Many FHA Mortgagees Receive Cash Refunds

A fact few prospective home buyers are aware of is that an FHA mortgage can bring them a cash refund after the mortgage is paid off. During the first six months of this year, FHA refunded a total of $8 million to 79,000 home owners following the payment in full of their insured mortgages. FHA is able to do this because, unlike most government agencies, it is completely self-supporting and costs the taxpayers nothing. In fact, FHA has earned a net profit of about $1 billion since it went into operation in 1935.

These profits, from fees, premiums and investments, were returned to individual home owners as "share payments." Another facet of FHA is its Title I program to insure low

Improved Postal Service Is Inaugurated

Sweeping improvements which will provide next day first class letter delivery for nearly 2 million people throughout the approximately 6,000 square mile Baltimore Metropolitan Area, embracing Baltimore, and 14 Maryland and two Virginia counties, including all counties in the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia, were announced this week by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Representing the Postmaster General at a press conference in the Baltimore Post Office, Mr. M. R. Clarke, Operations Director of the Washington Region of the Post Office Department said:

"This program for better first class mail service has been in test operation in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area since October 13, 1958, being expanded to include the Eastern Shore on October 27, 1958. During this shakedown period, results have exceeded expectations, and I feel confident that postal patrons in the Area can be assured that, barring occasional human errors, first class letters mailed prior to 5:00 p. m., or at smaller offices, in time for the final dispatch if made prior to 5:00 p. m., will be delivered to their destinations within the Area in the first delivery trips of the following business day.

"However, mailing early in the day, thereby giving the Post Office additional time to sort and transport mail to its destination, is still the best way to be sure your letter is delivered next day in the Baltimore Metropolitan and Eastern Shore Areas.

"In addition to Baltimore City, the Baltimore Area includes the counties of Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Harford, and Howard and the Eastern Shore counties of Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Kent, Queen Annes, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico and Worcester in Maryland, and Accomac and Northampton in Virginia. "These major improvements in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area's first class mail service pattern are the result of intensive study and planning. Personnel of the Washington Postal Region and of 328 post offices in the Area have worked as a team to develop a comprehensive service program and put it into effect.

"Next day delivery of most of the first class mail in the Baltimore Metropolitan and Eastern Shore area is now possible because of a closely integrated timetable which governs the work of the area's postal units and the transportation linking them together. Hard-working, skilled postal employees race against time throughout the night in order to make possible next day delivery of hundreds of thousands of letters to people in these areas.

"On an average day, approximately 800 thousand pieces of mail are handled between the 328 area post offices, ranging from the large first class to the small rural fourth class post office. The population of this area is growing rapidly, and the postal service needs are becoming increasingly complex.

"The principal feature of the new plan involves the designation of certain strategically located post offices to act as collection and distribution centers for various sections of the Area involved in the plan. Thus much of this mail which formerly went into Baltimore for processing will have this function performed by the designated centers, thereby eliminating time-consuming travel and bypassing the congested Baltimore area.

"Such mail from the Maryland and Virginia counties as must come into Baltimore to connect delivery routes which originate there has already been processed, and can thus be kept separate from mail originating at Baltimore and sent on its way to destinations immediately.

"Other changes include the establishment of some new transportation routes, and adding trips and changing schedules of existing routes. Some adjustment of city mail collection schedules was also necessary.

"A new truck route from Washington, D. C. by Annapolis, Easton, and Cambridge to Salisbury and return was established to connect the Washington Metropolitan Area with Baltimore and the Eastern Shore areas, thereby making possible the exchange of mail for next day delivery to the two large Areas. In addition to this service advantage, a valuable nearly four million people in these by-product of this new route lies in relieving the Baltimore Parcel Post Station of the necessity of transferring a daily average of 700 pouches and sacks exchanged between the Washington D. C. Gateway and the other offices served.

"The improved delivery of letters throughout the Baltimore Metropolitan and Eastern Shore Area is being accomplished despite the handicaps and obstacles created by antiquated postal quarters and equipment, which do not begin to meet the demands of today's mail load.

