President Eisenhower's record-breaking peacetime budget is under fire from many angles it seems, and rightfully so, in my humble opinion. The very thought of it makes me shudder, and especially so after having just been nicked for income tax. The way the Government spends a dollar bill these days worries the sam hill out of us taxpayers who sweat out the income tax dilemma this time every year. It is more apparent now than ever before, that campaign pledges are a laugh. I'll never believe another one, so help me. Just about every party and every candidate promises to high heaven that this spending has got to stop and a little economy inserted into the program. What happens? Why the spending goes on more wildly than ever before. It seems to me that every bureau or department in Washington is almost guilty of poor management. Payrolls go higher and expenses follow suit. Often times gross mismanagement is pointed out but is quickly hushed up. Take the case of a certain department head I read about recently. Some so-called brain-trust decided to order new waste baskets for his headquarters. There were about 4,000 required. Looking at his fat appropriation for running his outfit, he must have seen a surplus, so in goes an order for 4,000 waste baskets at a cost of $30 each. Imagine, $30 for a waste basket! Congress must awaken to its responsibility that it is there to work for the people and to run the government as economically as possible, not okay every request for appropriations that comes in I thought for a minute that Congress had its dander up this week when it engaged in a battle of funds with the Postoffice Dept., but it weakened, as usual, and away goes another cool 40 million dollars of our hard-earned money. The Dept. had ample funds to operate on but just kept on spending blindly until the fund was depleted and then put in the usual call for more "dough." Congress must stop this sort of thing and take immediate remedial measures that they don't recour.

Had the Postoffice Dept. been wisely managed I don't believe this thing would have happened. Imagine what would happen to a business executive in private industry if he let his branch get in the hole to the tune of 40 million? He'd be outside looking in pronto. What will happen in the P. O. Dept.? I'll bet my new Easter bonnet not a thing will be done. Sometime ago I advocated the mail service should be turned over to private enterprise something similar to Railway Express and I still am of the opinion that it would be run far more efficiently and perhaps cheaper, to the public. I might be wrong but I feel that private enterprise could run the set-up much more beneficially to the public and thereby lopping off the several billion it takes to operate the present postal system.

Getting back to the presently proposed budget, I think it's ridiculous! We are spending more money in this peacetime era than we did when we were blasting the world to bits and fighting two wars at the same time, about a dozen years ago. It's just plain nonsense that we should be spending money so recklessly. It is a flagrant disregard to the wishes of the American taxpayer and must be checked. Taxes are at an all-time high and threaten to go still higher. Not only is the Federal Government asking for more than ever, the state, county and municipalities are all sticking their fingers into the pie. There is no mercy being shown the taxpayer whatsoever. He is just a sheep that is to be sheared and sheared time and again!

Veterans' Post Purchases New Ambulance For Community Service

Emmitsburg District soon will have the privilege and advantage of the use of a sleek new ambulance it was announced this week by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Memorial Post 6658. At a recent meeting of the post the group decided to place an order for a brand new 1957 Ford ambulance at a cost of $7,200.

The veterans' post has been providing ambulance service, free of charge, to the Emmitsburg District since January 1 of 1948. Clyde J. Eyer, chairman of the ambulance committee of the post, announced the new vehicle will arrive here in about six weeks. It will be equipped with two litters on wheels and one will be of a collapsible type. In emergency the vehicle can utilize four litters. Other first aid equipment will be transferred from the old ambulance. The new vehicle will have a permanent oxygen set-up installed for use during the transporting of patients to and from hospitals. The new Ford will have a 245 horse-power engine, will be equipped with 800x14 six-ply safety tires and tubes and will be delivered at actual cost through the generosity of Sperry's Garage, Emmitsburg.

During the past nine years the veterans have maintained this humanitarian service to this community, and others, the ambulance has been called into service 330 times. This figure has been broken down into the following categories: Emergency calls, 540; routine, 330; auto accidents, 60. Most of the calls were received during the night and 522 times the ambulance made night trips. Daytime calls totaled 408 and requests by physicians amounted to 540. State Police summoned the vehicle 60 times and individuals and institutions 330.

