For a while I was afraid that the job of advertising the Bicentennial had been relegated to those wily characters the men folk, who are currently hiding behind those whisker crops, smirking at the gentler sex. However good news is forthcoming this week. It is now certain that we ladies also will have a part to play in the success of this gigantic and historical enterprise. I understand that next week the "Bicentennial Belles," or "Sisters of the Swish" will be organized and given instructions in the art of promoting such affairs.

Our names might not go down in history as the saying goes, but we'll have the satisfaction of knowing that we played just as major a role in promoting this event as the so-called stronger sex. The plan is just as simple as that devised by the male gentry. All we have to do is to purchase those lovely bonnets now on sale and wear them wherever we go. They're really not bad looking at all. You'll be surprised at how nice and quaint the ladies appear when diked out in this type of apparel. They really do more for us than some of our modern dress. Anyway we're all invited to a special meeting next week and from then on we'll map our strategy to take the ball away from our common enemy—men! See you there gals? Detailed information concerning the meeting appears elsewhere in this issue of the paper.

Apparently our Board of Education is taking its cue from the Federal Government and is bent on spending as much money as possible to build additional elaborate schools in the county, regardless of the wishes of the taxpayers. It has long been advocated by these taxpayers that a standard type of school construction be adopted thereby saving thousands of dollars in architects' fees. However it is now apparent that this wish of the taxpayers is to be ignored once again. The Board is asking for four million dollars in the next two years to erect new schools in the county, apparently at a cost of nearly a million dollars each. Architects and contractors are getting fatter and fatter and the taxpayer leaner and leaner by this needless method of construction. It is a known fact that school construction costs can be reduced by at least half by adoption of the prefabricated method. However the president of the School Board of Education, Joseph F. Rhoderick, has this to say about prefabricated schools: "I would hate to see our children in 'chicken coops' built of such materials. The heating plants only heat a few rooms at a time and it would cost a fortune to heat such schools properly."

Apparently the Board president is supine in his knowledge of how the new and modern, and generally accepted, prefabricated schools actually operate. They have the same materials in them as do the conventional type of schools, brick, wood, steel and glass, and each unit has its own independent heating unit thereby providing uniformity in heating. I doubt if the heating bill is any higher than the conventional type of construction. On behalf of the taxpayers, I'd suggest Mr. Rhoderick study up on the latest method of school construction and make a trip to Emmitsburg, if he hasn't already done so, to see one in actual operation.

Educators from all over the country visit here every week to study the new type of school and I understand that our County Commissioners were impressed with what they saw here. It is time the people of Frederick County took cognizance of the fact that we have a Board of Education and that it should be operated in the best interests of the general public which foots the bill. We should select our members to the Board on experience and merit and good business sense, as well as educational qualifications. The smartest professor in the world can be the world's dumbest businessman or administrator!

Ever combine tomato juice and clam juice for a cocktail? Chilly well!

Bicentennial Pageant Is Named

Emmitsburg's historical pageant is no longer nameless the Bicentennial Committee announced this week. After reviewing numerous suggestions from interested citizens who submitted titles by mail, the outstanding title of "Valley Echoes," was adjudged as the most suitable, by the committee.

The honor of naming the pageant goes to Dr. Gilbert Oddo, a member of the faculty of Mount St. Mary's College. The title will be heavily publicized in the near future and members of the cast will be selected and rehearsals commenced in about two weeks, it has been announced.

The committee meeting at Bicentennial Headquarters near the Square, Tuesday evening, awarded the contract for decorating the town for the occasion in June, to the Mondorf Decorating Co. of York, Pa. Street banners will be erected from two weeks advertising the Bicentennial which will be held from June 22 to 29, and the major decorations will be installed about two weeks prior to the event.

Derbys of many styles and colors and bonnets for the ladies are now on sale at headquarters and most business places and the public is urged to purchase and wear these articles of apparel to help advertise and generate interest in the Bicentennial. The bonnets and derbys sell for $1 and the profits go to the general promotion fund of the Bicentennial.

Paul W. Claypool, chairman of the committee in charge of the souvenir brochure, reported good progress on the sale of advertising and said the brochure would be ready for the printer in the next two weeks. It is hoped to raise a considerable sum of money from the sale of this booklet which will be offered to the public for 50c a copy. It will contain the names of the business establishments which have been doing business in this area for many years and which have made many friends here. The booklet will carry the history of the town.

Mount Alumni Group To Meet Here

J. Ward Kerrigan, president of the Central Maryland Chapter of Mt. St. Mary's College Alumni, announced this week that the second annual Loyalty Night banquet will be held here in Emmitsburg on May 9.

Lumen F. Norris, chairman of arrangements, will be toastmaster for the occasion. The banquet will start at 6:30 p. m. and will be held in the VFW annex. A member of the college administrative board will be the principal speaker at the banquet. All members of the alumni group residing in and near Emmitsburg are invited to attend the affair. There will be a program of entertainment and dinner music. Guy A. Baker, Jr., is assistant chairman in charge of arrangements. The annual election of officers will take place during the business meeting.

