Winter's behind us, believe it or not after yesterday's lethal blow by Old Man Winter. Today is the first day of spring although the weather isn't indicative of it. The winter was a long one, so to speak. It actually is the same every year but some seem to drag out a bit longer than others and this one, in my opinion, was one of the long ones. It was right cold and we had a lot of snow as snows go here. There's one thing to be thankful for though (outside of the fact that it's over) and that is that the water table in this locality has been improved immeasurably. For the past five years this table has been steadily dropping to an unsafe level. Remember last summer's drought? Well we will have a good start right now and the spring rains should bring the ground and wells back to their original state of usefulness.

Every time I read about some silly Government expense I really become riled. With taxes so high and the cost of living still higher I am at a loss to understand just what some bureaus in Washington mean by perpetual foolish spending. Being long associated with printers and publishers, I am fully cognizant of the cost of printing pamphlets, books, brochures, etc. Here's one published by the Government and released recently. It is titled "Tools for Food Preparation and Dishwashing." It contains some valuable information to the effect that 'dishpans should be big enough to hold the dishes—but not too large to fit the sink.' This little revelation must have let you taxpayers back a tidy little sum of money. The Government of dollars for the million or so copies printed! And when we pay our taxes this year we'll be especially grateful to the brilliant so and so who strained his brain to write this valuable piece of information.

Many of us living so close to Port Detrick are oblivious of the work being conducted there, so it being right in our backyard, so to speak, I'll attempt to tell you just what is going on there and at the same time violate no rules of government secrecy because most of it is public knowledge anyway. The Army is carrying on bacteriological warfare and is developing germ weapons, that use mutants (different versions of killing diseases). These germs are encased in spray bombs that can be dropped from planes or projected from submarines. An example of how these germs travel is shown by an experiment made last year. A submarine discharged a number of the bombs in mid-Atlantic and several weeks later traces of them were found in five eastern coast states. A similar experiment on the Pacific Coast cost two lives. These germs travel wherever they are developed. Detrick's main work is analytic. For example if Russia releases any of these germs the U. S. has a number of absorbent test panels strategically located and they will pick up the germs. They are then rushed to Frederick and quickly analyzed and if possible an antidote concocted. Experimentation is supposed to be made with harmless germs but sometimes things go wrong and they turn out lethal and some unlucky soul departs for another world. Anyway that is a brief explanation to Frederick County residents of what is being accomplished right here at home. Don't become alarmed, there's little if any danger of the germs escaping and a lot of valuable work is going on quietly and effectively.

Democrats Lead County Registration

A total of 28,137 voters registered up to last weekend to qualify to cast ballots in Frederick County during the May 20 primary.

Of those registered for the primary up to Saturday midnight, 15,435 registered as Democrats, 12,304 as Republicans and 298 declined to signify affiliation. Balloting for the primary will be in the county's 26 districts, which include 68 precincts.

Miss Ruth Moberly, registra at the Board of Registry in the courthouse, also announced there had been no withdrawals from the list of candidates who filed here for county, state and Congressional offices.

Several Democratic contests for local offices were assured when the deadline for filing passed last Monday midnight. For local offices, however, there will be no Republican contest in Frederick County.

Withdrawals prior to the deadline were reported for Montgomery County, but they made no material change in the factional warfare looming for both major parties in that area. The Republican party in Montgomery county is divided between two slates, and the Democrats appear to have at least that many in the field.

SUIT SETTLED

Sessions of the February term of the Circuit Court for Carroll County have been in progress, with Chief Judge James E. Boylan Jr., presiding.

On Tuesday, the damage suit of Bernice Hampson and Robert E. Hampson, the latter a dentist in Baltimore, was tried. Mrs. Hampson had sued the American Store Co., Inc., in Taneytown, for $30,000 for damage to the store when she fell while leaving the store during the construction of the sewerage system in Taneytown. She injured her knee, was hospitalized and also wore a brace. At the opening of the case, Alma R. Shriner, owner of the building was involved as also was W. F. Wilson and Sons, and the mayor and common council of Taneytown, but they were soon dropped from the case. The jury rendered a verdict in favor of the American Stores Co. The Hampsons operate a farm near Emmitsburg.

OBITUARIES

MRS. CATHERINE D. MYERS
Mrs. Catherine Dorothy Myers, 42, wife of Francis R. Myers, Emmitsburg R1, died Tuesday evening, after an illness of two years at Maryland State Hospital, Hagerstown, at 8 o'clock at the West-vears.

She was a daughter of the late Edward Wetzel and Mrs. Lucy M. Tressler Wetzel, Emmitsburg R1. She was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Emmitsburg.

In addition to her husband and mother, she is survived by two sons, William R. and Albert J. Myers; and one daughter, Carrie May Myers, all of Emmitsburg R1; two brothers, Charles and Edward Wetzel, Emmitsburg R1; three sisters, Mrs. Bernard Stout, Mrs. Charles Springer and Mrs. Violet Valentine, all of Emmitsburg.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning (Saturday), meeting at the Allison Funeral Home at 8:30 a. m. followed by mass at 9 a. m. at St. Joseph's Church conducted by the Rev. Fr. James Twomey. Interment in Friends Creek Cemetery, near Sabillasville. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight after 7 o'clock where the Rosary will be recited at 8:15.

MRS. RHODA B. STAMBAUGH

Mrs. Rhoda Beraw Stambaugh, 70, formerly of York, wife of the late Charles Stambaugh, died at 7:10 o'clock last Thursday night at Pleasant Acres. Mrs. Stambaugh was born in Emmitsburg and had resided in York and vicinity for the past 30 years. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Helen Richie, York; Mrs. Clara Gitt, Delaware, Pa., and Sister Marnard, Washington, D. C.; three brothers, Charles Beraw, Mont Alto; Walter Beraw and Chales Ridge, both of Emmitsburg.

Funeral services were held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Emig Funeral Home, Dover. The Rev. C. A. Snyder, pastor of the Lutheran congregation of Salem Union Church, officiated. Interment was in Salem Union Cemetery.

Movie theaters in Great Britain decreased by 226 to a total of 4,171 during 1957.

Mother Seton PTA Reports Charity Sale Successful

Curtis D. Topper, president, presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Mother Seton School PTA held last Thursday evening in the cafeteria. Sister Frances, principal, led the group in prayer for the opening of the session.

William Sanders acted as temporary secretary and gave the reports of the secretary and treasurer.

The president reported that at a recent executive board meeting it was decided to have Sister Frances send to the various companies for samples of prizes to be awarded at commencement.

Sister Frances expressed gratification for the cooperation of the parents in the recent charity sale. Gross proceeds amounted to $516 with $80 expenses. The net profit was divided among the pastors of the four parishes represented at the school, for other charity contributions.

Following the business meeting a program on Americanism was presented by the pupils of the sixth grade.

Sodality Group To Sponsor Bingo

The regular monthly meeting of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary, St. Joseph's Catholic Church, was held on Monday in the parish hall, President Margaret Myers, presiding. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The group voted a donation towards the school tuition fund. It was decided to hold a covered dish social at the next meeting of the organization. A key demonstration will be held in the near future.

The president announced that a penny bingo game would be held on April 14, sponsored by the Sodality Band 1 and 5 and a committee of Mrs. Mamie Kietz and Mrs. Anna Gerken was named in charge of the event.

Father Twomey was present at the meeting and asked the Sodality to "watch" on Holy Thursday evening from 7 to 9 p. m. and again on Good Friday from 6 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. The meeting was closed with a prayer led by Father Twomey. The next meeting will be held on April 21.

COLLEGE STUDENT INVOLVED IN CAR WRECK

Damage totaled $250 in a two-car crash at the intersection of Steinwehr Ave. and Washington St., Gettysburg, last Friday according to police. Kevin J. McMahon, Danbury, Conn., a Mt. St. Mary's student, was driving a 1953 Volkswagen north on Steinwehr and made a left turn at the intersection in front of a 1949 Plymouth being driven south on Steinwehr Ave. by Ordean C. Blubaugh, 102 Hanover St., Gettysburg. The cars collided at the intersection causing $150 damage to the McMahon car and $100 to the Blubaugh car, police said.