"Extension of this first class mail program will be placed into effect in other large metropolitan areas as soon as it is possible to do so. The improvements achieved in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area will be reflected in better service throughout America, since a substantial amount of this country's mail either originates or terminates in the Area," Mr. Clarke concluded.

Jaycees Seeking Outstanding Farmer

WHEREVER — a furrow is turned—
WHEREVER—a seed is growing—
WHEREVER—an animal grazes—
Nearby there is a young man who has made outstanding progress in his agricultural career, who is rigidly practicing conservation of natural and soil resources, and who has contributed unselfishly to the well-being of his fellow men.

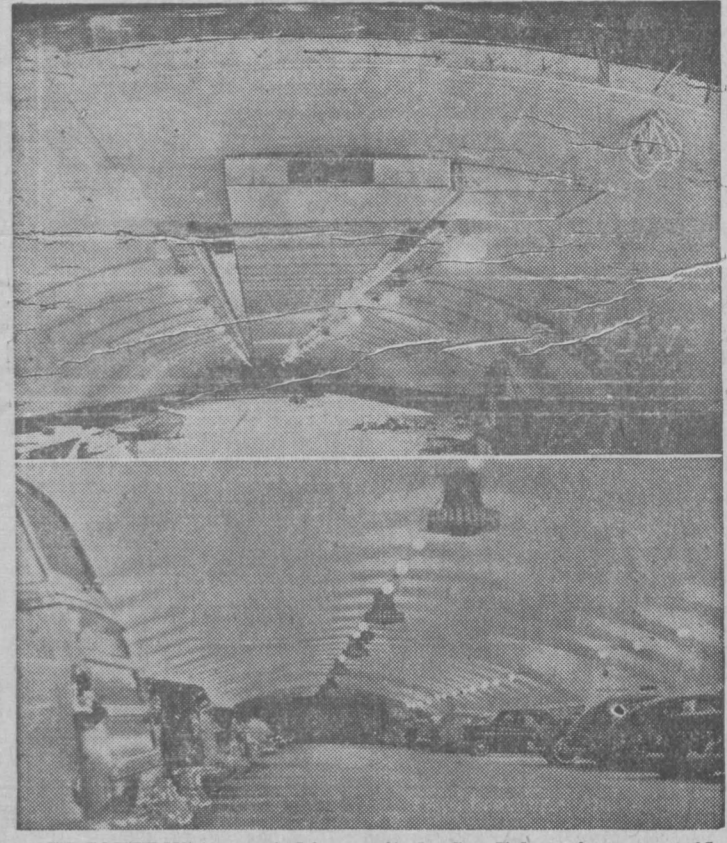

The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce, in cooperation with its thirty-one local chapters, will again select Maryland's Outstanding Young Farmer this year. If you know of a young farmer between the ages of 21-35, who has done an exceptional job, contact your local Junior Chamber of Commerce, so that his name can be placed in nomination.

This project is being sponsored on the national level by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce and The American Petroleum Institute. On the state level the co-sponsors are The Maryland Junior Chamber of Commerce and The Portland Cement Association. All local winners will attend a state awards dinner, to be held in Towson, on Jan. 31, 1959. The awards at this dinner will be presented by Mr. Marvin L. McLain, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture.

The winner of the State program will receive a free trip to Cedar Rapids, Iowa in April 1959, where he will vie for national honors along with winners from all over the United States.

WASHINGTON AND 'SMALL BUSINESS'

By C. WILSON HARDER

An interesting anti trust suit has been filed in the Federal court in Washington, D. C. which could have far reaching effects.

An organization called the National Milk Producers Federation which represents 126 dairy cooperatives, has filed against the National Tax Equality Association.

The suit charges that a campaign of vilification has been carried on against them for the purpose of creating resentment against the cooperatives and destroying their goodwill in order to effect a monopoly for the non-cooperative dairy firms.

Recently, the trucking industry won a case of this sort against the railroads and their public relations counsel for tactics that allegedly were designed to destroy the trucking industry.

