The time has ripened for a showdown between town authorities and juveniles on the subject of loitering and a clarification is in the offing. At any rate numerous complaints have been registered pertinent to juveniles, in fact bands of them, loitering around the Square at all hours of the night. It is a well-known fact that many times disgusting language has been used as young girls pass and quite a number of times elderly citizens, both male and female, have had to elbow their way to the night-drop at the Post Office, about which are sometimes half a dozen or a dozen youths who defiantly refuse to give ground. Should the laws governing juvenile delinquency and the breaking of laws by these youths prove unsatisfactory, it is suggested, as has been done here before, to institute a curfew and to rigidly enforce such a measure. Authorities are doing all they can do under the present circumstances but it is apparent that more rigid measures are mandatory to dispense these marauding bands, many of whom have been tried several times before by our juvenile authorities, only to be returned to the custody of their parents.

The recently-organized Town Council should bring the town a smooth-working combination, I believe. Of the four members, two are experienced in town affairs and the remaining two, in my opinion, should make the complete combination a well-oiled machine. The average age of the group is 48, that is figuring on the Burgess and the three Commissioners. It has only been in the past decade that the younger element of the town has become interested in local government, and I must add that they haven't done a bad job of it either. Many new ideas and improvements have been adopted by the Council in the past decade, mainly the ideas of youth, I might say.

I feel a word of commendation in order for our local VFW organization. The post has gone all out and has spent a sizeable sum in order to renovate and improve generally, the recently-acquired Kump's Dam property. I think that in the near future the community will have something of which it can be justly proud. The stream has been dredged, dam repaired, weeds removed and new grass sowed and a large pavilion is in the state of construction. It is planned to erect fireplaces, dressing sheds, etc. in future months which will give the veterans, their wives and families and friends, a really picturesque and relaxing spot to spend hot summer months afternoons and evenings. Anglers will have their day also as fish have been stocked in the stream. The premises are under constant supervision and at night are closed to all. We feel that Dr. W. R. Cadle, the owner of the ground, has made a real contribution to his and our community by making the ground available to the local service organization and it is the moral obligation of those who are guests of the organization at activities held on the grounds, to deeply respect the privilege by abiding with the posted laws. It really is something the town has needed for two centuries, at least. It represents another milestone in the local VFW's march to make the community a better one. Congratulations, veterans, and many thanks.

Good news concerning the reduction in fire insurance rates was received this week by property-owners throughout the state. Many home-owners will enjoy as much as a 25% cut in the fire insurance premiums, effective upon renewal. It must be pointed out that this move was brought about largely by the effectiveness of our fire fighting companies who have improved their technique and equipment so much so in the past decade that it was apparent a reduction had to be forthcoming. At the present time our Vigilant Hose Company is conducting its annual financial drive and to date reports indicate that only about half of the form letters sent out asking for donations have been returned. The public is urged to send in their contributions.

Fire Insurance Premiums Are Reduced

A general revision in fire insurance rates, which will bring premium savings of more than $1,750,000 a year to policyholders in Maryland, was announced this week by F. Douglass Sears, State Insurance Commissioner. The new rates will become effective on new and renewal policies on June 1, 1959.

"I am pleased to announce this rate revision as proposed by the Maryland Fire Underwriters Rating Bureau on behalf of its affiliated companies," Mr. Sears said. "This is the first such general revision since 1953 and represents an average reduction of approximately 7% in fire insurance premiums."

"These reductions in fire insurance costs are based upon the favorable fire loss experience in the state covering the latest six-year period for which premium and loss figures are available," Mr. Sears explained.

"It is particularly significant," Mr. Sears stated, "that one of the largest decreases is on private dwellings, where rates have been reduced 25%. Rates on household furniture therein have been reduced 5%. Also, many home-owners will receive the benefit of an additional rate reduction, as to both buildings and contents, by the elimination of an extra charge previously applicable to homes with wood shingle roofs."

"Not only has the public become more conscious of the importance of fire prevention work, but the ever-increasing effectiveness of the fire departments thru out the state have been important factors in reducing the fire losses which in turn, have created the reductions in fire insurance rates throughout the state."

Other types of properties to receive rate reductions ranging from 15-30% include offices, hospitals, banks, churches, hotels, educational institutions, chemical works, sprinklered non-manufacturing and builder's risks. However, rate reductions will not be enjoyed by every class of risk. On some there will be no rate adjustment while increases will be applied to others. Rates on mercantile buildings have been increased 5% and on mercantile stocks, 20%. An increase of 10% has been applied to cotton and woolen mills, cloth products, furs and various other classes of manufacturing risks. A 30% increase will be applied to laundries and lumber yards.

Mr. Sears concluded his remarks by commenting that he "hoped property owners throughout the state would become ever more conscious of the importance of fire prevention which will not only result in the conservation of life and property, but should result in a reduction in the cost of insurance to property owners."

Grange Lists Summer Meetings

The Emmitsburg Grange met at the Emmitsburg High School on Wednesday with the main part of the program being the draping of the charter in memory of Charles R. Fuss. Mr. Fuss was a faithful member of this Grange for 13 years and will be missed in the coming years. This was the last meeting to be held at the high school until the first Wednesday in September. The summer meetings will be held at the following places: July 1 at Norman Shriver's cottage; July 15, at Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meadows; August 5, at Mr. and Mrs. Grier Keilholz; and August 19, at Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Keilholz. On July 1 at Norman Shriver's cottage, we will have a wiener roast. Each family will bring enough franks and rolls for their own family. All other foods will be provided by the Grange.

A special committee of Ann Hobbs, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Meadows and Mrs. George Martin was appointed by the Master to work on some activities for our members.

Treated At Hospital
Guy Favorite, 68, Emmitsburg, received treatment for several fractured ribs sustained when he fell while on a picnic.

RETIRING CHIEF
Robert L. Koontz, Police Chief of the Emmitsburg Police Dept., submitted his resignation effective June 1, after holding the position for two years. Mr. Koontz has announced his intention of entering the plumbing and heating business in Emmitsburg.

Prominent Washington Attorney Addresses 150 Mt. St. Mary's College Seniors

In his address to 150 graduates at the 151st commencement exercises of Mount St. Mary's College, J. Francis Reilly, prominent Washington, D. C., attorney, scored the modern generation's search for security as the standard of success.

Reilly said: "There is rather general agreement today that probably the worst obstacle which your generation has placed in its path is the increasing tendency to concentrate on personal security. This concentration is particularly unfortunate in light of the infinite challenges, opportunities and the new and great economic, industrial, social and moral frontiers which are opening all over the world for the brave, the intrepid, for those who have the heart, mind and will to conquer in order that all men everywhere will more effectively and justly know and serve one another."

"You must learn to recognize, accept and discharge responsibility. This will require the making of decisions, sometimes very hard and difficult ones; but make them you must, if you are to succeed. Be certain of your facts; test them against truth and morals, then make your decision sharply and clearly. You won't be right all the time, but you will be most of the time; and the indecisive person even when he is right, is too often too late."