Clyde Eyer, chairman of the ambulance committee has logged 49,290 miles the vehicle has traveled in the nine years of its use; the average call was 53 miles; ambulance operating hours, 2,093. Each call required the total of 2 1/2 hours and the total number of operating man-hours was 1860. This type of service is a costly one and a great many who have availed themselves the use of the service have contributed to the maintenance fund. The post reports that 4,929 gallons of gasoline and 740 quarts of oil were consumed during the nine-year period of operation. Four sets of tires and tubes were used at a cost of $460 per set. The old ambulance originally was purchased at a cost of $7,500, in addition to $1,500 in extra equipment.

The ambulance crew are members of the Maryland State Police Ambulance and Rescue Squad.

The local VFW is proud of its ambulance record and is extremely happy to be able to maintain this service over the past decade. The post wishes to thank the community for its many donations to help provide this service and at the same time announces any subscriptions, large or small, to the new ambulance fund would be more than welcome.

The commissioners said the raise will come from county funds, which they have already earmarked for that purpose in the 1957 budget.

Scheduled for completion early this summer, the Berlin By-Pass is shown on the map by the heavy broken line running north and south. This dualized controlled access highway will become a major artery for Atlantic coastal traffic using U.S. 113. Nearly 4 miles in length, it carries traffic away from the narrow streets and traffic lights of the Worcester County town of Berlin.

Another by-pass of the town, shown on the map by the hatched horizontal line, is due for advertisement by the State Roads Commission late this year. It is a major relocation of U.S. 50 and will serve Baltimore and Washington motorists bound for Ocean City. U.S. 50 is now dualized from Ocean City westward about eight miles to just east of Berlin. Road Commission plans call for the extension of this dual highway on new location to a point about one-half mile west of new U.S. 113. From there to the town of St. Martins one lane of an ultimate dual highway will be constructed under the contract to be advertised this year. Eventually the 20-mile length of U.S. 50 into Salisbury will be dualized and will connect with the new Salisbury Throughway is about ready to get under construction.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

A lot of wrong ideas about outboard motors and boats seem to persist year after year. In fact, no nine-lived cat with the homing tendencies of a carrier pigeon was ever harder to get rid of. The reason for this, as Willard Crandall, Boating Editor of Sports AfIELD, points out, is that these fallacies are heard and believed by newcomers to outboarding; and today there are two new outboards for every old one. Thus, the newcomers become sitting ducks for the same old misconceptions.

Here is a partial list of fallacies which, says Crandall, may help to set the record straight: More beam means less speed.

This is only true for slow boats, those with five hp-or-less engines. Planing boats slide over the water and the extra width will make them skim better.

Transom strength determines motor size. It's true that a transom would weaken under the strain of a too-powerful motor, but before this could happen the boat will probably swamp or upset. Safe power limits are set by manufacturers.

Strength is most important in determining safety. Strength would only be important if the boat were scheduled for an ocean voyage. Since this is unlikely, the boat that's too small, or has poor bottom lines is a better candidate for sinking.

It's better and safer to steer from the bow. Up-front steering is a rather new innovation to the outboard field. In a boat not designed for forward weight distribution, steering from the bow could prove dangerous.

Slow boats are safer than fast ones. Boats are not like automobiles. Slow boats have their own hazards. Actually a fast boat is more stable.

High sides mean safety. This is only true to a point. High sides also mean more surface to catch the wind which may cause tipping and jerking.

Outboard motors are not dependable. This is the most tenuous fallacy of all. Outboards often caused trouble in the early days, but after more than forty years of production the industry may be considered as grown-up.

Monkey Business

One hundred and fifty monkeys—all sick with tuberculosis. That was Dr. Leon H. Schmidt's problem.

In his laboratory at the Christ Institute of Medical Research in Cincinnati, Ohio, he was doing research on malaria. He had been using rhesus monkeys from India to test various anti-malaria drugs. But monkeys are highly susceptible to TB. One spring morning in 1952 Dr. Schmidt was faced with the fact that he had 150 monkeys sick and dying from TB. They were, of course, useless for malaria research. So he made the most of the situation and began research on tuberculosis.

At that time a new anti-TB drug, isoniazid, had just been announced. Experiments were immediately set up to use the monkeys to test the new drug. Today the major part of the Institute's work is devoted to TB.

Right now with the aid of a Christmas Seal research grant from the National Tuberculosis Association the staff is trying to develop in monkeys a type of TB similar to that usually found in man. Ordinarily tuberculosis in monkeys is acute and swift, unlike the chronic human disease. By vaccinating his animals with BCG, Dr. Schmidt hopes to be able to study new anti-tuberculosis drugs under conditions as nearly as possible like those in man.