This growth of public relations firms in this direction is becoming a hazard to the welfare of the nation. Whereas public relations were once used solely in a positive manner to build up goodwill for their clients, now a great deal, is destructive strategy aimed through the use of false front "citizens" groups, and other stratagems, to destroy.

On several occasions, voting through the National Federation of Independent Business, the nation's independent businessmen have voted on this question of cooperatives. The sentiment is strong to put cooperatives on the same tax basis as private enterprise for equality.

But in so voting, the nation's independent businessmen are not going on record as wishing to outlaw cooperatives, no more than they go on record in favor of outlawing Big Business. The only point at issue is putting all enterprise on the same footing, under the same rules.

Unfortunately, in the dairy business in the nation today, there exists all the ailments of a sick industry brought on by monopolism. Very few independent dairy distributors any longer exist, with the bulk of the dairy product distribution falling into the clutches of two or three huge corporations who even own, or have an interest in, big food chains, merely to blank out competition from distribution in these stores.

Obviously, the dairy producers need protection from the predators in the dairy distribution business. It is difficult to tell what is the best form of operation in a free market, when a free market does not exist.

Destruction of dairy cooperatives is not the answer. For in addition, even with their tax favoritism, cooperatives have not been able to stop the march of monopoly in milk.

The problem is grave. On one side is the welfare of the nation's infants. On another side, is the problem of the welfare of the independent dairy farmer. In the middle, and threatening the welfare of both are the huge dairy combines. And while infants cannot organize, the independent milk producers can.

But undoubtedly, the only practical solution to entire problem would be for the anti trust laws to be so rigidly enforced in the dairy industry that a free and open market would exist. As it stands now, milk distribution is a national disgrace.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Inflation And You

Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 4 —Are you one who finds yourself constantly worrying about your financial future? Do you never seem to have quite enough money to make both ends meet? Perhaps, while successful in many ways, you are a poor manager of your own finances? You are, if you are a young married couple with children and if you have not cash reserves, available for emergencies, equal to your annual earnings, or if you are not building solidly in that direction!

Inflation Wave Ahead I ended last week's column by forecasting that we will find the Democratic cure for inflation worse than the Republican disease of taxation. This week let me explain this thought. Both the war and peacetime demands of our economy have increased the federal debt nearly $260 billions since 1932 to a figure now pegged by law at $288 billions. This is an average debt of some $6,000 per family. I suspect that by the early 1960's our federal debt limit may well be lifted to $300 billions.

A first important reason for the climbing federal debt is that our government is fighting an extremely active cold war. America's concern over what goes on in the rest of the world increases the national debt. Stepped-up nuclear weapons research and production, and the very expensive probing of outer space, also add to the national debt. And if Russia dumps onto the world markets still more raw materials produced by slave labor, the U.S. Government will undoubtedly have to undertake financial operations to help protect American agriculture and industry. As the debt limit goes up and nobody's dollars will go even as far as they go today. A second important reason for inflation is the "easy-buck" attitude of both labor and management toward government work. We all know that if productivity increases faster than wages, prices decline. On the other hand, if wages go up faster than productivity, prices rise. In the interest of national well-being we must fight a vigorous cold war. In so doing, however, it is obvious that unless we give our government a full measure of productivity, we only cheapen our own dollars in the long run.

Plan Now Your Own Hedges Against Inflation To be prosperous, a nation must be productive. Productivity comes from two sources: government spending and consumer spending. It is both government spending and the tremendous rise in consumer spending that have increased our standard of living so markedly. The American spirit of "the opportunity is there if you want to make something of it" has driven our standard of living to startlingly high levels in recent years.

This example of Americans consuming their way to prosperity has perhaps done as much as anything to combat Soviet ideology. But there has been serious danger inherent in consumer spending. Adequate personal, as well as corporate, standards of financial conduct have been lacking. Like the prodigal son, many have awakened during this past year to find they have spent all their resources and are right back where they started a dozen or fifteen years ago.