"However this doesn't mean you should never change your mind, particularly when to do so would be sound, right, just and fair. The cemetery of failures has a long waiting list for graves for the stubborn, the inflexible. Be curious, inquisitive and a good listener. As the old adage says, 'you're not learning when you're talking.'"

Archbishop Keough Receives Special Citation At "Mount" Commencement

The Most Reverend Francis P. Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, was the recipient of a special citation from Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, at the 151st Commencement Exercises held on Wednesday morning.

The citation marked both the silver jubilee of Archbishop Keough's episcopacy and his inspiring leadership. The complete text follows: "The President, Council and Faculty of Mount St. Mary's College and Seminary extend cordial and sincere congratulations to Your Excellency, the Most Reverend Francis Patrick Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, on the occasion of your Episcopal Silver Jubilee and prayerfully hope that this Archdiocese, as well as this College, may continue to be blessed with your kindly guiding hand and heart for many years to come."

"The rich fruitage of your twenty-five years in the episcopacy reminds us of the beautiful scriptural simile: 'Like golden apples on beds of silver.' Priests and people alike in this archdiocese, as well as those in other dioceses where you have labored, are mindful of your tireless work and your great capacity for leadership."

It is a coveted honor, Your Excellency, to be privileged to wish you in the name of the Faculty of the College and Seminary and all alumni Mountaineers a most heartfelt 'ad multos annos.' May God grant you a long and happy life among your devoted subjects here in the State of Maryland.

Traditionally the Archbishop of Baltimore presides at the commencement of Mount St. Mary's of which he is ex officio president of the Council. Archbishop Keough has never failed to appear at the graduation.

Paul Shockey, 37, Emmitsburg, was treated at the Warner Hospital, Gettysburg, this week for a laceration of the forehead sustained from a knife.

The speaker laid down a set of principles for the graduates urging integrity of desire, purpose and action, loyalty and perseverance. "Above all," he related, "if you aspire for success you must persevere freely and often to achieve it. There is no substitute for industry and hard work. For almost 30 years I have been exposed to, associated with and opposed to many so called 'geniuses,' and I have been inspired, sometimes almost mesmerized, by their flashes of intellectual alertness and brilliance, but more often I have been disheartened by their constant erratic behavior and intellectual stability. In any event, I am generally not unhappy when the other side has the 'geniuses' and I have the workers."

During the graduation a special citation was presented the Most Reverend Francis Keough, Archbishop of Baltimore, the presiding prelate, on the occasion of the silver jubilee of his elevation to the episcopacy. The citation lauded the archbishop for his tireless energy and great capacity for leadership.

Honorary LL.D. degrees were awarded Reilly, John V. Morgan, New York businessman; Thomas L. Golibart, Detroit industrialist; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis A. Costello, Wilkes-Barre churchman, and Rev. Thomas Barrett, Schenectady, N. Y., clergyman.

Following the graduation Archbishop Keough led the academic procession to Pangborn Hall, the senior residence building, for the formal blessing of the new Thomas W. Pangborn Memorial Room.

The commencement proceedings closed with a buffet for graduates and guests and the annual meeting of the National Alumni Association.

To you may be applied the words of St. Paul: 'But I will most gladly spend and be spent myself for your souls.'

"We at Mount Saint Mary's College and Seminary have also been the beneficiaries of your rich deep and lasting influence. You have been father and friend to us in all our problems and difficulties. We cannot render worthy thanks."

"May the years be many wherein you may labor with your unselfish, charitable and priestly might until even the silver, beautiful as it is, may be all gold, emblematic of the glorious crown for which we all so earnestly strive."

Traditionally the Archbishop of Baltimore presides at the commencement of Mount St. Mary's of which he is ex officio president of the Council. Archbishop Keough has never failed to appear at the graduation.

Twenty charges of violations of the state gaming laws, largely by pinball machine payoffs, have been set for trial in Frederick criminal court on June 24 at 10 a. m.

Among the defendants are Delbert Piper, Guy Gebhart and Barbara O. James, all of Emmitsburg.

LITTLE LEAGUE FACING DEFICIT

Announcement has been made of the completion of a water line from the telephone exchange building near Community Field to the local Little League Field, at a cost of only $396.00.

The project was begun last fall and was completed early this spring, with the help of generous local citizens and donors.

Little League officials take this opportunity to thank the following individuals for their donations of labor and material: Edward Lingg, Clarence Hahn and Samuel Hays and the Emmitsburg Water Co. for plumbing material and labor donations; and Thomas Gad, stone contribution.

The following local organizations made financial contributions: American Legion, VFW and Lions Club.

Officials wish to point out that while the contributions were greatly appreciated, they were not sufficient to cover the entire cost of the project and a deficit of $145 remains to be paid. The community and interested individuals wishing to make a contribution to help erase the remaining indebtedness are asked to mail such contributions to Dr. John J. Dillon Jr., Little League Treasurer, Emmitsburg, Md.

Church Group Holds Meeting

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of Toms Creek Methodist Church met on Monday evening at the church. Vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth Fuss called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Carrie Keilholz was in charge of the program which opened with a duet by Mrs. Pauline Watkins and Mrs. Anna Grimes, singing, Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us. Mrs. Keilholz read from the Methodist Woman, a pledge service, with members responding in unison.

Mrs. Johnson spoke on a lady being supported by WSCS and work they are doing in the world. Our pledge was doubled to same.

Miss Martha Baumgardner, the church organist, favored us with several piano selections, after which she was surprised with a gift of luggage from the Society. Several ladies from the WSCS of the Thurmont Charge are expected to attend the School of Missions at Westminster in July.

A food sale is being planned for June 27th. A portion of the 17th chapter of St. Luke was read by Mrs. Johnson, and the closing prayer was given. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Anna Grimes and Mrs. Edith Ohler to the fifteen members present and to the men of the Official Board.

ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sanders, 320 West Middle St., Gettysburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Roberta Sanders, to Sp-4 John William Springer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Springer, R2, Emmitsburg. Miss Sanders is a 1959 graduate of Gettysburg High School. Her fiancée, a 1956 graduate of Emmitsburg High School, is at present stationed at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Local School Children Are Contest Winners

The top Maryland prize winner in the AAA's 15th National Traffic Safety Poster Contest is Michael Orndorff, age 10, grade five, Mother Seton School, Emmitsburg, Frank G. Leberz, Frederick Branch Manager of the Automobile Club of Maryland, announced Monday.

The local artist placed second in the Elementary School division for his poster depicting the safety rule "Play Away From Traffic." A check in the amount of $10 and a certificate will be presented to young Orndorff by the manager of the Frederick office.

Local honorable mention winners were Roland Hubbard, 10, grade 5; Ronald Cool, age 12, grade 5; Thomas Remavege, 7, grade 2; Cecelia Cool, William Wivell, Stephen Lingg, Mary Ann Kringle, Ronald Elliot, Judy Seidel, Martha Byard, Mary O'Brien and Terry Parkhurst, all of Mother Seton School.

