I really get a big kick out of some of the slogans or sayings that have matured during the recent weeks concerning political candidates. Gagsters have been having a field day making up supposedly humorous sayings about the candidates. Such choice literary gems as "Mahoney's Baloney," "Nix on Nixon," "If Ike should kick we'll be stuck with Dick" and "Pooley from Dewey," are among the most frequently used retorts.

I don't believe there are any present-day wits who could manufacture slogans as could the late FDR. He used to roll 'em in the aisle with his humorous remarks. This could only happen in America, anywhere else you'd probably be liquidated for making such remarks.

I don't ever remember when there was so much political activity on the local election front. Both Democrats and Republicans have taken on the burden of getting out the vote and no holds are barred. Propaganda is abundant on both sides and both have rented local headquarters and expect to be very active election day. I like to see this kind of interest manifested in our elections. . . . it's a healthy condition. Regardless of the outcome we'll all be friends again and the affair soon will be forgotten. It takes a little time for the wounds of the losers to heal but they always do and I hope always will.

I imagine there are some red Republican faces in Gettysburg these days. Seems as though a live-wire Democrat did a little investigating into the affairs of the tax assessor over there. The gent happens to be a Republican appointee by Republican County Commissioners. Anyway this tax assessor displayed an election sign on the door to his office indicating his choice of Ike for President. The office naturally is owned by the taxpayers, Democrats and Republicans alike and posting political signs on public property such as this is a bit unethical to say the least. It also was objectionable to the Democratic gent there too. He decided to do a little research into the tax assessor's records and when he finished he came up with the fact that President Eisenhower's pretentious home and farm near Gettysburg had been assessed at the ridiculously low sum of only $6,250. The guy was so incensed about the matter that he caused a large advertisement to the effect in the Gettysburg newspaper. Real estate usually is assessed from one-third to a half of its value so that would make Ike's farm worth about $12,000 or $18,000 at the most . . . wanna bet?

Had my first glimpse of Elvis the Pelvis recently and I might add I wasn't greatly impressed by his talent. I was impressed rather thoroughly though with what I'd call his immoral antics. The man in my opinion, is a one-man hootchie cootchie show and should be restricted from television where the nation can see him in action. I might add that his pelvis is more trained than his voice and I couldn't see where it did the show that sponsored him any credit. What some people won't do to make a buck. Oh yes, it seems there were quite a few complaints registered by the public after the show and Mr. Pelvis appeared to be a bit shocked by the reaction. Why he is quoted as saying that if he thought for one moment he was contributing to juvenile delinquency or immorality he'd go back to driving a truck . . . and that, in my opinion, is precisely what he should do!

Just a final word about voting. The election is Tuesday in case you aren't aware of it. The issues are clear and well-defined this time and the public has been advised of exactly what we are facing, and personally I don't like the looks of it. There's a distinct threat to world peace at this very moment. You must take your elections seriously and go to the polls. Don't let the machines confuse you and stay away. There aides at the polls who will gladly show you how the voting machine works and it just takes a second to learn in case you aren't familiar with their operation. The existence of the whole human race may be at stake this very instant; your ancestors fought to pre-

Local Resident To Celebrate 90th Birthday

Edwin Chrismer, retired carriage-maker, will celebrate his 90th birthday Tuesday, Nov. 6, at the Longview Nursing Home in Manchester, Md., where he has been making his home since his wife, Mrs. Jeanette A. Chrismer, became a patient there in June.

Born in Gettysburg three years after the famous battle he is a son of the late John A. and Susan Cadori Chrismer. Brought up in Bonneville where he attended St. Joseph's School, he moved to Emmitsburg in 1886 going to work for Nicholas Baker as a blacksmith's helper.

Upon Mr. Baker's death Mr. Chrismer and the late John Dukehart formed the carriage-making business of Chrismer and Dukehart which they operated at the present Hubert L. Joy property on South Seton Ave. Mr. Dukehart died during the first World War and Mr. Chrismer carried on the business singly until his retirement in 1927.

He and Mrs. Chrismer (the former Jeanette Humerick Prof) were married in June of 1907 and will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary next year. His first wife, the late Addie Nusser Chrismer, died in 1901.

Four children born of the two marriages still survive. They are: Sister Mary Paul Chrismer, now stationed at Lowell, Mass.; Mrs. William M. Travers of Baltimore; Everett Chrismer, Emmitsburg; and Wayne F. Chrismer, Bel Air, Md. Mr. Chrismer still maintains his residence at 103 E. Main St., and frequently returns here for visits. He expects to be back briefly on his birthday—to cast his vote in the coming election—the 18th time he has voted for a President.

Junior C. of C. Will Be Organized

The Frederick Junior Chamber of Commerce announces plans to form an Emmitsburg - Thurmont Junior Chamber of Commerce. An initial meeting will be held on Thursday, Nov. 8, at 8 p. m. in Thurmont at the American Legion home. All young men between the ages of 21 and 35 are asked to be present.

