out that my bill offers a measure of tax relief which would be reflected immediately in the pockets of every American.

"I have consistently advocated that we balance the budget before making tax reductions, and present indications are that we can put our budget on an even keel and grant at least this $207 million cut."

"Since this seems rather apparent in the light of present estimates on our expected surplus, and since this is actually a very secondary reason for my proposal, I will not dwell on it."

"My primary idea, as I have indicated, is to free our entertainments and sports from the taxes which make them less accessible."

"Whether we balance the budget or not, the amusement taxes should be abolished."

"Actually, they never should have been imposed in the first place, and the fact that our present financial outlook is such that we can now remove them without damaging our nation's economy is just an added reason why we should act now."

"It is completely incongruous, I think, for us to promote widespread recreation programs and, at the same time, maintain taxes which have such a hostile effect on our purpose."

"Each day we encourage the young men and women of this country to expend their energies in sports and wholesome recreation instead of in gang fights."

"We listen to our doctors' advice that relaxation is of prime importance to our physical and mental health."

"Why, then, should we continue to tax the sources of our relaxation?"

"As I have said, it is ridiculous to admit that today's stresses and strains need to be counterbalanced and then refuse to do everything possible to ease their effects."

"In the past this nation has spent billions of dollars for the treatment and correction of its citizens' mental and physical ailments."

"My bill, I feel, will help place the emphasis where it should be—on prevention."

"It has been argued that any tampering with our excise taxes will lead to additional demands and complications."

"Even if this were true, our answer should be a blunt 'So what?'"

"The taxes are bad."

"They should be removed."

"If complications arise, it will be unfortunate."

"But let's get rid of the 'kill-joy taxes.'"

Citizens Go To Sleep

There are three very real factors challenging the very existence of our great American system with its freedoms, its incentives for individual advancement, its unmatched living standard, and its constant dynamic surge of progress. They are (1) the natural lethargy of human nature, (2) a powerful, well-directed, world-wide Communist conspiracy to dominate the world, and (3) a powerful, well-financed effort to undermine the foundations of our freedom through infiltration of every segment and function of our American society.

The fact that lethargy is a human characteristic is found throughout the history of the human race. At no spot on the earth's surface has good government or a good economic structure been preserved for very many generations, through all human history. Greece lost her Democracy. Rome lost her Republic. The fall of these two world leaders of their day, one after the other, didn't come because either of them had fulfilled her mission. In each instance the fall came because human lethargy in time replaced the citizenship interest which had created a new kind, and better government than had existed in the past.

The Dark Ages

Rome's fall ushered in the period known in history as the Dark Ages and the human race stagnated for nearly a thousand years. When we examine history we find the rise and fall of 19 different civilizations; and in each instance where the citizenry itself had a part in creating the mode of life, the apathy of the citizens led finally to the fall.

We in America are now six generations from George Washington and Patrick Henry, both of whom represented the height of citizen interest in a government providing individual freedom. Through the years we have lost much of our love of freedom. We are affected with much complacency. We are trusting that our children will just catch Americanism like they catch the mumps and the measles. We're moving gradually toward bigger and bigger government with

Congressman De Witt S. Hyde - 6th District, Maryland

WASHINGTON, June 20—From time to time I have expressed my appreciation of the work of the more and more dependence on central government.

Big Government Growing

Government is already the biggest economic factor in our lives. The Federal government, to which our local governments are more and more giving up responsibilities and powers, takes in and spends about one-fourth of all the money in circulation, one-fourth of all the wealth produced. The Federal government is the biggest lender in America. We have private banks that have loaned throughout the history of our nation and these banks have played no small part in the development of our economy. But today the big lender is the Federal government.

The Federal government, of course, is greatly in debt. And yet Uncle Sam is lending money at a lower rate of interest in some cases than he borrows it. Yes, actually the government is borrowing money at three per cent, in some cases, and turning around and lending it at two per cent. It's costing taxpayers generally $200 million a year to make up the difference and pay for the administration.

Political Considerations

Still another factor in the big government lending agencies is the factor of politics, mismanagement and graft. Only a deep-seated citizen apathy would have condoned the gross incidents of graft which occurred, for instance, in the RFC from 1945 to 1950 as exposed by a sub-committee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee in the latter half of 1950. Millions upon millions were loaned to questionable enterprises through the influence of political hacks. Millions of taxpayers' money were squandered. This kind of operation is characteristic of government which has become too big.

Personal freedoms are being restricted in proportion to the growth of big government. It is a simple equation: what power the government has it must, of course, take from the people. What money it has must come from the people. When the Federal government takes over a new responsibility—whatever it may be—people must give up that responsibility. And when they give up a responsibility and become dependent upon the government for that particular thing, they lose independence, freedom.

