Autumn is fast giving way to winter as the early chilly mornings indicate. Our short Indian Summer is waning fast now and we can expect the dreariest of the four seasons, winter, momentarily. Winter is not without its entertainment side though. Football naturally is perhaps the most popular activity in winter sports. Locally we are not in a position to witness or participate in any gridiron games unless we travel some distance to see them. However there's plenty of other activity to enjoy and occupy our time. The first of the shooting matches is near at hand. Squirrel season is in full swing and will be followed by rabbits and deer. Last winter was one of the best in many years for ice skating. With the World Series behind us it is time to think about antifreeze and fuel for our homes in preparation for the long winter months ahead. The kiddies will be in the limelight soon for Halloween is just around the corner.

Vantals are a trifle late this year in getting into operation for Halloween. Last year this time there were several instances of vandalism, weeks before the occasion. I do hope this unsavory type of activity is kept to a minimum this year. Nobody gains from vandalism and nothing is accomplished by it. It is a wasteful and useless pastime. Fun and lots of it, good and clean, can be had over Halloween and it isn't at all necessary to damage anyone's property. However, I imagine that certain individuals will go too far with their so-called "horse play" just as they always do, but then other communities have their share of lawlessness too.

Along with cold weather comes the threat of fire. We have been extremely fortunate this year, which incidentally might be a record year, in that we have had a minimum number of fires. I don't believe the Fire Company has been keeping an accurate log of fires for too many years, but I'm willing to bet that so far this year the number of conflagrations is about as few as in any previous year that records have been kept. Get busy you smoke-eating statisticians! Fire Prevention Week is being observed right now and it wouldn't be a bad idea for you home-owners to check the furnace, chimney and other pertinent equipment that is necessary for heating your homes. You might be glad you did!

It is taking the younger generation to show us what we need ourselves. I think it very commendable of the Boy Scouts who are endeavoring to establish a picnic area for public use. Talk of a swimming pool and picnic area has been prevalent for several years and exactly nothing to date has been accomplished. Well anyway, the Scouts are going to do something about it! They have offered to build a picnic area providing organizations and individuals help a little with the financial end. All that is asked is a small sum of money for lumber and materials necessary to construct picnic tables. These tables will be placed in the area around the Clubhouse on Community Field. Several organizations already have pledged lumber to the Scouts. You can say what you want to about the younger generation but I'm afraid they eventually will show their parents how it can be done. Let's back them up folks! It's good training in responsibility for them... and ourselves too. We all are responsible for the betterment of our community. We like to grow and rant that we're self-made and what did the community ever do for us? Well our predecessors have given us everything we have, and that's a lot to be thankful for, even though we don't realize it. Just what do we expect of life? Naturally the most must be accomplished by ourselves, but your parents and mine too, did quite a bit to get us started on the right path. Let's give the youngsters a moral boost by assisting them in their project. Commendation will accomplish a lot more than condemnation.

Mrs. Milburn Glass, near town, is recovering at her home from a virus infection.

Fire Company Receives Resuscitator

Emmitsburg now has two resuscitators for public use, it was announced Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of the Vigilant Hose Co. held in the Fire Hall, President Herbert W. Roger presiding.

The arrival of the second resuscitator (the other is owned by the local VFW) was announced at the meeting and following adjournment initial instructions on the use of the equipment were given by Eugene Kraemer, chairman of the committee in charge of operating the apparatus.

Three new members were voted into the Fire Company at the meeting. They were Frederick J. Bower, Michael and Robert Joy. Fire Chief John S. Hollinger announced that a re-assignment of coats, boots and helmets will be made shortly, thereby equipping active members with necessary paraphernalia.

Guy R. McGlaughlin, chairman of activities, announced a shooting match will be held at the Civic Grounds on Sunday, November 11.

The fire ladders are currently constructing a television lounge in the basement of the hall and are seeking donations of used furniture to equip the room. Anyone interested in donating furniture to the cause is asked to contact George Danner.

Taneytown Tax Rate Is Hiked

At a recent meeting of the Mayor and City Council of Taneytown the tax rate of 85c per $100 was established for the current year.

A representative from the State Health Dept. was present and discussed the sewer situation in the town. It appears that the new system already is overloaded but it was hoped this was due to the seasonal operation of canning factories and would "clear up" after the factories shut down for the season. During the erection of the treatment plant last year the town was assured by the state authorities that the new plan would accommodate triple the population of Taneytown.