The Jaycees are a civic service organization for young men. It is dedicated to two purposes:

(1) Improvement and development of the community.
(2) Improvement and development of its individual members to train them for business advancement and civic leadership. The Junior Chamber of Commerce does not conflict in any way with other clubs in this area. Many Jaycees hold offices in other civic organizations.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is a federation of over 2500 local organizations. In addition, there are active chapters in 65 other countries. The state Jaycee organization is composed of members from each local chapter. At the present time there are approximately 2,000 members in the state. Nationwide the membership is well over 200,000, with more being added daily. The Junior C. of C. is the fastest-growing organization for young men today.

Many projects are undertaken by the Jaycees on national, state and local levels. The Voice of Democracy contest for school students is one example. Teen-Age driving rodeos are held to encourage safe driving among teenagers. Every year contests are held to select the "Four Outstanding Young Farmers" and the "10 Outstanding Young Men" in the country. National and international recognition is given winners. Local chapters have promoted Christmas lighting contests and have aided the Salvation Army at that time. Chapters are interested in Community Chest work, Get Out the Vote Campaigns and chest x-ray surveys.

Thursday, Nov. 8 is the opportunity for Emmitsburg and Thurmont to join the ranks of other progressive communities throughout the nation and form a Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Local Juvenile Gets Jail Sentence For Hunting

A 16-year-old Emmitsburg boy was sentenced last Saturday to 70 days in the county jail and a 17-year-old companion was fined $50 for hunting illegally on Oct. 14 in the Tom's Creek Church area.

The boy received the jail term when he didn't pay $70 in fines. He was found guilty of hunting without a license, hunting on a Sunday, hunting at night and having a rabbit in possession out of season. He was charged by Game Warden Richard Jacques.

Juvenile authorities waived jurisdiction and the boys were taken before Emmitsburg Magistrate Charles D. Gillelan, who fined the younger boy $20 for hunting without a license and $15 on the other charges. He also fined the boy $5 for the possession of the rabbit.

The other Emmitsburg boy, 17, was arrested with the 16-year-old and fined a total of $50, which was paid. The 17-year-old was found guilty of hunting on Sunday, hunting at night and having a rabbit in possession. Each charge brought a $15 fine and $5 was assessed for the rabbit in possession.

The boys were arrested by Emmitsburg Police Chief Daniel J. Kaas who was in the area at the time and heard shots. Two older men were picked up by Kaas with the boys. They were fined $50 each on similar charges, earlier last week.

Reader Declares Democratic Party Is Party Of All The People—Not Just A Few

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
Following the current election campaign closely one is struck by the fact that we here in Maryland's Sixth Congressional District have a unique choice, seldom so clearly presented to voters. We can choose to be represented in Congress between two men with completely different viewpoints on the proper functions of modern American government.

Fundamentally, our choice is between two men, one who would use government as an agency of human welfare, while keeping it democratically controlled, and one who has the 19th Century's fear of government, who denies the people's right to use government to promote their own well-being.

In direct contrast with the views of his Republican opponent, Mr. Foley looks upon democratic government as the servant of all the people, a servant which helps people in today's complex industrial, atomic age to do the necessary things they can no longer do for themselves.

For example, Mr. Foley believes that government today, acting in partnership with people should lend a hand in such endeavors as (1) helping communities to build needed schools for the ever-increasing number of children who are America's future, (2) helping the small business man meet the threat to his existence by the large scale corporation, (3) helping the farmer overcome the quirks of nature and changing market conditions that often deprive him of a fair share of the nation's prosperity, (4) providing for more adequate security for older citizens whose working days are over, (5) protecting the right of working men and women to win for themselves a fair measure of material progress through collective bargaining.

In short, having learned the lessons of history well, Mr. Foley would strive to represent you in Congress so as to serve the needs of the people and the cause of justice through and with the aid of democratically - controlled government. History is clear that only in this manner can the individual freedom so essential to a free nation's life be preserved.

Thus a vote for Foley, and indeed one for the straight Democratic ticket, is a vote for government with a heart.

A vote for Foley, Mahoney and Stevenson, is a vote for government in tune with the social and economic realities of mid twentieth-century America.

A vote for Foley, Mahoney and Stevenson is a vote to put into action Lincoln's historic idea that American government should be OF, BY, and FOR the people, all the people.

Property Claim Dismissed By Court

Claims of property which Karl H. Stello, of Hyattsville, had made to certain property on a farm which he and his former wife operated, near Emmitsburg, were dismissed in Circuit Court Tuesday after Chief Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer decided the personal property was held by both parties as tenants in common.

Stello had made the claims against Zurgable Bros., Lingg and Crouse, Charles F. Stouter, Cloyd W. Seiss, Francis S. Stella also known as Frances S. McVey and Horace M. Alexander, sheriff. They involved hay, soy beans, a tractor and a number of articles of household property. Writs of fieri facias had been issued by the various creditors against Frances S. Stello and levies made. Stello claimed the articles were all his personal property.

