Malicious destruction of town property must cease or the violators will face stiff penalties, the Town Fathers warned this week. Certain individuals have been tampering with parking meters and a sizeable number has been put out of commission. Repairing of the meters took place this week and it is planned to keep careful watch on them in the future. Anyone caught tampering with the parking meters will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. A number of them has broken glass, clogged coin channels, etc. and several have been bent considerably. No prosecution is planned for those who have damaged these meters to date but any future deceptions by individuals will result in legal action.

I was just reading about a planned crack-down on motorists operating with thin or damaged tires. Pennsylvania Turnpike authorities have issued a warning for over the Memorial Day weekend that police will check all vehicles entering the entrances to the highway and if they feel the car's tires are unsafe they will be refused access to the highway. Therefore, if you are planning a trip over the weekend make certain that you have good rubber on your car or you'll be headed for disappointment and possible trouble. And I am heartily in concurrence with the plan. The National Safety Council predicts that over 250 will lose their lives in traffic accidents over the weekend and had tires usually represent a large percentage of the mishaps, especially on roads where cars travel at such a fast clip, like our turnpikes. Let's have them checked folks before we start out this weekend.

April showed another advance in the incessantly rising cost of living, Government statistics reveal. And while on the subject of the cost of living, we here in Emmitsburg, are at the present time tax-conscious with what we have faced the past year. Our neighbors to the south of us, viz., Frederick, are in for a financial jolt in the near future. Plans of the city call for a 50% increase in the water bills of property-owners and that's not all. For the first time a sewer tax will be invoked, just what figure it will be hasn't yet been decided but you can rest assured it'll be steep enough.

Pregnancy among students of Baltimore schools has reached a record high, the news indicates this week. According to the figures 200 girls have been dropped from the school system for this aforementioned cause. The average age of those dropped was that of ninth or tenth graders. Students can be readmitted to the schools after the required six weeks of post-birth physical evaluation given by a hospital. Motherhood seems to place a damper on the desire for further education though, because only three of the 200 dismissed returned to class and to advance their education.

Local Priest Visits Belgian King

Among the distinguished American citizens invited by His Majesty Baudouin I, King of the Belgians, to visit with him during his official visit to the United States is the Reverend Dr. Gomar A. De Pauw, dean of studies and Professor of Moral Theology at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary, Emmitsburg. The Maryland priest is scheduled to meet the King at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York this week.

Belgian-born, Dr. De Pauw, a veteran of World War II, and a priest of the Baltimore Archdiocese, came to the Mount in 1952, after earning degrees in Canon Law and Theology at the world-famous University of Louvain and the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C. A member of numerous professional societies, Dr. De Pauw is named in "Who's Who in the East" and The Directory of American Scholars.

The De Pauws in Belgium trace their ancestry back to the Flemish Crusaders of the Middle Ages, while the American branch of the family boasts such men as Michael De Pauw, one of the first white men of the 17th century to come to what is now New York City; Washington — Charles De quis de la Fayette during the American Revolution and Charles De Pauw, for whom the De Pauw University in Greencastle, Indiana, is named.

On his mother's side, Dr. De Pauw is the grandson of the late Joseph Van Overloop, New Jersey industrialist. Besides his professional duties Father De Pauw has for the last five years done parish work over the weekends at Saint Ignatius Loyola Catholic Church in Buchanan Valley, Pa., where the Rev. Fr. Louis J. Yeager, an alumnus of Mount Saint Mary's, is the pastor.

Lions Club Will Erect Permanent Grandstand

President-elect Ralph D. Lindsey presided over the regular meeting of the Emmitsburg Lions Club held Monday evening at Fitzgerald's Inn, north of town. Twenty-five members and one guest from New Windsor were present.

Secretary-treasurer J. William Strickhouser gave a financial report on the recent rodeo and it was revealed that well over $100 was realized from the event. C. W. Seiss and Dr. D. L. Beegle, chairman and co-chairman respectively, of the annual Horse Show, gave reports on plans for this year's show. A minute's silence in the honor of a departed member, Charles R. Fuss, was observed.

The Lions are currently making plans for the erection of a permanent grandstand on the Civic Grounds and most of the work will be done by the members themselves. Working parties will be held at the field in lieu of the regular meetings, until such time as the project is completed.

Vehicular Crash Injures One Driver

Drivers of two vehicles were injured in a collision between an auto and a farm tractor at the Zora intersection at 6:35 o'clock Tuesday night.

Pennsylvania State Police said Robert F. Zeigler, 25, Waynesboro R4, was driving west when his car ran into the rear of a John Deere tractor pulling a homemade trailer operated by Charles William Alexander, 26, of Fairfield R1, and owned by the Blue Mountain Orchards, Zora.

Alexander, who was thrown from his vehicle, was removed in the Emmitsburg VFW ambulance to the Waynesboro Hospital for treatment of lacerations of the head and body. Zeigler suffered bruises of the knee and head but did not seek immediate medical attention.

Police estimated damage at $800 to Zeigler's car and $20 to the farm tractor and trailer. They said Zeigler told them he did not notice the tractor-trailer ahead of him on the road. Investigation is being continued.

In a double-ring ceremony Saturday in St. Andrew Roman Catholic Church, Waynesboro, Miss Barbara Ann Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Jones, of Waynesboro, became the bride of John Gabriel Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Haley, Emmitt Gardens, Emmitsburg.

The 10 a. m. nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. Joseph P. Kealy, Eugene Rosensteel, Emmitsburg, was the soloist and Mrs. Lloyd LaCasse, Waynesboro, was the organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an all over lace ballerina length gown with sleeveless scoop neck basque bodice and a scalloped hemline. Her sweetheart jacket had a Peter Pan collar and long tapered sleeves. Her imported illusion chapel length veil was held with a crown of bridal sequins and pearls. She wore pearl earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a bridal bouquet of two baby orchids on a white Bible, with streamers of love knots.

The maid of honor was Miss Rita Jean Pulaski, Waynesboro. Other bridal attendants were Miss Trina Ray Jones, sister of the bride, and the Misses Rebecca and Susan Haley, sisters of the bridegroom.