Buys House

The former Roy Smith house located on the Waynesboro Road, was purchased at an assignee's sale Wednesday morning by Richard Cullison. Purchase price was reported as $5500.

Fern R. Ohler New Town Commissioner

The Burgess and Commissioners of Emmitsburg completed a busy evening Monday at their regular meeting held in the town office. Appointments of town personnel were made and a new Commissioner was appointed during the meeting.

The Town Fathers selected as the new Commissioner, Fern R. Ohler, World War II veteran and commander of the local VFW Post, to fill the unexpired term of the late Charles R. Fuss. The term continues for one year. J. Allen Bouey, senior member of the Board of Commissioners, was elected chairman of the board and presided over the meeting.

Mayor Clarence G. Frailey named the following appointments: Wilmer E. Law, police chief; Charles D. Gillelan, tax collector and Miss Louise Sebald, clerk and secretary. All appointments were approved unanimously by the board. Chief Law replaces Robert L. Koontz who recently resigned. Parking meter revenue for May was reported as $152.63. Peddlers' permits during the month totaled $145.09. Tax Collector Charles Gillelan filed his monthly report and announced that $405.09 in taxes had been collected during May. A balance of $60,000 was reported in the sewer account, by the treasurer.

A lengthy discussion concerning juvenile delinquency, vandalism and loitering took place during the meeting and Commissioner J. Norman Flax was appointed to investigate the situation and to converse with Judge Patrick Schnauffer in Frederick, relative to disturbance of the peace and loitering being done by a considerable number of juveniles in Emmitsburg. A number of complaints has come to Council pertinent to loitering on the Square by the youths. A thank-you note from Mrs. Thomas J. Frailey was read. The policeman's annual salary was set at $3380. Robert Seidel, local accountant, was appointed to handle the annual fiscal report of the Corporation of Emmitsburg. A donation of $25 was authorized for the Emmitsburg Baseball Assn. The present injunction which has stymied the construction of a new street to the Mother Seton School for the time being, was discussed and the matter is resting with the town's attorney, Robert Clapp, Frederick.

Mayor Clarence G. Frailey issued a strong warning that the burning of raw garbage within the corporate limits of the town will not be tolerated and any future infractions of this ordinance will be punishable by a fine. It was pointed out that it is permissible to burn paper, etc., but absolutely no raw garbage.

Government Takes Over Quantity Of Surplus Wheat

More than 350 million bushels of 1958-crop wheat had been taken over by the Department of Agriculture as of the end of April in settlement of price - support loans and purchase agreements, according to a report received at the Maryland ASC office: The settlement period was still in progress at the end of April and later reports are expected to show additional takeovers.

A record quantity of 609 million bushels was placed under support from the 1958 wheat crop. A total of 68 million bushels had been redeemed through April by repayment of the loans, and more

Light Dessert Favored In Summer

Summer's the season for the light touch in desserts. And Pineapple-Mint Chiffon, the lovely dessert pictured here, is just as delicately light, refreshingly sweet and cool as it sounds.

Perfect for weight-watchers, this warm-weather dessert also boasts of being low, low in calories. By making use of the calorie-free sweetener, Sucaryl, rather than sugar, 64 unnecessary calories have been whittled away from every serving. You can't tell from looking, and you can't tell from tasting... try for yourself!

Pineapple-Mint Chiffon (A Delicious Low-Calorie Dessert)
2 cans (8 1/2 ounces) dietetic pineapple tidbits
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 tablespoon Sucaryl solution
3 drops green food coloring
1 drop spearmint flavoring
3 tablespoons frozen pineapple juice concentrate

Drain pineapple; chop fine. Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over boiling water. Combine egg whites, salt, cream of tartar, Sucaryl, and coloring in a small mixer bowl. Beat on high speed of mixer about 3 minutes. Add dissolved gelatin, spearmint flavoring and pineapple juice concentrate; beat about 1 minute longer. Fold in the drained, chopped pineapple. Pipe high in sherbets. Chill.

Makes 6 servings. Each serving contains 91 Calories; 2 grams protein; trace of fat; 20 grams carbohydrate. If made with sugar, each serving would contain 155 Calories.

THE QUEST FOR RESTFUL NIGHTS

Some 17 million Americans suffer from hay fever, asthma and other allergies. Their nights are nightmares; a fight for breath—some even fry to sleep sitting up! Next day, efficiency is down; suffering continues.

Researchers—after years of study and development—perfected a device that electronically purifies, filters and refreshes air. Called PURITRON, it's no larger nor costly than a small table radio.

Now our afflicted millions enjoy a means of escape; can spend comfortable nights in restful slumber even though the air outside is filled with pollen and dust. And their efficiency is at a peak the following day.

Home Hunting Tip: Look For Medallion

Many families learn from living in their first home what makes a good home tick. "Next time" they buy, the home will have less picture window—or else more view; fewer steps, more storage space, or less of this and more of that, they say.

only after the home has been thoroughly inspected by utility officials.

Medallion standards by which the electrical system of a home is judged generally call for an electrical service of no less than 100 amperes—to give a home sufficient power for all a family's existing electrical appliances to run at peak efficiency, and power to spare for any future appliances they may wish to add.

Lighting in the home must equal "light for living" standards of the American Home Lighting Institute. This means plenty of built-in fixtures and lighting outlets, indoors and out—for safety, good vision, and decorative enhancement.

Electrical outlets in Medallion Homes must be numerous and convenient for small appliances, electric shavers, radio, television and the rest. Finally, a Medallion Home comes equipped with an electric range and at least two more electric labor-savers.

This spring, as new homes blossom on the countryside like crocuses, thousands of young couples will eagerly be looking for their first home—perhaps the one and only home they ever hope to buy.

The Medallion—or the quality it stands for—is a worthwhile guide to lasting satisfaction in a home from the electrical living standpoint.

than 12 million bushels of farm-stored 1958 wheat had been resealed for an additional storage period.

Current takeover of wheat by the Commodity Credit Corporation brought CCC's inventory of wheat as of May 8 to slightly more than 1 billion bushels—approximately equal to a normal year's crop.

In Maryland, a total of 340,000 bushels of 1958-crop wheat was placed under price support. As of April 30, 338,000 bushels had been delivered to CCC, and 2,000 bushels were redeemed.

Green Parrot Recognized

The Green Parrot Tea Shop, will receive recognition by being listed in the first edition of the newest Duncan Hines travel book, "Guide to the Middle Atlantic States," which will be published by the Duncan Hines Institute, Ithaca, N. Y., and will be in distribution June 1.

It is the only establishment in the Emmitsburg area included in the 2,000 eating, lodging and vacation places "Recommended by Duncan Hines" in the Middle Atlantic States.

Roy H. Park, head of the Duncan Hines Institute, said, "We are happy to give recognition to this establishment by including it in a selected group. This establishment is one of three in a hundred, for our listings represent only three per cent of the total in America."