The judge didn't agree with him. He said from the evidence, the property in question was first held by the Stellos as tenants by the entireties and after she obtained a divorce, it was held as tenants in common.

Mrs. Stello is now Mrs. Frances Leatherman. Stello, however, said he does not recognize the Mexican divorce from his former wife secured. Divorce proceedings between the two have been pending in Equity Court in Frederick for some time.

Stello claimed he paid cash for a number of the articles in question after advertising in the newspapers that he wouldn't be responsible for his wife's debts. He also said he had attempted to attack his former wife's Mexican divorce by bringing bigamy charges in Virginia but indicated, in answer to a question from the Court, that she had not been found guilty.

Charles McC. Mathias Jr. represented Stello and Edward D. Storm represented the defendant firms which had levied on the property.

Claims Democrats Have Most Qualified Candidates

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle:
Vote Democratic! Not only because you are a Democrat but also because we have the best men. Eisenhower is running on his record and looking at the state of our foreign policy today, that record does not reflect the line that the Republicans have been giving us for the past eight weeks. Stevenson has been telling us again and again that our prestige abroad was never lower. The developments today have proved as nothing else than just how right he is. Let's do something about it—VOTE DEMOCRATIC.

UNION CLAIMS NEWSPAPER SUPPRESSES NEWS

There's labor trouble in Gettysburg but Adams Countians are being kept in the dark about it.

Some 200 members of Local No. 4978, United Steelworkers of America, have been on strike since Wednesday a week ago but nothing has been published in the Gettysburg newspaper about the walkout.

According to information the Gettysburg radio station has refused to broadcast news of the strike until the paper prints it, according to the union.

Paul L. Roy, editor of the Gettysburg Times, the county's only daily paper, allegedly has refused to comment to a reporter of the York Gazette and Daily on either strike except to say that his paper had printed nothing about the Steelworkers' strike.

Members of the local are seeking a three-year contract with hourly wage increases of 12 cents, 10 cents and eight cents at the Inductive Equipment Corp. in Gettysburg where a number of Emmitsburgians are employed.

The strike at the Inductive Equipment Corp., on the other hand, has been orderly and there have been no incidents Union representatives said this week and that they have been willing at all times to meet with the company to negotiate.

During the 60 days prior to the expiration of the contract when negotiations may take place, two meetings were held. The company is a subsidiary of Essex Wire Co. of Wayne, Ind., and a company representative from that city has been sent to Gettysburg to talk with union spokesmen.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation service has been called into the dispute but as yet no meetings with a mediator and the union and management have been arranged.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY IS WELL ATTENDED

Emmitsburg Democrats turned out in goodly numbers despite a very inclement evening Tuesday at a rally held in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Annex, in all, about 80 braved the rainy evening to attend the pep rally.

Lumen F. Norris, chairman of the Emmitsburg Democratic Central Committee, presided over the meeting. After giving a short resume of the activities of the group for the past two years, Mr. Norris introduced the principal speaker of the evening, State's Attorney Samuel W. Barrick. Other speakers were scheduled to appear, but due to the weather and distance to be traveled, they were unable to present.

The speaker reviewed the Democratic platform and compared it with that of the opposition party and following his talk, an open discussion period was held. Mr. Barrick stated that the Democratic Party's chances of winning the election appeared brighter each week and ventured the opinion that if the registered members of the Democratic Party voted the straight ticket, election of Democratic candidates was assured.

Many of the outstanding citizens of the town were present at the affair, and it was particularly noted that interest by college professors was more prevalent than in former years. Following the discussion period, refreshments were served the group.

The 1957 Golden Hawk, lead model in Studebaker's line of sports-type cars, is now on display at C. W. Epley's Garage, Gettysburg. The five-passenger, family-sized hardtop is only 56 inches high, but 17 feet long. It has a 275-horsepower, 289-cubic inch V-8 engine equipped with a supercharger as standard equipment. It will be the only production car with this development which gives added performance during acceleration and passing, but allows normal gasoline economy at cruising speeds. Along with the supercharger, the Golden Hawk has new, faster steering and new front-rear weight distribution for substantially improved handling, cornering and performance. Dual exhausts, race car-inspired instrument panel including tachometer and vacuum-pressure gauge, non-slip power-dividing differential, non-fade brakes and padded dashboards are leading features. The Hawk line, brought to the market for the first time this last year, is being scheduled at 25 per cent of production for 1957. In addition to the Golden Hawk, the line includes the Silver Hawk V-8 and Silver Hawk six coupes. Wheelbases of 120½ inches on these models are the longest in the low price field.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Once you've brought down a wild goose, says Jimmy Robinson, Trap and Skeet Editor of Sports Afield Magazine, you deserve him. He comes hard, agonizingly hard. But even if the birds never come in, you don't go home empty-handed. You can take home that sound of the wild; you can take home the thrilling sight of them.

Each flock chooses one of the older, more experienced birds as leader — the watch gander, although it isn't always a gander. Feeding or resting, this bird or one of his delegates remains on watch to look for danger and warn the flock of its approach.