Gerald M. Haley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were James Dukehart, Waynesboro; Kenneth Gigeous, Emmitsburg, and Patrick Haley, also a brother of the groom.

Actress Will Receive Degree At St. Joseph Col.

Saint Joseph College, celebrating the 150th anniversary of its founding by Mother Elizabeth Ann Seton in 1809, announced plans to award honorary degrees to four prominent American women to highlight June 3rd commencement exercises on its Emmitsburg campus.

The historic women's college will honor exemplary women from various phases of American life, and bestow degrees on outstanding persons in career, family, career and family combined, as well as the religious life. Heading the impressive list of recipients is actress Ann Blyth, in real life Mrs. James McNulty, devoted wife of the prominent obstetrician, brother of Dennis Day. Noted for her high ideals, Miss Blyth will be cited for her exemplary personal life, as well as her role of "one of the foremost ambassadors of good will for the entertainment industry." Dr. McNulty will accompany his wife to the ceremonies at Saint Joseph College.

Archbishop Francis P. Keough, of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, will preside at the Commencement. The principal address of the program will be delivered by His Excellency John Joseph Hearne, Ambassador of Ireland.

Mother Mary, Superioress General of the Sisters of Charity of Saint Vincent de Paul, Mount-Saint-Vincent-on-the-Hudson, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. A Sister of Charity for more than 50 years, Mother Mary is a dynamic figure among America's great religious administrators, a spiritual Mother, of this era. A teacher, author, the Superioress General is recognized for "her gentle graciousness reaching out to embrace all men by the sanity, sanctity, and realism of effective, selfless charity."

Commander Louise K. Wilde, who served a term as Captain and Director of the WAVES, will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws for her exemplary career as a member of the armed forces of our country for 17 years. At present Special Assistant to the Commandant, Twelfth Naval District, San Francisco, as well as Public Information Officer for that district and the Western Sea Frontier, Commander Wilde is recognized for "that astute understanding of American womanhood which . . . enabled her to contribute greatly to the effort which attracted literally tens of thousands of young women to patriotic duty in the Navy," during World War II.

The accent is placed on dedication to the family and the impressive role of Mother in the degree citation for the award to Mrs. William J. Eagen, wife of the prominent physician of the Carney Hospital, in Boston. Mother of eleven children, Mrs. Eagan, who resides in Newton Center, Mass., is honored for her complete devotion to husband and family, her extraordinary charity to her neighbor, and exemplary representation of Catholic marriage and the Christian home.

Parents and guests are expected to arrive at Saint Joseph College on Monday, June 1, for the first presentation of the Sesquicentennial pageant in the college auditorium. The pageant depicts, in addition to the founding and growth of Saint Joseph College, the outstanding life and impressive contributions of its founders, Mother Seton. Highlights of the three-century efforts of the Daughters of Charity of Saint Vincent de Paul, the French Community with which the spiritual descendants of Mother Seton affiliated in the mid-1800's, will be presented as well as the present day works of the Emmitsburg Community.

Saint Joseph College, located just 10 miles south of the battlefields of Gettysburg, bestowed an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws on Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower in ceremonies attended by the President in March. The Sesquicentennial celebration will continue through the year with the observance of the Daughters of Charity of Saint Vincent de Paul of the anniversary of the arrival of Mother Seton on the present-day campus of Saint Joseph College in Emmitsburg, on July 31, 1809. A Valley Home Weekend in October is the final event on the Sesquicentennial schedule.

Injunction Halts New Street Plan

Emmitsburg's plan to build a street from the Public School to the Mother Seton School hit a snag last week when an injunction by an Emmitsburg couple halted proceedings for the time being.

The injunction, filed by Dr. and Mrs. George W. Green Jr., seeks to prevent the erection of certain so-called streets to which it is claimed, the Town has no right to, having no legal title to said ground. The bill of complaint was filed in Frederick County Equity Court.

Chief Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer signed an order directing the municipality to show cause by June 8 why the injunction should not be issued.

The complainants, through their attorneys, Holden S. Felton and Murray H. Fout, say they are the owners of certain lots shown on a plat of Annan, Horner and Co. They say that so-called streets named as Washington and Elm, as laid out on the plat, have never been used by the general public.

The complainants assert the streets were never laid out on the ground, and that there has been no maintenance of them by any public authority or otherwise as streets. Dr. and Mrs. Green and their predecessors in title, it is claimed, for more than 20 years have used and occupied all of so-called Washington Street as a part of their lots and lawns and have spent considerable sums in grass, lawns and shrubbery.

They say there was no offer of dedication to the defendants, nor any offer or acceptance by any public authority of the streets so laid out, nor has any public authority ever spent any money on them, maintained them or exercised jurisdiction over them.

The complainants say the Burgess and Commissioners now claim the legal right to open up the streets, over their protest, for the use of the general public. They assert the town authorities have caused road building equipment to be moved there.

The complainants say they are residents and taxpayers of Emmitsburg and they claim the acts of the defendants are illegal and arbitrary, alleging that their properties will be materially affected and damage inflicted upon them if the corporation is permitted to go ahead with the taking of property for the purpose of opening streets.

They ask that the injunction apply against the Burgess and Commissioners, their agents, employees and contractors and that the opening of the streets be "strictly prohibited."

The Burgess and Commissioners have engaged legal counsel to represent them in the case and plan to continue proceedings until a settlement is made. The proposed street would provide adequate safety for children attending Mother Seton School by affording them the opportunity of traveling a comparatively traffic-free street. At present most of the children must cross heavily traveled Route 15 to reach school. It was the intention of the Town to start the street at the Public High School and to continue it to the other side of the Green property adjacent the Mother Seton School and from there on turning back into Route 15.

Use for Old Towels

USE YOUR SOFT, WORN BATH TOWELS to make a towel apron for bathing baby. Mother wears the apron, lifts baby from the tub and wraps him warm and snug. With a slight pull, she loosens snaps at neck and waist and holds baby in the towel apron ready to dry. The Cannon Homemaking Institute gives directions for making this simple bath apron from worn or new towels. The corners are cut and bound with ribbon, as shown. (You need three yards.) Sew loop to right corner of upper edge of towel. Sew snaps to other end of ribbon loop and also to left corner of towel. At waist line, tack ribbon with looped end to right side; sew snap at opposite side. Halter and waist tie can be opened with a slight pull when baby is lifted from tub.