Park announced that this establishment will also be listed in forthcoming editions of the Duncan Hines international travel books, "Adventure in Good Eating," "Lodging for a Night," and "Vacation Guide" which list more than 9,000 outstanding North American restaurants, hotels, motels and resorts.

Garden Club Meets

On May 21st, Mrs. A. A. Koswick of Gettysburg, was hostess to the Silver Fancy Garden Club. After a short business meeting, Mrs. Koswick introduced Mrs. H. David Pitzer, president of the Biglerville Garden Club, and Mrs. J. H. Donhart, vice-president, as speakers of the afternoon.

Mrs. Pitzer demonstrated how to utilize simple things found in every home as containers for simple arrangements.

Mrs. Donhart showed modern arrangements, also more formal ones following the Chinese influence.

After this interesting and informative talk, refreshments were served by Mrs. E. L. Annan and Mrs. Hewitt MacPherson. The next meeting will be announced.

HAVE WE THE STRENGTH?

Sabine Andrea Hofer, the author of the following, has just graduated as class valedictorian from the Banke, Oregon, high school. This was her valedictory address.

As we emerge from our comfortable cradle of adolescence we are facing something that no generation has ever faced before. It has crept upon you, our parents, so slowly that you have been able to build up a protective barrier around yourselves. Are you hiding behind your wall of comfortable traditions and American ideals, or will you tear down that wall of complacency and use our American ideals, of which we are so proud, as a weapon against our enemies?

You have given us love, understanding and guidance. You have also given us the most wonderful country in the world in the most enlightened age since life came on earth. For this we humbly thank you. But you have also given us something that is hard to face: the fact that we are living under a shadow of danger. Our soft rug may be jerked out from under us at any moment. We may fall so hard that the earth can never recover from the shock. We may witness the most terrible and total destruction that the world has even seen.

Yes, you have given us all of this and more; but have you given us the strength to face the world you have given us? Can we survive a battle for our way of life that will make the two world wars seem like a tea party? Are we mentally strong enough to face this war of nerves? When the chips are down can we work together toward a common goal despite personal selfishness and prejudice? Do we have a sense of values and do we know what we are fighting for? Do we dare think!

Throughout history the forces of good and evil have been in constant turmoil. Now these battles seem like minor skirmishes. Today two powerful monsters have gathered their forces for the purpose of destruction. They are separated only by a narrow strip of water as they pace restlessly back and forth, snarling insults at each other. We, the newest generation, may be criticized for having too much handed to us on a silver platter. We are able to have many material things which our parents could never hope to have had at our ages. Perhaps we are living in an age of luxury. But beneath our soft seat of luxury lies a horrible time bomb that quietly ticks off the minutes and seconds—the seconds until the moment when we become complacent or lax. When that time comes, life as we know it, will end.

No. The world you have given us upon your silver platter is far from a life of ease. Do you dare to think? You have given us the destiny of the world on your silver platter; and we do dare to think: we are not the "beat generation"—we have just begun to fight. With God's help we accept the challenge!

OVER THE GARDEN WALLS

The man with the hoe! There's no substitute for him. Especially around the garden this time of year.

Of course there are cultivators, both hand and power-operated. But there's no substitute for a hoe and hand-weeding. Nice thing about hoeing—the hoe handle seems to be made for leaning on, while we look over the garden and see how closely the vegetables resemble those tempting seed packet pictures!

If your peas are pale, why not try sidestripping with a fertilizer that's heavy on nitrogen? You will get more and bigger peas.

Control Insects And Diseases
You've probably begun to notice signs of insect damage in your garden—that is unless you've wisely been following a regular pest control schedule of spraying or dusting.

Hardly a plant is immune. And if you're confused by the many insecticides and fungicides—which to use when, on what plants to control which pests—don't worry. You've got lots of company!

Your safest bet is to ask your county agent for copies of University of Maryland Extension Service Bulletin 125, "Sprays for Home Fruit Plantings," Bulletin 168, "Control Insects of Ornamental Trees and Shrubs," Fact Sheet 73, "Diseases and Insects of Roses and their Control," as well as USDA Home and Garden Bulletin 46, "Insects and Diseases of Vegetables in the Home Garden."

You'll find these will give you a pretty complete guide to your pest control problems. These publications are full of information that will help you produce the cleanest garden ever—if you follow their advice!

Read The Label
When using chemical insecticides, fungicides, or weed killers, here's a piece of advice you can't go wrong with: read the label and follow directions. Be careful and be safe, because some of these chemicals are highly toxic.

It'll be a good idea to keep pesticides out of reach of children. Take care to preserve the label 'til the contents are all used up. The label identifies the product, tells how to use it, and if it's poisonous, it will give the antidote.

Thin For Better Fruit
Plants are prolific. They have to be, to survive insects, diseases and all their other natural enemies. But in the home garden, or modern farm, the grower tries to protect the plants. He cultivates, fertilizes, sprays, and thins in addition to planting.

Fruit trees, vegetables and flowers often need to be thinned. That is, you need to remove some of the plants to get best results. Too many small apples and peaches aren't as good as the right amount of big ones. The same with flowers or vegetables.

First, let's think about thinning vegetables and annual flowers. It stands to reason that they must be properly spaced, for best yield and effect. The best time to thin is when the plants are young. Then you can remove them without disturbing the others. In some instances, you might even transplant some of the young plants removed.

Now, let's consider thinning fruit. Commercial apple growers use a hormone spray. But such sprays aren't practical for home gardeners. This leaves you with your choice of picking off overcrowded fruit by hand, or battling them off with a short length of rubber hose.

Provide Proper Balance
The main thing is to leave the number of plants or fruits that will be able to flourish, and develop into the kind of produce the seed and nursery catalogs show. Most vegetables and annual flowers have thinning directions on the seed packet. With fruit, it's a matter of providing the proper balance of fruit to leaves, since the leaves manufacture the nutrients needed for fruit production. On apple trees, you'll need about 50 leaves to grow an apple—on peaches, 30 leaves.

A little thought and practice will help guide you. And don't worry. You're not ruining your crop—you're helping to make it better. If you're in doubt, try it on a small scale this year, and see the results yourself. Next year, you'll probably want to thin your entire crop.

Rickshas, commonly considered an oriental invention, were actually designed by a U. S. Marine who visited Japan with Commodore Perry in 1854.

Charcoal Makes the Modern Chef

For ancient Romans, a banquet wasn't really good unless it lasted several days. Feasting was a formal ritual and dozens of courses were offered. Because the object was to hide natural food tastes with spices, a man had to study many years to qualify as a chef.

Moderns favor informal fun gatherings in the backyard, where the savory aromas of barbecued meats blend with the laughter of friends in a carefree atmosphere. Little wonder cook-outs are a national institution!

Because present-day palates favor the natural taste of food, anyone can qualify as an expert outdoor chef—by using a charcoal fire. Building the "right" fire is no problem with easy-to-light charcoal packed in convenient to handle paper bags—and exciting meals are assured!