Beginning with the Sept. to Dec. quarter the water rent bills contain the sewer charge which is 50 per cent (additional) of the old water rent charge.

Fire Deaths In Homes Are Analyzed

What are the most common reasons why people burn to death in their homes?

This is an important question, considering the fact that fire is second only to falls as a cause of the 27,500 deaths, to say nothing of the more than four million non-fatal injuries, that occurred in home accidents in 1955.

A leading life insurance company recently made a study of deaths from accidents in and about the home among its industrial policyholders aged 1-74. Here is what they found about home fire deaths.

Smoking 13%: In bed, or in a sofa or chair usually falling asleep; burning cigaret left on furniture; clothing set afire by a dropped cigaret or sparks from a pipe.

13% — Clothing ignited while working at stove, warming self or walking near an open fire.

11% — Explosion of cooking, water or space-heating equipment.

4% — Scalding; upsetting or falling into hot fluids.

3% — Explosion of gasoline or other flammable liquids used for cleaning.

3% — Kindling a fire with kerosene or gasoline.

2% — Fire caused by faulty electrical wiring.

2% — Children playing with matches.

1% — Discarding or dropping a lighted match; burning brush or trash; falling against a hot plate or radiator; explosion of upset oil lamp; explosion of leaking gas line or pipe.

33% — In home fires of undetermined or unstated origin.

Mrs. Edwin Bursk is visiting her two daughters in Lancaster.

IT'S HARD AFTER A FIRE!

"Undetermined origin," they say.

It's a common phrase in news reports of a fire. In the charred and gutted shell of what used to be someone's home, it is sometimes difficult to figure out immediately where the first wisp of smoke curled up—where the first tiny flame licked out.

But given a little time, trained and experienced men can usually reconstruct the situation. A late party—people smoking—a cigaret that fell unnoticed among the sofa cushions and smoldered there. An open fire left burning—sparks that jumped out on the rug or a piece of furniture. Oversize fuses in the fuse box—overloaded electrical wiring that burst into flame.

Whatever happened, it's past remedying. It matters only as a guide to the future. But to a fire victim, what matters most is the present.

Everything is gone: family heirlooms—cherished mementos—clothing, jewelry, furnishings, valuable papers—all the things that went to make up one family's daily life.

This is Fire Prevention Week. You will be hearing a great deal about fires and how to prevent them. Act on what you hear. It's easy to think about the future now—but it's hard after a fire!

Pvt. Warren Bentz, having completed his basic training, is spending a furlough with his wife and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brooke Bentz. He will be stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., on his return to duty and will be accompanied there by his wife.

Insurance Is Best Of Savings Accounts

Case M-336 Don G. Aged 29, is a husband who worried because he didn't have a savings account.

"Dr. Crane, how is it possible for a young married man to lay up money for a rainy day?" he grumbled, unhappily.

Well, the best solution to that problem is for a husband to present his wife with a life insurance policy.

There is no more thoughtful and considerate gift that a husband can offer his wife.

For life insurance stabilizes marriage and keeps it happier. And I am not joking.

For example, it would take the average husband more than a lifetime to save $10,000 by banking a few dollars each week.

But he can, in effect, have $10,000 in his bank account inside of an hour if he takes out a $10,000 insurance policy and anything serious should happen to him later.

Insurance is the poor man's bonanza. For it enables every average worker to protect his family in just one hour of his time.

Insurance also is the savings account the average husband has while he is loaded with the obligations of rearing a family and paying doctor bills for the children.

Insurance also relieves his mind of a lot of anxiety over matters. For you can borrow money on your insurance if you need temporary loan to tide you over an unexpected dilemma.

If you should accidentally be snatched from this earth via auto wreck, your financial arms can reach out protectively from the Great Beyond to look after your wife and babies till they are grown.

That is especially true if you take out a "Family Income" type of policy.

Suppose, for example, on your wedding day you present your bride with a $10,000.00 "family income" policy.

If death should immediately intervene, she would get $2000.00 cash, $200.00 each month for 12 months, $100.00 a month for next 19 years, and at the end of the 20 years she would get $8,000.00 cash.

Furthermore, this "Family Income" Policy is only slightly higher than ordinary life insurance.

But if you can afford less than this amount it is available from $10,000 to as low as $3,000 and rates are governed accordingly.