Typing Contest Open To School Students

"Plans for the second annual Strayer Typewriting Contest have been completed, and first and second year high school typing students are invited to compete. Prizes valued at over $600 will be awarded to winners," Mr. Calvin McMillion, Contest Director, announced today.

Strayer College is sponsoring these contests to encourage improvement in typewriting. Mr. McMillion stated that high school students enjoy participating in contests, and winning an award is an honor to the student as well as to the high school he represents.

Representatives of high schools in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, and the District of Columbia will meet at Strayer College, Baltimore, or Strayer College, Washington, on Saturday, March 29, at 10 a. m.

The winner in each contest will receive a 1958 Remington Portable typewriter, and the second place winners will each receive a $100 wrist watch. Fourteen other prizes will be awarded runners-up.

The test material will be a standard Gregg Typewriting Achievement Test. These tests usually require the arrangement of a business letter, rough draft copy submitted in proper form and two five-minute timed writings.

Complete information concerning the contest can be obtained from high school typing teachers or by writing Calvin McMillion, director of typing contest, Strayer College, 60-13th St., N. W., Washington 5, D. C.

Completes Training With IBM Corp.

David J. Kerrigan, 100 E. Main St., was graduated on Friday, March 14 from an eight-month Air Defense Training Course of International Business Machines Corporation's Military Products Division, Kingston, N. Y.

Mr. Kerrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Kerrigan, Sr., has been assigned to an Air Defense Installation at Madison, Wis., site of one of the SAGE (Semi-Automatic Air Ground Environment Computers) being manufactured for the U. S. Air Force by IBM.

The high-speed SAGE Computers, comprising more than 350 tons of electronic equipment, gather and evaluate air defense information from radar stations, Texas towers, Strategic Air Command aircraft and other sources.

David, in completing the field engineering course, concentrated on specialized electronics training in preparation for installation work, testing and maintaining the computers for regular 24-hour-a-day operation. Mr. Kerrigan will reside in the Madison area.

Bible Class Meeting Here

The Men's Bible Class of Tom's Creek Methodist Church held their second fellowship meeting on Sunday evening, March 1, at 7:30 p. m. in the Educational Building of the church. President Harry Weber led the group in the Lord's Prayer to open the meeting, followed by group singing accompanied by John Fuss at the piano. There were 15 members and two visitors present.

The devotional period with John Fuss, class teacher, leading discussed "Evangelism."

Following the devotional period, the business meeting was held. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and the treasurer's report was given. Different suggestions were discussed concerning an effort to increase attendance and interest at church, Sunday School, and fellowship meetings. The meeting was adjourned and the group gathered around the piano and sang a few songs and then enjoyed delicious refreshments prepared by two of the members.

The next meeting will be held on April 20, at the church and everyone is invited to attend an evening of fellowship with us.

Local Library, County's Oldest, Observing National Library Week

The urgency of support for libraries that they may place more books into the hands of more Frederick Countians to meet the challenge of the space age, is a theme of National Library Week, March 16-22, when all public, college and school libraries of the county joined the national program for a better-read, better-informed America.

The Emmitsburg Public Library, oldest in continuous service in Frederick County, has been holding "open house" during its regular hours, in observance of the designated week.

The local Library was organized August 1, 1906, when the late Sterling Galt, editor of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, appointed a committee to plan the founding of a public library here. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. Henry Stokes. Officers elected were Rev. A. M. Gluck, president, and Miss M. Belle Rowe, secretary. Fifty charter members were obtained who sponsored the plan. A room was rented and furnished and the Emmitsburg Public Library was opened and has remained open to this institution being maintained by subscription. It is purely a local institution, a yearly donation from the Town Council and Homemakers Club, augmented by other revenue raising events.

Emmit Gardens Will Get New Street Lights

Residents of the Emmit Gardens area, recently annexed to the Corporation of Emmitsburg, were assured this week that new and more powerful street lights will be erected there, in the very near future.

An official of the Potomac Edison Co. which supplies the lights and current for the town, met early this week with members of the Town Council and inspected the area. After some deliberation it was decided to change the whole pattern of the lighting system in the Gardens and East Main St. Extended. The three pole lights recently erected there will be replaced with four 6000 lumen lamps along East Main Street Extended from Flat Run bridge to the corporate limits where new Route 15 will bisect State Route 97. In addition, at least two other lights will be erected in the Gardens itself, making a total of three here. This will bring the total lights to be installed in the area to seven and possibly eight and will increase the total lighting wattage by about 10 times its present total.

Samuel Breth, district manager of the Potomac Edison Co., said it was possible that new poles would have to be either installed, or relocated in the area, and that work would be completed as soon as possible. The new lights will match those installed in the town proper and will spread light to both sides of the street in equal proportions.

Baby Shower

A baby shower was held March 15 for Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Weant.

After the opening of many useful and lovely gifts, refreshments of chicken sandwiches, potato chips, cookies, cake, mints, nuts, pickles, soft drinks, coffee and ice cream, were served. Present for the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Weant, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Weant, Mrs. Earlene Glass, Mrs. Thomas Glass, Mrs. Charles Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weant, and daughter, Diane, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Weant and family, Mr. and Mrs. Sirrell Weant, and Mrs. Ray McGlaughlin and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rhodes, Mr. family, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bowling and family, Mrs. Earl Adelsberger and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dupel and family, Mrs. Raymond Weant, Mrs. Carroll Wivell, Miss Cora Mae Six, Mrs. George Devillbiss, Mr. William McGlaughlin, Charles Fox, Robert Geigley and Henry Geigley.

Car Keys Stolen

Miss Barbara James, Emmitsburg, reported to Pennsylvania police Tuesday morning that a set of keys was stolen from her at the Hillside Tavern Monday night.

At 71, J. J. Yingling of Minco, Okla., has his original teeth and can lift 100 pounds with them.

Archbishop Bestows Indulgence Privileges To Mount Grotto

The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, has informed Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of Mount Saint Mary's College, that a petition for the granting of special Indulgences for those who visit the grotto of Our Lady on the College grounds was granted by the Office in Charge of Indulgences at the Sacred Penitentiary in Rome.

According to Archbishop Keough's letter the faithful who visit the grotto and receive the Hail Mary, together with the invocation "O Mary, Virgin Mother of God, pray to Jesus for me," will receive the following Indulgences during the Lourdes Jubilee Year:

1. A Partial Indulgence of 500 days to be gained each time that a visit is made and the prayers recited with a contrite heart.

2. A Plenary Indulgence once a month under the usual conditions, provided a visit is made and the prayers recited every day during the month.

This year, 1958, marks both the 100th Anniversary of the apparition of Our Lady at Lourdes and the 150th anniversary of the founding of Mount St. Mary's College in 1808 by Father Dubois. The grotto on the mountainside and the chapel erected nearby are rich in Mountaineer tradition, for it was here that Fr. Dubois first had his vision of founding the College. Wearied after a hard day in dispatch of his parish duties, Dubois was attracted by a light on the mountainside, and thinking it a settler's residence hoped to find food and rest. Unable to find any building, he stopped on the hillside to rest himself beside a mountain brook. As his thoughts wandered far afield, Fr. Dubois idly shaped a few twigs into a cross. Rising to leave, he first placed the cross in the crotch of the lowest tree. This tree in its decadence was later the original grotto—one of the oldest such in the United States—and the result of Dubois' meditation beneath it Mount Saint Mary's College. Here has since been erected the chapel in which the May Mass is now celebrated.

After the first college buildings had been constructed, Dubois busied himself and his charges in beautifying the surrounding areas. One of the first spots that took his eye was the mound on which the present chape rests, just over the stream from the present grotto. Here he and his early students erected the first grotto on a little patch of ground which stood among the large and ancient trees in a natural woodland recess.

In the lane which ran through the woods between the parish church and the grotto—a distance of some three hundred yards—Fr. Dubois attached crosses to the trees so that students might make the stations on the beautiful mountain path. Later when the ground became the scene of Corpus Christi processions each spring, the path was called Corpus Christi Avenue.