HELP STRENGTHEN AMERICA'S PEACE POWER

When you're four, protection is as simple as holding Father's hand. But parents know it involves a lot more than that—like keeping the world a peaceful place.

But peace isn't kept by just wanting it. Peace costs money. Money for strength to keep the peace. Money for science and education to help make peace lasting. And money saved by individuals to keep our economy strong.

U. S. Savings Bonds help provide this money. So every Bond you buy helps strengthen America's Peace Power.

The chart below shows how your Bonds earn money for you. But the most important thing they earn is peace. Are you buying as many as you might?

From The Steelworkers

Several independent news gathering organizations made surveys of the sentiments of steelworkers before the negotiations for new contracts began, and some of them were surprised at what they found. Most of the workers interviewed said they did not want their union to strike and most of them said they did not want a hourly pay raise. Worker after worker told the newsmen they saw little point in pressuring for pay raises because "you don't even have it in your hand before prices go up."

This observation by the steelworkers indicates that the destructive power of inflation is being recognized by more and more American citizens. In the heart of the steel producing area of the Midwest, the Chicago Daily News sent its reporters out to talk to the steelworkers and, in many cases, their wives. The newspaper published the results showing that the steelworkers don't want a strike; they fear inflation and don't want a pay raise at the expense of other benefits.

Workers Satisfied

Samuel Lubell, professional pollster, whose articles appear in the Saturday Evening Post and Scripps-Howard newspapers, went into other steel producing areas, talked to the workers and then reported that substantial numbers of them are "satisfied with current working conditions." But probably the most thorough - going sampling of steelworker attitudes was obtained by staff reporters of the magazine U. S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT. They talked to steelworkers and their wives in Gary, Indiana; Fairless Hills, Pennsylvania; Pittsburgh; East Chicago; Hammond, Indiana; Sparrows Point, Maryland; and Fontana, California.

The magazine in a feature article concluded that the rank and file of steelworkers want steady work, and not a strike; bigger pensions, not bigger pay checks; peace with their employers, not more strife. But the magazine said, most of the workers would obey a strike call if their union leaders issued one.

Afraid Of Inflation

A member of the interviewing team of reporters, who talked to workers of Bethlehem Steel, said: "Biggest surprise to me was that only one worker interviewed said he would like a raise, and he did so sheepishly. Most came out strongly against a raise in cash form on the ground that it would be taken away by taxes and by the 'stores' (inflation), as they put it. Another big surprise was that, of those interviewed, not one had anything to say against the company. Nobody appeared to be sore at management."

Here are excerpts of steelworker interviews quoted in the U. S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT.

"I don't want a wage increase. I'm satisfied to keep working the way we are. We don't have to have high prices and high wages to have high living standards. It's a vicious circle of higher wages and higher prices—I guess coal and steel started it."

"I'd settle for present wages if prices would just stay still. I'd like everything to go back to 1953. I had more spending power per day than I've had since."

Raise Brings Loss

"If you get $2 or $3 a week in pay increases, after they boost your income taxes and prices go up in the stores you lose 50 cents a week. That's right. You start with a pay raise and end with a pay cut of 50 cents a week." From a steelworker's wife: "If my husband gets a raise, everything else would go up in price. If he gets a longer vacation, he will benefit and won't hurt his neighbor too much who doesn't work for a steel company."

And here is a wise observation by a steelworker: "Aluminum can compete with us on price now. If we push steel prices up again, through a pay raise, then we'll lose more business to aluminum."

Some of the steelworkers noted too that foreign-made steel and steel products now are being sold at prices under the American-made products—and this is endangering jobs of many American workers in many different industries.

The attitude revealed in these interviews are heartening. More and more American workers are becoming aware that production is the only source of wealth, that greater production per manhour is the primary requirement for rising living standards, and that every citizen has a stake in the problems of American industry and industrial management. Labor leaders need to take note.

Municipal League To Convene At Ocean City

Addresses by Maryland Governor J. Millard Tawes and United States Senator John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts will highlight the 11th Annual Conference of the Maryland Municipal League in Ocean City on June 15 and 16, League President B. Herman Adkins, Mayor of Snow Hill, announced this week.

Tawes and Kennedy will share the spotlight when they deliver luncheon speeches to the municipal officials and their guests on Tuesday, June 16 at the Atlantic Hotel.

About 300 mayors, councilmen and other municipal officials from all parts of the state are expected to attend the two-day conference and hear talks by Tawes and Kennedy and other experts in the field of municipal affairs.

High on the list of problems with which the delegates will come to grips are urban renewal, attracting industry to Maryland towns, and putting into operation the new League-sponsored Municipal Technical Advisory Service (MTAS).

Recently-elected Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady will also be on hand to greet the delegates and get things under way at the first session on June 15.

Among the other program headlines are State Senator Edward S. Northrop, State Senator Frederick C. Malkus, and Delegate Edgar Silver who will discuss legislation of special interest to Md. towns and cities passed in the recent session of the Legislature.

Other speakers include Mr. J. L. Stanton, Executive Director of the Port Authority who will speak on "What Industry Wants From Local Government," and Mr. Milton B. Millon, the recently named Director of MTAS.

In addition Mr. John Shriver, Director of the State Fiscal Research Bureau and Mr. Clayton Carter, Chairman of the Commission to Study City-County Fiscal Relations will discuss the problem of city-county fiscal relations.

The Maryland Municipal League, a non-partisan, non-profit organization devoted to better local government, was organized in 1948 and has 135 member towns from all parts of the State.

Social Security Benefits Listed

Many persons may be losing benefit payments due to a misunderstanding of the retirement provisions of the Social Security law, W. S. King, manager of the local Social Security Office said today.

While Social Security is a retirement system, King listed the following three occasions when payments may be made even though an individual has not retired:

- (1) At age 72, regardless of the amount of earnings.
- (2) Any month between age 65, (62 for women workers) and age 72 during which a person's wages are $100 or less.
- (3) Any calendar year after age 65 (62 for women workers) during which a person's earnings are less than $2080. At least one and possibly more than one month benefit may be paid.

Since payments can never go back more than 12 months, it is important for an individual to contact the Social Security office at once when any of the three occasions arise. King cited one recent case of a $4,000 benefit loss, by a 76-year-old worker who had neglected to file application at age 72.

U. S. Marines have made some 300 landings in both war and peace and planted the American flag in both hemispheres and on all continents.

Sterling Advice For Bride To Be

STERLING SILVER SHOWER ranks with kitchen shower as most popular party for brides-to-be. It's the gift that can be used 40,000 times.

Keep notebook on presents. Write thank you notes before wedding if possible.

NEW FASHION dramatizes display of wedding gifts: make table setting for two; other gifts on second table. Room with two doors eases traffic congestion.

Modernizing Pays Off

Ideal for Remodeling
Walls of Windows Cost Less

Model remodeling: a family room to delight any family.