Egg Hunt Is Social Success

Approximately 300 local kiddies ferreted out 1440 (120 dozen) colored hard-boiled eggs last Sunday at the Community Field when they participated in the annual Easter egg hunt, sponsored by the Emmitsburg Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The children appeared on the scene early and committee members were hard-pressed to restrain activities until the starting signal. In a half hour, the feverish activity tapered off to a few scattered latecomers combing the grounds—in vain. A number of the eggs were marked for a monetary award upon returning to the committee. Others were swapped for colored chicks and bunnies.

Commander Harold Hoke reported the venture was again a huge success and on behalf of his organization extends thanks to the general public for its splendid cooperation in patronizing the affair.

RALPH LINDSEY TO HEAD LOCAL C. OF C.

Nominations for officerships of the Emmitsburg Chamber of Commerce was the main order of business conducted at the regular monthly meeting of that organization held Monday night in the Fire Hall, Arthur Elder presiding.

Several requests were received by mail from individuals seeking information about Emmitsburg and the communications were ordered answered. Cloyd W. Seiss reported that the signs advertising the Bicentennial have been appended to the four welcome billboards at the four main approaches to town.

Nominated for office were the following: President, Ralph D. Lindsey; first vice president, Cloyd W. Seiss; second vice president, Charles F. Stouter; secretary, Ralph F. Irelan and treasurer, Daniel J. Kaas. Installation of these officers will take place at the next regular meeting, the third Monday of the month. Additional nominations may be made from the floor prior to the election.

Col. Thomas J. Frailey gave a detailed report on the recent balloting for officers of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and cast ballots for the local organization. Information concerning factory space was asked by a certain manufacturing concern which would employ up to 200 females, provided ample floor space were available here. The communication was ordered answered.

Once again Emmitsburg will follow the national custom of operating on Daylight Saving Time. According to official announcement by the Town Council, Emmitsburg will go on "fast" time Sunday morning, April 28, at 2 a. m.

Citizens are advised to set their clocks ahead one hour Saturday evening before retiring, lest they become confused Sunday morning and miss church. The town will return to Eastern Standard Time the last Sunday in October.

Attention Women Of Emmitsburg!

Are the Women of Emmitsburg going to sit idly by and leave all the fun of the forthcoming Bicentennial to our be-whiskered friends? The crowing and chortling by these refugees from the razor has been loud and long these past few weeks. "Brothers of the Brush," indeed! Brush-smush! Come then ye true-blooded women of our fair town, we can't grow beards, but let's show one and all that Bicentennial fun isn't the exclusive preserve of the mutton-choppers and would-be Van Dykes. "Bicentennial Belles" we'll be! Be sure to attend an organizational meeting at the Bicentennial Headquarters on Wednesday, May 1, at 8:30 P. M. Never underestimate the power of a woman, "Brothers" beware!

Asks Public Support Of Fire Co. Drive

Editor, Emmitsburg Chronicle: Fire! Fire! Fire! This is a horrifying call to hear in the night, but it is a call that can reach anyone at anytime. The rich person is plagued with this disaster the same as the poor. Fire plays no favorites.

Beginning in 1884 when the Vigilant Hose Co. was organized, it dedicated itself to the protection of the lives and property of the people of Emmitsburg and surrounding countryside. It is to this end the members have pledged their services. In the still of night or the middle of a business day when the call comes in we respond. When I say we respond it is more like a well-oiled machine put into action. For these men of the Vigilant Hose Co. have given their time to be trained and retrained in all the courses in up-to-date fire fighting. Throughout the years this training has proven to be a major factor in the decrease of fire damage. Up-to-date equipment and know-how in using this equipment, is keeping our community a "fine safe community." The insurance premiums for home owners have been lowered because of our efforts.

Now the time has come for the community to help the Fire Company. We have begun a fund to purchase a new truck which must be bought by 1961 to keep our rating high and your insurance low. The annual fund drive is now under way. Letters, financial statements, fire call cards and return envelopes have been sent out this week. We sincerely ask all to be generous and prompt in sending their contributions in and put the drive over the top.

C. G. Frailey Files For Town Burgess

Emmitsburg's eligible voters will go to the polls Monday, May 6 to to elect a Burgess and one Town Commissioner when the annual election of the Corporation of Emmitsburg will take place.

Charles D. Gillelan, registrar, reported this week that 26 names had been lopped off the eligible voting list. He said the names were removed because those voters had either died or no longer lived in the Corporation limits. The registrar reports the eligible voting list now is 435. Seven new registrants were placed on the books during Tuesday's registration.