To really start a real savings and protection plan, life insurance serves you and your family to the fullest extent.

For information as to your eligibility and plan to serve you best, don't hesitate to call or write,

Cigarets As A Fire Cause Are Studied

Why do cigarettes cause so many fires?

What fabrics and other materials will a cigaret ignite most easily?

Do certain conditions make a cigaret especially dangerous?

To find the answers to these questions, the office of California's state fire marshal recently conducted a series of tests.

Lighted cigarettes were dropped into wastebaskets and boxes filled with various types of rubbish and dried vegetation, and fanned to make conditions most favorable for burning. They were puffed near flammable liquids and gases, and pinched so their glowing coals fell through flammable vapors. They were laid on samples of natural and plastic materials commonly used for clothing, decoration, and upholstery, and on samples of padding and cushioning, and left to burn until they went out.

The results of the tests were surprising. Because, although some materials burned, and some vapors exploded, cigarettes proved on the whole to be a relatively poor source of ignition, able to start fires only under limited conditions.

How, then, can cigarettes be one of the top causes of fires? The answer is—by sheer numbers!

In 1955, more than 400 billion cigarettes were smoked — about 760,000 a minute. At that rate,

FIRE!

This need not be your tragedy . . . not if you take ordinary, common sense care. Check that old heap of newspapers you are saving. Keep matches covered and away from children. Test your electrical wiring and avoid overloading outlets. Not difficult to do, are they? And yet these simple precautions spare you the untold heartbreak and ruin fire brings to careless people.

Above all . . . put on love, which binds everything together in perfect harmony. (Colossians 3:14, RSV.)

In Sweden as I was going to church one Sunday morning, two missionaries asked where the church was. I invited them to go with me, for I was going to the church they wished to attend. On our way they told their story. They had come from the East. They had gone through much hardship, and had been forced to leave their station and work. In Sweden, on their way home, they found ease and rest.

They had arrived the night before without knowing where they were to stay. They went to the police station, and were brought to the headquarters of the Salvation Army. "Here in this place we found Christian fellowship; we feel that God is in this country," they said.

Do we have the joy of Christian love in our hearts? Are we ready at all times to show kindness and Christian love to those we meet, especially to strangers who are in need?

Prayer
God, our Father, Thou art Love. Make our love to Thee pure and holy. Strengthen the love of Christ in us. Help us by love to lessen the hardship and pain in our fellow men. In the name of Christ, who loves all mankind. Amen.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Discusses The Proposed Four-Day Work Week

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 11—Although I am not, and never have been, opposed to Unionism as such, I must take up the cudgel against the recently merged AFL-CIO's forthcoming drive for a four-day week rather than increased wages, as announced by George Meany, president.

Big Gains Thus Far
For years, Labor has striven not only for higher wages and more fringe benefits; but also for shorter hours. Today's standard forty-hour week is a far cry from the conditions that prevailed not so very many years ago, when the twelve hour day was common practice, six days a week. Those back-breaking, soul-destroying times are gone for the U. S., and I am sure that no one regrets their disappearance.

But how far can the pendulum, with safety, now swing in this new direction? I well realize that, as a result of our unprecedented technological and industrial development, it is no longer necessary for men to work the interminable hours of yesteryear in order to produce sufficient goods to meet modern day requirements. But this change must continue to come slowly.

An Ill-Timed Move
Of course, if Labor's drive for a temporary shorter work week had been launched back in the depression days of the early "thirties," I would have felt different about it. At that time millions of unemployed were walking the streets looking for jobs. If the working hours of all who then had jobs had been reduced, there could have been jobs for everybody. But what might have been right then, as a temporary expedient, could be seriously detrimental today to the welfare of all our people.

Since our economy is a vibrant and rapidly growing one, I can see great potential danger in producing less during an impending greater overall demand. Workers would have to produce 20% more during the four work days to compensate for the lost fifth day. Unless further automation could make up the difference, they would merely be holding their own as far as production is concerned, rather than increasing it to meet expanding requirements. Increased use of automation is a slow and expensive development. It cannot happen in four years or eight years.

A Step Backward
We are living in prosperous times. Our people never had it so good. We are practically fully employed at high wages; our purchasing power is enormous and our every-day living needs tremendous. To retard production under such circumstances would be little short of a crime—a move contrary to that which has made America great. All material prosperity stems from increased character and production. "More things for better people at right prices" is a key to our continued economic well-being.