Walls of big windows are the key to year-around enjoyment of this handsome family room added to the rear of a home in Minneapolis.

As the "before" photo (inset, upper left) shows, the new room was built in a corner provided by the rear of the house and the garage. The three-sided sweep of windows of ponderosa pine gives the room good looks, inside and out, and permits full enjoyment of lawn and garden while dining, entertaining, or just relaxing.

Floodlights under the eaves are designed to be left on at night to show off the garden area and do away with the "black mirror" effect of large glass areas after dark.

The home owner saved money by using walls of windows. He followed an architect's axiom that large groups of windows cost less to build than wall areas with many small window opening.

Hone Handy Helper For Insulation Cuts

A knife sharpener kept handy will speed and ease the job of installing batts and blankets of mineral wool insulation. Cutting through this insulation will dull any blade quickly, since mineral wool is made of rock or flint-hard silicas heated to liquid form and transformed into millions of fibers.

Lawn Seed, Fertilizer Now Come in Strips

A new way to seed lawns is with a 24-inch-wide strip of fabric that has grass seed, lime, and fertilizer "built in."

Ideal for slopes and narrow areas, the strip is simply laid atop soil. Heavy rains can't wash the seed or fertilizer away, and the fabric backing disintegrates after the seed sprouts.

Boosts Value While Adding To Livability

One of the best investments a home owner can make today is in remodeling and home improvement, according to most economists.

The principal reason for this is that carefully planned remodeling and improvements actually add cash value to the house—frequently more value dollar for dollar than the total cost of the improvement.

Here are some other important reasons why improving a home is a good investment for any family.

1. Any home improvement, whether it is a major structural change or a minor addition, invariably increases family comfort, welfare, and security. As an example, insulating a house with mineral wool not only improves comfort but helps family health by eliminating drafts and providing more uniform temperatures inside. Family economics also are improved, since thick insulation sharply reduces winter fuel bills.
2. Family prestige can get a big boost in the community through an exterior improvement to a home. This is because such improvements as reroofing with asphalt shingles in a color that complements the house, painting, or landscaping can give an entire neighborhood a lift.
3. A do-it-yourself project, such as enclosing a porch with combination doors of ponderosa pine adds both value and comfort to a house. These doors, used as walls around all exterior sides of the porch, provide a sun porch in winter and breezy screened porch in summer. The fact that the home handyman can do the work himself saves labor costs and means that the new addition adds far more in value to the house than the total cash expended for materials.

THE WORLD'S MOST WIDELY USED DEVOTIONAL GUIDE

Read John 12:20-36.
Walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth. While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light. (John 12:35-36.)
If ever the world needed a gripping Christianity, it is today. Atheism, sweeping across Asia, forcing Christianity under. Unless we are prepared to meet it with ideas born of Christ, rather than primarily with armament and nuclear weapons, disaster lies ahead.
When Christ came to earth to save humanity, He did not choose Rome, the center of the world-ruling Empire. He sought no office. He wrote no books. The mighty did not accept Him.

But to the little circle of His friends, He became a flaming fire. He gave them new conceptions of selfless service to others, of the depths of divine love, of the power of God in daily life.
In this time of profound world need, God is calling upon us, as He did upon Christ's disciples of old. He calls us to spread the flame of Christianity among those close to us and set the world on fire with the gospel and spirit of Jesus Christ.

Prayer
O God, give us courage, understanding, and love like unto Christ's. May He shine out thru our lives so that we may win for Thee all those whom we touch. In His holy name we pray. Amen.
Thought For The Day
In the face of the world's need, our need is to live for Christ.

Elderly People Should Be Fall Conscious

Falls Get Harder With Time
Maybe this column should be titled "Falls get easier with time." Taking a fall can hurt anybody of any age, and the suggestions below apply to everyone of us. But especially older people. Somehow Grandma finds it difficult to accept the fact that she can't move as quickly as she used to, can't see hazards as well, and does not lift her feet—to avoid tripping—as readily.
For older people, falling is much easier and they land harder. If someone elderly suffers a fall in your home—and in one town recently 4 out of 10 of the older people had taken a tumble—the results are often serious. Sometimes it means a wheelchair existence from then on.
But most important, it's so unnecessary. With a little care, foresight, and training, most falls by elder people (and anyone else) can be avoided.
Stairways are the big hazards, of course. To combat them, Grandma should follow three rules: Take your time. Put both feet on each step. Use a grab-rail.
Good lighting is often neglected around stairways, especially back porches. Older people don't see as clearly as they once did, so the top and bottom steps should be spotlighted for them.
Bedrooms, believe it or not, are dangerous for older people. They may get out of bed too quickly, get dizzy, and tumble. Or rugs, lamp cords, shoes on floor, and other objects may be a hazard. Getting up at night without a light is perilous; older people should have a bedside flashlight for use outside the bedroom in addition to a night light in the

Soldier In Alaska
Army PFC Jewell D. Burdette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. Burdette, Rocky Ridge, Md., is a member of a ski patrol which recently trekked more than 80 miles over a snow-hidden trail while serving with the 9th Infantry at Eielson Air Force Base, Alaska.
The patrol, during which each member carried 50 pounds of rations and supplies, was designed to train the men in patrol duty which would be essential under combat conditions.
Burdette, a medical aidman in the infantry's Headquarters Company, entered the Army in June 1957, received basic training at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and arrived in Alaska the following December.
The 24-year-old soldier is a 1953 graduate of Thurmont High School.

OUR STATE UNIVERSITY

Four new scholarships are available to freshman entering the University of Maryland College of Agriculture in September 1959.
The scholarships will cover a period of four years and will provide for the payment of all college expenses during the first year including fixed charges, fees, room and board. For the second year, they will provide for approximately 80 per cent of the costs.
In order to qualify for these scholarships, an applicant must have acquired a "B" average in the major subjects in the last two years of high school, be a resident of the State of Maryland, show evidence of financial need and plan to study dairying.
In making the announcement, Dr. Paul Poffenberger, chairman of the university's committee on scholarships and grants-in-aid, said the donor of the scholarships wished to remain anonymous.
Qualified and deserving students should write to the scholarship and grants-in-aid committee at College Park for an application form.

BACKYARD BARBECUE TIPS

It's barbecue time again! Time for Dad to don his chef's hat and apron, and demonstrate his culinary prowess with a charcoal grill. Have fun, but play it safe. Trim meat of excess fat; else drippings will cause flare-ups—and keep guests up-wind from grill so they won't be bothered by smoke and heat.

Planning an evening affair? Provide atmosphere with a little mood music. Have guests bring their favorite "old-time" recordings. Offer prizes for the most nostalgic music.

And for a truly succulent dish, try Danish Spit-broiled spareribs basted with a Cherry Kijafa Barbecue Sauce. You'll find the wine's unusual blend of tart and sweet gives the spareribs a delicious, subtly different, flavor.