It was learned early this week that Mayor Clarence G. Frailey had filed for re-election to the post he has held during the past year. No other candidates have filed for the post to date. The deadline for filing for town offices is midnight tonight. Those interested in filing must do so in writing and must be filed with the town clerk, Miss Louise Sebold, before 12 o'clock tonight.

The office of Commissioner has no candidates to date. Charles R. Fuss, incumbent Commissioner, has not filed for the post but it is the hope of a large number of the Commissioner's friends that he can be persuaded to file before the deadline. Should there be no candidate for Commissioner the person receiving the largest number of write-in votes will be elected. Present Commissioners are Wales E. Rightmour and J. Allen Bouey. To be eligible for office a candidate must have been a resident of Emmitsburg proper for the past 12 months and own property not less than $500. Balloting will take place in the Fire Hall from 2 to 7 p. m. Daylight Time on Monday, May 6, and judges of election will be Charles D. Gillelan and Dr. J. W. Houser.

Since there is no opposition so far for any of the offices, a light vote is anticipated on election day. The new Council will be confronted with many issues in the near future, two of the major issues to face will be the installation of the new sewerage system and the annexation of outlying sections of the town.

"BRUSH" GROUP SHOWS STEADY GROWTH HERE

That secluded group of local male gentry, the "Brothers of the Brush," continued to grow, in two ways this week. The whiskers got longer and the number of applicants for membership increased.

Ralph F. Irelan, chairman of the Bicentennial board committee, reported this week that to date 76 have joined the selective group's ranks. This week's addition to the list includes William L. Ashbaugh, Paul E. J. Eyer, John E. Cool, John V. Gaughan, Thomas C. Harbaugh, Thomas White, James A. Houck, John L. Warthen, Guy A. Baker, Sr., David L. Neighbours, Gerald F. Ryder, Donald Byard, David Glass and Donald Moser.

Another society showing surprising strength (and fear of jail sentences) is the clean shaven gentry who are being issued permits to shave for $1.00. This list swelled to 35 this week when the following were granted permission to shave: Walter F. Crouse, Paul Lingg, Harry Wantz, Paul A. Keepers, A. W. McClellan, Russell B. Ohler, Robert W. Hull, William Bense, Richard Cullison, Murray Hardman, John W. Gilman, J. Warren Gelwicks, Sr., William Annan, John M. Roddy, Jr., Louis H. Stoner, Jr., and Bernard M. Welty.

It is the hope of the committee that at least 100 members can be attained for the "Brothers of the Brush" group and it is known that many are raising beards but haven't signed up as yet. The Brothers warn this latter group that they are liable to a fine if they do not obtain their membership cards. The same is applicable to those who are nabbed without their shaving permits. Beard cards are obtainable from Ralph Irelan and shaving permits from Edward Houck.

Six new members were accepted into the organization. It was announced the annual dues are now payable through May 31.

Bunker Silos Are Economical. New silos will be needed this year and one which many farmers will consider is the bunker-type. Advantages are low initial cost, speed of erection, no required excavation and ease of feeding. Bunker silos can also serve as self-feeders. The bunker silo holds about twice the silage per dollar invested as the most conventional upright silo. It consists of a floor flanked by side walls from six to eight feet high and is usually open on both ends. Silage is dumped from wagons and each load packed tightly to reduce spoilage. Most critical part of construction is the side wall. It must have sufficient strength to support the weight of the silage and the weight of the filling and packing equipment. Walls should slope outward slightly so that silage will settle tightly against them. Walls may be made of concrete or lumber. Lumber is the least expensive because it does not require forms. Two-inch by six-inch tongue and grooved siding supported by sturdy wood posts is recommended. Because silage moisture can cause early rotting of untreated siding and poles, the wood used should be treated with a permanent-type preservative such as pentachlorophenol. Such treated wood is available from most building materials dealers. Many experienced pole-building contractors can erect bunker silos. In addition, information about building, filling and using, bunker silos is contained in bulletins and plans available from county agents, state agricultural colleges, or from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Your Personal Health

Is Your Child Immune? "Diphtheria? Smallpox? We don't have to worry about them any more."

True, we don't have to worry about them, IF—a real big if—we take the necessary steps to protect our children against them. The chief reason why these diseases are pretty well controlled in this country, is that we've had the means of protection for many years.

Just because we rarely hear of cases, does not mean we can forget about them. The simple routine of protection must go on. Within the first year of his life, your child and every child should be immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, and polio, and vaccinated against smallpox. Some doctors will mix the diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus shots; others give the tetanus toxoid separately.

For all except smallpox, three shots are necessary. Don't worry too much about your child's reactions to the injections. He may be fretful and even a little feverish. He's bound to have a sore arm. His appetite may fall off for a day or so. But doctors say he'll have very little, if any, memory of the discomfort.

When your child reaches his third year or when he is exposed to any of these diseases, your doctor may recommend "booster" shots to insure his protection. Again before entering school, he should have diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus shots and a smallpox vaccination. Do explain why they're necessary. Don't try to pretend to him that "they won't hurt a bit."