You can't be too painstaking to be sure of fooling the wild goose. Down along the Chesapeake, one of the country's finest goose shooting areas, shooters build permanent blinds. Brush blinds along the point of winding rivers are so cunningly interwoven with the surrounding thickets that they are practically impossible to spot from a few feet away. But the wise geese can spot them.

Blues and snows winter by the thousands on the Gulf Coast delta area. The western Canada and lesser Canada provide West Coast gunners with the same excitement that East Coast gunners enjoy. The only difference is that the southern California gunner may be literally sweating it out among the tules in a khaki shirt, while the Chesapeake gunner is freezing slowly but surely in a windy stake blind.

The American brant of the Atlantic seaboard and the black brant of the Pacific are smaller geese whose relatively diminutive size by no means decreases their sportiness on the wing. At the beginning of the season, Atlantic brant is firm and sweet to the taste, but as the season progresses and they gorge themselves on rank eel grass, the flavor of the bird assumes the characteristics of a sea gull. This is not the case with the Canada which, generally speaking, is considered the best eating of all waterfowl.

One species or another of Canada geese is found in every state of the Union. He's the same wise, unpredictable creature, whether you take him in the mountain passes of the West, along the shores of Oregon's Klamath Lake, or wing him over the palmettos scattered around the St. Marks Refuge near Tallahassee, Fla. Horseshoe Lake Refuge, near Cairo, Ill., is probably the country's greatest concentration of geese and goose hunters. As many as 50,000 geese at a time have made this refuge their headquarters. When the Canadas rise from Horseshoe Lake to venture out for feed, the noise sounds like a thundering freight train. Along the East Coast, goose shooting means only one thing—the Chesapeake and that Valhalla of goose shooters, Mattamuskeet.

Winter Increases Threat Of Fires

The heating season is upon us. Although home fires are not confined to any one season they are more frequent during the winter months. One-fifth of these fires result from faulty heating systems or unsafe heating practices. To avoid needless loss and tragedy, Dr. Forbes H. Burgess, deputy state health officer, issues information regarding your heating systems and methods.

Chimneys should be built on a solid foundation from the ground up, extend higher than the peak of the roof, and should not be supported by any wooden construction or be used to support any part of the house. Chimneys and flues need to be cleaned and checked every year so that necessary repairs can be made. Cracks can result from loosened and deteriorated mortar, expansion and contraction after a very hot fire, and from settling. Live sparks can enter these gaps and cause a fire. After a severe windstorm it is a wise precaution to make an additional inspection for loose bricks. Roof and shingle fires ignited by sparks often follow such storms. All roofs should be of fire resistant materials.

Central Heating
If not properly constructed, installed and operated many forms of heating equipment may be dangerous. All of them must be properly maintained. Central heating systems need to be inspected and cleaned regularly. A furnace is dangerous when dirty. It is unwise to postpone necessary repairs. There should be nothing burnable within 18 inches of any heating unit. If your yardstick shows less clearance at top, sides or rear of heater remove all possible flammable material. To the combustible finish which cannot be removed, such as a wall, attach one-quarter inch asbestos board placed on one inch nailing strips. This creates an air space between the insulation and the wall. There should be 48-inch clearance in front; but hot air pipes may be within six inches of the unit.

Insurance Is Best Of Savings Accounts

Case M-336 Don G. Aged 29, is a husband who worried because he didn't have a savings account. "Dr. Crane, how is it possible for a young married man to lay up money for a rainy day?" he grumbled, unhappily.

Well, the best solution to that problem is for a husband to present his wife with a life insurance policy.

There is no more thoughtful and considerate gift that a husband can offer his wife.

For life insurance stabilizes marriage and keeps it happier. And I am not joking.

For example, it would take the average husband more than a lifetime to save $10,000 by banking a few dollars each week.

But he can, in effect, have $10,000 in his bank account inside of an hour if he takes out a $10,000 insurance policy and anything serious should happen to him later.

Insurance is the poor man's bonanza. For it enables every average worker to protect his family in just one hour of his time.

Insurance also is the savings account the average husband has while he is loaded with the obligations of rearing a family and paying doctor bills for the children.

Insurance also relieves his mind of a lot of anxiety over matters. For you can borrow money on your insurance if you need temporary loan to tide you over an unexpected dilemma.

If you should accidentally be snatched from this earth via auto wreck, your financial arms can reach out protectively from the Great Beyond to look after your wife and babies till they are grown.

That is especially true if you take out a "Family Income" type of policy.

Suppose, for example, on your wedding day you present your bride with a $10,000.00 "family income" policy.

If death should immediately intervene, she would get $2000.00 cash, $200.00 each month for 12 months, $100.00 a month for next 19 years, and at the end of the 20 years she would get $8,000.00 cash.

Furthermore, this "Family Income" Policy is only slightly higher than ordinary life insurance.

But if you can afford less than this amount it is available from $10,000 to as low as $3,000 and rates are governed accordingly.