To prepare, cut slits in ribs and weave on spit, inserting cooked pitted prunes (tender, not soft) between ribs. Spit broil as directed, basting every 15 minutes with mixture of 1/2 cup Kijafa wine, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard and 1 teaspoon salt. Allow 1/2 to 1 hour per pound.
Kijafa wine also makes a wonderful summer cooler—chilled by itself; on the rocks; mixed with your choice of gin-rum or vodka and the juice of half a lime; or as a tall drink with soda and a dash of lemon juice.

BABSON

Writes . . .

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Discusses Ten Commandments For Small Investors

BABSON PARK, Mass., June 4—A small investor should first buy a little stock in the best bank in his community. Not only is this a safe investment, but it gives him prestige and a source of advice on financial matters. After buying the stock, he should get personally acquainted with the chief executive officer, who may be the President, Vice President or Cashier.

(1) Life Insurance And A Home
Theoretically, if we are entering into an age of inflation and you are likely to live twenty years or so, life insurance should not be a good investment. You had better put the money into a small home with an adjoining vacant lot. However, you may not live twenty years, or even five years, in which case a life insurance policy would be your very best investment.

(2) Buy Well-Diversified Common Stocks
These should be listed on the

New York Stock Exchange and approved by your banker friend or by a seasoned investment counselor. They should be common stocks of companies without large bond issues or cumulative preferred issues.

(3) Watch Labor Relations
The greatest clouds on the investment horizon today are creeping Socialism in Government and unreasonable Labor Leaders. Perhaps the safest rule is to buy the stocks of companies which have just been through long and difficult strikes, with a final settlement satisfactory to all. These companies should be free from major strikes for a considerable time.

(4) Buy For Cash
Put the certificates in a safe deposit box in the bank of which you have bought stock. If you have all your stock certificates paid for, and will hold them, you cannot be wiped out when the next panic and depression comes; good stocks always "come back." But those who buy on borrowed money or on margin usually suffer total loss.

(5) Importance Of Patience
For every stock buyer there must be a seller, irrespective of the price. Stocks go up when more people are impatient to sell. Buy your stocks when other people are frightened and anxious to sell. Fortunes are made by bucking—not by following—the crowd, which is usually wrong.

(6) Importance Of Facts
Depend upon what the published manuals report, rather than upon tips by brokers or friends. You can always consult the manuals on file in the Trust Department of your friendly bank, free of charge. The Trust Officer will gladly help you interpret these printed reports.

(7) Investing For Income And Growth
The small investor should buy for Income and Growth rather than for speculation. I believe that the stocks of Public Utilities offer the best such opportunities. Later on, you can learn to buy for profit.

(8) Consider Companies Owning Land And Natural Resources
The Government can print unlimited amounts of bonds and money; corporations can print more stock certificates and build more plants; but, only God can make more land, oil, gas, and minerals.

(9) Importance Of Character
The value of stocks depends very largely upon the managements. This is something you must talk over with your banker. The manuals, card files, and other publications of the Trust Officer do not disclose the character of the managements. Managements are apt to be the best in companies producing useful products rather than in the liquor business, for instance, or even in companies dependent upon fashion and other intangibles.

(10) Importance Of Correct Timing
Stock prices have always moved in cycles of several years' duration. Each cycle consists of four periods:—Prosperity, Decline, Depression, and Improvement. Your banker will tell you it is unwise to buy for profit in a period of prosperity, as at present, or even in a decline. Wait for a depression when your friends are all bearish and the future looks dark. Such a time will come again, too.

Weather Here Is Conducive To Leptospirosis

Wet and warm weather, like that in Maryland for the past several weeks, creates an ideal breeding ground for the spread of Leptospirosis, the nation's third most costly livestock disease.

The tiny organism that spreads the disease enjoys life in moist ground or in ponds or streams, according to the Maryland State Veterinary Medical Association. Livestock, the veterinarians said, may get the disease by drinking infected water, breathing infected air, coming in direct contact with carriers and by eating contaminated feed.

Streams draining from infected premises may carry the germs for several miles and be a source of infection.

Lepto, as the disease is more commonly called, causes annual losses to livestock herds in the United States estimated at $150,000,000. It affects not only cattle and swine, but also dogs, horses, goats, sheep, deer and rats and, occasionally, man.

The greatest economic loss to owners of cattle and swine herds from Lepto is due to abortion, the veterinary group pointed out. The disease also causes mastitis in cattle, resulting in a drop or complete stopping of milk production. In swine, the disease also can affect young pigs, causing kidney damage and stunting.

Since Leptospirosis is so common an outbreak in a herd, those antitoxic, cattle and swine should be vaccinated by a veterinarian infected may be protected by vaccine before an outbreak occurs. After cination.

ODDLY ENOUGH

French and British firms once guaranteed King Prajadhipok of Siam the sum of $40,000 a year for the rest of his life if he ever lost his throne.

One insurance company guaranteed some businessmen in London prior to World War II that they would receive their annual income every year they were in the army—if drafted.

Perhaps the most amazing guarantee of modern times is that the new Benetton watch, TODAY, that costs only $25 will tick perfectly almost one-half billion times—three full years.

A Young Man's Fancy

When Cupid's arrow finds its mark, a young man's fancy often turns to—engagement rings. Here's where the four "C's"—carat, color, cut and clarity—are important. It's best to consult your loved one before buying.

Carats are actually weights of diamonds, indicated by decimal points—100 equal one carat. Cuts range from round to the rectangular emerald-cut; colors from pure white to black. Judging clarity requires skill and a magnifying glass—better leave it to an expert.

Other considerations are mountings and settings. Platinum, palladium and karat gold are the most precious mountings; channel and fishtail settings are among the most often seen. For more advice about engagement rings and a complete 1959 catalog, write to Kaskel's—world's largest selection of diamond bargains—41 West 57th Street, Dept. A, New York 19, N. Y.

ABUNDANT LIFE

by ORAL ROBERTS

"WE DARED NOT TURN LOOSE!"

"We hung on for dear life as the waves pitched us to and fro on the blinker buoy," the woman said in telling of a terrifying experience that she and her family had just gone through.

"We dared not turn loose with our right hands for fear we would drop our babies into the sea; we dared not turn loose with our left hands for fear we ourselves would slip beneath the waves. If that had happened, our babies would have gone down with my husband and me."

She related how she, her husband and two small children had been out on a pleasant, afternoon boating trip when, suddenly, a savage squall moved in upon them. The storm quickly caused high waves, and the strong winds damaged the steering mechanism of their boat.

Drifting helplessly in the heavy seas—within sight of land itself—the boat was dashed into a floating blinker buoy. Acting quickly, the mother and father scrambled onto the buoy, each holding a small child. Then their boat sank beneath the water and they were left rounded on the buoy.

"We clung to the buoy for two nights and three days before help came," the woman said. "We were cold and wet. The children were hungry. We were all afraid. But all during those long, agonizing hours we never gave up hope. We prayed to God to deliver us. We asked Him to send us a rescue boat."