I forecast that our No. 1 Public Enemy continues to be the threat of further inflation over the longer term. Today's 52-cent dollar is one of the chief reasons why we must pay around $3,000 for an automobile that only a few years ago cost about one-third as much. The best way to lick further inflation or to forestall it is by increasing production, not by producing less. Inflation is the result of an unbalanced ratio between output and consumption. We can boost consumption by intensifying and improving advertising and selling efforts, but there is no way to compensate for lost output. This will be of great importance if we are faced with more competition from foreign goods.

Decreased production is a direct threat to Mr. and Mrs. Consumer. It means fewer goods and higher prices. The proposed shorter work week is ill-timed and impractical, under present conditions. We cannot remain prosperous by producing less, but only by producing more. Ten years from now, further machinery developments should give us a four-day week; but it cannot safely come at once.

State Teachers Will Meet October 18

The 89th Annual Convention of the Maryland State Teachers' Association to be held in Baltimore on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October 18, 19, and 20, is expected to draw more than 14,000 teachers and educators from all parts of the state.

The three day session will feature major addresses by General Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States, on Thursday; and Chester Bowles, former Governor of Connecticut, former Ambassador to India, world traveler and author, on Friday. On Saturday, the General Session speaker will be Harold R. W. Benjamin, former Dean of Education at the University of Md., now Chairman of the Division of Social Foundations of Education, George Peabody College for Teachers, Nashville, Tennessee.

The Executive Secretary of the Kansas State Teachers' Association, C. O. Wright, will be guest speaker for the banquet to be held on Thursday, October 18.

In addition to the three General Sessions, 51 departmental meetings will be held, with prominent educators and speakers in the fields of art, business education, classics, driver education, and other school subjects.

Exhibits of outstanding work done by students in elementary and high schools throughout the state will be on display in the Fifth Regiment Armory, together with more than 200 displays of the latest educational equipment, materials, and supplies.

The representative assembly, legislative body of the Teachers' Assn., will hold two meetings during the convention in order to elect officers, hear committee reports, and pass on recommendations for the program of the association during the coming year. Such issues as teacher recruitment, certification, legislation affecting education in Maryland, and changes in the association bylaws, will be acted upon by the delegates to the representative assembly.

Corn Price Set

Preliminary 1956 corn price support rates in Maryland's 13 commercial corn counties have been announced as $1.65 per bushel for farmers who stay within their corn acreage allotment.

A preliminary figure of $1.40 per bushel was announced for producers who exceeded their corn acreage allotment, according to Chester S. Bradley, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. Preliminary support rates for corn in non-commercial corn counties was announced as $1.36 per bushel.

Bradley said the final price support rate will be announced soon. Maryland's commercial corn counties are Caroline, Carroll, Cecil, Dorchester, Frederick, Kent, Montgomery, Queen Anne, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico and Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Glass are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Deborah Jean, born Oct. 4. Mr. and Mrs. Glass live in Norfolk, Va., where he is assigned to the Navy. More Acreage Goes Into Pastureland Nearly 5000 acres of cropland were converted to grass and trees last year by Maryland farmers in the State's 23 soil conservation districts, according to Edward M. Davis, state conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service. This is significant of the interest farmers have shown in shifting their poorer acres to grass and trees—a move that will be given added stimulus by the conservation reserve of the Soil Bank Act, the conservationist said. Maryland's 1957 goal in the conservation reserve program is about 40,000 acres. The national goal for 1957 is some 20 million acres. The SCS indicates that in the interest of good land use at least 182,000 acres of Maryland land now in crops should be converted to permanent grass covers and another 68,000 acres should go into trees. This conversion would be over a period of years, Mr. Davis explained.

In a summary statement, he said as of June 30 Maryland farmers had: (1) planted 11,000 acres in trees, (2) planted more than 60,000 acres to permanent pasture, (3) constructed more than 2000 farm ponds, (4) applied contour farming to nearly 221,000 acres, (5) strip cropland over 158,000 acres, (6) constructed 452 miles of diversion terraces and (7) improved drainage on more than 128,000 acres. This drainage was accompanied with some 3000 miles of open drain and 900,000 feet of drain tile.

These and other practices aimed at conserving the nation's soil and water have been carried out as part of SCS assistance through soil conservation districts to individual farmers.