I, therefore, urge a carefully considered program of finances for all. I conclude that oldsters will have profited from experience. Here, then, is a program for young people. First build up your cash reserves to a point where they equal a year's earnings (Savings Banks, Federal Savings Association, Postal Savings, Government Bonds); second, start an inexpensive straight life insurance program; third, purchase a good non-cancellable health insurance policy as a protection while you are getting established in the early years of your work and while your earnings are but modest; fourth, buy a home of the type and in an area that will appreciate in value; fifth, with the help of a good financial counselor commence an investment program, preferably of good common stocks, to help offset the inflationary spiral. Keep your holdings well diversified. Remember the clue to financial well-being is saving and investing part of every pay check before spending any of it for the necessities of living.

Common-Sense Economics
A few years ago a national organization made an opinion poll of newspaper editorial writers to obtain their attitudes on a number of economic questions. The writers were asked if they favored certain measures of legislation affecting economic activities within the nation. And at the end of the list of questions was this one: "Would it be advisable to adopt Socialism as an economic system for America?" An overwhelming number of the editorial writers participating in the survey said, "No" to the last question—they registered themselves as opposed to Socialism for America. But surprisingly enough, a substantial number of them favored individual legislative measures taken directly from the textbook of Socialism's economic program was broken down into separate measures—not labeled as Socialist—they registered approval of some of its vital parts.

The Dangers

This opinion survey revealed two important dangers: (1) Many influential people in America do not understand the economic facts of life, and (2) The real danger of Socialism to America is its insidious unrecognized advance. I recently heard a politician of one of the major parties accuse his opponent of "crying Socialism" about a legislative measure that later was enacted. He said his opponent now was "crying Socialism" about a newly proposed measure.

The opponent was correct; both measures are based on the economic philosophy of the Socialist economic platform as printed on page 145 of my copy of the Communist Manifesto. Their adoption by our largely Capitalistic nation does not alter their true identity or their nature. In fact, in modern times, Marxist Socialist party leaders throughout the world have taught their followers to disguise Socialism—to advance it bit by bit under such labels as "liberal," "progressive," "humanitarian." These Communist and Socialist tactics emphasize the need for every American citizen to clearly understand the economic facts of life.

A New Book

A new book on economics has come to my attention. It is entitled, Common - Sense Economics." That is exactly what we need in the whole realm of economics—common sense writing and common sense appraisal. This new book was written by Gilbert M. Tucker of Albany, New York, and is published by The Stackpole Company, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania ($4.95). Gilbert Tucker is a friend of mine. I have found him to be a man of sound logic, and his book reflects a great talent for clarity as well as an entertaining sense of humor.

So far as is humanly possible, he has tried to present the economic facts of life devoid of the jargon and the seemingly endless dog-after-his-tail involvements of the classic academic economist. He has gone far toward achieving success in this goal. His book is readable. His arguments for his viewpoints are clear and logical. A beginner or a scholar can learn a great deal of economics from this book.

Basic Economic Facts

Chapters which I found exceedingly informative and interesting were: Wealth, Labor and Wages, Land and Rent, Profits, Inflation and Prices, Taxation, City Taxation, Figures, Fallacies and Frauds, The American Way or Communism, The American Trend, Socialism in America, The Outlook. Mr. Tucker spends considerable time in showing the need for tax reform in America. Most of the best informed tax experts are agreed that long overdue tax reform must now be considered a "must" for safeguarding our nation, and this includes my friend Representative Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. They may not all accept Mr. Tucker's suggestions, but all would be stimulated and benefited by studying them.

"We believe," says Mr. Tucker, "that economics can be made a fascinating subject. . . . We believe also that it is one of the most necessary. . . . for if the next generations are not better trained than we have been, it is unfair and dangerous to toss into their laps such questions as inflation, taxation, public borrowing, the conflict of Communism with the Ameri-

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Anybody's tackle needs overhauling, or at least a thorough checking, once a year, and this is a very good time to do yours—chiefly because if you find something that needs to be returned to its maker for repairs, right now is the time to send it, so says Jason Lucas, Angling Editor of Sports Afield Magazine.