Valuable information on new and old anti-tuberculosis drugs has already been obtained. Special X-ray equipment patterned for work with monkeys was obtained. In learning how to manage the rhesus monkey Dr. Schmidt and his associates have become masters of an invaluable tool for the advancement of scientific knowledge.

Recently an epidemic of TB struck valuable animals in the Chicago Zoo. TB specialists in the Windy City urged zoo authorities to call Dr. Schmidt. With massive doses of isoniazid he saved the lives of many animals dear to the hearts of Chicago children.

This story is typical of medical research—usually a slow and painstaking search for knowledge.

TODAY'S meditation

The Upper Room
THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Matthew 26:36-46.
"My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass me. Yet, not what I will but what thou wilt."
(Matthew 26:39. Moffatt.)

In our prayer life, we must come to the point of self-surrender if we want to have our prayers answered. We know that the will of God is always best. We know also that we can trust Him because He loves us. Even so, it is not easy to say, "Thy way, not mine, O Lord," or to pray as our Saviour did in Gethsemane, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt."

At an institute for youth, I had the great joy and opportunity to pray with and lead a young man to Christ. One day I got a letter from him. He told of his joy during the first days after giving his heart to Christ.

Later he wrote to say that his mother had taken seriously ill.

Darkness displaced his joy. He said to God: "If Thou lettest my mother die, I cannot believe Thou art a loving Father and then I cannot love Thee." A storm was in his heart. But at last he prayed: "O Lord, I cannot leave Thee. Thou must do with my mother what Thou knowest is best." He had so grown in faith that he could both trust God and love Him.

O Lord, I know it is often hard to say, "Thy will be done." But I also know that Thy will is always the best for me. So I will say today: Thy way, not mine, O Lord. In the name of Jesus Christ, my Saviour. Amen.

Thought For The Day
I will trust God in everything.

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

Washington—Reduction in the cost of operating the Federal Government and a resulting reduction in Federal tax rates continues to overshadow everything else on Capitol Hill. It is plain that we cannot have lower taxes and at the same time maintain the current high rate of Federal spending unless we would have the Government go further into debt. I am sure no one wants that.

The economy drive is producing results. But the overall savings so far achieved have failed to bring about permanent savings of major importance. As I have mentioned before, sensible reduction in the cost of government can come about only through year-round congressional study of the budget.

Real and permanent savings can be obtained—with a significant reduction in the cost of operating the Federal Government—if the recommendations of the second Hoover Commission were adopted. Fact is, had the last Congress adopted the Commission's major budgetary recommendations, the task of the present Congress would be easier.

I would like to cite just one of the Hoover recommendations as an illustration of what I mean. Of the first seven appropriation bills considered by the House, cuts of a little over $1 billion were made. Almost twice that sum could be saved if the Hoover proposal for an independent Defense Department procurement administration were established. This one change would bring a minimum saving of more than $2 billion.

The cost of government can be reduced if the people are willing to forgo some benefits and if extravagance and waste is eliminated from Federal spending programs. But it will take denial on the part of the part of the people and the courage of Congress to implement the Hoover recommendations to achieve the desired results.

A new postal facility for the Wharton area is being established by the Post Office Department. The new post office station has been especially designed for efficient mail handling and will be furnished with the most modern equipment for the convenience of both postal workers and patrons.

Southern States Group Shows Steady Growth

Farmers in the six-state operating territory of Southern States Cooperative used the organization more than ever before during the first six months of the 1957-58 fiscal year, according to the cooperative's mid-year report just issued.

The report was prepared for presentation at annual regional local board meetings held throughout the territory.

Total service volume for the cooperative and its affiliates, is reported at $90,660,000, as compared with $71,061,000 for the same six months of the previous year, an increase of 27%.

Feed tonnage, up 29 percent, was at an all-time high. Total tonnage for the period was 420,682 tons.

Fertilizer tonnage was down slightly, due largely to adverse weather conditions at seeding time. Total tonnage for the six months was 82,552 tons.

Seed volume, which was up 12 percent, amounted to $2,067,000.

Miscellaneous farm supply volume showed an increase of 16 percent. Total volume for the six-month period was $5,949,000.

The mid-year report also stated that volume in petroleum products was up 2,353,000 gallons and grain marketing showed an increase of 1,740,000 bushels.