This is the routine of immunization that every child in this country should go through. In special circumstances your doctor may recommend protection from other diseases such as measles, epidemic influenza, typhoid, cholera, yellow fever and typhus.

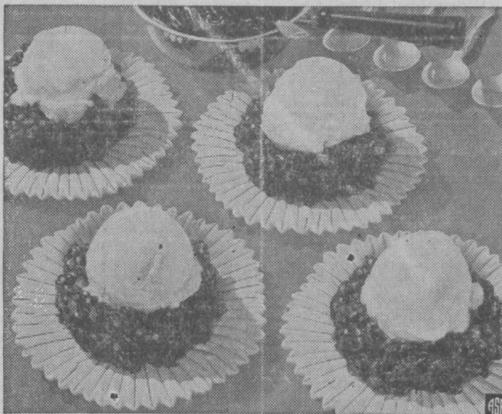

What is your child's life and health worth to you? Certainly, the most complete protection medical science can offer.

Chocolate Cereal Dessert Shells Easy Culinary Treat

The word "cereal" is derived from the picturesque Roman ceremonies known as "the cerealia" celebrated in mid-April in honor of Ceres, Goddess of Grain. Today the Fourth Annual Spring Cereal and Milk Festival is celebrated in April. This festival is sponsored by the breakfast cereal and dairy industries to promote the food value of cereal and milk.

"You never outgrow your need for cereal and milk." The cereal and milk serving provides top-quality protein, quickly available food energy, essential B-complex vitamins, and important minerals. An average serving of cereal and milk costs less than five cents. Penny for penny, few indeed are the foods which, for such small cost, can make such a contribution to the satisfaction of daily nutritional requirements.

Desserts are but one of the many ingredient uses of cereal and milk. Chocolate Oven-toasted Rice Cereal Dessert Shells are easy to make. When wrapped and stored in a moistureproof container they keep well up to seven days. Busy homemakers can make them ahead of the serving day.

Chocolate Oven-Toasted Rice Cereal Dessert Shells
 1/2 cup light corn syrup
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 (6 ounces) package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
 3 cups oven-toasted rice cereal or pre-sweetened rice cereal

Combine corn syrup and salt in large fry pan. Bring syrup to simmering point over low heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add chocolate pieces; stir until chocolate is melted. Add cereal; stir carefully until cereal is chocolate coated. Cool slightly. Shape into 8 round, fluffy tart shells or nests 3 1/2 inches in diameter on buttered baking sheet. Cool shells at room temperature. Top with one of the following: a scoop of vanilla, strawberry, or butter pecan ice cream; or, orange, lime, or lemon sherbet. Yield: 8 dessert shells.

TODAY'S meditation from The Upper Room THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read Corinthians 15:20-28.

But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead. (1 Corinthians 15:20. RSV.)

In her forest home a little child lay dying. Death was a certainty, but the parents would not accept it. Looking to them, Derli, said she would soon be with her heavenly Father. They wishfully assured her that she was not going to die. "No," she replied, "I am leaving to be with my Father in heaven." In a few hours she died.

Through the brief years of her life, this child had come to know the truth central in our Christian faith—the power of God to resurrect His loved ones from the dead. The teachings within the home, the many hymns she knew by heart, the strength of prayer, and the presence of the resurrected Christ—these provided firm reality for even this little one.

Our faith in the power of God can also be unclouded by doubt as we look to Him who raised His Son from the dead. In Him is the power to raise us up new creatures in Christ.

Prayer

O God, of the living, may Thy Son dwell in us today that there shall be in us no room for sin. Let the victorious Christ command our spirits that we may one day be with Thee eternally. In His name. Amen.

Thought For The Day

The resurrection means the presence of the living Christ among men.

of this year may thaw the freeze on budgetary reform. Congress and the Postmaster General were both at fault in the recent incident. Congress, because it has failed to modernize our budgetary and appropriating machinery, and for permitting supplemental and deficiency appropriations to become a habit. The Postmaster General, for failing to live within the original funds granted by Congress.

The public, Federal employees, and the Government itself suffers from the practice of department and agency heads constantly returning to Congress for deficiency appropriations. True, emergencies are unpredictable, but "emergencies" have become a custom with many Federal agencies. The Executive Branch ought to understand that when Congress, after careful study, appropriates funds to run the agency or program, it is really the people telling the Executive Branch just how much it can have.

Perhaps the unnecessary and high-handed action of the Postmaster General in shutting down postal service will result in improvements in the appropriating and spending of the people's money. It may be that this Congress will adopt a system of money bills based on annual accrued expenditures—a system that would eliminate many of our present difficulties.

Musical Fantasy To Be Produced By Thurmont School

The Thurmont High School Choral Groups are completing preparation for the production, "Parisian Holiday," to be presented on Friday, April 26; Saturday, April 27; and Monday, April 29 at 8:15 p. m. in the High School Auditorium.