Why now? It's that if you wait, as nearly all do, until you "get around to it" later on, the repairmen will be so swamped that goodness knows when they can get to do your reel or rod—but it's pretty certain that you won't get it back until far along in the fishing season. Also, rushed as they'll be later, they're not at all likely to do as good a job as they would now.

Tackle companies have been telling their customers all this for ages but it doesn't seem to penetrate, for the huge majority still wait until just before fishing season to send things in. Why not be one of the few foxy ones who don't put off until next March or April what they should do today?

Another surprising fact is that almost invariably your reel will be returned to you in better condition than it was when it was new! This, because the repairman will give more attention to the fitting of parts than the reel had had when it was originally made.

The charge for this renewal is usually so small that it would not seem to cover costs—but remember that the factory repairman idea, and a hundred other questions." To this we can say, "Amen!"

man is so familiar with identical reels that he knows instantly what your needs; also, he has, right under his hands, exactly the proper tools and replacement parts. All this lets him work very swiftly and accurately. Of course, while you're at it, you should look over the rest of your tackle; especially your rods and lines. A little thought will tell you what attention any certain article needs. But here's something that may prove to be a most useful tip. With a small file or a hone of proper shape, make all your hook points very sharp, and if the shape of any hook has been changed by accident (generally causing too wide or too narrow a bend) reshape it with pliers. This attention might easily more than double your catch next time you go fishing, by preventing those missed strikes.

A NEW SERIES in the 1959 Ford line—the Galaxie—captures more of the taste and styling flavor of the Thunderbird than any other Ford model. Compared here, the Galaxie Town Victoria in the foreground bears a strong resemblance to the 1959 four-passenger Thunderbird—especially in the roof area, yet it is priced to sell only $48 above comparable models in the Ford Fairlane 500 series. The new luxury series includes six different body styles and will be available at Ford dealerships in early December.

Read Romans 6:13-18. After the petals had dropped from the blossoms of the young cherry tree in my garden, I watched the tender leaves unfold their shiny newness. A weblike substance covered the end of one branch. Hastily, I pulled the web away and destroyed the tent caterpillars inside before they devoured the leaves. The crumpled leaves soon opened and grew healthy in the fresh air and sunlight. My less fortunate neighbors had been besieged by the pests. The leaves on their young trees were destroyed by the caterpillars.

How to Make Home Lighting Easier on Eyes

"Glarey" fluorescent lighting fixtures in your home are neither comfortable nor efficient. Now you can make these fixtures glare-free with a simple and inexpensive device. New prefabricated light diffusers, made of Bakelite rigid vinyl sheet, are attached to aluminum tracks easily installed on any ceiling or cornice. The result is a smart-looking lighting fixture—easy on the eyes and handsome in appearance. The "quality" of the illumination it radiates is infinitely better than a "bare" fixture will permit. The manufacturer—Lam, Inc., of Wakefield, Mass.—

indicates the new diffuser may be installed to enclose the basic lighting unit, saving the cost of new fixtures and rewiring. Diffusers are flame resistant, easily cleaned with soap and water. High in light transmission, a man who is handy with a couple of simple household tools can install them easily. The finished job has a custom-built look—yet can be installed at a small price.

year's harvest was lost, and many of the trees were seriously damaged. As tent caterpillars eat the life and beauty out of a tree, undetected sin damages the personality and character of a man. How To... Save 20% On Heating Costs

The heart of a forced warm air heating system is its blower. When not set for continuous air circulation—CAC—room air stagnates, separates into hot and cold layers. Cold air collects at floor level to chill feet; hot air moves to ceiling and slowly escapes. Setting warm air heating system for "on-off" blower operation causes an initial rush of cold air toward return-air registers, results in chilly drafts along the floor. Adjusting the warm air heating system for continuous air circulation eliminates the cold air drafts, insures even floor-to-ceiling heat in all rooms. According to heating authority John W. Norris, President of Lennox Industries, this brings added comfort—and fuel savings up to 20%.