According to the summary there were over 15,000 farmers cooperating with the state's soil conservation districts. These farmers farmed 2.2 million acres of farmland in the 23 districts. On the national level, there were some 2700 soil conservation districts. They included 91 per cent of all farms and 86 per cent of all farm lands.

For the same period last year. The rest of the Nation, as a whole, seems to be running head-on into an increase in their death toll.

In an attempt to curb the death toll which has climbed to an all-time high among our Maryland teenagers, the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission is visiting the various high schools throughout the State with Miss Jean Steele, the talented "Miss Maryland of 1956," through the cooperation of the C and P Telephone Co. and also are taking to the high schools the Baltimore Transit Co.'s safety bus equipped with the latest and most modern gadgets for testing eyes, reflexes, etc., and teaching the new drivers how to prevent pitfalls.

Mr. Paul E. Burke, Director of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, calling attention to the teenagers, the tremendous dangers existing on today's modern highways and the high speed cars, stated that during the first nine months of 1956 alone in America, almost 30,000 Americans have died from highway accidents as compared with 22,424 brave Americans, which was the total killed in the following wars: Revolutionary, 4435; War of 1812, 2260; Mexican War, 13,283, and Spanish-American, 2446.

The number of highway injuries are many, many times greater than the battle casualties during these wars.

Mr. Burke further stated that the high schools visited by this caravan are requested to send delegates to a teenage traffic safety conference to be held in Baltimore at a later date.

Father Indispensable In Family Unit

Father is indispensable to the psychological security of the family. Father provides psychological security, as well as economic security for his family.

Mrs. Jeanne S. Moehn, Extension family life specialist at the University of Maryland, states further that father is a vital part of the family unit. He is a partner, friend and playmate. With each member of his family, father plays one or all of these roles.

The "head of the family" helps daughter to understand and appreciate masculine interest. He helps the young son to become interested in masculine roles, and helps him to grow into the type of man he'd like to be. With each child arises different adjustments for the father.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Happy Swap

More and more farmers—who badly need help sometimes, but can't afford a full-time hand—are making deals with young town workers and the employers they work for.

For instance, young Hap Hooper now lives rent-free on Easy Roberts' farm. In return he works about 100 days a year for Easy—for a farmhand's pay.

The rest of the year Hap works for his "regular" boss... Buzz Ellis, the electrician. Buzz just speeds up his business when Hap's on hand—slows it down when he isn't—and, like Easy, pockets healthy savings in wages.

From where I sit, it's great how people with different backgrounds—and different viewpoints—can co-operate. How about more of us trying that? I live in a town—maybe you're a farmer. I'm partial to a good glass of beer—you may prefer coffee or milk. But we can make things pleasanter by ignoring differences and giving each other a "hand."

Helpful Hints For Homemakers

Frozen Fruit Popular For Preserves, Jams

Many Maryland homemakers have been freezing fruit with the idea of using some of it later on in the year to make up into jams, jellies, or preserves. If you are one of these homemakers, you'll be interested in knowing that the commercial preserving industry uses frozen fruits in large quantity, too.

A marketing research report from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture shows that of the 300 million pounds of fruits used by preserve manufacturers in 1953, 138 million pounds—or 46 per cent—was frozen.

Grapes, strawberries, and apples counted for well over one-half the fruit used by this industry.

With population growth continuing, preserve-makers may be using 410 to 460 million pounds of fruit by 1975. Rising family incomes, more employed homemakers population shifts to larger sites, less home food preservation and larger families all have contributed to the increasing commercial production of these fruit spreads, the researchers indicate.

State Highway Deaths Increase

The State of Maryland is running ahead this year in deaths resulting from highway collisions. The death toll for Maryland so far is 390 as compared with 370

The arrival of the autumn season brings fire back into our lives, after months of trying to keep cool.

Those of us lucky enough to have open fireplaces will start a log fire on the first chilly evening. There will be bonfires to celebrate football victories. Hot dogs and marshmallows never taste so good as when they're roasted out doors on a crisp October day. To some of us, the smell of burning leaves is the symbol of fall itself.

Fun? Yes—but be careful. Fire is always a hazard, and burns can be painful and dangerous. Don't start the log fire until you are sure that chimney and fireplace are in working order. "A roaring fire" sounds fine, but make sure sparks and flaming debris aren't carried up the chimney to set fire to the roof. Be sure you have a fire screen so that sparks and cinders don't fly out and start a fire on the wrong side of the hearth. Never leave small children alone in a room with a fire. Never leave the house or go to bed without first putting out the fire.