Year after year the students improved the beauty of the grotto area. They collected soil to make a little garden and built an arbor out of old planks, laths, shingles, as they were able to coax the mout of Fr. Dubois.

In 1856 the celebration of the Corpus Christi festival began at Mount Saint Mary's. After the celebration of Mass—the Mass of St. Thomas Aquinas set to music by Professor Dielman of Mount Saint Mary's—the procession moved from the Mountain church to the grotto along the wooded avenue. The line of procession was made up of clergy, seminarians, and college students. Benediction was given at the grotto.

The oldest records of Mount Saint Mary's bear witness to the healthy piety of the students, and of the hymns and litanies they offered at the grotto. One is surprised indeed to read of the festivities at the grotto in 1858, the very year in which history records that the Blessed Virgin Mary was appearing to Bernadette Soubirous at Lourdes. Certainly it was Our Lady's apparition at Lourdes which inspired the building of the new grotto, begun in 1875, finished in 1879, the oldest exact replica of the Lourdes grotto in the United States.

After completion of the new grotto the May celebrations were held there. In 1906 a new stone edifice was erected over the old grotto site as a memorial to Bishop McGovern of Harrisburg, once a prefect at Mount St. Mary's. Now each year on May 1 Mass is offered in this tiny chapel and on the last day of May benediction is held.

Harold M. Hoke Re-elected VFW Commander

A special meeting of the Emmitsburg Memorial Post 6658 of the VFW was held Wednesday night at 8 p. m. for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. Sixty-two members were in attendance.

Elected for another year as the head of the post was Harold M. Hoke, to the position of commander, which he held last year. Other officers elected were as follows: Senior vice commander, Guy A. Baker, Jr.; junior vice commander, Raymond M. Baker; quartermaster, Lumen F. Norris; post advocate, Wales E. Rightnour; chaplain, Louis F. Rosensteel; surgeon, Dr. William H. Carr; trustee (three years) Albert Wayne McCleaf. Members of the new board of directors are: William L. Topper, George L. Danner, Thomas F. Saylor, Guy A. Baker, Jr., William E. Sanders, Wales E. Rightnour, Roger I. Zurgable.

Two new members, Jack H. Browning and Stephen V. Wagaman, were voted into the group giving the post a total membership of 202. Only 12 additional members are needed to attain 100% membership.

To Grant Scholarship

The post voted unanimously to establish a VFW scholarship. The recipient of this scholarship will be required to attend a four-year accredited college course and a special scholarship fund will be established for this purpose. A competitive examination will be given to seniors of the Emmitsburg area, from both high schools and the student receiving the top grade in the test will receive a $250 scholarship, annually. Specific details of requirement and prerequisites will be arranged by the scholarship committee, consisting of members of the board of directors.

The annual kiddies' Easter egg hunt will be held this year on Easter Sunday afternoon. Commander Hoke will be in charge of the affair and will name an assisting committee to carry out this community service program.

The membership decided to install two picnic tables at the VFW Memorial Playground for the benefit of the playground supervisor and smaller children, to be used for drawing, coloring and other table games.

The post was given a report by Quartermaster Norris of the work being done by the commander and himself, on a community service booklet which will contain all the annual community service projects of the post. Pictures have been taken, Norris stated, and will be incorporated in the report. The compilation will be submitted through the Department Headquarters to National Headquarters for judging. National VFW awards will be presented for the best recording of community service programs.

The 12th anniversary of the institution of the local VFW will be observed April 12 and a social event is being arranged for the occasion. Food, refreshments and entertainment are part of the program for the affair.

In accepting the commandship once again, Commander Hoke expressed thanks for confidence in his administration and gave his most heart-felt recognition to all officers and committeemen who served with him during the past year. He pledged continued effort to put all of his energies in this second term as commander, asking the continued assistance of the newly-elected officers.

Quartermaster Lumen F. Norris voiced appreciation for being re-elected to his 11th consecutive term and recounted briefly of the history of the post saying it is recognized as one of the most efficiently rated posts in the state and nation and hoped that the vitality and progressiveness of the past 12 years will continue and rise to even greater achievements in the future. The next meeting of the post will be held on April 2 at which time the newly-elected officers will be installed.

Social Security

'Freeze' Clarified

Are you losing your social security protection by failing to file an application for a disability freeze? It isn't too late according to W. S. King, District Manager of the Hagerstown Social Security Office, if you act before July 1, 1958.

Severely disabled persons, who have been unable to work for a prolonged period, risk losing their future rights to disability benefits at 50, old-age benefits, and benefits for their survivors. By filing promptly King said, their social security records may be frozen as of the date they became unable to work. This will protect their rights to future payments and the amounts payable.

To qualify for this "freeze" a person must have worked under social security at least five years out of 10 preceding his disability including at least one and a half years out of the three-year period before his disability began. Also, it must be established by medical evidence that his condition is so severe it prevents him from substantial gainful employment or self-employment and that it is expected to continue for an indefinite period. The disability may be of any nature but must have existed for six months or more.

If you are disabled, protect yourself and your family by immediately getting in touch with your social security office at 74 W. Washington Street, Hagerstown.

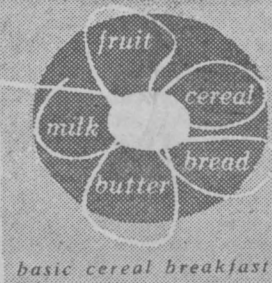

WHY EAT BREAKFAST?

Scientists at the State University of Iowa studied the importance of breakfast on the physical and mental well-being of 70 subjects 12 to 80 years of age. After six years of research they found: A good breakfast is essential for maximum physical and mental efficiency during the late morning hours. Busy teen-agers work and play better—get higher grades—after a good breakfast.

"Food Comes First"—Families who adopt this slogan will be sharper in their thinking and actions, be calmer and steadier, and work better, especially in the late morning hours. Homemaker and office worker alike can look forward to increased mental and physical efficiency—after a good breakfast.

Doctors and dietitians recommend that a good breakfast be built around a basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. Encourage your family to eat a nourishing, low-fat, quick and lasting energy breakfast every morning.

THIS WEEK

—In Washington

With
Clinton Davidson

The hardest man in Washington to discourage is, without doubt, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. A week seldom passes that he does not reject demands that he resign.

If harsh criticism—and he has had an abundance of it—gets under his skin he shows no sign of it. Eggs and verbal brick-bats have rained down on him for more than five years.

Since January, 1953, he has spent almost $20 billion on programs authorized by Congress to help farmers. Yet poll after poll has shown that most farmers want him to quit.

Benson, himself, disputes those polls. He would rather rely on the mail he receives which, he says, runs more than three to one in favor of his staying. How many of those are from farmers he doesn't say.

The Congressional Record has printed more than 100 speeches by congressmen demanding that Benson resign. At least a dozen delegations from Congress have faced the Secretary and insisted that he get out.

Recently one such delegation told him that if he didn't go soon he would cause 25 to 30 Midwestern Republican congressmen to be defeated in November. Benson told them, in effect, that he didn't believe it.

Some of those most active in the "dump Benson" campaign claim that Vice-President Nixon is one of their leaders. Nixon, however, has neither confirmed nor denied the reports. Benson says they are not true.

In the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, where farm legislation must originate, Republican and Democratic members have been almost equally critical of Benson and his farm policies. They've made life miserable for him in the hope that he would quit.

The attitude of the farm organization leaders in Washington has ranged from lukewarm to openly hostile. Generally, the Farm Bureau has been less critical than the others.

Benson, on the other hand, is not without staunch supporters. Most important of those is President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He not only refuses to ask Benson to resign, but publicly endorses his farm policies and insists that he stay.

For almost every speech in Congress demanding that Benson resign, there has been another praising him. Principally, these have been made by congressmen from Northeastern states and from predominantly urban districts, but he also has supporters from farm states.