Over 330,000 farmers in Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee use, own and operate the cooperative.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Science Fairs

Babson Park, Fla., April 18

—Let me first apologize to the millions of readers of my column for my criticism of High School Teachers. I claimed that while they are urging higher pay and new buildings, their products are inferior to the products of forty years ago. My experience had been largely with girls supposedly trained for secretarial work, but who cannot read intelligently, spell correctly, do fractions, typewrite efficiently, or use correct English.

A Newspaper Publisher's Experiment

One day about a year ago, Mr. J. C. Council, Publisher of the Tampa Tribune, decided to make a practical test of the Hillsborough County High Schools. He explained to the teachers of these and other high schools what he was endeavoring to accomplish and how it should be done. He selected three dates, the last of March, and engaged one of the large Fair buildings having exhibit booths. Each high school class was asked to make an exhibit of some existing or future scientific problem. They could make a television set, or an electric burner, or an electric eye, or something else already existing. Or, these students could imagine and illustrate some new invention that may come in the future. Each class was assigned a booth with tables and electrical connections.

The day I was there teachers were present and the students came in fifty school busses. A few could not help pinching and exploding some balloons for weather forecasting. Otherwise, these several thousand students behaved excellently. With my further apology to the girls I found the grand prize was taken by a girl, Barbara Buerke. However, she was not trained to be a "secretary" but a commercial artist. Frankly, I was emotionally moved to see the great interest and intelligence that most of these students showed. I came home bullish on our youth if they are allowed to work on subjects in which they are interested under the "Core" teaching as advocated by Dr. Arthur Combs of the University of Florida.

Selecting Future Leaders
 Of course, there were great differences among these boys and girls. Most of them followed the crowd and stopped only at booths surrounded by many people. Others were satisfied to collect free circulars and pictures. These were the boys who should be content to always do manual work and the girls who should aim to be good wives and mothers. Many of these youths, however, had brought notebooks and made drawings of certain exhibits—they were very serious. For some strange reason, the majority of them had red hair or were blond!

What High Schools Need

Truly this group of Tampa young people with whom I associated are a "gold mine." I could pick out the leaders of Tampa's future without looking at their examination papers or marks. I found, however, that some of the boys whom I would select were not popular with their teachers. Perhaps some of the students felt that their teachers are not too able and are interested only in their salary and not in their students. It is a common thing to know people who have a "green thumb" with flowers or a way with animals; they can get first prizes in flower shows and can easily train animals. This is not because they are better educated in horticulture or biology, but because they love flowers and love animals. The same principle may apply to teachers.

I wish that publishers in each of the 400 cities carrying my weekly column could follow the example of Mr. J. C. Council of the Tampa Tribune. I realize that a few other cities are already holding similar "Fairs," but it would be a wonderful thing if such "Fairs" could take place once a year, or at least once in four years, in each of these 400 cities. The program would fill a great need in most communities. It would be greatly appreciated by teachers and graduates. It would help to hold these high school graduates within their own state for a college education, rather than lose them to some other community.

ONE MORE THOUGHT: I believe more attention should be given to higher post-graduate work,—two years following college. In order to secure appropriations, presidents of State Universities appear to feel that they must have as large an enrollment as possible. Naturally, the average native intelligence decreases as the number of students increases. This tends to reduce the standards for graduation. As a result, these more efficient students too often do not return to the cities which educated them. They take post-graduate work in some other state and then remain there. I am not ruling out a higher education for those fitted only for trades or manual work. I, however, am arguing that the future of every city depends on holding the most efficient and ablest students. Cities brag too much about their population totals when their future really depends on the character, initiative and efficiency of their High School graduates. Let us hold these young people at home in the cities which raised them.

Truckers Protest Trip Lease Ruling

Contest Truck Rule

Several Maryland independent truckers have contested the 30-day trip lease ruling, of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut has signed a temporary restraining order and set a hearing date for the 19th of April. This rule provides for a 30-day trip lease period and when issued last year was contested by Farm Bureau. It backed the provision in the 1956 law that precludes trucks with loads of agriculture produce from coming under the new rule. Independent truckers say they need to haul both ways to make a profit on their operation. They content that they must secure a back haul by leasing their truck to established truck lines to reduce overhead and increase their revenue.

The objectionable I.C.C. ruling effective April 1, provides that a trip lease must be for a period of at least 30 days. The small carriers say no large carrier will lease trucks for 30 days and they claim that it is impossible for them to make a living under this ruling.