It's just as important to be careful of an outdoor fire. It should be at a safe distance from buildings. Adequate fire extinguishers should be on hand. Check the wind direction, and make sure no one gets too near. Clothing can catch on fire so easily. Be especially careful in handling charcoal fires. Many a serious burn has come from charcoal that "didn't look hot."

And as for those leaves—you are wasting a fine means of enriching your soil if you burn them. Add them to your compost pile or use them as a mulch around plants and trees. That's the safe way, as well as the thrifty way. Burning leaves have a habit of getting out of hand and burning up more than themselves. If you must smell burning leaves, keep your piles small and the hose handy.

Group Wants Gas Tax Used For Roads Only

The Frederick County Petroleum Industries Committee held its annual meeting last week at the Peter Pan Inn, Urbana, Md. After a full discussion the local oil men adopted a program of goals calling for a reasonable gasoline tax; constitutional amendment dedicating motor vehicle revenue to highways; avoidance of burdensome highway bond debt; insurance of fair competition in the sale of petroleum products; and, the promotion of highway safety.

"With the recent imposition of an additional federal gasoline tax, the motorists of Maryland are now paying 43% sales tax on gasoline," Joseph P. Lanigan, Executive Secretary of the Maryland Petroleum Industries Committee, principle speaker at the meeting declared. "The average cost per motor vehicle of state and federal taxes on gasoline amount to $68.68. Other special automotive taxes amount to $56.22, making a total payment of $124.90."

Mahoney For Rural Electrification

A pledge that he will vote favorably on rural electrification matters was given by Democratic Senatorial Candidate George P. Mahoney as he addressed Eastern Shore groups this week.

Mahoney pledged his backing for projects which will enable Maryland's farmers to get the widest possible use of electric energy at the lowest possible rates. This is a plank in the Democratic Party's 1956 platform.

Mahoney stressed that his approval of REA is apparently not shared by his opponent, Senator Butler. The Democratic candidate declared:

"The Senator had 31 opportunities to vote on legislation that would have benefitted the rural electrification program during his term of office.

"The record shows that he either voted unfavorably or failed to vote on 29 occasions."

The Democratic candidate pointed out that the economy of the Shore is largely dependent on agriculture and related small industries and that "dependable and low-cost electric power is more and more a factor in the future welfare" of farmers in both Southern Maryland as well as on the Eastern Shore.

Mr. Mahoney toured southern Maryland Counties last week and this week is visiting the nine Eastern Shore Counties.

Next week, starting on Monday, October 15, the candidate will tour Western Maryland. His tentative schedule includes a rally in Oakland Monday evening.

Tuesday, he will tour Garrett County and move into Allegany County, where he will speak at a Democratic rally in Cumberland Tuesday evening. On Wednesday, he will continue touring Allegany

Workers Reject "Public" Power

One of the objectives of the first Freedom Forum, conducted by the National Education Program at Harding College seven years ago, was to plan a program of economic education for men and women in American industry—the hourly-wage people, the white collar workers and the executives. Representatives of all were present at the Forum. Much economic education material was developed at this first Forum and much more has been developed in subsequent Forums. Among the most active companies in bringing the true facts about our American economic system to their employees has been the electric power industries. Fifteen major electric companies sent people to the first Forum.

Today the people in the electric power companies are notably well-informed on the principles of the American economic system, the great comparative advantages which they bring about, and how those advantages are created and developed through the functioning of the system. A dramatic illustration of the value these people place on the basic principle which is the keystone of our private ownership, American system, was an advertisement which appeared recently in the New York TIMES. Paid For By Workers

The full-page ad was entitled "Labor Fears Government Development of Niagara Power." It was paid for by the New York State Association of Electrical Workers, a union with 80,000 members; and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, with 550,000 members throughout America. The ad took sides in the issue of who is to build and operate additional power facilities on the Niagara River—private enterprise, the New York State Government, or the Federal Government. The electrical workers said in effect: "We are afraid of government control of this power resource."