The enigma of it all is that Benson is generally well liked, personally. He is respected for his unshakable devotion to his convictions. A deeply religious man, he simply turns the other cheek to his assailants.

He has said repeatedly that he does not seek personal popularity. The fact that his program does not appeal to many farmers, or to Congress, does not discourage him. Only one thing counts: His firm conviction that what he stands for is right and in the long-time best interest of farmers and the nation.

Mahoney Elated Over New Support

This week, with the General Assembly's 1958 session finally at an end, the political news spotlight turned to primary election campaigns. George P. Mahoney, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator, said he was "delighted with the response I'm receiving from people in the City and counties to my discussion of the issues of this campaign."

Mahoney said his forces "went into high gear" in Baltimore City last week, as he received endorsements of two strong District organizations—in the City's First and Second Districts. Mahoney said:

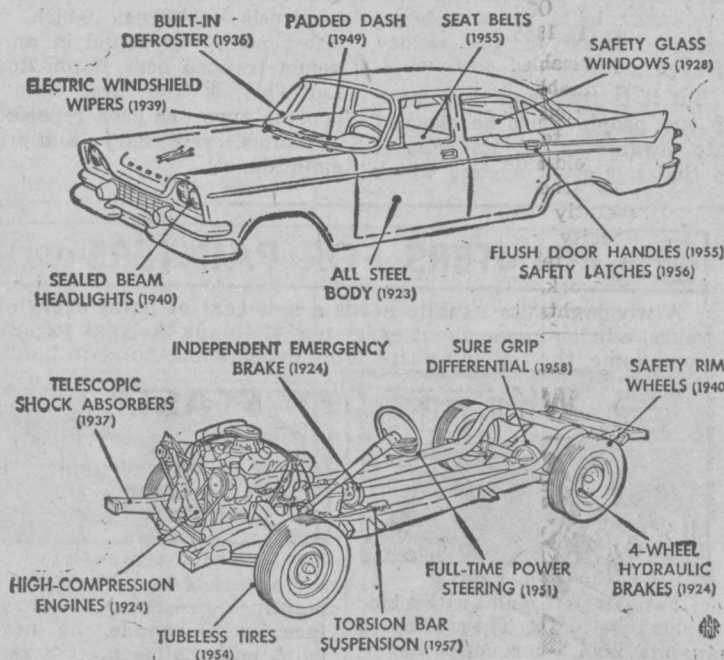

"These organizations include the groups which have supported me in four successive primaries—and we've carried the District every time. My vote in these areas in four primary elections has averaged better than 60 per cent of the voter turnout. In fact, my vote in five of the six City Districts has averaged about 60 per cent in four primaries."

"That is a pretty good record to go into an election with—particularly a four-way fight, with the opposition more divided than ever. However, I'm not depending on past performances. I'm campaigning just as vigorously as I ever have and I'm discussing the really serious issues facing our people today."

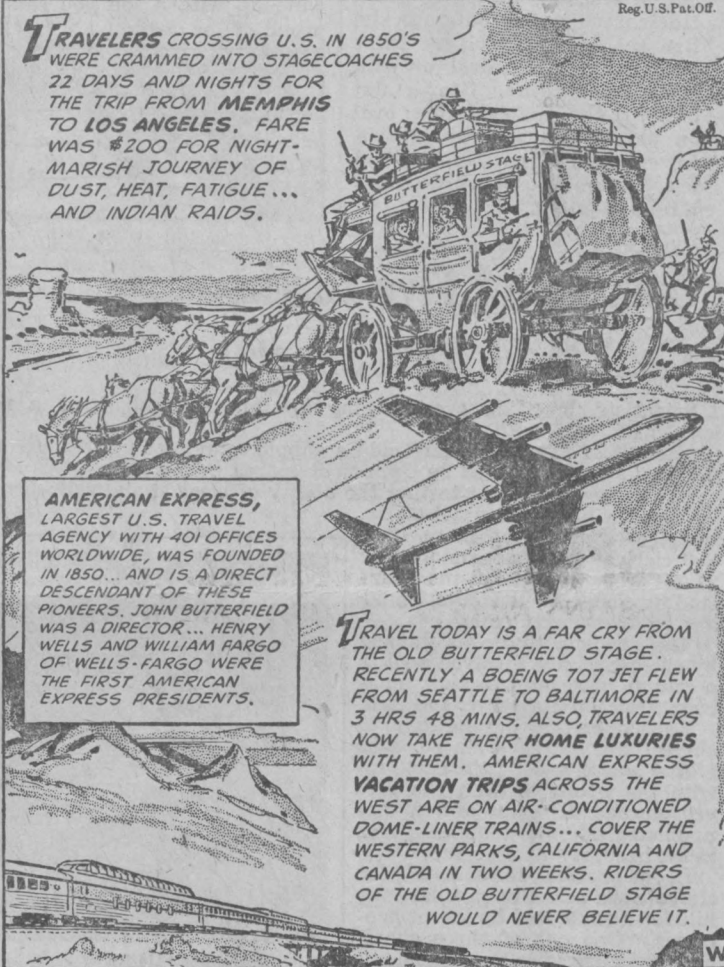

"I'm delighted with the response

Your Car is Safe — Here's Why

SAFETY ENGINEERING ADVANCES during 40 years of designing and building automobiles are illustrated in this drawing of the 1958 Dodge. Among the unique safety features developed over the years are safety rim wheels, which keep the tire on the wheel in case of blowout; torsion bar suspension which lowers the car's center of gravity and gives better road control; and safety door handles and latches. Such "built-in" safety advances provide better protection for driver and passengers, and reflect the continuing concern of auto manufacturers for highway safety.

IN THIS WORLD

For an unusual buffet main dish serve—

Curried Shrimp With Hot Cereal Flakes

Piping hot, buttered Whole Wheat Flakes provide just the right flavor and texture contrast to complement the superb flavor of Curried Shrimp. This entree is not only easy to make, but it is attractive and mighty good eating. Guests can help themselves to coconut, kumquats, chutney, and peanuts to complete this unusual entree.

There is no problem with this main dish if the serving time for the buffet supper is delayed. The shrimp curry can be prepared ahead of time and held in a double boiler. Just before serving time, melt the butter in a fry pan and heat the whole wheat flakes. Fill the heated, individual casseroles as directed in the recipe. Serve immediately and this main dish will be in prime condition no matter how long the dining hour has been delayed. This entree is especially helpful for people to serve who have limited cooking facilities because no oven is necessary.

Breakfast cereals, when used as an ingredient, improve flavor and texture and add protein, B vitamins, essential minerals, and food energy.

Curried Shrimp On Hot Buttered Whole Wheat Flakes
 2 1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon curry powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 1 bouillon cube dissolved in 1 cup hot water
 1 1/2 cups milk
 2 cans deveined shrimp
 2 cups cooked peas
 3 cups whole wheat flakes, slightly crushed

Melt 1/4 cup butter or margarine; add onions and cook over low heat until tender but not brown. Add flour, curry powder, salt, celery salt, and pepper, stirring to blend. Gradually add bouillon and milk and cook until smooth and thickened, stirring constantly. Add shrimp and peas and allow to heat through. Melt remaining butter or margarine in fry pan. Add slightly crushed whole wheat flakes and blend until evenly coated with butter or margarine and heated through. Serve curried shrimp in heated individual casseroles on a bed of heated whole wheat flake mixture, reserving a few flakes for garnishing tops. Yield: 6 servings.

Note: This curry is a basic recipe. For variety use 1 1/2 cups of eggs (hard-cooked and sliced), lamb, veal, or pork in place of the shrimp.

I've received. I've received a large volume of mail at my headquarters than in any previous election. People all over the state are definitely interested in what I'm saying and in my campaign."

Mahoney listed a number of issues he termed "of top importance, including:

1—Tax relief as an anti-recession remedy. Since the beginning of the campaign, Mahoney has called for income tax reductions, based on increased personal exemptions. His plan would save the average family of four at least $160 annually. He said:

"Last week, Vice President Nixon announced he, too, thought a tax cut would be necessary to halt the recession. Even the Republicans are beginning to see the light."