The first scene will feature American tourists on the streets of Paris singing the opening chorus, "Parisian Holiday," and other familiar Paris songs. All Saints Day is then celebrated by the members of the Glee Club dressed in black choir robes with stoles of fuchsia pink bearing torches through the streets in a religious celebration.

The Girl's Chorus is starred in the next scene, an exclusive shop, in which appear as perfume bottles, powder puffs, and fashion models.

In the Bastille Day celebration, the members of the Choral Groups wear the tri-colors of France: red, white, and blue as they sing typical patriotic numbers.

In Act IV, by magic, the stage becomes the scene of the famous "Bal Masque" during which each quest tries to pierce his partners masquerade.

"Parisian Holiday" closes with the American tourists bidding fond adieu to "Gay Paree."

Costumes were designed especially for the Thurmont High School Production by the Maharam Fabric Corporation of New York City.

"Parisian Holiday" is an oratory of my bill to set up a joint Congressional Committee to study the growth and expansion of the District of Columbia and metropolitan Washington. I was greatly encouraged by the attitude of the members of the Committee.

BABSON

Writes . . .

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Florida
 Babson Park, Fla., April 25—Nearly every day I get letters from people asking if I would recommend locating in Florida.

As I leave for the North tomorrow, I will try to answer these questions in this week's column. My answer is "No," if you are hoping to get something for nothing; but "Yes," if you are "retiring" and receive a pension check from the North each month or have sufficient income of your own.

Mild Climate Lures Thousands
 Although lacking in a number of important natural resources, Florida has an abundance of sunshine, plenty of water, large amounts of phosphate, and sufficient limestone for cement. It can compete with California and other sections as a mecca for tourists, vacationists, and retired folk. I am told that more than 2,000 people come into Florida each week intending to settle here. Many live on pensions or annuities or income from investments, and therefore have no need to seek employment. Others do need jobs, but not all can find them today.

In my observation, it is rather difficult to get a job in Florida unless you have special skills

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Any experienced newspaperman knows objectivity is easy to define, difficult to achieve.

One illustration of objectivity coming down from frontier days runs "Let's give this varmint a fair and square trial then hang him."

And it would appear many presidential fact finding committees have trouble preserving objectivity in their findings. C. W. Harder Latest example is report of presidential committee to study foreign aid.

Committee membership is interesting. It included former head of world's biggest steel corporation with global interests. It included head of one of world's two huge soap combines with interests everywhere. It also included board chairman of world's largest bank with overseas branches. In addition, group included head of world's biggest labor monopoly in coal industry; one who has been most active in getting government to give coal away to foreign nations to provide employment for his members.

Other three members included a university president, a retired general, and scion of a New York publishing family long connected with international set.

Entirely lacking on committee were members from independent business, or any business leaders whose enterprise has no foreign connections of any kind.

And while, as to be expected from committee make up, report finds foreign aid program of benefit, and recommends continuance at present rate of expenditures determined to be $8 billion per year, the long, long report contains fascinating examples of apparent inconsistencies.

While report does not cover foreign aid operations nation by nation, some quite harsh criticism creeps out now and then.

One is an indication that so-called U. S. allies are dragging their feet in holding up their end of the load in mutual military security. The restrained language of the report is interesting.

"Recent cutbacks in planned Western European contributions to the common defense are disquieting. In all cases the guiding principle governing military grants should be the obligation of each country to bear its fair share of the cost of the common defense. We are not satisfied that all are doing so."

In another section report leveled severe criticism at foreign aid administration's propensity for jumping on a horse and galloping off in all directions. Report states foreign aid officials have over 2,000 foreign projects in hopper or much more than they can handle. It is recommended the number of projects be substantially reduced, and also number of U. S. personnel abroad to reduce causes of friction with people of other lands.

In other words, while the report, as to be expected from committee's make up finds merit in principle of foreign aid, it was not a whitewash of foreign aid operations. Thus, it differs from the reports of similarly picked administration committees that studied tariff protection and anti-trust laws. And if this committee, with interests abroad, could not wholeheartedly approve of foreign aid operation, it would be interesting to see what report would be made on the same subject by a committee selected by Congress from the ranks of independent businessmen with no foreign ties.

which the state's few industries can use. However, efforts to get natural gas by pipeline from Texas are now on the verge of succeeding. I predict that parts of the state will have natural gas by the summer of 1958. When the supply of this fuel is assured, industry should move into Florida at a very rapid pace.

New Boom in Real Estate

Mild climate has always been an attraction to prospective buyers of land for homes or businesses. Now that atomic energy is to be an added attraction, I forecast an even further boom in Florida real estate. The present boom will be far different from the "boom and bust" of the 1920's when sellers and buyers alike went plain crazy. Sharp real estate operators, whose methods are questionable, cannot be eliminated entirely, but Florida does attempt to curb land and stock frauds.