The 10 reasons why the union employees oppose "public" or Government development of the Niagara River power are worthy of careful attention by every citizen everywhere. Here they are, as they appeared in the advertisement:

1. The Niagara project does not involve any legitimate government function — only the generation of power.
2. Private utility companies are ready, willing and able to do the job.
3. If government is authorized to develop water for electric power as a natural resource other natural resources will eventually be taken over by government.
4. Private power companies pay taxes; government projects do not. The taxes so evaded would have to be made up later by all taxpayers.
5. The rate charged by private companies are regulated by the New York State Public Service Commission. There is no regulation of political operation.
6. Fair and lasting labor agreements are almost impossible with government agencies; business-managed utilities are easier to do business with and the union wants to continue this way.
7. Private development of Niagara is supported overwhelmingly by the people of the area; only extremists who want to impose their philosophy on others favor public development.
8. Free enterprise in the power industry deserves to be protected on its record.
9. Government ownership of industry would bring labor un-

Education Available For Vets' Survivors

The Government's new school program for sons and daughters of deceased war veterans is limited to "young adults" generally between 18 and 23, and not to younger children, W. L. Limburg, manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Baltimore said this week.

Some mothers of pre-teen-agers have been asking whether the program applied to them. It does not, under the law, Mr. Limburg said. The youngsters usually will have to wait until they are 18 before they can begin.

The War Orphans Education program is for sons and daughters of World War I, World War II and Korea veterans who died of service-connected injuries or diseases. Eligible young men and women may receive Government allowances of $110.00 a month while in school or college.

It may be possible for a young person to start school before age 18, Mr. Limburg said. Conditions are that (1) he has quit or been graduated from high school; (2) he is above the age of compulsory school attendance, and (3) VA finds it would be in his best interest to start his training before turning 18.

It also may be possible to remain in school under the program after age 23. These are the conditions:

1. If the person passed his 18th birthday, but not his 23rd, when the law went into effect on June 29, 1956, he may attend school until June 29, 1961.
 2. If he was eligible for schooling, but entered military service before age 23, he will have five years from date of discharge in which to attend school.
 3. If the veteran-parent dies after the son or daughter is 18 but not yet 23, the person has five years from the date of the death of the parent.
- In no event, however, may a student attend school for more than 36 months, the maximum allowed by the law. Also, schooling under the War Orphans program may not continue beyond the young man or woman's 31st birthday.

SPORTS AFIELD
By Ted Kesting

Twenty-five million fishermen and hunters spent $3 billion for 500 million days of sport during 1955. These figures are based on a survey recently completed by Crossley, S-D Surveys, Inc., under the direction of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Of the 1955 estimate of 118.3 million individuals in America over 12, the survey shows that one of each five actually fished, hunted der bureaucratic control and tend to make the American worker a servant to his government.

10. The New York State Federation of Labor, with 1,300,000 members, has endorsed private development of Niagara.

The electric workers who put up their own money thus to have their say, added these powerful words: "We like the free enterprise system that has made America great and the life of the American labor man the envy of the world. Our American system of getting things done makes sense—we want to retain it."

This wholesome attitude is born out of a clear, penetrating knowledge of the economic facts of life, and a common-sense appraisal of what's best for all Americans.

or did both, during that year.

It shows that 20.8 million individuals fished during 1955. Of these, 13.7 million required licenses and 7 million did not. There were 18.4 million freshwater fishermen and 4.5 million salt-water anglers. Their combined expenditures totaled $1.9 billion, or an average of $91.98 per person.

The survey brings out the fact that 11.7 million individuals hunted during 1955, and of this number, 9.9 million required licenses while 1.8 million did not. Hunters spent a total of $936 million, or $79.49 per person during 1955. The big-game hunting total was $323.9 million, or $73.79 each; small-game hunting cost $494 million, or $50.30 per person.

Rural areas supplied the largest totals for numbers of fishermen, with small cities and suburbs second. The 12 to 17-year age group showed the highest fishing and hunting interest, with the 35- to 44-year age group second.

In rural areas every other household had a fisherman or hunter. A breakdown by population densities shows that 17 per cent of the population of large cities, 29 per cent of the population of suburbs, 39 per cent of the population of towns, and 48 per cent of the population of rural areas hunt and/or fish.

The survey shows that 31.6 per cent of all fishermen took trips of more than one day, and 20.7 per cent of all hunters took multi-day trips. Automobile expense, which totaled $365.7 million for hunting and fishing combined, was calculated on the basis of 3½ cents a mile for actual operating costs (gas, oil, maintenance, and tires), eliminating depreciation, insurance, licenses and so forth.