2—A program to stimulate home building and provide employment for 2,000,000 building trades workers. Last week the Senate passed a smaller program which Mahoney called a "step in the right direction." He agreed with Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson that the Senate Bill was only "the beginning of the beginning" of the anti-recession program.

The Mahoney home-building program was presented to every member of the Senate in Mid-February, about two weeks before Senator John Sparkman and other Democrats introduced the recently-passed Bill.

Acreage Reserve Cancellation Date Is Set Ahead

The date for canceling 1958 Acreage Reserve applications for corn has been moved up through March 28, Julius P. Parran, Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Chairman, reminded farmers today. The previous deadline for cancellation of applications for corn was February 20, the closing date of the sign-up. The deadline for canceling Acreage Reserve applications was March 7, as previously announced.

Explaining the reasons for the cancellation - date extension, Mr. Parran said that the present corn sign-up would require payments in excess of the Soil Bank Act limitation, which restricts corn Acreage Reserve payments to $300 million. All offerings of corn acreage as reported from State offices would require payment of $313 million. It is expected that extension of the deadline for cancellations will result in a reduction of total requests for participation in the program.

ABUNDANT LIFE

LOYD W. WAS AN ALCOHOLIC

Man's most severe struggle for faith is within himself. This is because his own sins condemn him. They stand before him when he gropes for contact with the Infinite. As long as this is true, faith cannot be very effective. But St. John said that "if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence (faith) toward God" (1 John 3:21).

Now I imagine this question presents itself: "Does a person have faith whether he is right with God or not?" The answer is, "Yes, he does." For God gives a measure of faith to every man. But there must be a total commitment to God for faith to accomplish all that it could.

I am reminded of Loyd W. who for 15 years was an alcoholic. At various times through those years the measure of faith or God-consciousness within him would try to guide him aright. But the demon of alcohol would take control. Loyd's story is too long to relate here but I want to give a portion to illustrate how even a measure of faith will work in a human life.

"All through those harrowing years, deep within me, there was a God-consciousness. One time when I was in Red River Parish, Louisiana, I stopped in a town and rented a hotel room. I bought some liquor and went to my room to drink. I had taken only a few drinks when I fell asleep. Some time during the night I had a vision of the Lord. He had a crown of thorns upon his head and the blood was slowly oozing down his face. His eyes had a look of love mingled with pity.

"I felt so naked and ashamed and sinful. He never spoke a word to me; he just stood there in faith and sadly shook his head. The look was so penetrating that I wanted to cry out to him for forgiveness."

"Often before, I had felt a desperate need to serve God and be free from the deadly clutch of drink. Somehow, that night, I felt that God in his infinite mercy would forgive me. But I needed something in addition to forgiveness. I needed complete deliverance from alcoholism. But I didn't know how, nor was I yet ready, to accept the deliverance I so desperately needed."

You see, Loyd found out what everyone else will find—faith cannot do its best work as long as there is sin in the person's life.

Sin is a dominating thing, and it produces a division in the soul. The body and mind are keenly responsive to the soul. It feels the impact of the soul's fears and weaknesses. This produces an easy prey for mental and physical ills. But when you turn from your sins and open your life completely to God, your faith will make you WHOLE.

Loyd, I am happy to say, did yield his all to God. He was delivered in mind, soul and body. Today he is a sober, healthy and happy young man. Complete faith brought complete wholeness.

The Pentagon Case
What would you do if you were a civilian executive in the Department of Defense in the Pentagon in Washington and encountered a powerful force secretly working to weaken the armed services and sap the moral strength of the nation? You logically would take your alarming discovery to higher Pentagon officials. But what would you do if they rejected your report and asked for your resignation? The leading character in a new novel just published faces such a situation. The plot, its infolding, and the book's stunning denouement make a gripping story.

The most fascinating and tantalizing question about this new book, The Pentagon Case, is: How much of it is actual fact and how much is fiction? It is my opinion that key incidents in the book have foundations in actual fact, and that certain situations described in the narrative are identifiable with real situations in our nation. If the reader is well informed on the ramifications of the Communist apparatus in the U. S. A., he gets the knowing feeling that the book is not fiction at all but a thinly disguised report of a shocking series of events.

ARTHUR LOCK CHANGED WORLDS

A missionary was speaking to a group of simple natives. He told them what Jesus was like.

One of them interrupted him. "I have met him!" he said. It developed that he was speaking of a medical missionary who lived, healed and worked among a tribe some distance away.

Many people feel that to be like Jesus, they must focus the impact of their talents and personalities upon society so as to change it for the better. And that is true.

But I believe that something else must come first. The individual himself must become changed before he can change society. Christ must first come into his own life. And when that happens, society is already affected.

Christ-made men make the world a better place. Christ-made men change the course of destiny for humanity.

When I think of what a man is and what he can be, I am reminded of Arthur R. Lock. For a quarter of a century he had been a victim of alcoholism. For twenty of those twenty-five years, he had been in hiding. He was hiding from his mother, from his own conscience, from a society in which he had once moved as a successful businessman. Most of all—he was desperately trying to hide from God.

The skid row of Houston, Texas, became his place of habitation. The story of the prodigal son was written again, for he went from riches to rags and from comfortable living to the lowest gutters.

During the days of his human dereliction on Capitol Avenue, there was a young policeman by the name of Jack H. who patrolled skid row. In a way, he was Arthur Lock's friend, although he had to arrest him frequently.

One day Arthur told him, "Jack, you're going to earn your way to the chief's job by arresting 'Bunk' Lock."

Jack is Chief of Police in Houston now. But in a recent statement he said, "I did become Chief of Police in my city. But I no longer have the job of policing 'Bunk' Lock. Today 'Bunk' Lock is Arthur R. Lock, gentleman, Christian and a respected citizen of Houston. Skid row knows him no more! And instead of a bottle, he now has a Bible!"

Arthur Lock tells why: "The thing that made the miraculous change in my life was simply the miracle of the 'new birth.'"

"It happened one Sunday when a group of Christians came out to a city prison farm to give their testimony to the prisoners. A young girl stood and told how she had prayed, 'God, be merciful to me, a sinner, and save my soul.'"

"That testimony was used of God to produce a miracle in my life."

"In my dying condition, I crawled out of bed, got on my knees, lifted my twisted hands toward Heaven and cried out, 'O God, be merciful to me, a sinner.'"

"That day I was lifted from despair to a new horizon. 'Bunk' Lock was dead forever, and a new creature in Christ Jesus had begun to live."

million a year in America. As a noted psychiatrist explained: "People condition their minds to blot out unpleasant things. The Communist menace within this country is unpleasant to contemplate. Most people direct their thoughts to something more pleasant. Therefore, they build up a subconscious disbelief in the reality of such a thing."

But it is real, and thus more of our people must be shocked into awareness of its danger, so that our great system which has enabled us to have prosperity and freedom will survive the attacks against it.

Leptospirosis pomona, the chief cause of leptospirosis in livestock, and one of five variations of leptospirosis organisms which may infect man, was found in an opossum trapped near Baton Rouge, La. This is the first time the pomona type has been reported in opossums, veterinary authorities maintain.

Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Diffenderfer and son, Scott, New Holland, Pa., were weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elder and family.

Al Pilarcik, Oriole outfielder, was runner-up to Jackie Jensen of Boston for the American League leadership in assists in 1957. Jensen had 16; Pilarcik had 11.

Newly-born pigs have very little resistance to cold and should be kept warm in brooders heated by electric lamps, veterinary authorities say.

POINTERS FOR PAINTERS

A wooden house usually needs a new coat of paint every six years, a brick house about every ten. If this is the year to paint your home, the following tips from experts may come in handy.

Choosing Paint

For exteriors, paint with a zinc oxide base is best. The zinc-based paints hold their color longer, they're fume-proof, they last longer, and they are less likely to crack or "alligator." While storing the paint at home before use, keep the cans upside down. That way, half the mixing job will be done for you by the time you get around to mixing.