I am bullish on well-located Florida homes which are already built. I do not hesitate to advise those interested to buy a house, or a lot, in an already settled community. However, I urge prospective settlers in Florida or those anxious to buy land there for investment or speculation to proceed very cautiously. Before buying lots in a new subdivision, you should first see them. Florida offers plenty of opportunity to those who are alert to its possibilities and willing to work hard to get ahead. At this time it is not a good place in which to speculate.

Shopping For Industrial Sites

Florida's lack of oil, coal and waterpower has been a serious handicap to the development of heavy industry. Actually, light industry has been moving into the state at an increasing rate. Many industrial concerns in the North and Middle West ask me how to go about buying land for industrial use in Florida. My first answer is to buy for cash only, and to use the same common sense they would use when buying land in their own home state. Second—buy something which they feel sure they could rent or sell promptly if they cannot use it themselves.

Florida is growing fast. Where good land in a settled community can now be bought cheap, I advise buying it; but I have a word of caution for those who are in the market anywhere for land for office buildings, factories, or apartments. Plan for much more parking space than you now feel you will ever need. The success of business ventures in any state will depend largely on ease of access and parking facilities. Provide ample parking for employees, customers, and suppliers. In less than 20 years, I predict that the present number of registered cars will be doubled.

What About The Citrus Business?

After spending some thirty-five winters in Florida, I believe an experienced and hard-working citrus grower can do well. In recent years the citrus industry has prospered. It should do better in future years as new and less expensive methods for cultivating, picking, extracting, shipping, and preserving the flavor of fruit juices are discovered.

However, do not let citrus prosperity lure you to Florida to grow fruit unless you know something about the business or are prepared to have your interests cared for by an experienced co-operative citrus organization. Also be sure you invest in a frostproof grove that can furnish you a 20-year record. Don't buy new groves now. Look before you leap!

12 ABUNDANT LIFE
 BY ORAL ROBERTS

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR OVERCOMES FEAR

What is a single eye?—I mean in the way that Jesus meant when he said, "If the eye be single, the whole body is full of light." Simply this—you can't practice fear and faith at the same time. When you try it, the whole body becomes immeshed in a violent conflict. Fear is unnatural. "Fear hath torment," the Bible tells us. As God originally created us, man's eye was single—he had only faith. Therefore, he should stand up and shout, "I believe!"

But for thousands of years man has lived negatively. "Thou shalt not" has become his password and byword. This is what would give rise to the fifth president, Mr. James Madison's article:

"Honesty has fled from the world, Sincerity has fallen asleep. . . . Conscience is locked in a closet and Chastity has eloped." This is a valid picture of humanity. We fear life, we fear each other, we fear God. But Scripture says that "God hath not given us the spirit of fear." Jesus said, "Fear not. Only believe."

Jesus cures many bodily afflictions, but he is more concerned that we develop new attitudes; he wishes to create within us a new outlook on life—one of faith instead of fear.

Dr. C. Canby Robinson said that 80 per cent of the patients at Johns Hopkins' suffer from disorders that are in part due to emotional causes. Asthma, high blood pressure, headaches, functional heart trouble, stomach ulcers, arthritis, and numerous other diseases often arise out of emotional tension.

Man is just now learning that his greatest health springs from within himself, that as he returns to God and practices faith instead of fear, a very large part of his diseases is cured almost instantly.

The attitude that makes healing possible is to receive by faith God's power. Your faith will make you healthy in mind, soul, and body.

A high school senior, Miss M. B. of Stony Point, North Carolina, wrote this letter:

"I don't know whether you would call it sickness or not. A terrible fear covered my entire being. This started in the summer of 1952 and returned every summer for 3 years.

"I would get very weak and full of terror and I cried most of the time. But in the summer of '54, my pastor and his wife saw your magazine in my home and read the sermon 'Deliverance from Fear' to me. Then they knelt and prayed and I believed God was healing me and he did heal me.

"It was like stepping out of prison and beginning life all over again."

I'd like to tell you that this young lady is a successful song writer now and life is wonderful for her. You, too, can be delivered from fear. Only believe!

"Three Perils For America"

Senator Harry S. Byrd has just finished a careful detailed study of the $73.3 billion Federal Budget for 1958 as submitted by the President. And in a major Senate speech he has called for specific reductions totaling $6.5 billion. Senator Byrd told Congress, the President and the people of America just where the cuts should be made and why. He set forth "three perils" which he said the country would be accepting if the full $73.3 billion budget were to be approved.

"First," he said, "it is the largest peacetime budget in the history of our country. It is the third largest budget of any kind, considering the war periods—the many wars that we have been in.

New Programs Grow
"Secondly, it embraces a number of new avenues for spending. It has 14 aids to the States for Federal grants. It opens up a Pandora's box in building the public-school buildings . . . We went into foreign aid, the Marshall Plan; we were told that that would last four years; guaranteed that. Mr. Truman said, 'I guarantee to you that we'll not spend it for more than four years—15 billion dollars. We've spent 50 billions of dollars on the Marshall Plan. Whenever you start these things, you can't stop them.