After the many interesting comments had been made, Mrs. Caldwell expressed her appreciation by paying tribute to her many students and co-workers.

At the conclusion of the program, Mr. Daniel Nail presented the honored guest with a piece of luggage, a gift from the PTA.

The program concluded with delicious refreshments being served.

UNEXCELLED BRAVERY

Juvenile delinquency is a grave and growing problem in this country and should never be underestimated. At the same time we shouldn't lose sight of the legions of young people of splendid character.

Something that happened off San Francisco's Golden Gate in early May, deserves national recognition, in our opinion. An 18-year-old girl, Shirley O'Neill, was swimming with an 18-year-old boy when he was attacked by a great white shark which had strayed far from its normal habitat. As the water reddened with his blood he called to her to "go back, go back!" Instead, she swam to him and seized an arm. Finding it had been almost severed, she managed a hold about his body and brought him ashore. Then while he lay dying on the beach, the Catholic girl baptized him and pronounced the Act of Contrition.

A soldier of long service who witnessed the tragedy from a bluff above the bay, called it the greatest exhibition of courage he had ever seen. And the president of San Francisco's Board of Supervisors said he will seek a Carnegie Medal of Honor for Shirley O'Neill.

SQUEEZE STATIONS

We've all heard of the natural, eternal law of diminishing returns. We've also heard the old saying that you can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

These two principles have a good deal in common—especially when it comes to excise taxes on commodities.

Take for instance the gasoline tax. It now averages about 9c a gallon, Federal and state taxes included, and on a percentage basis, is far higher than excise taxes levied on out and out luxuries, much less basic necessities.

A bill in Congress would further boost the Federal tax by 50%—from 3c to 4½c a gallon. And increases are urged in a number of the states.

If such efforts are successful, a magazine published by Socony Mobil Oil Co., Inc. points out, three results are inevitable. First, motorists will be forced to cut down on their driving. Second, Government will take in less tax money, not more! Third, the jobs of 23 million Americans who depend on automotive transportation for a livelihood will be imperiled.

As the Oil & Gas Journal puts the case: "If gasoline taxes go up any higher service stations should change their names to 'squeeze' stations." The motoring public will take only so much squeeze before it rebels—and the law of diminishing returns goes into action. You can jack up the tax on gas or anything else to any level—but you can't make people buy!

EFFICIENT FEEDING AND LIVESTOCK MANAGEMENT

By Dr. Gustav Bohstedt
 Emeritus Professor of Animal Husbandry
 University of Wisconsin

Will Pelleted Hay Pay?

There is now a tremendous interest in pelleting all kinds of livestock and poultry feeds, not merely concentrate mixtures but also mixtures of both concentrates and hay, and even hay alone.

First of all it should be understood that the term "pelleting" is as yet applied to a whole range of products, varying from grains or concentrates with as little as 5 per cent fiber, to roughages combined in a pelleted form, and which have 25 per cent or more fiber.

Dr. Bohstedt

The size of the "pellets" varies all the way from about one-fourth inch diameter for concentrates to around 1 inch for mixtures of concentrates and roughages (steer cubes for instance) and even 3 inches for hay "pellets" or "wafers." They are readily eaten by cattle.

Years ago it was found that pelleting made for increased consumption of feed and also resulted in a saving of feed necessary to produce gains on the part of growing or fattening animals. Pigs and other farm animals would waste less feed on being self-fed pelleted instead of mealy feeds.

menters commented that the economy of a particular experiment was in favor of the unpelleted ration. Considering kinds of feed as processed and the size of the pellets, the point of economy will be a determining factor in the future of pelleted feeds.

Research indicates an interesting difference between the buildup of body fat and butter fat where pelleted hay is fed to beef cattle on the one hand and milking cows on the other. It did not seem to make any difference to a fattening animal whether long hay or pelleted hay was fed, or whether the pellets were made from ground hay or merely chopped hay. Fattening proceeded normally.

But milking cows fed pellets made from ground hay for their only roughage went way down in their butter fat test. It was necessary to use fairly coarsely chopped hay for pelleting, so that the hay being then somewhat more stringy, would stay sufficiently long in the paunch for fermentation and for acetic acid production so necessary in the formation of butterfat.

Question: I know that salt adds flavor to feed, but does salt improve feed digestibility?

Answer: Yes, at the Kansas Experiment Station salt in cattle rations made a 3 to 4 per cent improvement in digestibility. Australian reports are that sheep fed salt gained from 19 to 58 per cent more than on unsalted rations. One of the experimental salt-fed groups gained 37 per cent more than the unsalted lot, while eating the same amount of feed.

NEW CLAIM LAW EFFECTIVE MONDAY

(Editors Note: On June 1—three days from now—Maryland's new Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law becomes fully operative. It is important that the public should know how to file a claim for recovery of damages sustained in a motor vehicle accident. As a service to our readers, we present below salient information prepared by Dan M. Vann, Manager of the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board, which will administer the Law.)

Before either motor vehicle owners and operators, pedestrians and other qualified persons can adequately understand how to file a claim with the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board for the recovery of damages arising out of a motor vehicle accident, it is necessary that they first understand the purpose of the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Law and to whom its protection applies.

This statute was enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland to provide the people of Maryland with the most complete protection now known against economic loss, up to $10,000 for death or injury of one person, $20,000 for death or injury of more than one person in any one accident and $5,000 for property damage, resulting from traffic accidents caused by the negligence of financially irresponsible motor vehicle owners and operators. That is its purpose—to assure the people of Maryland that they will be compensated within the amounts and under the circumstances concisely stated above.

It applies to all residents of Maryland except motor vehicle owners who do not carry automobile liability insurance that covers any damage they may cause to the person or property of others, up to the amounts stated in the previous paragraph. Since this law does not extend its benefits to owners who do not carry that kind of insurance, it is useless for them to file a claim with the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board because such claims cannot and will not be honored. Therefore, this summarized explanation of how to file a claim applies only to motorists who demonstrate their consideration for the welfare of others by carrying automobile liability insurance as heretofore explained, passengers in motor vehicles and pedestrians.