To really start a real savings and protection plan, life insurance serves you and your family to the fullest extent.

For information as to your eligibility and plan to serve you best, don't hesitate to call or write,

Your Personal Health

EATING FOR LIFE

"It doesn't matter what I eat at my age," says Grandmother pushing the spinach to the side of her plate.

And she was just telling Junior to eat his spinach.

Junior has a perfect right to think she's being unreasonable. She is. Her diet needs are almost the same as his, except that she can manage with fewer calories because she climbs fewer trees.

Older people too often think the rules of health no longer apply to them. They're apt to believe, for instance, that they're too old to catch an infectious disease such as tuberculosis. A glance at TB statistics would tell them another story. The TB case rate and death rate in people over 65 is considerably higher than in people between 15 and 44.

base so that it will protrude 12 to 18 inches in front to protect the floor. The wall behind the stove needs to be covered with sheet asbestos or other approved insulating material. This is particularly important where the walls are of plastic tile or tile board.

If a stovepipe must go through a wall or floor the wood should be protected from the hot metal by a ventilated metal ring, also called a thimble, a foot larger in diameter than the pipe. Where the pipe goes into the chimney a metal collar is used. A tight metal cover should be placed over any stovepipe hole not in use. Do not permit stovepipes to pass through clothes closets or attic. Keep pipes free of soot and all joints tight. Before fires are started the pipes used to be examined for rust holes. Avoid stringing across the room a long stovepipe as it may bulge open and start fire.

For starting a fire it is safe to use kindling, chips, shavings or paper, but never kerosene or gasoline. When coal fires are banked for the night chimney dampers should never be completely closed. Rooms where stoves are located need to be well-ventilated as coal gas is extremely poisonous. A metal container for ashes is worth many times its cost. It is unsafe to place ashes in a cardboard box or wooden box or barrel, or against a wooden fence or building.

Portable Heaters

Portable oil heaters have been such a frequent cause of fires that their use is illegal in some areas. If they must be used give some thought to where they are placed. Avoid locating them near curtains, drapes, bedding, or other combustibles, or any insecure support from which they might fall, in or near a doorway or any place where they might be tipped over. Do not permit children to play with or near any heater, stove or other heating equipment. Portable heaters should be used in a room with ventilation so the burned oxygen can be replaced; and never re-fueled when hot or when wick is ignited. Keep the stove clean; use clean oil; keep the reservoir level and secure. Fill the tank in daylight through tubing or a funnel from a safe metal can with a pour spout and if the oil is cold leave some space for expansion. Stoves should not be carried when lighted, and fuel should not be kept inside the house. Stoves with more than 2-gallon capacity should be connected to flue.

Fireplaces need a metal screen to prevent coals and sparks from falling onto the floor and to keep children getting burned, or clothing from coming into contact with the flames if a person stands too close to the fire.

And nutrition is one of the important factors in resistance to tuberculosis.

Why do so many older people eat poorly? The most common reason, doctors believe, is habit. Some of them never have eaten enough meat, vegetables, and milk — and they don't want to change. Teeth also play a part. If older people will see their dentists for correction of decayed or missing teeth and ill-fitting dentures, they can enjoy solid, well-balanced meals. Money is another problem. Retired people with shrunken incomes often feel that the right foods are too expensive. Better knowledge of food values, careful marketing and budgeting will help.

What should older people eat to protect themselves from disease and make the later years of life comfortable? The daily diet of a 65-year-old man should provide 1800 to 2400 calories, a woman's 1500 to 1900. Doctors recommend a pint of milk a day; butter or fortified margarine; peanut butter; one serving each of citrus fruits or tomatoes; green or yellow vegetable, potatoes; other vegetable or fruit; whole grain cereal; eggs, meat, poultry, or seafood, and enriched or whole grain bread.

For Against
Amendment No. 2

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change the present method of introduction of bills in the General Assembly. The present law contemplates that during the last 10 days of the session bills may originate in either House only with approval of two-thirds of the members. The proposed change would limit the introduction of bills, under the same voting rules, during the last 10 calendar days of even-numbered year 30-day sessions and the last 20 calendar days of odd-numbered year 90 day sessions.

For Against
Amendment No. 3

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change the Constitution's method of confirming or rejecting gubernatorial appointments made while the Senate is recessed, from the present system of submitting such recess appointments to the Senate within thirty days after the next meeting of the Legislature to a system whereby the recess appointments are submitted to the Senate for adoption or rejection on the first day of the next regular meeting of the Senate.

For Against
Amendment No. 4

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
A constitutional amendment which proposes to change budget procedure which now provides for the Governor to submit the budget to the General Assembly within twenty days after it convenes in odd-numbered years, for a ninety-day session, but allows a newly elected Governor thirty days for such budget submission. The amendment, if approved, would remove the exception for newly elected Governors and cause the twenty-day provision for odd-numbered years to apply to all Governors.