Brushes

The best brushes are made with hog bristles. Nylon is next best. Horsehair wears out quickly. Brushes are available in three basic shapes: flat, oval or with chisel-cut bristles. Use a flat brush if the surface is flat, oval on narrow surfaces — windows, for example — and the chisel-cut brush where a sharply-defined line is required.

Avoiding Trouble

Moisture is the major cause of painting headaches. A wet surface spells trouble. So never paint immediately after a rain-fall, but wait until walls are thoroughly dry. Be sure gutters, downspouts and flashing are in good shape before painting, and see that faulty plumbing doesn't make exterior walls moist. Finally, try to do your painting on a clear, mild day — never in humid weather.

If you've taken your dealers advice in choosing the paint best suited for the surface you must cover, selected brushes for their quality rather than their price, and taken care to paint on a clear, mild day, you're likely to wind up with a job you can be proud of for years.

One Out of Five Clerks Can't Add, Test Shows

Scientists, brooding over lagging Sputnik research, have a new problem to cope with.

One out of five clerks can't add a simple column of figures, according to a survey released by Opinion Research Corporation.

The survey, aimed at testing the ability of clerical and sales people to handle business arithmetic, sampled a group of more than 500 clerical workers employed by 21 different business firms — including department stores, banks and insurance companies.

The problem that was flunked by one out of five involved adding a column of seven two-digit numbers, Opinion Research declared.

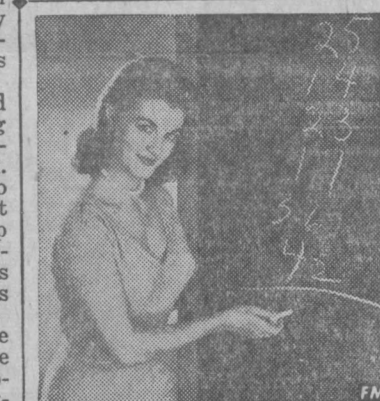

Even when they were allowed to check their figures — ten per cent of the entire group still came up with the wrong answer, the survey showed. One out of ten was unable to add two simple figures in his head, it was reported.

In one problem, for example, the clerks were asked to calculate the bill for a simulated basket of groceries. "One out of three short-changed himself or the customer," Opinion Research reported.

More than 80 per cent of the clerks missed at least one of the 19 problems given in the test. Two-thirds gave the wrong answer to two or more questions. The purpose of the survey was to determine both written and mental arithmetic abilities of the clerks tested.

The survey, taken for the National Cash Register Co., showed that one out of 10 clerks is unable to mentally calculate a customer refund and that women — normally thought to have "no head" for figures — did just as well on the test as men.

To find out the clerks' ability to calculate a customer refund, they were given the problem: "Assume that a customer bought 18 cents worth of merchandise and returned empty bottles for a credit

Co-ordination Glamorizes Cleaning

HERE'S ONE WAY TO HAVE HARMONY in the kitchen and in "compatible color," too. This young homemaker has designed an outfit to perk up her household tasks. The shorts, a festive note and turn work into play. They're not only comfortable but gay and becoming, too. Housework is no problem today and can be a "dress-up" affair when the modern cleaner, Spic and Span, is used. Specifically designed for cleaning hard-surface floorings and all washable surfaces—it just requires a quick once-over with a mop, wrung almost dry out of the solution, no rinsing, and presto the floor is truly clean.

MARYLAND WILDLIFE PLANTS

Prepared by the MARYLAND GAME & INLAND FISH COMMISSION

SCOTCH PINE

(Pinus sylvestris)

RANGE: A native of Europe and Siberia; thoroughly naturalized at some points on the N.E. coast; much cultivated in Maryland but its use has decreased.

DESCRIPTION: Commonly an irregular shaped tree; height usually not more than 60 feet; bark reddish to red-brown; leaves in clusters of two needles, dark green, to three and a half inches long.

PREFERRED HABITAT: Thrives on well drained, deep and moist soil; will grow on dry, sterile sands and thin soils of rocky outcrops.

METHOD OF ESTABLISHMENT: Seeds or seedlings planted in Fall; 68,000 seeds per pound, germination 70 per cent; plants reasonably free of fungus diseases and insect pests.

FLOWERS: Staminate cones (male), yellow, egg-shaped, two-fifths of inch long, appearing in May or June behind new leaves; pistillate cones (female) short-stalked, tawny yellow, 2 1/2 inches long, mature in the second season.

FRUIT: Seeds winged, dark gray, mottled, 1/6 inch long.

WILDLIFE USE: Many birds and mammals feed on the seeds; needles are eaten by deer, also serves as nesting material by several species of birds; trees are important cover and roosting places, particularly during migration.

OTHER USE: Control of soil erosion, fire wood, little value as timber producer.

beloved and respected by all who knew him. But he had not always been so highly regarded, for there was a time when he lived a very sinful life which almost wrecked his home.

During that period of his life he was asked once each year to sing in the choir of the church in which he had been brought up and of which his mother had been a most devoted member. One anniversary they were singing her favorite hymn:

"And can it be that I should gain
An interest in the Savior's blood?"

As they sang, memories of his mother crowded his mind and clutched at his heart. That night he could not sleep. The hymn so convinced him of his sinful life that he prayed to God for forgiveness. He was made a new man in Christ Jesus. In gratitude, he then pondered another question:

"Amazing love! how can it be
That Thou, my Lord, shouldst die for me?"

Prayer

Almighty God, we thank Thee that Thou art able to save to the uttermost all who come to Thee in faith. Let Thy love be shed in Christ. In His name we pray. Amen.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

There were more than 165,000 boat trailers sold in 1957, for an estimated $28,000,000, reports Willard Crandall, Boating Editor of Sports Afield Magazine. Take another look at these figures. They show why there's a trailer designed for every type of boat. Trailers are now engineered for a big - production market. The days of automobile - wheels and luggage - carrier bodies are long gone.

This big-production move has resulted in reasonable prices and new refinements. Too, the new models show a definite change in that they are built for 1958 boats and they are stronger and have more supports. They're for modern boats that on the average are wider and heavier and carry larger motors. They are built not only for the road, but also for the off-season - trailer manufacturers will realize their products have become a popular means of storage.

Trailer beds have been strengthened and redesigned, and new improved rollers and cradles have been added. Easy-load features, such as the tilting boom and trailer bed and hand winch, are now taken for granted - nearly all models have them.

Trailers have reached that stage of development where appearance has become an important consideration. Attractive, fresh color schemes are seen on more than one 1958 model.

There are more accessories for boats and motors offered this year than ever before. These run from light - horn-flagstaff combinations to single-lever gearshift - throttle controls; from ramp auto-top loaders to hydraulic tilt-controls for outboard motors. Only a few years ago, the inside of an outboard boat was as bare as a swimmer's back. Craft built from kits were often rushed into use without even floorboards.

Portable boat pumps used to weigh many pounds. Today an aluminum pump especially made to reach easily over the side weighs so little a child can lift it with one hand. It's that way with all outboard accessories; they are engineered for outboards, not 40-footers. This means that the weight and bulk of extra equipment now presents little or no problem.

VFW Seeking More Liberal Pensions For Veterans, Widows

Weldon Leroy Maddox, State Commander of Maryland, Veterans of Foreign Wars today asked for a limited pension for World War I veterans and increased compensation for war widows.

In a speech given at Baltimore the VFW Commander said: "Today, a substantial number of aging World War I veterans are finding life increasingly hard. They are of a forgotten generation - the men who climbed through the trenches in France - sold apples in the early twenties - and floundered in the desperate years of the depression. Many economists say a man reaches his earning peak during the ages of 30 to 45. The prime of these veterans occurred during those dark days of the depression."

"These were the days before company pension programs - social security and other forms of retirement that have come about through social progress," Commander Maddox went on. "These World War I men were forgotten - not intentionally - but nevertheless forgotten in the wake of a national catastrophe."

The Commander said under the VFW plan income limitations to be eligible for a pension would be raised from $1,400 to $2,400 for the veteran with no dependents and from $2,700 to $3,600 for a veteran with dependents. The veteran would also have to be 62 years of age or over, unless suffering a VA rated 10 per cent disability. The program would apply only to World War I veterans.