The Farm Bureau's objection to the rule was that it threatened an essential service to farmers. Even with the Farm Bureau exemption for trucks hauling farm products, this ruling will place a severe handicap upon the independent truckers who provide transportation service for all types of merchandise to farms and rural communities.

Looking Ahead
 ... by Dr. George S. Benson
 DIRECTOR—NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
 Searcy, Arkansas

have outspokenly said the same thing. The director of the Budget agrees, and Treasury Secretary Humphrey says that unless the Federal government quits spending so much the nation is headed for serious trouble.

From all these governmental quarters comes this one question, repeated over and over: "But who will say specifically where the cuts could and should be made?" One man in Washington, as has been his custom through 24 years of distinguished service to U. S. Senate, does not ask the question but replies to it. He is Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. When the 1958 Budget was submitted, Senator Byrd as usual put his entire staff to work studying it, its recommendations, the funds involved, and the genuine needs behind the recommendations.

In High Esteem

No one in Washington calls Senator Byrd an obstructionist. The highest officials in government, the leaders of both parties in Congress, and most students and observers of our American government have a high respect for his knowledge of governmental fiscal affairs, and his integrity. One thing has set him apart in Washington over the past 24 years: Year after year, he tells Congress, the President, and the People of America exactly where, and by how much, the Federal budget can and should be trimmed.

He says the $73.3 billion Eisenhower Budget can be reduced by $6.5 billion and our national security and economic strength be much stronger than it would be should the full $73.3 billion be appropriated and spent. Here are his recommended cuts and his comments:

1. National Security Activities, $1.5 billion reduction. "This reduction is less than 5 percent. It simply contemplates squeezing out waste. It does not contemplate curtailment of any essential activity of procurement. The reduction would leave $39.6 billion in new appropriations for these programs. Together with $40.1 billion in unexpended balances or prior appropriations and $67 million in foreign currencies, this group of activities would have $79.8 billion for expenditure."

2. Foreign Aid and International Affairs, $2 billion. "The reduction contemplates military assistance at this year's $2 billion level, at a saving of $0.5 billion; and $1.5 billion cut in economic aid. After this cut, military assistance will have $2 billion in new appropriations, $4 billion in unexpended balances in prior appropriations, and $70 billion in foreign currencies, for a total of $6.1 billion. After this cut economic aid would have $400 million in new appropriations, $2.2 billion in unexpended balances in prior appropriations, and $728 million in foreign currencies, for a total of $3.3 billion."

3. Domestic Civilian Activities, $3 billion. "This includes remaining federal activities. Appropriations to these activities are up 36 percent since 1954. The budget contains 37 proposals for new and expanding activities in this category with 1958 requests totaling $2 billion. These include 14 new federal grants-to-states programs, bringing the total to 67, and among these is the public-school - construction program with a first year appropriation of $451 million. Among the hundreds of old current accounts, the budget proposes increases in three out of every four. After this cut, domestic civilian programs, exclusive of highways, will have $23.8 billion in new authorizations plus $24 billion in unexpended balances . . . for a total of nearly $48 billion."

In a major Senate speech presenting the "Byrd" Budget, the Virginian said the $73.3 billion Budget was dangerous to the future prosperity and security of every American citizen. His recommendations command the serious consideration of Congress and the President.

In High Esteem

No one in Washington calls Senator Byrd an obstructionist. The highest officials in government, the leaders of both parties in Congress, and most students and observers of our American government have a high respect for his knowledge of governmental fiscal affairs, and his integrity. One thing has set him apart in Washington over the past 24 years: Year after year, he tells Congress, the President, and the People of America exactly where, and by how much, the

Laurel Winners Often In Kentucky Derby

Laurel, Md.—The pivotal Chesapeake Stakes, which has sent four of its winners on to success in the Kentucky Derby, including two Triple Crown victors, will have its 36th running here next Saturday.

Fifty prominent three-year-olds were nominated for the $20,000 added mile-and-a-sixteenth stake, 22 of whom are eligible for the Derby on May 4, 30 for the Preakness and 32 for the Belmont Stakes.

Heading the roster of Maryland-stabled probables in the Chesapeake are Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Bakht, Walter M. Jefford's Gannet, Roslyn Farm's Inswept, Brandywine Stable's Cannon Fire, Carolyn K Stable's Pro-Brandy and Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Roscoe Maney.

With Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler aiming for the Wood Memorial, also run on Saturday, several outstanding Chesapeake eligibles may be shipped down from New York.