On and after June 1, here is how to proceed if you are involved in a motor vehicle accident:

1. Determine whether the amount of your claim justifiably exceeds $100. If it does not, do not file a claim; it cannot be honored. In order to avoid unreasonable costs of administration which would have to be borne by the public, the General Assembly felt that such very small claims, which cost as much to handle as the larger ones, should not be considered hardship cases. If you reasonably feel that your claim exceeds $100, take the next step.

2. Determine most carefully the question of who was at fault. This law affords protection only to those persons—pedestrian or motorist, properly insured or not—who are not at fault for the accident. If you were at fault, do not file a claim that cannot be honored. If you reasonably feel that you were not at fault, take the next step.

3. Determine the question of insurance. If you carry automobile liability insurance, but the other motor vehicle owner does not—and if he is otherwise financially incapable of paying for your damages, you are entitled to file a claim with the Board; claims under such conditions should be filed with the affected insurance company, which is quite capable of protecting the interests of the innocent claimant. Pedestrians are not required to be insured, but otherwise they should follow the same course—determine question of fault, ascertain whether the proper kind of insurance is in force; of you are not at fault, and the motorist causing the damage does not have the right kind of insurance, file your claim with the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board, otherwise with the insurance company. Presuming that you were not at fault and the offending motorist was not properly insured, you are now ready to file your claim with the Board.

4. Within 90 days after the accident, file your claim, using an official form known as "Notice of Intention to Make Claim", which can be obtained from any police station, court house, sheriff's office, automobile registration station or the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board, at no cost. With it you must file a certification by a physician of injuries sustained, using form UCJ-204, which can be obtained at any of the same places. Additional data that is required will be shown on the back of the first form. In the event of death, your personal representative may file for you; in the event of very severe injuries, the courts may grant additional time for filing. Now, this is most important for you to remember—the forms you file with the Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board do not relieve you of the necessity to file with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles the additional forms that are required by the Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law.

5. Send your claim forms and any additional required information to—Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund Board, 33 Hopkins Place, Baltimore 1, Md. Presumably, your claim is now legally filed, but there are other facts that you should know about this law, which will give the people of Maryland the most complete protection against the economic results of automobile accidents thus far devised. Such facts do not belong in this explanation, however, they have been published before, both by the press and in the form of an official pamphlet. Motor vehicle owners who have not read this pamphlet may obtain one at no cost by writing to the Board at the address given in the preceding paragraph.

BRITISH STEEL STOCKS

May 27, 1959

British steel stocks are a group of interest to the more sophisticated investor. However, due to the problems of transferring the stocks and getting payment on the dividends, commitments should be limited to companies with American Depository Receipts which are: Stewarts & Lloyds, Ltd., John Summers & Sons, Ltd., and the United Steel Companies.

It should be pointed out that there is a large risk factor involved in investing in these stocks because of the possibility of a Labour victory in the British elections scheduled tentatively for this fall. The Labour Party is committed to the nationalization of the Steel Industry and if this takes place, it is estimated that holders of British steel stocks would receive only approximately two-thirds of the current market value of their holdings. Because of this threat these stocks offer unusually attractive statistical values. In nearly all cases they are selling below their book values and at price times earnings ratios of 4 to 5 times.

Dividend return is not high, averaging only about 3 1/2% after British Withholding Tax, but of course there are certain tax advantages accruing from tax credits on this tax in filing income tax returns. The main attraction for purchasing these stocks are for capital appreciation and could easily be two-thirds to three-quarters of their current market values providing the Conservatives were put into power once again.

Therefore, the future market trend of these stocks depends largely on the outcome of the elections, but it is important to analyze the probability of victory for either Party. In April the Budget was released which lowered sales taxes on consumer durable goods which is already showing a favorable effect on the British economy. Unemployment, although only 3% of the total working force in England, as compared to approximately 6% in this country, is considered high and it is hoped that it will be reduced considerably by the fall.

Another matter of concern to the British voting public is the fact that old age pensions have not been raised and unless this is accomplished by legislative means by election time, it could be a serious obstacle to a victory for the Conservatives. On the whole, however, it is believed that the Conservatives have a slightly better than even chance of winning the elections. MacMillan's foreign policies have been very popular with the British people, while the steady improvement in business conditions for some months has been helpful.

For the speculator who wishes to make a small commitment in a situation where the odds appear to favor him and who can afford to accept the losses that might be incurred were a situation to work out, British steel stocks mentioned earlier in this article are recommended. These companies are all well managed and compare favorably with good American companies. Production is much smaller, but their growth potential excellent with the general expansion of the British and Western European economy. However, commitments should be limited only to those investors willing and able to take risks and these stocks should be avoided by the smaller or more conservative investor. FNS

Looking Ahead

...by Dr. George S. Beason DIRECTOR - NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM Stearns, Arkansas

Prices And Our Welfare

A group of tobacco growers recently went to Washington and appeared before the House Agriculture Committee. Most members of the Committee have been constant advocates of high rigid government price supports for various agriculture products. But the tobacco growers requested a lowering of price supports on their product. Why? Because the high price supports are causing American tobacco growers to lose their foreign markets. In other words, American tobacco is being priced out of the market. Other American farm products with prices kept artificially high through government support programs likewise are losing markets.

Ray Vicker, an American journalist, reports on a conversation he had with a Rhodesian (Africa) government official. "In a free market," the Rhodesian official said, "we might have had trouble competing against your highly mechanized American farmers, and many tobacco plantations would never have been started." But with the high price supports pushing up prices of American tobacco and the government at the same time restricting tobacco acreage, the Rhodesian farmers are growing greater and greater amounts, and taking away our markets. Other Products Too

World-wide cotton markets also have been lost to American producers because of high price supports. American wheat is in the same situation, although the American taxpayers generally, and not the wheat farmers, have so far been left "holding the bag." Wheat and cotton farmers are producing not for the market but for the government—to the tune of billions of tax dollars each year. It's costing a million dollars a day in taxes just to store the surplus of agricultural products which the American and foreign consumers do not need or won't buy at government-fixed prices.