Yes, apathy, human lethargy is one of the great threats to all we hold dear in America. Is your interest in freedom active?

Some of the State's 130 Ground Observer Corp Posts are more inaccessible than others. This is graphically illustrated here by Major Richard Dickson, the Air Force's G.O.C. Coordinator for Maryland, as he heads for the Quantico Post in Wicomico County. He, Sgt. John Heightchew and their automobile are shown aboard one of the few remaining, free ferries in existence.

Along The Potomac

Soil Conservation Service in tackling and solving the problems of soil and water conservation. I am particularly pleased that Maj. Gen. E. C. Itchner has told the Senate Agriculture Committee that the Army Engineer Corps "heartily endorses the land treatment program and subscribes to the contention that it will reduce the loss of topsoil and increase insoak, thus lessening the amount of sediment in our streams and reservoirs, and reducing to a minor degree the magnitude of floods."

I am happy to report that the Engineer Corps is proceeding with its study of the possibility of constructing a small local flood protection project on Bear Creek at Friendsville. A preliminary estimate of the Federal cost of the project totals $50,000.

A major step toward the solution of the pollution problem in the Potomac River was taken when the House passed the Water Pollution Bill. If the measure passes the Senate, and I have high hopes it will, it will speed our cleaning up the River.

I have talked with the members of the Conference Committee on the District Appropriation bill with regard to retaining funds to install fishways in the Little Falls Dam. This is a necessary appropriation to insure this installation while the dam is under construction.

The House committee has taken favorable action on the measure providing for an increase in railroad retirement pensions. I am pleased that the bill reported is the same as the one I introduced.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration has informed me that grants have been made under the Federal-aid Airport Program to Hagerstown and Rockville. The grant to Hagerstown is for the acquisition of land for clear zones and the construction of an extension to the runway and to relocate the highway. It is for $303,500. The Rockville grant is for $50,000 and is for the purpose of acquiring land and clear zones.

Mr. Mathias, a native of Frederick, is a graduate of Haverford College, Yale University and the University of Maryland Law School. He has been engaged in the practice of law since 1949. He served in the U. S. Navy during World War II and is presently active in the Naval Reserve.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 21—From present early indications, Mother Nature may be of some assistance this year to harassed government officials—not to mention overburdened taxpayers—in reducing farm surpluses. My first survey of the 1956 crop outlook points to the lowest prospects in 11 years. Here are some of the highlights.

Wheat and Rye Outlook

For the third successive year, total production of wheat probably will fall short of the billion-bushel mark. Output of winter wheat—the main crop—may be in the vicinity of 670 million bushels—down five per cent from a year ago and well below average. If the spring crop amounts to about 253 million bushels, as I expect, the total U. S. crop of 23 million bushels would be the smallest since 1943. However, since the total July 1 carryover threatens to top one billion bushels, total supplies will still be burdensome.

Rye is doing well in some areas, less so in others. Its over-all condition as of June 1 was 78 per cent of normal, compared with 74 per cent on June 1, 1955, and with the 10-year average of 82 per cent. This could mean an outturn this year equaling or exceeding the above-average crop of 29 million bushels produced last year. This would be sufficient for all requirements.

Large Corn and Soybean Crops Likely

It is uncertain at this writing just what effect the government's Soil Bank program will have on production of corn and soybeans this year, but my forecast is, not very much. Last spring, corn farmers indicated that they intended to plant an acreage 3.5 per cent smaller than in 1955, when the crop amounted to 3.1 billion bushels—the sixth largest of record. Given favorable weather conditions, I believe the Corn Belt will "go to town" again this year. Meanwhile, I forecast higher average prices for old-crop corn, and lower prices for new-crop corn this fall.

Last spring farmers indicated intentions to plant a record 21.7 million acres to soybeans—up to 10.6 per cent from the previous record. Nothing has since occurred, as far as I know, to materially alter those intentions. If weather conditions remain favorable, the 1956 crop of soybeans could easily top 400 million bushels and set a new record for this wonder bean. Total supplies for 1956-57 should not, however, prove burdensome, in view of the government support program and an expected heavy volume of total consumption. Some price weakness could develop this fall, with recovery to follow.

Cotton Prospects

The U. S. cotton crop is making generally favorable progress. It is too early in the season, however, to form any hard and fast opinion as to the final size. Possible insect damage must be reckoned with between now and harvest time. Plantings this year were officially restricted to a total of only 17.4 million acres. As recently as in 1951, farmers planted 28.1 million acres to cotton. No record crop will be grown on the relatively small 1956 acreage, but it may turn out to be larger than the cut in acreage would indicate.