She told how she and her husband watched helplessly as many boats, out looking for stranded small craft after the storm, passed close by the buoy.

"I admit that I thought we might be doomed," she said. "But something told me that God would deliver us. So I never let up in my constant prayers to God to send help. And it came." The entire family was whisked to shore and to safety by a tugboat captain who later said:

"Something told me to check that buoy, although its light did not need servicing for another month. I am certainly glad I did, for we saved four lives."

The mother possessed faith in abundance. Her faith brought her family through because she put her entire trust in God. True, she admits, the family was afraid. But she said, "Something told me that God would deliver us."

Do you have such a strong faith . . . a faith that will enable you to keep from "turning loose" in your hour of trial?

We know that nothing is too difficult for God. If we believe in Him and trust Him, He will see us through!

Crime
Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of three articles dealing with Crime and the many problems it creates in our modern society.

In reading our newspapers today, one finds that activities of crime seem to have taken over the headlines. Teen-agers are becoming more and more involved in crime activities and we are hearing more and more about "muggings", about sex crimes, about a growing disregard of human life.

Crime is becoming a major problem in most of our cities and authorities are baffled as to how to cope with a mounting wave of violent crime and of juvenile delinquency.

Webster has this to say about crime: a violation of the law; an offense against morality or the public welfare; wrongdoing.

Crime is any act of commission or omission believed to be socially harmful to a group and thus forbidden by the designated authority of that group under the threat of punishment. Defined another way, crime is a specific element or act of human behavior which, varying in time and place, is considered harmful enough to be forbidden by the group and thus subject to a penalty. In the United States certain acts considered crimes in one state may not be in another.

Types Of Crimes

Crimes generally fall into offenses against (1) the state; (2) morality; and (3) the person. An example of the first is treason or subversion; the second, certain sex offenses or gambling; of the third, assault or robbery. In the last category, the state steps in and assumes to be the victim. It is a broad rule of recent development that an act is not considered criminal unless done with guilt in mind or willful intent. Thus motive is essential in the commission of a crime.

Not counting violations of city ordinances, penal codes place crime into two categories: felonies and misdemeanors. The former represents those acts considered serious since their commission is shocking to the social group; the later are usually those not considered serious. Usually felonies are punishable by the death penalty or by a long term in a state prison and sometimes accompanied by a fine. Misdemeanors are usually punishable by a fine or simple imprisonment in a county jail, or both. With the use of probation the misdemeanor may be granted that grace and thus be spared a jail or prison term.

Considerable variance exists between penal codes in defining crimes. Hence an act defined as a felony in one state may be labeled a misdemeanor in another. However, a few offenses are uniformly considered as felonies: homicide, rape, armed robbery, kidnapping, and of course, treason.

Just recently authorities in Philadelphia made a deep study of their crime problems and as a result of this study they found that the reputation of their city, "City of Brotherly Love" is giving way to fear, and violence. Some schools have policemen patrolling the corridors. School officials have been shocked by sex scandals among teen-agers, and by the growing number of unwed mothers. These conditions do not exist only in Philadelphia. They can be found in most any city and even in rural communities.

Life is one of our greatest possessions, given to us by the Master, but today amid crime and violence life means nothing. We live in a world of fear. There is terror in the streets, gang wars between youths, outbreaks of violence between races, murders, and many many more types of crimes. What is the answer to our growing problems created by crime and violence? Before trying to answer such a question let us take a brief look into past history and check its path down through the ages.

4-H Club Studies Flower Arrangement

The Emmitsburg 4-H Girls Club held its regular meeting May 26 at the home of Mrs. Paul Beale with the president, Carolyn Umbel presiding.

The meeting was opened with the 4-H pledge, flag salute and roll call. Each member responded to the call by mentioning some type of flower raised at her home that could be used for an arrangement or decoration.

Mrs. Beale reminded the group of the coming demonstration days and asked each to participate.

A letter requesting donations for the Frederick County bake sale was read and the girls readily volunteered to donate some food item. Becky Gartrell gave a demonstration on making lemonade for refreshment. Mrs. Beale gave an interesting talk on "How to Arrange Flowers Properly," following which a number of beautiful flower arrangements was made. Refreshments were served following the business meeting.

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

Prepared by The Investment Research Department of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. Members of the New York Stock Exchange June 3, 1959

MONEY FORCES, THE STOCK MARKET AND THE ECONOMY TODAY

Money forces have always been an important factor in the future trends of the economy and consequently have also affected the course of the stock market. Statistical studies reveal that in most cases the trend of the stock market has preceded that of the economy by approximately six months. The economy in turn in recent years has been affected by the supply of money. The Federal Reserve Board, primarily through its discount rate, is able to influence money supply although it is also influenced by the law of supply and demand. As money comes into greater demand the prime rate of interest on commercial loans rises. This is the rate charged to leading companies. The banks in turn as the spread between the interest charged by the Federal Reserve Board through the discount rate widens have additional incentive to permit the loaning of money and consequently frequently lower the standards to be met to borrow their money. Therefore it is necessary for the Federal Reserve as interest rates rise to raise the discount rate accordingly. Eventually, as it becomes more difficult to borrow money, the upward trend of the economy slows up and a reversal of the trend occurs. Today the prime rate is as high as it was in 1957 prior to the business recession and the highest since the early 1930s at 4 1/2%. The discount rate which was raised to 3 1/2% in 1957 is currently at 3%, but many observers believe that it will be raised to 3 1/2% shortly to get it in line with the prime rate.

Today the yield on bonds is higher than it was in 1957 and also the highest since the early 1930s which suggests that eventually the prime rate on loans may go even higher. This tightening of the money supply has rather unfavorable implications in that eventually it may once again cause a reverse of the trend and a downward turn in the economy cycle.

Our statistical studies show further that a reversal in the trend of stock prices should precede that of the economic cycle by some four to six months. Also they show that stocks normally sell at the high levels of their cycle a few months prior to the time that bonds sell at their lows. From this evidence it is a valid yardstick for measuring the future, the bond market should continue somewhat lower while the stock market may be rapidly approaching a point where it is reaching its highs. Once the stock market has established a downward trend, the time to purchase bonds for an upward move would appear to have arrived.

How To Display Old Glory

There are "right" and "wrong" ways to display our American Flag. Texaco's free Flag History and Historic Touring booklet, gives these official American Flag Foundation rules:

YOUR FLAG'S blue field must be at the top if displayed from a staff at an angle from your home. If displayed from a horizontal rope or pole, flag should be hoisted out with blue field first.

HALF-MAST: When flown at half-mast, flag should be raised to peak, then lowered to half-mast. Before lowering, hoist to peak for an instant. On Memorial Day, flag is flown half-mast till noon, then raised to peak.

FLAG ETIQUETTE rules that our flag should never touch the ground. For decoration use red, white and blue bunting, but never drape or tie OLD GLORY.

WITH OTHER FLAGS: Our flag should be flown at top. Only flags of states or cities, or pennants of societies may be flown on same halyard.