This group includes John L. Appelbaum's Mister Jive; Halcyon Stable's Pajama Tops, winner of the Pimlico Breeders' and Maryland Futurity in 1956; Happy Hill Farm's Jujitsu; Mrs. Jacobs' Promised Land, recent victor in the Governor's Gold Cup, Lord Chumley and Perthshire; John A. Morris' Missile and Mrs. Adele Rand's Double X and Clem.

Calumet Farm, the nation's leading money-winning stable, may be represented with its pair of Boone Blaze and Crossland, the latter a brother to stakes winners Mark-Ye-Well and Amoret. Mrs. Gene Markey's last score in the Chesapeake was in 1948 with Citation, who became the last horse to sweep the Triple Crown series. The other Chesapeake winner who gained similar eminence was War Admiral in 1937.

Gannet, Bakht, Inswept and Roscoe Maney have impressed here in recent performances. The first three were named for the Preakness and the Belmont, while the Palestinian colt, first to register at Laurel over the Chesapeake route, is a Triple Crown nominee.

If the wind breaks it, it is a danger to pedestrians and children. The very least it may do is cause a power interruption at a time when uninterrupted service is most needed.

Planting an over abundant number of trees in a given area tends to give the home a gloomy, shut in appearance. Proper numbers and spacing give that well tailored appearance that properly landscaped homes have.

When landscaping adjacent to the house, it is wise to adhere to low growing stock. A border of colorful flowers along the sides, front and back will do much to set the house off. If flowers are not used then shrubs may be utilized. Soil conditions must be taken into consideration at all times.

If the soil is satisfactory naturally or has been treated, shrubs such as yew, globe, Arborvitae or others may be used. For the corners, Pyramidal Arborvitae, Irish Juniper, Pyramidal Yew or Blue Spruce fit in nicely. For street planting or near overhead lines, the use of Scarlet Hawthorne, Washington Hawthorne, Ginko (Maleonly) or Globe Maple will produce beauty without problems.

Landscaping Is Pleasant Pastime

Landscaping the home can be one of the most pleasurable pastimes the homeowner can indulge in. A properly landscaped home is an object of beauty to be appreciated and enjoyed by family and neighbors alike.

Improper landscaping can create unquestionable ugliness and present many problems.

What are the problems entailed by poor landscaping and how may proper landscaping be accomplished. Poor landscaping is most often the result of one of two practices. Either by planting improper species in improper locations or planting too many trees within a given area.

Planting improper species in improper places is most characterized by planting trees that will reach large proportions too close to the dwelling, and alongside of, or under overhead power lines. Such a tree will eventually cause damage to the house by causing broken windows, damaged and leaking roofs as well as clogged and broken gutters. Limbs growing out over the house the the source of this trouble.

The majority of trees planted under or alongside of power lines soon grow up into the lines or

Urges Caution During Clean-up Week

Gov. McKeldin has proclaimed the week of April 13 as clean up time in Maryland. Through their activities toward cleaning up, Maryland residents also will be helping to promote safety for themselves and their families. Dr. Forbes H. Burgess, deputy state health officer, recommends caution during these activities.

Prevent Falls
Some of the earliest spring cleaning is done out of doors. When you rake your yard free of stones, wire, tin, nails, boards or broken glass you remove hazards. Don't neglect this act of safety by leaving your rake or other tools where anyone can fall over them.

Filing in holes, clearing and leveling walking surfaces will help to prevent falls which are a frequent cause of accidents. Also falls may be prevented by making sure porches and steps are in good repair. It is well to provide a sturdy railing where they are three or more steps and good used at night. Steps are the site lighting for steps that may be of numerous falls.

Precautions With Fire
Possible sources of fires are eliminated by eradicating dried leaves, sticks, accumulated papers and other trash. When trash is burned choose a calm day, a location away from buildings or wooden fences, keep children at a safe distance, have connected garden hose at hand, and do not leave the fire until it is completely extinguished.

Another job which should not be attempted on a windy day is to replace storm windows with screens. Make sure the ladder is in good condition; never substitute a chair or box for a substantial ladder. If painting is included in the area where anyone will be walking. Materials such as paints and turpentine should be kept away from the reach of children.

Girl Scouts Meet

The Emmitsburg Girl Scouts met last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at St. Euphemia's School with Alice Sherwin presiding. The meeting opened with a salute to the flag and Girl Scout Promise. Following the reading of the minutes, dues and attendance record were taken by the treasurer. Two new members were admitted to the organization.