"Thirdly, this budget presents the peril—the fact—that it is not soundly based on a balance of revenue, because it has two unpredictables: One is that there must be an increase in postal rates of 700 million dollars, which the Congress has not yet enacted. Very frankly, it is my expectation to vote for some reasonable increase—that is justified in the Post Office Department should be self-sustaining. But Congress has not enacted that. Yet the budget estimate includes the revenue from this increase of 700 million dollars in order to balance the present budget. Also the budget anticipates an increase in income—that is to say, in the national prosperity—of 6 percent for the year 1957. I think . . . you will agree with me that that's a very dangerous basis on which to balance the present budget."

Mortgage On Future
"So this budget," continued Senator Byrd, "is not only the largest budget but it mortgages, so to speak, the future prosperity of the country . . . This budget continues entrenched spending and opens up new federal programs . . . I would be unfaithful to my own conscience and to those things that I have stood for during the time that I have been in public life if I did not denounce this budget as one of the most dangerous and one of the most perilous budgets that has ever been presented to us, because it will continue to grow and grow throughout the years to come."

In his Senate speech, Senator Byrd cited an example of how new federal programs continue "to grow and grow." "There is in the budget," he noted, "an item entitled: 'Salaries and expenses, President's Committee on Education Beyond High School,' Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It is shown as an 'old program.' The Committee was given a 1957 appropriation of $150,000 to make a report by December 31, 1957. The original appropriation provided no funds for grants or subsidies.

Twenty-Times Bigger
"The pending budget proposes an additional 1957 supplement of $650,000 in the current year for grants and subsidies. Then it goes further and proposes one 1958 appropriation of $300,000 to enable the Committee to complete its report, and another 1958 appropriation of 2.5 million dollars "further to assist in developing programs . . . to implement recommendations of the Committee." Here we have a $150,000 appropriation for a Committee report, which in two years grows to a $3 million appropriation for a grants-and-subsidy program—before the report is made! This is a small example of how these programs grow."

When I was in Washington recently many men on Capital Hill told me they were getting an almost record-breaking mail demanding curtailment of federal expenditures and lowering of taxes. If this grass roots clamor continues, the "Byrd" budget cutting $6.5 billion from the recommended spending for the next fiscal year will get ever more serious consideration in the Congress and taxes might begin to come down.

SENATE CLOAKROOM

By J. GLENN BEALL

Having pledged to continue working for reductions in Federal spending and for subsequent tax cuts, I am continually faced with the problem of deciding exactly what constitutes "true economy."

Perhaps the following remarks will give some indication of the perplexities and complications that can arise.

Federal Appropriations
According to custom, the House of Representatives originates and acts first on all appropriation bills.

These appropriations measures fall into two categories—those which are introduced for the following fiscal year, and those which are deficiency appropriations for the current fiscal year. It is not infrequent that various Federal departments and agencies come to the Congress for deficiency allotments when they find that their operations have cost more than had been anticipated. Such was the case when the Post Office Department recently asked for an extra $47-million to cover its expenses until the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Chain Of Effects
Instead of getting additional funds immediately, Postmaster General Summerfield was forced to wait for several weeks.

In the meantime he ordered a curtailment of postal operations. This action affected numerous employees and businesses, of course, and resulted in a chain of inconveniences and losses.

Let me give you an example.

Unpaid Bills
According to the law, postal employees can be reimbursed up to $100 for the cost of their uniforms. One of our Baltimore firms has been making some of these uniforms, but when the Post Office funds ran short there was no money to pay for them.

Consequently, the firm had to go to a bank to borrow money—at regular interest rates—to tide it over until the uniform vouchers could be honored.

You can see, therefore, that there can be scores of secondary effects from every act connected with an appropriations measure, and that is the reason it is so difficult to determine which so-called "economy" measures might actually cause extensive harm.

Slow Progress
Thus far this session, progress has been rather slow on quite a few of the major bills.

Only half of the appropriation bills have acted on in the House, and it is probable that when these 12 measures reach the Senate, there will be at least a week of debate on each. That amounts to three months. In addition, there are the school construction bill, the civil rights bill, the immigration bill and many others.

As I see it, the Congress will be in session until the end of August or later unless its pace is soon stepped up.

The Landon Choral groups will give short programs at 8 o'clock both evenings, when the gardens will be effectively lighted.

Tickets may be purchased on the school grounds and through many garden clubs for $1.00.

Small Business Loans Approved

Clarence P. Moore, regional director of the Small Business Administration for Maryland, announced this week the approval of 39 business loans totaling $1.5 million, which had been held up because of lack of funds.