BRIGHTER LIVING

By Jan Reynolds

THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT the air these mornings that hints unmistakably the approach of autumn. Brisk mornings suggest school busses, and that means that tiny tots and teenagers will be coming home with briefcases full of books. Admittedly, homework is not the greatest joy in the world, but it can be made much more acceptable if your small student has a good light for studying. Some of the new lamps — which are contemporary in style — hang from the ceiling or from an arm which attaches to the wall. They can be moved up or down, and the L-shaped arm type can be moved from side to side. These are a good choice. But whether you are using this type of lamp, or the standard desk lamp, be sure that wattages are sufficient, and consider the use of "Softlight" bulbs to reduce glare.

IN THE AUTUMN, dad approaches his place of business with renewed vigor. Give him the best light possible for quick, clean early morning shaves. Since the bathroom is a much sought after room in the mornings, and since dad has a priority here, proper lighting can do a great deal to speed up this daily chore. Too, he'll get a better shave and look smarter throughout the day. A suggestion: surround the medicine cabinet mirror with fluorescent light — one 20 watt fixture at the top (or directly on the ceiling overhead), and a 20 watt fixture on each side. Or in place of the overhead fixture, use a sunlamp in an adjustable socket, so that he can maintain his summer tan — and look healthy all year round.

MOM WILL BEGIN a different kind of life now, and chances are she'll be paying more attention to make-up. In the first place, the absence of summer sun will begin to make a change in her complexion. Too, there is the renewed interest in autumn activities — afternoon bridge parties, and club meetings, Parent-Teachers meetings, church socials and evenings of entertainment in the homes of friends. This will mean extra attention at the dressing table, which should be efficiently lighted. Fluorescent lighting is good for make-up too. Only mom should choose from the variety of "white" tones available in fluorescent and find the one which suits her complexion best. For the dressing table, the surround lighting installation is best, so that the face is lighted from above and from each side, allowing make-up to be applied evenly.

ACCELERATED ACTIVITY will also begin in the basement now. And that is an area where proper lighting is an absolute must, not only for efficiency, but for safety's sake. Dark stairwells, which are sometimes steep, should be particularly well lighted. Use sufficient wattages — at top and bottom — and install easy-to-reach switches. The entire basement should be well lighted. Not only is a great deal of Mrs. Home-maker's work accomplished here — washing, ironing and clothes drying on damp days — but there may be exposed pipes and beams in many basements, which can contribute to home accidents if not easily seen. There are those times, too, when dad needs to take a look at the furnace, oil burner, or hot water heater, and a lack of light can be an annoyance as well as a danger factor. Step up wattages to full strength, install additional fixtures where needed, and look to fluorescent, too, for lighting basements efficiently. — Jan Reynolds, Sylvania Electric Home Lighting Consultant.

IN THURMONT IT IS WEIGLE & TESTERMAN

Service is king at Weigle and Testerman's in Thurmont, but they have a personal way of advertising their products. Their slogan is: "It's the quality that counts!" The Award of Merit is rightfully earned. Weigle and Testerman is the leading hardware store in Thurmont and carries the most complete line of merchandise ever offered in the way of home supplies, gardening products, heating equipment, electrical supplies, farming implements, paints, hunting needs and guns of most every make in addition to many other products too numerous for listing. The writer felt that it was a hunter's paradise when he looked over the impressive array of firearms and ammunition. Every make of gun from a single shot to automatics adorn their well-stocked racks. Winchester are in abundance. The hunting season is on and Weigle and Testerman is headquarters.

At this time home-owners can obtain a good deal of information on plumbing supplies and heating units. Pumps that work without fail always are available. On observing various other implements there were such a variety that carried important manufacturers' names that the writer was at a loss to describe them all, but there is one thing for certain... Weigle and Testerman has the most elaborate selection to be seen. Each article is guaranteed unconditionally against imperfections or faulty workmanship. Dupont paints, Burpee's garden seeds, Pyrex and General Electric supplies, Master locks and Belknap products are available. The store even carries poultry and veterinary supplies. In interviewing Weigle and Testerman there was a special interest noted in their relationship to their customers; how they felt and how they treated them. They were asked about the old business policy of "the customer is always right." Their reply was simple: "They are in our opinion! A satisfied customer, even though a financial loss might be involved... makes us a friend and we feel that service is king." So at Weigle and Testerman's in Thurmont there was found a hardware store that was soft in heart and when in Thurmont it is the place to shop.