The membership decided to hold a skating party at Rainbow Skating Rink on Friday, Apr. 26 as were plans for a hiking trip on Saturday, weather permitting. Following the discussion of the hike the meeting was adjourned.

Nutrition Discussed At P-TA Meeting

Sister Mary Edwards, M.S., head of the home economics department of St. Joseph College, directed the presentation of a nutritional study made by members of the American Dietetics Assn. teaching methods class for 120 members of the P-TA of the Mother Seton grade school last Thursday evening.

Sister Mary Edwards, M.S., began the meeting by introducing faculty members from the home economics department of St. Joseph and the three girls who were to present the study: Mary Elizabeth Bustamante, Mexico City; Carol Ann Kanuer, Troy, N. Y., and Catherine Taggart, Boyertown.

After a film "The School That Learned to Eat," Miss Taggart explained the "basic seven" daily nutritional needs. Miss Bustamante told about the survey done on the fourth, fifth, and sixth grade pupils at Mother Seton School showing the need for nutritional improvement in most of the "basic seven" group. By comparison she showed results of national surveys which indicated that 60 per cent of the people in the country need nutritional improvement in their diet.

Miss Kanuer showed a good daily menu filling all nutritional needs and made suggestions for improvement of school lunches. A sample lunch box was given to one of the parents present. The girls also demonstrated the effects of proper and improper nutrition on two white rats cared for by the nutrition class at St. Joseph.

Forest Park Opens Next Sunday

Forest Park, Hanover, Pa., will open for the season on Sunday, Apr. 28. All rides and equipment have been overhauled and repainted as well as the tables in the picnic grounds.

The free attraction for the opening will be a free show by The Tones, of York, in the handshell. School tickets have been distributed as follows: Saturday, May 4, Hanover School Day; Saturday, May 11, Adams County Day; Saturday, May 18, York County Day; Saturday, May 25, Maryland Day, and Saturday, June 1, Colored School Day.

The skating rink will continue to operate every Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday nights and afternoons. Private and public parties will be held other nights.

The Atlantic and Pacific oceans are on the same level. But the Pacific has a tide variation of 20 feet, and the Atlantic varies only two feet.

The school teacher who sparked the first community-wide Spring Clean-Up campaign 47 years ago, Miss Bertha M. Chapman, of Cleveland, Ohio, reminisces with Junior Fire Marshals Linda and Rollie Wells, also of Cleveland. The story of how a good deed by Miss Chapman touched off nationwide observance of Spring Clean-Up is told in the Spring issue of the Junior Fire Marshal magazine, now being distributed to 3,000,000 elementary-age school children. The magazine is part of the year-round Junior Fire Marshal program sponsored as a public service by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company. Now 82 years old and retired, Miss Chapman "accidentally" started Spring Clean-Up Week in 1909 when she presented a blue pinafore to an unkempt little girl in her class at Miles Park School. The child's mother was so impressed, she started tidying up around the house—removing trash and other combustibles. Soon, the neighbors and ultimately thousands of communities followed her example. Junior Fire Marshals are cooperating in Clean-Up campaigns from coast to coast.

A Heavenly Dessert for Spring

Tempting Lemon Angel Meringues awaken appetites and lend a gay note of spring to menus. They're so elegant looking yet surprisingly easy to make. Lemon pudding and pie filling is whipped to a dreamy light texture then set in meringue shells and crowned with fresh strawberry slices. A perfect way to dress up family dinners or an afternoon tea tray.

Lemon Angel Meringues
1 package lemon pudding and pie filling mix
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cups water
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup whipping cream
4 to 6 individual meringue shells

Combine pudding mix, 1/2 cup sugar and 1/4 cup of the water in saucepan. Add egg yolks and blend well. Then add remaining 1 1/2 cups water gradually, stirring constantly. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a boil and is thickened (about 5 minutes). Cool, stirring occasionally. Whip cream, fold into pudding. Spoon into meringue shells. Chill. Garnish with strawberry slices, if desired. Makes 3 cups filling or 4 to 6 servings.

Proper Wiring Will Eliminate Danger, Give Satisfaction

This is the era of 'push-button' and 'flick-a-switch' living. Since Edison effectively harnessed electricity for use in the home, Americans have been enjoying increasing benefits from this hidden servant.

Today electricity is a necessity. It supplies power for lighting, refrigeration, cooling, heating, ironing, laundry, cleaning and many other household tasks.