The new structure will comprise 20 rooms and two suites for members of the faculty. The present seminary has 60 rooms. The new structure was deemed necessary to relieve the over-crowded conditions. Edward Tormey, Baltimore, is the architect.

Many Deer Killed

Among the successful hunters who bagged deer during the first three days of the legal season which opened Monday, were: Joe Fitzgerald, Jason Sanders, Alfred Hahn, Clarence E. Hahn, Mike Humerick, Norman Turner and Robert Wantz.

These "kills" were reported at the official weighing station at Lewistown. A number of other local hunters reported kills outside of Frederick County.

Farmers Vote Against Corn Allotment

Corn acreage allotment will not be in effect for the 1959 corn crop, according to a report on preliminary returns from the November 25 referendum of corn farmers, states Julius P. Parran, Chairman of the Maryland Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The returns show that a total of 346,976 votes were cast in the referendum in the commercial corn area, with 246,702 voting to discontinue corn acreage allotments and 100,274 voting to continue them. This results in 71.1 per cent of farmers voting in favor of the new program.

With no acreage allotments in 1959 and later years, there will be no commercial corn area and

Bulldozer Burns

A fire which partially burned a bulldozer of the Williams Construction Co. which is laying the new section of Route 15 near Mt. St. Mary's College, was quickly extinguished Wednesday afternoon at about 12:45 o'clock by the Vigilant Hose Co. The firemen used carbon-dioxide extinguishers on the blaze. An undetermined amount of damage resulted to the bulldozer as the result of the fire.

no limitation on corn production. All corn of acceptable quality will be eligible for price support at 90 per cent of the average corn price of the past three years—but not less than 65 per cent of the parity price. Under this program, national average corn price support is estimated at $1.12 to $1.15 per bushel in 1959.

The corn referendum was required by the Agricultural Act of 1958, passed by Congress at the last session.

Many Disabled Drawing Benefits

More than 200,000 disabled people have qualified for monthly disability benefits under the 1956 amendments to the Social Security Law according to W. S. King, manager of the Hagerstown district Social Security Office.

Prior to August 1958, the law provided that social security disability benefits must be reduced by the month of certain disability payments, King said. However, the 1958 amendments eliminated this offset. Beginning August 1958, no disability beneficiary will suffer a reduction in benefits because of another disability payment.

Latest figures available show that about 37,000 were drawing only partial payments because they received another disability benefit which had to be subtracted from the social security benefit. Now these people will receive full benefits beginning Aug. 1958. These payments will be automatic and beneficiaries need not apply or inquire at the Social Security Office.

Mr. King also pointed out that the dependents of disability beneficiaries may now receive payments. Any beneficiary having a wife or minor children who may be eligible should contact the Social Security Office. Benefits are payable beginning with September 1958 for dependents.