The agricultural situation is only one of several danger spots in the American economy. Some of our industrial products which have competed successfully in the world market for a century now are being priced out of the market. The situation is serious—to the industries and their millions of stockholders, to the millions of workers whose jobs are jeopardized; and in the long run, to all American citizens.

American Plants Hard Hit

At any farm supply store in America you are likely today to find bundles of barbed wire from German factories far out-selling American-made wire, even though the German product must be shipped across the Atlantic and carried by train from East Coast ports. The American jobber and retailer get German barbed wire at a price considerably under the cost of the same quality wire produced in American factories, and can sell it for less. American barbed wire is being priced out of its domestic market. More than 50% of all barbed wire now sold in America is imported.

The major cause of this is that wages in American steel mills and fabricating plants have been pushed up each year—without sufficient regard to productivity and competition. And the German workers, with excellent machine tools, have improved their per-worker productivity far beyond the margin of wage raises they have been getting from time to time. This puts their companies and their nation in an excellent competitive position. Japan, too, is producing several products that are taking markets away from American industries.

Of Concern To Everybody

A midwestern company manufacturing nails pays its workers $2.90 an hour and sells its product at $9.80 per 100 pounds. Similar nails from a German plant, with wage costs of 90 cents an hour, can be purchased in America for about 15% less. America now imports about 50 times more nails than it exports. The U. S. WORLD AND NEWS REPORT notes that a long list of other American items are being priced out of the market by wage increases out of line with productivity and the reality of competition. These include bicycles, sewing machines, steel flatware, typewriters, fishing tackle, clocks, watches, clothespins, woolen gloves and fabrics, cotton cloth, cameras, plywood, automobiles, tires, radios, turbine generators, and many other items.

Not only the welfare of American industry—the ownership-worker team—but of the whole American population is endangered. Our American plants making barbed wire naturally are having to cut production, closing down jobs. Plants making all these other products likewise are hard hit. Our nation's great production of wealth through manufacturing is jeopardized, and that's of concern to everybody. This situation should be understood and recognized by labor union leaders. Wage raise demands must now be measured against the world market. The welfare of competitive situation in the all of us, particularly the wage earners, is at stake.

Prayer

Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the courage of Jesus Christ our Lord. Because He was willing to die for us, help us to be willing to live for Him. Strengthen us in faith, so that others, knowing we are His disciples, may be encouraged to follow Thee. For His sake. Amen.

... Forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press forward... (Philippians 3:13.)

SILICONE... IS A NAME GIVEN BY DR. KIPPING OF NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY (ENGLAND) TO A NEW SYNTHETIC MATERIAL HE DEVELOPED IN 1900... HE CONSIDERED THE MATERIAL A "STICKY GUM" WITH PECULIAR PROPERTIES OF NO COMMERCIAL VALUE.

DURING WORLD WAR II SEVERAL AMERICAN SCIENTISTS SEARCHING FOR A MOISTURE-PROOF BARRIER FOR ELECTRICAL SYSTEMS OF HIGH ALTITUDE AIRCRAFT PUT THE STRANGE MATERIAL TO USE...
SILICONE, MADE FROM QUARTZ SAND, IS COMPOSED OF SILICON, CARBON, HYDROGEN AND OXYGEN.
OTHER SILICONES ARE USED TO PROVIDE A MOISTURE-PROOF BARRIER IN HAND CREAMS, AUTO AND FURNITURE POLISHES, SUN-TAN LOTIONS, PAINTS AND ELECTRIC MOTORS.

TODAY, THERE'S HARDLY AN APPLICATION WHERE SILICONES CAN'T BE PUT TO WORK. A SILICONE FINISH FOR FABRICS CALLED SYL-MER PROTECTS CLOTHING FROM STAINS... OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

A COLUMN FOR HOMEOWNERS
Prepared by University of Maryland Extension Service

Now that Spring is really here, we can ease off on the lawn mowing—thank goodness! A well-fertilized lawn is a joy to behold, but in early spring mowing can get to be a real chore.

There are two things you should do about your lawn now: (1) mow it less frequently, and (2) raise the height of your cutter bar.

Unless you've got really rank growth, you've probably noticed you didn't need to mow as often lately. And if you raise the cutter bar, so that your mower leaves about 2 inches of grass, you'll have healthier, more weed-resistant grass.

Since crabgrass is already germinating, it's advisable to let your permanent lawn grasses such as bluegrass grow taller. They'll help shade out crabgrass. And because bluegrass growth slows down in warm weather, it's important to let it get a little taller, instead of pruning it so short.

There's another thing about lawn care—you might plan, now that it's fresh in your mind, to fertilize your lawn in late summer this year, instead of in early spring, or not at all. Fertilizer applied in August or early September will really perk up your late summer lawn, carry it on through the winter, and give you an early start next spring. Oh yes, you won't have to mow it as often this time next year!

Mulches Pay
Mulches around vegetables and shrubs pay off in a number of ways: they help conserve soil moisture, reduce weeds and erosion. Mulches help both the soil and the plant.

There are a lot of different materials you can use: compost, straw, peatmoss, grass clippings, pine needles, sawdust, leaves, paper, aluminum foil and plastic. Use whatever is readily available and inexpensive.

Cultivate the soil to get rid of weeds before laying the mulch. Then be sure you get enough mulching material on to really do the job. If you use an organic material, better apply a few pounds of complete fertilizer or a smaller amount of straight nitrogen to help decompose the mulch.

Sidressing Pays, Too
Sidressing vegetables with nitrogen fertilizer will produce better yields. If your soil is sufficiently fertilized with phosphorus and potash, a straight nitrogen fertilizer, such as nitrate of soda or urea, will be sufficient. But if you suspect your ground is a little shy on phosphorus and potash, a complete fertilizer, heavy on nitrogen, such as 10-10-10, will pay.

Nitrogen is essential for rapid growth, and most soils and plants can use plenty of it, if applied at the right time.