For Against

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
An Act to propose amendments to or repeal of certain sections of the Constitution of Maryland, being certain sections relating to the following titles: "Electorate Franchise"; "Executive Department"; "Judiciary Department"; "Attorney General and State's Attorney"; "Sundry Officers"; "Public Works"; "Amendments to the Constitution"; "Quadrantal Elections"; "Military and Military Affairs"; "Labor and Agriculture"; removing from the State Constitution certain obsolete, out-moded or incorrect material.

Butler Accuses Mahoney Of Distorting Facts

Of the few issues that George P. Mahoney has "designed to discuss" so far in the Senatorial campaign, "not one is unattended by distortion, untruth and downright falsehood," Senator John Marshall Butler (R-Md) declared recently.

"A prime example of the Mahoney baloney is the educational problem," Sen. Butler said in a statement issued from his headquarters. "He refers to a bill I co-sponsored in the Senate to alleviate the shortage of classrooms and to advance the education of our children. He says that this bill would 'federalize' our public school system.

"This past master at fabrication does not tell the people of Maryland that my proposal was a part of President Eisenhower's legislative program and anyone who charges the President with trying to exercise Federal control over our schools has holes in his head. The Administration's educational program envisions a partnership between the states and local communities with the Federal government and, unlike the centralized system advocated by Mahoney's New and Fair Deal friends, left control of the public school system on the local level where it belongs.

"The inconsistency of Mr. Mahoney is no where more glaring than in this criticism on education. He belabors me for voting for the return of tidelands oil to the states, which was typical of President Eisenhower's recommendation of States' Rights, and now he charges an attempt to federalize the schools. This is Mahoney baloney at its worst.

"Nor does Mahoney tell you that the President's proposal, which I co-sponsored in the Senate, provided Federal assistance to all needy school districts—and that it was killed by a Democratic controlled Congress.

"In reading press accounts of Mahoney's statement on education, he omits — purposely, no doubt—that his own party countered with a school bill giving handouts to the wealthiest school districts with the least help going to the scattered population areas where the need is greater.

"If Mahoney knew anything about Congress, which he doesn't, he would be aware of the well-known fact that the opposition party sabotaged the President's school bill and that the substitute measure it offered was so bad that it couldn't be passed.

"He would know also that the Republican 83rd Congress was the first Congress to make appropriations for school construction and operations to the full extent of existing legislation. By September, 1954, 866 out of 1223 approved school building projects were in use and the remainder were well on the way to completion. These facilities provided 13,946 equipped classrooms and related facilities for about 402,000. In addition, 20 temporary buildings accommodating 8833 children were finished and over $100 million had been set aside for construction of 526 school projects to new eligibility requirements enacted by the 83rd Republican Congress.

"By the end of 1955, classroom construction was up 10 per cent over the accelerated rate of 1954-55, with 66,300 new classrooms compared with 60,000 the year before. "Had Mahoney's New Deal and Fair Deal friends refrained from playing politics in the last Congress, the President's proposal, which I had the honor to co-sponsor, would have been enacted and additional thousands of classrooms needed so badly by Maryland and other states would be under construction.

"But like George Mahoney, they chose to sacrifice the educational needs of our children on the altar of political expediency.

"The voter of Maryland will not be deceived by this additional slice of Mahoney baloney. They are, no doubt, aware that they will be given additional slices in the few days remaining before election."

 Writes . . .

By ROGEK W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., Nov. 1
 —So much is published today about electronics, atomic energy, and new gadgets of all kinds that I have been investigating what business has survived throughout the centuries. Let this week's column give you my report.

Probably the best evidence of what businesses are the oldest is to be found in ancient Egyptian Tombs of several thousand years ago. They all contain ceramic ware, jewelry, musical instruments, tapestries and pictures. Although all these arts have their ups and downs—or cycles—they continue to exist. Religion has also been a "big business" alternating between great influence and barbaric persecution. Gold, silver, and fine architecture have represented wealth throughout history. Although the Egyptian art and music of those early days seem crude to many of us, yet modern art and jazz have now returned to it. This definite cycle has taken place several times during the past 4,000 years. In fact, the cycle is shown in the history of Egypt itself.

Three thousand years ago Egypt was the richest and most progressive nation in the world. Then a decline came which brought poverty and chaos, finally dropping that nation into the lap of Great Britain as its poorest colony. Today's newspaper headlines are now on Egypt, which appears to have 15 great nations eating out of its hand! The great wheels even of history are slowly but constantly revolving. This means we should carefully avoid using two words—"now" and "always"—in connection with an art, a profession, a business, or even a nation, or a religion. The Bible And Economic History

However readers may disagree as to the importance of daily Bible reading, the Bible gives us an excellent review of what businesses have continued through the centuries. Bankers, lawyers, and tax collectors existed then as now. Jesus even spoke a good word for the bankers (Luke XIX) although he did not want them to carry on their business in the Temple. Fishing has also survived and much of it is being carried on in the same old-fashioned way.