But, is your home wiring system able to meet your needs now let alone give you capacity for greater use in years to come? Chances are it is not.

Your home wiring system functions very much like your water system. The main wire is comparable to the 'pipe' outside your home and brings electricity from the lines of the power company to your home.

Just as there is plenty of water in the main so there is plenty of electricity in the electric company's wires outside your home.

job for you. The 'valve' or entrance through which electricity feeds into your home from the main line has got to be big enough to deliver all the electricity your home needs.

Trouble develops when you try to squeeze more electricity through a wire than it is designed to carry. If in an old house, you have even tried to draw a tub of water upstairs when someone is drawing water from the kitchen tap, you'll know your pipes have not enough capacity to feed the needs of both at the same time.

The answer to these problems is a modernized wiring system that is adequate for your present capacity for future electrical needs and that provides surplus capacity additions.

Adequate modern wiring is a tremendous plus in home value. Inadequate or under capacity wiring systems can be the cause of disastrous fires in addition to causing inefficient appliance operation or actually making the use of new appliances impossible.

Your electrical contractor can easily check your wiring system. It's a simple job that costs nothing and may eventually save you many dollars in home protection and in comfort, convenience, pleasure and time.

Below is an illustration designed to familiarize you with the basic wiring principles of your home.

Easy Way to Calibrate Spray Rigs

New "Spray-Rater" that takes the guess work out of chemical spraying is easy to use. Lightweight and all but unbreakable, it straps under nozzle to give calibrated readings which instantly tell rig's rate of spray.

Weedkillers, insecticides and other farm chemicals offer amazing results and real dollar savings in modern farming. They are scientific tools, however, which give best results and savings when applied at exactly the recommended rate per acre. There is only one sure way to do that: calibrate your spray rig every time before you spray.

Many things beside pressure and ground speed can vary the rate of spray of a rig. The distance from gauge to boom can mean pressure loss and so can the size of the hose. Nozzel wear is a factor, too. Guessing at spray rates is gambling on results and savings that can be sure things if you take time to calibrate your rig.

A fast and easy way to avoid such guessing is being offered this year by one of the major farm chemicals producers. The company's agricultural specialists have designed and field-tested a plastic "Spray-Rater" which measures the rate per acre of any liquid spray from boom-type rigs. The device works on the same principle as the quart glass canning jars used by some for measuring nozzle spray rates. However, there is not the danger of breakage as with glass jars, and the clear plastic sides of the container are calibrated like a measuring cup to show the rate per acre of spray for various nozzle spacings on the boom. The container also can be used to measure out the concentrate accurately in ounces for recommended spray strength.

Purchasers of the company's weedkillers can obtain the "Spray-Rater" at considerably less than its retail value of $2.50.

Mounts Make Twin Killing

Mt. St. Mary's won both ends of a Mason-Dixon Conference baseball doubleheader from Westminster Maryland at Westminster Tuesday afternoon, 10-8 and 7-1.

A four-run sixth inning gave the Mounties the decision in the opening game.

Bill Hessler hit a two-run homer in the opening inning of the second game for the Mount who picked up five more unearned runs off Johnny Kaufman, Terror hurler. John Hallahan tossed a four-hitter for the winners, the lone run off him coming via a homerun by Everett Feeser in the fifth.

The double victory gives the Mount a 3-2 conference record and an overall mark of 3-4.

Mt. St. Mary's will be idle over the Easter holidays, next meeting Baltimore U. on the latter's diamond on Apr. 25.

Police Department Urges Defensive Driving

How good are you in a high-way emergency? Would you know what to do if a car you were trying to pass suddenly speeded up, leaving you too little room ahead to pass safely?

Knowing the answer to questions such as this and reacting correctly and quickly when confronted by such a situation could save your life, Chief Daniel J. Kaas of the Emmitsburg Police Dept. reminded motorists this week as he urged them to drive defensively.

Chief Kaas explained that the defensive driver is one who drives in such a manner as to avoid accidents by anticipating and allowing for hazards created by the unsafe acts of others and adverse traffic and weather conditions. "If a defensive driver suddenly found he did not have enough time to pass safely, he would not step heavily on the gas and take a chance on making it," Chief Kaas said.

Chief Kaas explained that the defensive driver is one who drives in such a manner as to avoid accidents by anticipating and allowing for hazards created by the unsafe acts of others and adverse traffic and weather conditions.