After most vegetables have set fruit, it's too late for sidressing. The one exception to this rule: tomatoes should not be sidedressed when blossoming, but should be sidedressed after fruit has set.

Rake in the fertilizer near the feeding roots. (If you don't rake it in, it won't be used as efficiently and may wash away.) When you rake it in, be sure you don't prune the roots, or you'll do more harm than good.

A half pound to 1 pound per 100 feet of row will do for most straight nitrogen fertilizers. You can put on as much as 2 to 3 pounds of a mixed fertilizer.

Cure for Chlorosis
Iron chlorosis of azaleas causes leaves to turn yellow. Yellowing occurs between the veins, but the veins remain green. Usually it can be remedied by spraying the plants with 1 ounce of iron sulfate in 1 gallon of water. If color is slow in returning to the leaves, a second spray in 10 days or 2 weeks may help.

A longer-lasting cure is to apply iron sulfate at the rate of 1 or 2 pounds per 100 square feet of soil. The newer chelated forms of iron are quite effective too.

But you may have other troubles, besides iron-deficiency. Poor drainage can cause the same symptoms. So can: too sweet soil (azaleas love acid soil), under or over-fertilization, deep cultivation, and winter injury.

You can get more details on azaleas in University of Maryland Extension Service Bulletin 165, "Growing Azaleas." Get a copy from your county agent.

Prone fornythia and other spring flowering shrubs soon after the blooms are gone. Next year's blooms will form on new wood produced this summer. Ask your county agent for Extension Service Bulletin 150, "Pruning Ornamental Trees and Shrubs."

Doubleheader Race At Charles Town Saturday

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. — Shenandoah Downs, the $4 million night thoroughbred track here, has slated a two-day Memorial Day celebration capped by this area's first racing doubleheader on Saturday. To top off the weekend, the track will hold "Appreciation Night" on Monday, with all patrons being admitted free.

Shenandoah Downs will conduct a matinee racing program beginning at 2:30 Saturday afternoon and come right back with a night card beginning at 7 p. m., both Eastern Daylight time. There will be eight races on each card, and only one admission will be charged, General Manager Bob Leavitt has announced.

On Friday, Shenandoah Downs will salute the American Legion, with all members of the veteran's organization being admitted without charge. West Virginia State Commander Lincoln Cox of Kirby, will present the American Legion Trophy to the winning owner in Friday night's feature.

The Jackson-Parks Post No. 71 of Charles Town will be host organization for American Legion night, and William W. Jackson of Harpers Ferry, Legion District Commander, will greet Legionnaires from areas of West Virginia, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the District of Columbia.

The Memorial Day doubleheader will offer nearly eight hours of racing, with about an hour recess for dinner between 6 and 7 p. m.

Shenandoah Downs will provide a chicken box supper for $1.25 and the infield will be open between cards for picnic parties.

Shenandoah Downs normally conducts nine races nightly, with first post at 7:45 EDT.

up program was inaugurated four years ago, but the cooperation of every Marylander is needed to eliminate the rest.

Two practical suggestions from the Governor's Committee for good clean fun for Memorial Day and every day are—

1. Carry a litterbag in your car for travel trash.
2. Leave your picnic spot the way you would like to find it.

MEDITATION
Read Ephesians 6:1-10.
Be strong—not in yourselves, but in the Lord, in the power of His boundless resource. (Ephesians 6:10.)

The famous canoe, "Matatua," was carrying Moari settlers to New Zealand. They attempted to make a landing on a beach in the Bay, now known as the Bay of Plenty. The surf was so heavy that Toroa, the captain, feared that the worn craft would be swamped. So he ordered some of the men to jump over the side and pull the canoe to the shore.

The men hesitated, but a young woman, rallying at them for being cowards, grasped a line, jumped into the boiling surf, crying as she went, "I will act the man!" The men soon followed and the canoe was safely beached. The town they founded still bears the name, Whaka-tane, "to act the man."

We must show courage in our witness for Jesus Christ. His resources are all we need. Our task is to venture for Him. Only as we are prepared to lead the way, in His strength, will others be encouraged to follow.

Some folks don't put their best foot forward until they get the other one in hot water.

Keep Md. Beautiful Stressed For Holidays

All Marylanders are eagerly looking forward to Memorial Day. Since time immemorial, it seems May 30 has been recognized as the official starting gun for summer fun. Picnic lunches are packed, and families are off en masse to picnic areas, beaches and parks, anywhere, everywhere, bent on a day of sun and fun.

Unfortunately, this mass picnicking annually leaves tons of litter in its wake. Cleanup costs are terrific, and many people fail to realize that they, as taxpayers, pay this unnecessary toll.

Trash and bottles carelessly tossed from cars by motorists are a definite traffic hazard, as well.

The Governor's Committee to Keep Maryland Beautiful has been encouraged by a reduction in the amount of litter picked up from the state's highways since the state's highways since the clean-

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

The University of Maryland has announced the inauguration of a "Distinguished Teaching Program" which will be supported by The Greater University of Maryland Fund.

Designed primarily for faculty development, an objective of the 1959 alumni fund canvass, the new program has been developed to encourage research and completion of graduate work.

University President Wilson H. Elkins has termed the program vital "in order for education to make a full contribution to the welfare of society and the individual."

The program has been established in order to develop the most promising younger faculty people at the critical point in their careers when they have demonstrated their capacity and initiative in their own departments on the campus, but before they have received the necessary recognition for established research sponsorship.

Grants made to faculty from the Greater University of Maryland Fund will only be repayable in the event the faculty member does not remain in teaching at Maryland. The faculty member must also continue his professional advancement during a five-year period.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Land Companies And Babies

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 28—The best hedge against inflation should be good "land stocks", that is stocks of companies with large land holdings. The Federal Government can print all the Government Bonds and all the money it wishes. Any corporation can print more stock certificates when it so desires. But (and I say this reverently) only God can make more land. (This may be increased a total of perhaps 1/1000% by realtors who do so by pumping up sand from the adjoining water but this is not real land.)