When we realize that stocks and bonds were unknown several centuries ago, one wonders at their permanence; yet I forecast that some form of investment will exist. Real estate has served that purpose for thousands of years. Just now we hear much about "shopping Centers"; but the downtown Main Street merchant who will adapt his merchandise and hours to new conditions has little to fear. The Stoia, in the world's once most beautiful shopping center which flourished 2,000 years ago at Athens, Greece, has been buried for many centuries. John D. Rockefeller is now rebuilding this as a lesson to cheer merchants who cannot now afford to change to a new "shopping center."

Merchants Must Be Progressive
 During Bible days the chief musical instrument was the harp. This gradually developed into the piano. Musical instrument stores which refused to sell pianos were probably forced out of business. Yet more harps are being sold today than ever before. We once thought that kerosene would kill the candle business; that gas would kill the kerosene business; and that electricity would put gas out of business. Yet more candles, more kerosene, and more gas were sold last year than ever before.

Why do I write this column today? My reason is to prevent any manufacturer or merchant from hastily giving up without having some expert make a study of his business, prospective parking lots, and needed changes. Such a merchant should not be in a hurry to sell or give up, but it is wise for him to keep out of debt and to advertise. Then he will have very little to worry about. Sometimes I think that when the next business depression does come, it will be due to the worries of manufacturers, retailers, and especially the consumers, who are most important of all.

Women Sharing In New Social Security Changes

By William T. Gillespie
 Today, I'm addressing my discussion of the new social security law to women—to wives of retired insured workers, to widows of deceased insured workers, to women workers who are in employment or self-employment that counts toward old-age survivors insurance benefits, and to those dependent mothers who might become eligible for survivors payments if an insured son or daughter should die.

Heretofore there has been a uniform age at which benefit payments could start for all beneficiaries other than children and wives or widows with children in their care. That age was 65; it remains 65 for male beneficiaries. The 1956 amendments to the law, however, lower the age at which women can receive benefits. Beginning with November of this year (1956) women can start getting payments at age 62.

Widows and (in case there is no surviving child or spouse entitled to benefit payments) dependent mothers, may begin getting survivors benefit payments when they reach age 62. They will get the same monthly benefit that they would have started to get at age 65 under the old law.

Wives of retired insured workers and retired insured working women can, if they choose, start getting benefit payments at age 62. However, the monthly benefit amount payable to them will be somewhat less than the amounts of the benefits they would have received had they waited until age 65. In case a wife or an insured working woman elects to start getting benefits before age 65, she will continue to receive a reduced amount after she reaches that age. The longer a woman waits after reaching age 62 and before age 65 to start getting payments, the less the reduction in the amount of the monthly benefit. As I have said before, however, once she starts getting monthly payments at a reduced rate, she cannot later qualify for the full amount.

Let's take the example of a woman who has been employed in work covered by social security long enough to become insured. Assume that her full monthly benefit amount, based on her average earnings in covered work, is $78.00. If she waits until she reaches age 65 to retire, she will get that full amount every month from then on. But she will reach 62 in November 1956. If she decides to retire then, she can get old-age payments starting with November. The amount she will receive will be 80 percent of the monthly amount she would receive if she waited until she reached 65. This will be $62.40 monthly instead of $78.00 per month. If she waits until she is 63 to start getting retirement payments, her benefit amount will be 67.60 monthly. Every year, and every month within a year in which she puts off receiving retirement benefits up to age 65, will increase her benefit amount slightly. I want to point out again, however, that once she starts getting reduced payments, she will not be able to qualify later for the full payment.

The above example applies also to the wife of a retired insured worker receiving benefits. In her case, however, the amount of the monthly benefit she would get, if she chose to claim payments at age 62, would be 75 percent of what she would get if she waited until she reached age 65. As in the case of the woman worker, the wife's monthly payments will be a little larger each month she defers claiming benefits after her 62nd birthday and before she reaches 65. However, if her retired husband should die at any time after she has begun to receive her reduced benefits she will begin receiving full widow's benefits plus the lump-sum death payment.

Now that the starting age for women beneficiaries is 62 instead of 65, less time in work covered by social security may be required in some cases for a woman worker to become insured. Generally, the required time is one-half the time elapsed after 1950 up to the time she reaches age 62 instead of age 65, with a minimum of at least 1½ years of covered work. Under the amended law, a person who works continuously after 1955 can become insured with fewer quarters of coverage.

I mentioned insured status for women workers because it is important not only to those now 62 or nearing that age, but also to certain survivors (dependent children, widowers or parents) of some women workers who reached age 65 or died after June 30, 1954, without having enough covered work to be insured under the old law. If they had enough work to

Mahoney "Feels" Victory In Air

With Tuesday's election just a few days in the future, George P. Mahoney said he was "very confident" that Maryland voters would send him to the United States Senate.

The Democratic candidate said he felt "victory in the air, because the people know where I stand and like the things for which I stand. They want a Senator who will speak for them—not for the privileged few." Mahoney continued:

"Our farmers and small businessmen are not receiving their share of prosperity—they want a spokesman who will work to solve their problems. "Housewives who see their grocery bills climbing so much faster than their husband's paycheck and working people, and people on salaries wonder why the incumbent Senator, who was so generous with tax cuts to big corporations, hasn't done the same for them.