Farmers in recent years have learned the art of intensive cultivation—"getting the mostest out of the leastest." It is a safe bet that Dixie will follow this procedure in cotton this year. Even a reduction to only 10 million bales would not go very far toward cutting the millions of bales in government hands. The cotton problem is still far from solution.

Farm Price Outlook

In the past several years, American farmers as a whole have taken it "on the chin" price-wise. In the last few months, however, the average of farm prices has been edging upward. Barring a severe business recession, which I am not now forecasting for 1956, I believe that the farm price decline for this cycle is about over. The Soil Bank plan and other remedial measures yet to be found and applied should go far toward correcting the errors of the past in agriculture, although some small and inefficient farmers may get hurt in the healing process.

Keep Maryland Beautiful Drive Making Progress

The American people from coast to coast are "fed up" with littering and want something done about it. This is the crystal-clear conclusion of a nation-wide public opinion poll just completed by the Gallup organization.

How seriously the American people regard the growing litter problem may be judged from the fact that 86 per cent stated categorically that litterbugs should be fined—to the full extent of the law.

People reached by the poll comprised a typical sample of adult Americans in all sections of the country. Opinion appeared to be nearly uniform between men and women and among all age groups and regions of the country. Compared with other occupations, fewer farmers (82 per cent) recommended fines than the general average (86 per cent). Similarly, attitudes in the South (80 per cent) were slightly more tolerant than the general average.

The survey, conducted on behalf of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., also indicated that about two out of five people across the nation know of some campaign or program for the prevention of litter. Best known were efforts of municipalities or state and county programs. There is evidence, however, that the efforts to arouse interest and awareness are bearing fruit in the first stage of awakening the public.

In releasing these survey results, Keep America Beautiful, Inc., pointed out that more than 40 states now have anti-littering laws in effect. "However," they add, "the problem is not solved by the mere passage of laws."

Enforcement of the existing provisions against littering is an almost superhuman task, considering the countless miles of highways, beaches, parks and other public areas which are subject to litter.

Local and state authorities have attempted with some success to control littering by the "example" method—by making examples of flagrant offenders, levying fines and giving full publicity to such incidents. But it is clearly recognized that the true solution to the problem depends on the public mood. If the people dismiss littering with a shrug as something of interest only to the authorities, there can never be enough enforcement officials and clean-up men to cope with the problem. Now, on the strength of the Gallup survey, it is indicated that Americans are approaching a solid reversal in their casual attitude.

The Governor's Committee to Keep Maryland Beautiful was appointed by Governor McKeldin in 1954, to tackle the litter problem on the state level. Maryland was the first state to be recognized as an affiliate with Keep America Beautiful, Inc., and is the laboratory state for the national group's campaigns.

Maryland law provides for a fine of up to $250 and/or a jail term of up to 90 days. Efforts of the Maryland committee, headed by John E. Clark, Bel Air attorney, have resulted in an appreciable reduction in the amount of litter in the state, but the help of everyone is needed to bring the problem under control, especially during the summer travel and picnic season just getting under way.

So remember! If you can't find a trash can for your trash—YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU.

SPORTS
AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Setting up your tent can be a time-consuming and awkward job as well as a puzzle unless you have the know-how. Col. Townsend Whelen, an associate editor of Sports Afield, probably has as much knowledge on this subject as any man in the country. Here are a few suggestions from him: Select a site that is smooth, level and in an attractive position, not under any dead limbs that might fall. If you are going to sleep on the ground, not in cots, a slight slope toward the door is not objectionable, but avoid other slopes. Clear the ground so it is smooth, free from rocks and sticks.

Most articles on tents say that they should be ditched to keep the floor inside dry. But ditching is seldom necessary in the woods and wilderness where the ground is quite porous. In a heavy rain, a little mound of pine needles, leaves, or dirt scraped up against the bottom of the tent outside, with perhaps a small ditch where a shallow gully might cause water to run inside, will usually be all that is necessary.

If you erect a tent tautly a sewed-in tent floor will automatically be smooth. But such a floor is not always desirable, except perhaps in a public camp-ground where the ground is liable to be smooth and not too clean. The trouble with sewed-in floors is that they get damp and dirty; if you don't take up the tent every few days and let the floor dry out, it soon mildews and rots. It is often better to get a tent with a sod cloth, which is simply a strip of canvas sewed all around the sides. Stretch it out on the ground inside, and weight it down. Have a separate ground cloth to lay overall, and that you can take up and shake out and dry frequently.

A word about ventilation: Waterproof tents, and those of army duck, when wet are almost airtight. They should always have a small ventilator window at the top which should be kept open. Nylon tents in particular are so airtight that they will condense vapor inside to such an extent as to make everything soaking wet. Col. Whelen doesn't recommend nylon for any except lean-to tents, the fronts of which are kept wide open all the time.