Mr. Moore said that action by President Eisenhower last Saturday in signing a deficiency appropriation bill had replenished the Agency's revolving loan fund. Disbursement of funds on the loans that were held up will be made as rapidly as the loans can be closed, Mr. Moore said.

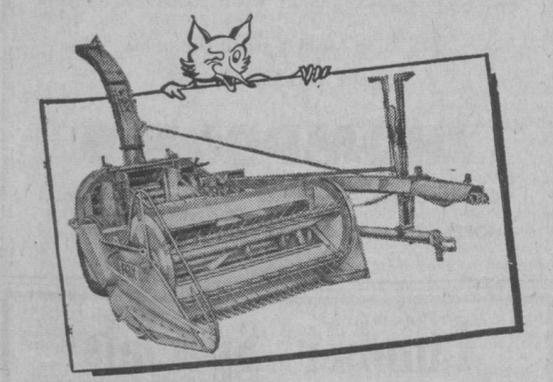

Since Feb. 1 the Small Business Administration had curtailed small business loan approvals. Since April 15 the Agency had ceased making any business loans. However, the Agency continued to process loan applications to the point of committing the government, pending Congressional allotment of additional lending funds.

The deficiency measure carried an appropriation of $45 million to the Small Business Administration's revolving loan fund. Future applications and disbursement will be made in the usual manner.

Government Bonds

Improve Rate Of Interest

Improved interest rates on new purchases of Series E and H Savings bonds were announced by the Treasury Dept. last week, following the signing by President Eisenhower of the law authorizing the rate increases.

Series E and H bonds purchased currently will now yield 3 3/4 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually, when held to maturity. The former rate was three per cent. The increase is effective for all Series E and H bonds purchased on or after Feb. 1, 1957.

Another improvement in the new bonds is higher interest paid to holders who find they have to cash their bonds prior to maturity. Both redemption values for the new E bonds and interest payments on the new H bonds are substantially increased for the earlier years.

For example, the redemption value of a new E bond is increased so as to yield three per cent at the end of three years, compared with 2 1/2 per cent heretofore, and to yield 3.20 per cent at the end of six years, compared with 2.64 per cent heretofore.

The improved rates apply automatically to all E and H bonds purchased on or after Feb. 1, 1957; persons who have brought these bonds since that date need not take any further action to assure getting the improved terms. This is true even though the E and H bonds purchased since Feb. 1 may have imprinted on them the former (and now obsolete) tables of redemption values or interest payment scales. The issue date shown on each bond will be controlling in determining the actual redemption value or scale of interest payments, and banks and other paying agents have been furnished tables of the new values.

The new E bonds mature in eight years and 11 months and the new H bonds in 10 years. Both issues formerly matured in nine years and eight months.

The Treasury pointed out that in most cases it will not be advantageous for the holders of E and H bonds issued prior to Feb. 1, 1957, to redeem their old bonds and buy new ones. Any bond that is 2 1/2 years old or older and has not reached first maturity will earn more than 3 3/4 per cent on its current redemption value as it grows to maturity. In the case of bonds brought prior to last Feb. 1 and held less than 2 1/2 years, only a small gain could be realized by redeeming them to buy new bonds — typically not more than a few cents per year in increased interest.

Series E bonds which have reached first maturity since May 1952 and are retained under the optional extension privilege are already yielding a full three per cent, compounded semi-annually, with the privilege of redemption at any time. If they were redeemed and new E bonds purchased, the new bonds have to be held three years before they would earn as much as three per cent.

With the change in interest return the previous calendar year limit of $20,000 (face amount) on purchases of each series by individuals has been lowered to $10,000. The Treasury is withdrawing the present investment-type Series J and K bonds from sale, effective Apr. 30, 1957. Both of these decisions underline the Treasury's desire to emphasize the savings bond as a security designed for millions of average individual American savers.

Porch 'Stretches' Summer

Carpenter, right, encloses a porch with awning window units of ponderosa pine. The pre-assembled units speed his work and turn the porch into the bright sun room, above.

More and more home-owners are discovering that they can "stretch" the outdoor living season by enclosing their porches with banks of windows. This makes it possible for them to relax and dine in an outdoor atmosphere during many months of the year when cold or rainy weather ordinarily would keep them inside.

Stock windows of ponderosa pine are popular for porch enclosures because they come with frames and sash pre-assembled, making it possible to enclose a porch by simply fitting the units together in a floor-to-ceiling, wall-to-wall arrangement.

Wide walls of windows keep a porch "open." Sunlight and scenery come in. Bad weather stays out. During warm weather, the windows open to make the porch airy and comfortable.

The ease of installing stock window units of ponderosa pine makes a porch enclosure a do-it-yourself project for skilled home handymen. A carpenter can make short work of the job because the compact, pre-assembled wood window units go into place with a minimum of framing.

Almost any home handyman can do the finishing work. The clear pine frames and sash can be stained or painted easily to harmonize with both the interior and exterior color schemes of the house.