"They know I will work for more liberal personal exemptions which will give the average family of four a $160 income tax cut and benefit all taxpayers."

Mahoney said his announcement of opposition to the Natural Gas Bill has been well received by voters in many Free State areas. He added:

"After all, there are 500,000 Maryland families using natural gas for heating and cooking. The Natural Gas Bill would enrich Texas oil billionaires at the expense of these Maryland consumers. I certainly couldn't favor anything like that. I can't imagine how Senator Butler could have voted for it."

In addition to favorable popular reaction to his stands on campaign issues, Mahoney said another factor working in his favor is "the strong tide of resentment running against my opponent for the manner in which he won the Senate seat in 1950. "A Senate subcommittee, composed of both Democrats and Republicans, called Butler's campaign tactics 'destructive of fundamental American principles'. It wasn't until three months after the election that investigators discovered more than $27,000 in unreported Butler campaign contributions — the larger part of which came from Texas oil barons.

"Marylanders like fair play and they want their elections to be open and above board. Senator Butler, on television recently, admitted the blame for 1950. He's pleaded guilty — six years too late."

BOY ACCUSED OF ROBBING OWN MOTHER

Pittsburgh police reported Tuesday night they had in juvenile detention a 17-year-old Emmitsburg boy who ran away Tuesday morning from his home, allegedly with the life savings of his mother.

They said James Stanton was taken into custody as he stepped from a plane at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

The youth left home with $1,500 and planned to travel to Birmingham, Ala., to see a girl friend. He boarded the plane at Harrisburg, Pa.

State Police at Barrack B and Pennsylvania State Police at Gettysburg said they had not been informed of the incident. The dispatch from Pittsburgh did not indicate who had alerted the police there to watch for the boy on the plane.

There was no explanation as to why anyone headed for Birmingham, Ala., would be traveling from Emmitsburg to Harrisburg to Pittsburgh.

The Stantons live in a trailer north of town on N. Seton Ave. Ext., near the Flat Run Bridge.

The mother later this week went to Pittsburgh, dropped the charges against the youth and returned with him in her custody.

Congregations Fete Departing Rev. Galambos

Monday evening, Oct. 29 was a time of fellowship of the three Presbyterian congregations of Emmitsburg, Piney Creek and Taneytown at the home of the Misses Amelia and Elizabeth Annan in Taneytown. The occasion of the meeting was in appreciation of their minister, Rev. Gideon Galambos, who resigned from their charge to accept a call to Cincinnati, O. It was a time of deep regret and also of good wishes for his work in his new field.

The guests inscribed their messages and names in an autograph book which was decorated with pictures of the three churches and their dates, it also included an appropriate message asking God's blessing on Mr. and Mrs. Galambos in their ministry. Mrs. Galambos and little Miss Georgia Elizabeth were the high spots of interest, so much so that one young guest was almost constantly standing by in admiration.

The friendliness and socialability of the group was outstanding, aided possibly, by the atmosphere of the home, an open fire in the library and fall flowers in all rooms. The flowers came from the attractive gardens of Mr. John Francis, Mrs. George Brown and the Annans. At one end of the diningroom table which was decorated with a beautiful bouquet from Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Pickett's wedding, Miss Elizabeth Annan poured coffee from a silver urn and Mrs. Ralph Hess served punch at the other end. Cookies, nuts and mints were served.

The Berean Circle of the Taneytown Church was host and included Mrs. Robert McVough, Mrs. Wm. Abrecht, Mrs. Edward Shorb, Mrs. Wilbur Shorb, Mrs. Clifford Stiffle, Mrs. Thomas Tracey, Mrs. George Ingram, Mrs. Roert Ingram, Mrs. George Brown, Sr., Mrs. Roy Crumbacker and Miss Amelia Annan who received the

Homemakers Enjoy Social Meeting

Over 60 members and guests of the Emmitsburg Homemakers' Club gathered for a covered dish social on Thursday evening, Oct. 25 at the VFW annex.

The program, designed to celebrate the 11th anniversary of the United Nations, was under the direction of Mrs. Victor Fiery. Mrs. Fiery briefly outlined the structure and function of various UN organizations. Mrs. Tess Stinson presented a profile of Danny Kay, our ambassador of goodwill, to children all over the world. The activities of UNICEF, United Nation's International Children's Emergency Fund, were highlighted by Mrs. Robert Marshall with the assistance of Mrs. Donald Waters.

A birthday cake, decorated in UN colors, was centered in the hall in front of the speaker's table. Before the cake was cut by Mrs. Fiery, Mrs. Roy Bollinger led the group in singing happy guests as they arrive. All three congregations were represented. The autograph book with a gift of money was presented to Mr. Galambos. All the guests were loathe to break up the party, hoping it meant only au revoir.