But, why do I advise buying stock of a land company instead of buying acreage in fee? The answer is very simple. If you yourself buy the acreage, you must pay the taxes and watch the property personally. If, however, you buy the stock of a good company, the taxes are paid by the company and you have no details to watch. Furthermore, such listed land stock is easy to sell; while considerable red tape and looking up of titles are necessary if the property is in your own name. Hence, I prefer certain land stocks to acreage.

Relation To Population

Readers hear much about the business boom which is supposed to come in the 1960's due to the increased marriageable population. Although the birth rate is falling slightly, (it is now 24.5 per thousand), and the marriage rate dropped last year to 8.3 per thousand, and deaths in 1958 were only 1,674,000, yet those who are approaching marriageable age are constantly increasing due to the baby boom of 20 years ago. The investor is most interested in those who are reaching marriage age. The experts expect 5 million babies in 1960 and 6 million in 1965. The great majority of stocks are not directly affected by marriages; but the demand for houses and furnishings definitely increases as the marriage rate rises.

As more people retire on pensions, more attention is being given to the most healthful states—the Southeast including Florida, the Southwest including New Mexico, Colorado, and Arizona, together with parts of the Pacific Coast. Such states offer the climate for which older people are hungering. A dry climate, with normal variations of temperatures, is now recognized as giving the most relief to those suffering from bursitis, arthritis, and various forms of rheumatism. Therefore, a first requirement is that the land be in a state which can "guarantee" a long and healthful life. Personally, I like New Mexico or Arizona as health resorts, but all states are different and each has some advantages over the others. What climate is best for me, may be poison to you.

Freedom From Labor Troubles

Of all the stocks listed on the New York exchanges, the "land company" stocks are freest from labor troubles. Such companies employ very few people. In fact, I have heard of one land company, listed on the American Stock Exchange, which is said to have only three employees. Even those railroads like the Canadian Pacific, the Union Pacific, and the Northern Pacific, which have great land holdings, are practically free from strikes. Even during a strike on one of the railroads its land holdings are increasing in value.

Although much western land is now good only for grazing, yet the income from such land should expand with the national increase in babies. This grazing should pay taxes and other expenses. But the great gamble about any acreage is that at any time minerals such as uranium may be found, or fuels such as oils or gases, or other underground products. This especially applies to timber land, which is constantly becoming more valuable. Land companies which have not yet discovered their underground resources are investments for income. But at any time discoveries may be made which could double the market prices of the stocks. The day a house is completed, it usually begins to deteriorate and the house becomes worth less, but the land should become worth more each year. Therefore, put more money into land and less into the house when buying a home.

erly accomplished at a reasonable cost, it could make these states "blossom like a rose." But whatever may be accomplished by more irrigation and whatever happens to the stock market, so long as the marriage rate continues upward, productive land should constantly increase in value.

How Not To Drown

It's not summer yet, in many places, but you can bet your money the kids in your family are counting the days till it comes. And what is a kid's idea of a heavenly summer? Easy. The chance to go swimming every day, of course.

So this is the time when parents ought to be thinking of what they can teach their youngsters—now, before summer starts—to keep them out of the clutches of that tragic and useless killer, summer drownings.

You give them swimming lessons, naturally. But there are other things. For instance, point out how easy it is to overestimate swimming ability. It's tempting to jump into a lake and start swimming straight out from shore. Youngsters sometimes forget that they have to swim back, too.

Teach them never to swim without a companion, preferably with a boat nearby. Don't swim too soon after a meal—a two-hour wait is not too long. Don't rely on water wings or an old inner tube if you're not ready for deep water—they have been known to fail.

Impress on your youngsters the danger of panic—he can always float and rest if he is tiring dangerously. Muscle cramps can be handled, too—teach a boy or girl how to massage them away while staying up. Tell them to hang onto a boat if it overturns—not to try to swim ashore. Rescuing swimmers in trouble is not as easy as it looks—and often the rescuer gets into trouble too. If your child is not an expert swimmer with lifesaving training, teach him to help another swimmer with an oar, a rope, or a life preserver, instead of jumping in himself. Use a boat—that's the best way.

Get ready for summer by teaching your kids how not to drown!

Many a woman thinks she bought a dress for a ridiculous price, when in reality she bought it for an absurd figure!

Hey Dad, Look at Us

NEW IDEAS in family transportation are attracting children and parents alike these days. The kids go for the sheer excitement of it, the parents for the practical points, such as the "75 miles per gallon of gas" one gets in this Lambretta 3-wheel "Surrey." And the children, all six of them, are also sporting something modern—and practical. Bob (extreme left) sports a white Levi Strauss "Lariat" broadcloth shirt, Jack (in cab) a Brill Brothers steerhide sleeved Letterman jacket, Tom (the towhead) a colorful western shirt, little Jan a cotton-knit kiddyal with adjustable shoulder straps by Carter, as is the cotton-knit cardigan with neva-bing long sleeves, worn by Susie, and Joe a melton "Wagon Wheel" jacket. Sturdy, easy-to-use Dot snap fasteners have replaced buttons and bows all around.

Easy Way To Make Baby's Formula

Making your baby's formula is no longer a chore with the convenient new product, Carnalac. The Carnation Company, identified for nearly 60 years with the infant feeding field through its evaporated milk, introduced this new "convenience formula" after more than ten years of testing in the Carnation Research Laboratories. This completely nutritional, ready-to-use formula is based on evaporated milk which has been widely successful in infant feeding. Carnalac, like evaporated milk, is homogenized to reduce the size of the fat globules to an easily digested form.

With Carnalac, you need only to add the amount of boiling water specified by the doctor, and the formula is ready to use. This new product is completely flexible, and can be easily adjusted to the baby's individual needs. Be sure to use this convenience product only under a doctor's directions.

Carnalac is available throughout the country in grocery stores, supermarkets and drug stores.

Possibilities From Irrigation

Most cheap land today is awaiting irrigation. The fact that these sandy and barren lands have had so little rain during the centuries means that the vitamins and minerals are yet in the soils. They have not been drained into the oceans by the rains and brooks and rivers. Hence, when such virgin lands are irrigated they produce the most wonderful products. This is why the marvelous lettuce and other vegetables come from the former Mohave Desert of South Central California. This was considered only barren sand before it was irrigated. Many plans for further local irrigation are being made to adopt power from uranium, oil, or gas to be found on the property. I personally am most interested in water wells powered by gravity or perhaps by sun rays.