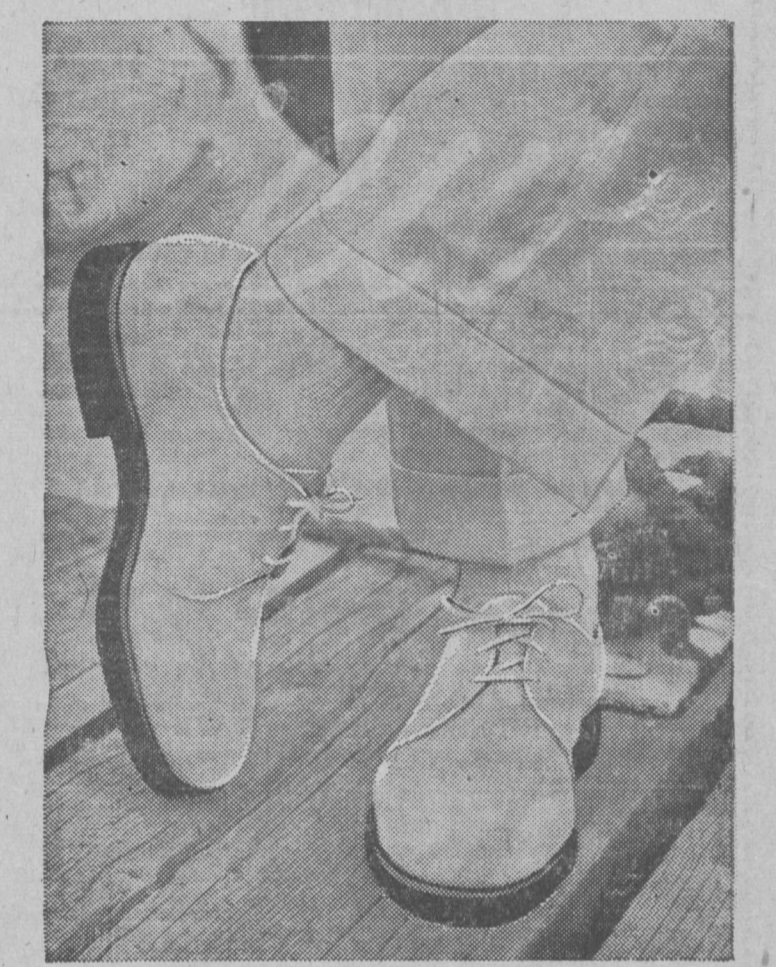

Mr. King stated that any severely disabled worker who has not yet filed for disability payments or the "freeze" should call or write the local office for information on how to qualify for benefits. A delay in filing may result in a loss of benefits.

Mr. Guy A. Baker Jr., registrar, Mt. St. Mary's College, attended a conference of registrars held in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

Mrs. Marie Rosensteel and Mr. and Mrs. George V. Arnold Jr. and son, Paul, were dinner guests Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George V. Arnold Sr., Taneytown.

THIS WEEK — In Washington With Clinton Davidson WASHINGTON RED INK Davidson

We Americans have become distressingly blasé about the rate at which the Federal government is spending our money and sinking us deeper and deeper into debt. A statement by the Bureau of the Budget that Federal spending this year will exceed income by more than a billion dollars a month caused no more than a mild ripple of public interest. Maurice H. Stans, Director of the Budget, tells us that Uncle Sam is spending at a peacetime record rate and that by the end of this fiscal year the public debt will reach a new all-time record of $283 billion. For each $350 the average American—man, woman and child—pays in Federal taxes, either directly or indirectly, Washington will spend $420.40 during the fiscal year that ends next June 30. Your share of the Federal debt, by next June 30, will amount to a record total of $1,645. That will be the per capita national debt, and it will be an increase of $70.45 from last June 30. You may never pay off that debt, but you can't escape paying your share of the interest on it, amounting to $42.50 a year. It costs the Treasury Department $7.3 billion a year to pay the interest on the debt. Congress either appropriated or authorized $79.2 billion to be spent this fiscal year by Federal agencies. That is $12.2 billion more than estimated tax collections of $67 billion. The record peacetime deficit is in sharp contrast with the official estimate last January that the government would end this fiscal year with a "net surplus" of $500 million in income over outgo. Mr. Stans explains this "mistaken estimate" by pointing out that (1) Congress okayed spending of $5.3 billion more than was budgeted, and (2) tax collections now are expected to fall $7.4 billion below the earlier estimate. Where Your Money Goes The biggest slice of your tax dollar, as well as the increase in debt, goes for items under the general heading of national defense. Defense spending will set a peacetime record of $40.8 billion. Interest on the national debt at $7.3 billion is second, farm aid is third and foreign aid is fourth. The largest increase over the January budget was an added $1.6 billion for the Department of Agriculture. The Post Office Department, despite increased mail rates, expects to spend $735 million more than it collects in stamp sales. That is due to the increase in wages voted postal employees by Congress, Mr. Stans explains. Other increases over last year include $225 million for Health, Education and Welfare Department public assistance grants and research; $199 million more for the Export-Import Bank, $225 million for surplus sales of farm products, and $92 million for the newly authorized Small Business Administration loan program. We asked both the Republican and Democratic national headquarters for a list of what they consider the major political campaign issues. Neither mentioned Federal spending or the public debt.