"In addition to a pension for the deserving men of World War I," Commander Maddox concluded, "We are seeking an increase in pension rates presently paid to the widows and orphans of all wars, because of the high cost of living. This is a moral as well as inherent responsibility."

ALONG THE POTOMAC

By U. S. Congressman DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON - The shortage of scientists and engineers is one of the most consistent headline-drawing labor market stories we have today. Strangely, it is also one of the poorest documented. There are few accurate statistics and even these produce marked disagreement as to the severity of the shortage. There is no doubt, though, of a real shortage of top-flight people in the science fields.

A frequently overlooked factor in the tremendous increase in the demand for engineers and scientists is the growth of Federally-supported programs of research and development for defense. Federal projects now account for about one-third of the employment of scientists and engineers.

In Congress, we are constantly hearing demands for increases in Federal pay for scientists to hold them in Government and to attract more men to jobs in the Government service. Yet, we discover that there is an uneven distribution of scientific personnel within the Government itself.

Industry has been accused of "stockpiling" scientists and technical personnel and in so doing has created artificial shortages. In Government we find that some agencies are letting their scientific personnel go, while others are demanding new personnel.

It seems to me that somewhere within the Federal structure there ought to be a technical manpower utilization program that would provide for use of scientists in other agencies if work in one agency slackens-off. I might suggest that some Federal agencies might do well to follow the manpower-conference program which the President's Committee on Scientists and Engineers is urging industry to undertake.

I would like to call your attention to a display of items needed by the Federal Government which some Western Maryland firms may be able to furnish. The Exhibit of Business Opportunities will be held at Huntington, West Virginia, June 17-19, 1958. Further information may be obtained from the Huntington Chamber of Commerce.

BETTER SCHOOLS - AND YOU

by HENRY TOY, Jr., President, National Citizens Council for Better Schools

CONSIDER THE FUTURE

When a house is on fire, most people are unable to just stand around and watch. They want to do something to put the fire out - even if they get in the way of the fire department.

Today we're in an educational crisis that seems to be something like a house on fire. And nobody is content to stand by. Everybody wants to help put the fire out.

Commendable as this is, there are certain dangers. If willing efforts prevent basic control of the situation, the house may burn down because of too many fire-fighters, not too few.

Since October fourth, when Russia shot at the moon, more people than ever before are interested in our schools. People who had almost abdicated their responsibility for schools are now advancing plans to improve our educational structure. Many of these plans are based on cursory study and little real understanding of how our schools operate and what they are trying to do.

Many state legislatures are now in session and high in the hopper are bills for education. Some of these bills may call for binding regulations on the curriculum. In such bills, I think, danger lurks.

The reason I say this is that it's much easier to get a law on the books than to get it off. If our law-makers put regulations into effect which govern what should be taught throughout the state today, those regulations will hamstring many schools immediately and most school years from now when the present crisis has changed.

If curriculum laws are passed to deal with today's technological shortage, that's very much like pouring water on a burned-down house. The men who will build our moons are already through school. The children now in school need education that will fit them for the future of world leadership.

The public has a responsibility right now during these state and national legislative sessions to examine every proposed bill regarding education carefully. See if it is a stopgap measure for today or a piece of legislation that will benefit the future. Let's not have laws that will force a narrow education today on children who will have to deal with a broad future tomorrow.

Every hostess knows that potato salad is a sturdy friend - furnishing the backbone of many a meal - adding body to an evening snack. Here is our old friend in a new and royal garb. Crowned with Danish blue cheese and garnished with mushrooms, it is truly the prince of potato salads. Which prince? The prince of Denmark, of course.

PRINCE OF POTATO SALADS

3/4 cup crumbled Danish blue cheese
4 cups sliced, cooked potatoes
2 (4 oz.) cans sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup grated onion

1 1/2 to 2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon sugar
3/4 cup olive or salad oil
3 teaspoons vinegar

Several hours ahead of serving time, combine potatoes, mushrooms (including liquid), onion, salt and sugar. Blend 1/2 cup crumbled cheese with oil and vinegar, pour over salad and toss lightly. Cover and refrigerate. Before serving, toss salad again and sprinkle with 1/4 cup crumbled cheese. Makes 6 servings.

BY ROGER W. BABSON
Babson Discusses Preparing For World War III, If It Should Come

BABSON PARK, Mass., Mar. 20—With all this talk about defense, missiles, and preparation for war, I have been wondering if I should not have a little "stockpile" for myself and my family? I am writing this on the basis of my personal experiences during World Wars I and II. In fact, during World War I, I was in Washington as Assistant Secretary of Labor to President Wilson and owned a house next door to the Russian Embassy.

World War III Can Come As A Surprise
Let us remember that no bomb was dropped on North America during either of the two world wars. The first atomic bomb was practically the last bomb dropped during World War II; but some surprise will take the place of "Pearl Harbor."

In the event of World War III, conditions will be vastly different in the United States. Your radio will announce, some morning, that one or more large U. S. cities were completely destroyed during the night, and that millions of our citizens were killed. This is the first warning we will get. With so much space given to discussing missiles and Russia, should they not tell those of us who might survive what we should do? Let me state what I personally would do if still alive.

Think First Of Family And Employees
My first thought would be as to what had happened to my children, grandchildren, and friends throughout the country. I surely would likewise seek knowledge of what had happened to my business and its employees, including clients, and to the newspapers carrying this column. My few investments would be forgotten that fatal morning.

Therefore, I beg readers—before deciding the following is fantastic—to ponder what they personally would do on receipt of such news. The first change in my personal mode of life would be to give up shaving; and instead, to grow a beard! I next would begin to conserve soap; I would fill all pails and bathtubs with drinking water; and I would shut all windows to protect against "fall out." I would immediately try to collect old clothes, overcoats, and "long drawers" (discarded years ago) and everything else which could keep us warm. The supply of coal, oil, gas, or even wood for the fireplace would soon come to an end.

What About Food?
The great problem would be getting food with which to keep alive. Fortunately will be those who then live on or near farms. The city food stores and supermarkets would be cleaned out the first day; rationing of the most primitive food would begin as soon as possible. Rich and poor would be treated absolutely alike. Stealing and hoarding would be severely punished.

We all would be allowed only the very simplest of foods, with little if any meat, sugar, tea, coffee, and perhaps milk. No liquor would be available. Our diet would be confined to food prepared from the great stockpiles of corn, wheat, and other products which the government now has. You ask: "Cannot each family avoid this by stocking-up now on food products?" My reply is, "Perhaps; but I personally remember trying to be 'foresighted' before World War I by purchasing an extra set of auto tires and storing them in my attic." Officers, however, took them from me, without in any way paying me.

What About Money?
Banks would be closed. Farmers would not long accept paper money. They would want either silver currency or silver spoons! Anticipating this time, some of my friends are now storing silver dollars and depositing many dozens of silver spoons in safe-deposit boxes in small-town banks. Many who lived abroad in those days as civilians know from experience what happened to the banks and currencies of our allies during World Wars I and II.

But listen to this question: Will these people be given access to these safe-deposit boxes without a "hoarding officer" accompanying them? I doubt it. Also, gasoline would be strictly rationed and very few autos would be seen. In short, we might be obliged to live under a form of communism, or certainly live about as the first settlers of New England and Virginia lived 350 years ago. Consult a lawyer to make your will of more use in case of World War III. Have your insurance policies amended to give your family more protection. Keep these papers in the vault of some small country bank.

What About Civil Defense?
This question will be asked by most readers, who will wonder why these suggestions and warnings are not now issued by the Civil Defense authorities at Washington. I may be wrong, but my belief is that these officials fear they would be unmercifully persecuted by manufacturers, merchants, and labor leaders if they did so broadcast. It would be feared that consumers would so change their buying habits as to bring on bankruptcies, mortgage foreclosures, and unemployment. As I have often said, consumers' attitudes are a basic cause of business conditions and determinant of the employment situation. Read tonight the advertisements in your favorite magazine or listen to your radio or TV. Ask yourself how many of these advertised products would be bought if consumers really feared that one Russian missile might unexpectedly be dropped on some large U. S. city very soon.