For Utah, Colorado, New Mexico, and Arizona a most spectacular project is the "Powers Plan" of bringing water from the Great Bear and Great Slave lakes of Northern Canada, southward to irrigate the above states. These millions of gallons per second are now flowing north and are wasted in the Arctic Ocean. Mr. John W. Powers, 401 Yorkshire Drive, Homewood, Alabama has a plan to turn this water southward into the United States. If prop-

Get Ready For Outdoor Meals

WITH a long weekend holiday at the end of this month, outdoor eating in most sections of the country will begin again! Back porch suppers and picnics in the yard call for easy-fix foods.

Salads are ever so popular at these informal affairs. Here's one that will be doubly welcomed . . . Pork and Bean Slaw. It combines favorite canned pork and beans with tomato sauce and crunchy shredded cabbage. You'll be delighted with the flavor and crispness. Served in your prettiest salad bowl, this salad will be a star at many of your parties during the "outdoor eating" season.

A nice go-along is a platter of assorted cold cuts (stuffed with cheese cubes) and relishes . . . carrots and celery sticks, radish roses, olives, and sweet gerkins. Complete the menu with frozen peach pies and coffee.

John Foster Dulles

John Foster Dulles, a towering bulwark against communism as President Eisenhower's Secretary of State, died of cancer at 7:49 a. m. Sunday, May 24, 1959. For six years he directed America's foreign policy and stood strong against any threats to the free world. This writer wishes to join with the forces of the free world in paying a final tribute to a man whose courage and devotion to the cause of freedom will long be remembered.

John Foster Dulles, an American lawyer and statesman, was born in Washington, D. C., on February 25, 1888. He received his A.B. degree at Princeton University in 1908. He did graduate work at the Sorbonne in Paris, and took his degree in law at George Washington University in 1911.

He began to practice law in this same year in New York. He soon became a director of leading industrial and financial firms and a trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and other organizations.

During the First World War he served as a special agent for President Wilson in Panama, when he was then attached to the general staff, and later became assistant to the chairman of the War Trade Board. As council to the American delegation at the Paris Peace Conference he helped draft treaty clauses dealing with reparations and financial questions. Mr. Dulles, on many occasions, was consulted in the financing of many European and South American governments, for he was a specialist in international finance.

In 1933 he represented American bondholders in three international debt conferences in Berlin. His "War, Peace and Change", written in 1939, offered a philosophical analysis of the causes of war.

After 1940 Dulles became a close advisor to Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York and co-operated with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg in formulating the foreign policy views of the Republican party. He attended various international conferences as advisor and delegate and for a brief time was head of the American delegation at the Paris meeting of the United Nations General Assembly in November of 1948.

Mr. Dulles was appointed by Governor Dewey to the United States Senate on July 7, 1949, to replace Robert F. Wagner, who had resigned, but on running for election the following year was defeated by Herbert H. Lehman. In 1950 he was named advisor to Secretary of State Dean Acheson and was charged with negotiating the peace treaty with Japan, signed in 1951. In April of 1952, he resigned as State Department advisor in order to be free to engage in politics. He was the principal author of the foreign policy platform adopted by the Republican Party at its Chicago convention in July of 1952. President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower named Dulles his Secretary of State.

Ten days after he was sworn into office, he left for Europe on the first of many trips abroad.

In his first five years in office, Secretary Dulles had flown 42,831 miles on official State Department business. He has been credited with the authorship of eign policy, according to which the "new look" in American foreign policy would prepare for massive retaliation against the source of Communist aggression rather than be ensnared in costly peripheral wars. At first this doctrine was severely criticized but now is considered very important in the face of any crisis that confronts the free world.

There are many legends about Mr. Dulles. One is that he ran the U. S. foreign policy single-handed. Another legend is that Mr. Dulles spent most of his time abroad. These legends are, as the writer sees them, just a matter of opinion.

Nothing was more impressive about John Foster Dulles than his fortitude in the face of his final illness. It has been written many times in the past few days that few men in public life have shown more courage than he in continuing his work in the presence of fatal disease and few have met the final challenge with more composure. He was a controversial figure throughout his public career, but his critics were as loud in his praise during the concluding months of his life as his friends and supporters. Stamina and courage won him the admiration of all. No greater tribute could be paid to a man who fought so hard for the cause of world peace and understanding among all nations.

Now with the Berlin crisis confronting the world, Mr. Dulles passes from the scene. There is reason to believe that had he lived and continued in office, he would have been a tower of strength in this emergency. His work in general remains to be assessed, but one thing is clear: He was a strong man who dominated the State Department as few secretaries have ever done, and he has left a lasting and affirmative mark on our foreign policy.

Racing Revenue Under Estimates

State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced today that State revenue from Maryland's mile race tracks was $110,088.40 less than what had been estimated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959.

Mr. Goldstein said that 128 days of horse racing at the mile tracks had produced $7,359,911.60, as compared to the State's estimate of $7,470,000.00.

Of the total collected, Mr. Goldstein said, the sum of $2,330,002.78 was allocated to the political subdivisions in accordance with the distribution formula set by law. This leaves a balance of $5,029,908.82 for the general fund, $12,091.18 less than the official estimate of $5,042,000.00.

The full racing schedule was maintained during the year and, in addition, nine of eleven days of racing which had been canceled because of inclement weather during the fiscal year 1958 were rescheduled. The remaining two days are being rescheduled in the fall of 1959.

A total of $128,636,970.00 was bet during the year.

Beginning with the 1959 winter-spring season, nine races were added to the daily racing schedule. The average daily bet for 84 days of racing during that season amounted to $1,011,469.00 as compared with the average of $274,171.00 for the 75 days of racing in the 1958 winter-spring season, in which there were only eight races daily.

The fiscal year data on revenue from the half-mile tracks and from the trotting and pacing tracks is not yet available, since these meets have not yet been concluded.