With all the brains, money, and newspaper space given to missiles, sputniks, and "flop-niks," it seems cruel and wrong not to warn our 170,000,000 people of what MAY be ahead. Certainly such warnings should be an important work of our Department of Defense and receive as much attention as military tests are receiving. Either both are important, or neither. At least our Civil Defense should spend millions now on paid advertising to urge people to build up the health and character of their families pending such an unexpected attack. This could be far more important than accumulating more stocks, bonds, bank accounts, or luxuries.

Milk Producers Issue Garlic Warning
The start of the annual garlicky pasture—and garlicky milk—season brought the following warning to dairy farmer members of Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc. through Manager, W. P. Sadler.

"The only way for us to sell milk at full price is to keep garlic out entirely."

"Plant equipment is being developed which, if perfected, may ease the problem of keeping garlic out of bottled milk but today there is no substitute for keeping milk garlic-free on the farm."

Dairy farmers are urged to spray blue grass pastures in March before any clover which may be present starts its growth. White clover and ladino clover is at least partially resistant to the 2, 4-D spraying treatment; red clover may be killed and alsike and alfalfa will be killed by such a treatment. Mr. Sadler suggests that they see their County Agent for directions as to the use of the spray. Most feed and farm supply stores carry the spray material.

He adds, that the safest way to avoid garlic, however, is the original method—keep the cows away from it before milking. Farmers who have the least trouble are those who turn their cows out right after morning milking, then bring them in early—10 a. m. or so at first with lengthening intervals but at least four hours before the evening milking during the garlic season. After the evening milking the cows may be turned out to pasture for a few hours but should not be left on pasture over-night.

Resigns From Baseball Club

Brooke Bentz this week announced his resignation as a member of the board of directors of the Emmitsburg Baseball Club. Mr. Bentz stated he was not a candidate for the directorship and that his name was placed in nomination without his knowledge, or consent.

Lions Postpone Renovation Work

The work project endorsed by the Emmitsburg Lions Club on the home for Frederick County Crippled Children in Frederick, has been postponed until sometime in April, President Paul W. Claypool announced this week.

The Lions agreed to cancel this Monday night's meeting and to motor to Frederick to paint and renovate the home. However, word was received from Miss Cahmpney, director of the Easter Seal Society, that it would be impossible to work on the project at this time. The regular meeting of the Lions Club will be held instead, this Monday evening at 6:15 p. m., in the Lutheran parish hall.

FRACTURES ANKLE

Mrs. Caroline Stouter, 36, Emmitsburg R1, was treated at the Warner Hospital for a fracture of her left ankle received in a fall at her home last Friday.

A report in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association suggests that bulls in artificial insemination service should receive periodic veterinary check-ups to detect vibriosis and trichomoniasis before their semen is used to breed cows.

Roads Board Issues Annual Public Report

The construction program of the Frederick County Roads Board in 1957 covered 27,721 miles and total construction costs were $436,226.72, according to a report of the year's activities, recently completed.

Maintenance expenses in every district of the county reached the figure of $408,941.37.

The report showed that during the year, there was constructed 17,141 miles of macadam surfaced roads and 2,779 miles of stabilized road. Roads forces graded and drained 1,801 miles and widened and resurfaced .264 of a mile. County contracts were let on 1,68 miles of road to be completed this year.

A total of 38.1 miles of existing macadam road was surface treated a maintenance during the year.

The Roads Board continued participation in the 50-million dollar bond pool of the State for county roads to the extent of $286,645.12 for construction and reconstruction.

Principal income was from the State gasoline tax, amounting to $731,551.73. Federal aid totalled $46,798.82.

The expenditures were principally for maintenance and construction. Administrative salaries amounted to $63,743.48, which included all salaries not charged to maintenance and construction. Capital outlay totalled $55,863.77.

County Engineer O. Wilson Runkles reported that the road department continued the practice of using men from the county jail on certain types of construction work as well as brambling fence rows at various locations along the road system. The jail labor, he reported, was utilized to the extent of 1,342 man days.

He said the same policy of bridge maintenance was continued during the year along with heavy maintenance costs on various inadequate drainage facilities that had been carried over a period of years.

Blackleg is a serious year-round disease of cattle, the American Veterinary Medical Assn. says, but more cases occur in spring than any other time. A veterinarian can vaccinate animals against this sudden killer.

King-Size Multi-Level Is Regal Inside and Out

Here is a home that befits the Imperial Crown it has been awarded—"the country's most beautiful split-level." So breathtaking in appearance, this house by designer Don Scholz rightly belongs to those who appreciate the advantages of multi-level living. Its interior, too, so exciting in magnificent proportions. Nine rooms, 2½ baths, four bedrooms. The enormous living-dining area is imposing with its sloping ceilings and massive beams. Extravagantly-spaced master suite has its own bath. The kitchen, designed and equipped for convenience with eye-level built-in oven, counter-top range, dishwasher, disposal, and ventilating fan, is combined with a delightful dining nook.

At the lower level, the fourth bedroom can become a maid's room with private bath. The paneled recreation room, 25 by 22 feet of family relaxation area, opens to the lower-level patio. A covered porch at the front, a main patio to the rear, and deep protective roof overhangs, climax the design.

To obtain more information about this award-winning home, write to Don Scholz Design Associates, Dept. 169, 2001 Westwood, Toledo 7, Ohio.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—Our old roof is in pretty bad shape and we're afraid it might start to leak at any time. But a neighbor said we'll have to wait for warmer weather to have a new roof put on. Is this true?

A—Your neighbor is wrong. A new roof of asphalt shingles can be applied successfully at any time. In fact, cold weather actually is a good time to re-roof, since the work schedules of most roofing contractors aren't as heavy as they are in other seasons.

Q—My brother-in-law says our house doesn't need insulation because it has brick veneer walls. I disagree with him because the walls seem to be cold on the inside. Who's right?

A—You are. Brick veneer or any other type of masonry does not prevent much heat loss. You can test this yourself by placing your hand on a concrete or cinder block basement wall in winter. It will be cold, no matter how warm the basement is. In fact, tests have shown that a 3-inch thickness of mineral wool insulation will stop more heat than nearly 6 feet of solid brick.

Q—How can I make caulking around a bathtub last longer?

A—Paint it with enamel the same color as the walls or tile above the tub. The waterproofing action of the enamel will give the caulking compound longer life.

Q—How can plastic tile be cut to fit around fixtures?

A—A coping saw works best for intricate cuts in plastic tile.

Q—Is there a remedy for chalking plaster walls? We can't get wallpaper to stick.

A—Coat the wall with a half and half mixture of shellac and alcohol. This seals the plaster with a waterproof surface and the wallpaper will stay in place.

Q—How can I repair large cracks in a plaster ceiling?

A—It's not practical to attempt to fill the cracks, since the new plaster needs more support. Remove plaster on each side of the crack to a distance of about 6 inches. Place a strip of metal lath in the clearing, nail it to the old lath, and fill the opening with new plaster. Do this in thin layers, permitting each layer to dry slightly before adding a new one.

Q—Is a prime coat always necessary on new wood?

A—With rare exceptions. The type of wood, too, determines the kind of prime coat you need. If the wood is porous, the priming coat should contain enough oil to fill the pores. Resinous woods need priming coats with a high turpentine content to dissolve the resins and open the pores.

Q—What's the correct height from the floor for a wall socket?

A—Twelve to 18 inches in most rooms. A 48-inch height is recommended in kitchens, laundries, and workshops.

Q—How do I keep curtain rods and metal venetian blinds from rusting?

A—Wax them. The rods will slide easier, and the blinds will collect less dust.

Q—Can a broken ladder rung be repaired?

A—Cut the rung off flush with the inside of the rails. Make two blocks of hardwood, drilling holes in them the same diameter as the new rung. Fit the rung tightly into the two blocks, and bolt or nail the whole assembly securely to the inside of the rails.
